JOHNSON'S SWAN SONG

Sees Jog in Road Ahead of Nation.

Tells Minneapolis Audience People Nowadays Have Distorted Intellects.

Says Paris Wasn't the Original Place Paved with Good Intentions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 20.—With three addresses in the Twin Cities today, Senator Hiram W. Johnson concluded his speaking trip through the Middle West opposing the ratification of the League of Nations covenant in its present form. At noon he addressed a large gathering at the Metropolitan Operahouse in St. Paul and at 4 p.m. he spoke to the Lincoln Club in Minneapolis.

Tonight the climax of a strenuous day of speech-making was reached when he addressed a mass meeting which packed the armory in Minneapolis. Many were turned away, unable to find standing room. Mayor J. E. Meyers introduced Senator Johnson at the armory meeting, where the Californian was cheered for several minutes when he entered the hall.

Answering President Wilson's statement that Theodore Roosevelt would favor the League of Nations were he alive today, Senator Johnson said:

"Mr. Wilson, hard pressed, quoted yesterday, Theodore Roosevelt. Oh, if Roosevelt were only here! The nation never needed him more. His commanding personality, his lofty patriotism, his love for and pride in our nation, his very personality typical of our republic; his loyalty to the great cause of democracy, his fearlessness in attacking any divided allegiance to our country, his red-blooded Americanism, would have made short work of the un-American thing which Mr. Wilson seeks to foist upon us. How strange and weird and unnatural it seems for Mr. Wilson to quote Theodore Roosevelt!

"They have ever been the antithesis of each other. One with clear vision and unerring wisdom saw the possibilities of the great world war and our interest in it. The other with feeble and flabby phrases preached the doctrine of neutrality in deed and thought. Roosevelt, when it was unpopular to do so, denounced wrong and aggression, broken national faith and ruthless militarism. Wilson, for three years before we got into the war, was unable to tell for what the nations of the earth were fighting and told us each side was battling for the same hidden cause. For two years and a half he neither saw nor understood the underlying forces in civilization's titanic struggle. Unmoved and untouched he witnessed the crime against Belgium and the assault upon humanity. He now speaks learnedly on the initial phases of the conflict, the actuating reasons, the roots of the cataclysm.

REVERSES, HE SAYS.

"Until the beginning of 1917 he told a different tale and spoke another story. It is only now, when the exigencies of his league demand another presentation, with a wholly different background, that he reverses his utterances from 1914 to 1917 and assumes now to tell us the causes of the war, the underlying forces of the ruthless militarism which pounced upon an unsuspecting world, and paints a picture utterly the reverse of that which he painted to the American people for nearly three years. And during all this time Roosevelt clearly saw and he sounded his trumpet call to the American people of preparation for the inevitable, while Mr. Wilson, in utter indifference or with unseeing eyes again and again publicly stated that both sides were fighting for the same unknown reasons and that justice substantially rested with neither.

"Of course, Mr. Roosevelt, like all the rest of us, would have gone far to have prevented war. But when any man says that he would for a single instant have accepted the pro-British document which would put the country he so dearly loved within the power or direction, command or recommendation of foreign nations, that man affronts the revered memory of Theodore Roosevelt. None who knew Roosevelt, none who talked to him during his last days but know that his heart and his soul revolted at Mr. Wilson's

President and Mrs. Wilson.

One continuous ovation greeted the nation's Chief Executive yesterday from beginning to end of the long line of parade. Most of the time throughout the tour Mr. Wilson stood with hat aloft. This is one of the moments when he took a brief rest and perhaps a breath of thankfulness at the keen appreciation Los Angeles has for him.

WASHINGTON SEEKING QUICK CHINA REPORT.

REINSCH ORDERED TO REPORT WITH ALL SPEED; CONSORTIUM DELAYED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Paul S. Reinsch, who recently resigned his post as American Minister to China and is now en route to the United States, has just arrived in Tokio and found awaiting him there instructions from the State Department to report as soon as possible at Washington. It is believed the instructions were dispatched at the direction of President Wilson.

This government has information that conditions in China are desperate and that the outlook for that country is very gloomy. Contrary to declarations made at the State Department by the highest officials several weeks ago the international consortium for advancing loans to China has not yet been organized, according to authoritative statements made at the department today.

The State Department regards the position taken by the Japanese bankers representatives at Paris, who have been exchanging views with the representatives of banking groups in the United States, England and France, as the main obstacle to the creation of the consortium. The Japanese representatives, following instructions from their government, insisted upon reservations to the proposed consortium agreement which would exclude Manchuria and Mongolia from the purview of the consortium.

THIRTY ESCAPE DEATH IN POWDER DUMP FIRE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YUMA (Ariz.) Sept. 20.—A fire, the origin of which has not been determined, early today destroyed two powder dumps containing 7200 pounds of black powder and 4000 pounds of dynamite belonging to the Imperial Irrigation District at Algodones, Lower California, near here.

The dumps were consumed within a few moments, but there were no explosions. Thirty people were sleeping near the powder when the fire started, but no one was hurt.

AMERICA WILL GET KAISER'S KITCHEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—To the collection of war trophies which the Smithsonian Institution is now gathering will be added shortly the field kitchen of William Hohenzollern, late Kaiser of Germany.

German prisoners of war this week loaded the kitchen, which is said to be a most elaborate affair of the kind, aboard a transport at St. Nazaire, France, and it is on its way to Washington. The kitchen followed the Kaiser all over Europe during the war, but shows no signs of damage, which is taken to indicate that it kept as far to the rear as did its imperial owner.

LOVE POWDERS FAIL WITH GIRL DETECTIVE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Love powders are quoted at $10 an ounce, according to Miss Rae Nicollette, a detective on the staff of Deputy Police Commissioner Ellen O'Grady. In Harlem police court today Miss Nicollette said she not only had purchased some at that price from Mrs. Rose Campagnaro, 214 East One Hundred and Sixteenth street, but had seen a thick account book containing the names of scores of Harlem girls who have been buying on the installment plan.

It was a dissatisfied installment purchaser who complained of Mrs. Campagnaro and caused her arrest as a fortune teller.

Detective Nicollette said the woman assured her the powders were the greatest thing in the world for a girl hunting a husband. Mrs. Campagnaro herself told Magistrate Cornelius Huth they could not fail to make a man plight his troth if the directions for use were observed.

VILLA PLANNING TO KEEP FROM BORDER.

REPORTS ARE THAT HIS NEXT CAMPAIGN WILL BE DRIVE TO THE SOUTH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—American officials are interested in news indicating that Villa is planning a new campaign against Carranza which accounts for the activity he has displayed during the past few months accumulating munitions and men in Northern Durango. It is said he contemplates a drive south from his present headquarters and will keep away from the border so that by no act can the American army be sent across the Rio Grande, as at Juarez.

Villa released a short time ago 2100 Carranza prisoners, cautioning them to keep out of the Federal army and urging them to turn over to him all the rifles and equipment they could get. Many of them enlisted in the Villa army. Six hundred men from the Santa Rosalia garrison and 300 from the Chihuahua garrison have deserted and joined the Villistas, according to these reports.

It is said that Gen. Gonzales' transfer from Juarez to Tampico was caused by threats against his life by his own troops because of his acquiescence in the recent crossing of the border by American troops.

BABY IS AUTO VICTIM.

Three-year-old Boy Struck by Machine at Venice.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, Sept. 20.—Paul, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wilson, 20 Ozone avenue, Venice, was instantly killed tonight when he was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Margurite Miller, 1593 West Adams street, Los Angeles.

The child was going up Surf avenue and in some manner went out onto the speedway unattended. Witnesses of the accident state that the driver of the car was in no manner responsible, as pedestrians are not permitted on the Speedway and she was not expecting to encounter a person on foot.

Miss Miller is a daughter of H. G. Miller, president of the Union Iron Works.

BOARD DISCIPLINES BOSTON PATROLMEN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—The Metropolitan Park Commission today discharged nineteen members of its police force who refused to assist in quelling riots during the first night of the strike of Boston patrolmen. The men were found guilty of disobedience of orders and insubordination. Twenty-seven other members of the Metropolitan force, found not guilty of disobedience of orders, but guilty of insubordination, were fined thirty days pay, with the alternative of performing thirty days extra duty.

MEXICANS DYNAMITING TRAINS.

BY W. D. HORNADAY.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONTEREY (Mex.) Sept. 20.—Efforts to operate passenger trains on the division of the National Railways of Mexico that runs between Tampico and San Luis Potosi are meeting with most disastrous results, according to advices received here today. Three passenger trains have been blown up by bandits during the last week and a number of persons killed.

All the region below Cardenas, through the rich Huasteca agricultural country, is overrun with brigands and travelers are held up and robbed whether traveling by rail or in any other manner. That more respect for Americans is being shown by the bandits than formerly is indicated by what happened two days ago when a charge of dynamite blew up the engine and forward coaches of a passenger train near Verastigue. Several third-class passengers were killed.

The four Americans on the train were singled out by the bandits and told to stand aside while the robbing of the Mexicans was carried on. The Mexican passengers were robbed of all money and valuables, including baggage and surplus clothing. The Americans were not robbed or harmed. Another passenger train was attacked by bandits near Corritos. The engineer refused to heed the command to stop the train and the bandits chased it some distance on horseback, firing into the coaches. Two other passenger trains on the same line were dynamited near Cardenas.

WILSON TRIUMPH HERE AS COAST TOUR ENDS.

Mighty Cheers Greet Executive's Declaration that Peace Treaty Had and Would be Accepted.

President Wilson completed his week of speechmaking on the Pacific Coast last night with a monster mass meeting here, at which thousands shrieked approval of his plea for early ratification of the peace treaty.

Welcomed to the city by a crowd which densely packed the downtown section, the President was cheered tumultuously everywhere he appeared during the day. Along the line of a ten-mile parade he rode in a din of applause and later, at a public dinner, cheers greeted his declarations that the treaty had and would be accepted.

When he entered the auditorium for his night address he was cheered for more than two minutes by a crowd estimated by the police at 6000. The hall was jammed and outside were thousands who could not get in. Some had been waiting since early morning for the doors to open.

The President, in expounding the principles of the League of Nations at Shrine Auditorium last night, addressed one of the most eager, enthusiastic and attentive audiences that have yet heard his voice since he began his speaking tour. Long before he arrived at the auditorium demonstration after demonstration arose in the big building until it shook to its foundations with cheers. Then, as the President stepped to the front of the platform, the thousands of people who had waited for hours to hear and see him, some of whom had been standing in line waiting for the doors to open since 9 o'clock in the morning, jumped to their feet and cheered for a round four minutes.

Approximately 50,000 persons were turned away, for Shrine Auditorium accommodates little more than 7000 persons.

People began arriving at the entrances to the auditorium by 9 o'clock in the morning. They brought their lunches and remained throughout the day. The groups grew into crowds and the crowds grew into throngs and by 6:30 in the evening all streets and alleys leading to the auditorium were jammed. Ninety police officers, stationed in one block on Jefferson street between Royal and Figueroa streets, were unable to control the crowds eager to storm the auditorium for a seat. The heavy fences that had been erected to guide the crowds along certain channels collapsed and in one hour twenty-three women fainted in front of the main entrance.

The doors were thrown open at 6:30. Thirty-one minutes later they were locked again. Every seat had been filled. The police details, under the supervision of Capt. Lee Heath, directed the crowds into the building in batches of three hundred each. All the side streets for blocks around were jammed and required the services of 150 police officers. Quite often some group of explorers would discover a small alley leading in the general direction of the auditorium and a stampede would follow.

During the two hours before the arrival of the President, the audience was entertained by a band concert given by the Liberty Club Band of ex-service men, bugle calls by the Davis Sisters and community singing. For fully an hour the audience entered into the spirit of the community singing to while away the time until the President was to arrive.

The coming of the President was forecast by blasts of cheering from the streets. All avenues leading to the building were jammed with people unable to gain admitance. The audience had been instructed by Marshal Stimson, master of ceremonies, to rise to their feet and sing the "Star Spangled Banner" as the President appeared. But when he strode to the front of the platform, instead of singing, every person within the hall was on his feet and cheering, and in every hand held high was a waving flag—thousands of flags, so many that the flushed faces of the people beneath them who were shouting themselves hoarse could scarcely be seen. For four minutes nothing could be seen but a rippling ocean of flags. The demonstration continued, finally dying away in a deafening roar.

REFUSE TO BE STILLED.

The President smiled. It may be said that he has a smile that won't come off—a smile that reaches right out and shakes hands with everyone in his audience. When he raised his arms for silence it was a signal for increased shouting and more vigorous fluttering of flags. Again and again he appealed for silence. Finally the shouting subsided.

Mayor Snyder was the first speaker. In a brief address he introduced Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who had been extended the honor of introducing the nation's Chief Executive to Angelenos.

In introducing Mrs. Cowles, Mayor Snyder said:

"This is one of the most historic occasions in the annals of the city of Los Angeles.

"We have as our guest a man who is fighting for a League of Nations, which we believe will bring peace on earth.

"As California rallied to his support in 1916, and elected him President of the United States, so will we rally to his standard in the fight for a League of Nations.

"Our guest occupies a warm place in the hearts of the people of California. He endeared himself to us when he selected as a member of his Cabinet one of our most distinguished and beloved citizens, Franklin K. Lane.

"As a tribute to the women of our country who have borne the brunt of the suffering during the recent years, and because our distinguished

WILSON DINNER BRILLIANT

President is Welcomed by Angelenos in Flower-Decked Hall of Alexandria.

Typical of Southern California and yet distinctive of Los Angeles was the dinner given last night at Hotel Alexandria in honor of President Wilson. There was the charm of the Southland in the decorations and the warmth of Los Angeles in the welcome given the nation's Executive.

The President entered through an arch of grape vines. Tiny electric bulbs gave the effect of glowworms in a garden. His entrance was the signal for a demonstration which drowned the music of the orchestra. As he walked to his seat the 515 diners cheered and waved flags.

The dining-room was a mass of flowers. The walls were banked with great yellow chrysanthemums relieved by masses of trailing ferns. The President's table, at the eastern end of the room, had a fountain centerpiece surrounded by banks of California fruits. Roses were strewn the length of the table, more than fifty varieties being used. Mrs. Wilson sat at the President's right and at the table were members of the reception committee, Admiral Grayson and members of the Presidential party.

Mrs. Wilson entered with Mayor Snyder. Admiral Grayson was escort for Mrs. Snyder.

Henry S. McKee introduced the President, calling him "the greatest constructive genius the world has ever known."

The brief address was punctuated with enthusiastic applause.

The most impressive moment came when Mr. Wilson referred to former President McKinley's prophetic utterance in regard to a covenant similar to that now embodied in the League of Nations. There was a hush as the President paused. Then applause came.

The dinner presented a brilliant picture. Leaders of the social, business and official life of Los Angeles were grouped at sixty-three tables. The gowns of the women were beautiful, the dinner offering the opportunity for opening the fall social season.

At the close of the address everyone in the room stood and applauded and cheered the President several moments and continued to cheer until the Presidential party and the local committee had left the room and started for Shrine Auditorium.

guest has been an ardent champion for woman's suffrage in the nation, I will now present Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs."

MRS. COWLES'S INTRODUCTION.

Mrs. Cowles, in introducing the President, said:

"Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens:

"We are Americans, assembled this evening to honor the Chief Executive of our nation and to hear him expound a great document, fundamental in conception, scope and purpose.

"The political partisan has no place in these deliberations. All right-thinking, red-blooded patriots should see to it that such partisanship is relegated to oblivion.

"As a people, we face the most inexorable of tribunals, POSTERITY.

"We must accept the challenge of today, not with vision bound, but with vision prophetic.

"The League of Nations must and will become the bulwark of a war-weary world for all time.

"It is my privilege, and I deem it the greatest honor of my life, to present to you, the President of the United States, the Honorable Woodrow Wilson."

Following the President's introduction he was again greeted by a great demonstration of yelling and waving of flags.

Prominent Democrats from practically every section of Southern California were represented in the assemblage last night. Democratic clubs, central committeemen, postmasters, club women—all had a showing in the mass of people within the auditorium, and hundreds of others were scattered through the crowds that stood outside the building on all sides.

MANY REPUBLICANS THERE.

Many of the State's prominent Republicans also sat on the platform. Among them were Henry W. Wright, Speaker of the California Assembly, and Marshall Stimson, who was campaign manager in Southern California for Senator Johnson in 1910.

Mr. Wilson alluded to an address made by President McKinley on the day before his assassination and asserted that the martyred President's words about concord and arbitration seemed to show he had a prophetic vision on the eve of his death.

Washington's admonition against entangling alliances also was referred to by the President, who said the very sort of alliances and balances of power which Washington had in mind would be superseded by the league.

When Mr. Wilson declared it was a matter of amazement that some men were now opposing the league, some one in the crowd shouted "Shame on them" and many others took up the cry. There were more cheers a moment later when he declared the treaty was founded on the rights of the weak rather than the power of the strong. It was a people's treaty, he said, not a Statesmen's.

TIRED OF AUTOCRACY.

The peoples of the world, said the President, were tired of the old system of autocratic domination and they would overthrow it "one way or another." Under the league, he added, autocratic governments would be excluded from decent society because only self-governing peoples could hold membership.

Quoting from a friend who, he said, "never let the facts get him if he saw them coming first," the President asserted that some men could not now see the facts in the treaty discussion marching upon them.

"My prediction is that the facts are going to see them," he added, while the crowd cheered again, "and make a very comfortable meal of them."

Mr. Wilson reviewed at length the history of the German rights in Shantung province, declaring when these rights were acquired the state of international law was such that President McKinley and Secretary Hay did not even protest, but only asked that American trade rights should not be affected. The Hay open door policy, he said, meant "not the open door to the rights of China, but an open door for the goods of America."

Later, said the President, Russia, France and Great Britain obtained similar rights without any protest from the United States. The peace of Portsmouth, he declared, by which Japan acquired Port Arthur at the end of the Russo-Japanese war, was

HERE IS FULL TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S SPEECH AT THE SHRINE AUDITORIUM LAST NIGHT.

THE TEXT OF PRESIDENT WILSON'S ADDRESS AT SHRINE AUDITORIUM, LAST NIGHT, FOLLOWS:

Mr. Mayor, Mrs. Cowles, my fellow-citizens and countrymen:

I esteem it a great privilege to stand before this great audience and I esteem it one of the most interesting occasions that I have had, to expound a theme so great that I am always afraid that I am inadequate to its exposition. I esteem it a privilege to be in the presence that I find myself in on the stage—this committee of gentlemen, representing the nations with whom we have been associated in the war—these men who saved the Union and these men who saved the world. [Applause.]

And I feel that there is a certain sense in which I am rendering my account to the soldiers and sailors whose commander-in-chief I have been, for I sent them across the sea believing that their errand was not only to defeat Germany but also to redeem the world from the danger to which Germany had exposed it, to make the world a place in which arbitration, discussion, the processes of peace, the processes of justice should stand in place of the brutal processes of war. [Applause.]

AMAZED AT OPPOSITION.

And I came back from the other side proud that I was bringing with me a document which contained a great constructive plan to accomplish that very thing. It is a matter of unaffected amazement on my part, my fellow-citizens, that there should be men in high station to oppose its adoption. It is a matter of amazement that they should devote their scrutiny to certain details and forget the majesty of the plan; [Applause] that they should actually have made it necessary that I should go through the country telling the people of the United States what is in the treaty of peace, for they have not told you.

They have given you no conception of its scope. They have not expounded its object. They have not told you how it is to accomplish its purposes. They have not shown you how in its heart lies the liberation of nations. They have not shown you that in it is the redemption of our promise that we were fighting for the right of the weak and not for the power of the strong. [Applause.]

These promises are redeemed in that great document. These hopes are realized, and the only buttress for that great structure is the League of Nations. [Applause.] If that should fail, there is no guarantee that any part of the settlement will stand. If that should fail nations will once more sink back into that slough of despond in which they formerly struggled, suspecting one another, rivalling one another in preparation of war, plotting against the weak in order to supplement the power of the strong.

And they would do more than that, because mankind is now aware that the rights of the greater portion of mankind have been safeguarded and regarded. Don't for a moment suppose that the universal unrest in the world at the present time, my fellow-citizens, is due to any wisdom, to any newly discovered ambition; it is due to the fact—the sad, the tragic fact, that great bodies of men have been, throughout the ages, denied their rights and the rights of humanity. [Applause.]

HEART OF THE COVENANT.

The peoples of the world are tired of and done with governments that exploit their peoples. [Applause.] They are determined to have, by one process or another, that concerted order of conciliation and debate and conference which is set up in that great document which we know as the covenant of the League of Nations, for the heart of that document is not Article X, or the right to withdraw, or any other things you have been talking about—the heart of that document is that every great fighting nation in the world—for Germany at present is not a great fighting nation [Laughter]—every great fighting nation in the world solemnly engages that it will never resort to war without first having done one or the other of two things, either submitted the matter in dispute to arbitration, in which case it agrees to abide by the verdict; or if it does not choose to submit it to arbitration, submit it to the examination and discussion of the council of the League of Nations, before whom it promises to lay all the documents, to whom it promises to disclose all the pertinent facts, by whom it agrees all the documents and facts shall be published and laid before the opinion of the world.

They agree that six months shall be allowed for the examination of those documents and facts by the council of the league and then if they are dissatisfied with the final arbitration, they will still not resort to war until three months after the verdict has been rendered. So that they all agree that there shall be nine months of deliberate discussion and frank weighing of the merits of the case before the whole jury of mankind before they will go to war. [Applause.]

INSURANCE AGAINST WAR.

And if any one of them disregards that promise and refuses to submit the question in dispute either to arbitration or discussion, or goes to war within less than nine months, then there is an automatic penalty that is applied, more effective, I beg leave to say, than war itself, namely, the application of an absolute boycott. The nation that disregards that, we all agree, shall be isolated, shall be denied the right to ship out goods, or ship them in; to exchange telegraph messages, or messages by mail; to have any dealings of any kind with the citizens of the other members of the league. [Applause.]

First the pressure of opinion and then the compelling pressure of economic necessity. Those are the great bulwarks of peace. You say they are not sufficient. I put this proposition to you—you want insurance against war. Wouldn't you rather have ten per cent. insurance than none? If you could get twenty per cent. insurance, wouldn't you be delighted? If you got fifty per cent. insurance, wouldn't you think it ideal? My fellow citizens, if you examine the provisions of this document, I think you will agree we will have ninety-eight per cent. insurance.

GERMANY ON PROBATION.

And that is what we promised to mothers and wives and sweethearts of these men, that they should have insurance against the terrible danger of losing those who were dear to them, slain on the battlefield because of the unhallowed plots of an autocratic government. Autocratic governments are excluded henceforth from respectable society [Applause.] It is provided in the covenant of the League of Nations that only self-governing people shall be admitted to its membership.

And the reason that Germany is, for the time being, excluded is that we want to wait and see whether she really has changed permanently her form of constitution. If she has changed her mind in reality, if her people have taken charge of their own affairs, and will prove it to us, they are entitled to come into respectable society and join the League of Nations. Until then, they are on probation [Laughter]. And you see the way some of them talk you would think the probation had to be rather long because they don't seem to have repented of their essential purposes.

Now, offset against this, my fellow-citizens, some of the things that are being said about the covenant and the league and about the treaty. I want to begin with one of the essential objections which is made to this treaty for I have come here disposed to business. I don't want to indulge in generalities. I don't want to dwell more than it is proper to dwell upon the great ideal purposes that lie behind this peace and this covenant. I want to contrast some of the things that have been said with the real facts. [Applause.] There is nothing that is formidable in this world in public affairs except facts. Talk doesn't matter.

INDULGES IN HUMOR.

As I was saying the other night, if you suspect an acquaintance of yours of being a fool, encourage him to hire a hall. [Laughter.] Your fellow-citizens will then know whether your judgment of him was right or wrong and it won't be you that convinces them, it will be he who does the convincing because the best way to dissipate nonsense is to expose it to the open air. It is volatile. It is a volatile thing, whereas facts and proof are concrete things.

If I may tell a rather trivial story; when I was Governor of New Jersey I got rather reluctant support for a certain measure of reform from a member of the Senate of the State who, I think, if he had been left to his own devices would probably have not voted for the measure, but to whom a committee of fellow townsmen came and, so to speak, personally conducted his vote. After they had successfully conducted it they solemnly brought him to my office to be congratulated. It was a great strain upon my gravity, but I complied. And then tipping me the wink he said, "Governor, they never will get me if I see them coming first." And I have adopted that same motto. I never will let them get me if I seen them coming first. [Applause.]

The danger for some of the gentlemen we are thinking about tonight—but not mentioning [laughter] is that the facts are coming, and they don't see them. [Laughter.]

And my prediction is that the facts are going to get them and make a very comfortable meal off of them.

GERMANY IN SHANTUNG.

Let's take up some of these things. In the first place there is a very compex question as to the cession of the rights which Germany formerly enjoyed in the Shantung province in China and which the treaty transfers to Japan. The only way in which to clear this matter up is to know what lies back of it. Let me recall some circumstances which probably most of you have forgotten. I will have to go back to the year 1898, for it was in March of that year that the cessions which formerly belonged to Germany were transferred to her by the government of China.

It had happened so that two German missionaries had been murdered. The central government of Peking had done everything in its power to quiet the local disturbances, and to allay the local prejudice against foreigners, which led to the murder, and had been unable to do so, and the German government held them responsible, nevertheless, for the murder of the missionaries.

But it was not the missionaries that the German government was interested in. That was a pretext, oh, my fellow-citizens, how often have we made Christianity an excuse for wrong. How often? How often in attempting to protect what was sacred, have we done what was tragically wrong? And that was what Germany did. She insisted that because this thing had happened, for which the Peking government could not really, with justice, be held responsible, a very large and important part of one of the richest provinces in China should be ceded to them for sovereign control for a period of ninety-nine years. Not only that, but they should have the right to penetrate the province with a railway, and have the right to exploit any ores that lay within thirty miles on either side of the railway, and all this for ninety-nine years.

And they forced the Peking government to say that they did it in gratitude to the German government for certain services which she was supposed to have rendered, but never did render. That was the beginning.

WHAT McKINLEY DID.

I don't know whether any of the gentlemen who are criticising the present Shantung settlement were in public affairs at that time or not but I will tell you what happened, so far as this government was concerned. One of the most enlightened of our Presidents was at the head of the government at that time, William McKinley. [Applause.] A man who loved his fellow-men and believed in justice. Associated with him was one of our greatest statesmen, John Hay. [Applause.]

The state of international law was such at that time that they did not feel at liberty to make even a protest against those cessions to Germany. Neither did they make any protest when immediately following that similar concessions were made to Russia, to Great Britain and France. It was almost immediately after that that China granted to Russia the right of the possession and control of Port Arthur, and a part of the region of Talien-wan. Then England, although she had similar rights elsewhere in China, got a similar concession of Wei Hai Wei, and then France insisted that she must have a port, and got it for ninety-nine years. And not against one of those did the government of the United States make any protest whatever. They only insisted that the door should not be shut in any [illegible] those regions against the trade of the United States. [Applause.]

You have heard [illegible] Mr Hay's policy of the open door. That was his policy of the open door. Not the open door to the rights of China, but the door to the goods of America. I am not criticising this, because it is one of the covenants of the League of Nations that it is an unfriendly act for a government to interfere in the affairs of another unless its own interests are immediately concerned, and the only thing Mr. McKinley or Mr. Hay were at liberty to do was to call attention to the fact that the trade of the United States might be unfavorably affected, and insist that under no circumstances should this be done, a promise which was more or less kept.

JAPAN WINS BY WAR.

Following that came the war between Russia and Japan. At the close of that war Japan got Port Arthur and the rights which Russia enjoyed in China, just as she is now getting Shantung and the rights which our recently defeated enemy had in China. An exactly identical operation. That peace that gave her Port Arthur was concluded, as you know, on the territory of the United States, at Portsmouth, New Jersey. Nobody directed a protest against that. Japan had beaten Russia. Port Arthur did not at that time belong to China. It belonged for the period of the lease to Russia, and Japan was ceded what Japan had taken by the well recognized processes of war. At the opening of this war Japan took Kiao-Chow and supplanted Germany in the Shantung province. Now, all the processes were repeated, but repeated with a new sanction.

In the meantime after this present war began, England and France successively, feeling that it was essential that they should have the assistance of Japan on the Pacific, agreed that if Japan would go into the war and take whatever Germany had in the Pacific, she should retain everything north of the equator which had belonged to Germany. And that treaty now stands. That treaty absolutely binds Great Britain and France. Great Britain and France cannot any longer, having offered Japan this inducement to enter the war and to continue her operations, consent to an elimination of the Shantung provision from the present treaty.

WILL THEY FIGHT?

Let us put these gentlemen to the test who are objecting to the Shantung settlement. Are they ready to fight Great Britain, France and Japan, who will have to stand together in order to get this province back for China. I know that they are not. Their interest in China is not the interest of assisting China but of defeating the treaty.

They know beforehand that a modification of the treaty in that respect cannot be obtained and they are insisting [illegible] what they know is impossible. But if they ratify the treaty and accept the covenant of the League of Nations they do put themselves in a position to assist China. [Applause.] They put themselves in that position for the very first time in the history of international engagements. They change the whole face of international affairs, because after you have read the much debated Article X of the covenant I advise you to read Article XI.

Article XI says it shall be the right of any member of the league to call attention, at any time, to anything, anywhere that threatens to disturb the peace of the world, or the good understanding between nations upon which the peace of the world depends. [Applause.] That, in itself, constitutes a revolution in international relationships. Anything that affects the peace of any part of the world is the business of every notion. A nation doesn't have every nation. A nation doesn't have not be interfered with, it has to insist that the right of mankind shall not be interfered with. [Applause.]

JAPAN WILL GIVE BACK.

And not only that, but back of this provision with regard to Shantung lies, as everybody knows, or ought to know, a very honorable promise which was made by the government of Japan in my presence in Paris, namely, that just as soon as possible after the ratification of this treaty they will return to China all sovereign rights in the province of Shantung. [Applause.] Great Britain has not promised to return Wei Hai Wai. France has not promised to return her part; Japan has promised to relinquish all the sovereign rights which were acquired by Germany for the remaining seventy-eight of the ninety-nine years of the leas, and to retain only what other governments have in many other parts of China, namely, the right to build and operate the railway under a corporation. In other words she retained only the rights of economic concessionaires.

I think all these nations have invaded some of the essential rights of China by going too far in the concessions which they have demanded. [Applause.] But that is an old story now, and we are beginning a new story, and,
new story we all have the talk about what they have

GREAT BRITAIN'S VOTE

Another thing that has some of our fellow coun

BOLSHEVISM IS NATIONAL PERIL

Towner of Iowa Warns of Danger in Communism.

He Calls Attention to Brazen Plank in Platform.

Charges Socialists with Trying to Wreck America.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Bolshevism is now an existing institution in the United States and should be stamped out by the co-operation of every member of Congress said Representative Towner, of Iowa, in an address to the House yesterday on the one hundred and thirty-second anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution. He warned that the communist party recently organized, belongs to the same group of international socialists as the Bolsheviki of Russia.

"A statement issued by its secretary," said Mr. Tower, "declares that the communist party will take part in the 1920 campaign, and will have but one plank in its platform, the 'domination of the working class and the abolition of capitalism.'"

SOCIALIST PERIL

Representative Towner declared the Socialists are bent on destroying the America form of government. "The Socialists frankly admit," he said, "that they would destroy our constitution and our entire present system of government. A leading Socialist journal ridicules the term 'patriot fathers' and charges that they were more concerned with their own selfish interests than with the interests of the people in framing the constitution.

"Just now, it is urged that the government should take over the railroads constitutionally, on the ground that the government may take private property for public use. It is thought that the government might be justified in taking over the railroads for the purpose of carrying mails which would be a public use, if, however ,the government should purchase or condemn the railroads for the purpose of turning them over to private persons in whole or in part, such taking would not be justified.

A GREAT DEBT BURDEN.

"The constitution provides that no private property can be taken by the government without just compensation to the owners. If the government should purchase or condemn the railroads, it would mean increasing our national debt $20,000,000,000 with an increase in our annual taxes of $1,000,000,000 for interest. Besides government control now entails an expense of $1,600,000,000 above the revenues derived from operation which would add another billion dollars to our annual expense. As a financial proposition the outlook would not appear especially alluring.

"This is only a part of the Socialist programme. It is also proposed that the government take over the canals and all shipping, both foreign and domestic as well as the telegraphs, telephones and other means of communication. The mines also are to be 'Socialized.'

"With the mild Socialists the programme outlined stops there. But with the radicals it goes on to the absorption and 'nationalizing' of the farms, the factories and all other productive facilities; the distribution and disposition of all products; in short, the abolishment of all private property, its confiscation by the government and the establishment of a socialized state in which the government shall own all the property and control and regulate the lives of the people.

END OF CONSTITUTION.

"That means not only an abandonment of the Constitution, but also of the very fundamental principle of government that America represents.

"Soon the winter will come with an almost certain shortage of coal. The demand will be insistent and well nigh irresistible that the government shall take over the mines. Forgetting the government has not improved railroad service by its control; forgetting even that the government made such a lamentable failure of controlling the mines during the war—there will come a clamorous demand for government ownership.

"If there ever was a time when it was unwise to listen to the clamor of unjustifiable criticism it is now. If there ever was a period when we should unhesitatingly repel attacks upon the Constitution from whatever quarter they may come it is now. If there ever existed conditions which require that the people stand firm against any surrender of their constitutional powers, such conditions exist now."

GOODRICH STARTS HIS BOOM FOR PRESIDENCY

INDIANA GOVERNOR IN WASHINGTON TO LINE UP DELEGATES FOR 1920.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Gov. Goodrich of Indiana is here with a boom for himself as a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination. The Indiana Governor's visit will be followed tomorrow by a visit to Washington of Gov. Lowden of Illinois, who is conceded now to be one of the leaders in the Republican Presidential free-for-all to be staged next year. Gov. Lowden, who is in the East, is understood to be just dropping in on political and Congressional friends to look things over.

Gov. Goodrich, it was learned, came to confer with Indiana politicians over the Presidential prospects following in the wake of J. B. Kealing of Indianapolis, his campaign manager, who has proceeded further eastward in search of possible Goodrich delegates.

While the Indiana Governor has no intention at this time to announce formally his candidacy for the nomination, nor to open up a nation-wide campaign for delegates, he has finally decided to get into the race and came to Washington for the purpose of smoothing the way to capture Indiana's delegates to the next convention.

NEW IS NEUTRAL.

While here Gov. Goodrich conferred with Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman; Senators Watson and New of Indiana, and with the Indiana delegation in the House. Senator New is neutral in the matter and will not oppose Goodrich, although it is understood that New will not take any active steps to aid the Indiana Governor's campaign.

Senator Watson, however, is neither neutral nor friendly to Goodrich. He is Goodrich's strongest opponent for an instructed Indiana delegation and has been advising his political friends in Indiana to work against a Goodrich delegation to the national convention and to stand firm for an uninstructed delegation. Watson also is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator in Indiana next year and he cannot, therefore, actively enter the race to have the State delegation pledged to his Presidential aspirations, but he is doing the next best thing, which is to prevent the delegation going to Goodrich if he can help it.

WATSON OBDURATE.

During his stay here Gov. Goodrich had a long talk with Watson, the result of which was that Watson refused to "lay off" and to give assurances that he would not oppose Goodrich. In fact, it is understood Watson said he would continue to advise his friends to stand for uninstructed delegates. This was the third attempt to call Watson off under threat of putting up a candidate to oppose him for the Senatorial nomination, one such attempt having been made some months ago in Indianapolis. Another attempt was made by Kealing during a recent visit to Washington and the last attempt was last night.

LOS ANGELES TO HAVE ARMY FOOD SHOP SOON

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—Stores for the sale of army foodstuffs and other government supplies at cost are to be opened in Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles and San Francisco "at the earliest possible moment," Col. M. A. Elser, who is directing the disposition of the supplies here, announced here today. It was expected that the San Francisco store would open September 25, but the supplies are not yet on hand, and the opening must be delayed, Col. Elser said.

The initial supply to be received in San Francisco will be worth $1,000,000, Col. Elser stated.

BODY OF PIONEER IS FOUND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—The body of Gustav Neuberger, 70, pioneer importer of San Francisco, was found in the grounds of a sanitorium here today. Hospital authorities expressed the belief that he leaped or fell to his death from the roof garden of the sanatorium, which is three stories high. He leaves a brother, Jules Neuberger, and a married daughter, both of whom reside in Paris. He had been a patient at the satatorium for several years.

ROBBERS' REIGN ON IN MEXICO.

Tampico Paymaster is Victim of $37,500 Holdup.

Texas Company's Workmen Shot by Bandits.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TAMPICO (Mex.) Sept. 20.—J. H. Moore, paymaster of the Mexican Aguila (Eagle) Oil Company, was making the rounds of the different field camps of the company for the purpose of paying off the men when he was held up near the town of Los Naranjos by two masked men and robbed of 75,000 pesos, equivalent to $37,500 gold. The men committed the robbery at the point of pistols while a group of bandits near-by kept their guns pointed at him during the holdup. The military authorities were notified of the robbery, but as yet no arrests have been made.

More than a score of mounted bandits rode into the oil field camp of the Texas Company at Obando and demanded the money and valuables of the men who were working on a storage tank. The demand was refused and the outlaws fired upon the men. One was shot through the body and seriously wounded and another was shot in the leg. After the shooting the bandits rode into the wilderness and trace of them was lost.

An effort to re-establish passenger train service on the Tampico-San Luis Potosi line of the National Railways of Mexico proved disastrous to many of its passengers, according to statements of survivors, who arrived here. The train was attacked by bandits near Cardenas. More than a score of the passengers were killed. The life of Mrs. Edward Watkins of Tampico, the only American passenger, was threatened but the bandits finally permitted her to continue her trip.

WILSON WIRES CARRANZA.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—President Wilson paused in his strenuous tour of appeal to the country on behalf of the peace treaty a few days ago to send felicitations to President Corranza on the anniversary of Mexican independence.

The State Department discloses this fact in the following announcement:

"President Wilson under date of September 16, sent the following message to President Carranza at Mexico City expressing congratulations to the Mexican people on their Mexican independence anniversary:

"'I take pleasure in extending to your excellency on this anniversary of the independence of Mexico my cordial felicitations and best wishes for the peace, prosperity and progress of the Mexican people.'"

The State Department has given out its attitude toward waivers of rights which Americans visiting certain districts in Mexico are required to sign, explaining that those who sign them are in no way losing protection of this government.

"Advised that the Mexican government has instructed its consuls," the State Department says, "to refuse to vise passports of American citizens going to certain districts of Mexico unless these Americans waive the responsibility of the Mexican government for any physical injury which might result, the department of State today telegraphed to the American consulate at Tampico that any such waiver will not operate to interfere in the slightest with the obligation of the United States to protect its citizens under international law. The department also has answered private American citizens to the same effect.

"The information received by the department shows that the Mexican authorities required American citizens holding passports for Mexico to sign the following affidavit of waiver before they were permitted to enter the Tampico district:

"'The undersigned, under oath, deposes and says that he has been warned that Tampico oil region is a dangerous district on account of the activities of bandits operating in said region. The deponent, by reason of his business as employee, is on his way to that region and travels at his own risk. That in case some accident might happen to him, he formally renounces the right that he or his heirs might have to present a claim to the Mexican government, either directly or through any other channels.'

"The attitude of the Department of State is set forth in a message in which Acting Secretary of State Phillips instructs the consulate at Tampico that compliance with the wiaver requirements will not interfere with the relations between the United States and its citizens and that Americans so complying will in no way lose the protection of this government as to rights to which they are entitled by the generally accepted principles and rules of international law. Americans will determine for themselves, in view of this position on the part of the United States government, whether they will comply with the waiver requirement.

"There is no treaty between this country and Mexico on this question and the department's message points out that it is an accepted maxim of international law that every government has power to prevent the entrance of foreigners into its territory or to permit them to enter on any conditions or in any cases that it may determine."

[illegible]LATED [illegible]T RETURN.

BELIE[illegible]ENERAL THAT ERZBERGER WILL BE DISPOSED OF IN A NEW MINISTRY.

By Parke Brown.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN (via Copenhagen) Sept. 20.—On the heels of Matthias Erzberger's denial that he is considering retiring from the German Cabinet what an American political reporter would call "inside dope" is that while he may not retire he may take a new Ministry to be created for him and that an entire Cabinet may be rebuilt.

What is known here as the "unholy alliance" of reds and blacks, presented by the government constituted of the majority Socialists and the clerical centrists, is almost at the end of its rope and the reconvening of the National Assembly, or Reichstag, as it probably will be called henceforth, it is believed will be the signal for the long-hoped-for entrance of the Democrats into the alliance.

This, it is believed, will make the present government secure and with the same purpose in view there are many who believe a distinct advantage will follow the bringing back of Scheidemann, former Minister and president, who retired because he stood with the minority opposing acceptance of the peace terms.

Immediately upon his return from a Switzerland vacation, Scheidemann mounted the political platform with fire in his eye and certainly some benefit would accrue from going back into the fold.

But as important as any of these considerations is the general desire of the majority Nationalists to rid themselves of the burden of Erzberger as soon as possible. Without a whimper he has borne the blame for all the onerous financial legislátion which has raised storms of indignation and his continuance as Finance Minister endangers the government.

With all these financiers working the "dope" is that Scheidemann will return to his old post of Minister and president, replacing Bauer, who, despite his inferior politics and statesmanship, was made the Cabinet head because of the pressing necessity of finding someone immediately who would stand for the treaty.

Erzberger, it is said, will be made Reconstruction Minister in charge of the German work in rebuilding Northern France and be succeeded by Bernhard Dernburg, who once before was Finance Minister in the early days of this government.

In connection with this plan there is some demand for the retirement of Noske, Minister of Defense; but most sound-thinking leaders in Germany now are united in believing him the one man who can maintain order.

TROOPSHIP IN GALE, BUT NO LIVES LOST.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 20.—An Evening News dispatch from Kirkwall today reports a White Star liner aground north of Ronaldsnay. It is believed, says the message, that 2000 troops from Northern Russia are on board.

The liner ran aground during a gale, the dispatch adds, but gives no further details.

At the War Office it was said the vessel ashore off the Orkneys had about 1000 troops on board returning from the Russian front. She was not believed to be in a serious condition.

Later it was stated by the Ministry of Shipping that the liner had been refloated and was proceeding to her destination. The vessel was the Vedio, of 5753 tons net.

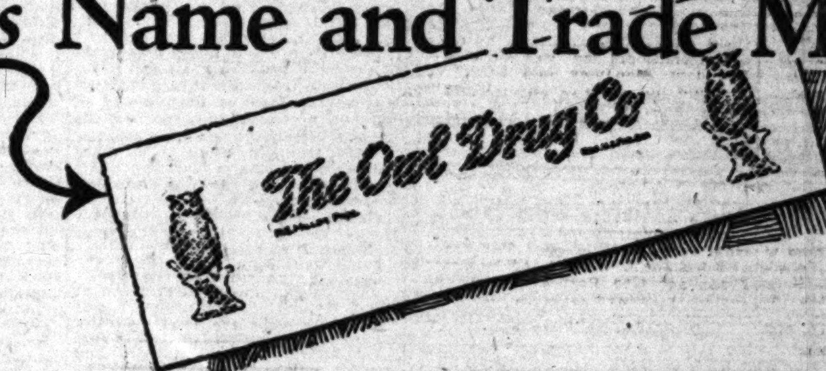
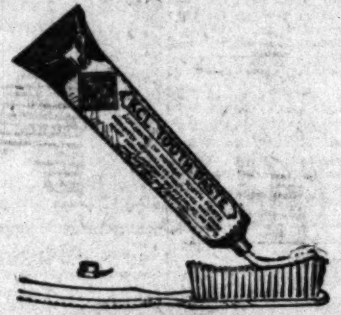
This Name and Trade Mark



stands for 100 per cent efficiency in the manufacture of medicinal and toilet preparations and the conduct of retail drug stores. On a bottle or carton the appearance of The Owl Drug Co and the familiar owl is positive assurance as to quality—a guarantee that the contents could not be made better though the price were multiplied by ten. Read the interesting details about six of the preparations that come from The Owl Drug Company Laboratories:

Borated Bay Rum

is an Owl Drug Company creation and has become the favorite after-shaving lotion of thousands and thousands of men. To a splendid quality, soothing bay rum, is added Boric Acid—the great antiseptic—and Menthol, which gives that delightful cooling effect. In shaker-top bottles, 8 ozs. for 35c.



K C L Tooth Paste

represents the highest attainment in dentifrices. It cleans the teeth thoroughly and in addition the Chlorate of Potash it contains destroys the mouth acids which cause discoloration and decay. The same antiseptic power keeps the mouth in a healthy, germ-resisting condition. Generous size tubes sell for 45c.

Owl Witch Hazel

is supremely good. It is the strongest witch hazel made, 20 pounds of young twigs being used to a gallon. This is 2½ times the U. S. P. requirement. It is redistilled by a new and exclusive vacuum process. It contains 14 per cent pure grain alcohol. 8-ounce bottles 25c, 16-ounce, 40c.

Peroxide of Hydrogen from The Owl Drug Company Laboratory more than meets the demands of the U. S. P. It is potent and pure. Peroxide of Hydrogen is a reliable general antiseptic and a thorough gargle and mouth wash. It can be applied to even the most severe wounds and delicate tissues in perfect safety. Pint bottles 25c.

Elixir Glycerophosphates

is a scientifically developed compound which is most successful as a general tonic. The formula is printed on the label. This positively separates the preparation from ordinary "patent medicines". Every ingredient is universally recognized for its tonic value. Elixir Glycerophosphates Compound is suitable for all ages. $1.50 per bottle.

Ameroil for Constipation

The treatment of constipation with Ameroil (pure, highly refined paraffine oil) has been universally successful. It acts as a lubricant for the intestines—nothing more. It is not medicine, is not absorbed into the system and therefore does not stimulate. It is odorless, colorless and tasteless. Pint bottles 65c.

A Charming Wrist Watch

If you had any idea that artists had reached their limit in the designing of beautiful jewelry, a glance at the new arrivals in our wrist watch department would convince you to the contrary. The one pictured is among the first to arrive for the fall and winter season. The decorations are in colored enamels. The size is about one-half as large as the cut. It is dainty and charming beyond description, yet the price is reasonable.

We would be very glad of an opportunity to show you the many new wrist watch arrivals. You shall say whether or not they are far in advance of former models.

A graceful Greek design is worked out in black and white enamel. Sides of case are artistically hand-engraved. Material is the fashionable 14-k green gold. Ribbon is gray or black with engraved clasp.

A fifteen-jeweled movement, with lever escapement, separate bridges and visible winding wheels. Has been thoroughly tested out by our inspection department and bears our unqualified guarantee.

ELLIS OPPOSES DOZIER'S RISE.

Reclamation Board Manager Gets $2500 Boost.

Accusations of Extravagance Heard at Capital.

Maj. Bovard has Weird Experience in State Prison.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 13.—An undercurrent charged with accusations of "unnecessary expense," accompanied by a "State extravagance" breeze, is circulating through the Capitol building this week as the result of the vote of the reclamation board to raise the salary of its general manager, Meville P. Dozier, Jr., from $7500 to $10,000 per year.

This action places Dozier in the salary A class with Gov. Stephens and Austin B. Fletcher, chief engineer of the State Highway Commission, who heretofore were the two highest-paid State officials in California.

W. T. Ellis, one of the two members of the board who opposed the salary increase, has announced his intention of filing a written protest at the next meeting setting forth in detail his reasons for opposing the action. For the most part, State officials refuse to comment publicly on the salary increase, but it is intimated that the opposition to putting Dozier on a par with the Governor financially is strong.

Maj. Warren B. Bovard, executive secretary to Gov. Stephens, made good his escape from an embarrassing situation at Folsom late this week, only with the timely aid of Warden Johnson, who covered the retreat of the Los Angeles citizen as he fled for the safety of his offices in Sacramento.

The major had been spending a few days at the prison investigating cases in which pardons have been requested, and related he had been enjoying a very interesting visit until it became noised around that he was within the gates for this special mission. As the portent of this news spread among the prisoners he was showered with attentions which resulted disastrously.

The investigation came to a speedy conclusion when the major was made the object of the affections of a middle-aged Italian, who is expiating the crime of manslaughter and who thinks he has served long enough. The prisoner embraced the Governor's secretary, but, upon being met with a bulwark of silent reserve, dropped to his knees and endeavored to kiss the major's foot. The military secretary weakened before the final attack and fled in disorder.

Memories of the severe fire of criticism which was directed at A. F. Naftzger of Los Angeles when he retired on April 3, 1918, as vice-chairman of the State Council of Defense, were revived this week with his appointment by Gov. Stephens to succeed Meyer Lissner as a member of the State Industrial Accident Commission.

The fact that Naftzger was bitterly criticised for alleged wasteful expenditure of the funds of the State Council of Defense has been voiced in many conversations here, where his appointment to the Industrial Accident Commission was a surprise.

Lizzie Blank of Pueblo, Colo., is "hunting for happiness," she says in a letter addressed to Gov. Stephens, which letter she requests to be sent "to the best-looking bachelor in California."

"I am looking for a tall, blue-eyed, fifty-year-old husband," she writes. "He must have a million."

She frankly admits, "I am small, called pretty, brown eyes, music teacher. I never did a bad act before God in my life. If I find a person I can love with all my heart and soul better than life, and am sure he loves me the same I will marry. We are one of the best families in Colorado. Please send photo and full particulars."

Any blue-eyed bachelor with a million dollars who desires Lizzie's address for the purpose of courtship will receive the same upon filing his request with Gov. Stephens.

Adjt.-Gen. Borree, in a new automobile, had a collision early this week, in which both the officer and the car were somewhat scratched up, the machine suffering much more than the commander of the State troops.

Practically the first evidence of what the new State criminal identification bureau has accomplished in its first eighteen months of existence was given this week when Superintendent Morrill announced that the bureau had completed the filing of more than 25,000 finger prints.

The superintendent asserts the work is rapidly getting into shape. Approximately 950 identifications have been made in California during this year by the new State bureau. In felony charges Morrill announces he has been able to confront the defendants with previous criminal records in ninety per cent. of the cases coming to the attention of his office. In all but three of these instances the criminals confessed their guilt following the exposure of their past record. The superintendent points out the fact that in each one of these cases the State was saved about $500, the average cost of a trial.

More than one hundred employees of the Industrial Accident and Compensation Fund must take civil service examinations before the end of October, according to a ruling made by the Civil Service Commission.

Under the consolidation of plant and animal industry bureaus, only four positions in the new State Department of Agriculture are outside the civil service, they being Director Hecke, Dr. J. P. Iverson and their confidential secretaries.

Weights and measures officials of the State have been notified by Charles G. Johnson, State superintendent of the department, to enforce honest measurements and weights in the mattress trade. The true gross weight and the actual dimensions of the mattress must be declared, the order states. And inspection of all such stock now on sale in California is required and any infractions are to be reported to Johnson.

TROUSERED ARIZONA GIRL A GOTHAM HIT.

FANNIE HARLEY'S NOVEL COSTUME MAKES NEW YORKERS STARE AND THEN ADMIRE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—"Why should any one be astonished because I am more comfortable in trousers than I am in skirts?"

Miss Fannie Harley who has just come to New York from Arizona, was horrified at the idea that there should be anything in her bifurcated costume to cause such a commotion.

Miss Harley's costume, though unusual for an "off-stage" affair, is artistic. The blue silk suit, which is anything but vulgar, with long straight jacket and neat trousers, the tam to match and the white marabou scarf which she wears becomingly, makes her a marked figure as she crosses the lobby of the McAlpin where she is now staying.

"I am not advocating trousers for women," she says. "Heaven forbid that any one should call me a dress reformer. I merely believe in individuality. Women are bound by styles. Clothes have caused the inferiority of women intellectually, politically and socially and have added to their natural physical weakness."

"No shoe is made that fits the human foot," she avows most positively. Miss Harley has her shoes made to order now and the only wonder is that she does not revert to sandals.

"What can you expect of woman as long as she goes waddling around in spike-toed, spool-heeled shoes and hops or minces in one trouser leg for a skirt. I think it's much better for her to wear two.

"The wearing of trousers for women is a matter of psychology. Many silly girls would feel that drinking and smoking and mannish fads should accompany such clothes. I neither drink nor smoke and I find my clothes, with the long blouse of unbroken waist line and no whalebones and laces, a comfortable costume at all times." Athouse, street or evening wear of different colors and fabric make up Miss Harley's wardrobe.

A graduate of the University of Arizona, Miss Harley is a woman of varied interests. She has studied archaeology in Mexico, travelling all over the country on horseback. It was during these tours that she conceived the idea of wearing trousers. For the last fifteen years she has worn these suits for sport and in the house. But only five years ago did she venture on the street in trousers. She says that these suits are unchanged by fashion and that they can be worn until threadbare, thus making for economy, especially since she designs and makes them herself.

Miss Harley expects to be in the city for some time. She will lecture and write.

LANDIS LEARNS THAT CHICAGO IS STILL WET.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, presiding in the United States District Court, today made "the interesting discovery" that beer, stronger than the law allows, is being sold in Chicago. The information was gleaned from witnesses who appeared in the case of nine motor truck drivers charged with smuggling illicit beverages from Wisconsin breweries to Illinois.

In the course of the examination Judge Landis asked:

"Do men drink all this beer?"

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Are the saloons still running in Chicago? Mr. Clerk, call up the Chief of Police and invite him here and send some more deputy marshals and tell the Federal court clerks not to close at noon. We will probably have some more work for them."

When Chief of Police Garrity entered soon afterward, Judge Landis said:

"I have stumbled onto a very interesting thing, Chief, and I think you ought to know about it. That is the importation of beer into Chicago."

HIGH PRICES ARE HEALTH MENACE

Expert Proves that Undernourishment Exists.

Chicago Families Cannot Live on $1800 a Year.

Los Angeles Better Fed than Eight Other Cities.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Widespread under-nourishment of families with incomes of less than $1800 a year has resulted from the increased cost of living in Chicago and other large cities, according to the conclusions of an investigation made public by the Department of Labor.

The cost of food in Chicago, however, is less than in New York, Boston and some other large cities, despite an 80 per cent. rise of prices in Chicago since 1913.

The analysis of living costs by Prof. William F. Ogburn shows that unless a family in Chicago and ten other cities, consisting of husband, wife and three children, has $1800 a year to expend for all purposes, it is unable to purchase sufficient food that is adequately nourishing.

Chicago families with incomes of $1400 or less are not as well fed as families of the same size in most other large cities, while families with $1600 or more are better fed in Chicago than in most other cities.

DIET IS INADEQUATE.

Prof. Ogburn found that more than 50 per cent. of the families with low incomes in all the eleven cities were unable to purchase a diet of adequate nourishment while from 15 to 20 per cent. of these families are distinctly underfed.

After presenting the figures showing the relative cost of an adequate diet in the eleven cities, Prof. Ogburn says:

"The table shows that in Chicago the normal family of 3.35 equivalent adult males with expenditures of $1000 purchased on the average 2424 calories per man per day; those with expenditures of $1400 purchased 3079; those with expenditures of $1600 purchased 3306; those with expenditures of $1800 purchased 3533 and those with expenditures of $2000 purchased 3761 calories. If 3500 calories per man per day is a test of an adequate diet, then we should be justified from the above figures in saying that in Chicago families of this size were not adequately fed unless their incomes were as high as $1800 a year, although families with $1600 total expenditure were consuming on the average a fairly large number of calories—3306.

CONDITIONS COMPARED.

"In Providence and New York, two cities with unusually high food costs, virtually none of the normal families within the range of incomes studied were getting food yielding 3500 calories, although with $1600 total annual expenditure the food consumption yielded over 3000 calories per man per day. In Seattle and San Francisco none of the families within the groups covered quite reached the 3500 calories mark, on the average, but families with a total of annual expenditure of $1200 consumed food yielding about 3000 calories per man per day. Only in St. Paul, Minneapolis, New Orleans (white) and New Orleans (negro) and Atlanta, were families with expenditures of $1000 a year able to purchase food yielding over 3000 calories per man per day. On the whole, in no case was the average consumption of any group of families as low as 2500 calories."

BETTER ON COAST.

The extent of undernourishment among the families investigated was 41 per cent. in Providence, 33 per cent. in New York, 25.7 per cent. in Chicago, 23.5 per cent. in Boston, 21.5 per cent. in St. Louis, 17.4 per cent. in Seattle and 14.3 per cent. in St. Paul, and Minneapolis.

A Chicago family of this size with an annual expenditure of $1300 for all purposes expends $528 for food which is expended for food by a family of such size in New York where the cost is $597, in Boston, $593; in Pittsburgh, $559; in Philadelphia, $555; in San Francisco, $542; in Kansas City, $533, and in Cincinnati, $529.

LOS ANGELES LOW.

Such a family expends less for food in St. Louis where the cost is $524, in Cleveland, $519; in Detroit, $512; in Brazil, Ind., and Danville, and Pana, Ill., $511; Indianapolis, $510; Buffalo, $508. Los Angeles, $494, and Minneapolis and St. Paul, $481.

The average working man in San Francisco eats more meat than his brother in any other city with Denver ranking second and Chicago third. Fish is eaten more generally in Boston and New Orleans than in any other city, but the New Yorker is less of a fish eater than the Chicagoan. The New Yorker, however, consumes the most milk relatively in his diet, but your Seattle citizen has the sweetest tooth with the Chicagoan ranking second. Fruit is a more conspicuous item of the diet in San Francisco and Denver than elsewhere as are vegetables in Providence, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Chicago.

FEDERAL COURT UPSETS McADOO TAX DECISION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—A government demurrer to the action of William H. Crocker, San Francisco banker, demanding the return of approximately $20,000 in income taxes on the ground that their collection was irregular, was overruled by the United States district court, according to an announcement by the court today. The taxes covered the 1913-1914 returns made by Crocker.

Crocker contended that he was privileged under the law to indicate business losses and that the tax would be framed accordingly. William G. McAdoo, then Secretary of the Treasury, ruled that the business loss provision applied only to registered brokers. Crocker thereupon paid the full tax demanded. In overruling the government's demurrer the court held that McAdoo's ruling could not be sustained.

The government was allowed the right to file a further answer.

Doctors Indicted Under Drug Act.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 20.—Among fifty-two indictments brought in today by the Federal grand jury here were a number against physicians and others for furnishing drugs to drug addicts, in violation of the Federal law. A number of indictments were returned today for manufacturing whisky or bringing it into Oregon from other States.

LIVES SACRIFICED TO GET OIL FOR NAVIES.

AMERICAN TELLS OF HAZARDS BRAVED BY MEN WORKING IN TAMPICO FIELDS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Further testimony intended to show Mexico's determination to force forfeiture of oil lands owned by foreigners was given today by Ira Jewel Williams, an officer of the Panuco Boston Oil Company, before the Senate committee investigating the Mexican situation.

Williams declared that Americans who remained at work had realized the necessity of maintaining uninterrupted flow of the oil for the Allied navies.

"Eleven of these men," he said, "have paid the supreme sacrifice."

Government patrols as well as rebel bands contribute to the disorder of the country, Williams said. Before shipments of money for the pay roll are sent an exact statement of the amount is demanded by the government officials. There have been cases, Williams said, where the amounts demanded by bands were exactly the same as reported to the authorities.

Chairman McCall, reminding the witness of a recent statement by President Wilson that much of his information concerning Mexico had been obtained from "liars," asked him if ever he had discussed Mexican conditions with the President.

"No," replied Williams, adding that so far as he knew none of the oil men had talked of Mexico with the President.

ALVARADO CRAWLS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—Manuel J. Zevada, a Mexico City publisher, gave out a statement here today in behalf of Gen. Salvador Alvarado, who recently published an open letter to Carranza, Obregon and Gonzales, arraigning the conduct of Mexican internal affairs, disclaiming that Alvarado meant any personal attack on the officials and was merely criticising all the governments in Mexico since Porfirio Diaz.

If you want to hear extravagant praise, just ask some intelligent person who has seen "Broken Blossoms" what he thinks of it. Clune's Auditorium.—[Advertisement.

PRESIDENT'S DINNER SPEECH.

Invites Critics of Treaty to Present a Better and Constructive Plan and He Will Take Ship to Carry it Back to Paris.

The text of President Wilson's address at a dinner in his honor here, last night, follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, may I first say that I thank you for your very generous introduction, which has been in the same delightful tone of welcome that I have heard in the voices on the street. But I do not take that all to myself, the praise that you have so generously bestowed upon me. I nevertheless do recognize that you have set just the right note for the discussion that I want to indulge in for a few moments.

There is only one thing that has troubled me in this affair. My father used to say, "You can not reason out of a man what reason did not put in." [Laughter.] May I not say that much of the argument offered directly against the League of Nations is not based on reason. I might say I have sometimes been discouraged because it is true that here is a great, constructive plan and no man, in the presence of the present critical situation of mankind, has the right to oppose any constructive plan except by a better constructive plan. [Applause.] I will say now that I am ready to take ship again and carry back to Paris any constructive proposals which will be a suitable and better substitute than those which have been made. [Applause.]

NOT INDIVIDUAL OPINION.

And there is a peculiarity about this constructive plan. We ought to facilitate, I think, our acceptance of it. Everybody knows that the principles of peace proposed by America were adopted—were adopted as the basis of armistice and eventually acted upon as the basis of the peace. And there is a circumstance about these American principles which gives me absolute confidence in them. They were not the principles which I originated. They would have none of the strength that they have if they had been of individual origination.

I remember how anxiously I watched the movements, the opinion of this country during the months immediately preceding our entrance into the war. Again and again I put this question to the men around the Cabinet table. They represented different parts of the country. They were in touch with different portions of the nation. I said to them, "How do you think the people feel with regard to our relation to this war?" I remember one of them said, "Why, Mr. President, I think they are ready to do anything that you suggest."

I said, "That is not what I have waited for. That is not enough. If they don't go in of their own impulse, no impulse that I will supply will suffice. I must wait until I know I am their spokesman. Then I will know that I have an irresistible power behind." [Applause.]

THEY WONDERED ABROAD.

That is not wholly appreciated abroad, or was not at that time.

They wondered, wondered why we did not come in and came to the conclusion that we did not come in because we were making money out of the war and did not want to spoil a profitable game.

Then, at last, they saw what we were waiting for. We were waiting in order that we might see how the intrigue of what had penetrated our own life, how the poison was spreading and how it was nothing less than a design against the freedom of the world.

NO OPPOSITION AT FIRST.

When I came back to this country with that plan I think you will bear me out that the nation was prepared to accept it. I have no doubt and I have not met anybody who had reason to doubt that if immediate action could have been secured upon the treaty at that time only a negligible percentage of our people would have objected to its acceptance without a single change in either wording or punctuation. But then something intervened, my fellow-citizens. I am not going to try to analyze what that was. I don't understand it. But there is a certain part of it I do understand.

It is to the immediate interest of Germany to separate us from our associates in the war [Applause] and I know that the opposition to the treaty is most acceptable in those quarters of the country where the pro-German sentiment was strong. I know that all over the country German propaganda had lifted its hideous head again.

GERMANY WOULD PROFIT.

We would be regarded as having withdrawn our co-operation from that concerted purpose of mankind which was originally conceived for the liberation of mankind and Germany would be the only nation in the world to profit by it. I have no doubt there are scores of business men who will say, "Do you think we would profit materially by setting upon ourselves the hostility and the resistance of all liberal minds in the world?" Do you think that after having won the absolute confidence of the world we should turn away from them and say, We do not care to be associated with you any longer? We are looking after ourselves. We are going to play a lone hand. We are going to play it for our single advantage. Is that good psychology for the establishment of friendly relations? Is that psychology for the establishment of credit? Do you think that throws the foreign markets open?

Do you remember what happened just before we went into the war? There was a conference in Paris, the object of which was to unite the people fighting against Germany in an economic combination which would be exclusively for their own benefit. It is possible now to organize a combine in respect to the purchase of raw material. Unless you go into the market and make a partnership with the world, you will have the rest of the world in a combine against you. But if you bring the thing down to the basis of material self-interest, you lose your game. You do not win. And for my part I will say, you ought to lose. [Applause.]

We are told that we are strong, and they are weak. That we still have the economic advantage, and they have not. My fellow-citizens, what does that mean? That means that when they went into the redemption of the freedom of the world they went in to give everything that they had. They said, or thought, that because we did not go in so soon or lose so much, we would make a profit out of the redemption. The thing is ridiculous.

MUST EXPLAIN TREATY.

I have found in going about the country that the result has been that in the greater part of the United States the people do not know what is in that treaty. They do not know what the treaty is. To my great surprise I have had to explain the treaty, and tell them what is in it. I have had many men say, "We never dreamed those things were in the treaty. We never heard anything about that, never heard anything about the greatness of the enterprise. We only heard about some of the alleged defects of the methods by which it was to be carried out. That is all they have heard.

You remember hearing it said that this was a people's war, and it must be a people's peace. And that is exactly what it must be. For the first time in the history of civilized society, a great international convention made up of the leading statesmen of the world has proposed a settlement which is for the benefit of the weak, and not for the benefit of the strong. It is for the benefit of the people who could not have liberty themselves, whose weakness was profitable to the ambitious, whose weakness had been traded on by every Cabinet in Europe, and yet these very Cabinets represented at the table in Paris were united in the opinion that the people's day had come, and that it was not their right to dispose of the fortunes of the people without the consent of those people.

WORLD MONROE DOCTRINE.

That was the only thing that was preserved. You cannot establish independence for weark peoples and then leave them to shift for themselves. You cannot give those people rights which they never enjoyed before, and say, Now keep them if you can. That is an Indian gift. A gift which cannot be kept. You will have to say, this is the settlement, and we guarantee its continuance. [Applause.] There is only one honorable course, when you have won a cause, to see that it stays won. To see that nobody interferes with or disturbs the result. And that is the purpose of the much discussed Article X of the covenant of the League of Nations.

It is the Monroe Doctrine applied to the world. We have ever since Mr. Monroe uttered his famous doctrine said to the world, we will respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and political independence of every State in the Western Hemisphere. Those are practically the words of Article X. Under Article X all the members of the league engaged to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and political independence of the other States in this hemisphere. And if that guarantee is not forthcoming, the whole structure will crumble, because you cannot point out a great war that has not begun by a violation of that principle, that has not begun by the intention to impair the territorial integrity or interfere with the political independence of some body of people or some nation.

SELF-GOVERNING NATIONS.

It was the heart of the Pan-German idea. It is the heart of every imperialistic plan, because imperialism is the design to control the destinies of people who did not choose you to control them. It is the principle of domination. It is the opposite extreme of self-determination, self-government. Only self-governing nations shall be admitted to the league. Only those who are in sympathy with self-determination shall be in it. It embodies that ancient and noble principle that underlies our institution, that all just government depends on the consent of the governed. [Applause.]

And you have no choice, my fellow-citizens, because the peoples of the world—even those that slept—are awake. There is not a country in the world where the great mass of mankind is not now aware of its rights and determined to have them at any cost. The present universal unrest in the world renders a return to normal conditions impossible, so long as it continues. The present unrest will not stop until men are assured of some arrangement they can believe in, something which will assure them that their rights will be protected, that they can go about the normal production of necessaries of life again and enjoy the pleasures and privileges of life without a constant shadow of some cloud of terror over them, some threat of injustice, some tyranny of control. Men are not going to stand it. If you are going to quiet the world, you have got to reassure the world and the only way to reassure the world is to let it know all the great fighting powers are a unit and that they are to be used and directed to protect, and every great fighting nation in the world will be in the league, because Germany, for the time being, is not a great fighting power. [Applause.] That great nation of over 60,000,000 people has consented in the treaty to reduce its armed forces to 100,000 men and to give up all the war material over and above what is necessary to maintain an army of 100,000 men. So, for the time being, we may exclude Germany from the list of fighting nations of the world and says that the whole power of the world is now offered to mankind for the maintenance of peace, and for the maintenance of peace by the very process we have all believed in, by the substitution of arbitration for war, by substituting the judgment of mankind for the force of arms.

NOTHING TO LOSE.

I claim without qualification that every nation that is not afraid of the judgment of mankind will go into this League of Nations. [Applause.] There is nothing for any nation to lose whose purpose is alright. The only nations that need fear to go into it are those that have designs that are illegitimate and inconsistent with justice, and are the opposite of peace. So that the whole freedom of the world, not only the whole peace of mind of the world, depends upon the choice of America. Because without America in this arrangement the world will not be reassured. I can testify to that. I can testify that no impression was borne in deeper on me from the other side of the water than that no great free people suspected the United States of ulterior designs and that every nation, the weakest among them, felt that its fortunes would be safe if entrusted to the guidance of America. America would not impose upon them.

And at the peace table, one of the reasons why American advice constantly prevailed as it did was that our experts, our financial experts and our economic experts—for you must remmeber the work of the conference was not done exclusively by the men whose names you have read about every day, it was done with the most intensive labor of experts of every sort who sat down together and got down to hardpan on every subject that they had to do with and, in nine cases out of ten, after a long series of debates and interchanges of views and counter-proposals, it was usually the American proposal that was adopted. [Applause.]

LOOK TO AMERICA.

And that was because American experts came at last into this position of advantage: they convinced everybody they were not trying to work anything, that they were not thinking of something that they did not disclose, that they wanted all the cards on the table and that they wanted to deal with nothing but facts. They were not dealing with national ambitions. It was that conviction and that only which led to the success of American counsel in Paris. Isn't that a world heritage for people to set up, a great free nation to set up on this continent in order to lead men into the ways of justice and liberty.

My heart is filled with a profound pride when I realize how America was regarded and my only fear was that we would not have the wisdom to play the part—I mean we, who were over there. Delegations from literally all parts of the world came to seek interviews with America and it was always a plea that America should lead them. And I remember saying to one of the delegations which seemed to me almost childlike, "I beg that you gentlemen will not expect the impossible, but America will do everything that she can, but she cannot do some of the things that you are expecting of her." My fear was not that America would not be true to herself, but that the things expected of her were so ideal that it would be impossible to realize the expectations.

WILL NOT DESERT.

The world will be absolutely in despair if America deserts them, but the thing is inconsiderable. America is not going to desert them. [Applause.] The job is to get that into the consciousness of men who do not understand it. The job is to restore some of our fellow-citizens to that large sort of sanity which makes a man bigger than himself.

We have had a great many successful men in America, my fellow-citizens, but we seldom erect a statue to a man who has only been successful in a business way. Almost all the statues in America, almost all the memorials are erected to men who forgot themselves and worked for other people. They may not have been rich; they may not have been successful in a wordly sense. Dreamers and idealists. America remembered that they loved mankind. America remembered that they embodied in their dreamy ideals the visions that America had and it remembered that they had a great surplus of character, that they spent, not upon themselves, but upon the enterprises of mankind, and a man who has not got that surplus capital of character, that he spends upon the great enterprises of communities will sink into a deserved oblivion. The only danger is in the concentration of his own ambition in the centering of everything that he spends on himself. That he will lead others astray. So that there is now an enterprise of infection—shall I call it—we have got to infect these men with the spirit of the nation itself. We have got to make them aware that we will not be led, that we will not be controlled, that we will not be restrained by those who are not like ourselves, and that America is now in the presence of the realization of the destiny which we have awaited.

"ENTANGLING ALLIANCES."

You know you have been told that Washington advised against "entangling alliances," and that is used as an argument against the League of Nations. What Washington had in mind was exactly what these gentlemen want to lead us back to. The day we left behind us was the day of alliances; it was a day of balances of power; it was a day of every nation taking care of itself and making a partnership with a nation or group of nations to hold the peace of the world steady, or dominate the weaker portions of the world. Those were the days of alliances. This process of the League of Nations is a process of disentangling.

I was reading only this morning, what a friend of mine reminded me of, a speech that President McKinley, made the day before he was assassinated, and, in several passages of that speech you see the dawn of this expectation in his mind. His whole thought was against isolation.

VISION OF McKINLEY.

His whole thought was that we had, by process of the circumstances, to become the partners of the rest of the world. His thought was that the world had grown little by quickened methods of intercommunication. His whole thought was that the better we knew each other and the closer we grew together, the more certain the processes of arbitration and the better the processes of arbitration. Men would not fight but would talk things over. And shot all through the speech you see the morning light of just such a day as this.

It would look as if the man had been given a vision just before he died—one of the sweetest and humane souls that has been prominent in our affairs. A man who thought with his head and with his thought, and this new day was dawning upon his heart. His intelligence was beginning to draw the lines of the picture which has now been completed in sketch, in a constructive document which we shall adopt. [Continued applause.] Having that doctrine, we shall finally reflect a new glory upon the things we did.

Then what significance will attach to the boy's gun, or sword, over the mantelpiece? Not merely that he beat Germany, but that he redeemed the world. [Continued applause.]

PARTISANSHIP IS ELIMINATED.

"exactly similar" to the Shantung provision of the present treaty. Each, he said, gave Japan rights in China which had belonged to her defeated enemy.

NATIONS HONOR BOUND.

Great Britain and France "cannot in honor" now violate their secret treaties with Japan, the President declared, and the only way in which the case of Shantung could be bettered was to go to war against France, Great Britain and Japan. He asked whether those opposing the Shantung provision of the treaty were willing to start such a war, and added:

"Their interest in China is not the interest of assisting China but of defeating the treaty."

"That's it" and "that's the boy" yelled the crowd, and then there were more cheers.

Under the league for the first time, he said, China would have a forum before which she could bring her case. He said he had felt that all the nations had gone too far in their acquisition of rights in China.

Turning to the objection that Great Britain would have a preponderance of voting power in the league assembly, Mr. Wilson said it was "nonsense" to have any such fear because the assembly was largely a debating body while the council made the great decisions. Naming Canada, Australia and India he asked:

"Would you want to deprive these millions of a voice in the debate?"

The crowd replied "no" in a great chorus, and the President added:

"It's a proposition that never has been stated because to state it answers it."

CROWD WITH HIM.

"Speaking unwisely and too soon," the German leaders, said Mr. Wilson, already had revealed their hope that the United States would be separated from the other great powers as it had been impossible to separate her during the war. The crowd stood up and shouted its approval again when he added "America is no quitter."

Saying he did not want to see the Republican party "misrepresented and misled," the President declared that when international affairs were at issue there should be neither Republicans nor Democrats.

The President at the dinner tendered him at the Hotel Alexandria said that his great difficulty in the treaty debate was that the arguments on the other side were not based on reason.

No man, he said, had a right to oppose a great constructive proposal except by a better constructive proposal. He was perfectly willing to go back to Paris to secure acceptance of a better League of Nations, he added, if anyone would propose a better league.

The President spoke at a public dinner and his declarations were interrupted many times by applause.

At Paris, Mr. Wilson said, he had acted as the spokseman of American principles without regard to party. When he came home, he continued, the people generally were in favor of the treaty just as it stood. Had there been a vote then, "only a negligible percentage of our people," he declared, would have opposed it.

But since that time, said the President, something had happened to change that situation. Without attempting to analyse that movement, he said, he at least could be certain that the strongest opposition had grown up in those places where pro-Germanism is strongest. It also was apparent, the President declared, that should the United States stay out of the league the result would be to Germany's advantage.

"HIDEOUS" SUGGESTION.

Adding that some men now proposed that the United States should try to get a full share of the benefit of the peace settlement without assuming its share of responsibility, Mr. Wilson said such a suggestion would be "hideous" to true Americans. It was an "ugly thing," he asserted, to propose that the United States shape its policy upon the principle of getting all it could at the expense of others.

It was to men who forget themselves and work for others, said the President, that the people give lasting fame. That, he asserted, was the spirit of the nation itself, though there are some men who still must be "infected" with that unselfishness.

Referring to objections that the league would involve the United States in "entangling alliances," Mr. Wilson said the league was in fact a proposal for disentanglement.

"What Washington had in mind, was exactly what these gentlemen want to lead us back to," he said.

"The day of alliances is behind us."

HOLD CHICAGO WOMAN HERE AS FUGITIVE.

Arrested on a fugitive warrant from Chicago charging grand larceny, Mrs. Minerva Jane Buchanan was taken into custody yesterday, by Detective Sergeants King and Oaks. According to information received from Chief of Detectives J. L. Mooney of Chicago, the woman is charged with grand larceny, the complaint being sworn to by A. L. Buchanan. A man signing his name as "Faddy" sent a long telegram from Chicago to Mrs. Buchanan, last night, asking her to return to him. According to the police, Mrs. Buchanan in company with Alfred Gordon Buchanan, a 22-year-old youth have been living in Los Angeles as mother and son.

The police had to break the line at Fifth and Hill, where it massed for "Broken Blossoms" so traffic stopped. Clune's Auditorium.—[Advertisement.

ESTHONIANS IN FEAR OF REDS.

Remember Horrors of Invasion by the Bolsheviki.

See Them Stronger than Ever and Now Want Peace.

Would Have Army Disbanded so that Men Can Work.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 20.—Esthonia probably will be accused of ingratitude because while accepting food and clothing from Americans and uniforms, munitions and supplies of many kinds from the British, she suddenly enters into peace negotiations with the Bolsheviki. Instead of talking peace with the Reds the Entente nations would like to see the Esthonians line up with the little ragged White Russian Army and cut a path to Petrograd.

I want to explain Esthonia's attitude without defending or apologizing for it. Esthonia is scared out of its boots. The Bolsheviks grow stronger on the frontier and threaten again to sweep into their country. When the Bolsheviks invaded Esthonia last December they put hundreds of people to death at Narva, Dorpat, Walk and smaller towns. Among the victims were women and children, who were shot and hanged. The Reds invaded the country to within fifteen miles of Reval. Now so much stronger than in December, the Bolsheviks undoubtedly would capture Reval.

DISSATISFACTION IS GREAT.

The people of Esthonia, seeing that the Bolsheviks continue in undisturbed possession of Russia, think they had better make peace with their neighbor instead of continuing to fight. There is a great dissatisfaction among the people because they say Esthonia is fighting a battle against Bolshevism for England and America, yet these two nations refuse to acknowledge the independence of Esthonia, only using Esthonia as a catspaw.

The Esthonian army has been in the field nine months and is getting out of hand. A colonel of the Russian northwestern army and two other officers were killed and several others wounded by Esthonian troops last week. The feeling against the White Russians and the outspoken sympathy for the Reds is growing. A Russian general was arrested yesterday in the streets of Reval for some trumped-up cause. The head of the Russian Red Cross was arrested for being on the street after 11 o'clock at night, was fined 10,000 marks and expelled from Esthonia. Russian guards on transport wagons were overpowered and the supplies taken by the Esthonians. There were numerous other incidents.

COUNTRY IS DESPERATE.

The Esthonian government is afraid it cannot hold the people back much longer unless it makes a peace pact with the Bolsheviks.

The Esthonians say they cannot expect English intervention if the Bolsheviks invade their country, because England continually is saying it cannot take sides in a civil war. If the independence of Esthonia is not recognized and guaranteed by England and America Esthonia will lose her dreams of nationality and the much hated Baltic barons will be restored to power. They in turn would revenge themselves for their treatment by Esthonia.

The country is getting deeper and deeper into debt; it faces bankruptcy and its factories are dismantled, with no jobs. Prices of food and all necessities are very high and are going up every day. The peasants and poor people face starvation the coming winter. The people have demanded that the government take steps to avert the greatest danger, an invasion by the Bolsheviks, and release the army, so the men can go to work. This is the Esthonian explanation of the Peace Conference at Pskov.

FRENCH ASK RIGHT TO MOVE SOLDIER GRAVES

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Friday, Sept. 19.—The question of removing soldiers' bodies from military cemeteries along the front was brought up this morning in the Chamber of Deputies when M. Pacaud of Vendee asked the Minister of War what measures the government expected to take to allow families to recover the bodies of their dead. He said a bill had been introduced forbidding the removal of bodies for three years because means of transportation were lacking.

He declared that at present there are plenty of trains to take tourists to the battlefields. He asserted the Chamber ought not to dissolve without giving some satisfaction to families, especially as American newspapers were stating that American dead were to be taken back across the Atlantic.

Replying in behalf of the ministry, M. Abrami of Pas de Calais said the difficulties were insurmountable and that much as the government would like to grant satisfaction, there would be a risk of many "terrible mistakes" in cemeteries plowed up several times by artillery fire. He declared bodies of German soldiers had been found in graves bearing the inscription "A French soldier is buried here."

BAY AND RIVER BOATS TIED UP.

San Francisco, Sacramento and Stockton Affected.

Shorter Hours and More Pay Demands of Strikers.

Railroad Ferries Across Bay are not Troubled.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—Movement of cargo at San Francisco Bay points practically was at a standstill today. Strike of stevedores three days ago disorganized shipping and further confusion was created today by the strike of deck hands and firemen employed on river steamers plying between San Francisco, Stockton and Sacramento.

The demand of the firemen and deck hands is for a wage increase and reduction of the working day to eight hours.

Pending settlement of the river strike the following companies announced today that freight and passenger business will not be accepted until further notice:

California Transportation Company, California Navigation Company, Petaluma-Santa Rosa Transportation Company, Sacramento Transportation Company, Producers' Transportation Company, Farmers' Transportation and Leland Transportation Company.

The strike will have the effect of stopping the transportation of a vast amount of produce from the Sacramento and the San Joaquin valleys, the steamboat executives said. Executives of the Barge and River Transportation Workers' Union, the organization on strike, said the men were being forced to work twelve and eighteen hours a day for an insufficient wage.

The workers affected are deck hands, firemen and oilers. The railroad ferries across the bay were not affected.

Demands are for an eight-hour day and an increase of from 75 to 80 cents an hour for the laboring and from 80 to 90 cents for the mechanical help.

The strike followed a decision of the Riggers' and Stevedores' Union here to remain on strike after having been out for a week.

ACCEPT NO BUSINESS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 20.—Officials of the Southern Pacific Steamship and the California Transportation companies, operating river steamships between here and San Francisco, announced all their boats here were tied up and they would accept no business during the day, at least, as a result of the strike of workers on boats here and at San Francisco and Stockton.

About 200 men employed here and near by by the two companies struck today simultaneously with workers in San Francisco and Stockton. Three steamships were affected, the Fort Sutter and the Pride of the river, operated by the California company, and the Navajo, a Southern Pacific boat.

The men struck for an eight-hour day and for wage increases ranging from $10 a month to as much as $1.50 a day, it was stated.

The companies at first announced they would make no effort to load or unload boats, but later put strike-breakers at work and stated they expected to operate on schedule.

DECK HANDS QUIT POSTS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

STOCKTON, Sept. 20.—On the arrival of steamers in Stockton this morning the deck hands left their posts. The local office reports that the negotiations with the strikers are being conducted by the San Francisco office. The strikers are confident their tie-up will be complete.

VALBANERA'S SINKING IN STORM CONFIRMED.

AMERICAN ENSIGN POSITIVE THAT SHIP UNDER KEY WEST WATERS IS FROM SPAIN.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MADRID, Sept. 20.—Dispatches received here from Havana confirm the loss of the Spanish steamship Valbanera in the tropical storm which raged over the Gulf of Mexico and adjacent waters last week. The majority of the passengers were from Malaga, Spain.

KEY WEST, Sept. 20.—That the Spanish steamer Valbanera, carrying 300 passengers and a crew of 150, went down in the hurricane that swept Key West ten days ago appeared to have been made certain last night by the statement of Ensign L. B. Reaserts, commanding officer of the United States submarine chaser 203, who stated that he plainly saw the nameplate of that steamer on the vessel found yesterday sunk in nearly forty feet of water near here.

It is very unfortunate others should try to compare their films to "Broken Blossoms." It isn't the praise that draws those enormous crowds to swamp the box office; it is the eighth art, the music, the prologues. Clune's Auditorium.—[Advertisement.

JOHNSON FEARS NATION'S GONE.

At Crossroads of Destiny, He Informs Minneapolis.

Says His Heart Burns to Save Country from Infamy.

Silly to Talk of Obligations, His Parting Shot.

'nternationalism and Mr. Wilson's endeavor to subordinate to foreign nations the American republic."

In discussing the debate over the league in the Senate, the speaker said:

DISCUSSES DEBATE.

"The debate in Congress yesterday indicates that gradually the issue which the proponents of the league have ever sought to obscure is becoming increasingly plain. The able and distinguished Senator from Minnesota bodily announces that he believes in maintaining our troops in Russia and Siberia, and that upon us is the moral responsibility of least to maintain the new nations set up by the peace treaty. If a moral responsibility exists for us to protect and preserve and maintain these new nations, the responsibility also exists to protect them with our power. And if this responsibility exists, it means no matter how much we may say that we deem the responsibility only moral, that American troops must for all time in the future, whenever it be necessary, patrol threatened nations in Europe. And this is exactly what Article X is intended to do. The soldier boys in Russia now are boys who were drafted to fight with Germany and who, almost a year after the war with Germany has ended, are fighting an undeclared war. This is the League of Nations again. It presents a situation to which I will not subscribe. The question is apart from the fantastic and wholly wrong doctrine of Bolshevism.

"If an American President can order American boys to their death in Russia without warrant of law and in defiance of the Constitution, he can order American boys into other countries as well."

AT CROSSROADS.

"I feel very keenly that our nation stands today at the crossroads of its destiny.

"The document that has been presented to us and which we are asked to make a part of our great nation comes to us at a time most peculiar in our history. We have a singular, psychological reflex from the world war, working on the lives of the people, distorting their intellects. Nations are unable to see with the same clarity of vision as at other periods.

"I assume that each of you would go to almost any extremity in order to preclude the possibility of another cataclysm such as we have seen in the past four years.

"You recall that before we knew anything about the great covenant of the league, gentlemen were going about from city to city, from State to State, preaching of its virtues and telling of the marvelous things that were going to happen as a result of the great document. And most of us, indeed, welcomed anything that might render less likely wars in the future; but we have watched the proceedings abroad with a growing disillusionment. We saw one by one the great principles to which we had given unqualified indorsement and approval abandoned and surrendered.

"There are some places that are paved with good intentions. Paris is not one of them.

VOTED FOR WAR.

"I cast my first vote in the United States Senate for the direct declaration of war. In the early discussion of the war, after its declaration, there was a spell on me, just as I imagine every American experienced, a desire to do something superhuman, to devote my utmost energies to the country's problems, that it might perform its great part and do its duty in the vast conflict confronting us. I remember in those days sitting in my seat and seeing Balfour of England come from the side door, and mount the rostrum of the Senate. For the first time—so tender is the Senate in its precedents—for the first time since La Fayette was there—Balfour was the only foreign diplomat to address that body. I remember him telling how he and his people were fighting the war for the same things we were, for democracy of the world; I heard Viviani of France. I didn't understand him, but the musical eloquence of his words was apparent; he told us in like altruistic tenor how he and his countrymen were struggling that democracy might be made safe; I heard Ishii of Japan and Udine of Italy talk from this same rostrum. My heart throbbed and my eyes strained, during those fateful moments while they were talking to us in idealistic phrases; and during the very time they were talking to us their pockets were bulging with secret treaties made before we had entered the war, treaties which disposed of the peoples and territories of the earth and which partitioned the earth's surface; but they never mentioned them to Senator or Congressman, nor to the President or the Secretary of State, never lisped a syllable of their existence; and the President told us he never heard of these secret treaties until he reached Paris.

"I couldn't stop to characterize this sort of duplicity and double dealing, but I say that when we have had that sort of experience with the men in whose power we are about to place ourselves under this treaty, that we ought to know just what we are going to do before we undertake it.

WANTS FREE DETERMINATION.

"Whenever humanity calls, whenever mankind is in distress, or the anguished cries of civilization are heard, I would have our country in the future do just what it has done in the past, because it will answer to that cry and do its full duty by peoples and humanity. But what I say to you is that we at Washington are fighting for this: When the time and the call comes for acting, we, as Americans, shall determine that time and mode of acting, without the British Empire or any other nation deciding for us.

"That is the issue. Not that we want to live isolated from all the rest of the world, but when you put us at the conference at Geneva in secrecy with eight foreign nations, in reality it's only five—because it's the big five that are going to rule the world in the future—you put us there with one minority vote under the control and power of the other four great nations of the earth and you make them determine the character of our action, and the time of our action.

"It's silly to talk about moral or legal obligations. The honest man and the honest nation carry out their moral obligations as readily as either would carry out a legal obligation.

"It may be legal or moral, or, as the President says, compulsorily moral; it may be of one sort or the other, nevertheless when the United States of America signs its name to a document by which it guarantees territorial integrity of other nation the United States of America will carry out its obligations no matter what the cost may be. So I don't stop to talk to you in differentiation of one kind of obligation or another.

GOD-GIVEN ISOLATION.

"Our splendid isolation of the past, to which our friends on the other side so feelingly refer, is a matter quite apart from the dicussion. They say we have entered upon our world career, we can't turn back. Not so, at all. We have never been isolated from the rest of the world, financially, socially, commercially, politically, or any other way. The only isolation which has been ours is geographical. God gave us the two oceans, and what God has given us in these two oceans even the League of Nations can't take away from us.

"If any man had come to you three years before the war; if any man should come to you three years hence and say to you that he was entering into a partnership between this nation and a foreign nation by which the foreign nation should be given six votes in that partnership and our country should be given only one, you would hoot him from the rosturm—if he did that three years ago or three years hence, you would hoot him away.

"But so strange and distorted is our psychology today that that very proposition is made to us. Now, I have no prejudice against our English brother. I admire him immensely, I admire the ability with which Lloyd George represented the British empire. I would that we could have hired somebody to represent America who could have served our interests as well.

"What a proud boast it was that he made to his Parliament the other day when he said he had added to the great British empire 800,000 square miles of territory. What a proud thing it was when he said to them: 'We have so arranged it now that whenever we are called into any war the United States enters automatically.' What a proud thing it was for him when he was able to demonstrate that the great British empire holds today practically one-fourth of the whole surface of the earth, and that its dream of rule from Cairo to the Cape is now realized.

SAFE GUARDED FOREVER.

"But as I look about the nations of the world who are profiteering from the war, I find one nation fought for its ideals. As Lloyd George with his tremendous territorial gains, and Clemenceau, with his, looked about to find unprofiting nations, they saw before them America, and they wrote into that pact that this nation should guarantee to England, Italy, to France, to Japan, all their acquisitions from the war, and safeguard forever all these nations that profited so immensely in teritories and peoples.

"This is the issue whether the nonprofiting nation in the world, yours and mine, shall guarantee the profit and booty they have gained from the other nations of the earth. Why not only do we guarantee our European neighbors their spoil, but we guarantee to our neighbors beyond the sea, the Japanese, their spoils, and you can't question the infamy of the Shantung decision in glittering generalities, pleasing phrases. Do you know what has been the proudest boast of America during these last 140 years?

Its proud boast has always been that it has kept its faith, and never broken its word. It never rejected a friend; it never engaged in territorial acquisition against a friend. And today for the first time in history the signature of the United States of America has gone upon a document that is a fraud upon a friend.

PARTNERS OF BURGLARS.

"Now, we are told we can do little good by any amendment or by any objection to this particular treaty. That may be so; but because you can't prevent a burglary, there is no reason why you should go into partnership with the burglars. And that is exactly what we are doing in the Shantung matter.

"During the last two years there was a favorite mode taken of preventing any man from standing on his feet with his head in the air, doing conscientiously and patriotically the right as he saw it, in opposition to entrenched power. If a man were independent to do as he dared, he must withstand the epithet of pro-German and Bolshevist. It was the common thing; and today even the President is going about talking about pro-Germans in casting reflections upon men who are opposed to his pet measure, but I want to say to you that the time has gone by when epithets of pro-Germanism can longer intimidate American people.

"We are going to safeguard this instrument if we can. No other thought have we than our country and I think I may say to you, my friends, that from a little start of three men in Washington, a majority of the United States Senate today stands for America."

A Message from the Rug Department
Never in the 49 years that the Los Angeles Furniture Co. has been selling rugs, have rugs been so scarce. Mills claim a shortage of wool yarn; and, that in the immediate future, rug prices will continue to climb higher and higher. One of the largest mills has just informed the trade that it will be able to supply only one-third of the rugs that they shipped last year—and last year they shipped only one-half of the normal amount. This means that the buying public will find stocks worse in the future than they are now.

We anticipated this condition and bought all that traffic would bear. Shoppers inform us that our stock is larger and contains more distinctive patterns than they have been able to find anywhere.

SEALS SPANK ANGELS HARD.

Hop on Pertica in Fourteenth and Score Four.

Scott Heaves a Swell Article of Baseball.

Vernon Grabs Two and Goes in the Lead Again.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Los Angeles dropped fourteen innings into second place yesterday, and to fall fourteen innings takes so long that there were a lot of postponed Saturday supper engagements. These supper engagements will be moved along a day, and those who lost out on the grub last night can play a double-header at the supper table this evening. This will keep the eating schedule even, and avoid confusion in the hot battle for victuals.

Thirteen rounds "Death Valley" Jim Scott grimly battled Paul Fittery and Solemn Bill Pertica, without a run being scored on either side. But in the fourteenth the superb slab work of the ex-soldier was rewarded, when his help rallied to his assistance and batted four runs out of Pertica. Los Angeles sought to retaliate in the last of the fourteenth, but the erstwhile leaders had shot their bolt, and it was only a feeble response, netting one run. Such contests as these, after the miserable showing made by Portland last week, are indeed refreshing and will do much for the good of baseball regardless of who wins the flag.

GO INTO LEAD.

Vernon made the most of what was taking place here and by winning two in Salt Lake, wrenched first place from Killefer's desperately-battling athletes.

Scott was wound up in great shape, and on the form displayed would have beaten any team in the world yesterday. He was found for only seven hits, and fourteen innings is a wide territory over which to scatter seven blows.

But as inning after inning was reeled off without either side being able to batter down the other's defense it looked like Death Valley Jim's classy stuff was being squandered in vain. The Seals were hitting freely in spots, and repeatedly got men on bases, but not until the fourteenth could they break through the Los Angeles barrier. And so Scott was forced to stick to his guns, first against Fittery and then against Pertica.

PAUL OFF STRIDE.

Fittery, although not scored on, was plainly off his stride, and after a number of scandalously close calls, as in the sixth when the bases were loded on him, was pulled in the eighth with two down and one on bases. Pertica retired the side pronto, but in the next round was stung for a single. This spoiled the no-hit game which Pertica has been pitching in installments all week.

While Scott, the veteran, bore the brunt for San Francisco, he won in the last analysis because a fat busher came to his rescue with the bat. Edward Anfinson is the name of the F. B. He is shorter than Rowdy Elliott, and on first sight doesn't look any faster than a sack of cracked corn. Also, he has been sitting on the bench so long that he has worn holes in the seat of his pants, and in other ways shows signs of decay.

PEOPLE LAUGHED.

So people laughed when Edward got out and squatted behind the plate. And it didn't require much effort for him to squat, as he is built that way. He is what is known as the underslung type of athlete. But Mr. Anfinson's appearances were deceptive. Not only did he mitt everything that Scott threw anywhere in his vicinity, but he stopped runners at the plate and everything. And the F. B. kept whaling away with the bat until he finally caused great confusion and busted the works wide open with a triple in the fourteenth. And a moment later, Joe Connolly, another of Graham's youngsters, drove across what proved to be the winning run.

STRONG BID.

Dropping back to the eleventh we find Los Angeles making its strongest bid, when Fournier led off by crashing a single through the box that Scott could not deflect. Crawford bunted down the third-base line. The hard-worked Scott fozzled the ball momentarily, or just long enough for Sam to beat the play at first. Bates forced Crawford at second. Runners on first and third and one out. Crandall bunted into the ground in an attempted squeeze, and the ball bounded into the air toward third as Fournier came tearing down the line. Anfinson grabbed the ball almost on the line. The fat busher not only grabbed it but held it in front of the full force of Fournier's rush.

Ellis grounded to Koerner, and the chance was gone. In the thirteenth when it seemed that one run would decide the game the home guard made another attack that was thrown back. With one out, Fournier doubled viciously, and Crawford was passed purposely for the second time. Bates hit the ball back at Scott hard. Jim slowed it down, and Caveney threw the runner out at first. With Fournier on third and Crawford on second, Kamm threw out K. Crandall.

A LINE SMASH.

Kamm, first up in the fourteenth, was retired, Bates to Fournier. Edward Anfinson then arose to the occasion with a line-like smash to the scoreboard for three bases. San Francisco claimed that Fournier threw the fat busher out of his stride rounding first, but the protest was not allowed. It is surprising how the fat boy can handle his legs on the paths.

Secretary George Putnam claims he is the fastest man on the club, even if he isn't built like a thoroughbred. Scott dumped the ball toward first. Pertica picked it up near the line, and Anfinson slid in ahead of his throw to Bates. Schick popped to Bates. Then came a fusillade of singles by Zamlock, Connolly, Koerner and Hunter, netting four runs. Caveney, ninth up, popped to Fabrique. The Angel shortstop played a whale of a game all the way through.

Boles doubled with one down in the home club's last stand, and Haney was put in to run for him. Fred pulled the wholly unexpected and unprecedented by stealing third under these conditions. He scored when Bassler, batting for Pertica, went out Kamm to Koerner. Killefer fouled to Kamm. The score:

DOUBLE-HEADER ON FOR TODAY.

There will be no game at Vernon this morning. Instead, Los Angeles and San Francisco will play a double-header at Washington Park this afternoon, starting at 1:30. The Angels, having lost ground the very week they expected to make headway, will make a hard fight for both games. The Tigers are leading them by half a game.

BEAVERS TAKE BOTH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 20.—Portland won both games of a double-header 1 to 0 and 8 to 4. The first game was a pitcher's battle between Schorr and Oldham. Neither side scored until the ninth. In the second game Seattle got away to the lead, four errors giving the visitors three runs. Penner held them to three hits. Bigbee was relieved by Williams in the fifth with the score tied and bunched hits in the seventh and eighth cinched the game. The scores:

BOSTONS GRAB TWO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Boston kept Chicago from clinching the American League Championship by taking both games of a double-header. Ruth knocked his twenty-seventh home run of the season in the ninth inning of the first game for the winning run. A double by Ruth in the fifth of the second game helped to work in the winning run. Ruth was presented with $600 in treasury savings certificates by the Knights of Columbus. The score:

CORHAN KNOCKED OUT.

Roy Cohan was forced to retire from the game yesterday with a badly bunged nose. In the ninth when San Francisco took the field the infielders were throwing the ball around among themselves. Koerner heaved it over to Corhan. Either Roy wasn't looking or the ball took an unexpected hop. Anyway, it hit him in the face and knocked him down. He shed copious gore from his beak while walking from the field.

ST. PAUL VICTORIOUS IN DOUBLE-HEADER.

HAVE ONLY ONE MORE GAME TO WIN TO CAPTURE THE PENNANT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Sept. 20.—St. Paul won two games from Columbus today, 3 to 1 and 11 to 2, and by so doing advanced to within half a game of winning the American Association pennant. If St. Paul wins one game of tomorrow's double-header and Kansas City wins all its remaining games St. Paul will win the gonfalon by half a game even if all remaining games were lost.

Lukanovic, a recruit hurler, was wild in the first game although when he did get the ball over the plate the Saints were unable to do much with it. His wildness was directly responsible for his defeat.

Merritt pitched great ball, not a Senator getting to third base after the third inning.

In the second game Lukanovic was succeeded by Pechous in the third inning after the Apostles had shot four runs over. Pechous proved no puzzle to the Saints in the remaining innings, the Saints hitting almost at will. The scores:

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless,) and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—[Advertisement.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

We find you can bring out the beauty of the hair to its very best advantage by washing it with canthrox. It makes a very simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all dandruff, dirt and excess oil, leaving a wonderfully clean, wholesome feeling. After its use, you will find the hair dries quickly and evenly, is never streaked in appearance and is always bright, soft and fluffy; so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. Just use a teaspoonful of canthrox, which you can get from any good druggist, dissolve it in a cup of hot water; this makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head.—[Advertisement.

How to Banish Wrinkles and Crow's Feet Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel—ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this, and—presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the lotion so tightens the skin, wrinkles are actually pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit is to be expected with continued use. Use it once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.—[Advertisement.

NEW AMERICAN RECORD MADE.

Gaston Chevrolet Establishes Auto Racing Mark.

Leads Nearly All Way in 150-Mile Race.

Joe Boyer Finishes Second, Ira Vail Third.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Gaston Chevrolet won the 150-mile automobile race at Sheepshead Bay today. He had led nearly all the way with his brother, Louis, running second until the 110th miles when an accident put Louis out of the contest.

The time for the distance, one hour and twenty-two minutes, thirty-four and one-fifth seconds, is a new American record. The former record was one hour and twenty-six minutes, fourteen and ninety-one hundredths seconds, made by Ralph Mulford at Chicago June 16, 1917.

Joe Boyer finished second in one hour, twenty-four minutes and forty-three and three-fifths seconds, while Ira Vail was third with time of one hour, twenty-four minutes and forty-six seconds.

Thirteen cars started. Dave Lewis, after leading from the second mile, dropped out at the twelfth with a cracked cylinder at the 20th mile, Gaston and Louis Chevrolet led, as named, with Vail third. At this point Ralph DePalma was in last place, two miles behind.

MINUTE BEHIND.

The Chevrolet brothers and Vail showed the way at fifty miles, the time for which was twenty-seven minutes and twenty-six and one-fifth seconds, nearly a minute behind the track record. For the next ten miles the three leaders retained their places, with Gaston first, about five yards in front of his brother. The time was 32.59 1-5.

Mulford got into third place and Art Klein fourth at 100 miles but were four miles behind the two leaders. The time 55:06 4-5; was fifty-nine seconds slower than Gaston's track record, made July 4 last.

Louis Chevrolet was put out at the 110th mile, coming into the home stretch, when flames began to burst beneath his car.

SLIGHTLY BURNED.

The plucky driver sent his car past the stands to the end of the pits near the first turn, where he and his mechanician, Kenneth Goodson, jumped from the car and stood by while the fire was being extinguished. Both men suffered slight burns.

Louis had been running within a few yards of his brother Gaston up to the moment his car went on fire, both of them being a little more than two laps ahead of the field. Gaston continued at a terrific pace to the finish and was being congratulated on his record-breaking victory when the second and third cars completed the full distance.

Lieut. Art Klein was fourth; Toland Nicholson fifth; Denny Hickey sixth; Ralph Mulford seventh and William Vetere eighth. The other starters did not complete the race.

Louis Chevrolet won the ten-mile race prior to the start of the main event. It was decided in three heats. He finished first twice and second once, for fourteen points. Gaston was second with ten points, with Boyer and Mulford tied for third with seven each.

In the final lap of the third heat, Mulford and his mechanician, James Lee, had a narrow escape from serious injury when their car shot up the embankment after a tie-rod had broken. The following cars started:

COLLINS LEADS IN STEALING BASES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Eddie Collins, star second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, stepped out in front among the base stealers last Wednesday with thirty-one thefts. He also climbed from tenth place among the batters of the American League who have participated in sixty or more games, to sixth place, according to averages released today. His nearest rival for stolen base honors is Sisler of St. Louis, with twenty-seven.

Cobb, Detroit, is far ahead of the regular batters with an average of .385. He is topped by Eddie Murphy, pinch-hitting star of Chicago, who in twenty-four games has batted .478.

Barber, Chicago, continued his climb among the National League batters, going from seventh to fourth place with .317. Cravath, Philadelphia, is leading the batters with an average of .336.

Roush, Cincinnati, is being pressed by Myers, Brooklyn, for total base honors. Roush has 214 total bases, while Myers has one less. Burns, New York, moved Groh, Cincinnati, out of the scoring honors and leads his rival by one run. Burns registered 79 times. Cutshaw, Pittsburgh, added another stolen base to his string and is showing the way in the paths with 35 thefts.

MSS CARDOZA WINS IN BIG PAPER CHASE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 20.—Miss Isabel Cardoza of Santa Barbara and Deering Davis of Chicago and Montecito were winners in a paper chase held here today. The start was from Hotel Belvidere and the finish near the La Cumbre Country Club. A hunt breakfast was served at the club. There were forty-five riders. The affair was so successful that it was decided to organize a hunt club to be conducted in conjunction with the La Cumbre Country Club. S. E. Kramer of the Hotel Belvidere was named chairman, of the committee to perfect the organization.

THOMSON CARRIES OFF BIG ATHLETIC HONORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—S. Harrison Thomson of Los Angeles, a Princeton University student, won the all-around championship of the Amateur Athletic Union at Pershing field, Jersey City, today, scoring 6133 1-4 points in the ten events. Six men competed.

GARNES WINNER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ROSLYN (N. Y.) Sept. 20.—Once again Jim Garnes, the western open title holder, is champion of the Professional Golfers' Association, for in the final round of the tournament today the tall Briton defeated Fred McLeod, erstwhile national champion, 6 up and 5 to play.

TO RETAIN RODGERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 20.—William Rodgers, manager of the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League, will continue to manage the Senators in 1920, according to announcement today by President Charles J. Heeseman, of the local club.

RUTH HITS HOMER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—"Babe" Ruth increased his home-run record to twenty-seven today when he cracked out a circuit drive in the ninth inning for the run which gave Boston the victory over Chicago, four to three in the first game of a double-header. It was Ruth day at Fenway Park, special exercises being held in his honor.

DELAY FATTENS FOOD PIRATES.

Ames Asks Congress to Speed Control Measure.

Price Advance Stirs Assistant Attorney-General.

Exposes Plan to Raise Sugar Price to $11.50.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Following announcement by the bureau of statistics of the Department of Labor that the retail price of food in the United States had increased 1 per cent. in August over prices in July, despite the strenuous campaign of the government to reduce it, Asst. Atty.-Gen. Ames appealed to Congress today to hasten enactment of the amendments to the Food Control Act.

"Will you pardon me," Mr. Ames wrote in a letter to Representative Haugen, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, "for calling your attention to the importance of early action on the amendments to the Food Control Act. If the matter of rents in the District of Columbia is likely to cause material delay, is there not some way by which it can be separated from the other amendments so that earlier action upon them may be taken?

"Reports continue coming to this department indicating profiteering in shoes and other articles of wearing apparel. Pending the passage of the amendments the department is powerless to deal effectively with these reports.

SUGAR PRICE RAISED.

"We are also just advised that the Holly Sugar Corporation of California is placing the new crop of beet sugar on the market at $11.50 per hundred against $9, which is the prevailing price for the old crop. This being a case of individual action and the new crop not being controlled by the sugar equalization board, the department cannot take effective action in the matter until the amendments are passed.

"The matters mentioned in this letter are mere instances in illustration of the general argument made to your committee by the Attorney-General, and illustrate the importance of action as soon as the committee can find it possible to act."

Figures from the Department of Labor showing the 1 per cent. price increase in August over July, it was announced, makes the total cost of the twenty-two articles of food, upon which this comparison is based the highest of record.

ARTICLES THAT INCREASED.

The articles which increased in price were eggs and rice, 6 per cent. each; Crisco, potatoes, and raisins, 4 per cent. each; fresh and evaporated milk, coffee and prunes, 3 per cent. each; pork chops, butter, cornmeal, rolled oats, navy beans and sugar, 2 per cent. each; canned salmon, oleomargamine, cheese, bread, macaroni and oranges, 1 per cent. each. Ham, nut margarine and tea increased less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

The articles which declined in price were sirloin steak, round steak and rib roast, 3 per cent. each; chuck roast, 4 per cent. and plate beef, 5 per cent. Other articles which declined are onions, 20 per cent., cabbage 15 per cent.; lamb, 5 per cent.; bacon, flour, cornflakes, baked beans, canned corn, canned peas and canned tomatoes 1 per cent. each. Hens, cream of wheat and bananas declined less than five-tenths of 1 per cent. and the price of lard was the same in August as in July.

ITEMIZED ADVANCES.

The price of food since August 1918, the figures further show, has increased 12 per cent. in the United States. Prunes increased 60 per cent., coffee 59 per cent.; onions, 42 per cent.; potatoes 28 per cent.; lard, 27 per cent.; cheese, 26 per cent.; butter, and sugar, 19 per cent. each; raisins, 18 per cent.; ham 17 per cent.; rice, 16 per cent.; fresh milk, 14 per cent.; eggs, 12 per cent.; pork chops, 11 per cent.; flour, 9 per cent.; hens 8 per cent.; bacon, canned salmon and tea, 7 per cent.; bread 2 per cent.; and sirolin steak, 1 per cent. Navy beans declined 16 per cent.; plate beef 11 per cent.; chuck roast 6 per cent.; cornmeal, 3 per cent. and rib roast and lamb 1 per cent. Round steak decreased less than 5-10 of 1 per cent.

During the six-year pediod, August, 1913, to August, 1919, the retail price of twenty-two articles of food combined increased 91 per cent.

Articles increasing 100 per cent. or over are as follows: Ham, 100 per cent.; bacon, 105 per cent.; pork chops, 115 per cent.; cornmeal, 120 per cent.; flour, 124 per cent., and potatoes 161 per cent.

HOSPITAL IS BURNED BEFORE PRINCE COMES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Sept. 20.—All the patients at the Shaughnessyy military convalescent hospital here were carried outside to safety by rescue parties today, when fire destroyed the east wing of the hospital building. All the hospital equipment was saved. The Prince of Wales planned to visit the hospital on his arrival here Monday.

The Prince of Wales probably will travel as the guest of Admiral Hugh Rodman aboard the American dreadnaught New Mexico from Vancouver to Victoria next Tuesday, it was believed here today. Admiral Rodman has placed the New Mexico and the destroyers Anthony and Ludlow at the disposal of the royal party. The American vessels are due Sunday. The Prince is expected Monday.

TRANSPORT BRINGING TROOPS FROM SIBERIA.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

VLADIVOSTOK, Thursday, Sept. 11.—The transport Logan with 1250 American troops, principally members of the Twenty-seventh Infantry, left for the United States today by way of Manila and should arrive in San Francisco about October 27. Replacement troops arrived here September 6.

TREATY FOES IN DISORDER.

all the four reservations and the textual amendments of the more important character namely, the Shantung amendment, and the one giving the United States the same number of votes in the league council as Great Britain:

SEEKING AMENDMENTS.

New, Indiana; Kenyon, Iowa; McCormick, Illinois; Gore, Oklahoma; Wadsworth, New York; Watson, Indiana; Moses, New Hampshire; Walsh, Massachusetts; Thomas, Colorado; Penrose, Pennsylvania; Republicans, 7; Democrats, 3. Total, 10.

In view of the impatience of the public and the unsettled conditions in industry and production generally it is believed by closets students of statecraft in Washington that the treaty will be disposed of not later than October 15 and perhaps as early as October 1.

Any changes in the above poll probably will be desertions from the twenty named above as either totally opposed to the treaty or opposed to it without textual changes.

Senator Hitchcock plans to force a test vote on the alterations to the treaty early next week, first on the reservations—particularly Shantung and the equality of votes with Great Britain amendment. In that case there is no doubt that the administration will win. Will Hays has told the Republicans that the country is tired of delay in disposing of the treaty and there is not a Republican leader who has the temerity to ask a postponement of the vote.

With the exception of Johnson, who arrives Sunday night, all the barnstorming Senators who started on the President's trail have returned and while they talk gaily about the crowds pouring out to hear Johnson, they privately admit that curiosity seekers are not much in the way of results.

Borah finds himself in a dilemma and is certain that the Democrats are going to take full advantage of it. With Johnson's recall it is being said that the speaking trip was a failure and that the wonderful reception of President Wilson in California is a repudiation of the opponents of the treaty in the home State of the chief propagandist of treaty rejection and emasculation. In retaliation, however, Johnson and his friends will charge failure of the amendments to carry to lack of proper support—that not a stiff enough fight was made and that Johnson is the victim of a poor campaign in the Senate for the amendments.

There is abundant evidence that the opponents of the league and treaty are breaking up and fussing among themselves. They are not quite candid with the public and they apparently are not telling each other all they know. There is a feeling in the capital that the whole opposition has broken up into little cliques and that there is no leadership that can bring them all together in a stone-wall opposition to the administration forces.

CURZON DENIES THAT PERSIA IS ABSORBED.

SAYS THAT TREATY DOES NOT CONSTITUTE A PROTECTORATE IN ANY SENSE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 19.—Great Britain's treaty with Persia does not constitute a protectorate of the latter country in any way, the only object of the agreement being to insure Persia an opportunity to work out her destiny as an independent country, said Earl Curzon, government leader in the House of Lords, at a dinner given here tonight in honor of the Foreign Minister of Persia. The speaker admitted there had been misunderstandings of the treaty, but said there was no ground for suspicion.

"An era of chaos and confusion in Asia" was forecast by Earl Curzon, who declared it would be some time before stability is restored in regions formerly dominated by Russia and Turkey.

INDEPENDENCE VITAL.

"When we speak of the independence of Persia," Earl Curzon said, "I contend that the independence of Persia is a British as well as a Persian interest. Indeed, our main interest in Persia is its independence. We do not want Persia to be a mere buffer against our enemies. We want her to be a bulwark for the peace of the world and I can assure our guest he need have no fears upon that point. We shall respect the independence of his country.

"I see it stated in some quarters that this agreement is a disparagement or deliberate neglect of the League of Nations. Articles X and XX of the covenant are supposed in some sense to have been ignored by us.

NO LEAGUE EVASION.

"I would say emphatically on behalf of my government and after a conversation with His Highness this afternoon that both his government and mine accept unreservedly Articles X and XX of the covenant of the League of Nations and that we see in them nothing inconsistent with what we have done. On the contrary, as soon as the treaty of peace is ratified and as soon as the council of the League of Nations comes into effective existence, it is the intention of his government and mine to communicate the agreement to the council of the league with a full explanation and defense of its contents.

PERIOD OF CHAOS.

"If I attempt to forecast the future nothing seems to me in this era of confusion and chaos to be more certain than that a time of great trouble and unforeseen development lies before the continent of Asia. I doubt very much whether as a result of the war we shall succeed in pacifying Europe but whether we do so or not. I am quite certain we shall not for some time secure stability in Asia. The breakup of the two great empires of Russia and Turkey has left a vacuum in this area which it will take a great deal to fill with orderly settled elements."

FISH HIDE TO SOLVE HIGH COST OF SHOES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Shoes made from the hides of deep sea creatures may solve the high cost of foot wear.

At least that is what chemical experimenters claim and speakers at the chemical industrial exposition here next week will tell how it is to be done.

According to announcement the bureau of fisheries during the war foresaw the boom in leather prices and began experimenting with shark and porpoise hides. A process is said to have been found by which the hides of these members of the finny tribe can be made into shoes more serviceable than leather footgear.

There will be other attractions at the exposition as 325 exhibits will be ready by noon Monday, when Gov. Lowder will welcome the 20,000 delegates to the city and State. Meetings of four national technical and learned societies will be held in connection with the show.

RAISIN GROWERS TO JUSTIFY PRICE FIXED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—W. M. Giffen, president of the California Raisin Growers' Association; W. A. Sutherland, its attorney, and President Wilson of the California Peach Growers' Association, who also is a director of the raisin association, arrived in Washington today and will meet with the officials of the Department of Justice Monday afternoon. The conference will deal largely with the questions of prices fixed for the raisin crop and their justification.

All the California men were interested spectators in the House galleries when the Representatives killed the proposed amendment to the deficiency bill, which if enacted would have eliminated the exception which now protects labor and farmers or horticultural bodies from prosecution by the use of any funds provided under the deficiency bill for the Department of Justice.

In the meantime, they are prepar-

McBurney's Kidney and Bladder Medicine

CHICAGO, ILL., March 20, 1896.

MR. W. F. McBURNEY, Los Angeles, Cal.:

Dear Sir: It affords me pleasure to testify to the efficiency of your Kidney and Bladder Cure. I have been troubled with my kidneys and bladder for over four years. I have been treated by Dr. C. A. Purdy and Dr. Frank Walls, the latter being my son. I regret to say they did me no good. I was advised to spend the winter in Los Angeles, which I did. On the night before I left for home, I got a bottle of your medicine. The first dose did me good, and I was well when I reached home, and I can say in conclusion that I am grateful to you. If this letter is of any use to you, use it. THOS. WALLS.

McBURNEY'S LIVER REGULATOR

NO NEED OF "BITTER PILLS"

This firmly established by-word was born of the remembrance of the old-time "pills" that were given when a laxative was necessary. They were bitter in taste and harsh in action.

It is different today. PURLETTS, the modern laxative, taste like candy, yet contain all of the necessary elements for correcting constipation, and they are mild, yet thorough in action. Children take them eagerly and grown-ups prefer them because of the pleasant taste.

A 25c box of PURLETTS contains 36 tablets. Sold in all stores of The Owl Drug Co.—[Advertisement.

A Never Failing Way to Banish Ugly Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

No woman is immune to superfluous growths, and because these are likely to appear at any time, it is advisable to always have some delatone powder handy to use when the occasion arises. A paste is made with some of the powder and water and spread upon the hairy surface; in about 2 minutes this is carefully removed and the skin washed. You will find that your skin is entirely free from hair or fuzz. Be sure, however, to get real delatone.—[Advertisement.

YANKEES' U-BOAT EXCELS.

New and interesting light is thrown on the so-called efficiency of the German submarines by recent tests conducted by officers in the Bureau of Construction and Repair, U.S.N., says a communication received here yesterday.

An opportunity recently developed in this country which permitted a direct comparison between a late design of German submarine and a late design of American submarine. While details of the comparative tests cannot be given, sufficient information is available to destroy the much-advertised superiority of the German submarine, it is stated.

As is well known, five German submarines of the latest design were brought to the United States for use in the Victory Loan campaign. Four of these boats came over under their own power, manned by officers and men of the United States Navy. The propulsive machinery of the fifth was partially destroyed or removed so that it was necessary to tow this vessel across.

The best of these German boats was "tuned up" for special trials. When reported ready for these trials, a special trial board was designated to conduct the trials, following the established practice in carrying out contract trials for submarines of the United States Navy. The boats compared were ex-German submarine U-111, built at the Germania yard, Kiel, Germany, completed in 1918, and S-3, a submarine designed by the Navy Department; S-3 was built at the Portsmouth navy yard and was commissioned in 1918.

These boats both belong to the 800-ton class, the U-111 having a surface displacement of 830 tons and the S-3 a surface displacement of 854 tons. The dimensions follow: U-111, length, 235 feet; beam, 21 feet; draft, 12.5 feet. S-3, length, 231 feet; beam, 21.5 feet; draft, 12.5 feet.

In the trials the maximum surface speed of the U-111 was 13.8 knots, whereas the S-3 made 14.7 knots. The submerged speed of U-111 was 7.8 knots, while S-3 made 12.4—a remarkable difference in favor of S-3. The radius of action of the two boats is also in favor of S-3, despite all the furore that was created by the advent of the German U-boat on American coasts during the war.

The U-111 can cruise 8500 miles at eight knots, and the S-3 can cover 10,000 miles at eleven knots. The submerged cruising radius shows an equal preponderance in favor of S-3. Both boats can carry twelve torpedoes. U-111 mounts two four-inch guns, one forward and one aft, while S-3 mounts one four-inch gun forward, this practice of one gun on a submarine being standard practice in the United States Navy.

So much for the ordinary military characteristics of the vessels. It is necessary to really live in these vessels to appreciate the radical difference in their habitability, a vital military characteristic, for a submarine is no better than its crew.

The U-111 is congested to the last degree; she is complicated in the extreme by the installation of many "gadgets," some of which are of doubtful utility and more doubtful necessity. Accessibility to her equipment is very difficult; frequently it is necessary to take down three installations to overhaul one.

On the contrary S-3 is a habitable, livable proposition; comparatively "roomy," with reasonable accommodation for officers and crew. Her equipment is accessible and her general habitability is vastly superior to U-111.

Much has been written of the seaworthiness of the German U-boat. An opportunity to compare the seagoing capabilities of the two vessels occurred during these trials and the general consensus of opinion among the officers conducting the test is that S-3 is the more seaworthy vessel. Her decks are drier, her bridge less subject to green seas, and her general behavior in a seaway superior. Referring to the comparative diving capabilities of the two vessels and general handling there are few differences and those few appear to favor S-3.

In their reports of the outcome of the comparative tests the bureau officers point out that there should be no idea that "we have nothing to learn from the Germans." There are a number of interesting details in design, construction and in operation that are well worth while studying. A few features are worthy of adoption for the U-111 is the "mittel U-boat," which type is considered by the Germans as, by far, their best submarine.

SOLDIERS COME SUNDAY

Population at Arcadia Balloon School Grows Rapidly.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ARCADIA, Sept. 20.—The unit of 150 enlisted men who started from the heavy air service camp at Montgomery, Ala., early this week is due to arrive here Sunday, according to advices from the War Department. Other units are to be sent here shortly from March Field and Rockwell Field. In all, more than 250 men will be added to the post here through the present transfers.

A new method of communicating from free balloons with the camp headquarters is to be tried here soon in the use of carrier pigeons. Fifty young birds were received this week and will be trained by two enlisted men sent to Ross Field from the Presidio. It is the plan to give the pigeons their first lesson by taking them out about four miles from camp, and increasing the distance daily.

HERE IS OUR PRESIDENT.

BY T. HOWARD WILSON.

Who will deny him laurel wreaths of fame,
  The just regard a nation owes its Chief,
Him who received a broken world's acclaim
  When wild, red war sat on a throne of grief?

Shall we forget when France was on her knees,
  When England stood, her back against the wall,
The maddened eager hosts that swarmed the leas
  Like beasts that hear and heed the primal call?

Shall we forget the dread of anxious years?
  The senseless slaughter of unnumbered souls?
Not all the seas shall wash away our tears
  Nor dim the flame atop the altar coals.

If when the caldron flamed with fires of hate
  Our mighty Chief gave way with slow consent,
Had he not reason to advise and wait
  Lest we be seized with huge bewilderment?

Shall we forget the good so greatly done
  While yet the valleys of the Marne were wet
With blood, and smoke-clouds blotted out the sun?
  Shall we forget, good friends, shall we forget?

Here is our President, our living best,
  In whom the old and new are sagely met,
Beloved now and time's unending guest,
  Shall we forget, good friends, shall we forget?

FINGER HIS UNDOING.

Maimed Member Causes Arrest of Man Who Confesses.

Identified by the first finger of his right hand from which the end was cut a number of years ago in an accident, Ernest Odell Bell, 35 years of age, a clerk, was arrested and charged with embezzlement late yesterday by Detectives Roberts and Cline. He was taken into custody at Eighth and Hemlock streets where he was employed by the street-car company.

Bell admitted to the police that he embezzled $1500 from the American Railway Express Company at Gastonia, N. C., last June 8. After taking the money, Bell told the authorities yesterday, he fled to Texas and then came to this city and secured employment.

Yesterday Detectives Roberts and Cline, both connected with the police identification bureau, saw Bell at Eighth and Hemlock streets and recognized him.

Willis Individual Instruction

The Willis method of individual instruction enables you to get 100 per cent. efficiency out of your time. Instruction is given to you personally to meet your individual requirements. You can progress as rapidly as you master the studies. You do not have to wait on anyone else or keep pace with a class. A brighter student or a slower one does not affect your progress. You are enabled to concentrate, to get a clear understanding of each step or principle, and to get it much more quickly than under the old methods.

The Willis Secretarial Course is the most highly developed course offered students today. Taught by this splendid individual plan, it is our most attractive and popular course. Students of this course usually have their choice of several good positions upon graduating. We have more calls for our graduates than we can begin to meet.

You may begin on any school day in the year and complete the course without interruption. It will pay you to start at once.

DID YOU KNOW—

That Southwestern University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance for the past seven years has offered the most comprehensive and thorough course in general and advanced accounting on this coast?
That there are FOUR certified public accountants here actually teaching our courses in exclusive, intensive CLASS DRILL?
That advanced students may enter those classes for which they are qualified?
That BEGINNERS may enroll here as well as advanced students?
That we prepare you fully for the State C. P. A. examination?
That eight of our students recently passed these examinations?
That we have more calls for positions than we can fill?
That a request from you will bring you our current catalog and bulletin, which tell all about our courses in detail, terms, students' club room, etc., etc.

A BIG SCHOOL FOR LITTLE BOYS

A Faculty of Boy Specialists

Page has been fortunate in bringing together on its permanent staff men of unusual originality, knowledge of boys and creative ability. They have been able to blend the best things from various schemes of boys' training and to add to them some original features that are strictly of PAGE origin. The success of their efforts has been indicated by the phenomenal growth of Page Military Academy to its present rightfully-earned title of the largest school of its kind in America—a Big School for Little Boys.

What Page Training Means

It means for a boy health, stamina, mental alertness and a wonderfully good time. The school has been designed and is managed by men who are leaders in youths' education—because they can make vitally interesting to boys the things that count in life.

WOULD GET MEN OUT OF SIBERIA.

Los Angeles Woman Presents Petition in Washington.

Represents Mothers of Southern California Cities.

Baker Give no Promise for Return of Troops

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Mrs. W. H. Thomas of Los Angeles has arrived in Washington with a petition containing the signatures of 25,000 residents of Los Angeles demanding the immediate return of all emergency soldiers from Siberia. Mrs. Thomas intended to present this petition to the President but due to his absence her plan was changed and Congressman Osborne accompanied her to the Secretary of War. She gave Secretary Baker the petition and strongly urged immediate action to release all the selective service soldiers before winter. Her son is stationed at Lake Baikal, 2200 miles west of Vladivostok, and she spoke with a mother's devotion in representing the mothers of thousands of other boys.

Secretary Baker declined firmly to set any date for the completion of the return of the emergency troops from Siberia but he said that 2000 men had been sent and 1200 men are now being prepared to go at once to Siberia to relieve the 6500 emergency men with the American army there. Enlistments for Siberia, the Secretary said, are being made rapidly and he hoped to have the replacement completed and all the emergency men out this winter but in the nature of things could not fix an exact date.

Unless Los Angeles and the business men of the Southwest place pressure on the War Department to maintain a quartermaster's office in Los Angeles for the buying of supplies of food products it will be removed in the very near future and only the most strenuous effort will hold what the city and the Southwest has gained by reason of the war.

MAY LOSE QUARTERMASTER.

Congressman Osborne yesterday conferred with Quartermaster-General Rogers and with Col. Davis, the officer who recently visited Los Angeles and recommended that the quartermaster's office there be abolished. Gen. Rogers admitted that large supplies for the army in the Philippines and in Siberia were secured in Los Angeles and that he was aware that Los Angeles was the business center for the southwest but said that in relation to purchases made in the Southwest the administrative cost of the Los Angeles office was too great and that it would have to be abandoned. He said the War Department would give consideration to Mr. Osborne's demand that the station be maintained in Los Angeles but gave little indication that the final decision would be favorable.

CALIFORNIA PENSIONS.

California pensions follow: Helpless child of Peter H. Jones, Los Angeles, $12; Phoebe Jane Morton, Henrietta E. Wattles, San Diego, $25; Anna Yates, Santa Barbara, $25; Amelia M. Watts, Glendale, $25; Bettie Heard, Orange, $25; Ella C. Carter, Pasadena, $25.

FRENCH TROOPS WILL BE SENT TO BULGARIA.

HEAD OF MISSION, ACCEPTING PEACE TREATY, ADMITS AGGRESSIONS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 20.—French military units will be sent to Bulgaria to supervise the execution of the provisions of the treaty with that country, according to the Echo de Paris.

Admission that Bulgaria's administration of occupied territory had not been unmarked by cases of ill-treatment of the population was made by Gen. Theodoroff, head of the Bulgarian mission, in his speech in receiving the peace terms from the Peace Conference yesterday.

"We acknowledge that excesses have been committed in certain occupied regions," Gen. Theodoroff said. "We have pledged ourselves to punish mercilessly the authors of these excesses. And many prosecutions have been begun."

He denied that Bulgaria desired to extend her limits beyond those she was entitled to on historical and ethnological grounds, declaring Bulgaria would bow without complaint before the results of plebiscites.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—With the delivery today of the peace treaty to the Bulgarians, who have twenty-five days to consider it, the Peace Conference has little remaining business before it which can be taken up immediately and will now possibly take a vacation for a fortnight pending the establishment of some government at Budapest to which the Hungarian treaty can be delivered.

STARTS BIG VINEYARD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Sept. 20.—Announcement has been made by Seeley W. Mudd, owner of the Tamarack ranch, several miles northeast of this city, that he will plant 500 acres of grapes this year. This will be the largest individual acreage in the valley. Half will be Malagas and half Thompson's seedless.

"I would hate to think I knew a person who could admit he didn't like 'Broken Blossoms,'" says the critic on Chi. American. Clune's Auditorium.—[Advertisement.

First Express Flyers Reach Imperial Valley Town.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Sept. 20.—Establishment of the first commercial airplane service in the Imperial Valley was announced today with the arrival of an airplane from Riverside carrying express packages from Riverside, in charge of Lieut. T. O. Paine and Kim Johnson. Two planes will operate between the valley and Riverside and within ninety days the owners promise that eight planes will be in the service.

The arrival of the plane was made the occasion of a celebration in this city, a large crowd turning out to congratulate the aviators. Moving pictures were taken of the event.

The service will also operate between Imperial Valley cities and between the valley and San Diego.

WOMEN, HERE IS A MONEY SAVER

Save five to ten dollars quickly by dry-cleaning everything in the home just as easy as laundering. You can dry-clean suits, coats, waists, silks, laces, gloves, shoes, furs, draperies, rugs, men's clothes—everything that would be ruined by soap and water.

Place a gallon or more of gasoline in a dishpan or wash boiler then put in the things to be cleaned and wash them with Solvite soap. Shortly everything comes out looking like new.

Nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles. No pressing needed. Do not attempt to dry clean without Solvite soap. This gasoline soap is the secret of all dry cleaning.

A package of Solvite soap containing directions for home dry cleaning costs but a few cents at any drug, grocery or department store. Dry clean away from flame or out of doors.—[Advertisement.

Put Your Home On An Efficiency Basis

Really now, isn't it rather "penny-wise and pound-foolish" to wear yourself out with household drudgery—to risk your precious gifts of Youth, Health and Beauty when you might so easily, pleasantly and thriftily insure them by bringing your housekeeping equipment down to date.

Barker Bros.' have such a great variety of the very latest Household Appliances to choose from, that there is no need to deny yourself the comfort these wonderfully efficient homehelpers will give you. At least, you should have some of them right NOW and add the others as soon as possible, for the cost is little considering all they will accomplish.

You are sure to be interested in our NEW WHITE GOODS DEPARTMENT, which has just been opened—just look over the splendid offerings listed below. And don't overlook that beautiful Amoy English Porcelain set—a new arrival and very handsome, featured by our Chinaware Department.

The Aristocrat of the Gas Range Family

A-B Gas Ranges

The two most important things to consider when purchasing a gas range are the baking qualities and gas consumption. A-B Gas Ranges are famous bakers and most economical in the use of gas. But that's not all—here are some of the very special features that have helped to make A-B Gas Ranges so dependable and desirable: White porcelain lined canopies, splashers, burner trays and pans, Electric oven-lights, rust-proof oven linings, glass doors, handsome nickel trimmings, and fine enamel finish—a superior range in every particular; easy to keep clean, beautiful in appearance and of highest quality in material and construction. All sizes, from the inexpensive 3-burner style to the handsome all-white range.

We are exclusive agents for the A-B, Vulcan and Chambers Fireless Gas Ranges. Your old range accepted as part payment on any new range in our stock.

You will soon need a heater of some kind—we carry a splendid assortment, including Air-Tight, Copper Reflector, Vulcan Cone, Victor Vapor and Perfection Oil.

Who Does Your Washing?

If Men Had to Do the Washing

How long do you suppose they would put up with the old Tub-Scrub way that puts kinks in the back and takes the joy out of life? Just one day at the wash tub would convince most any man that the cost of an Electric Washing Machine is a trifling matter compared to the heart-breaking toil of old wash-day methods.

Every housewife who does her own washing should plan to have an Electric, Washing and Wringing Machine and throw off the wearisome burden that has been a bugbear in her life.

Any day most convenient to you, we will gladly demonstrate in your home, and without obligation, what a pleasure it is to do your washing with a machine. You may buy the type of Washing Machine that pleases you best on terms to suit.

Ohio-Tuec Cleans Without Beating and Pounding

Carpets and Rugs are worn threadbare by wrong and abusive cleaning methods rather than by footfalls. Their fabric is not woven to withstand the strain of violent beating and pounding.

No amount of destructive beating, pounding and sweeping will remove the dust so thoroughly as does the harmless, powerful suction of the OHIO-TUEC Electric Vacuum Cleaner, while its slow-speed brush picks up all lint, hair and litter.

And remember this: The oftener a rug is scientifically cleaned, the longer it will wear and the more sanitary will be your home.

We wouldn't indorse so strongly the OHIO-TUEC Electric Cleaner if we did not KNOW what it will do. When you buy an OHIO-TUEC at Barker Bros.' you get a DOUBLE GUARANTEE with it—the makers guarantee it and we guarantee it also, and for one year will keep it in repair for you free of all charges. Fireless Cooker Week at Barker Bros.

The Duplex Fireless Stove

cooks the entire meal, giving the food a better flavor and making it more wholesome and healthful. It relieves the cook from watching and worrying for fear the food will be overcooked or burned. When a 5-pound roast is cooked in a Duplex Fireless Stove, it retains its original size and does not lose in weight, substance or flavor. Food cooked in a Duplex is more appetising in appearance—more delicious in flavor than if you had spent hours in preparing it over a hot stove in a hot kitchen. BELGIUM MAKES QUICK RECOVERY

Pasadena Scientist Says Land is One Big Garden.

Engineers Visit Observatory at Mt. Wilson.

Blame Firebug for Fre at San Rafael Rancho.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Sept. 20.—"Conditions are better in Belgium than either England or France," said Prof. Frederick H. Seares, astronomer of Mt. Wilson Solar Observatory, who has just returned from the world conference of scientists in Brussels.

"It is remarkable how well Belgium has got on her feet," said the scientist. "The devastated aera in Belgium was very small and the only physical damage to the country otherwise was the stripping of industrial plants by the Germans. Now this stolen machinery is being returned from Germany at the rate of 3000 tons a week. Food is plentiful and crops good. The country was one great garden when I was there. There was much less discontent than in France or England, where the people are tired out and fretful from the long strain of the war. Thoughtful people believe that when this reaction passes away, social and economic problems will be satisfactorily worked out."

There were three representatives of Mt. Wilson Observatory at the conference in Brussels. Dr. Walter Adams, assistant director of the observatory, and C. E. St. John, preceded Prof. Seares home.

AIR CRAFT IN TROUBLE.

Two airmen sudenly volplaned to earth in Altadena this afternoon when the engine of their plane failed them in midair. They came down 2000 feet very sudenly. The occupants of the plane were William C. De Lapp, Jr., and J. A. Barrett, aviators for a private company. They were unhurt. Their machine was quite badly damaged as the ground where they ligated was very rough.

This accident occurred not far from where an army plane from March Field developed trouble yesterday and was smashed in the quick drop.

ENGINEERS ARE VISITORS.

Members of the Pacific branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers who have been holding their convention in Los Angeles came to Pasadena today, lunched at the Hotel [illegible]yland and this afternoon went up Mt. Wilson to visit the Mt. Wilson Solar Observatory. Dr. George Ellery Hale, director of the observatory, gave an addres sto the delegates on "Solar-Electric Phenomena."

An incendiary is believed to have started the fire on the San Rafael rancho at San Rafael avenue and Laguna road early this morning, causing a loss of $3000. The ranch barn, filled with hay, was destroyed. The barn was built by the late A. C. Campbell-Johnson, who, with his wife, when down on the Lusitania.

LOSES HIS WARDROBE.

While Kirk White, 339 Fillmore street, was absent from home today a burglar entered his residence and stole all his clothes, not overlooking his extra shoe laces and his evening suit. He evidently could not find the shirt studs for they were not taken.

GO TO FIGHT FIRES.

Forest Ranger Virgil DeLapp today recruited fifty men in Pasadena to join the crews fighting the forest fires in the big Tejunga Canyon.

LAND DEAL INVOLVES A PRINCELY FORTUNE.

MERRITT ESTATE IN TULARE COUNTY IS SOLD FOR $1,500,000.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Sept. 20.—H. C. Merritt of Pasadena has transferred his Tulare county land holdings, situated north of here and totalling 6420 acres, to Messrs. Morris and Trexler of San Fernando. Consideration for the property, all of which is highly improved, is said to have approximated $1,500,000. By the terms of the agreement, which was handled by John De Bruynkop of New York, Morris and Trexler will operate the land under lease for a period at the end of which title is to pass.

The new owners, according to their statement, will continue to intensively cultivate the entire tract to diversified crops, with possibly a greater attention to cotton culture, experiments with which have been very successful.

Offices of the Pacific States Corporation, under which title the property was formerly conducted and which have been in charge of H. C. Merritt, Jr., here, have been closed.

ARREST DRUG ADDICT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Sept. 20.—J. L. Carter, of whose antecedents little is known here, leaned from a Main street rooming-house window late at night as Nightwatchmen Powell was passing and asked the officer into his room. Carter, according to the officer, was found strongly under the influence of narcotics and was placed under arrest. A number of parcels of morphine were found in the course of a search of his apartments. Carter is being held on charges of violating the State drug act.

WHOLE FAMILY SCHOLARS NOW.

Santa Monica High Offers Instruction in Many of the Useful Arts.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 20.—This year, in Santa Monica, Jack and Jill go to school until 3 o'clock. As soon as they get home, mother attends classes until 5:30 and then father goes to school until 10 at night.

Santa Monica High School is offering continuation classes in the afternoon in cookery, sewing, millinery and automobile. Thus far the classes in these household arts are full and there are twenty-five women enrolled in the automobile class. These courses also are offered in the evening, but a number of women find it more convenient to come in the afternoon.

And in the evening father can learn everything from French and citizenship to art and mechanics.

DIES FROM INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

LOS ANGELES MAN KILDED IN MACHINE SMASH NEAR ONTARIO.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 20.—That Suga Safady, aged thirty-five, who died a few minutes after the motor car in which he was riding with Samuel Schafer ,turned turtle near Collins Station on Ontario boulevard, three miles east of here, early today, came to his death accidentally, was the verdict of the coroner's jury tonight, following an inquest at Draper's morgue before Coroner J. B. Hanna.

Safady was the son of John Safady, wholesale and retail importer, of 328 West Seventh street, Los Angeles. Schafer was driving and the car turned over when, in passing a car driven by F. C. Brainard of Riverside at a high rate of speed, one of the front wheels got off the concrete paving into the sand at the side. Schafer sustained a badly broken jaw and lacerated face. Mrs. Schafer was notified and came here by automobile. Schafer was first taken to a local hospital, but later removed by ambulance to his home, Tenth and Figueroa streets, Los Angeles.

Summer rates now at "Hotel del Coronado" Office, 517 Spring.—[Advertisement.

YOUNG OFFICER TAKES NEW JOB.

Long Beach Boy Appointed as Vice-Consul.

Accident at Shipyard may Have Fatal Termination.

Automobile Victim was Los Angeles Visitor.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 20.—Lieut. William N. Reagan, former Long Beach High School and Stanford University student and one of the first Long Beach boys to enlist in the service when war was declared by this country, is expected home from France next week, according to word received today by the officer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reagan, of 735 Orange avenue. The youth's father is the Los Angeles county flood control engineer.

After a brief furlough, Reagan will return to Europe, where he has accepted the assignment of American Vice-Consul at Prague, Czecho-Slovakia.

The young diplomat graduated from Long Beach High School with the class of 1914. Both in High School and college he distinguished himself as a baseball athlete.

FALLS FROM SCAFFOLD.

Slipping from a scaffold and falling to the dock, twenty feet below, Ralph Woodruff, 40 years old, sustained injuries at a harbor shipyard today that may prove fatal. The workman received internal injuries and possibly a broken back. At the Seaside Hospital this afternoon physicians announced that the condition of the accident victim was critical.

LIVES AT LONG BEACH.

Lynn Reid, 19 years old, who received a basal fracture of the skull in an automobile accident in Los Angeles yesterday, is a graduate of the local High School and is the son of Rev. and Mrs. M. D. Reid, of 1085 East State street. The youth had contemplated entering Pomona College this fall.

New Way to Curl Hair Fine for Outdoor Girl

The silmerine method of curling the hair is the proper thing before going motoring, boating or golfing, or indulging in any outdoor sport or exercise. This will not only give the hair the most beautiful wavy and curly appearance imaginable, but wind or heat will not take the curl out. The curliness is quickly acquired and lasts much longer than where the waving tongs are used. Besides, the hair will be bright and lustrous, instead of dull and dead looking. When combed out it will be as nice and fluffy as if it had just been shampooed.

Just get a bottle of liquid silmerine at any drug store, follow the accompanying directions, and you will be simply delighted with the result. This product is of course, perfectly harmless and there is nothing sticky, greasy or unpleasant about it.—[Advertisement.

Skilled workers are clad and gloved in spotless white. Wide window area allows a constant inflow of nature's purifiers—sunshine and fresh air.

The absolute uniformity of Calumet is guaranteed by maintenance of our modern laboratories and kitchens. Analytical chemists test Calumet for purity and leavening strength. Expert chefs test it for baking quality.

It is utterly impossible for you, at any time to obtain a can of Calumet that is not strictly up to the Calumet standard of "Best by Test."

Its superior quality meets every baking requirement. It insures greatest baking savings and guarantees better baking results. In any baking—you are always assured tasty, tender, evenly raised goodies that are thoroughly wholesome.

Calumet is sold at a moderate price. It possesses twice the usual leavening strength. You use only half the ordinary amount. You save when you buy it. You save when you use it. You save materials it is used with. The most economical Baking Powder to use when you want to practice real economy.

Try it. Stop taking chances. Stop paying exorbitant baking powder costs. Stop wasting good energy and good money on inferior and always uncertain brands. Make a "best by test" Calumet trial today. Your grocer will refund purchase price if you are not better satisfied with Calumet than you ever were with any other brand.

Don't Overlook This!

When you buy a pound can of Calumet you get a full pound—16 ounces—no short weights. Some baking powders are now being put on the market in 12 ounce cans instead of pound cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it. Remember—Calumet is not made by the Trust—not sold at Trust prices.

CLUB TO OPEN SOON.

Playground Head Answers Critics on Turner Hall Work.

C. B. Raitt, superintendent of the municipal playgrounds, states that the men's municipal club, in the old Turner Hall, will be ready for the formal opening on the first of next month. He states that the delay in opening this institution has been because of difficulties in getting tenants to move, and in securing labor and materials for the changes that have been in progress.

Criticism of the Playground Commission for the long delay in getting this place opened to the public is made by the Municipal League in a letter sent to the commission yesterday. The league calls attention to the fact that the city has been paying a rental of $550 per month for the Turner Hall property, and that the appropriation for the changes required to convert it into a men's club was made last April.

THE WEATHER.
[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Sept. 20.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Meteorologist.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.77; at 5 p.m., 29.76. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 62 deg. and 67 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 92 per cent.; 5 p.m., 70 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., southwest, velocity 3 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 8 miles. Highest temperature, 73 deg.; lowest, 61 deg. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The low pressure area east of the Rocky Mountains is central in Southern Manitoba this morning, and extends southward almost to the Gulf. It is somewhat more pronounced than it was Friday morning, but the rains attending it have been light and scattered. The temperatures have risen over the Mississippi Valley and eastward, except along the South Atlantic coast, where they have remained about stationary under a moderate high area. Practically the same pressure conditions prevail over the Pacific Slope as yesterday. It is still warm in Northern California, except along the coast, where there has been a decided change to cooler.

ORCHARD REPORTS.—Minimum and maximum temperatures from the orchards, reported yesterday to the Los Angeles office of the U. S. Weather Bureau, were as follows:

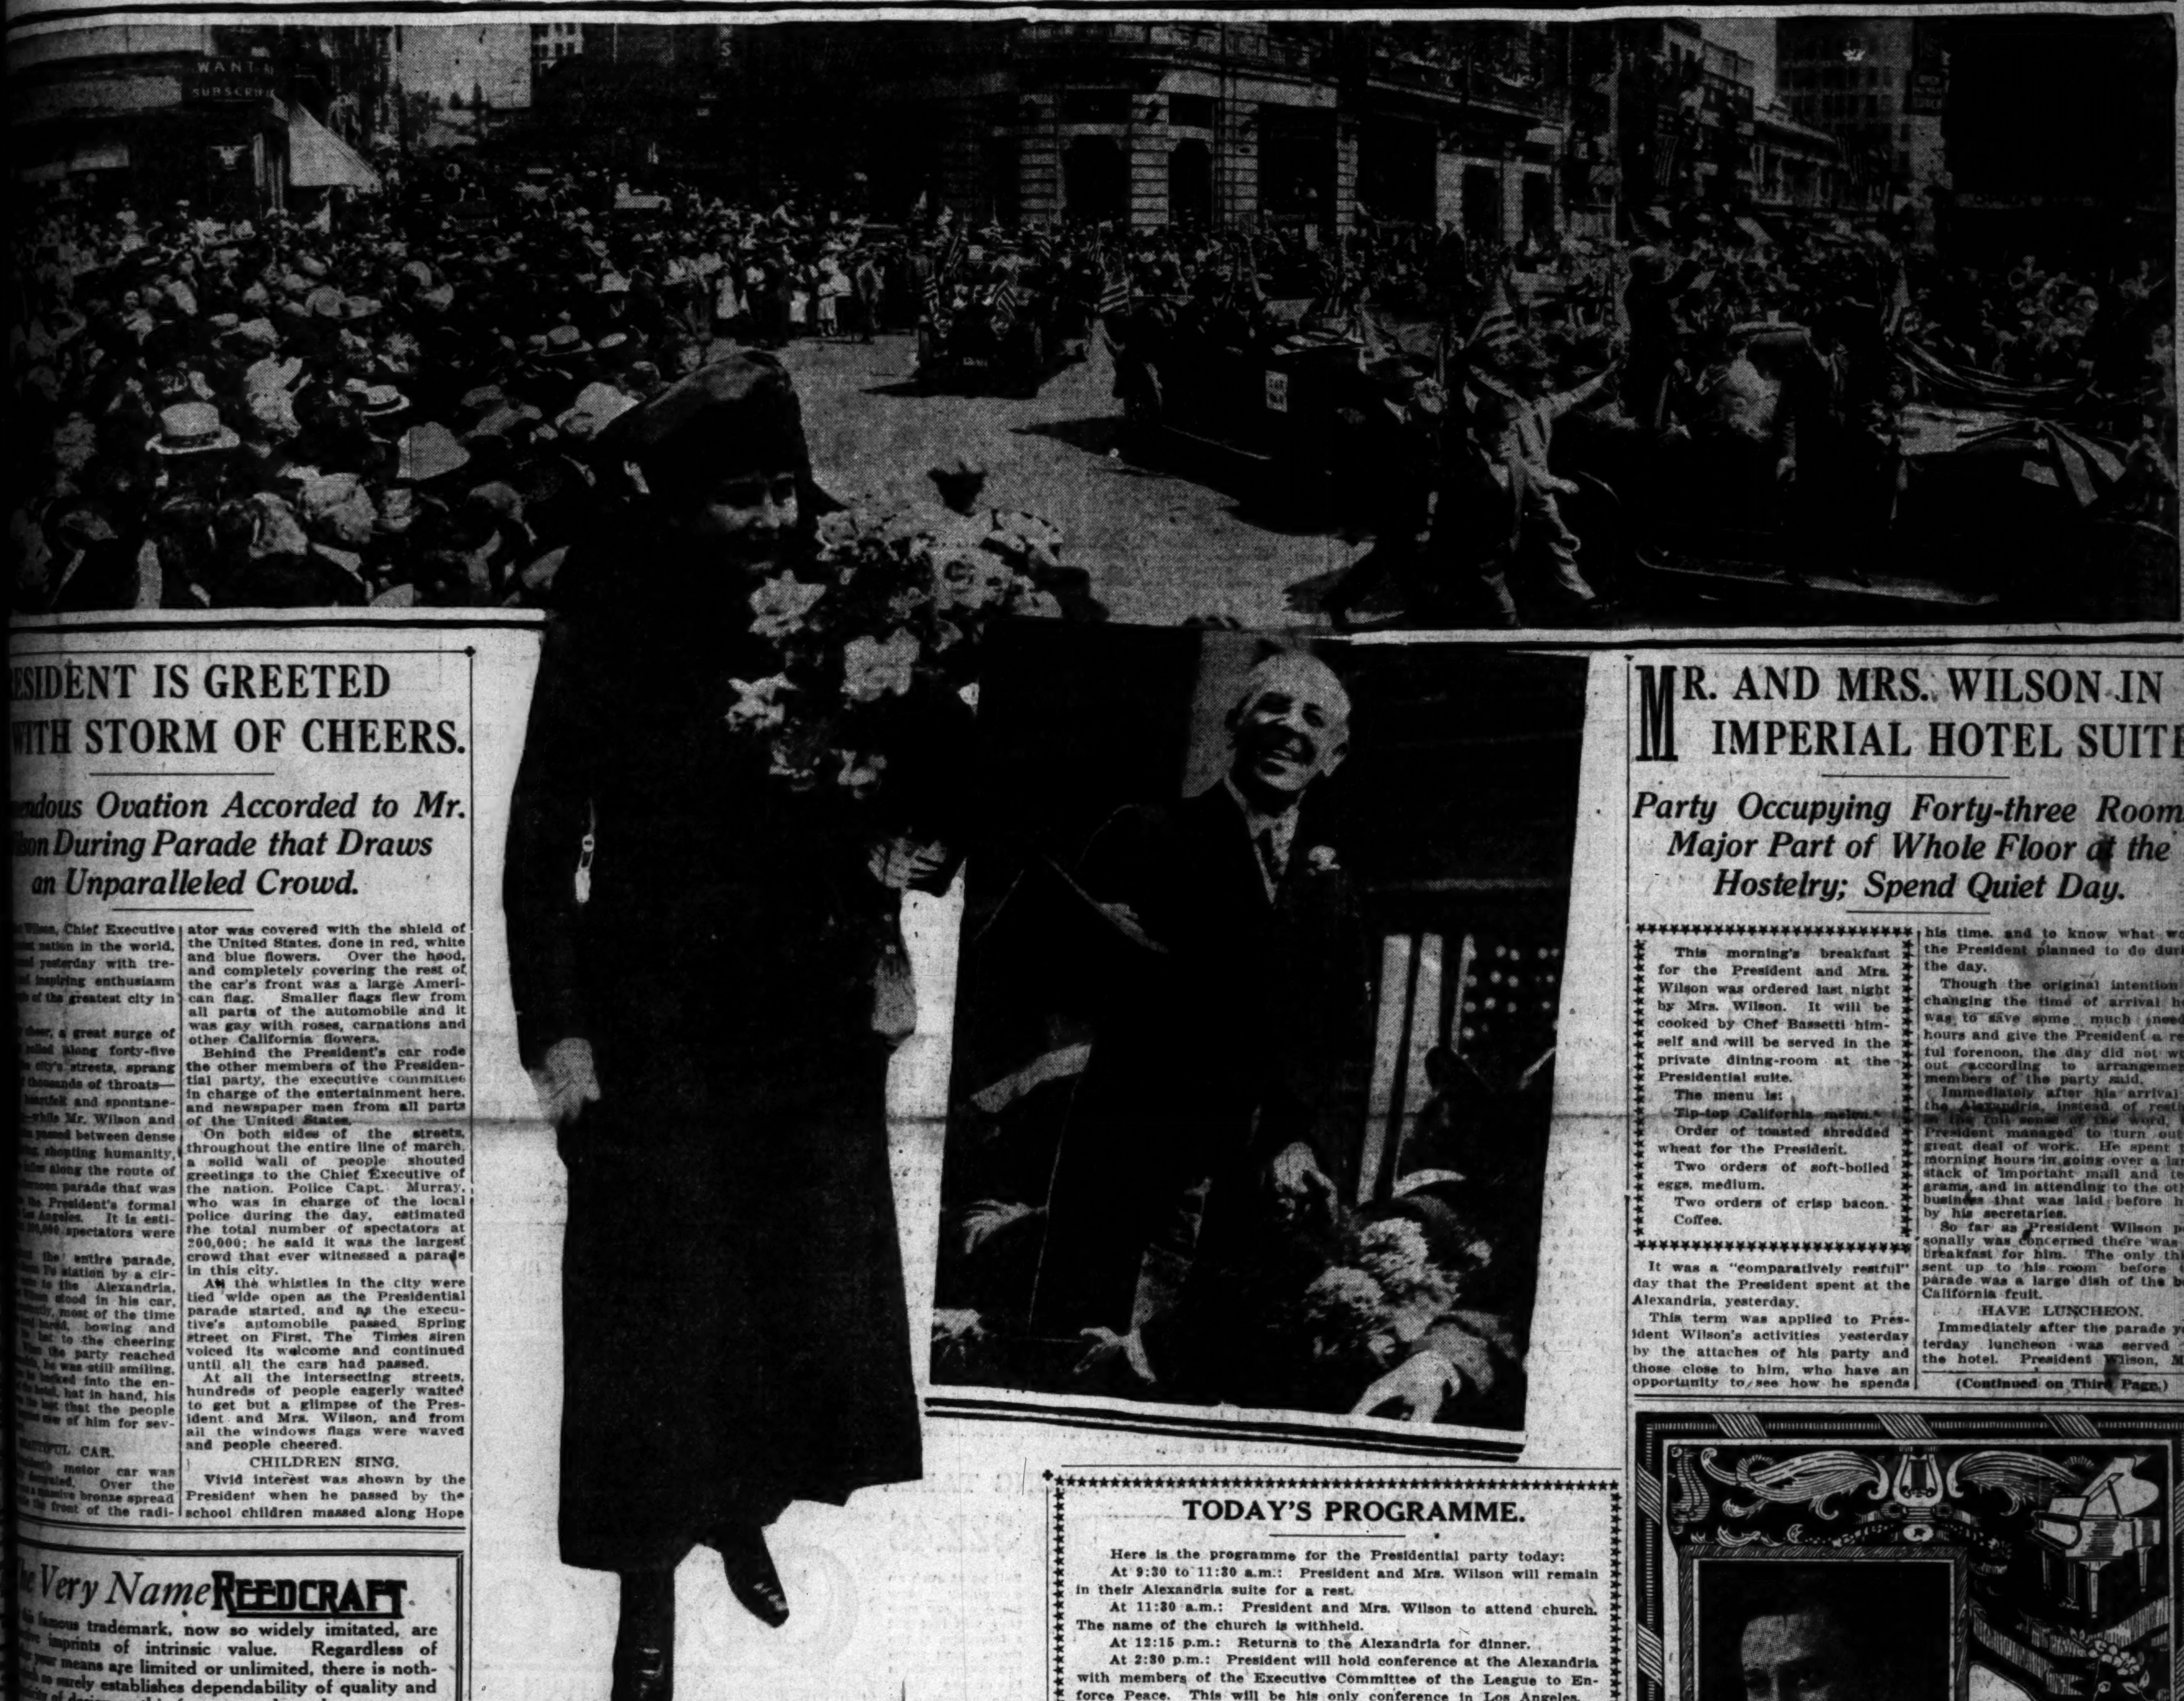
OS ANGELES’ BIGGEST CROWD GREETS THE NATION’S CHIEF EXECUTIVE.



President and Mrs. Wilson and a Parade Glimpse.

The Chief Executive was snapped as he responded to the crowd's cheers. Mrs. Wilson was photographed as she alighted from the Presidential special at the Santa Fe station. The parade picture shows the car bearing the nation's chief just after it had rounded the corner at The Times Building.

motor car was decorated. Over the a massive bronze spread the front of the radiator was covered with the shield of the United States, done in red, white and blue flowers. Over the hood, and completely covering the rest of the car's front was a large American flag. Smaller flags flew from all parts of the automobile and it was gay with roses, carnations and other California flowers.

Behind the President's car rode the other members of the Presidential party, the executive committee in charge of the entertainment here, and newspaper men from all parts of the United States.

On both sides of the streets, throughout the entire line of march, a solid wall of people shouted greetings to the Chief Executive of the nation. Police Capt. Murray, who was in charge of the local police during the day, estimated the total number of spectators at 200,000; he said it was the largest crowd that ever witnessed a parade in this city.

All the whistles in the city were tied wide open as the Presidential parade started, and as the executive's automobile passed Spring street on First, The Times siren voiced its welcome and continued until all the cars had passed.

At all the intersecting streets, hundreds of people eagerly waited to get but a glimpse of the President and Mrs. Wilson, and from all the windows flags were waved and people cheered.

CHILDREN SING.

Vivid interest was shown by the President when he passed by the school children massed along Hope and Twelfth streets. As the automobile turned into Hope street from Seventh, thousands of young voices started singing "America," and the Chief Executive and Mrs. Wilson bowed again and again to the long lines of eager, youthful faces.

Chief of Police Home and United States Marshal Walton led the parade, and behind them came a detachment of mounted patrolmen under command of Sergt. Higgenbau, which was followed by the Liberty Club Band, composed entirely of former service men, then a detachment of the Regular Army—two companies of Coast Artillery and two of the Balloon Corps. Behind this escort rode the President and Mrs. Wilson and Mayor and Mrs. Snyder.

The Presidential special arrived in Los Angeles at 9 a.m. and was pulled into the Santa Fe depot, where thousands of Angelenos, business men, young boys, women and girls, had gathered to greet him, notwithstanding the announcement that there would be no public welcoming at the depot. But because of the early hour Mr. Wilson was not disturbed and the train backed away on a siding until 10:10.

THE FIRST CHEER.

Regardless of the hour or more of waiting no one left the station and when the special again drew up in front of the depot, a great cheer greeted the President and his secretary, standing on the rear platform.

As soon as the train stopped, Mayor and Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. W. A. Edwards and other members of the Reception Committee were introduced to the President and in turn presented to Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. Edwards presented a large bouquet of Los Angeles roses to Mrs. Wilson in the name of the city.

Mrs. Wilson was the first of the official party to set foot in Los Angeles. Accompanied by Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Snyder, she walked

TRAILING THE PRESIDENT.

Immediately following President Wilson's arrival at the Alexandria, a cordon of secret service men and detectives from Central Police Station was thrown around the hotel to prevent any disturbance that might arise during the Chief Executive's presence there.

At every entrance to the Alexandria surged large crowds of curious spectators who endeavored to get a glimpse of the President in the hotel lobby. These people were forbidden to enter the hotel as the management of the Alexandria had previously presented all the guests with cards identifying them as guests.

A detail of uniformed police officers and secret service men were stationed at the hotel entrances and forbade any person to enter the hotel lobby without the identification card. At times the crowds swayed to and fro with such force that the barrier of police was almost broken and only considerable rough handling forced them back into the streets. Any person found within the hotel without the proper authority for being there was hurriedly ejected.

The absence of the professional lobbyists and lounge-lizards that are wont to loiter in the Alexandria lobby throughout the day was quite noticeable.

MR. AND MRS. WILSON IN IMPERIAL HOTEL SUITE.

Party Occupying Forty-three Rooms, Major Part of Whole Floor at the Hostelry; Spend Quiet Day.

This morning's breakfast for the President and Mrs. Wilson was ordered last night by Mrs. Wilson. It will be cooked by Chef Bassetti himself and will be served in the private dining-room at the Presidential suite.

The menu is:

Tip-top California melon.

Order of toasted shredded wheat for the President.

Two orders of soft-boiled eggs, medium.

Two orders of crisp bacon.

Coffee.

It was a "comparatively restful" day that the President spent at the Alexandria, yesterday.

This term was applied to President Wilson's activities yesterday by the attaches of his party and those close to him, who have an opportunity to see how he spends his time, and to know what work the President planned to do during the day.

Though the original intention in changing the time of arrival here was to save some much needed hours and give the President a restful forenoon, the day did not work out according to arrangements, members of the party said.

Immediately after his arrival at the Alexandria, instead of resting in the full sense of the word, the President managed to turn out a great deal of work. He spent the morning hours in going over a large stack of important mail and telegrams, and in attending to the other business that was laid before him by his secretaries.

So far as President Wilson personally was concerned there was no breakfast for him. The only thing sent up to his room before the parade was a large dish of the best California fruit.

HAVE LUNCHEON.

Immediately after the parade yesterday luncheon was served at the hotel. President Wilson, Mrs.

TODAY'S PROGRAMME.

Here is the programme for the Presidential party today:

At 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.: President and Mrs. Wilson will remain in their Alexandria suite for a rest.

At 11:30 a.m.: President and Mrs. Wilson to attend church. The name of the church is withheld.

At 12:15 p.m.: Returns to the Alexandria for dinner.

At 2:30 p.m.: President will hold conference at the Alexandria with members of the Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace. This will be his only conference in Los Angeles.

At 3:30 to 7:00 p.m.: President and Mrs. Wilson will remain in their Alexandria suite.

At 7:00 p.m.: Presidential party leaves Alexandria for depot.

At 7:30 p.m.: Presidential train scheduled to depart for East.

TERRORIST FRUSTRATED?

Electrical apparatus, consisting of a series of batteries, discovered by a maid of the Nadeau Hotel, in a room facing on First street, near Spring, led to fears because of which a special detail of officers was stationed there yesterday for protection of the President as he passed.

It was learned that for a week past a special detail of police officers, named by Chief of Police Home, had inspected all buildings along the line of the parade, so that no one could arrange to toss a bomb or commit any overt act of violence during the parade.

The unusual actions of a man who rented a room at the Nadeau Thursday aroused the suspicions of a maid, especially when he informed her Friday that his room did not need cleaning. She reported the man's actions to the police, who examined the room and found the electrical apparatus, which, it is thought, might have been used in charging or making a bomb.

The affair was reported to Chief Deputy District Attoney Doran, who detailed Special Investigator Contraris to inquire into the affair. But it was discovered that when the guest learned his room had been visited, he departed. Investigator Contraris, Police Sergeant Gifford and a squad of officers maintained a special watch at First and Spring streets as the President rode past.

JAPANESE RUSH IN CROPS.

The investigation by the Federal grand jury of the reported acts of the Japanese and other growers, in ploughing up fields of tomatoes, rather than place them on the market with the further intent to regulate the supply of the vegetable in the local markets, is having one salutary effect, according to the statements of special agents of the Department of Justice, who have had the inquiry in hand.

They report that the growers, and especially the Japanese, are working day and night gathering the tomato crop, and hurrying it to market, with the result that there is a decided slump in tomato prices in the local markets. As this is just what is sought by the inquiry, it is unnecessary to state that the situation is eminently satisfactory from a government point of view. It is understood that the jury inquiry will end next Thursday.

If the growers remove the cause of possible prosecution in supplying the markets with tomatoes by marketing their crops as they ripen, which they seem to be doing, it would not seem that any reason remained for proceedings against them. Officials say that while there are many ways of accomplishing things, often the furthest way around is the nearest way to the point sought to be accomplished.

CLOTHES CAUSE QUARREL.

Because she spent money for clothing for herself and the baby, Joseph B. McDonald quarreled with his wife, Bertha K. McDonald, she told Judge Crail yesterday. She said he left her and wrote her only one letter. She sued for divorce and was granted adecree.

STORIED LAND BRIDGED.

Viaduct Spans Arroyo Hondo, Where Don Cabrillo and Pirates Adventured.

The $150,000 bridge or viaduct across Arroyo Hondo on the State highway, about twenty-five miles north of Santa Barbara, has been completed and opened to traffic. The viaduct saves a long detour down the arroyo and eliminates two steep grades. The highway between Los Angeles and San Francisco now crosses the arroyo in a direct line from bluff to bluff, 179 feet above the bed of the creek.

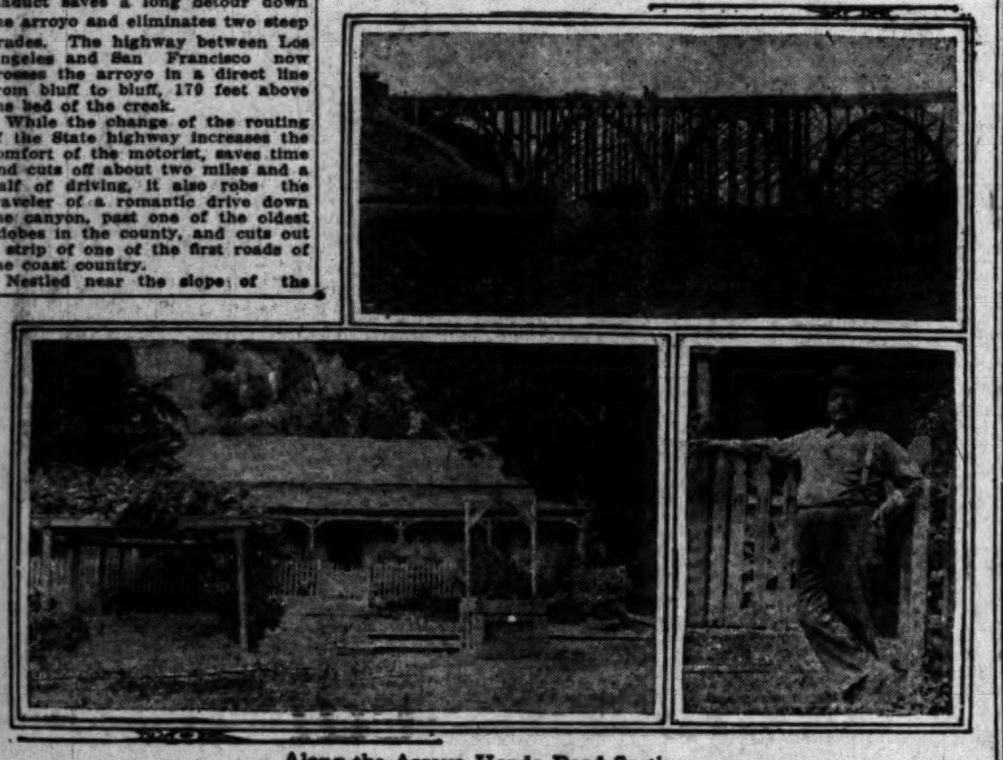
While the change of the routing of the State highway increases the comfort of the motorist, saves time and cuts off about two miles and a half of driving, it also robs the traveler of a romantic drive down the canyon, past one of the oldest adobes in the county, and cuts out a strip of one of the first roads of the coast country.

Nestled near the slope of the mountains, inside the horseshoe curve formed by the old highway, the adobe of the Ortegas has been a picturesque sight for 122 years. The musical stream still trickles across the old dirt road by the hacienda, near the ancient oaks, which invite with their friendly shade. From the road and the ancient house one looks south through the deep arroyo to the sea, where fleecy combers play on the broad beach. Far away across a sparkling expanse of waters the Channel Islands are glimpsed. On some days they seem far off, half lost in a purple haze; on others, as by enchantment, brought within a stone's throw of the old adobe.

Capt. Jose Maria Ortega, commandante of a company of cavalry at Loreto, Baja California, founded the Santa Barbara branch of the family. In 1790 Jose Maria Ortega, second son, sailed to the mouth of Arroyo Hondo. The level beach and romantic canyon captivated him. He steered his vessel to shore, disembarked and established himself on what is now known as the Refugio Rancho.

Within a few years he had thousands of head of cattle, horses and sheep roving the vast foraging country. His Indians built the adobe which still stands in a splendid state of preservation, and is occupied by Horjata Ortega, a decendent, as the Ortega family still owns the old rancho.

Just 129 years ago Senor Ortega turned the prow of his ship toward the beach at Arroyo Hondo. Cabrillo, the great Portuguese explorer, had preceded him by 248 years, yet at the time Ortega arrived, there still existed among the natives many interesting legends of the intrepid Portuguese adventurer. He had come among them as a strange warrior, his jewelled sword carrying awe. He had spent six months in their villages and exploring the hills for gold. Among the very aged Indians there still lingers a story that the brave Cabrillo was not buried on San Miguel Island at all, as history recounts, but died in Arroyo Hondo and by night the body was taken along the coast and buried deep in the great mud beds of what is now known as the Goleta slough. Immense rocks were cemented with pitch, which abounds in the region; the body of the adventurer was placed in this rock sepulchre, they say, and sunk below the surface, where it is believed to rest intact to this day, the glittering sword beside the remains. It is declared that the mud, asphaltum and rock must have preserved the remains through these hundreds of years.



Along the Arroyo Hondo Road Section.

Above is a view of the new canyon bridge on the State highway. Below is Horjata Ortega and a view of the Refugio hacienda, which has been occupied by his family since 1790.

ROMANTIC SPOT.

The motorist as he bowls across the high viaduct spanning the arroyo may conjure up many a thrilling picture of Cabrillo and of the mysterious French pirate Bouchard, who in 1818 threw the entire Coast into terror, firing on Monterey, looting missions, and finally, laden with treasure, sailing into Arroyo Hondo Bay and taking possession of the Ortega Rancho. An old well now marks the location of the sweet water spring which brought many a traveler to the arroyo, and whose waters lured Cabrillo to linger on month after month.

The pirates with Bouchard held high carnival in the arroyo for days, until surprised by Spanish soldiery from Santa Barbara. Several of the pirate crew were captured. He was taken to Los Angeles by Corp. Antonio Maria Lugo, who stood as his surety. He worked with Lugo in building the old mission at Los Angeles, and one day he accompanied Lugo back to the Ortega rancho, on matrimony bent.

In those days the elders did the courting. The only right of the fair one was to say either "yes" or "no." Senorita Guadalupe Ortega, famed as one of the most beautiful Castilian girls on the Coast, said "yes" to Jose Chapman, and so Arroyo Hondo witnessed one of the most brilliant marriage spectacles ever seen in California.

When, in 1822, the country was opened to American adventurers, gold seekers and marines by the signing of the independence of Mexico, they found Jose Chapman, once buccaneer, at the San Gabriel Mission, fair-haired children playing around him, and he the carpenter, millwright and general factotum of good old Father Sanchez. He died in 1842.

It is proposed to erect a public resting place and memorial hall near the end of the great Arroyo Hondo bridge, where will be inscribed some of the historic incidents connected with the romantic arroyo, incidents dating from the days of Cabrillo, and the region promises to become one of the most famous stopping places for automobile parties on the Coast.

WOMEN IN Y.M.C.A.'S ACCOUNTANCY CLASS.

Accountancy for women will be a feature of the Y.M.C.A. educational work for 1919-1920. I. C. Louis, dean of the Y.M.C.A. school of accountants, now in its twelfth year, has announced that because of the demand from women for higher instruction in business and finance since the war, the school will include women in its enrollments this year, the opening night being October 7.

Mr. Louis will be assisted by W. M. Pargellis, R. E. Blewett, Bruce Boggs, Morris Greenberg, W. B. Thomson and Rush M. Blodgett, City Attorney of Venice.

The night business classes will be opened on the following dates: Accountancy, October 7; Spanish, October 7; advertising, October 8; public speaking, October 8; salesmanship, October 9.

The lectures to be given before the Y.M.C.A. advertising class by members of the Los Angeles Advertising Club are as follows:

October 8, R. P. Crane, "Functions of Advertising;" October 15, T. D. Fennessy, "Type and Layouts;" October 22, H. S. Carroll, "Department Store Advertising;" October 29, A. A. Butterworth, "Retail Advertising;" November 5, E. M. Swasey, "Newspaper Advertising;" November 12, Clarence A. Lyman, "Bank Advertising;" November 26, Mrs. Eleanor Germo, "Women in Advertising;" December 3, Charles W. Duncan, "Color;" December 10, Ray Nimmo, "Ethics of Advertising."

SERMONS TODAY WILL BE "CLASSY"

Expecting Mr. Wilson's Call, Many Pastors Prepare Special Beforehand.

Fully twenty of the leading ministers of Los Angeles spent a sleepless night last night, and all because President Wilson did not announce which church he and Mrs. Wilson will attend this morning.

It is a known fact that President and Mrs. Wilson will attend some church, as he is a devout church-goer. But he has not announced the name of the church that is to be honored with the presence of himself and Mrs. Wilson.

Consequently, all of the leading churches are expected to be blessed with better sermons this morning than on ordinary Sundays, as each minister, feeling that he may gaze down into the faces of his congregation and there find the President of the United States, has undoubtedly taxed his oratorical powers to the limit to give his congregation—and the President—the best sermon he has ever preached.

along the rose-strewn way between ranks of young girls dressed in white and of boys from the Paige Military Academy. They were followed by the President, his personal guards, secretaries, Admiral Grayson, Mayor Snyder and the official reception committee, composed of George S. Patton, chairman; Harry Chandler, T. E. Gibbon, Mrs. Josiah E. Cowles, Henry S. McKee, Capt. John D. Fredericks and E. A. Dickson. The distinguished visitors were escorted to the Alexandria, where the President remained till the parade was formed.

PRESIDENT HAS A QUIET DAY.

Wilson and Vice-Admiral Grayson were members of the luncheon party.

The luncheon was ordered by President Wilson, according to Henry B. Bassetti, the Alexandria chef. It was cooked under direct supervision of M. Bassetti, and served by Captain of Service Higgins, and two assistants. The menu was: Olives, radishes and almonds. Casaba melon. Broiled chicken, President. Corn saute au beurre, spinach, salads moderne, consisting of romaine, asparagus tips, avocado pears, and mayonnaise dressing with chopped pimientoes and chopped chives. Peach ice cream. Charlotte Russe. Silex coffee, made in a glass bowl over an alcohol flame.

A beautiful candy flower basket, made of candy with large American Beauty and white roses in candy, served as the center piece on which were placed petit fours. This basket was made by the Alexandria hotel pastry cook, under the supervision of Chef Bassetti. Two large bowls of California fruit, and vases of Cecil Brunner roses were on the table.

The President and Mrs. Wilson enjoyed the luncheon very much, and complimented the chef. "The best salad I tasted since I left Washington," was the President's message to the chef, according to M. Bassetti's proud admission.

Shortly after the end of the luncheon, Admiral Grayson made the announcement that the President was going to have a "quiet afternoon." He retired to his room, and no visitors were admitted to the suite. A few minutes before six o'clock the party entered the elevator, got off at the mezzanine floor, and entered the beautifully decorated banquet room.

The Presidential party occupies the larger portion of the seventh floor at the Alexandria. The "Imperial Suite," known yesterday as the "Presidential Suite," is in the annex building of the hotel, at its southern end, facing Spring street.

The suite consists of a private dinning-room, parlor, two bedrooms, private pantry, baths and servants' rooms. The rooms were reserved for the President by Office Manager T. L. Andrews of the Alexandria after a conference with Russell Jervis, the President's representative, who travels ahead of the party, and R. H. Moulton, chairman of the hotel committee of the Mayor's reception committee.

Fifty-two persons make up the Presidential party. Forty-three rooms, most of them on the seventh floor, were occupied by the party yesterday. The President and Mrs. Wilson, the secret service men and the newspaper men all had rooms on that floor.

IN GRIFFITH'S ROOMS.

What is said to be one of the most luxurious hotel suites in the world was occupied yesterdav and will be used today by Secretary Tumulty. He was given it through the courtesy of D. W. Griffith, who recently furnished the rooms at an expense said to have been more than $15,000. In these gorgeous surroundings, Secretary Tumulty spent most of the time, dispatching telegrams and breasting the flood of messages that pours in continually.

Thomas W. Brahany, assistant secretary, occupied rooms adjoining the Griffith suite, and was in close touch with the President and Mr. Tumulty.

The accommodations at the Alexandria are unsurpassed in any city so far visited by the President, according to members of the party. When the party arrived, there was a small army of bell boys and other employees on the seventh floor, and quietly, without any loss of time, each person was shown to his or her room. A previous arrangement was made to have the baggage delivered to each room and everything was in place and in ship-shape well before the parade started.

The library rooms on the mezzanine floor were given over to the use of the press, and there the click of typewriters told of the thousands of words soon to find their way to telegraph keys and to linotype machines all over the country.

Lieut. Hilf and Sergt. White were in charge of several dozen police patrolmen assigned to the hotel by Chief Home, while a dozen picked detectives mingled with the crowd in the lobby.

Patrolmen Casey and Eubanks were stationed in the hallway leading to the Presidential rooms, while in the doorways adjoining the main entrance to President Wilson's suite were secret service men and attaches of the party.

The Presidential train is made up of eight cars. There is a baggage car, a diner, a club car where the members of the party meet while on the way, three compartment cars in which the secret service and newspaper men are placed, and the Mayflower, President Wilson's private car.

The Mayflower is occupied by President Wilson, Mrs. Wilson, her maid, Mr. Wilson's valet, and one secret service man—the chief of the White House secret service force, who has been with the President on many a trip.

FOR TRAFFIC RELIEF.

League Also Asks Mayor to Name a City Plan Committee.

Mayor Snyder is urged by the Municipal League, in a communication sent to him yesterday, to request the leading civic organizations of Los Angeles to each name a member of a special committee for the purpose of considering relief of traffic congestion and a comprehensive city plan.

The communication calls attention to the necessity of adopting a general city plan as an important feature in working out a solution of taffic difficulties. In reference to the appointment of the proposed committee, the letter says:

"We are aware that committees have heretofore considered these questions, but the fact that each such committee has been "hand-picked," as it were, by the city administrations has given rise to the suspicion that there might be some particular thing the committee was expected to put over.

"A committee independently selected by representative civic bodies, which should include representatives of engineers' and architects' associations, would be as free from suspicion as any committee could be, and its findings should serve to unify the divided sentiment of our city. Of course no civic body would be committed to the report of the committee unless the civic body took affirmative action indorsing the report."

All the miraculous reproducing powers for which the AMPICO is renowned—

—all the splendid tone qualities for which the Franklin Piano is famous —are perfectly combined in the FRANKLIN AMPICO and you obtain this wonderful unity of arts for the modest price of an ordinary player.

Possibilities Utterly New in Musical Art—

The AMPICO is an achievement of science which opens up possibilities so utterly new in musical art that the common words which we apply to familiar experiences cannot describe its wonders at all.

We may tell you that the AMPICO'S reproductions of hand playing are absolutely true to life; that they contain all the tone color and all the subtleties which distinguish the artist's best work—these are strong words, and usually impressive, but you cannot begin to realize from any description, no matter how strong, what depths have been sounded by the inventor of this marvelous instrument—it actually seems to catch and hold and express the very thought, the very IDEAL of an artist.

One pianist of note, Thilo Becker, said after hearing the AMPICO in joint recital with Leopold Godowsky: "It is almost occult!" Many other noted musicians and music critics have uttered praise equally strong.

The opportunity to secure the Fear Not!

While progress has a crab-like habit of moving sideways and backwards, still, like the crab, it generally reaches its destination. There have been anarchistic outrages and attempts to establish a soviet government in this country since the armistice was signed; but the trend of the country has been strongly towards conservatism. There have been industrial disturbances that alarmists regarded as revolutionary; but the industries of the country have managed to produce enough to supply local needs and to export $1,000,000,000 a month to Europe. There has been a great hue and cry about an impending famine; but the prices of meat, flour and other foodstuffs are declining. Pessimists have been prophesying a business stagnation and a vast amount of unemployment; but the demand for labor was never greater in the history of the country. And the strikes are failing, one after another!

Business depression was a chronic cry of the croakers all summer; but there was never before so great a demand for homes in and about Los Angeles. Families are flocking here by the thousands; storage houses are filled with furniture that will be placed in homes as soon as homes can be had. Never in the wildest days of the first boom was there such a demand for improved property. The average selling price of Los Angeles bungalows has advanced 25 per cent. within the last six months. The Recorder's office at the Courthouse is swamped with business and new industrial enterprises are organized daily.

Never were so many opportunities offered for the investment of money, muscle and brains. There are, of course, unscrupulous promoters to be avoided and wildcat schemes to be rejected; but legitimate business opportunities are multiplying faster than our population. The man who is an idler now is cheating himself out of a good income.

KILKENNY CATS.

When rival unions get to fighting for the control of an industry what happens to the industry? When they get to calling strikes on one another it is time Uncle Sam took a hand at umpiring.

SEEING THINGS.

The Prince of Wales and the King and Queen of Belgium will be in this country at the same time. Cardinal Mercier is here and Marshal Foch is coming. President Poincare of France is anxious to visit America, and Archduke Maxmilian of Austria wants to come here and go to work. All the big ones are realizing that this is a great country and they want to have a peek at the inside.

PERPETUAL MOTION.

America is asked to subscribe $5,000,000 as a fund for the purpose of making a bone-dry world. It will take much more than that to mop up the sparkling vintage of France, with the brown October ale of old England still to hear from. But the crusaders for a drinkless universe have the knowledge that there is something to engage their good efforts for the remainder of their lives. It is like the journey to Sirius—there is always a few million miles ahead.

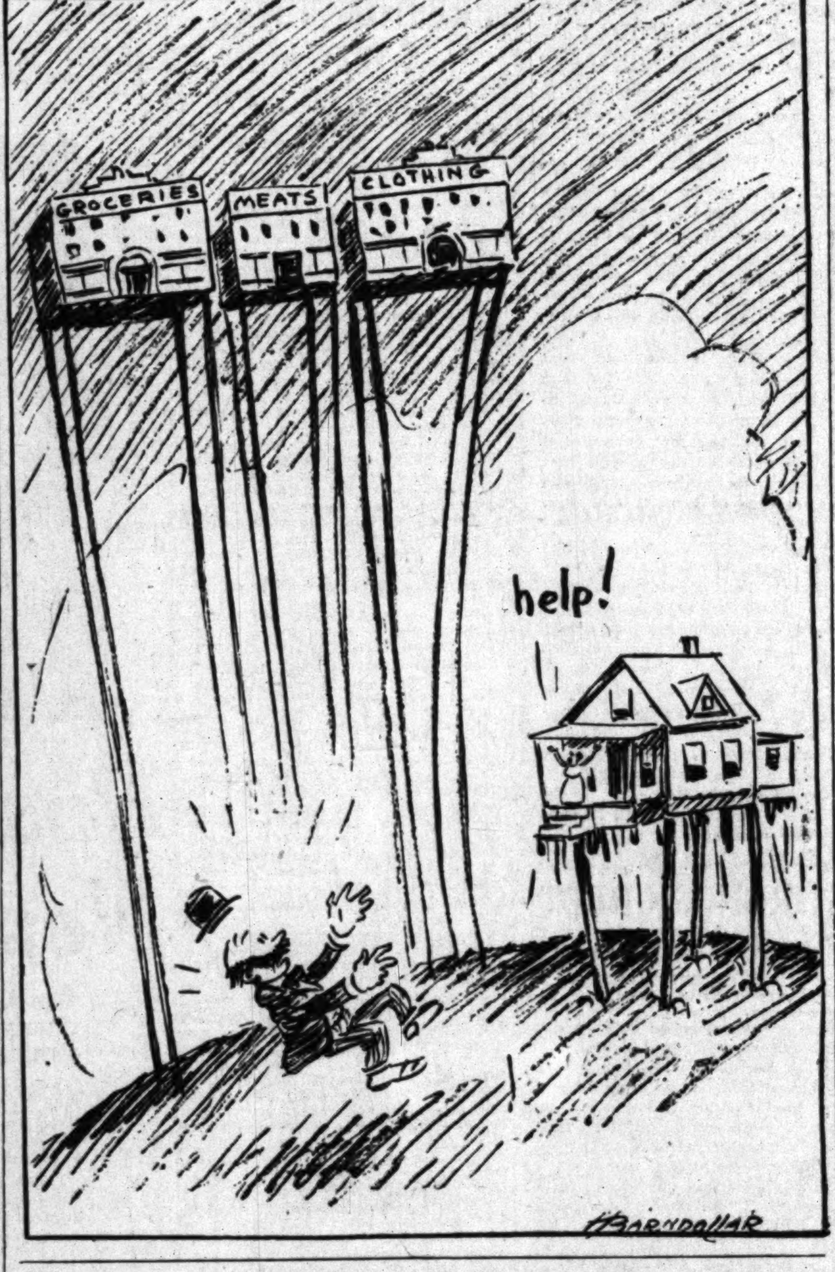
OUT OF THE HAREM.

Since the war the women of Turkey go about the streets of the cities without their veils and the stranger can see exactly what a hen turkey looks like. The harem doesn't scare 'em so much. They have more freedom of thought and action and have the disposition of their own careers to an extent heretofore unknown. Maybe they will soon be voting for caliphs—or whatever they call them—or even running for office on their own account. Whenever there is a big disturbance in the world the women are apt to be either the cause or the beneficiary as well as the greatest sufferers.

GLORY FOR ALL.

Gen. Pershing is a capable and sensible soldier, but is hardly the omnipotent personality which some of the New York papers made of him in the warmth of their welcome. The Sun says he made an invincible record alike as soldier, diplomat and citizen. The New York Times goes to the extent of saying that "the supreme credit of the American victories in France belongs to John J. Pershing." It was Pershing who fashioned an invincible fighting machine in the face of superhuman obstacles. It was Pershing who planned all the strategy in the offensives. It was Pershing who chose all the commanders and directed them down to the last detail—at least, so the New York editors seem to agree. The soldiers in France had a high opinion of Gen. Pershing, but they do not make a bronze Jove out of him, nor does the general enjoy such adulation. It is fine to realize that there are dozens of officers in the service of Uncle Sam who would have rejoiced at his opportunities nor faltered under the test. There was more than one hero in this war.

Striking Home.



JOHNSON CALLED OFF.

After two days of indecision Senator Johnson has abandoned the trail of President Wilson "somewhere in the Middle West" and has returned to Washington, where his vote against the League of Nations is held to be worth more than his voice. There is a clause in the Constitution providing that a peace treaty must be ratified "by a two-thirds vote of those present." Johnson in Washington nullifies two votes in favor of the league; while Johnson on the trail of the President simply proves that a sideshow doesn't stand much chance in a popularity contest with the main tent

It was the original plan of the league opponents that Senator Johnson should follow the President through the West, where Johnson was supposed to be popular, and return to Washington for the final vote on the peace treaty. But, outside certain districts in the Northwest where there is a heavy German population, the reception given to Senator Johnson's criticism of the league and the treaty were distinctly disquieting to those who hope to block ratification in the Senate. So, after conferring with his political colleagues in the East, he decided to return to Washington. His speeches against the league were simply supplying the background to throw the President's addresses in high relief.

From the time the first draft of the league covenant was published most of the opposition has come from the professional politicians and its support from the country at large. The majority of the people are for the league, and those who seek to array public sentiment against it are not making a success of their partisan crusade.

So the California Senator's trip to the Coast has been given up. The President's masterly arguments in favor of the League of Nations are to go unanswered. Senator Johnson is the last of the opposition to admit that an appeal to the country against the treaty is hopeless. They are gathering in the Senate for a last fight, with their backs to the wall, against the steadily-increasing force of public opinion, which favors an early ratification of the peace treaty. The Johnson barn-storming tour, like many another road show, broke down at the end of the first week.

One has but to read the extracts from Senator Johnson's speeches, given by the Associated Press, to discover why they failed to carry conviction. The Senate opposition is centered on the League of Nations; the only criticism which awakened even a momentary sympathy was that denouncing the transfer of the German holdings in the Shantung Peninsula to Japan; and the Shantung agreement is a part of the main body of the treaty and has no direct connection with the League of Nations. Returning Shantung to China would not necessitate an amendment of the league covenant; but it would require reassembling the original signatories to the treaty and holding the Peace Conference over again.

The Times has repeatedly pointed out that there is not a convincing argument against the ratification of the peace treaty. All the criticism is aimed at little clauses in certain sections. The argument against it has to be made up of shreds and patches; and, combine them as they will, the opponents of the peace treaty have failed to make them presentable. Moreover, these petty criticisms have an unfortunate habit of contradicting each other. To illustrate: in one part of a speech Senator Johnson said that this country should keep out of the league because it would be leaguing itself with four bankrupts—referring to the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan. But in another part of the same address he declared that Great Britain, through the treaty, became possessor of a fourth of the earth's surface and secured enough collateral to pay her war expenses.

Stung by the declaration of the President that the continued opposition to the peace treaty increased the unrest in the world and added to the menace of Bolshevism, Senator Johnson retorted:

> Do you know where Bolshevism is bred? It is bred in the hearts of women whose sons enlisted or were drafted to fight a war with Germany and who have been shot down in Siberia.

But Senator Johnson did not find his audiences in sympathy with his charge that Bolshevism is bred in the hearts of mothers whose sons have made the supreme sacrifice in the war of deliverance. There was no greater display of courage and fortitude during the war than that of the American mothers whose sons were sent beyond seas, sent to fight wherever duty called The campaign in Siberia was a part of the general strategy of the war. It was necessary to stop the sweep eastward of Russian Bolshevists commanded by German officers. More than $200,000,000 of war material, which the United States had offered to Russia while that country was still our ally, lay at Vladivostok. It was certainly military wisdom to send American troops there to keep it from falling into the hands of our enemies.

When Senator Johnson, or anyone else, makes the charge that Bolshevism is bred in the hearts of American mothers who gave their sons that their country should live he merits a severe rebuke. Little wonder that an opposition bolstered up by such argument should fail to convince. Political ambition causes a strange blindness at times; but there are limits which even demagogues may not cross with impunity.

"It is a bad and lost cause which, in its extremity, resorts to epithets and vituperation," said Senator Johnson in answer to charges of Bolshevism and pro-Germanism made by President Wilson. But the effect of that retort was lost when, a little farther on, he referred to the League of Nations as "this infamous thing that is sought to be handed down to us within that treaty." While a loyal American might honestly believe that certain reservations should be made in limiting the extent to which this country shall engage itself in joining a League of Nations, the number is infinitesimally small of those who are inclined to look upon the league itself as an "infamous thing." Senator Johnson now knows that such denunciation fails to work.

Senator Johnson failed also to create sympathy in his appeal for a United States which should hold itself in isolation from the rest of the world and array itself against a united Europe. "The Lord has given us our geographical isolation," he said, "and the Lord has denied just that thing to the different races of Europe. And while our internationalists in behalf of the League of Nations prate of the fact that we cannot long remain isolated, they forget that, geographically, the isolation remains immutable."

Is the Senator unaware that the "us" to whom the Lord gave a geographical isolation was the American Indian? Is he unaware that that isolation disappeared when Columbus crossed the western seas? The geographical isolation failed to save the Indian tribes as soon as it was known that there was something here that the rest of the world wanted; and no one but what Senator Sherman calls "a pale blue ass" could seriously believe that geographical isolation would protect this country in the age of air navigation, wireless telegraphy, submarines and long-range guns.

When one peruses the press reports of those Johnson speeches the wonder ceases that the last of the opposition Senators has returned to Washington to make a stand in a position that is itself rapidly becoming untenable.

GULF STORM TRAGEDY.

Not since the Galveston horror of 1900 has the Gulf coast of Texas been afflicted with so terrible a visitation as the hurricane and tidal wave which has swept towns out of existence, piled up a death list estimated from 500 to 1000 souls and inflicted material damage running into millions of dollars.

In such cataclysms of nature the immediate destruction only tells part of the tragedy. The suffering and misery of the survivors in the storm-wrecked districts have an appeal for those living in safer places that can be answered practically as can never be the cry of Rachel weeping for her dead. And to this appeal every warm-hearted citizen will reply as America has always replied when humanity calls—with money and supplies and clothing and shelter and all things that will render a little less intolerable the lot of these victims of undeserved misfortune.

The Red Cross workers and Uncle Sam's soldiers were on the spot as soon as the news of the tragedy was flashed over the wires. They have already done noble rescue work with the speed and efficiency only to be found among the best-trained and best-disciplined forces in the world.

It rests now with the civilian population to back up these initial efforts. The local Relief Committee in Corpus Christi reports the situation to be well in hand. Donations have been sufficient to solve the food problem. But between four and five thousand people are still homeless—many of whom have to face a new start in life. Shelter and clothing are imperative for their temporary necessities and financial aid to set them on their feet again.

There are certain localities on this world's variegated surface, fair and fruitful for the habitation of man, subject nevertheless at long intervals to sudden attacks from the uncontrollable forces of nature. Such spots are to be found on the coasts of our own Gulf States. But it would be a breed of men unknown to indomitable America that would shrink from reaping the benefits for fear of facing the onslaughts.

Peasants in Italy cultivate their vineyards on the slopes of Mt. Vesuvius; the West Indian Isles are filled with workers sowing and reaping annual harvests, though the word "hurricane" is derived from the perilous weather conditions found in these latitudes; even Mauritius, the cyclone center of the globe, is made productive by the pluck of the human race. Men of the right breed and blood never cease from taming nature to the needs of her children for fear of the revolt of the elements of wind or fire or water, of plague, pestilence, famine or sudden death.

The north coast of the Mexican Gulf is especially open to the fury of the tropical hurricane, bred in the steaming waters of the Caribbean Sea. From Galveston to Brownsville the configuration of the shoreline lends itself to the onslaught of the terrible tidal wave. Padre Island and a series of lagoons form funnels through which wind and tide rush with the explosive force of aerated water from the neck of a bottle. Corpus Christi is directly in the path of such an explosion that happens on those rare occasions when the arrival of the hurricane coincides with the date of an exceptionally high tide.

Then mankind is horrified with the news of awful calamity brought about by agencies beyond the control of mortal mind. The piles of unidentified dead in the Corpus Christi Courthouse represent volumes filled with the tears and agonies of friends and relatives torn with anxiety, not knowing what one of those cold, white forms may be the last mortal remains of some dear one who lived in or was passing through the storm-devasted area. When nature arises in her might she strews the fields of peaceful industry with domestic tragedies.

For the losses that are irreparable there is no palliation but the kind thoughts and sympathy in the hearts of good men and women. For those who are still alive but in dire need there is the practical offering in the many different forms that generosity suggests. And against the recurrence of so awful a catastrophe there are the material safeguards rendered available by the science of modern engineering.

Galveston affords a fine example of what can be done to ward off the blows of the angry elements. Her magnificent seawall, built as a result of the 1900 devastation, saved her from suffering the fate of Corpus Christi and Brownsville when, after an interval of nearly twenty years, wind and tide returned to wreak a second havoc. The victim was no longer helpless and man was thus able to ward off an attack he was powerless to prevent.

Southeastern Texas will repair the present damage with the same indomitable energy that the human race has always displayed after being worsted by the violent outbreak of nature in her angriest moods. And sympathy and human kindness will do all that it is possible to do for the sufferers and victims.

For the little city of Corpus Christi, once a bayside resort of beautiful homes, now a waste of sand and shell-littered desolation, the heart and hand of America are open today to furnish all needed help that the beautiful Texas resort may regain something of her former prosperity.

Journalistic Modesty.

The Candle editor does not believe in bragging—when he's sober. However, the arrival of an eight-and-one-half-pound baby boy at his home last Sunday is an awful temptation. We are perfectly willing to give the Mrs. full credit for her share in the epoch-making event, and we congratulate the doctor and nurse for their good luck in officiating upon such a momentous occasion. Some people give considerable credit in such cases to a wise old bird called a stork, but, by gosh, we don't. We're some bird ourself, we'll say we are.—[Crede (Col.) Candle.

Knew His Men.

In a newly-mustered Irish regiment a conscientious lieutenant was haranguing his men before starting for the front.

"It all depinds on yez byes," he exhorted. "Will yez fight or will yez run?"

"We will!"

"Will what?"

"Will not!" responded the men with one voice.

"I knew yez would," said the satisfied officer proudly.—[Asyouwere.

THE LANCER.

Mr. Carl Ackerman is a young journalist with a penetrating eye.

As a sort of post-graduate finish to his course in a school of journalism he went through Europe and cleared up all the various problems of the place, making the League of Nations an absolute superfluity.

Galloping through Siberia, he paused from time to time and untangled all the enigmas that have distressed and perplexed the troubled diplomats of Europe.

Now he is whooping through the United States for the Philadelphia Public Ledger on a Pullman train, telling everybody where they are right and where they are wrong. Unfortunately, nearly everybody is wrong. Anyhow, we are wrong in Los Angeles.

Mr. Ackerman stopped off in Los Angeles nearly two whole days, in which protracted period he discovered more about ourselves than we have dreamed of.

He says in the Public Ledger that we think we are prosperous and contented here; but that somewhere in our subconsciousness we are boiling with seething storms. In fact, Mr. Ackerman is so rude as to say that Los Angeles is a cancer.

By some extraordinary cerebration known only to youthful genius Mr. Ackerman has decided that this town has the worst labor troubles in the United States because it has no labor troubles.

He says we have no real strikes; our strikes don't amount to anything and don't lead to any trouble and the town returns to peace and contentment.

I can't figure it out; but from Mr. Ackerman's severe tone I gather that this is all wrong.

His youthful soul is particularly disturbed because he can't imagine what is going to happen when the President has his October conference with union labor. As Los Angeles is an open-shop town, Mr. Ackerman doesn't see how we are going to be represented there and what is going to be done about it.

But you can't make me worry about that. Not while Mr. Ackerman still lives and has his being. I feel sure he will find time to stop off between trains in Washington while the conference is going on and clear up this whole vexed labor question.

There are many things for which we can be thankful, even with the price of shoes going up. At least we know that, no matter how bad things get, there is one busy little mind looking down into our subconscious souls and seeing into our innermost gizzards—seeing there vibrations and titillations that we dreamed not of.

When we reflect that Mr. Ackerman's first long pants are of comparatively recent date it makes us shiver to think that we had, for so long a time, to struggle along without him.

Some time when the astute Mr. Ackerman has a little time off perhaps he can decide the microscopic and minute attenuation of difference between the punk telephone service we had during strike times and the punk telephone service we have normally.

In the old days a sarcastic voice used to hand you back "Line's busy." Now she takes your number with a spirit of forgiveness and Christian fortitude and thinks no more about it. You give her the number and it becomes for her a little tendril thought floating out alone in the unfathomed depths of oblivion.

Anyhow, when you finally get "Central" and offer her a number you hear of it not no more—never.

There will have to be a general revision of the old brutal stories of the sea.

The other day in the harbor of Seattle a windjammer started to go to sea when the 5 o'clock whistle blew on shore. Promptly at the sound every man climbed down from the rigging and wouldn't sail the ship any more.

There can't be any satisfactory way of adjusting this situation until they get a union wind that will blow eight hours per day with half an hour's dead calm at noon.

Theater audiences are queer animals. They resent an obvious effort to please.

At the Orpheum last week I saw Marguerita Sylvia unbending until she was almost on her knees in her effort to "get over" her really fine voice and her obvious charm. She sang an aria from "Carmen" with an apology. Intellectually speaking, she fairly wallowed to the audience. And she only made half a hit.

The singers who "get over" grand opera to Orpheum audiences are fat old parties who waddle on, warble and solemnly waddle off without making particular effort to please.

There is a queer perversity in the American that makes him full of "won'ts" when you say "will you." An old reporter once taught me a valuable lesson: that you can get information from people best by not appearing to care whether you get it or not.

In the old play, "The Mountebank," two starving beggars stumbled into a fancy-dress party and were at first mistaken for guests.

A friendly soul discovered their secret, but let them stay with this injunction: "Don't let them know you are really hungry. If they think you are guests who don't need money they will give you gold pieces; otherwise you will get pennies."

The junk men are now riding in automobiles as they call for ol' clothes. Of which circumstances I think—hard—when they talk of a revolution. Whom will there be left to revolute?

The French government professes to be amazed at the fact that no one wants to buy its surplus airplanes, left over from the army days, high-powered planes selling at less than $40.

Certainly it is very astounding that any family considers itself able to get along without an airplane.

To my mind the biggest bunk in the world is the talk of the future of air traffic.

The air will continue to be used for breathing purposes. Beyond a few movie magnates in search of notoriety passenger traffic will continue to be conducted on the ground.

The plan to abandon the present City Hall would be particularly attractive if it were possible to abandon the small-bore politicians who afflict the place. Tawdry rows, whether or not two clerks in the City Auditor's office are loafing or working! Minute, microscopic brains emitting hostile noises—grubby little imitation intellects bickering in scrambled-up English—silly quarrels magnified by City Hall reporters into "encounters!" Vacuity, vacuity, vacuity! Emptiness! The only important content of the City Hall is a stale smell.

THE LANCER.

AIN'T IT JUST SO?

Billie Lalo says he wishes in the Interests of a long-suffering
Public that Hiram Johnson could Get hold of McGuffey's Fourth
Reader and read and heed the sto-
Ry of the boy who shouted, "Wolf,"
And there is a railroad-crossing
Bell in his neighborhood, and Sometimes the wires get twisted
And it rings twenty-three hours
Or so out of the twenty-four.
There being but one train a day
On that line, only strangers ever
Pay any attention to the bell ex-
Cepting to cuss it at nights when
It keeps them awake, and he says
When he first came to California,
He used to read all the warnings
Of Hiram Johnson, and shudder at Thoughts of what might happen to
The Ship of State if it wasn't
For his clear voice warning it a-Gainst the breakers, but now the Warnings excite him about as Much as a Tanlac ad.
"We know it is wrong for to Question Hi's love, but why
Did he fool us before?"

THREL FALL.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

MANY THEMES.

I talk all day of divers things, of pelicans and quinces, of cats and pterodactyls' wings, of cabbages and princes. With women I discourse of gowns, with kids I talk of candy, with kings I argue much of crowns, with soaks I speak of brandy. It is the tendency of age to have some mental hobby and on that topic rant and rage until we call a bobbie. The man with but a single theme calls forth no smiles or chortles; he makes his hearers wish to scream and bores his fellow mortals. One talks of dead, forgotten jays, whose records were unpleasant; he drools of prehistoric days and scorns the golden present. One talks forever of his ills, of sinews that are achin', and he has memorized the pills and powders he has taken. One analyzes politics and shows just where we're headed, our statesmen all are tinhorn hicks who should be boiled and shredded. And all these gentlemen are bores, as are the themes they're broaching, and men rush home and lock the doors when they are seen approaching. I talk all day of dogs and cats, of succotash and sabers, of liver pads and stovepipe hats and I don't bore my neighbors.

WALT MASON.

THE PASSING JEST.

"I hear Mrs. Rox is going to break her husband's will." "How can she? He never had one after he married her."—[Baltimore American.

"So you're still carrying a mortgage on your house, are you?" "Yes, and, strange to say, I'm carrying it because I cannot lift it."—[Boston Transcript.

Physician: You had a pretty close call. It's only your strong constitution that pulled you through.

Patient: I hope you will remember that when you make out the bill.—[Judge.

"First you talk of a jewel robbery," said the policeman, "and now all you have to say is that you have lost your cook." "Well," exclaimed Mr. Crosslots, "that cook was a jewel and some of the neighbors came around and stole her."—[Washington Star.

"Heah Ah comes back from de wah an' finds yo' married to Baltimo' Joe, an' yo' done swore to be true to me." "True? Was you true to me when you kept writin' all about your engagements with dat big Bertha ovah thah?"—[Life.

"What occasioned the sudden disappearance of Casecard Charley from Crimson Gulch?" "Too much safety first," responded Cactus Joe. "Just before the poker game started the boys caught him marking the deck."—[Washington Star.

A SINNER'S DIARY.

It's hard camouflaging 200 pounds into ninety.

All soldiers must be chocolate, the way the girls take after 'em.

Cheer up! When the one that's in the way now gets out someone else will get in.

There's as many kinds of autos as there are religions.

Graft—when you aren't in on it.

We've all said "'tis cheaper to buy than to save," till there's nothing left.

The women can do the work, right enough, if they don't have the men to wait on.

The only folks we can get along with are those we don't care a drat what they do.

Sometimes nature doesn't seem to have any more sense than some of the other rulers.

You can serenely watch it rain on your neighbor's beans; when on your own it makes you nervous.—[Lynette Freemire in Judge.

BELIEVES CAR PINCH IS OVER.

Enough Carriers Now to go Around, Says Sproule.

Figures Show Big Shipments Out of California.

Equipment Demand Now is for Shipment of Fruit.

Improvement in the freight car supply, with the prospect that for the balance of the season the situation will be easier, is seen in a statement issued yesterday by District Director William Sproule of the United States Railroad Administration. Explaining that the situation was not so much a case of car shortage as of crop surplus, Mr. Sproule gave some interesting figures on the production and movement of perishables. They show that for the past three months of this year, shipments from California are almost 50 per cent. greater than last year, and during the first twelve days of the current month, the Pacific Fruit Express alone furnished 71 per cent. more cars for fruits and vegetables in California than during the same days in 1917, and 66 per cent. more than in 1916.

"About shortage of refrigerator cars to move fresh fruits and vegetables from California, much has been said," Mr. Sproule declared, "upon the assumption that the railroad administration has failed somehow to provide in advance the cars to handle the business.

"The Pacific Fruit Express has 15,000 refrigerator cars for this business, and the Santa Fe Refrigerator Despatch, about 10,000. Through the efforts of the Railroad Administration, about 5000 other refrigerators were sent to California for this service and kept in it until the demands from other States had to be met. The administration has been and is alive to the public needs.

CROPS VERY HEAVY.

"The fruit and vegetable crops throughout the United States have been very large and shipments very heavy. Every car that could be had anywhere has been pressed into this national service. Not only is the fruit run in special trains, but special service is given the refrigerators returning, in preference to every kind of freight except livestock. It has been suggested that meat cars, and beer cars, also, could be loaded with fruit, but this cannot be done. Meat cars have fixed meat racks, hooks and brine tanks; beer cars have no tanks of any kind. Shippers would not load fruit in such cars.

"Let us remember that, although California is the great fruit and vegetable-growing State, it is only one of the many States growing such perishables for quantity for market. The producers of fruit supplies was greatly stimulated during the war, but during the war refrigerator cars could not be built. This stimulation is still felt, and it naturally creates acute demand for each refrigerator car in this year, when the crops requiring such cars are heavy everywhere, from California to Georgia, and from Florida to the Pacific Northwest. It is a crop surplus rather than a car shortage. For the past three months of this year shipments from California are not far from 50 per cent. above what they were during the same period last year.

"At present there is added the call for refrigerators that grapes which in previous years were used locally to make wine may be shipped to other markets, and of these car lots there are thousands. This kind of movement we may never have again, yet it may well be that because of it the State will discover grapes that they like for table use, and thus new markets may be created to the benefit of this State. It is a demand for which even in normal times cars could not be built, if only for the reason that the contingency of prohibition could not be foreseen.

USED MORE CARS.

"During the first twelve days of the current month, the Pacific Fruit Express alone furnished 71 per cent. more cars for fruits and vegetables in California than during the same days in 1917, and 66 per cent. more than during the same days in 1916. The prospects are that for the five months, June to October, inclusive, the increase this year compared with last for shipments of fruits and vegetables, will be about 45 per cent. and possibly 50 per cent. There is not a car shortage in the sense of a failure to provide cars. There is a great and unusual movement in this and the other States of the Union, stimulated by large production on the one hand, and high prices on the other.

"A word of praise is due growers and shippers for their prompt loading of cars furnished them. Unfortunately, prompt handling has not been equally true at destination. A tendency exists to hold cars several days after arrival, and in so many instances as to demand the attention of the Railroad Administration. Shippers can help their own cause by insisting that those to whom they ship unload promptly upon destination being reached. Every car held a day at destination is one car of which a shipper is deprived at shipping point for one day. When this delay occurs to hundreds of cars and for days at a time, it is plain that the producers and shippers really suffer. In war times measures could be adopted to put a check upon this. In these times co-operation of the people directly interested is sought.

"The car situation is summed up in this: First, all the cars that could be had have been at the service of the shippers; second, the car supply is improving, and for the rest of the season it is likely to be easier than during the past couple of weeks. All that is possible will be done to accomplish this."

JEWELS FOR BUDDHA.

Unusual Oriental Window Display Attracting Attention.

An unusual manner of displaying jewelry is shown in a window decoration at Nordlinger's this week. The main figure is a Buddha seated within a shrine set against a wall of windows. A score of worshipers, dressed in rich Chinese costumes are seen bearing offerings to the shrine. Several carry velvet cushions on which is a handsome piece of jewelry or an unset brilliant, which they present to the Buddha with averted eyes.

There is much coloring and beauty in the display, all seeming to radiate from the white diamond set in Buddha's brow. The window is attracting much attention.

FIND MANY JOBS.

Public Employment Bureaus Place Three Thousand in Two Weeks.

The Public Employment Bureaus of Los Angeles found work for 3596 persons in the city during the first two weeks of September, it was announced yesterday. These figures do not include the work accomplished by the Federal Board for Vocation Education, or the Soldiers' and Sailors' Replacement Bureau. Since September 4, the report shows, the soldiers' and sailors' bureau found work for 323 former service men.

State Labor Commissioner McLaughlin has detailed two employment experts to aid this bureau in looking out for former service men and the public bureaus are lending every assistance in this work.

LOYALTY IN BURGLAR

Juggles Pleas in Court to Guard Employers' Interests.

For a second time Loman Elliott, accused of burglary, pleaded guilty yesterday in Judge Craig's court. Last Wednesday Elliott pleaded guilty, but when informed he would have to go at once to the County Jail, he changed his plea, saying he desired to give notice to his employers before having his liberty taken away.

When he said yesterday, that he desired to plead guilty, the court said the plea might be entered, providing the defendant would "stay put" and hold to the plea of guilty. Elliott, who was out on bail, came to court prepared to go to the County Jail, and was committed.

"CROSS" MAN FREED.

Husband Without Bad Habits is Deserted; Gets Divorce.

Explaining why his wife, Lillian M. Brain, left him, Arthur D. Brain, a mine foreman, told Judge Crail yesterday, that she accused him of being "too cross" and of coming to Los Angeles "just to chase around."

"Did she have cause to say that?" the court asked Mr. Brain, who was seeking a divorce.

"No, for I did not drink, smoke or chew," was the reply.

The decree was granted.

WIFE, GONE TO STAY, BREAKS NEWS ODDLY.

Mrs. Flora O. Clark adopted unusual methods of breaking the news to her husband, Walter O. Clark, that she had left him. In Judge Crail's court yesterday, he testified:

"I did not know for good she had gone until several days later. She then called me up on the telephone and asked me to meet her at the office of a mutual friend. I went, and she told me she was not coming back to me."

He was granted a divorce.

SUPERVISOR SHOWING RICH ORE SPECIMEN.

Supervisor Woodley, who is modest and shrinking, shows only to his closest friends a specimen from his gold mine in Arizona. The specimen, locked up in his office, weighs about ten pounds and glitters with gold. He admits it is an exceptional sample, the gold in this piece running about $300 to the ton. His mine will average about $50 to the ton. Few know that Mr. Woodley has devoted many years of his life to mining or that he owns, besides the Lily mine in Arizona, several other mineral properties.

LINCOLN PARK.

A programme of classical and popular selections will be given by the band at Lincoln Park, Sunday afternoon. Roy Pilcher will lead the War Camp Community Service; Kenneth E. Howell, boy xylophone player, will give some selections, and Sherry Hall, baritone, will sing.

CLYDE CATE'S BANKRUPT.

Clyde E. Cate, a former attorney of Los Angeles, but who now schedules himself as a book-keeper at Fresno, filed a bankruptcy petition in the United States District Court, yesterday. His creditors are all Los Angeles business firms and individuals, the total of his debts being $3956.83. His assets are alleged to be $3040, but as this amount is made up of $3000 in life insurance policies, and $40 worth of wearing apparel, there will be nothing left for the creditors, as both of these items are immune from execution under the law. Walter McGart, a mechanic, and Hannah Calvin McGart, a housewife, filed similar petitions. The liabilities of both are given at $1285.50 and assets of $50 each, all exempt under the law.

NOT HER BUSINESS.

Edward S. Goodman told his wife, Myrtle D. Goodman, that "no woman has a right to know my business," when he returned home late and was asked where he had been. She brought suit for a divorce, which was granted by Judge Crail yesterday.

The Millinery Section

This department has recently been enlarged because of its rapidly increasing patronage—and with the greater space devoted to displays of smart new millinery you will find a visit to this section very interesting.

We do not make a practice of importing models, instead we have all our hats made for our special use in order that we may offer hats of the very best materials and workmanship—always the very latest in style—at about half the ordinary prices of hats of such character.

—at $5.00 to $22.50 we offer trimmed and tailored hats of every approved style, and many variations of the jaunty tam now so popular.

Need of New Clothes We Want to oney Goes Much Further at Hale's

The new suit, coat, dress, waist or hat, silks or dress goods by the yard, or, in fact, very nearly your complete Fall and Winter wardrobe can be bought for less at Hale's. This is the result of organized buying; the lower prices obtained because of the enormous quantities of merchandise purchased by the five Hale California Stores; and the lower ratio of profit that we require. The crowds of busy shoppers are evidence that the women of Los Angeles find these savings decidedly worth while. Remember that you need not pay exorbitant prices for clothes if you buy them at Hale's.

FIRE GETS TO TRAIL CANYON.

San Gabriel Big Hills Blaze Still Unchecked.

Ashes Falling in Pasadena and at Beverly.

Worst Forest Destruction in Nine Years.

With prospects that the forest fire raging in the lower reaches of the Angeles National Reserve will set a new record in destructive conflagrations in the big woods, the word from the devastated region, yesterday, was that the blaze, devouring everything in its way, was still unchecked in Trail Canyon.

The fire in the San Bernardino Mountains in 1910, which did not spend itself for almost two weeks, was the high mark previous to the present fire, that has now been in progress a week, with prospects of it lasting as long as the big one of nine years ago.

The timber and brush on the west side of the San Gabriel Canyon are a mass of seething flames, and yesterday ashes were reported as falling in Millard Canyon, at the head of the Arroyo Seco, just north of Pasadena. Ashes were also noticed in Hollywood and Beverly. The skies north of Pasadena are covered with a black pall of smoke.

Supervisor R. H. Charlton, of the reserve, spent yesterday at Pasadena recruiting a force of men to relieve the wearied forces that had been fighting the fire for a week, and securing supplies for the fire-fighters.

Supervisor Tilloton, of the Cleveland National Reserve, came to Los Angeles yesterday, from San Diego, in response to a call for help, and brought with him a half-dozen men, who immediately went out on the fire line. So far the summer cabins in the Pacoima and the two Tejunga canyons, had not been touched by the fire and there seems no immediate danger to the buildings.

There is great difficulty in getting within effective distance of the fire on account of the topography of the country, and much valuable time is spent climbing heights necessary to reach in order to be near enough to do good work. Since the fire started a week ago, Friday in the vicinity of the cabin of the hermit, Raub, on the east side of the San Gabriel, it has burned over thousands of acres, and the fire line extending over an area of twenty-five miles.

So far the loss in dollars and cents has been limited for the most part to the destruction of the watersheds and firebreaks, endangering the water supply of ranchers and power companies in the devastated region, although there is considerable merchantable timber destroyed. The whole country from Azusa, San Dimas and other points to Pasadena has helped and joined the fire-fighters. Other national reserves may be called on for help, if the fire gets into Millard Canyon, threatening the outskirts of Pasadena.

TO AID OLD HARVARD.

Alumni Here Will Help Swell Fund for Underpaid Faculty.

William Thomas of San Francisco, an overseer of Harvard College and member of the general executive committee of the Harvard Endowment Fund Committee, who is directing the Pacific Coast end of the nation-wide campaign for an unpledged fund of $15,000,000 for university purposes, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday.

To direct the work in this city and vicinity a committee of twenty-one Harvard graduates is being selected by Howard Huntington, chairman. Wilbur Bassett, executive secretary, has called a meeting of this committee at the University Club at 12:30 p.m., next Tuesday, to perfect plans. Besides Mr. Huntington and Mr. Bassett the following have agreed to serve actively on the committee: Walter Raymond, Samuel Storrow, Remington Olmstead and Herman Henneberger of Pasadena; Dr. P. V. K. Johnson, Sayre Macneil, Gurney E. Newlin, Charles H. Palmer, William Witmer and Robert Frick of Los Angeles.

California stands fifth among the states of the Union on Harvard's roll, with 1074 alumni. The total in the United States exceeds 36,000. A large part of the money to be raised will be for a proper increase in salaries, and the balance will go to university betterments. Harvard has been badly crippled for some time because of her inability to meet pressing needs.

BENCH WARRANT OUT.

Man Sought for Evading Hearing on Drug-Buying Charge.

A. L. Lehman, charged with violation of the Harrison narcotic law, failed to appear yesterday for preliminary examination before United States Commissioner Long, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Lehman lives at 662½ Gladys avenue.

He is charged with buying two ounces of morphine at San Francisco, and getting it at his address. Agents of the Internal Revenue Department wearing caps of a local express company, posing as messengers, handed the narcotic to Lehman, and his arrest followed. Lehman is also accused of peddling the dope. Agent W. H. Austin says that the shipment cost Lehman $90 and that if he sold it at current prices he would be able to collect $1920 from helpless addicts.

FOR IMPROPER LETTER.

Marian Gruner, a comely young woman, living at 1253 West Vernon avenue, was taken into custody yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Cavanaugh, charged with having sent an improper letter to her aunt, Mrs. L. Desnar. The envelope was addressed to William Bell, 1882 West Washington street, and the missive to Mrs. Desnar was enclosed in the addressed envelope to Bell. The young woman was released on her own recognizance to appear beore United States Commissioner Stephen G. Long tomorrow morning for arraignment.

HELD FOR SWINDLING.

Couple Charged with Working New Scheme Through Mails.

Borrowing money by mail by means of a series of forwarding postoffice addresses is the scheme by which Clarence K. Loomis and Ora F. Loomis, his wife, are accused of defrauding the Morris Plan Company out of $1000, according to a complaint filed yesterday against the couple. The husband and wife were arrested at a small chicken ranch they own between San Gabriel and El Monte by Deputy Sheriffs Lips and Anderson and Detectives Weiss of a private agency. They are accused of forgery.

According to the officers and W. H. Sprague, attorney for the Morris Plan Company, the couple obtained $1000 by a series of forgeries on notes given in exchange for loans from the bank. Mr. Sprague is complaining witness against them. It is declared the couple applied by mail for loans, sending in exchange forged notes. According to the officers the couple would give addresses in near-by cities and then leave forwarding addresses, so that eventually the money reached them. They were lodged in the County Jail in default of $2500 bail.

VETERAN A FLIRT?

Wife, Suing for Divorce, Accuses Warrior of Gallantries.

Daniel Alton, 75 years old, a veteran of the Civil War, was humiliated and deeply grieved when his wife, America L. Alton, accused him of flirting with women in his home town, Sawtelle. Mrs. Alton, whose suit for divorce will be tried in Judge Crail's court October 8, expects to produce a number of women to testify in regard to what she calls the veteran's flirting habit.

He says there is no foundation for the charges. She is said to have asked him where he had been, insinuating that he had been calling on his sweetheart. Mr. Alton has filed a cross-complaint, and Mrs. Alton answers it, admitting she said he paid more attention to other women than he should. Mr. Alton is the owner of considerable property.

REBUKED MATE FREED FROM STRAYING WIFE.

"Why did your wife leave you," Judge Crail, yesterday, asked Cornelius C. Kennedy, who was suing Clare Kennedy for divorce.

"She stayed out late at nights; sometimes she was away all night. When I spoke to her about it, she got mad," was the reply. The decree was granted.

RECORD YEAR AT U.S.C. IS SEEN.

Registration Expected to Show Big Classes.

Many Planning to Take up Advanced Work.

Opening will Mark Return to Pre-War Basis.

Although registration does not open at the University of Southern California until tomorrow, a record-breaking list of students is indicated by the number already making application. Registration will be particularly heavy in the freshman class and in the large number of advanced students who have come to Los Angeles to take up distinctive university work in the higher branches leading to the degree of Master of Arts.

The University will be put back on a pre-war basis with an enlarged curriculum and a faculty of 300 professors and lecturers. One of the departments to be resumed following the war will be that of architecture, which was given up when the members of the faculty of this department entered the service. This department will grant the degree of B. S. in architecture and will include classes in architectural history, architectural drawing and design, in connection with classes in architectural structural engineering. This department is expected to prove very popular with men students and will open a new field in university work.

In the art department added members of the faculty will offer strong courses, making it a major department for the first time. Classes will be offered in the history and appreciation of art, drawing, still life, design, still life and the crafts, with a special preparatory course. Arrangements are being made for advanced students to do work in the Otis Art Institute with full university credit leading to the A. B. degree.

The art department will occupy spacious studios which are being fitted up with a full equipment and will include a general studio and informal exhibition gallery where exhibitions of paintings by well-known Southern California artists will be maintained during the year for the benefit of the students. The recently-organized Palette and Brush Club, composed of art students, is arranging several social events and studio teas in honor of visiting artists.

BEAU MONDE TO AID POOR TOTS.

Babies' Hospital Benefit will be Big Society Event.

Creations of World-Famous Modistes to be Shown.

Film Stars as Fashion Models will be a Feature.

That the Charity Fashion Show to be held at the Trinity Auditorium next Tuesday evening for the benefit of the Children's Hospital will be a success is evidenced by the widespread interest in the affair and the elaborate preparations being made by the various committees for this interesting society event.

Mrs. C. L. Peck is acting chairman of the Fashion Show Committee. The directors of the Children's Hospital Auxiliary and members of the several committees are Mrs. Thomas Ridgeway, Mrs. A. J. Murrietta, Mrs. Florence Avery, Mrs. Farlow Lindley, Mrs. Forest Stanton, Miss Marie McCoy, Miss Josephine McAllister, Mrs. Harold L. Arnold, Mrs. LeRoy Edwards, Mrs. Walter Comstock, Mrs. John Milner, Mrs. Vernon Goodwin and Mrs. Horace Wilson. Each one is carefully forming her plans with the sole thought for the greatest possible benefit for the kiddies at the Children's Hospital.

The advance sale of tickets has been so large that it was evident that the spacious ballroom of the Alexandria, first selected for the fashion show, would be inadequate. To accommodate those desiring to see the latest creations of the beau monde which are to be displayed arrangements were made to secure Trinity Auditorium for the event, and there may be viewed wonderful gowns from the shops of the world's designers; bewitching creations from Paquin's, Cheruit, Jenny, Arbioty, Ducet, Chanel, Bernard, Borret, Jeanne Landin, Marshall et Armand, Georgette Hickson, Mangone, and models from other famous designers, not on wax figures, but on handsome living models. Some of our leading motion-picture actresses have tendered their services as mannikins, among them Gloria Swanson, Bebe Daniels, Wanda Hawley, Lila Lee and Lois Wilson, who will all do their bit for the poor kiddies.

Cecil B. de Mille, director-general of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is taking an active interest in the success of the fashion show. It is through his courtesy that Theodore Kosloff, the Russian dancer, will be one of the feature attractions at the auditorium, Tuesday evening, assisted by eight trained dancers from his own school. Wallace Reid, Maj. Robert Warwick, Bryant Washburn and Carter de Haven will likewise be present with clever ideas and stunts of their own. It is said that the wonderful Lombardi will introduce the stars. To insure that the gowns will be absolutely correct each one has been passed upon by William J. O'Callaghan, late of the B. Altman & Co., New York City.

A WORTHY CHARITY.

The Children's Hospital is one of the most vital charities in the city of Los Angeles. Interest has been running high among those who know of the wonderful work being carried on by the hospital, and contributions have been pouring in during the past week from all classes of people. The need is great, as great as that of the Red Cross and other war relief organizations which Los Angeles supported with such generosity last year.

One of the most urgent requirements is a separate ward for contagious and infectious diseases, and also a fund to provide for the retention of wet nurses, who are indispensable in cases of children born prematurely or where a baby is so emaciated that no other nutrition will suffice. A feature of the Children's Hospital which is found nowhere else in Los Angeles is the system of the follow-up on cases after they are returned to their homes. Nurses are sent periodically to the homes of the convalescent patients where inquiry is made regarding food, living conditions and the general care that is provided.

The hospital also maintains a free clinic where people may obtain medical advice every day in the week. Many of the prominent doctors of Los Angeles volunteer one or more days a week to the work.

The hospital is supported almost entirely from voluntary subscriptions and it is desired to raise a fund of $100,000 to provide for the next year's operations. Checks made payable to Miss Florence Avery, treasurer, and forwarded to 621 South Vermont avenue, will be promptly acknowledged.

HOPE LIES IN BETTER BABIES.

Exalting Motherhood is Beach Doctor's Aim.

Plans to Found a Permanent School of Eugenics.

His Theory is Quality, not Quantity, He Declares.

"I hope to see the mission of exalted motherhood and the public cry for better babies sweep the land before I pass from life."

This was the announcement yesterday of Dr. W. R. Price, M.D., Ph.D., D.Sc., who has just emerged from long retirement in Long Beach in his endeavor to propagate his long-fostered theories of eugenics and the betterment of the human race. He states he is working to the end of founding and endowing a permanent training school for motherhood. Dr. Price, who was a classmate of William G. McAdoo in the University of Tennessee, and who was his guest when the ex-Secretary visited the Southland recently, has completed plans for giving a series of free lectures on motherhood this season.

His free lectures will include addresses to mothers, to girls accompanied by their mothers, and free lectures to men on marital obligations.

Dr. Price is president and founder of the New School of Christian or Applied Psychology. He has leased a hall in the Grosse Building for the purpose. Regular meetings will be held on Thursday night. Services will be held on Sunday mornings and at night. No charges will be made.

He has the indorsement of leading public men and pastors of Long Beach and Los Angeles, he states, and is perfecting plans whereby he will address various women's clubs, individual mothers' gatherings, churches, and other public gatherings where women congregate.

"No woman is too poor to know what we wish to teach," states Dr. Price. "I wish every bride, or prospective young wife, would attend. It will cost nothing. It is a humanitarian mission. It is a vital issue that means much, very much, for our coming generation and generations to follow. This is a great, grand work. It is not mercenary. We would teach the lowly Mexican with the same careful pains that we would teach the wealthy bride of Pasadena or the Wilshire district."

For upward of one-third of a century, Dr. Price has followed psychological research in many lands. For years he was a pastor, while practicing medicine.

Dr. Price anticipates training lay lectures for his propaganda of better babies and exalted motherhood, and is now, he states, surrounding himself with women, many of whom are of high social circles, in his mission. He says:

"When the progenitors of mankind understand, and put into practice, those laws of Nature in the reproduction of better babies upon the principle of quality rather than quantity, then the actual redemption of the motherhood of the human race, through the elevation of the wife, and the dawn of the millennium will begin."

YOU'RE BOTH WRONG, SAYS VENTURA JUDGE.

DENIES DIVORCE AND GIVES WARRING COUPLE MUCH ADVICE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Sept. 20.—O. H. Hedges is not a Bolshevist or anything but the "most ordinary kind of a Socialist" and his wife, being a good cook, should go home and keep house for him, according to Judge Merle J. Rogers, who refused either party a divorce in a case that had excited much interest here.

Both of the Hedges are quite well known and were married here but a few months ago. Both are people of middle life and the first the public generally knew of their domestic troubles was the filing of a suit in which Mrs. Hedges made sensational charges against her husband. This was followed promptly by the filing of a suit by Hedges in which he told his side of the family troubles.

Judge Rogers scored Hedges for the language he is alleged to have used to his wife and grilled Mrs. Hedges for not staying at home and keeping house for her husband. The parties are to share the costs of the suit.

TO TEACH JOURNALISM.

Journalism, short-story writing and advertising will form a new department in the work of the University of Southern California at the opening of the fall semester, September 29. The school of journalism is expected to prove a popular feature, and students of this department will gain practical experience with The Trojan, the university paper, which is printed twice each week.

Marc N. Goodnow, formerly of the University of Chicago and the university extension department, who has been connected with the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Record-Herald and several other large eastern dailies, will have charge of this department, and is planning work along practical journalistic lines for the students.

He is also arranging for the students to take charge of a Southern California daily newspaper for one day, when they will do all the work of issuing a newspaper. The various departments of the city staff of this newspaper will be turned over to the students for the day. This innovation is expected to become an annual feature, and one that will be popular with students.

It is expected that a newspaper convention will be held at the University of Southern California as a part in the course of journalism, when well-known newspaper men, both from the editorial and business departments, will speak on the problems of newspaper making and the opportunities for young people in the profession.

The course in short-story writing will be included in this department. The work will consist of lectures covering the technique of story writing, with criticism of manuscripts. The course on advertising will include the history, psychology and technique of advertising, together with actual work in creative advertising.

VENICE OPENS SCHOOL FOR NIGHT SESSIONS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Sept. 20.—Today the Venice High School board of trustees announced that night school will open Monday evening. A greater number of subjects for study are offered this year than have ever been before, and the educational authorities of Venice are making a strenuous effort to enroll those citizens who need the work, as well as to reach those who cannot take advantage of the day school.

In addition to the regular evening curriculum, there will be gymnasium classes during the week at night.

HEARING CONTINUED.

After testimony for the prosecution had been given, the hearing of John T. Rayburn, accused of passing fictitious checks for $5 and $10 upon M. McBlinn, 764 West Eighth street, was continued yesterday by Justice Forbes to next Saturday.

CANARY BIRD'S WITH US AGAIN.

First Shipment Since Ante Bellum Days is Due.

German Rollers Now Coming from Dutch Breeders.

Few Fine Songsters Trained in this Community.

Canary birds are breaking through the war blockade. The conflict stopped importation of songsters and of aviary birds, and though practical peace came nearly a year ago, the first importations of the feathered patricians is not expected in New York till next month. A limited number of German canaries will come from Holland.

There are about 100 dealers in New York, Boston and Philadelphia waiting for this first shipment, especially for the German canaries, and there would be small likelihood of any of them coming to Los Angeles, unless a local dealer should be on the spot, ready to bid for them.

The breeding of canaries in this country is making fair progress, especially around New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. New York now has three societies of canary breeders, Chicago two and Philadelphia one. The bird societies will soon hold their annual show and singing contest. Here the finest songsters in the country will be exhibited, and gold and silver medals and other prizes will be awarded.

"AH MY LADY FAIR—SHE SINGS"

The roller, or song canary, is the unchallenged leader and star. It is sold under many different names, such as the Campanini, Living Music Box, the Opera Singer, etc. The roller originated in the Hartz Mountains, in Germany. Its song should be a continuous stream of soft, sweet, flowing melody, pleasing and soothing to the ear, and free from any harsh z-zittering or kettledrum-like tattooing upon the tympanum. There should be only a sense of smooth, rolling or flowing sound, with no indication of the hammering song of the ordinary type of singer.

"NOW 'ISSEN HEAN BIRDIE TAKE 'OURF DHINK AH WATAH"
"AHA— BIRD TALK"
DAY-

No matter what kind of canary a fancier may breed, he will, if he stays with it, eventually breed the roller. These birds are becoming more and more popular, and each year the supply is unequal to the demand. Prices have gone up accordingly. Songsters have been sold in New York and Chicago for as much as $100.

The leading roller canary fancier on the Pacific Coast is David O'Brien of San Francisco, who makes a standing offer of $250 cash for the best American-bred roller canary of the season of 1919, the winner to be able to sing twelve different faultless notes, with no repeats.

"AW PLAY A DIFFERENT TUNE. WILL YOU?"
DAY-

A few of these birds have been sold for $50 each right here in Los Angeles; but $25 is about the present local market price for really good birds.

There are few breeders of superior canaries in Southern California. Fine songsters cannot be bred in aviaries, because they must be kept from all bird notes and from sounds which might prove injurious to good singing.

By the approved method, the birds are trained to sing their notes in a certain way, in a dark room. An ordinary canary cannot be trained to sing roller notes.

The desired fullness of tone, the deep, hollow sounding, manifold notes, the soft, clear delivery, which is the gift of all good birds, can be cultivated only by "strain" breeding. It takes years to breed up the desired strain by careful culling each season, to secure and retain the true roller voice and notes.

HEADS BUSINESS MEN.

Ontario Association Elects New Officers and Directors.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 20.—Members of the Ontario Business Men's Association, in annual session last night at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, elected Charles L. Tuttle president of the organization for the coming year.

Mr. Tuttle is manager of the Ontario and Upland Telephone Company, and succeeds Gordon G. Whyte, who declined the nomination for another term.

Chosen members of the Executive Committee of the association for the ensuing year were Oscar Arnold, Gordon G. Whyte, J. M. Macrae and Fred G. Fallis.

After four years of efficient service, J. M. Macrae resigned as secretary of the association and will shortly sever his connection with the Chamber of Commerce, which he served in a similar capacity, to enter business here. His successor has not been named.

Fortunes have been made in oil. Fortunes are being made every day from oil. Fortunes will continue to be made from oil.

The men who make the most money are those who go into new districts before prices go up. Don't let somebody else get all the cream. $100.00 invested today may be worth $1000.00 tomorrow; perhaps $15,000.00. This has happened in the past, and history repeats itself—especially in oil.

This Is The Western Pacific Oil Tract

A SPLENDIDLY LOCATED PROPERTY

In the center of this 640 acre tract, we will soon be drilling for oil with a standard rig.

You can be part owner of this oil well if you act quickly. Your interests are thoroughly protected by Permit No. 7578 issued to us by the Corporation Commissioner at Sacramento—this permit provides, among other things, for a trustee fund which will be carried in the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Imperial.

A copy of our Permit setting forth all the conditions under which we are authorized to operate may be seen at our office.

The Estimated Value of an Oil Well

The estimated value of an oil well averages about $1,250 to each barrel per day production. For instance, a 100-barrel oil well is estimated to be worth $125,000; a 1000-barrel oil well is estimated to be worth $1,250,000. Figured at $2.00 per barrel

A	25-barrel oil well earns per year $	18,359.40
A	50-barrel oil well earns per year	35,468.75
A	100-barrel oil well earns per year	68,437.50
A	200-barrel oil well earns per year	136,875.00
A	500-barrel oil well earns per year	340,437.50
A	1,000-barrel oil well earns per year	684,375.00
A	10,000-barrel oil well earns per year	6,843,750.00
A	15,000-barrel oil well earns per year	10,265,650.00
A	19,000-barrel oil well earns per year	13,003,125.00
A	25,000-barrel oil well earns per year	17,109,375.00

Let Oil Make You Rich

Like It Has Thousands of Others

We have a wonderful proposition. The men who get in with us today will have the benefit of the low price. $100.00 will get you more now than $1000.00 or more probably will later.

We invite the closest investigation. Don't let this opportunity go if you can spare $100.00 or $500.00. Remember for each $100.00 you get an undivided interest in the oil well and a grant deed to a quarter acre of oil land. Come in and see us and get first-hand information about oil prospects and oil discoveries in Imperial Valley.

...Robbed France of Many Promising Artists

...art, the aftermath of the ...ing freak painting out ...world of France, according ...Pages, director of the ...Academy at Paris, who ar... ...yesterday from overseas, ...a native son of California, went to France four years ago to become an instructor in the Julian Academy. He is now visiting with his brother-in-law, Georges Fusenot, formerly proprietor of the Ville de Paris, at 410 South Westlake avenue.

"Though the great war halted the advance of French art for a while," he said, "it has never injured it. In many cases the war has benefited art in France. Practically 90 per cent. of the art students in France, between the ages of 18 and 48, entered the service. Of the number of artists between the ages of 18 and 30 in the service 50 per cent. were killed. Many of these youths would have been among the world's greatest painters.

"The young artists who have returned to their studies are now resuming their art work with more serious thought. This seriousness is noticed in their work, for they are giving more time to precision and are returning to the style of Ingres, the master painter.

"We will have no invasion of war pictures, for all the young artists have lived through the war, playing a great part in it, and they have seen enough of it. Freak art also is passing out, for the war has been a cure for the freak painters."

Mr. Pages will remain in Southern California until next June, when he will return to his duties at the Julian Academy. Aside from being a director of the Julian Academy, he is a Knight of the Legion of Honor. Several private collections of his paintings are now being shown in Southern California, and in France he has an exhibit in the Museum of Luxembourg. The French government recently purchased four of his paintings. Before departing for France in 1915, Mr. Pages was a member of the Jury of Awards at the exposition in San Francisco.

SPEEDER IN JAIL.

H. A. Jones, fined $15 for speeding, spent yesterday in the County Jail. When he was fined he was given time to pay, but when he did not appear, an order was issued for his arrest. He paid $14 and served one day.

NEW STOCK SHOW CLASSES.

Directors of the Los Angeles Live Stock Show, which will be held at Exposition Park October 18 to 26, announced yesterday that the fancy driving and saddle horse classes have been increased and $1000 has been added to the prize money. Manager C. R. Thomas stated that the entry lists for this division will be held open until October 1. Entries in the live stock and poultry departments close today, with all classes filled and practically every important exhibitor west of the Mississippi represented.

Manager Thomas says, the Southern California and State fair entries have far exceeded expectations and there is every certainty that the Exposition Park stables will contain the finest collection of blooded animals ever seen in the West.

Horse breeders of the Santa Barbara and San Diego districts have written in during the past few days, asking that the lists be held open a few days, so that they could have time to tabulate their entries, and it was to accommodate these patrons that the directors of the show extended the closing date half a month.

Tom Mason, J. A. Alshouse, Dr. E. B. Boeseke, R. H. Gudgeon and C. K. J. Billings are among the owners who have sent in substantial entries, but there is every indication that there will be more than enough to make competition keen in the twenty-four classes.

In the live stock divisions there are hundreds of entries from all over the United States and California is particularly well represented. Among those who have pledged themselves to display large exhibits are James J. Jeffries, with holsteins; the Diamond Bar Ranch, Duroc hogs and Arabian horses, the Baldwin ranch, with several kinds of animals, and Mrs. R. E. Whitley, who will show Duroc hogs recently purchased for her Tu-Tock-a-Nu-La Ranch on Ventura boulevard.

POLICE TURN SALESMEN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 20.—The Santa Monica police have decided to sell the rest of Santa Monica's 50,000 pounds of bacon. There are as yet several thousand pounds that keep "hanging on." A stand has been erected in front of the City Hall, and the members of the force take turns selling and speaking words of praise of the government bacon.

LIGHTNING STRIKES STATUE OF GERMANIA.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

STRASBURG, Aug. 21.—It has become known only recently that the huge statue of Germania, which stands in the public square here, commemorating the victory of the Prussians in 1870, and the foundation of the empire of the Hohenzollerns, was shattered by lightning in August, 1918, when the Allied armies were driving the Germans before them all along the western front. The stroke of lightning now regarded as symbolic of the approaching fate of the German armies caused consternation among the superstitious Germans, and their authorities here decreed that absolute silence be kept regarding it. No one was allowed to see the monument thereafter except workmen who were at once employed to repair it.

The lightning struck the sword which "Germania" brandishes toward heaven. The imperial eagle was damaged and the Angel of War, which stands at the foot of the statue, was wrecked. Despite the repairs, traces of the effect of the thunderbolt still are visible.

SUES ON CONTRACT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Sept. 20.—William Baker of Piru is being sued in the Superior Court here by Max Rosenberg and others. Rosenberg says that Baker contracted to sell the 40,000 pounds of apricots raised on his ranch this year to him and his business associates; but when the time came, refused to do so. Rosenberg asserts that the crop was worth $4500 and this is the sum he asks.

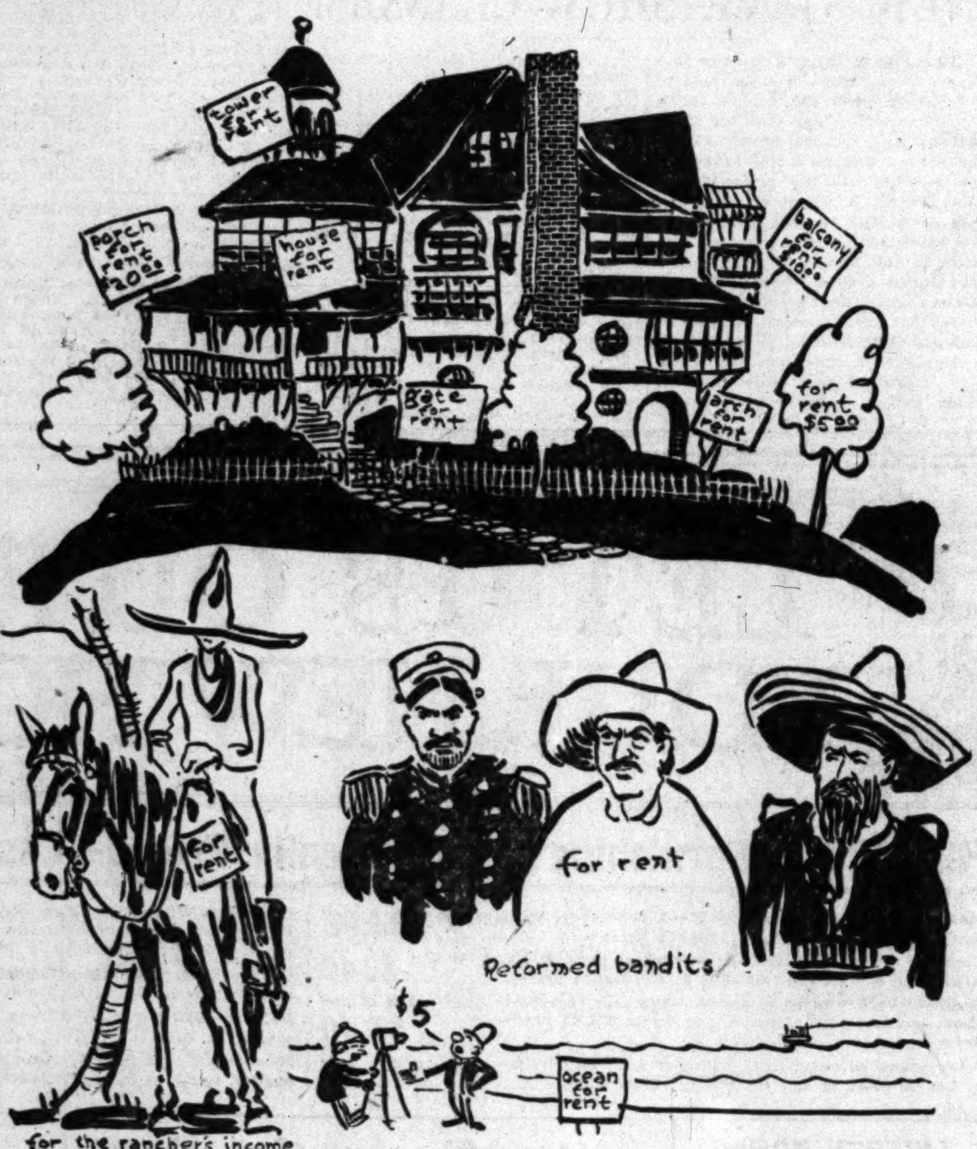
FOR RENT: THE WHOLE, WIDE, BEAUTIFUL WEST.

Even Your Own Back Yard is Perhaps Mapped and Indexed by Motion Picture Location Hunters.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Do you know that in all likelihood your home is ticketed and platted and mapped and pigeon-holed, that your favorite monkey tree in the front yard is spotted, and what you consider the privacy of your back-yard is known all about in certain quarters? Well, they are.

Scenery You've Seen on the Silver Screen.



A Barndollar Glimpse of "Sceneland."

No, not by enemies of your country. By the motion picture producers. Why, even your front door may become the front door of the handsome hero's home, and the villain may pursue the heroine over your front lawn at any moment, your more or less humble front door and your lawn thus gaining immortality in the deathless fillums. But don't worry. Your permission will be graciously asked and you'll be properly paid for the use of your property.

But it isn't only the city that is thus platted and surveyed by picture companies. The whole West is for rent, scouts from the various film concerns have catalogued every nook and corner of the country, and the finding of suitable locations has been raised to a fine art. Take Universal City, for instance. No matter what demand may be made upon the location bureau of the production office, the sort of place desired is sure to be found catalogued, because a crowd of scouts is out all the time nosing about to find "locations," photographing them when possible, describing them and bringing the data into the location office.

SECRET TREASURES.

Once on a time the picture players, whole auto loads of 'em, used to start out and find their own locations. But now that so much of the West has been "shot," picture directors must be more skillful in finding locations. Often they treasure these as their own secrets. I was talking to Ernest Warde, Jack Kerrigan's director, the other day, and I find he has a pet brook and a perfect peach of an adobe house in good repair, the situation of which he won't disclose for love nor money, since he figures he can use them many times from different angles if nobody else discovers them. Brooks, especially, are like dissolved jewelry, he says, they're so difficult to find. And he found this one right near Los Angeles, after all! After sending as far away as north of Santa Barbara, he located one within an hour of town!

The great value of Southern California to picture makers, of course, aside from the priceless quality of the sunlight, is that every sort of location can be found within a few miles of Los Angeles. But so much has been written on this subject that it is unnecessary to enlarge on this phase. Suffice it that, taking Universal City as a model, every location in the West, including Arizona, Mexico and the Rocky Mountain States, is known to the Universal location scouts; and this is true of most of the other companies. Once it is decided to film a photodrama at any one of the distant locations, a telegram is sent to the company's representative at that point. By return wire comes a statement as to the climatic conditions, whether or not any changes have been made in the location, whether or not it is accessible, together with full information regarding transportation, the cost of using such a location.

RANCH OWNERS.

Many of the companies own ranches, where a good deal of their stuff is "shot." These include Lasky, Universal, Ince and Brunton studios, while Tom Mix, who owns Mixville, out in Glendale, rents the property to Fox companies. Speaking of Tom Mix, he was once Mayor of the town of Newhall, and built a studio there. This studio still stands and he often goes up there to make desert stuff. Recently he went back to Montana to film a picture, under direction of Edward Le Saint, and while there he rented not only a huge ranch, but a number of buffaloes. One of the animals was accidentally killed and the death of the beast cost Mr. Mix exactly $1000.

There are some towns that are typical of certain sections. For instance, Burbank and Pleasanton are the official New England villages of the West. And at one town, the name of which I won't mention, because the city officials might take offense, they actually refuse to make any repairs like rebuilding the wooden sidewalks or straightening their fences or painting their houses, for fear the place will be ruined for picture purposes. San Gabriel is quite typical of the old Spanish days in California; and a certain residence street in Pasadena is often used for Long Island homes. Oxnard is the official desert of the West; and as for the Rocky Mountains you can rent all the Rocky Mountains you want—viz, Chatsworth Park—for $10 per day. Bear Valley is used constantly as the Canadian woods, British Columbia, the Tyrolean Alps, Kentucky and upper New York State. O'Neill ranch, 264,000 acres, with its cattle and horses, is often used in pictures.

Douglas Fairbanks declares that all the necessary scenery in the world, with the exception of Niagara Falls and the Grand Canyon, can be found within a few hours of Los Angeles. In connection with the making of Doug's picture, "The Man From Painted Post," there is a funny story. He wanted typical cow country, so he sent a scout back to Montana. In three days the scout telegraphed, "No typical cow country here. Better cow country near Los Angeles." So the picture was made at Universal Ranch! It was the same with Marshal Neilan's picture, "In Old Kentucky," when a scout was sent back there to look for location. "Can't find any place that looks like Kentucky," the scout telegraphed back with laconic humor—and Mr. Neilan used San Fernando Valley.

FINE BATTLEFIELD.

Speaking of the old Universal Ranch, back in the foothils fringing San Fernando Valley, that place is famous as the scene where many of the greatest battles in picturedom have been fought. It is extremely suitable, because it is cut off from the rest of the world, so that there are no telegraph poles, no street cars, no modern improvements of any kind to spoil the picture illusion. Here D. W. Griffith's, "The Birth of a Nation" was made, here many scenes of his "Intolerance," and later some trench stuff for "Hearts of the World." Then there was Allen Holubar's "Heart of Humanity," Frank Lloyd's "Tale of Two Cities," and much of Cecil de Mille's "Joan the Woman." The great Ince ranch, with its Hartville, named for William S. Hart, is the scene of all the wild rough-housing and cowboy battles of Hart's pictures, and of many of Ince's big spectacular drama, "Civilization," while the Lasky ranch in the San Fernando Valley saw the making of "The Warrens of Virginia," certain scenes of "Joan the Woman," "Carmen," and other great de Mille features.

A number of persons are in the business solely of reacting the West. Among these is Mrs. Ella Fox, who rents her big ranch and twenty-five head of horses constantly, with great profit to herself. She is also herself, a fine horsewoman and often takes part in pictures.

But renting of the West isn't confined to the renting of locations and horses. In the making of Richard Harding Davis's "Soldiers of Fortune," Allan Dwan happened on the man who used to be Villa's confidential friend and barber. The two jobs went together, it seems, inasmuch as for obvious reasons, Villa wouldn't let anybody shave him in whom he had not perfect confidence. Whether banditing had become a bit slow or what isn't known, but one day the man presented himself at Dwan's office, said he heard the director wanted bandits, that he had reformed and voluntarily left Villa, and wanted a job. He also found three other reformed bandits, who used to be with Villa, and all worked in the picture without anybody's throat being cut!

RENTING A RIVER.

Even the river bottom isn't excepted in the "renting of the West." Edward Le Saint tells me he rented a portion of it for $10 a day, last year, but this year when he went to hire a location, it cost him $25, the owner of the ranch through which the river ran saying there was more water in it this year!

Certain beautiful estates are greatly valued for picture location purposes. Naturally some landlords have become avaricious, but for the most part those of the West are fine, generous and open-minded regarding permitting the use of their property for picture purposes, in some cases not charging anything at all. Owners of fine estates like those of Arthur Letts, Senator Clark, Mrs. Jack Cudahy, the Busch estate in Pasadena, that of Mr. Woods of Beverley Hills, of Gillette, the safety razor king, and others, have been most generous in permitting the use of their homes; and while the great body of directors and picture folk have been considerate and appreciative of the courtesies accorded them, these have in some cases had to suffer for the carelessness of the few. In one case a beautiful home in Hollywood was rented for a nominal fee to a picture company. A big crowd of extras, dressed as ragamuffins, was used in the picture, and these evidently reacted to the clothes they wore, for they trampled the fine lawn, strewed it with bits of food, and when the lady of the house returned, bringing home a guest, she found her beautiful verandas decorated with the dirty, lounging crowds, who had eaten sandwiches and pie all over her lawn and porches, and had even smashed a pie on her front door! Naturally that settled it with that place. The owner never again allowed his home to be used as a picture setting, though before that he had been one of the most generous of landlords. In another case, a picture company used a beautiful estate in Beverley Hills—and the director had a grave dug in the front lawn! Which latter case reminds one that the Goldwyn studios have a "prop" graveyard on the lot!

CARE THE RULE.

In 999 cases out of a 1000, however, directors are careful to see that no damage is done to properties loaned them, conferences are held beforehand with owners, and directors explain carefully just what is wanted with the property, after the use of which damages, if any, are promptly repaired or paid for.

Senator Clark's home is very popular, and Ernest Warde tells me he once found five companies working there at once, including his own, Pauline Frederick's, Bessie Love's, Al Ray's and a Christie comedy company.

PRICES ON PORCHES.

Some particularly picturesque places are greatly in demand.

"I know one house," Edward Le Saint told me, "where they rented the front porch for $5, the side porch for $10, etc., with a graduated scale of prices for everything. The man that owned the place finally built a new house adjoining with the money he made from renting his picturesque old place!"

The palm tree is the bete noir of the picture maker. When making New England scenes, naturally the palm tree is out of place. Edward Le Saint recently had an awful time. He and his scouts hunted high and low for days in order to find a whole street without any palms. Finally, oh, joy! A nice little old-fashioned street was discovered in one of the nearby towns. They "shot" the scenes all right, but that night in the projection room—

"Oh, shades of the shadow drama!" exclaimed Le Saint, "There in the back-ground, overlooked in shooting by everybody on the set, plain as daylight, stood out one of those blankety-blank palms!"

Out-of-the-way places are of course often in demand for pictures. Up in Tuolumne county, in the Bret Harte country, is the town of Columbia, built in the days of the big gold rush. Just six people dwell in the town, but the places boasts scores and scores of empty houses. D. W. Griffith recently went there to make scenes for his current picture, a story of '49 days.

FINDING OIL WELLS.

Regarding Mr. Griffith's pictures, an odd fact crops up in the circumstance that oil was struck in three different locations immediately following the Griffith occupation of them for picture purposes. Out near Whittier, when he was making pictures in that locality, several years ago, oil wells were a feature of the story, and so the director spilled a barrel of oil up on a hillside, and let it trickle down. Somebody saw it, ran to a minerologist, got his expert opinion, somebody tested for oil—and there it was in reality! Scenes for "Intolerance" were made near Montebello, and right afterward oil was discovered there; while afterward, oil was discovered in a certain place just outside Los Angeles, where scenes for Mr. Griffith's "Hearts of the World" were made.

Sometimes interesting friendships are formed on location. The Goldwyn Tom More Company recently journeyed to San Francisco and Ugh! Calomel Sickens; Salivates!

Please Try Dodson's Liver Tone

I am sincere! My medicine does not upset liver and bowels so you lose a day's work.

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick; you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and cannot salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—[Advertisement.

Doctor Issues Warning And Tells How to Stop Tobacco Habit

New York: Dr. Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, says: I am often asked if I know anything to stop the tobacco habit and I always recommend Nicotol, which I have prescribed with great success. Nicotol contains no habit-forming drugs, is absolutely harmless and produces astonishing results in a very short time. The use of tobacco saps the vitality, vim, vigor and ambition of the slave who is enthralled by its seductive effects. It undermines the health and leaves the victim an easy prey to general debility, throat and lung troubles, nervousness, insomnia, heart trouble, kidney trouble, headache, tongue and lip cancer and even blindness. Physicians the world over often trace the start of the above diseases and many others to nicotine poisoning.

If you want to free yourself from tobacco go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets. Take one tablet after each meal and in a short time you will have no desire for tobacco—the craving will have left you. With the nicotine poisoning out of your system your general health will quickly improve.

Note: When asked about Nicotol Tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit—away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists including all the Sun, the Logan and the Chambers Drug Stores—[Advertisement.

NATOMAS LANDS
Sacramento Valley Irrigated Lands

I have secured the exclusive agency of the NATOMAS LANDS for Southern California and am able to offer to the buyers of this section a piece of property with the biggest future of any tract offered within the last fifteen years.

THE NATOMAS LANDS lie immediately North of the City of Sacramento and are the richest river bottom lands made up of decomposed vegetation of centuries. It is built up exactly as the valley of the Nile and is even more fruitful. An immense dike costing several million dollars completely surrounds the property and absolutely precludes the encroachment of waters from any source.

The NATOMAS LANDS are better known throughout the Middle West and East than right here in California and 80% of the sales have been made to the successful farmers of the Middle States who are the greatest judges of soil in the United States.

The soil is particularly adapted to the growth of heavy tonnage of alfalfa and is equally good for peas and beans, a crop of both of which can be matured each growing season. Pears do fine, as also do prunes.

NATOMAS LANDS are the biggest thing offered in the last fifteen years to the man who wants to own a ranch, and we are able to make terms and actually plant and farm the land for the purchaser.

This property is in its infancy, but the stories told by some of the farmers are almost like fairy tales, but the evidences are there to convince the skeptical man.

Dr. F. J. Raven, agricultural adviser and soil expert who has been associated with the subdivision and sale of lands in California for the past ten years, has been secured as sales manager for the above properties and agencies will be established in Santa Barbara, Ventura, Oxnard, Pomona, Riverside, San Bernardino, Orange, Santa Ana, Fullerton, Long Beach, Escondido, San Diego and El Centro (some of these agencies have not as yet been established and attractive agency contracts can be secured by live-wire acreage men).

TEA PARTIES AT VERNON.

't Shudder at Terrible Fights, Lady; Read What Fierce Gladiators Do.

BY FRED C. SPAYDE.

Mrs. Huntington Wilshire says to Mrs. Hollywood Westlake: "Do ... my husband goes every Tuesday night to those terrible prize fights ...?"

And replies Mrs. Westlake: "So does my husband, and he talks in ... after he gets home, and says, 'Swat him in the ye, George!' and ... the hop, Watson!' Isn't it awful?"

Ladies, fear no longer the wrecking of your husbands' kindly and ... natures, for the sights they see at Vernon Tuesday nights are much ... than some afternoon pink tea parties. Prize fights at Vernon? ... the thought! More than 100 women were at the ringside last Tues... and they might as well have brought their knitting along, so as ... make the evening complete. At any rate, read what it is that draws ... and Mr. Westlake and all the other 3000 Los Angeles busi... bankers, brokers, actors, waiters, truck drivers, chauffeurs, plumb... representatives of every walk of life, and many of their wives ...—to Vernon Tuesday evening.

Lady next to and doubtless wonders if she remembered to put the cat out of the house before she left home.

Ah, ha! Whom have we here? Bout No. 2 brings into the ring one Bobbie Keene, skinny boy, who starts a dancing contest with one Frankie Monroe. Frankie doubtless learned to box in a correspondence school, or at Ruth St. Denis's dancing academy. Yea, a pretty boy, though not going to get mussed, if he knows it. Crowd yells, "Heh; get busy! Blaaa! You're not working for the pictures. Fight!" The dancing marvels continue to leap about and tap each other playfully, while the crowd hollers in disgust and disappointment. Monroe, being possibly less bad than Keene, is given the decision. "Too brutal!" says the man on my left, ironically.

FRENZIED FINANCE.

While the bouts are on, the lights are turned low so that a fierce white glare is centered on the "roped arena"—and good old Police Gazette phrase, that. There being no windows, at least none visible, the theater is beginning to get warm and close and smoky. I wait, too, for the sounds of terrific betting. I hear the word "bet." Listening carefully, I hear one Spring-street office boy say to his friend, "You owe me a quarter on that last." Friend says, "Awright," but is apparently not daring enough to wager another quarter on the next match, which is between Bert Colima, in a pair of Y. M. C. A. running pants, and Billie Wilson. Another pair of dancers. Wilson has a new jig step he desires to show, but the crowd yells, "Boo! Boo!" and when 3000 people "Boo!" it is some groan. Colima is declared the winner.

Who comes now? Who is this gorilla-like person in green trunks, and built like a two-ton truck? 'Tis none other than "Tornado" George Moss, who is to punch the everlasting daylights (I hear) out of Gene Watson, a smiling, dancing person with nice, curly hair. I cover my eyes. I cannot bear to see what is to come. Hearing no sounds of conflict I look up and behold the terrible tornado lunging into the air and falling two feet short of hitting anything but atmosphere. Jack Doyle rests his head on his hand and gazes at the Tornado reproachfully, with his thoughts on the alfalfa crop on the Doyle ranch. The Tornado seems askeered-o'-nothin' but he does not get anywhere. Maybe he is not tornadoing this evening. He works like a leaping tuna. And now the secret is out. We know why Charlie Murray, Fatty Arbuckle and Charlie Chaplin go to Vernon regularly. To get new comedy stuff. The crowd, having laughed itself out, shouts, "Ring the bell!" and soon the tornado person, who looked fiercer than "Bull" Montana and is gentler than the spring rains, puts on his bathrobe and hies himself away, probably to get ready for his next day's work, driving a milk wagon.

FOR REVENUE ONLY.

Two youths, both in green trunks, appear—Charlie Roselli and Frankie Dolan. Frankie doubtless works in the movies and poses as atmosphere in a dress suit during the ballroom scene. If the Rev. Mr. Brougher should at this moment repeat his famous appearance, made last year in the ring at Vernon, he would not be horrified at what was going on in this bout, or even interested. Plainly, Frankie is boxing "for revenue only" or perhaps, the exercise. "Whooooo," and "Waaaaaa!" goes the crowd, and "Chile" Roselli wins.

Seventh inning—All up! Big bout next. Bottles from Doyle's next door, are sold. I ask my friend if he would like some 2.75. "What? That cough syrup! No, thanks." he replies, and I take the double strength chewing gum he offers me, but alas! like everything else in the world, seemingly, it, too, has lost its kick. I am afraid if time goes on as it seems to be going on now, the Vernon Crocheting Club will be holding its meetings here next year.

Now for the big stuff! There may be hope here. Billy Shade arrives in a bath robe and acknowledges a few sprinkles of applause. "Dynamite" Young George, formerly the terror of the Southern Pacific roundhouse arrives and is vociferously greeted with whistles, yells and more formal applause.

The boxers advance to the center. What ho! They start, they move, they seem to feel the thrill of life. They sail right in and clout each other. Is it possible? I rub my eyes. That Shade boy has steam behind his wallops. Young George is wondering right now if he were quite wise in giving up that good job with the railroad. "That Shade guy is no sap," my friend says, and he's right. The boy's there. He's clever. Young George later gets over his surprise that his opponent was not cowed by George's reputation and he, too, sails in and then everyone yells. No tango stuff here. Four rounds they go. The first two rounds belong to Shade, the last two, possibly, to George. The gong sounds. Two policemen jump into the ring as the referee holds up Young George's hand as the sign that he is the winner. Ooole! Shade protests. His manager jumps into the ring and shakes his fist at the referee. Half the crowd groans and hisses and makes sounds of displeasure, while the other half of the crowd says, "Pretty good boy, George." Meanwhile the policemen guard the referee from violence, (Comedy touch, that violence. Ha! ha!) No one hurts anyone else at Vernon. There is more violence in a reel of Tom Mix than in ten years of Vernon, these days. The referee needs no police protection. The kickers go home swearing by all the gods that they will never be seen at Vernon again, and yet you will find them all there next Tuesday night.

Very amusing evening, I say.

SCENERY LISTED BY FILM FOLK.

Burlingame for exteriors. The famous George W. Pope estate was used. Lieut.-Gen. Liggett was a guest at the house. He became acquainted with Tom Moore, and a nice acquaintanceship between the two sprang up, with Lieut.-Gen. Liggett an interested spectator of the picture making during the entire stay of the company.

A funny incident occurred during Allan Dwan's making of "Soldiers of Fortune," when some Chinese were used in a scene. It was during the filming of the action before a certain store in a Singapore street that one of the Chinese, who could speak but little English, pointed to a sign over one of the doorways and shouted in excited tones, "Bad, ah, velly bad!" The Chinese interpreter had gone into the city on an errand, and after many futile attemptes to find what was the matter with the sign, but without result, Mr. Dwan decided that it must be something terrible, and sent for a sign painter to do it over, and then kept the entire crowd waiting more than an hour for the interpreter to return. Every minute of time was costing hundreds of dollars, but a sign over the door announcing that it was the entrance to a tea garden was essential, and knowing that many people who could read Chinese would see the production when it was presented on the screen, he determined to wait. At last the interpreter returned, looked at the sign and smiled his inscrutable smile.

"Have the carpenters turn it over; it's upside down!" was all he said.

Sometimes, it appears, according to Jimmy Hogan, Mr. Dwan's assistant, that people are paid not to work!

"We went out on location in a park, the other day," grinned Jimmy, "and we found a good spot, but there were a couple of bums leaning against a tree. We asked 'em to go away, but they wouldn't, and finally we had to pay 'em $5 apiece to move on."

The railway companies are usually generous with the use of their property. The Santa Fe let Mr. Warde use the first train that moved after the strike was broken, though the company was swamped with business. In another case, however, which Jack Conway told me about, he got a letter from a railroad company that was abandoning a certain line and, hoping that a certain bridge would not be a total loss, wrote to Mr. Conway, offering to blow it up for picture purposes, together with a train, for $25,000. Mr. Conway says that, so far as he knows, the bridge is still there, waiting for the right story.

Downtown scenes in mid-day are, of course, difficult to get, especially as crowds naturally look into the camera unless it is masked. Mr. Warde tells me of a scene made by him at Seventh street and Broadway, wherein the hero and heroine had to cross the street and buy pencils of an old lady. Mr. Warde sat in an automobile at the curb, singing his orders! "Everybody thought I was crazy," said Mr. Warde, "so they looked at me instead of at the camera, so the picture came out all right. People thought the old lady who sold pencils was bona fide, so she sold her whole stock and made 60 cents besides her pay for working in the picture."

But directors are not always so lucky, and especially when handling foreigners is the work difficult. Jack Conway tells me that in a Chinese picture which he was making with Jack Kerrigan, the story called for his borrowing a suit of Chinese clothes from the proprietor of a curio store, in order to escape from the district. This scene was "shot" in Chinatown. But when the Chinese saw Mr. Kerrigan dressed in their costume, they felt that they were being made fun of, and no amount of persuasion could shake that belief. They became so perturbed about it, and scowled and threatened so darkly, that it was decided not to finish the scene there, which called for a lot of action involving the Chinese, but to duplicate the set at the studio.

Ruth Roland, while working recently in Chinatown during the making of a serial, in a scene calling for a chase, had to give it up. As she was dressed in Chinese clothing, the orientals thought there was a tong war on, over a pretty maiden of the flowery kingdom, and things got very exciting indeed for a few minutes.

Speaking of the effect on the natives of the use of certain towns, Jack Conway tells this one:

"We were taking pictures in Coulterville, Cal., one time. All the buildings that we wanted were a glaring white, much too bright for our use. The spending of a few dollars permitted the application of various shades of water-color paints. Imagine the feeling of the men who had been away for the day coming home to the rainbow village that they had left so pure and white! Well, the surprise that you imagine is nothing to the surprise that these same men expressed when they returned again the next day and found the houses all washed clean of their colors!"

The inconveniences of companies out on location are sometimes amusing—anyhow to read about. Upon arriving in the Puget Sound district recently, the members of the Goldwyn "Silver Horde" company, making Rex Beach's picture, were warned that they could have only one bath apiece during their stay, because it devolved on a solitary windmill to pump every available drop of water. Myrtle Stedman and Hector Sarno tried to ring in an extra bath in the sound, but one plunge was plenty, as the water was like ice. Director Frank Lloyd and Frederick Stanton solved the difficulty by playing a hand at cards with the coveted hot bath as the stake. Mr. Lloyd won.

Churches are often needed for use in pictures, and Ernest Warde tells of finding a particularly picturesque edifice which he coveted the use of for a certain picture he was making. He called on the clergyman, who dwelt next door.

American Ingenuity Has Wrought Miracles With

DRAPERIES

Out of the recent world chaos came many well-learned lessons and not the least of these to American manufacturers. Caught napping, as it were, when the great conflagration broke forth, they have since risen to heights that before were unknown. As an example, review the story of printed drapery fabrics.

War came and America couldn't get printed drapery fabrics. What was the result? Stirred by the impulse to meet the impending demand America awakened, designed and created fabrics no one knew of, and even went so far as to print designs of a most elaborate character on such materials as marquisettes, voiles, and even on burlaps.

These very fabrics today vie in popularity with materials costing many times as much. You will agree with us when you see them, that some of the prettiest are the least expensive. Color is an important factor and colors in the lesser expensive lines are just as much to be relied upon as the colors of the finest grades.

America has proven that not always is the most costly thing the most effective, in draperies, anyhow.

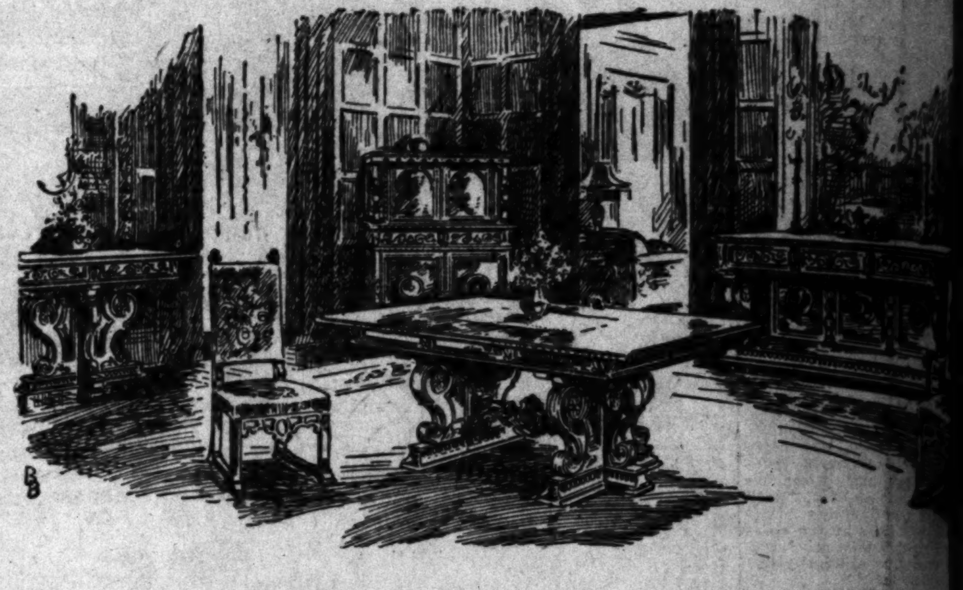
80th Free Noontime Entertainment Wednesday, September 24th

As usual the hour is 12:15 p.m. with festivities ceasing at 1:30 p.m. Madame Tiny and Miss Helen Burford, dancers; Fannie Fern Burford, harpist; Leon Monroe Burford, boy violinist; Mae E. Marshall, clarinetist; Mrs. John Arthur Cutchin, contralto; Melba Mae French, soprano, and reader, and Mrs. W. J. Frenth, pianist, are the artists scheduled to appear. A most delightful hour and a quarter is promised to interested music-lovers.



Hand-wrought Beauty of Italian Mast Lives Again in This Florentine Dining Su

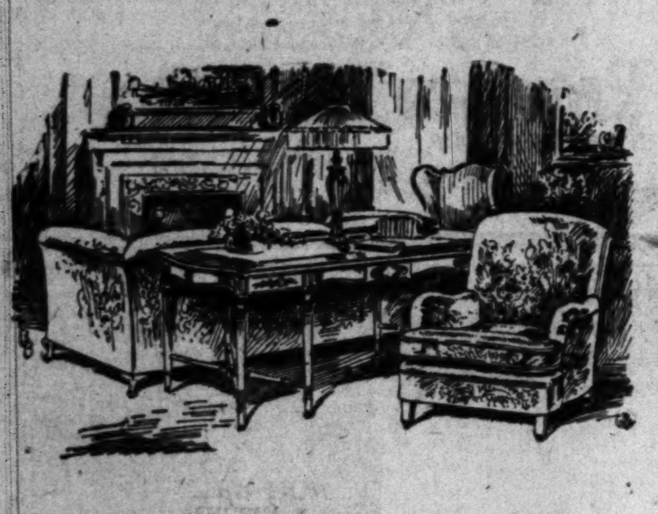
So exquisite in detail that it is a feast to the eye and of such supreme beauty is unable to be depicted in adequate terms.

The sturdy quality and grandeur of this dining suite would grace the most home.

Built of solid walnut and without a blemish, it is prone to become a cherished loom.

The handsome table is a noteworthy departure from pedestal and five or six leg the serving table entirely different; the sideboard and wall chest wonderful in acter—and chairs so charmingly artistic!

One loves to linger in its atmosphere and if just a few moments leave this impr what a happy life-time! Won't you come and see this suite if no more than its inspiration?



Enticing Retreat for Long Evening's Reveries

It was a "soft" question to decide—and when you finally decided upon the big overstuffed chair, in spite of the tempting davenport, you fairly sunk to depths of luxury and comfort!

Three Model Better Homes

—Their object is to show you how perfectly delightful home appointments can be made, and to help you in your planning—whether you are furnishing a home or merely freshening up the dull spots.

—If you do not have a home which is the creation of your own ideas you will, immediately upon seeing these beautiful model homes, want that home where you may give full play to your individuality.

—Strangers in the city are cordially included in our invitation for visitors to be sure and see these three homes, completely furnished — a charming feature of this resourceful store.

Temptation it is, "just to sit" on its soft, springy cushion—a moment, if no longer, would rest you!

Truly, a room without an inviting chair and beautiful davenport is lacking in feeling and charm, and who can resist longing for a davenport, table and stand lamp!

There are ever so many other designs in these particular pieces of furniture in our store which are pleasing and there is no surer way of cozying-up a living room.

Like Sentinels From the Story Books of the Chivalrous Age

Capable of just as great a measure of commanding grace in the modern Reception Hall as the knights of old in their castles are the floor lanterns at Barker Bros., and their kinship, the floor torchieres and floor lamps.

Lamps are somewhat of a specialized hobby with us, whether for floor or table. As to the latter kind, perhaps the most talked of just now in all our collection, are those of wrought iron.

Parchment Shades

—while a rather recent innovation, may very readily be employed to give to a lamp just that needed touch of distinction necessary to lift it from the realm of the commonplace.

Parchment shades from 10 to 20-inch measurement are carried in regular stock. If it is your desire we will gladly carry out your own ideas in the creation and decorating of such shades.

BOOSTING FOR BARD OF AVON.

Bessie Barriscale Says It's Time to Film Him.

Need for Creating Greater Interest in Master.

Believes Plan Can Now be Effectively Handled.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Before ever Bessie Barriscale starts on her trip around the world, which will be when she finishes her present contract with Robertson-Cole, she will make at least one picture adapted from a Shakespearean play. It may be, in fact, she will be permitted to do this under her present contract, but in any event she feels, in concert with her husband and director, Howard Hickman, that Shakespeare should and could be presented in pictures so that the ancient bard will be acceptable to the fans.

Miss Barriscale states that efforts to put Shakespeare into motion pictures have failed to touch a popular chord largely because the scenes without the wonderful dialogue are stripped of nine-tenths of their beauty and forcefulness. Shakespeare's works are intimate drama and lend themselves best to production on the stages of the theaters, but an understanding of this greatest of all masters of the drama is so necessary to proper education that it seems almost essential to get his plays before the people in a way that will attract them.

Said the star, the other day—Miss Barriscale is a Shakespearean student and a lover of his plays on the stage—

"There is a tremendous 'silent demand' for Shakespeare, and if the producers of the speaking stage will not listen, the producers of the silent drama should give ear and try to meet it. I believe it is possible to produce the works of the immortal Bard of Avon in such a manner as to retain all their beauty, power and 'Shakespearean atmosphere,' and at the same time keep a maximum of the dramatic text. I do not claim that such a production could ever be more than imitation of a stage production properly put on, but I do claim that Shakespeare must not be lost to the vast multitudes who find their entertainment in the motion-picture theater, and who haven't a chance to meet Shakespeare on the stage for the simple, but sufficient reason that there are no productions of Shakespeare to see. Even New York has only a season of 'Hamlet,' but the rest of the country, since Sothern and Marlowe quit, hasn't even heard the name of Shakespeare except indeed when Robert Mantell treats us to a week of the bard.

"The stage prices too are prohibitive and cannot be met by the average picture patron. The schools are giving Shakespeare more attention than they have ever done, and they are helping to stimulate the demand. In my mind there is a gold mine in Shakespeare for the producer who will do it right, and who will have his production directed by a director who knows Shakespeare."

Katterjohn Goes East.

Monte M. Katterjohn has been called suddenly to New York where he will conclude final arrangements with a group of Eastern financiers for the filming of his Alaskan play, based on his book, "Hearts of the Stampede."

It is Katterjohn's intention to make this production a pageant of stampede days. He states that "Hearts of the Stampede" will be much more elaborate than either of his former Alaskan screen plays, "The Flame of the Yukon" or "Carmen of the Klondike."

More than $250,000 will be expended on the production. Within twelve hours after receiving a wire to come to New York and make final arrangements for producing the Alaskan spectacle, Katterjohn had disposed of his interests in "Love, Honor and Obey" and the Katterjohn productions to Harry Garson, who also manages the Clara Kimball Young pictures, and was en route for the Eastern metropolis.

Ex-bandit Meets Ex-sheriff.

How the long arm of the law reaches no further than does the equally long arm of coincidence, was strikingly illustrated at the studio of the Capital Film Company in Hollywood recently when Al Jennings, the former railroad bandit and present screen star, arrived there from a business trip to Chicago, where he completed arrangements for the series of short features in which he is now playing.

During his absence the company had contracted with Neal Hart, whose portrayal of western types has made him so widely known to motion picture audiences, for a series of two-reel western pictures in which Hart was to employ the wealth of experience and memories of adventure gained in years of work on the western ranches and plains.

The one-time sheriff was at work on the stage of the Capital Film Company in a saloon scene, and arrayed in "chaps," sombrero and with guns festooning each hip, he was a formidable figure.

Jennings, now in the costume of a private citizen, walked onto the stage in company with Harry M. Owens, general manager of the company. Hart glanced at the two, and instinctively, his hand went to his hip.

Jennings caught the gesture, his hand made a similar motion and for a tense moment it seemed as if some secret feud of long-standing was to be settled then.

Then Hart smiled and walked over to the other two.

"You're Jennings, aren't you?" he asked.

Then the star explained that for years he had had impressed on his mind the features of the former bandit, and Jennings, in his turn, explained that Hart's western make-up for a moment had deceived him.

Burlesques Pioneer Days.

Al E. Christie claims to have established the precedent in picturedom by producing a film in which the Indians win. "This is the first time in the history of the screen," said Christie the other day while making a Fay Tincher Christie Special, which follows "Dangerous Nan McGrew," showing here this week, "when the Indians succeed in licking the tar out of the white men. I came to the conclusion after having made some fifty or a hundred wild western pictures in the old days, that the poor Indian had never had a chance. So we have given it to him."

Christie has wild Indian scenes in his newest Tincher comedy which he likens to the serious dramas which he used to make with Thomas H. Ince when western dramas were very much the vogue. "We have the Indians galloping around the ranch house shooting hell out of the white folks, dead men dropping on both sides and many of both races biting the dust," he said. "If we did this ten years ago, we would have thought it was a wonderful drama. Now we are kidding it. And in kidding, we have a chance to let the Indians win, and kick the stuffing out of a bunch of cowboys for double-crossing them, by putting them up to attacking Fay Tincher's bunch of cowgirls at Rosie's Ranch!"

Receives Directorship.

Sam Wood, for the past year Cecil B. de Mille's assistant, has received a full directorship and will start on his new duties in about two weeks, according to an announcement made by Cecil B. de Mille yesterday. Wood will direct Wallace Reid, popular Paramount-Artcraft star, in his next production, the "Speed Car" founded on an original story by J. S. Woodhouse.

Writes Sea Story.

Denison Clift, Fox scenario editor, is now combining editorial work and script supervision with the actual preparation of stories for the Fox stars. "A Girl in Bohemia," starring Peggy Hyland is being made from the working script written by Mr. Clift. At present he is writing a stirring sea story for Madlaine Traverse. Scott Dunlap will direct.

Kolker With Brentwood.

Henry Kolker, known for many years throughout the larger Eastern centers for his work on the stage and locally for his recent direction of Bessie Barriscale and Alma Rubens pictures, has joined the Brentwood forces and is now supervising the preparation of continuity from an original story purchased by that studio. The story is believed to offer material for an exceptionally strong drama of American life, the filming of which Kolker will personally direct.

McKim in "The Wolf."

Robert McKim who rose to screen fame in "The Westerners" and "Wagon Tracks," is to appear at the Palace next week with Earle Williams in "The Wolf." McKim is said to have the most picturesque characterization—as well as the most villainous—in his accomplished career in this film.

Chief Sees Warwick's Film.

Maj. Robert Warwick has just received word from New York that an unusual honor was paid him by Gen. Pershing. Maj. Warwick, then a captain, was on the General Staff overseas and as a dispatch bearer frequently received oral instructions from the commander of the A. E. F. When Gen. Pershing was in New York City last week he had many calls on his time, as the reports of his welcome and attendant ceremonies show, but he made a point of seeing Maj. Warwick's latest picture, "Told in the Hills" at the Rialto Theater.

New York Beauties Present.

The girls appearing in "Oh, Boy!" the film version of the stage musical comedy of the same name which is being shown at the Garrick, represent four different cabarets and five current Broadway musical comedy hits. The chorus in "Oh, Boy!" is known as "the $100,000 beauty chorus" and the girls disport themselves at intervals throughout the showing of the picture.

A Problem of Hearts.

Can you imagine a motion-picture studio without a heart? Yet that was exactly the situation of the Lasky studio the other day. At least, there was not a single heart that measured up to requirements.

Cecil B. de Mille was directing the filming of scenes in his latest special production, "Why Change Your Wife?" The leading roles, by the way, are played by Gloria Swanson and Thomas Meighan, the latter who appeared so successfully in the production of "The Miracle Man," now showing here.

For certain close-ups, Bebe Daniels was to have on her arm a small heart. When the time came to "shoot" the scenes, a box of hearts was brought up, but not a one of them would do. They were too big or too small or too something or other. Then everyone started cutting out hearts—actors, camera men, assistant directors and every one else around the set. When Miss Daniels had made one that passed muster, an extra supply of hearts was found, and every one of the several hundred in the box was "exactly what was wanted."

That Troublesome Rumor.

Ethel Clayton is still kept busy denying rumors that she has married or is about to marry. By phone, by letter and in her conversation she enters her denial daily.

"It's all on account of my good-looking brother," the Paramount-Artcraft star explains. "You see, he and my mother are my two hobbies, and I am with him much of the time. Every time I am seen with him someone starts a story that I am with my fiance."

Was Scheduled for Politics.

Harry Carey, the whirlwind star in "The Ace of the Saddle," his latest Universal picture, was born in New York, about the time that every juvenile Democrat cast longing eyes toward Tammany Hall. If he had not become an actor many of his old-time friends like to think that Carey would have become a Tammany politician and they steadfastly declare that he would have been one of the shining lights in the world of politics.

Finds Picture Life Soft.

Houdini, king of handcuffs, who is now appearing in a serial at Clune's Broadway, has an emphatic objection to make against the life of a motion-picture actor. "It's too easy," he charges. To see him working before the cranking camera, the onlooker would not see anything easy about the life. He takes risks a half dozen times a day that would cause the average man to

FAITH AND THE DRAMA.

The Work of the Hollywood Community Theater.

How Ideals Have Made Ivar Street a Mecca.

The Community Spirit and the Playhouse.

By Edwin Schallert.

"Of course, I have faith in the artistic taste of the public. Is there not every reason that I should?"

The speaker was Miss Neely Dickson—the place somewhere-in-Hollywood; the time—any day in the year now, for the faith that is mentioned is of the type that endures, and this no doubt is the reason why it has been rewarded in so striking a manner.

Southern California is full of phenomena. Some of these are cometary, with a great deal of glow and glamor and very little substance; others are like a sudden meteoric splurge. But there are certain ones which have held up the light of permanency growing steadily stronger as the days advance. It is to the last named that the Community Theater is best liked.

This playhouse is really in the category of phenomenal things. It has opened the eyes of the highbrow world. And whereas its endeavor amounted to naught but a dim flicker two years ago, it has now become a shining presence in the realm of drama. Even the eastern magazines have paid a tribute to its illuminating achievement, and have marveled at the fact that the efforts of those watching over the project have met with a success unattained elsewhere in the country.

"Producing the artistic in drama was always the ambition of my life," said Miss Dickson, who for the two years of the theater's life, has directed the performances, which have included among others, plays by Shaw, Dunsany, Schnitzler, Quintera and Barrie, of the modern schools, as well as many unusual pieces. "I never quite realized that ambition until we started our work here two years ago.

"You see, I had hoped to go on the stage, but my parents objected. So I had to take up some work which would at least approach my original aspiration. For a long time I devoted myself to the producing of plays in schools.

"The educational phase of the work was interesting, but still I hardly felt as if it was my real vocation. The field did not offer the opportunities to do what I really wanted to. Still it was a stepping stone, for my association with a local high school, opened the way to starting this theater.

"Now, this too, is growing too small. Still I don't know yet what we are going to do for another theater. It will have to be a matter of the growth taking care of itself. It rests entirely with the community."

THE COMMUNITY IDEAL.

When Miss Dickson uses "community" you feel as if the word were about twice as big as ever before. Perhaphs it is her idea of what community is—or her ideal, permeating the actual productions that has made them so remarkably popular not only in the particular locale of the theater itself, but in the entire city.

It is a well known fact that unless you begin to talk yourself hoarse a week or so in advance you haven't a chance in the world to get a seat for the Hollywood Community Playhouse. Well, no, I suppose there is some slight exaggeration in that, but there is little doubt that the Community Theater, while open does play to more sold out houses on the average than any other theater in the country, because its practically always sold out.

That is why Miss Dickson is hoping to secure another theater to carry on her efforts. The capacity of the present one on Ivar street is a shade less than 300 persons.

The origin of the building as a playhouse goes deep down into the soil. At one time it was a bowling alley. Then part of the time it was used for prayer meetings.

There is a vacant lot adjoining which in the days when there was no such place as Filmland Row, or Hollywood boulevard, was a part of an attractive sunken garden adjacent to a neighboring roadhouse.

In the shadow of pepper and pine trees stands the little playhouse,

Dedicated to Better Homes

Just as the beauty and appeal of a picture depend upon the background or setting, so does the beauty and appeal of the home depend upon the treatment of the windows and doorways, the walls and the floors.

It is very important, particularly at this time, when thought is naturally directed toward putting the home in order for the entertaining season, that consideration be given to the curtains and draperies and wall papers, and to the floor coverings, for they are the first essentials in creating the desired atmosphere.

The service which the "California" renders in this regard is one of real helpfulness. Our thought is not to merely sell draperies or curtains, or wall paper or rugs—but rather to help you to achieve the results you idealize.

The windows, for instance, should be treated to create the right impression from the outside as well as from the inside of the home.

The over-drapes should be in harmony with the wall decorations and with the general interior scheme. Every factor should be considered and determined on the basis of its relation to every other factor.

The advisory service of highly skilled men of specialized experience assures to you here a satisfaction in results which is scarcely subject to comparison.

We shall be glad to have one of our representatives interview you in your own home relative to your anticipated requirements.

Revue of Fall Fur Fashions

There is a marked tendency this season toward larger fur pieces—Sable dominating the mode, and Mink its closest rival.

The smarter models in coatees and short capes are being shown in Sable, Mink, Alaska Seal, and Hudson Seal. In many of the Seal garments, collar, cuffs and pockets are of Squirrel, Beaver or Skunk.

Animal-shape scarfs of Fox, Lynx, Stone Marten and Fisher, as well as small neckpieces of Sable and Mink, are very smart for tailored wear.

Ermine is sharing the vogue with Chinchilla for strictly evening wear.

Among the most charming innovations are the saucy tams and luxurious hand bags of fur to match the wrap.

Most elaborate are the new linings. Rich brocaded effects in gold, silver and satin are daintily combined with chiffon veiling. Figured satins, silks and georgettes are also very modish.

Soft, clinging lines are a dominant feature of the new Fall garments.

OF ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

A Sicilian Night.

Come, stand we here within this cactus-brake,
And let the leafy tangle cloak us round.
It is the spot whereof the Seer spake—
To nymph and faun a nightly tryst-ing-ground.
How still the scene! No zephyr stirs to shake
The listening air. The trees are slumber-bound
In soft repose. There's not a bird awake
To witch the silence with a silver sound.

Now happy shall the vision trance our eyes,
By heedless motals all too rarely scanned,
Of mystic maidens in immortal guise,
Who mingle shadowy hand with shadowy hand,
And moving o'er the lilies circle-wise,
Beat out with naked feet a saraband.

The New Era in Art.

The cessation of hostilities between the great nations marks, I believe, the dawn of a new era for the world, an era in which the intellectual will at last come again into his own. The unrest everywhere discernible is merely the natural and unusual process of peoples adjusting themselves to a new day.

Nowhere is this more clearly to be remarked than in the field of art. The new "movements" have passed, with their discoveries, into history, leaving the sum total of their "finds" as a heritage to independent painters. The painter of today—that is, the painter who has realized his birth-date and has seen with unclouded vision the world about him—has for his use all the knowledge of the possibilities of natural depiction and all the philosophical precepts which made masterly composition for Rubens, Greco or Giotto. The evidence for the case of art versus nature is all in, and the artist has but to pick that which is the most relative to his own temperament and talents, study, adapt and go ahead. The research work is accomplished and the art world enters the new epoch fully prepared to do great things.

But the artist himself is not the only proof of this new spirit. Even governments are bestirring themselves in its behalf. Only recently the Ministry of Reconstruction of Great Britain issued a pamphlet which is a plea for a reversion of art toleration. In one part is read: "The great fact awaiting recognition is that art is indispensable in life, and therefore in education and in work." Of course, in the great periods of art production, and incidentally of government which made happy the governed, the "fact" was recognized. It is only awaiting re-recognizing, and I know many men who boldly proclaim that such a day is at hand.

I am not one of those who believe in the coincidental awakening to certain aims, which sweep over the world simultaneously, any more than I can conceive that it was a mere coincidence that millions of persons suddenly contracted influenza last winter. In fact, the greater number of our actions and thoughts are dictated by impulses and stimuli that we cannot fathom—we may only record them as they pass.

So it is that the actions of men scattered over the world and widely spaced have a certain affinity of desire when they simultaneously do certain things. I have in mind the recent donation of H. E. Huntington to the people of the greatest private library extant and his promise of his house upon his death. On the same day that I read this great news, I received a letter from a picture dealer in New York, who told me that the coming art exhibitions season promises to be the liveliest in the history of his gallery.

Again, look at the number of purely art periodicals which have sprung up in the last year. Also see the new impulse in our musical organization of this city for the coming season. For six months there has been a project for a civic center here to the end of beautifying Los Angeles and making it the Mecca for American artists, whether they be painters, sculptors, musicians or writers.

I understand from an authoritative source that one of our large cities has set aside a budget for the acquisition of modern pictures. The influence of these so-despised moderns is surely making itself felt universally and our painters here have brightened up their color perceptibly since the new work has been seen. As soon as the bizarre exterior of these works has become familiar the public, as well as the open-minded painters, will sense their real importance as art—for the whole impulse of their creation lay deeper than even their creator imagined.

The trend of all our efforts has been toward the classical ideal of a composition based on the retroactive movements of the human body. Until anatomy in its philosophical aspect is taught in our schools of art, the quality which is the essence of mastery—rhythmic organization—will lie unheeded by men who might with their present ability as painters have created masterpieces instead of only making objective illustrations.

This classical ideal permeates every phase of life. It invests government, it inspires art, it directs mechanics and regulates industry. It is harmony which reigns supreme after its struggle with contending forces. The achievement of such harmony is not free from the most discouraging vicissitudes, and with each evolutionary step something is learned.

In art the advent of Delacroix was the signal for unbounded sarcasm on the part of critic and public, but Delacroix found the complementary color illusion seen in shadow. He opened the way to modern naturalism and is today considered one of the glories of French art. Pissarro, the founder of Impressionism, was pounded incessantly, as was Monet, but he found the rationale for the brilliancy and diversity found in nature. He is in the Louvre today and Monet has been offered government decorations. Courbet and Daumier are both much thought of today, and Cezanne, the most attacked artist of modern times, is not only in the Louvre but in the Metropolitan Museum of New York!

Cezanne is the first painter who realized that color is the painter's medium even as sound is the medium of the musician. One may with justice to the old masters call Cezanne the first painter. But neither he nor the others are modern masters because of their discoveries or inventions in new means, but because their classical inspiration was adequately expressed.

Such classical training has unequivocally disappeared from the teaching of the schools. Composition, with few exceptions, has become a lost art, and yet it is the all in all of art. The day when artists were considered crazy simpletons is past. An artist should realize that understanding of even the minute qualities of their work can never but be helpful to their efforts.

Camera Club Exhibition.

The Southern California Camera Club closed, last week, a very successful exhibition of about one hundred prints at Hamburger's. On Thursday the prints were transferred to the rooms of the club, at 522 Wilcox Building, where they will remain for the rest of the month. The club has no regular attendant, but the prints may be seen on any Thursday night, or at any time when some member is at the rooms, or by appointment with any member.

Many of the beautiful prints deserve much more than the brief mention that must be given them here. T. K. Adlard's "Sunset Glow" has color and feeling. H. C. Bryant's "Good-bye" is a charming bit of sentiment—a mother bidding her soldier boy farewell. J. C. Carlton has some fine entries, several of which have hung in the Pittsburgh Salon. Miss Close, the club secretary, is best represented by "A Woodland Symphony." R. M. Hovey's home portraits of children show what opportunities there are for the enthusiast with children of his own to record, and his "Glee" is delightful.

"Sunset," by W. L. Jennings, has been chosen by the editor of Camera Craft for an illustration in the September number. "Surging Waters," by Frances Purdy, gives one a genuine glimpse of the turbulent ocean. L. Renchler gives one excellent bird's-eye views from airplanes taken by him while on war duty. W. C. Sawyer's "Before the Wind" is a bright view of the sea. Albert M. Shaw shows a meritorious fleet picture entitled "The Watchdogs of the Pacific." David J. Sheehan has some very good pictorial landscapes and shore scenes.

"The Stag," by Frank Shirley, is out of the ordinary. Otis Williams is a painter, with training in the New York art schools, and his "Faun" might have come from the brush of Maxfield Parrish, so pictorial is it.

Industrial Art Class.

In the Sunday edition of The Times, September 7, (writes Walter Barron Currier, head of the art department in Lincoln High School,) you quote from the pamphlet entitled "Industrial Art a National Asset." I wonder if you know that the only industrial art class in the city, spending three hours daily, is being conducted at Lincoln High School, and that this class is the only one in the city working entirely on this line? This year was the first year such courses were given at Lincoln or any place in California. This class is working daily and is gradually changing from the old to the new idea.

This summer, at the University of California at Berkeley, I had the opportunity of offering for the first time just such a course to the teachers there. Whether I am the only pioneer in this line on the Coast I don't know, but I think you might be interested to visit my classes. I am adopting the same fine art principles to every problem in our daily lives, industrially and commercially, and a period of radical reconstruction is taking place.

Another Cabrera.

I read with great pleasure your words about Cabrera, Miguel, in last Sunday's Times (writes M. J. Riordan from Flagstaff, Ariz.) For several years I have been trying to locate something about this artist, since I have a picture, an "Assumption," painted on cedar, which I believe to be by this painter. It is signed in the corner, "Michel Cabrera, 1767."

I never have understood the reason for the French form of the signature, and it has made me doubtful of the authenticity of the painting. I wonder if the painting by him in the Southwest Museum uses the French or the Spanish form in the signature. Also, do you know of any list of his paintings which might possibly enable me to identify the one that I have?

Several years ago, in 1915, before the war, I noticed a Murillo in the Louvre which reminded me instantly of the Cabrera picture I have. I have never been able to get a copy of the one in the Louvre, however, to compare with my own, since everything over there seems to have been misplaced during the war.

Sorry to trouble you, but I felt you might be interested enough at least in so far as the signature is concerned and help me determine "just where I am at."

[Perhaps the curator of the Southwest Museum can be of assistance to our correspondent.]

New Art School.

Stanton Macdonald Wright, one of the discoverers of the new idea in art called synchromism, and himself a brilliant painter of portraits and figures, has come from New York to Los Angeles with the intention of starting an art school. Mr. Wright is a brother to Willard Huntington Wright, the novelist and critic.

In the projected school Mr. Wright will insist upon a close study of anatomy; he will demand intelligent drawing, and he will teach the methods of the modern men, so that those whose penchant is independence may choose what best fits them. He will also give weekly lectures on art to the pupils of the school.

Ten Painters' Club.

The fall exhibition of the Ten Painters' Club has just opened in the Kanst Gallery, 826 South Hill street. Each member of the club is represented by ten new paintings. These artists are Maurice Braun, Benjamin Brown, Edgar Payne, Hanson Puthuff, Elmer Wachtel, Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel, William Wendt, Clarkson Colman, Guy Rose, Jack Wilkinson Smith.

In the Fashion Show.

Each member of the Ten Painters' Club has contributed one picture to the fashion show window display of the Broadway Department Store.

Temperature Changes Leaves.

Some recent investigation of the temperature of leaves made in the deserts and mountains of Arizona and in the Santa Lucia mountains of California have resulted in the discovery that leaves show a very rapid change of temperature at times. These fluctuations are almost constantly going on. Changes of from 1 to 3 degrees Centigrade were observed in from twenty to sixty seconds, and if a moderately strong wind is blowing the change may amount to 5 degrees in thirty seconds.—[Exchange.

their fundamental freedom of all of those em- mines and other enterprises. The be noted at the so relatively free that he has little Socialism. Though able methods of is conservative in attached to his idea of economic in the formula is entitled to the fruits of his own labor;" and in its corollary that "no man should live by the labor of others." All Socialists are agreed on these basic principles, but differ profoundly concerning their application.

In ordinary affairs it is difficult to determine just what constitutes "the fruit of one's own labor," or to what extent one may be said to be profiting by the labors of others. But we must recognize that one's whole attitude toward socialism in general is determined in the main by his interpretation of these principles. According as one has property, or a fixed income, or no property or even no steady employment, will his judgment of Socialism be affected. We cannot escape the personal equation in such vital matters! and we must therefore make the greater effort to attain a fair point of view.

It should be recognized that those Socialists who believe in democracy aim to bring about the economic freedom of the workingman by slow orderly processes, through the force of education and moral suasion. The Bolshevist, however, is determined to accomplish this end by moral coercion and violence.

He does not shrink at terrorism, cruelty, or murder. He is controlled by fanaticism and fury.

FANATICISM.

The fanaticism of the Bolshevist springs from his class hatred—his contempt and venom for the members of the bourgeoisie — those beneficairies of capitalism and industrialism whom he claims are carried on the shoulders of the proletariat. And by this term he denotes all who in any way are dependent on the labors of others! With the fervor of a bigoted Moslem he believes in the divine right of the proletariat to rule.

The Bolshevist makes no distinctions between good and bad members of the bourgeoisie; between philanthropists and human vultures; between benefactors of mankind and those who pander to human vices and weakness. All are grouped together as members of a hated class.

When Socialists like Karl Marx speak of the necessity of the "elimination" of the bourgeoisie as a class, they are thinking in terms of an altered state of society where such a class will have no place. When the Bolshevist speaks of "elimination," however, he means a swift elimination involving cruelty, violence, and bloodshed, if necessary. He draws no subtle distinction between the elimination of a class and the elimination of the individuals of a class. His object is "to accelerate the tempo;" to put an end to "capitalism" and "industrialism" with the utmost speed and thoroughness. Dispassionately and cold-bloodedly he argues, with Lenine, that it is necessary to efface—to-destroy, before he can build his socialistic edifice.

Having no faith in the slow, orderly processes of democracy, the Bolshevist is the frank partisan of autocracy, of the tyranny of a real "dictatorship of the proletariat"—a term he has borrowed and perverted from Marx. He believes that the workmen themselves must be coerced into an acceptance of Bolshevist ideas and methods. Only trusted extremists are permitted to vote or hold office. If the majority of the population happen to be farmers, and are by nature antagonistic to socialism—as in Hungary—all the more reason for a dictatorship! Not persuasion, but coercion is the weapon of the Bolshevists; not democracy, but tyranny.

Terrorism is the natural weapon of tyrants. The Bolshevists have cultivated terroristic methods as a fine art. The members of the bourgeoisie must be cowed and conquered by threats and violence! means of a livelihood or of defense taken away! They must be rendered impotent at a stroke! That this is no mere rhetorical charge, let one recall the procedure adopted by the Bolshevists wherever they have had a free hand, whether in Russia, or in Hungary, or Bavaria.

One of the favorite terroristic methods of Bolshevism is that of imprisoning as hostages prominent representatives of the bourgeoisie-lawyers, doctors, priests, bankers, manufacturers, shop-keepers and others who are to be terrorized, tortured, or finally executed as a warning to the rest of their class in case the Bolshevists are not satisfied with the course of events. There may be stoicism in the heart of a Bolshevist; there certainly is no pity.

Among the economic reforms imposed by the Bolshevists by a single stroke of legislation is the abolition of the right of private property. No man has title to a given piece of land or a building; he merely is allowed by the State to make a limited use of the same. A barber, who by thrift has become owner of the very shop in which he long labored as an employee, ceases to have any proprietory rights! A farmer who by hard labor has built up a profitable estate and desires to turn it over to his ones has no title whatever to his property!

Another great economic reform is the "socialization of industries" whereby a great industrial enterprise is suddenly turned over to the employees to be controlled and exploited as they may see fit. The elimination of the hampering control of capitalistic management by the employees leads inevitably to a policy of waste and extravagance. Available resources are rapidly exhausted and the "socialized" industry is soon a miserable wreck with a lot of disillusioned workmen looking to the state to preserve them and their families from ruin.

THE REAL BOLSHEVIST.

One of the most extraordinary facts concerning Bolshevist methods is that they aim deliberately to prevent existence of an independent class of self-supporting and self-respecting citizens such as farmers and thrifty, skilled artisans. Starting with a small group of unemployed or of disaffected workmen, the Bolshevists seek to increase the numbers of those opposed to the existing order of things, and to vastly widen the circle of discontent. And those who own nothing, those who are without steady employment, and many of them plotters with criminal instincts, form the solid irreconcilable phalanx of the Bolshevists.

An attitude of mind such as this naturally induces idleness, looseness of morals, a lack of respect for industry, thrift, integrity, and especially of respect for religion. It is a strange fact that most of the Bolshevists are avowed atheists or are violently anti-religious. Such tolerance as they may have shown the church proceeds rather from a policy of expediency than from genuine respect. They may think it prudent not to antagonize the church too much; but most of them believe the church to have been the ally of capitalism. They have no use of religion other than the economic cult of Socialism.

Law and order naturally cannot be upheld under a Bolshevist regime. Where all rights are determined by a dictatorship; where one class holds sway, injustice, discontent, and violence are bound to exist. The Bolshevists aim to abolish in a day the old courts of justice. Rough and ready tribunals presided over by "comrades," where lawyers are excluded, issue decrees of life and death as they may be moved by the passions of the moment. Clemency, and appeals are forbidden; and the sentences of these tribunals must be executed with the utmost haste!

FOES OF SOCIALISM.

Theft, terrorism, violence, hatred, murder, and all the vicious instincts find free play under Bolshevism. The writer speaks not from hearsay or from prejudice, but from personal observation, and as one who has long had a sympathetic appreciation of the aims of Socialism. He regards Bolshevists not only as the foes of democracy and the established order of society, but as the very worst enemies of Socialism itself. By their ruthless methods and their contempt of justice, morality, and religion, they have badly injured the cause they profess.

The world has nothing to fear from orderly social experiments adopted with the calm, reasoned consent of the community. But it has everything to fear from violent experiments that prove nothing of value, that induly discredit lofty aims and that awaken deep prejudices and animosities leading directly to class warfare. Socialism undoubtedly has much to offer for human welfare. It is a great misfortune that it should not have a fair chance to demonstrate either the value or the defects of its programme. Bolshevism is its worst enemy as many Socialists have come to realize with bitter misgivings.

As Bolshevism is unmistakably the open foe of law and order, and of democracy itself, America—the great hope of democracy—cannot tolerate for a moment those who in any way sympathize with the Bolshevists. Terrorism of this sort can only be met by the relentless terror of the law. No tolerance should be shown even to those mild intellectual Bolshevists who express an academic approval in conversation, speeches, or in print, of something they fail to understand.

A DISEASE.

Bolshevism is too insidious and infectious a disease to be permitted to propagate freely. Strong preventive measures, as well as drastic remedies, must be employed to stop its spreading further. As it breeds best in foul conditions, we must make certain that just grievances shall have a fair hearing, and that the wrongs of all classes be righted

A vague and general discontent due to the high cost of living must be recognized as a most fruitful soil for the propagation of Bolshevism. When men find it hard to feed, clothe and properly care for their loved ones, they grow into a temper of mind that is careless of dangerous innovations. And the situation becomes alarmingly bad where this discontent includes the professional classes of limited means together with the unskilled laborer. To be definite; if flour, fats, and fuel are not at once brought within the reach of all there is bound to be trouble. This is the Bolshevist's great opportunity.

The focus of Bolshevist agitation is unquestionably in those big industrial centers where men have been reduced to the status of mechanical automatons, and where living conditions have become demoralized and unbearable. Where such conditions prevail, the employer has a solemn responsibility toward the whole community as well as his own workmen.

The adjustmentof labor disputes is a task requiring good feeling as much as good sense. The influence of widespread education in the United States, and particularly the growth of the spirit of genuine democracy, have had a marked effect on industry. The keynote of labor agitation is the demand for co-operation and democratic sympathy between employer and employed. Autocracy of any sort is as abhorrent in the ordinary relations of men as in darkest Russia. Dictatorship by capital or labor is something that the community at large is bound to prevent.

DEMOCRACY THE CURE.

The final answer to Bolshevism—as has been emphasized by John Spargo, a Socialist of long standing—lies in democracy. It would be foolish to think that Bolshevism can be suppressed by violence alone. The only sound method of avoiding this peril is by the orderly processes of democracy, namely, by a reasonable attitude of mutual tolerance and respect between all citizens; a recognition of existing grievances, and a willingness to correct all wrongs that create disaffection, distrust and hatred.

We are bound to differ often as to the facts of a given situation; we may honestly differ as to measures and methods to remedy the situation; but we can weather any storm if we show to each other that generous spirit of human brotherhood which lies at the heart of democracy. If Bolshevism is the great foe of democracy, there can be little doubt that true democracy is the greatest foe of Bolshevism.

A GOLDEN GRANARY.

Hukuang Loan Will Make China's Richest Province Accessible.

The Chinese province of Szechuan, with a territory greater than the combined areas of Greece and continental Italy and with a population nearly twice their combined number, a land of multiple annual harvests and of abounding mineral wealth, has for decades lured the world's commerce and at the same time held it at arm's length. This single province has an area of more than two hundred thousand square miles and a population estimated at 8,000,000. It is rich in coal and iron, lime and salt; and gold, silver, copper and antimony are found within its borders. Such is the mildness of the climate that there are intermediate crops between the two main harvests. The great plain of Chengtu, its capital, is a golden granary of magnificent capacity.

Surely, no country offers prizes more tempting to the adventurous hardihood of modern commercial pioneers. It has tempted them—and baffled them. For Szechuan is walled about with barrier mountains. Its only artery of communication with the world is the Yangtze River, which has burst through the imprisoning ranges to the sea. And so difficult is traffic through its gorges that a can of kerosene which sells in Hankow at $3.40 costs $10.30 in Chengtu. The people of Szechuan can live without foreign commodities in adequate comfort, as the Chinese have done for centuries; but the little foreign merchandise which has made its costly way into the country has whetted an appetite for more.

The Chinese of Szechuan want a railroad almost as much as the outer world wants to tap the prodigious resources of the basin. They have even made an attempt on their own account to pave the way for commerce by undertaking a railroad project. They failed. But the three greatest European powers before the war—England, France and Germany—who had each been competing zealously for the exclusive right to finance a railroad into the far interior, finally got together in a tripartite co-operative agreement to build a line from Canton on the coast to the farthest west provincial capital of China—Chengtu of Szechuan, near the borders of Tibet—via Hankow, the heart of China's industrial life, and via the Yangtze River, the main artery of its commerce.

Into this group the United States, under President Taft, forced its way. It was our first step in placing fact and act back of talk in our much vaunted role of protector of the "open door" policy and defender of the integrity of China's sovereignty. This agreement is known as the Hukuang loan.—[Silas Bent, in Asia.

IT TALLIED.

A stranger dining at a foreign hotel was accosted by a detective, who said to him:

"Beg your pardon, we are in search of an escaped convict, and as a matter of form, you will oblige us by showing your passoprt."

"Do I look like a convict?"

"Possibly not. In any case, I shall require to see your passport."

The stranger, feeling annoyed, presented the officer with the bill of fare and the latter commenced to read:

PRAISE FOR THE PIE.

All of Them Are Good, Remarks Eulogist, but the Huckleberry—

They were talking about pies and discussing which was the best and, what we gathered from the cheerful controversy, all were the best. The person who stood up for the good old apple pie was just as eloquent in his references to the peach or pumpkin pie. In fact, each person would hurry through the praise of one kind of pie in order to champion another, which convinced us that of all the varieties of food in this world the pie is the blessedest. Sometimes you will find a man who doesn't eat pie, but watch him. Pie is a remedy for many distempers. We one time cured a ferocious sick headache with a quarter of a mince pie and that, too, on the advice of a physician.

One of the party never heard of a mulberry pie, and what a barren life she must have led! We are just through with the cherry-pie era, and with what joy it has filled the world! And now we come to the berry era, and first of all there is the huskleberry pie, which berry has rescued from sunshine and soil all the grace of the earth. If a man does not like a huckleberry pie it is because the pie or himself has not been well made. The black raspberry pie stands away up on the snowy peaks of perfection and for picnic purposes it is unparalleled. When we eat raspberry pie in the woods we feel that the Dryads are feeding us from their lily white hands.

There are other glorious pies, of course, but we must save room to say that the glory of a pie is in the grace and charm of the cook. The pastry depends upon her temper, and the pastry is three-fourths of a pie. If we were going to get married again we would arrange a pastry-making contest and the damsel that made the best pastry we would marry—if we could.—[Ohio State Journal.

"Yes. I am going into our Kansas City postoffice for the purpose of having weighed, purchasing stamps for and mailing this parcel past package.—[Kansas City Star.

CELEBRATES IN UNIQUE MANNER

New Millionaire of Texas is Host to His Friends.

Brings Them by Special Train and Private Airplane.

Has Real Buffalo Hunt and Other Western Sports.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOODNIGHT (Tex.) Sept. 11.—No more spectacular Labor Day celebration was held in this country than that which took place on the famous Goodnight buffalo ranch, now owned by Bill McCalister, familiarly known as "Karakule" Bill, by reason of the fact that one of his hobbies is raising Karakule sheep. McCalister belongs to the new crop of millionaires, which Texas has produced during the last eighteen months as a result of oil development operations. He divides his time between Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and his big ranch here. He purchased the ranch only a few weeks ago from Capt. Charles Goodnight, pioneer cattleman and breeder of buffaloes.

The large herd of buffaloes went with the purchase of the ranch, and it was to make his oil men associates and other friends acquainted with his new property that Mr. Callister conceived the idea of transporting a few hundred of them here by special trains and airplanes at his own expense. He decided to make the occasion a Labor Day event and to mix the old with the modern in a way that would delight and entertain the visitors to the fullest possible degree.

COWBOYS AND AIRPLANES.

Mr. McCalister saw to it that there was nothing lacking in the way of interesting and exciting entertainment for his guests. Special trains from the oil fields brought several hundred vigorous, full-blooded men, all cocked and primed for a good time. They had it. The fact that they had traveled three hundred to four hundred miles to enjoy the hospitality of the new buffalo king and oil magnate was no deterrent to their effervescent spirits. They entered into the joys of the day with an enthusiasm that goes with youth.

It was an odd mixture of the old with the new. From points hundreds of miles away airplanes brought millionaire oil men to the scene of the celebration. Fleets of these craft of the air circled over the ranch during the day, giving free rides to all guests who wanted to enjoy that kind of outing. From the ranches for miles around came cowboys on horseback.

INDIANS HUNT BUFFALO.

One of the picturesque features of the entertainment was a genuine buffalo chase. McCalister brought from Oklahoma a group of blanket Indians, who, dressed in their primitive garb and armed only with bows and arrows, engaged in a realistic buffalo hunt, shooting the animals that were barbecued and served to the hungry visitors. The cowboys from the neighboring ranches assisted in an old-time round-up of cattle as a further means of entertaining the guests.

Airplane stunts were given by noted airmen, wild west games were played and the day was one of the out-door hilarity and a continual round of exciting pleasures.

It is the expressed ambition of Mr. McCalister to make the herds of buffaloes and cataloes that are now upon his ranch the sources for restocking the West with these animals. It is his plan to bring about an increase of his buffalo herds as rapidly as possible and to carry on further experiments of crossing them with cattle, thus producing the breed that Capt. Goodnight gave the name of catalo. As the buffalo herd increases he will distribute the animals among other ranchmen and farmers, in the hope that in the course of time there my be a large increase of them in this country.

GOVERNMENT TO BUILD RAILWAYS ON BORDER.

MORE THAN 500 MILES OF MILITARY TRANSPORTATION LINES PROPOSED

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Sept. 12.—More than 500 miles of government military railroads are to be constructed in the Rio Grande border region, according to plans that have just been submitted to Maj.-Gen. Joseph T. Dickman, commander of the Southern Department, by Maj. A. F. Dershimer of the Quartermaster's Department at Washington. Maj. Dershimer in making an investigation of the transportation needs of the border region has gone over the routes of the proposed lines of railway preliminary to making estimates of their cost.

The project has the approval of Gen. Dickman, it is stated, and as soon as final authorization of the War Department is given, construction will be started. The most important of the proposed lines is to run from Alpine or Marfa, on the Southern Pacific, south through the heart of the Big Bend district to a point on the Rio Grande, probably Terlingua, a distance of ninety miles. From the Rio Grande terminus lines will be built along the river in both directions, so as to afford quick and efficient transportation of troops and supplies.

Another line is to be built from Sam Fordyce, in the lower Rio Grande Valley to Roma, via Fort Ringgold, a distance of about 43 miles. Another prospective line is to run from Eagle Pass down the Rio Grande in the direction of Laredo, about 75 miles. Fort Clark is to be connected by rail with the Southern Pacific at Spofford, fifteen miles. Other short lines are to be built, according to plans that are now under consideration.

Curtains for Every Room

—One of the first things to claim attention in freshening the home this fall is, no doubt, the curtains.

—A most suitable material is the panel set in filet patterns. Nets lend themselves so ideally to any size of window; here in white, ivory and Egyptian. Prices range from 4.50 to 6.00.

Velours, 4.75 yard

—For upholstering and for hangings you'll find this material especially adapted. The rose and blue with the gold background is so luxuriously rich and attractive looking.

The New Cretonnes

—What is more quaintly charming than cretonnes for sun-room, bedrooms and for the cosy California bungalow. Our patterns are so varied and so beautiful, in floral and conventional designs, that one loves to linger among them.

Artistic Upholsteries

—New upholstering is needed to rejuvenate the worn furniture. And Hamburger's drapery section is filled with the loveliest of tapestries and velours in soft shades that blend artistically with the color scheme in your room.

New Creations in Rugs for Fall

—Isn't it strange that rugs should have fashions the same as clothing?—but they do change in design and colors as the seasons pass.

—The latest styles in rugs in the finest Wiltons are now on display in the Rug Department. The leading colors of fall and the most beautiful of designs.

—Size 9x12 ft. at 145.00. The same quality, only heavier, 9x12 ft. at 130.00.

Smart Suits for Every Social Affair of Autumn

IN THIS day of motoring a suit has become the fashion for many informal as well as formal daytime affairs.

—A Suit is a constant "friend in need," for it always looks chic and in decidedly good taste for any and every occasion.

—The slim silhouettes of beauty needs but add a collar of fur, pretty trailings of embroidery, of braid, to transform them into objects of most unusual attraction.

—The materials are fabrics to conjure with, frost glow, silk duvetyne, duvet de laine, peach bloom, cheverona, tinseltone, silvertone, tricotine, wool velour and trico velour.

—And the witchery of the colors hold you enthralled—Dragon fly, Argonne, lava, faison, hemlock, cathedral, bat and dozens of others. Suits for women and misses, 39.75 to 265.00.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

The Charming Coats of the New Seasons

AND what more serviceable thing could you have than a lovely coat which follows the mode of the hour.

—The fabrics, suggestive of warmth and cosy delight, are chameleon cord, Bokhara, Evora, Bolivia, etc. You have most diversified styles to choose from. So if you look best in a flaring model, a flaring model you may have, or one that is caught with a belt, or enhanced with wide collars and cuffs of fur. Designed for both women and misses—35.00 to 325.00.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

Street and Afternoon Dresses of the Mode

AND as we look at the street and afternoon gowns we notice that the predominating color tones blend into mellower harmonies of dull blues, reds and browns.

—And one takes sheer joy in their exquisite fabrics—many that show the laying on of the enriching hand of gold and silver tones.

—Tricotine and serge and the good ever favored jersey are discovered among them in new and interesting modes. Models for women and misses, priced from 35.00 to 395.00.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

Women's Silk Hosiery in Autumn Suit Shades

—The new stockings come in for their share of enthusiasm that is shown for the favorites of Fashion.

WHEN a woman can match her new fall suit with blending colors in stockings, she should be enthused.

—The pure silk thread lace stockings with the fashionable Parisian lace clockings are creating quite a furore in the stocking section, and well they might, for they are exquisitely fine. Lisle garter tops make them practical. Black only. Priced 3.50 a pair.

(Hamburger's—Main Floor—Monday)

Glove Silk Vests, 2.15

—That are not luxuries, but practical and economical when you consider the wearing qualities.

BESIDES they wash and iron so easily, as a matter of fact they are all the fresher if you don't iron them, but smooth them out and carefully fold them away.

—Women's vests with tailored band top, in white and pink. This price is a decided saving as they would be priced much more if we bought them today.

Millinery Modes Pay Tribute to Art

Hats that are triumphs of the designers' art, hats that indulge our most cherished fancy are the cynosure of all eyes in Hamburger's Rose and Gray Shop.

WE CANNOT say that sweet simplicity marks the hats this season for they seem to have definitely agreed to form affinities with the most gorgeous of silver-lit brocades—with soft-tinted pinions of purple and gold—with shining burnt ostrich—with daring flamingo red and the lovelier nasturtium.

Hamburger's Is Exhibiting a Galaxy of Fall Millinery Styles at 15.00

—And such hats—for 15.00! Brims that turn up in attractive directions—the alluring poke shapes—or brims that follow straight and narrow ways—so smart and wearable—are here. And, as to colors, you'll find the ever-becoming black and the rich autumn tints that match the fall frocks. They are to be seen—must be seen—to be appreciated!

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

Colorful New Crepes

—What joy these Serpentine crepes bring to every woman, for they need not be ironed after a tubbing.

ALWAYS a favorite weave for children's wear or for dainty negligees and kimonos. And these are so new and so totally different in designs and color schemes. All 30 inches wide—and 45c a yard.

Beacon Robing Flannel at 75c yd.

—Our fall line of cosy, robing flannel is here and we want you to see the many designs and color tones. Priced 75c a yard.
—Cord and frog to match, 45c.

Silk Mixed Poplins at 1.00 yard —And what lovely shades you have to choose from at this price. 'Tis a most fashionable weave, too, 36 inches wide and of excellent weight.

Shantung in Colors at 85c yard

—This rich, semi-pongee weave is one of the most effective of silk mixtures. You have a most extensive color range to choose from—all 32 inches wide.

—On sale Monday—1500 yards of 36-inch white Poplin, mercerized, at 75c yd.

(Hamburger's—Main Floor—Monday)

The New Veil Styles

—Fashion dictates a mode of veils for autumn—veils with the artistry of Paris in their designing.

JUST why, no one knows, unless it is the authoritative air that lingers about Parisian styles.

—These new ones you must see, for they are delicately and quaintly embroidered in floating scrolls and dainty borders. When attached to a smart, tip-tilting turban they give a flowing grace that is undeniably charming.

—The color themes are in brown, black, navy and taupe.

(Hamburger's—Main Floor—Monday)

Jewelry Has Style!

—Indeed it has—and, as "seeing is believing" you may be convinced by seeing the lovely new styles in our Jewelry Shop.

QUITE the most becoming style and the most welcome is the sparkling white stone. This beautifully faceted gem, when mounted in bright, scintillating silver or platine, makes a wonderfully effective adornment, a most radiant decoration.

White Stone Bar Pins at 6.95

—Hand wrought bar pins are in great demand as they give the appearance of a diamond and platinum pin, with their applied gallery and filigree design. Priced from 1.50 to 29.50.
—A most effective assortment at 6.95.

White Stone La Vallieres, 6.00 to 15.00

—These have come again into Fashion's graces and are proving most attractive for evening wear. They come in unique filigree designs and gallery mountings.

Jeweled Sautoirs at 10.00 to 23.50

—No doubt, these sautoirs are the most interesting of innovations. They are so designed as to give the appearance of a diamond studded watch and hang gracefully from a heavy silk cord or ribbon.

Lustrous, Clinging Satin Charmeuse, 2.65

—One glimpse at the price and every experienced shopper knows that it is a special. It is a quality that is so fashionable just now and meets with approval for the new fall garments. It comes in Pekin, wisteria, taupe, navy, brown, turquoise, coral, old rose, black and white.

Glowing Chiffon Velvets

—This soft-surfaced material will undoubtedly hold the most prominent place for the "dressy" suits this fall.

THIS undisputably beautiful velvet comes in black, of course, and in the colors that are most wanted for fall. And the price of 7.00 is remarkably low for this quality. 42 inches wide.

Cheney's Autumn Bengalines

—A silk-and-worsted fabric, soft and exquisitely silky. For service it can't be duplicated and the weight is suitable for dresses or suits. The new fall shades are represented. 40 inches wide, and 5.50 a yard.

A Season of Velour

—Velour promises to hold first place in the affection of Fashion this season for coats and suits.

IF YOU like your velour of medium weight for the new suit, it is here, priced 5.85. And it is priced the same for the coat weight. The new and mellow shades will delight you. 54 inches wide.

All-wool Mannish Mixtures

—Mixtures 54 inches wide that cut to such good advantage for either men's or women's suits. An all-wool quality and very low priced at 5.50. It comes in plain and stripe effects in mixtures of the most wanted street shades.

ENGLAND FACES A LEAN WINTER.

Imports Plentiful, but Home Products are Scarce.

Milk Prices will Soar to New High Levels.

Government Continues to Regulate Sugar Sales.

[BY A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

YORK (Eng.) Aug. 25.—Abundance of imported meat, bacon, cheese, margarine, rice, tea, sugar and apples is assured the people of Great Britain the coming winter by the authorities but home grown products such as milk, meat, butter and dried fruits, it is said, will be scarce and costly.

Meanwhile the government food control will continue in order that rich and poor alike may share in the available supplies. Nothing like the hardships endured during the last two years of the war is anticipated because the government supervision and distribution will not be so rigorous as when Haig's army had its "back to the wall."

The expense of feeding and fattening cattle is the factor that will make home grown meat scarce. Hay and oat crops are abnormally short, and root yields in some parts of the country are almost a failure. Cattle "cake," which will have to be used more freely, is more expensive than last year.

MILK IS HIGH.

The same considerations apply to milk. The price for August was fixed at sixty-eight cents per gallon to the dairyman, and for September at seventy-five cents. Last winter it was twenty cents a quart, but higher prices are expected the coming winter.

There is plenty of tea in the country, but transportation systems are so out of joint, dealers say, it will cost more to handle and distribute it. Bacon prices are rising in America, which makes the British price. Port and dock delays, due to strikes and the general apathy of labor, contribute to higher prices.

SUGAR SOARS.

Nobody is worrying about sugar except as to price. The sugar commission has been very active in the general market, and has obtained enough to last the country until the end of the year at prices which, it is declared, are a little below the average of Europe, but, of course, much higher than the American price. If the commision had to go into the market now it would be compelled to pay as much for sugar as the present retail price, and as it will likely have to do that early next year the consumer expects to pay more.

APPLES SCARCE.

Apples are high and scarce, the controlled price being eighteen cents a pound. It is expected, however, that the fine crop here in England will serve to reduce this price materially before the winter comes.

Bakers and the government expect an increase in the cost of bread. There are abundant wheat supplies in Australia an dthe Argentine, but the scarcity of shipping makes immediate delivery impossible. So England must depend on the United States and Canada which, the authorities, say means costlier loaves.

PACKING FISH IN KANSAS.

The streams of Douglas county, Kan., are practically depopulated, according to Lawrence fishermen, who assert that farmers are taking out with nets all the eatable fish, to pickle in brine for use next winter.

The attention of the State game warden is being called to the illegal fishing industry, which the disciples of Izaak Walton say is followed not only by farmers, but by the city residents who are using tennis nets for seines in combating the H. C. L. W. I. Headley, a veteran Lawrence fisherman, says there is hardly a barn near any of the Douglas county creeks that does not conceal some illegal fishing tackle.

Fishing as a sport has been ruined. And coal is partly to blame. Farmers are working the half-dry beds of the streams for their winter's supply of fuel. Most of the water in the creeks is in deep holes. Farmers are draining these to strip a vein of coal from the rocky beds of th creek. On Deer Creek alone hundreds of tons of coal have been taken out. The vein there is twelve inches thick.—[Kansas City Star.

THE EARTH AS A SPHERE.

Dr. William F. Warren, president emeritus of Boston University, in a late number of the Classical Journal, gives fresh evidence for the view so long advocated by him that man from the earliest times has had the conception of the earth as a sphere. He reviews the mythical geography of the East Aryans, showing that they looked upon the earth as a sphere, and considers what light this East Aryan geography throws upon the wanderings of Io as described by Aeschylus in his "Prometheus Bound," and upon the geographic ideas of prehistoric Greeks.

The conclusion is that this old myth as poetically retold by Aeschylus reveals a conception of the earth identical with the spherical idea of the East Aryans. Dr. Warren has given us a vigorous piece of criticism in this paper, succeeding in making clear the journey of Io which so baffled the great Greek historian Grote that he said: "The route of Io in the "Prometheus Bound" defies all comprehension, even as a consistent picture." Such a paper reminds us that Hellenic literature has not been exhausted by original investigation.

MOTOR CARS IN CALCUTTA.

There are more motor cars on the streets of Calcutta than any other kind of vehicle. The number of privately owned cars is said to be about 4000, and there are approximately 500 taxicabs. While this number of automobiles seems very small for a city of a million, the novelty of automobiles and the purchasing power of the people must be taken into account. It is thought that American cars will soon predominate on the street of India, and it is interesting to note that all the motor cars imported into the city of Calcutta since the signing of the armistice and the removal of the import embargo have been of American manufacture.—[Indianapolis News.

Some Visitors and a Few Others.

Mrs. Wilde, as the wife of the Mayor of San Diego, is one of the prominent society women of the Southland who were on the reception committee which met and entertained President and Mrs. Wilson and the Presidential party when it arrived in the southern city. Mrs. Sachnowsky and her little daughter, Nema, are at the Ansonia Apartments. She is the wife of the legal adviser to the Russian Supply Committee, with offices in New York and Washington. Mrs. Sachnowsky spent the spring and summer at the Belvedere Hotel, Santa Barbara, while her husband was in Europe. Mrs. Buchley is the wife of Capt. Buchley, who is still overseas. Her home is in Salt Lake and she is visiting in Los Angeles and at Coronado. Mrs. Hill was Miss Madeline Mundt until her marriage, Monday. Miss Boice of Pasadena was one of her bridesmaids.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

Mr. Bullock to Wed.

An announcement made in the East, which will prove of wide interest here, is that of the coming marriage of Mrs. Hugh Wallace of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. John Gillespie Bullock of Los Angeles. Mrs. Wallace is well known and popular in the social circles of Detroit.

Mr. Bullock is one of Los Angeles' leading merchants, being president of Bullock's. He, with his two daughters, has recently returned to the city, having spent the summer months in the East. The wedding is to be an early fall event, and will take place in Detroit.

Joint Hosts at Bal Masque.

If the brilliancy noted in costumes and the decorative designs at the bal masque at which Dr. and Mrs. Bertnard Smith and Mrs. Hugh Livingstone Macneil were hosts on Thursday evening are to be regarded as indicators of what the winter affairs will be, society surely can look forward to a season that will eclipse all others in splendor.

The whole affair, with its gorgeous decorations, was arranged to represent an old-fashioned French rout. It was like a dazzling fairyland in the gardens, which were illuminated with electric lights strung in the big old oaks and in the bamboo trees. Supper was served in the garage, which was a bower of fantasy—a motif of tragic and comic masques in black and gold and scarlet, being designed most artistically. Dancing was in the ballroom, which was adorned in keeping with the old-fashioned French bal masque idea. The Hawaiian singers, grouped under the bamboo trees, sang native songs and played on the musical instruments of their island. Two hundred guests were there, all garbed in gorgeous costumes.

Here From Texas.

Mrs. Edward Mann and her attractive daughters, Misses Ruth, Gladys Joan and Jane, and her young son, Jack, of Lubbock, Tex., arrived in the city last week, and have taken the Von Neindorf house at 1937 Morgan place, Hollywood, for the winter.

Miss Orcutt Entertains.

Miss Gertrude Orcutt provided her share of social entertainment the past week, her house guest, Miss Elizabeth MacArthur of San Francisco, being a stunning reason for it. On Wednesday afternoon her rooms were a bower of roses, dahlias and chrysanthemums, in gorgeous shades, the affair at that time being a large tea.

She was assisted at the tea urns and otherwise by Mrs. Maurice Newman, Miss Florence Marsh, Miss Ruth Houston, Miss Gladys Armstrong, Miss Corinne Eisenmayer, Miss Byrd Wallis, Miss Margaret Kellogg and Miss Ellen Andrews.

Others invited were Misses Marguerita and Carolina Winston, Eleanor Johnson, Agnes Golden, Winifred Golden, Nora Morris, Eleanor MacGowan, Marion Wigmore, Katheryn Wigmore, Rose Bacon, Pauline Bundschu, Rowena Schneider, Katherine Torrance, Louise Forve, Julia Hayward, Harvie Wallis, Eleanor Johnson, Amy Busch, Louise Hunt, Cecilia Botiller, Julia Valentine, Leonore Leonard, Rosario Dockweiler, Eleanor Anderson, Eleanor Warren, Florence Kays, Violet Andrews, Marion Andrews, Camilla Schneider, Margarita Schneider, Highland Reeder, Lola Lee, Gladys Carson, Helen Double, Marion Drown, Joseph'ne Scott, Carolyn Shemwell, Elizabeth McSimies, Elizabeth Mall, Janet Prendergast, Dorothy Hurlburt, Helen Barry, Virginia Turner, Florence Ackerman, Olga Simpson, Doris Collins, Wilma Hynes, Rachel Ward, Christine Wetherby, Helen Mosher, Cecile McLaughlin, Dorothy Day, Evangeline Grier, Dorothy Klauber, Margaret Klauber, Margaret Griffith, and Mmes. Brandon Bruner, Lee Schlesinger, Richard Brown and Edward McLaughlin.

Miss Orcutt gave a dinner-dance at the Los Angeles Country Club last evening in compliment to Miss MacArthur. Her guests included Misses Olga Simpson, Doris Collins, Margaret Kellogg, Katherine Torrance, Carolyn Campbell, Gladys Armstrong, Eleanor MacGowan, Ruth Houston, Florence Marsh, Corinne Eisenmayer, Byrd Wallis, Marion Drown, and Messrs. William Reader, F. J. Toole, Allyn Barber, Le Grand Daly, Charles Garretson, Louis Torrance, Paul Herron, Warren Watkins, Courtland Hancock, Hugh Golden, George Summers, Tip Rodman, William I. Stuart and George Lewis.

Plans for Silver Wedding.

An affair planned for the evening of Friday, October 3, that is being eagerly looked forward to is the reception which Dr. and Mrs. James Walter Heustis of 418 South Normandie avenue are to give in celebration of their silver wedding anniversary.

They expect 800 guests, some of whom will come on from New York and other parts of the East. Dr. and Mrs. Heustis were married in Washington, D. C., and there are several Los Angeles people who attended the ceremony.

Open House for Lieut. Cardell.

There is much rejoicing in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cardell, on South Manhattan street, for their son, Lieut. Clare Cardell, is back from France, where he has been for the past fifteen months.

Mr. and Mrs. Cardell are going to give his friends all opportunity to join in their welcome, and so will keep open house for the next two weeks. In the meantime, they are planning other ways of entertaining for him.

Mrs. Carey Leaves.

Mrs. A. M. Carey, whose visit to her daughter, Mrs. Edwin Stanton, has been especially delightful, has returned to her home in Seattle. Most of the summer she and the Stantons were at Hermosa Beach at their cottage. For the past week she and her son-in-law and daughter were with Mr. and Mrs. C. Q. Stanton. Mrs. Erasmus Wilson gave a bridge tea for Mrs. Carey on Wednesday and Mrs. Stanton entertained her mother Tuesday.

By Miss Kellogg.

Miss Margaret Kellogg is to entertain on Thursday evening for Miss Gertrude Orcutt and her house guest, Miss Elizabeth MacArthur of San Francisco. The affair is to be a dinner and will be given at the country home of the F. W. Kelloggs in the foothills back of Pasadena. A dozen guests are to be invited.

By Mrs. Pantages.

Mrs. Alexander Pantages will give a luncheon Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at her beautiful manor house at 1881 Buckingham road in honor of Mrs. Fred Stelp of Oakland. The luncheon will be served in the main salon and the table decorations are to be zenias.

Among the guests will be Miss Carmen Stelp, Mrs. Harmon Ryus, Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, Mrs. Charles H. Lippincott, Miss Mary Lippincott, Mrs. Mathew S. Robertson, Mrs. William H. Cline, Miss Melba Melsing, Mrs. Frederick William Braun, Mrs. Charles S. Worthington, Mrs. Jerome Toomey and Miss Lulu Clark.

Mrs. Pantages is planning to entertain extensively throughout the winter during the visits for the most part of Seattle friends. A noted violinist herself, she will give many musical affairs.

By Mr. and Mrs. Toomey.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jerome Toomey of Windsor Square are to give a garden tea this afternoon in compliment to their house guests, Maj. and Mrs. George Derby Holland and Mrs. Lauren Ingels. Maj. Holland has been transferred from Fort Rosecrans to Honolulu. Forty guests are expected. Mr. and Mrs. Toomey will give a dinner for them Tuesday.

By Mr. and Mrs. Haynes.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Haynes were hosts at the John Alden apartments at a dinner party Friday evening, having a dozen guests. Yellow chrysanthemums held in a big silver basket centered the table. The other rooms were also in yellow.

On the Ocean.

Contrary to expectations, Miss Emeleen Childs has not yet arrived in America from France, but she and Mrs. Clara Carpenter Nave are now supposed to be on the ocean and are expected to reach New York in a few days. Then Miss Childs will probably go on to Virginia, where her mother, Mrs. Ozro W. Childs, is at the "Old Homestead" in Hot Springs. The marriage plans of Miss Childs and Mr. John Branch of Richmond will be arranged upon her arrival there. When announcement of the engagement was made she and Mr. Branch expected to have a brilliant wedding in the French capital, but Mrs. Childs and his parents could not secure passports and the Branch family then urged the popular young war workers to marry in America and they consented. Mrs. Nave, like Miss Childs, has been a Red Cross nurse and in charge of a hospital in Paris. She will probably not tarry in New York long, and will be most welcome here and in Coronado.

By Miss MacGowan.

Miss Eleanor MacGowan is planning to entertain at an afternoon tea Tuesday and will include among her guests a bevy of visiting debutantes.

A Son is Born.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Rasche are rejoicing over the arrival of a son, born at St. Vincent's Hospital and who has been named Frank William Rasche.

Exclusive AUTUMN MILLINERY

Exquisite Fashion Enhancements to Complete the New Costume

—Without the directing influence of advertising, the woman who comes to the Blackstone Millinery Salons is either possessed of that unfailing feminine instinct which leads unerringly to the transcendently beautiful, or, because past experience has taught her that the loveliest chapeaux created for Autumn will be radiantly ready for selection.

—This advertisement is written with the express purpose of acquainting every one with the fact that the present season's millinery fashions at Blackstone's are infinitely more attractive than those of any of our previous exhibits.

Jockey Model Illustrated

—A stunning blue velvet creation, having a bewitching bouquet of colors embroidered with yarn in cross-stitch—the ends of the streamers are yarn fringed in blue to match the velvet—$49.50.

—Trimmed with a Monkey Fur band around entire edge and narrow grosgrain ribbon at base of soft collapsible crown is a medium size poke with long front and short back of black hatter's plush—$35.00.
—The various poke effects are not only extremely smart, but very fashionable besides.

—Although smart simplicity is the key note of many models of draped velvet or velvet and plush combined, one can find nothing more becoming than a soft black velvet hat in either a dress or tailored model.

NATURALLY

After The Fashion Show —Blackstone's

—Now that women's thoughts are taking a more practical turn, and the vague, but insistent desire created by lavish display is crystallizing into definite choice, one of the most beautiful collections of exclusive, high-grade women's and misses' apparel to be found in America invites your appreciation — at Blackstone's.

—Luxurious wraps and coats—wondrous gowns and frocks—suits of rare originality and distinction—impressionable blouses—sweater ecstasies—furs that enrapture and beguile with their richness of quality and beauty of design.

ILLUSTRATED

—A gown exclusive—a triumph of art—a fashion-poem of loveliness in designing and construction. Developed in gold bugle beads and embroidered in large floral designs of sapphire blue beads, finished at girdle and bottom with brown Ostrich feathers; fan-shaped train of gold cloth. Price $450.00.

An Impressive Showing of Women's Autumn Suits

—Introducing new modes of exquisite beauty for Autumn and Winter wear—inspired by the highest ideals that characterize the prevailing vogue, but modeled upon quieter lines of refinement and grace.
—These irresistibly charming new fashions are developed in Silvertone, Herringbone, Tricotine, Velour and Poiret Twill——plain and novelty tailored models, some luxuriously enriched with fur. Prominent in the color range are fashionable browns, navys, oxfords and mixtures.

Among the Furs of Royal Beauty Are

Large Fox Scarfs

$135.00

—Fox scarfs are becoming to young women and matrons alike, and veritable treasures of their kind are here offered at $135.00.

Large, handsome pelts of finest quality, perfectly fashioned into scarfs lovely and gorgeous.

—Shown in Taupe and Lucille Fox Furs and all are lined with either printed georgette or black silk.

Thrilling Presentation of Exclusive Blouses

$25, $29.50, $35

—Women will enjoy seeing these alluring new creations, for they are easily the most distinguished fashion-blouses Blackstone's has ever shown—revealing Autumn's most exclusive loveliness in blouses of georgette crepe, elaborately embellished with hand-made Filet lace, hand-embroidery and other trimming touches of high decorative appeal.

—In white, flesh, beige, taupe, brown, navy and black.

SOCIETY.

geles. Mme. Donato was a guest at the dinner and so were Mr. and Mrs. Muma. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred De Witt, Bradner Lee and A. I. Smith. Mrs. Muma and Mrs. Henshaw are renewing an old friendship started at college.

Grill Supper Party.

A very enjoyable grill supper party was that of Friday evening at which Mr. and Mrs. Grove Chester Fiske of 530 South Alexandria street assembled a small group that included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ferguson, Mrs. Margaret Hamm, Mrs. Jack Foster and Harry Hamm.

For Eastern Visitors.

Mrs. M. S. Muchmore and Mrs. Milford Harmon, here from New York and Michigan, respectively, are affording inspiration for much entertainment while guests of Mrs. Frederick Kimball Stearns in Beverly Hills. They were complimented at a luncheon, on Friday, at which Mrs. Willis G. Hunt of 5 Berkeley Square was hostess and tomorrow Mrs. Stanley Anderson will give a luncheon for them and will have to join them Mrs. Stearns, Mrs. Harry Dana Lombard, Mrs. Kirk Johnson and one or two others.

Complimented at Bridge Luncheon.

A pretty courtesy provided for Miss Jessie McCament of Pasadena, bride-elect of Rex Braley, also of the Crown City, was that of last Wednesday, when Mrs. C. B. Neiswender assembled a company of fourteen at a bridge-luncheon at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. The table was particularly attractive, the centerpiece being a large cluster of pink roses and chrysanthemums held in a silver basket.

By Mr. and Mrs. Holterhoff.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, Jr., who are at Coronado at their attractive summer home on Ocean boulevard, are entertaining over the week-end, Mrs. Charles H. Sharpe, Mrs. Edwin T. Earl, Mrs. Jaro Von Schmidt, Mrs. Hugh Livingstone MacNeil, Ferdinand Bain and Tim Brown, who motored down Friday afternoon.

The Bannings Return Today.

Hosts of friends are glad to welcome home again Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brent Banning and their daughter, Miss Katherine Banning, who return today from their summer home at Avalon, where during the warm months they entertained groups of Los Angeles friends. They are planning to entertain early next month in honor of Hancock Banning, Jr., and his fiancee, Miss Florence Johnston, who are to be married at St. John's Church October 8. At that time Lieut. Joseph Brent Banning, Jr., will come down from San Francisco for the affair.

Miss Maurer Weds.

Miss Hazel Maurer of this city and Howard E. Morse of Dillon, Mont., were married Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Maurer of 1852 West Santa Barbara street. Rev. Evans, assistant pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, officiated. Mrs. Frank D. Williams was the bride's matron of honor and Loche M. Maurer stood with the groom. After the ceremony a dinner party was given for the couple at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena. The bride is a graduate of Stanford University and the groom has just finished his law course at the University of Michigan. He will take his bride to Dillon, where he will practice his profession. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morse of Dillon.

To Visit Honolulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Gray left yesterday by motor for San Francisco whence they are to sail for Honolulu for a few weeks' recreation.

For Small Daughter.

Mrs. F. M. Terry is planning to give a children's party next Wednesday in celebration of the fourth birthday of her daughter, Margaret Gaffy Terry. Fifteen little girls and boys have been asked to the party.

Miss Anderson Becomes a Bride.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Stookey Anderson was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday evening when their daughter, Miss Trella Irene Anderson, and Mr. Sidney Van Horne were married by Rev. Joseph Coyne.

Scattering pink and white rose petals from a gold basket, 2-year-old Marshall Ellis, the bride's nephew, preceded the bridal pair. Miss Sue Conwell, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Paul Judson stood with the groom. Mr. Anderson gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride, a stunning brunette, wore a gown of imported white Georgette handsomely embroidered. Instead of the usual veil she wore a big tulle bow on one shoulder, the loops extending in vail-like fashion to the hem of her long train. Her shower bouquet was of bride roses. Miss Conwell was frocked in pink Dresden silk embroidered with pale blue and lavender flowers. She carried pink rose buds. The altar and the rest of the house were done in pink and white roses.

After the ceremony a supper for 100 was served. Upon their return from a honeymoon trip the couple are to be given a number of postnuptial affairs.

Interesting Visitor Here.

Mrs. L. A. Sachnowsky and her small daughter, Nema of New York are interesting visitors here with apartments at the Ansonia. Mrs. Sachnowsky, who is noted for her beauty, her costly jewels and her handsome gowns, is the wife of the legal adviser to the Supply Committee of the Russian government, who has offices at New York and Washington.

He has just returned to America from Russia and other European cities and for a time joined his wife and baby at the Hotel Belvedere, Santa Barbara, where they spent the spring and summer.

While at that hostelry Mrs. Sachnowsky was the center of a gay set that passed the time at dinner and supper-dances and horseback riding and swimming in the ocean close at hand. Mrs. Sachnowsky is a beautiful swimmer and always wore a most becoming and decidedly up-to-date bathing suit.

Weds in Crown City.

A lovely wedding in the First Congregational Church of Pasadena was that of Monday evening when Miss Madeline Mundt of Alhambra became the bride of Gerald T. Hills of the Crown City. Rev. Daniel Fox, pastor of the church, performed

Monday's to be a wonderfully interesting day

Chic Blouses for Suit Wear

—Among the cleverest of the late arrivals in the Blouse Section are the models that come in suit shades—

—Not only are they distinctive in design but they show such a variety of novel touches—

—Braiding and embroidery are used to trim some of them—others show effective arrangement of cluster tucks or tiny ruffs of self material.

$8.98 to $45.00

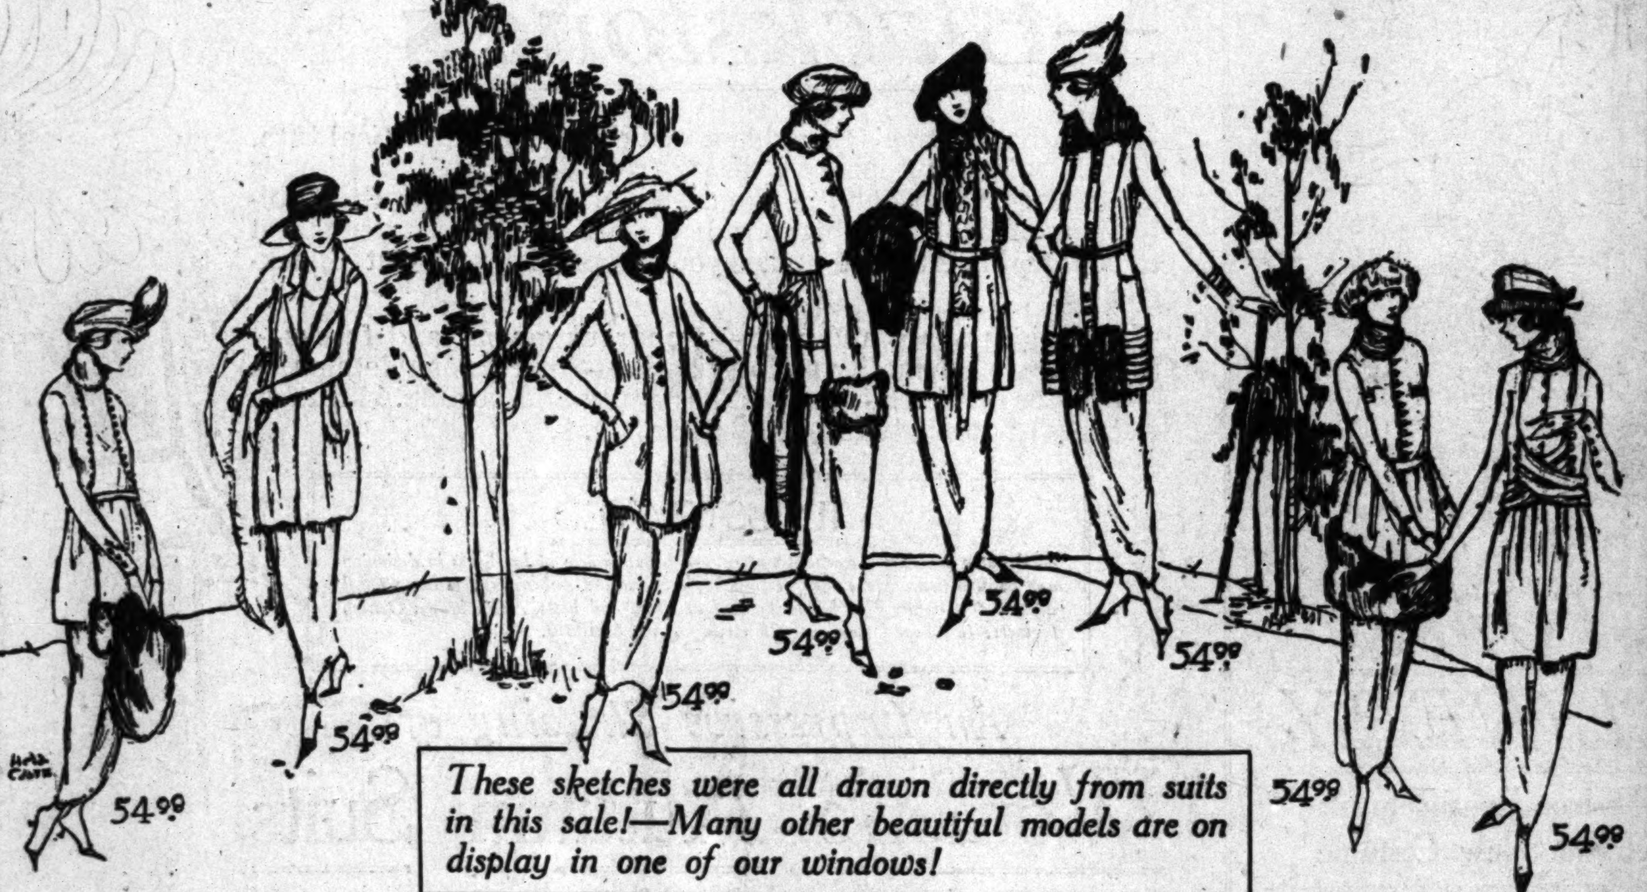
(Third Floor—Jacoby's)

A limited number of VESTEES ⅓ Off

—Exquisitely dainty, fluffy bits of apparel and hardly two alike.

—They are made of net, lace and organdie and the prices range from $2.48 to $4.25. Pay just one-third less Monday.

(Main Floor—Jacoby's)



These sketches were all drawn directly from suits in this sale!—Many other beautiful models are on display in one of our windows!

Stylish stout Corsets

—If any woman has ample incentive to give proper attention to her corseting it is the woman of large proportions; for the well-groomed, well-gowned woman of large figure is frequently noted and admired where her sister of slimmer lines would pass unnoticed.

—Stylish Stout Corsets are designed to give the utmost smartness, grace and comfort—and the wearer has the satisfaction of looking and feeling ten to twenty pounds lighter without the slightest discomfort.

Stylish stout Brassieres

—We have a complete line in the extra long and medium length. They are made of heavy flesh-colored mesh, fastened with two buttons in the back and tie in front.

—These brassieres flatten the bust naturally and give the right appearance to the body shoulder. Sizes 44 to 52.

SUITS—and what suits—at $59.98

—When the New York office wired us of the purchase of these suits we could hardly believe our own good fortune!

—It almost took our breath away that such values could be secured by any sort of stroke of fortune so early in the season.

—Then we went out and made comparisons—"shopped around" and did it thoroughly. And we found suits of their sort—some identical and priced tens of dollars higher.

—They come from master designers—all new as can be in every line—stunning long, medium and short coat effects.

—There are short coats in full ripple cut; blouse styles with tie sash or belt.

—Some plain tailored—some richly braided and many trimmed with rich furs!

—They are of Velour, Suede, Tricotine, Silvertone and Poiret Twill. The color list includes reindeer, brown, taupe, henna, wistaria, plum, Burgundy, navy, and Oxford—and then there's black. Sizes from 16 years for misses to women's 44.

Far away from the bustle of cities
In a spot that was country-wide famed Lived a Miracle Man, strangely gifted
To deliver the stricken and maimed.

To this patriarch old in his cottage,
With a plan to reap wealth
from his deeds,
Came a group from the slums of Manhattan,
Who obeyed no command
save their needs.

There was Burke, and Rose, and the Dope Fiend
And the misshapen Frog, their decoy.
THEN THE MIRACLE HAP-PENED! The gangsters
Found the vile in their hearts was alloy!

For the pure, guileless life
'mid the mountains
Brought ideals that cleansed smirched hearts of crime,
'Til at last even Tom, the bad-hearted
Freed his soul from the taint of its slime.

It's a picture that tugs at your heartstrings
Full of thrills, mixed with laughter and tears.
When you see it, you'll echo with thousands:

JOY RAYS ON THE RIALTO.

Comedy in Foreground with Normand Premiere.

"Upstairs and Down" Here; Clark Star Shines.

"Broken Blossoms" and "The Miracle Man" Running.

"Let joy reign unconfined" seems to be the motto at the picture theaters this week, where new features are being shown. The comedies will vary from high-class character studies to straight jazz. The programme is headed by the first showing of Mabel Normand's new special, "The Jinx." Marguerite Clark also seems destined for a big share of laughs and smiles in "Widow by Proxy." The smartest of the humorous excursions will be "Upstairs and Down" from the Hatton play.

In the more serious vein will be Dorothy Dalton's starring vehicle, "The Market of Souls," and Frank Keenan's "The World Aflame." Bessie Love will mingle fun with seriousness in her picture, "Over the Garden Wall."

Two western plays with varied themes will be Harry Carey's "The Ace of the Saddle," and the semi-historical "Vigilantes." Herbert Rawlinson will also appear in a thriller but with different locale, in "The Dangerous Affair."

One problem play, "Are You Fit to Marry?" will doubtless cause much discussion.

Griffith's "Broken Blossoms" enters its second week, and "The Miracle Man" is in its fourth.

Another holdover of lighter characacter is "Oh, Boy."

Second runs are "Bill Henry" and "The Dark Star."

Tally's.

The premiere showing of Mabel Normand's new "joy" play, "The Jinx," will take place at Tally's tomorrow afternoon.

Mabel appears as a little trouper with a circus, dubbed "Jinx" by reason of the fact that she queers everybody and everything. The star performer refuses to work because she has had no salary for ten weeks, and the Jinx takes it upon herself to do the Terpischore. She breaks up the show and is forced to run away with her beau, the circus "wild man," hot on her trail, causing much consternation among the country folk by his weird garb.

After a series of hoodoo adventures Miss Jinx finds a haven in the arms of her admirer who discards the wild man garb forever. The rapid succession of Normand comedy situations promises much amusement for the audience. Special musical selections are being arranged to accompany the showing.

Grauman's.

That petite mamselle, Marguerite Clark, comes to Grauman's Monday in a picturization of the successful comedy drama now running in New York—"Widow by Proxy." From advance reports from the Morosco studios, where the photoplay was filmed, "Widow by Proxy" is even more amusing than Marguerite Clark's last two comdies, "Come Out of the Kitchen" and "Girls."

Mack Sennett will contribute his bit toward keeping the programme in cheerful vein with his latest gloom-annihilator, "Treating 'Em Rough."

Another feature, "The Dream of the Flower Girl," originated by Sid Grauman, is said to be a poetical musical number. The Giuliano Operatic Quartette will be heard in new selections. Arthur Kay, conductor of Grauman's symphony orchestra announces "Beautiful Galathea" as an overture, while C Sharpe-Minor has evolved a musical oddity for the organ to be known as "The Clock Shop."

Milton Charles at the morning organ recitals will offer, "I Might be Your Once-in-a-While" and other numbers from Victor Herbert's latest musical comedy, "Angel Faces," as well as the inspiring "Somewhere A Voice is Calling."

California.

A comedy drama of the elite of Long Island will be seen at the California Theater, beginning tomorrow, when Olive Thomas appears in the filmization of Frederic and Fanny Hatton's success, "Upstairs and Down," which was originally produced in its stage form locally.

The upstairs and downstairs doings of a fashionable house party furnish the main theme for this picture. Alice Chesterton, a merry little mischief-maker, who delights in getting in and out of scrapes, carries on a desperate flirtation with Terry O'Keefe, a gay son of Ireland, despite the fact that she is engaged to Tom Carey.

The result of a little plan concocted by her friends, when they think that Alice has carried on her affair with Terry long enough, is that Terry no longer has eyes for the little "baby vamp" but begins to notice Alice's sister, Betty. After many complications and laughable as well as "spicy" situations, affairs rotate to a happy ending.

Miss Thomas makes a piquant "baby vamp." To the character she delineates, man is life and flirtations food. It makes no difference who the man is, so long as he is willing to fall a victim to her charms.

Director Elinor of the California Orchestra has arranged a tuneful, melodious programme to accompany the picture.

Other features of the programme include the Christie Special two-reel comedy, entiled "Dangerous Nan McGrew," starring Fay Tincher; Jesse Crawford in new solo numbers on the organ, and news, novelty and cartoon reels.

Clune's Broadway.

A new twist is given to the old story of the country girl, who comes to New York in search of fame, it is said, in "The Market of Souls," starring Dorothy Dalton, which opens today at Clune's Broadway. Screen fans who remember the keen interest with which they followed Miss Dalton's work in "The Spell of the Yukon" and other of her screen successes, will find a real appeal in this, her latest picture.

In "The Market of Souls," Miss Dalton plays the role of Helen Armes, a country girl who has been educated as a trained nurse. She goes to New York to follow her profession and is a guest at the home of her wealthy cousin and his wife. On being introduced by them into the gay life of the metropolis at a New Year's Eve celebration in a fashionable cafe, she meets two brothers, one a "rounder," the other a real man. The unscrupulous one takes her from from the cafe, and by a pretext induces her to wait in his apartment, pending the return of her host and hostess to their adjoining apartments. There he attempts to make love to her, and the girl, running from his rooms, comes face to face with her cousin and his wife. Later the other brother, distrusting the "rounder," calls at his apartments to learn if the girl has reached her quarters safely. The two brothers quarrel and the one of character is blinded in the fight which follows.

Miss Dalton is supported by H. E. Herbert, Philo McCullough, Donald McDonald and Dorcas Mathews.

The programme will also feature the thirteenth episode of the mystifying Houdini serial. Only two more episodes are to follow.

Alhambra.

Frank Keenan's six-reel photodrama, entitled "The World Aflame," will open a week's engagement today at the Alhambra. The photoplay is said to offer a remedy for the countless conceded evils existent in the work-a-day world, and to be replete with tense situations, graphic action, and evenly sustained interest calculated to spread its own attractions through the best advertising a play can enjoy-spoken praise from audiences.

Mayor Meredith P. Snyder, of this city, after seeing it, wrote to Mr. Keenan and said in part: "I am very thankful for having had the opportunity to be present at the showing of your wonderful drama 'The World Aflame.' I was greatly impressed, for the reason that at this particular time there is no subject before the people of this country in which they are more greatly interested than the one brought forth in your screen play. I trust that no one will miss an opportunity of witnessing this photoplay during its presentation in Los Angeles."

Kinema.

George Loane Tucker's romance, "The Miracle Man," will start its fourth big week at the Kinema Theater today.

Many have seen this play three or more times, until they have almost become fanatic in their boosting of the production. Letters complimentary flood the Kinema offices by the hundreds.

The sincerity and wholesomeness of thought is sure to react upon those who have seen "The Miracle Man." Regardless of the fact that the play is one of the most impressive and beautiful in detail of photography, acting, and story, the great humaneness of its theme raises it as high, if not higher than anything ever attempted. "The Miracle Man" has so little of the-atricalism that it has been declared "a milestone in the picture drama."

The cast includes Thomas Meighan, who has the finest role of his career, Betty Compson, Joseph J. Dowling, Lon Chaney, W. Lawson Butt, Eleanor Fair, Frankie Lee, and others.

Superba.

The vigorous, virile tales of the West seem to be increasing in popularity day by day. One western motion picture star that has the sanction of the plainsmen who knew of the West of Buffalo Bill, Bret Harte and others who made and wrote its history, is Harry Carey, who comes to the Superba Theater today in his latest successful picture, "The Ace of the Saddle."

The picture itself is of the thrill type. To a wholesome story of the old cattle rustling days has been added all the fascination of picture devices. The story concerns a cattle baron who lived on the line between Yucca and Pinkerton counties. The sheriff of Yucca was crooked. He was implicated in all the deviltry that went on in the county. The sheriff in the adjoining county of Pinkerton was square dealing and a straight shot, and the inhabitants of Pinkerton were so orderly that the county finally became the easy mark of the white-capped raiders of Yucca until—and on that until hang the threads of a Harry Carey western.

The supporting cast for Carey includes such well-known players as Joe Harris, Duke Lee, Peggy Pearce, King Fisher Jones, Jack Walters, Vesta Pegg, William Cartwright, Zoe Rae, and Howard Enstedt.

The Century comedy "Lonesome Hearts and Loose Lions" is also on the programme.

Victory.

"The Vigilantes," which starts with today's matinee, based upon occurrences of historical authenticity during the stirring days of '49 in California, is the photoplay at the Victory. One may again see on the very ground upon which they occurred the battles between the famous vigilance committee and the polyglot army of adventurers and outlaws from every race on the globe. The film brings again to life newly-rich miners, who again come swaggering into the streets of old San Francisco. The life of the then-mushroom town in all its ghastliness, extravagance, fear, fever and hopelessness as it struggled through almost ten years of sordid indecency is visualized. Follows the gradual evolving and triumph of the forces of law and order in the crude shape of the vigilance committee.

A more realistic portrayal of this early California struggle has never, it is said, so effectually been done.

Herbert Rawlinson appears in "The Nervograph" another fascinating detective story by Arthur B. Reeve, an added attraction.

Symphony.

Life at best is a struggle. It is not an easy thing to live; it is not easy to live up to our ideals, and at times takes great mental and physical strength to keep on the right path and to do that which we know is right. If life is at times hard for the normal person, the healthy and strong, what must it be for the defectives and cripples?

The problem play, "Are You Fit to Marry?" will be at the Symphony Theater beginning tomorrow. Women only will be admitted the first week of the showing.

Throughout the play is interwoven with the great and noble plea for better babies, the right for a child to be born free from hereditary taint and free from the overpowering, hopeless burdens of physical and mental defects.

Dr. Harry J. Haiseldon of Chicago, who is sponsor for the film, personally appears in the play, and is said to be supported by an excellent cast. Although the film was produced in a refined manner, and there is positively nothing in it to offend anyone of either sex—owing to the delicate subject with which it deals, it will be shown strictly to women or men only, and no children will be admitted.

A lecture will be delivered before each performance by Dr. Arthur H. Rolnick.

Palace.

The girl who goes after life with her sleeves rolled up is personified by Bessie Love, in her picture, "Over the Garden Wall," which will be shown at the Palace beginning today. This film was adapted by Sam Taylor from the story by Millicent Evison.

Miss Love portrays a character full of energy and vivacity, and with the ability to meet problems and conquer them.

"Over the Garden Wall" will project a refreshing message of self help and resourcefulness to many a young woman confronted by melancholy situations, it is said.

Clune's Auditorium.

The second week of "Broken Blossoms," which has won the applause of local theatergoers at the Clune's Auditorium, will start tomorrow. Large crowds have been turned away at every showing during the past week, and the advance sale of tickets has been heavy.

"Broken Blossoms," starring Lillian Gish, Donald Crisp and Richard Barthelmess, has been described as one of the most artistic film productions ever screened. It has received the most favorable comment from the stars and directors of the picture world who aatended the initial presentation last Tuesday night.

The photography is remarkable and the pictures are almost like animated canvas paintings. Hundreds of letters of congratulation have been sent to Mr. Griffith by Angelenos in all walks of life giving

VAUDEVILLE HAS NEW ONES.

Premieres Illuminate the Orpheum Bill.

Variety and Spice at the Other Showhouses.

"Danger," "Civvy Clothes" are Holding Over.

The success of the stock plays, and the fact that the Mason is dark, eliminates novelty features from the dramatic performance this week. Vaudeville is making a special appeal to the first-nighters. The Orpheum is going to set off its bill with two local premieres, just to keep the premiere habit going. Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin are going to debut in their new act, and Nell Lockwood, the contralto, is returning to vaudeville, which she left several years ago to settle in this city.

Pantages has a musical comedy in miniature as the topliner. The Hippodrome is offering a striking photoplay feature. The Burbank is spreading itself on a variety show.

The phenomenal success of "Civilian Clothes" is signalized by the Buchanan comedy entering its thirteenth week. Bayard Veiller's "Danger," which had its premiere last Sunday night, with Lewis Stone and Florence Oakley in the principal roles, enters its second week, and seems likely to run for some time.

Orpheum.

Los Angeles is written large over the Orpheum bill opening tomorrow afternoon, for three of the acts originated here, and they are not amateur tryouts. Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin will head the list in a new skit by Jack Lait, called "Visions of 1869." Percy and Winnie were here only lately in their old act; this time they return in an entirely new one, already tried out in the small towns.

A second Los Angeles favorite is Nell Lockwood, formerly of the team of Lockwood and Vryson. She is now a single, and will sing dialect ditties. Miss Lockwood has appeared lately only in private entertainments, but the Orpheum call was too strong not to be heeded.

"Heartland" is the play on the new bill; it has to do with its name and is offered by J. K. Emmet, Mary E. Ryan and company.

Kean and Walsh have a novelty called "Between the Acts," and one may guess its nature from its title. These acts fit in admirably with "Putting It Over," the he-musical comedy that the soldier boys are playing for another week.

Tina Lerner, the Russian pianiste, is another holdover. So are Lloyd and Christie, the third act with a local habitat, and McIntosh and his Scotch lassies.

Mme. Sylva concludes her stay with tonight's performance.

Pantages.

The new bill opening at Pantages tomorrow afternoon is headed by the latest musical comedy creation entitled "Her Left Shoulder," telling in song and music the tribulations of a girl who has the most beautiful shoulders in the world. Babette Winifred is said to prove herself the proud possessor of said shoulder. There is action in the play and an unusually attractive chorus is promised.

Others on the bill are Rosa Valyada, with a song surprise and a display of new and Frenchy gowns; Bell and Eva introducing an amusing sketch, "At the Soda Fountain;" the Ziegler Sisters with their rollicking jazz band; Creamer, Barton and Sparling, programmed as the Top-Notch Trip of Fun and Song, and Stewart and Olive in exhibition of dancing and selection of songs. The latest Harold Lloyd comedy, with Bebe Daniels as the heroine, and the newest pictures of President Wilson's visit to coast cities will be shown.

Majestic.

The success of Bayard Veiller's new drama, "Danger," which received its world premiere at the Majestic has caused the management to announce a second week.

The Veiller play already has been contracted for by A. H. Woods, the famous New York producer and it soon will be taken East, it is stated.

Lewis Stone has created the role of Templar, the District Attorney, who is the motivating character, while Florence Oakley has the all-important part of Lizzie Smith, arch crook. David Hartford, stage director at the Majestic, has a big role, while many other players appear in important parts.

"Danger" carries a national note besides its sensational theme of crime and criminals.

Morosco.

"Civilian Clothes" enters its thirteenth consecutive week with today's matinee at the Morosco.

Already exceeding every theatrical record in the history of Los Angeles Oliver Morosco's latest success promises now to establish a new continuous run record for all cities West of Chicago.

Thompson Buchanan, the author, is now in New York, where he assisted in the Broadway opening of his newest play. From word received at the Morosco Theater here the East is giving "Civilian Clothes" the same welcome that has characterized the reception here.

Eleanor Woodruff and Clyde Fillmore, who play the leading roles, have become tremendously popular through their work. The work of other members of the Morosco company is also highly approved.

The special world production, "The Battler," from the story by Forrest Halsey, with Earl Metcalfe, Virginia Hammond and Florence Malone in the leading role, will be the photo feature at the Hip., starting today. The story is of an East Side prize fighter in New York and his battle to overcome the barriers of lowly birth and his winning of the love of a society leader. There is a sensational fight in the picture.

The vaudeville show is head

A LOVE STORY OF THE GREAT WEST

The orgy of gold-mad wickedness that followed the discovery of the precious metal in California created history.
The powerful, thrilling, sensational seven-reel drama, "THE VIGILANTES," faithfully portrays this romance of gold.
It is a gigantic production, teeming with thrilling action and sensational scenes that keep your pulse leaping.

turn gray from fright. Yet he calls it "too easy."

A Valentine Relative.

Miss Beulah Bevington, artist from Cleveland, O., and cousin of Miss Grace Valentine, former Los Angeles actress, is visiting Grace's mother, Mrs. M. C. Valentine, at the Blackstone apartments in this city. Miss Bevington is singing the praises of Grace Valentine's new starring vehicle, "Seven Roads to Arden," which she saw in rehearsal in New York. Warner Baxter is leading man.

Working Out Prologue.

Manager George Dumond of the Kinema Theater is working overtime on the production of the massive prologue which is to accompany the Rex Beach picture, "The Girl from Outside," when that play is to grace the Grand-avenue house screen. Indications are that the "Miracle Man" will not permit the girl to come inside for another week.

Lasky Members of Legion.

Four of the five members of the governing board of the newly established Hollywood post of the American Legion are associated with the West Coast studio of Famous Players-Lasky. The four are Lieut. Tom Forman, Lieut. Roy Marshall, Lieut. Walter Long and Capt. T. B. Duncan, who took into the service the only company in the army composed exclusively of motion-picture people. The fifth member of the board is Sergt. Byron Clifford.

Carey Registers Complaint.

Nature was generously good to Harry Carey, the western motion-picture star, in the matter of stature and physique. Carey combines brain and brawn, so much of both that he has been dubbed by many critics as the greatest athlete in motion pictures, yet in spite of all this Carey has a crow to pick with nature.

Carey is often spoken of as the "six-footer" of motion pictures. He declares this is false advertising and he is fearful that the advertiser's League of the World, if one ever comes into existence, will upbraid him or possibly take sterner steps if the six-foot stuff is kept up.

And here's the reason why this virile, wholesome athlete of western thrillers picks a crow with nature. Nature cheated him out of the necessary one-quarter of an inch that would enable him truthfully to advertise himself as being six feet tall. At this date it seems that nothing can be done about it, although there are numerous advertisements of stretching devices that add to one's height.

Good Juvenile Role.

Tom Forman, Famous Players-Lasky favorite, has an unusually strong part as the juvenile in "The Tree of Knowledge," now being produced at the Lasky studio with Maj. Robert Warwick as the star and William C. de Mille the director.

In Shreds and Patches.

Lila Lee, who is supporting Wallace Reid in the Famous Players-Lasky production of "Hawthorne of the U.S.A.," is wearing patches these days. She is still prosperous, thank you, but her part demands clothing that has seen better days. She plays the princess in the tiny kingdom serving as the scene of action in the picture; the kingdom is broken down, financially speaking, and its princess must of necessity show the cruelty of poverty though she still must uphold the dignity of her rank.

ZaSu Pitts's New Play.

ZaSu Pitts is to be featured in a forthcoming Brentwood production under peculiarly promising conditions. The scenario from a story by Burke Jenkins admirably fitting both Miss Pitts and the established aims and ideals of the producing organization, is being written by Sarah Y. Mason, whose long standing and close friendship with Miss Pitts, added to a well-proven talent as scenarioist, gives her an unusual opportunity for building up the character her friend will portray. Claude H. Mitchell, formerly associated with George Melford at Famous Players-Lasky, will direct.

COMEDY FOR TRAINING.

Colleen Moore Says You Learn on Jazz Lots.

Colleen Moore has just started work as the lead in a Christie comedy, but will make only the one picture before returning to the type of acting to which she is accustomed.

"Never in my life," says the popular young actress, "have I done any comedy, and I felt that I really needed the experience if I would be completely equipped for my work. So I am doing this one picture. I like the change, but not for more than a single picture.

"Comedy gives a training that no other branch of motion pictures does. An actress in comedy learns to "put it over." Have you noticed how many have gone from comedy and created sensations in dramatic productions? I shall be in comedy for a little less than three weeks, but I believe the training will make it a profitable experience for me."

SMART SAYINGS OF FILM STARS.

The photoplayers are finding the mental exercise of coining epigrams stimulating, and here are a few of the recent sayings from feminine lips:

Mary Pickford: Discontent breeds trouble. Trouble breeds broken noses and black eyes. So watch your step.

Peggy Hyland: Life is serious; life is earnest, but we don't have to cry over it.

Kathleen O'Connor: There are three kinds of marrying men—those who marry for money, the sort who lead a girl to the altar because so many fellows are trying to do the same thing, and those who feel it's dignifying to be "my dear'd" at breakfast.

Ethel Teare: If you keep your nose to the grindstone all your life your face will begin to show it.

An Extra: A picture a day keeps the landlady at bay.

Mildred Reardon: Men, like monkeys, are always up to some trick or other which women have to be continually guarding against.

Eileen Percy: If woman is at the mercy of man before marriage, certainly marriage is at the mercy of both of them afterward.

Madlaine Traverse: This would be a very harsh world with men only, and it would be a very soft one with women only.

Doris Pawn (a new verse for an old song:) Ashes to ashes and dust to dust; you never met a "he-vamp" that you could trust.

Viola Dana: Laugh and the world laughs with you, but don't try to on your director when he wants you to emote.

TOO MUCH FOR MONTE.

Deer's Pathetic Glance Forbids His Hunting Again.

Monte Blue has made a vow, and it is all the more surprising, because he has vowed not to do something that he has been doing all his life—or ever since he was able to carry a gun. For, be it known that Monte Blue, most enthusiastic of deer hunters, has sworn never to hunt deer again!

The Famous Players-Lasky favorite went nimroding the last two days of the deer season in Southern California. He returned from the Ventura mountains without a single deer, but declares he had the best hunting trip of his life.

"It was the best," he explains, "because of the vow I made. I have been a rabid hunter ever since I was big enough to find my way around alone. And I am still a rabid hunter—but not for deer.

"The first day I was out I got a running shot, but missed. I started to trail the deer, but a loose bank gave way; I rolled seventy-five feet down the mountainside and decided to postpone my hunting until the next day.

"That night we stopped at Wheeler's Camp. There is a tame doe there, one that was raised on a milk bottle. Its mother came running into camp with it one day to escape a forest fire. The mother died, but the young one lived, and is now just as tame as a kitten.

"I was sitting out under a tree late that afternoon. That doe came up behind me and stuck her nose over my shoulder. I looked into those big sad eyes, and I made my vow. Never again will I take a shot at a deer!"

FIRST GAYETY COMEDY FINISHED.

The first release of a new brand of Gayety Comedies featuring George Ovey has been completed. The first comedy of the new brand is entitled "Dropped into Scandal," and was written and directed by Craig Hutchinson, who is in charge of production for all comedies made by the new corporation. George Ovey is supported by Lillian Biron and a feature cast. Since the first story is a light farcical comedy, taking place at a beach resort, a dozen of the Gayety girls are seen as seaside vamps.

VIOLA DANA IS TO PLAY WILLOW TREE.

"The Willow Tree," the stage success from the pens of J. Harry Benrimo and Harrison Rhodes, is to be produced for the silver-sheet with Viola Dana in the leading role. This is her second production in the series filmed by Screen Classics, Inc., under its new policy of fewer and better productions. Preparations for the picturization of the stage success are now being made under the supervision of Director-General Maxwell Karger.

The play, a story from the heart of the land of Nippon, offers possibilities of the extraordinary in scenic effects.

Every effort will be expended to make it one of the most scenically beautiful Metro has put on.

The continuity of the scenario is being written by June Mathis, directing head of the Metro Pictures Corporation scenario department.

"The Willow Tree" was introduced on the stage at the Cohan and Harris Theater in New York in 1916. Fay Bainter was starred in the stage presentation and was a huge success in the double role, appearing as the beautiful Japanese image carved from the heart of the willow tree, and also as the American girl. In the screen production Miss Dana will play both roles.

WANDA INSPIRES THE "FAN" POETS.

Wanda Hawley is the recipient of many verses in her "fan mail" devoted to describing her charm. The Paramount-Artcraft beauty has saved these bits of poetry and today has a box filled with them. The latest to reach her was this:

I think you are very pretty,
  And a fine little actress too;
All your portrayals are perfect,
  Your control is so sure and true.

You possess a charming personality,
  And dear, sweet, winsome ways;
You are gifted with all essentials,
  I wish you success all your days.

Your productions will always remain
  A monument to your fame;
And each new picture in which you appear,
  Will add glory to your dear name.

him unstinted approval of his latest masterpiece.

Quinn's Rialto.

"Bill Henry" with Charles Ray as star, is the feature at Quinn's Rialto this week. The photoplay is one of the rural comedies, in which Mr. Ray has made such striking success.

"Bill Henry" is an ambitious country boy, who starts out to sell electric vibrators. Equipped with a book on salesmanship, he feels that his fortune is made. He experiments on an old man suffering with rheumatism, who, after suffering torture at the hands of Henry, chases him away. In escaping Bill smashes his bicycle. He walks to town, begs his uncle for a job as night clerk in his hotel. He meets Lela Mason from Keokuk, Iowa, whose sole asset is a bunk piece of swamp land. The girl breaks down and cries as only a distressed girl can. Bill hears her, sends his aunt to learn the cause of trouble—then follows a poker game in which he wins money enough to buy the worthless farm, which afterward proves to be "oil property." A lawyer attempts to double cross Bill, but Henry is there with his fists and he wins the farm and the girl.

Cause for hilarity will be furnished by Fatty Arbuckle in "Back Stage."

Garrick.

"Oh Boy!" the film version of the musical comedy success of the same name, which has pleased Garrick patrons the past week, will be shown all this week at the theater. The screen version of the musical comedy has met with approval so it was decided to hold over the picture.

Although this is one of the first big musical comedy productions shown on the screen locally, its novelty won instant praise. That "putting over" a musical comedy for the screen was difficult is admitted, but in "Oh Boy!" it has been successfully accomplished. Those who have seen the stage version and then the picture, declare that the film is an excellent reproduction of the original idea.

June Caprice is the star.

Garden.

The first special produced by the Charles Miller Productions, Inc., "A Dangerous Affair," with a cast including Herbert Rawlinson, Florence Billings and Stuart Holmes is showing at the Garden Theater. The story is romance.

"The Dangerous Affair," is in six reels and is said to be equal to such production as "The Flame of the Yukon," starring Dorothy Dalton; "The Ghosts of Yesterday," with Norma Talmadge, and other Miller features. Other special attractions are on the programme.

De Luxe.

"The Dark Star," featuring Marion Davies, is the attraction at the De Luxe today. The story relates of a girl from a mission in Turkey, a boy from a New York village, a raven-haired daughter of Russia, a wayward son of the Caucasus—all brought together in a maelstrom of mystery and intrigue. Through New York and Paris, over the Atlantic, into places high and low, the Dark Star led its victims.

The film is from Robert W. Chambers's romance. Other film features will be shown, and the musical programme will be attractive.

by Galleti's monks in "Monkey Day at the Races; Earl and Edwards, musical comedy entertainers; Stanley and Lee, Hawaiian musicians; Gray and Jackson in a comedy skit, "On the Road to Frisco," Billy Hicks, known as "Our Editor," in stories and songs, and the Two Gabberts, athletes.

Pelton's Burbank.

The new show at the Burbank will be a 1919 review in seven scenes, the feature of which is a dramatic playlet, "Why Men Go Wrong." New costumes for the chorus, as well as scenery painted especially for this production are promised. Larry Richardson, a favorite with the Burbank patrons, will be seen for the first time in a comedy black-face role. Arline Levy will appear in the cast.

The Burbank has entered upon the new policy of three shows daily, with a matinee every day at 2:30, and two performances every evening at 7 and 9 o'clock.

ETHEL CLAYTON WAS ON THE WARPATH.

Would you—the question is directed at members of the fair sex—object to wearing a gown so wondrous in texture and design as to cause all who saw you to gasp with pure delight?

Yet that is exactly what Ethel Clayton did, and she objected strenuously, too, but she lost her argument. For she finally was prevailed upon to wear the remarkable creation in the interest of her art, and the inanimate subject of discussion will be seen in all its glory when the Paramount-Artcraft's star's latest picture, "More Deadly Than the Male" is released.

The gown is of black and silver. The silver is not of cloth, but of metal. As a result the gown was so heavy that Miss Clayton had great difficulty in wearing it. This was one of the reasons for her objections.

The other was the daring cut of the apparel. "I simply will not wear so daring a gown," she told her director, Robert G. Vignola.

At great length he explained to her that her part demanded such raiment and that she must think of her art before her personal tastes. He won his point, as directors have a habit of doing.

"Very well then," Miss Clayton told him, "I will wear it if my part demands it, but I do not like it—not a single, teeny bit."

Miss Clayton's role in "More Deadly Than the Male" differs radically from anything she has ever done. It is in reality a "heavy" up to the surprise finish, for a "part within a part" shows her disguising her true self in a plot to cure the man she loves of the wanderlust and induce him to turn his thought and energy to things worth while.

Mr. Frank Keenan,

Los Angeles, Cal.,
My Dear Mr. Keenan:
Yesterday I had the pleasure of seeing your wonderful drama, "THE WORLD AFLAME."
I am very thankful for having had the opportunity to be present, and I was greatly impressed, for the reason that at this particular time there is no subject before the people of this country in which they are more greatly interested than the one brought forth in your screen play.
Mr. Keenan, I am convinced that the time is coming when thousands, and hundreds of thousands of people in this country will thank you for what you are doing along the lines of educating the people on this important subject, and your effort in bringing about a better understanding between capital and labor.
At this particular time, in our own city, there is unrest, and a misunderstanding between capital and labor; and I trust that no one will miss an opportunity of witnessing this photoplay during its presentation in Los Angeles, which I understand, begins Sunday, September 21st, at the Alhambra.
Sincerely yours,

THE LOST DREAM.

BY CHARLES COKE WOODS.

Behold an Angel in the Sun,
Aflame on land and sea,
Proclaiming tyranny is done,
And all the world is free;
A king has lost his guilty dream,
Despairs about him lower;
He gropes in dark that knows no gleam,
To God's sure reckoning hour.

He wildly dreamed of greatening power,
Of world rule and renown,
His savage sword would force the hour,
And nations would go down,
Betrampled by his crushing heel
And with his super-might
He would unleash a storm of steel,
And scare the world to flight.

Uneasy mutterings he made,
And in ghost-haunted dreams,
He plunged across the harvest blade
Which reaped his blood in streams;
The bloody blade lay at his side,
And near his shattered crown,
To mark the place the tyrant died,
And where his throne went down.

The war lord dreamed a demon's dream—
That with unbroken power
His sword through all the world would gleam,
And make earth's millions cower;
His thunder-voice would give the word,
When floods of gore would stream—
But when Jehovah drew His sword,
The monarch lost his dream!

A new house now begins to rise,
Built on dismantled thrones;
The cries of blood have reached the skies,
And God has heard the groans;
All languages in every sphere,
All nations in one league,
Shall bring us peace from mere to mere,
And spoil the Hun's intrigue.

The new house rises firm and fair,
With solid beam and base,
With ample room and space to spare
For all our human race;
No bats of hate shall come to cling
Upon the lighted walls,
But voices of mankind shall sing
In music-haunted halls.

From this new house shall go the word,
O'er vale and echoing hill,
Which long ago Judea heard,
Of peace and God's good will;
Forth from this house shall flow the tide
Of Freedom's radiant stream,
Across all lands where tyrants died,
And lost their guilty dream.

No sword shall lay its blighting blade,
Upon this League of Man,
For none shall fear nor make afraid,
Where hate has left no ban;
Here Power shall come with Love to wed,
And stars of Faith shall gleam
Above this league where hate has fled,
And Hope has found her dream.

HONORS FOR MISS AOKI.

Fully a dozen Japanese art dealers have vied with each other in contributing rare treasures to decorate the dressing-room of Tsuru Aoki (Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa) at Universal City. When Miss Aoki returned from San Francisco, where she spent a week in securing exterior scenes for her big Universal feature, "The Breath of the Gods," she was delightfully surprised to find her dressing-room transformed into a studio of oriental art.

PARROT FIRED; TALK TOO STRONG

Lasky Secures Substitute After Trying Out Handsome Bird.

A half-dozen parrots are used conspicuously in Ethel Clayton's latest Paramount-Artcraft picture, "More Deadly Than the Male," but a hurried switch was made in the personnel of the parrot cast during the filming of the production.

When the birds were turned over to Director Robert G. Vignola he was warned by his assistant, Phil Carlberk, that one of them was a master at swearing.

"That's all right," Vignola replied. "People can't hear the swearing on the screen and they can't read a parrot's lips, can they? Besides, it's a beautiful bird. We can use it all right."

All went well the first day. On the following morning, however, the parrot was feeling full of enthusiasm and cut loose with a verbal attack that had all the feminine members of the company scurrying for cover. That parrot not only knew all the swear words in common usage, but he, or his master, had invented some new phrases that were decidedly striking.

Vignola and Carlberk grabbed the offending party, hustled him off the set, and an hour later a new parrot was on the job. The substitute was not so gorgeous in coloring, but his vocabulary was more restricted.

VISIT IS OVER.

President of Equity Pictures Leaves for East.

Herbert K. Somborn, president of the Equity Pictures Corporation, of 1211 Aeolian Hall, New York City, has returned east after a visit to the Garson Studios, Inc., in Los Angeles, where Clara Kimball Young is working in the "Eyes of Youth" production which will be released through Equity during October.

The final scenes of "Eyes of Youth" are being taken at the Garson studios in Los Angeles this week with Clara Kimball Young in the star role. Among the final big scenes is an exterior of the Ritz-Carlton in New York which has been produced in duplicate at the Garson studios.

WRITING FOR MISS YOUNG.

Marah Ellis Ryan, the authoress, has begun work on the first of a series of stories which she is writing for Clara Kimball Young to be produced at the Garson studios in Los Angeles during the next year. Mrs. Ryan is the author of "Told in the Hills," the "Soul of Raphael" and other popular books.

FORMERLY WITH WOODS.

In the cast selected by Eric von Stroheim to support him in his next Universal feature, "The Woman in the Plot," work on which has already started, is Una Trevelyn, a recruit from the speaking stage who, in two years, has achieved quite a following in the cinema world. Miss Trevelyn, who was formerly with A. H. Woods as leading woman in road productions of "Common Clay" and "Cheating Cheaters," brings to the screen, in addition to good looks and youth, dramatic powers and technical knowledge. In "The Woman in the Plot," she will utilize a $5000 wardrobe, it is stated, obtained principally from Lucille, Worth and Hickson.

FARNUM FEATURE STARTS.

Dustin Farnum, now starring in Gasnier productions, has begun work on "The Honor of the Family" under Colin Campbell's direction. William Lord Wright is the company's representative. Much of the film—which, by the way, is a Balzac story—is being shot at Universal City, where a French town has been constructed by Gasnier.

NEW ORIENTAL PHOTODRAMA.

Work has started at Universal City on "The Virgin of Stamboul," Priscilla Dean's colorful photodrama of Constantinople. The story was written by H. H. Van Loan and adapted to the screen by William Parker. Tod Browning is directing the star in the production. Elaborate "sets" have been completed at the world's film capital and the first few scenes have been made.

"AMBITION" WELL ON WAY.

Dorothy Phillips, the Universal star, is well into the theme of "Ambition," her latest starring vehicle. Following an expedition to Pleasanton, near San Francisco, Allen Holubar returned with his company to Universal City where most of the scenes are being made.

PELTON'S BURBANK.

"Why Men Go Wrong," a delightful comedy, made better by good acting, will be one of the star features in the new review at Pelton's Burbank starting with a matinee Sunday.

The new show will consist of a 1919 Review in seven scenes, which will give an opportunity for the new principals to show their versatility, and the new scenery and elaborate costumes worn by the famous beauty chorus, will all go towards making the new bill one of the best ever seen at the Burbank. Larry Richardson, who has already become a big favorite with the Burbank audiences will be seen in a comedy blackface character. Dainty Arline Levy and the rest of the cast of principals will all appear in the new review, and undoubtedly the new show will be one of the most popular ones yet seen at this cozy little playhouse. There are three shows daily, at 2:30 7 and 9 o'clock.

MAY USE FILMS TO AID RUSSIA.

CREDIT CHIEF ASKS SUPPLY OF CRIME-DETECTING PRINTS.

Indications that conditions in Russia are worse than ever and that the latest effort of the White Guards to maintain order in Petrograd and other big cities has failed are embodied in a letter received yesterday by Robert McKim, film star and director, from Alexandrevitch Bersenyeff, president of the Russo-Siberian Sincredsoyooz, the Russian organization for restoring the nation's credit with the world. Bersenyeff forwarded the message from Serge Nedjnikoff, Provost-Marshal of Petrograd, one of the best known police chiefs in Europe. The communication requested McKim's co-operation in solving the problem of the newest crime wave in Russia, Nedjnikoff declaring that sex delinquencies had increased 200 per cent. since the nationalization of women.

Peculiarly enough, says Bersenyeff, Nedjnikoff conceived the idea of enlisting McKim's aid through several film plays in which the star played either crook or detective roles and which were exhibited in the cinema theaters of Petrograd, Moscow and Cracow.

These films, it is said, created a furore and established McKim in the minds of the Russians as an expert in criminology. This, of course, is but another expression of the extreme credulity of the Russian people and the influence of the American motion picture.

"Perhaps," writes Nedjnikoff to McKim, "you may be able to forward to me pictures showing the latest methods employed by your police in hunting down criminals and, particularly, in dissipating mob disorder."

McKim has appealed to the film studios and expects within a week to collect a few reels of film that might really serve the purpose of the Provost-Marshal. Several police departments in the United States are known to have picturized their detective systems and McKim is getting into communication with these media.

"SCENARIOITIS" ATTACKS SMYRNA.

The disease technically known as "scenarioitis," has now extended even to Symrna, previously noted chiefly for figs. A scenario came to the Robert Brunton studios in Los Angeles from an afflicted Smyrnian, who signs himself, "poet, novelist and scenario author." But he never quite forgets that he is a Smyrnian, for he says that he doesn't "care a fig for the money." His letter, in part, follows:

"Gentlemen: Having studied for a long time the art of the photoplay writing, according to its latest wants and progress, and possessing some plays which I want to put in good market, I am taking the liberty to offer you two of them, entitled, 'Crucified Love,' in six parts, and 'Martha, the Nightingale of the Village,' in seven parts.

"I am preparing 'Superhomo' (serial,) the most wonderful play ever seen.

"Please mail me a sample copy scenario."

If the first title had been changed to "Electrocuted Love" it is certain to have been padded. In the last title he was evidently under the influence of movie advertising.

GAVE GRANDMA A TURN.

Miss Irene Phillips, librarian at Nutley, has the courage to say that there are shadows as well as light places in the work of a town library. She recognizes the pleasures of the work—but she wishes people wouldn't make such a fuss over 2 and 4-cent fines for overdue books! To have a "society leader" raise a rumpus about 4 cents is humiliating. "Why, I haven't even read the book!" "Two cents! Why, I didn't even open the book!" Which is, of course, conclusive, and ought to satisfy all other readers who were impatiently waiting for it.

"What do you do with all the money I give you?" Glancing suspiciously at the librarian's new blouse.

From these persons one comes as a relief to hear the request: "Three books for grandma, please, and don't have any dying in them, because the last one you sent her gave her a turn."—[Public Libraries.

FAITH AND THE DRAMA.

hardly to be recognized as such except from the small hand-painted sign which swings from two gate posts

THE UNSELFISH SPIRIT.

That sign is the clew to all that goes on within the theater. Everything that has been done there has been a labor of love. None of the players or peoples engaged in the production has drawn any salaries. All the scenery has been made by those interested in the theater. Where possible costumes have been originated and made.

And Miss Dickson says that through the faithful efforts of the players and the people interested they have managed to come through the two seasons without losing money. "We even had $40 in the bank at the end of the last season," she said.

The players have made all manner of sacrifice, for many of them are busy at the picture studios and in other lines of work. They have often had to go on with a production after a hard day before the camera. Sometimes, it has been necessary at the last minute to secure another player to take a role, because the actor originally chosen received a sudden call to go on location. Miss Dickson mentioned one instance where Wilfred Lucas had to practically forgo sleep for several nights to assume the burden of a role just before a performance.

"It has always been my hope to build up an institution where the principle should be one of giving instead of taking. It is wonderful what response there has been in the case of the Community Theater. The success of the plan has lain entirely with those who donated their services unreservedly in their love for the higher ideals of the playhouse. The manner in which the dream has come true hardly seems possible.

"You know we are such a happy domestic sort of group out here. Everybody knows everybody else by his or her first name. I doubt if you could find a theater in the United States where the democratic feeling so truly exists."

The present building will probably house the Community Theater for another season. They are to give six groups of performances—the first opening tomorrow night, including a play by Dunsany, a Japanese romance, Schnitzler's "Lady with the Dagger" and a comedy.

The theater is being enlarged to the extent of a porch addition. "At present we hardly have room to turn around," said Miss Dickson. "The actors spend their waiting time during rehearsals under the trees for lack of space in the interior of the theater. So we're going to have the porch for them, and for the guests at the theater who wish to get a breath of fresh air between plays."

With few exceptions, the plan of the Community Theater has been to produce one-act plays. Last year, of course, they gave Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," but the majority of the performances are made up of a pleasing mingling of dramatic motifs.

"It is in this manner that we appeal to the greaetr mass of people's quoting the very discerning director of the theater once again—"by giving them a certain variety in entertainment. We really seek to please the tired business man, among our other patrons, and we always try to have some light comedy to lend the spirit of diversion to our programmes.

"This gives us a chance to experiment with the plays of deeper intent—and we are always hoping that we can get the casual theatergoer to enjoy these, too, and thus help the higher aims we have in view."

It is very remarkable that the theater has drawn people from all walks of life. There is always a notable gathering of limousines—a sprinkling of flivvers, and no end of arrivals by street car and on foot at the theater when the performances, which generally run for two weeks at stated intervals, are being given. All walks of life rub shoulders and elbows. Moreover, I have seldom detected quite that atmosphere of interest that amounts to excitement attending the productions. Perhaps it is the cosmopolitan nature of the audience crowded into the small space; perhaps it is the general feeling of good-fellowship and naturalness that pervades the performances, reaching the audience.

This is the way Miss Dickson indirectly touches on the definition of this feeling:

"Once a lady made a criticism to me about our little entertainment. She said: 'Community Theater—huh! They don't act out there; they just talk like people on my gfront porch.'

"And that's the sincerest compliment I ever had for our theater."

ASCENDING THE STARLIT PATH.

Brilliant Career of Olive Thomas, Star of Holton Story.

Just a few years ago a little girl started life as a stock girl at $3 a week in a Pittsburgh department store. She was in short dresses, with her hair down her back, and went around bragging about how lucky she was to be the youngest saleslady in the store. The little girl was Olive Thomas, appearing in "Upstairs and Down," film version.

Fate, however, had a brighter future for Olive than to stand behind a counter all day selling ginghams. Her career as a stock girl was cut short by the arrival of a musical aunt from Boston, who was shocked to find that Olive's musical education had been sadly neglected and that the limit of her capabilities was to play "Alexander's Ragtime Band" on the piano with one finger.

Aunt Emma decided it was high time Olive started upon a professional career and with the little shop girl in tow she started for New York. From the moment of her arrival in the big city, Olive's star started to ascend. She first posed for photographic art studies. Then painters, attracted by her youth and beauty, engaged her to pose for them. It was wonderful pay for Olive—in those days—50 cents an hour. She was in constant demand by Harrison Fisher, Penrhyn Stanlaws, Haskell Coffin and other famous painters. Harrison Fisher labelled her "the most beautiful girl in the world," and the title has stuck.

Then the Ziegfeld Follies captured her and she sprang immediately into the limelight and became the toast of Broadway. Magazines and Sunday supplements printed interviews and sung her praises far and wide. Bankers, brokers, Senators, Congressmen and even mayors competed for the honor of a smile from the queen of the Midnight Frolic.

Then the motion-picture magnates became interested and Broadway will never forgive the films for luring Miss Thomas away from the center of its bright lights. Beauties come and go, Ziegfeld sends to the four corners of the earth to get them for his exacting patrons of the Frolic and Follies, but no matter what the degree of their puchritude or how sensational their debut the professional Broadwayite will say, "Yes, yes, I know; but you should have seen Olive Thomas."

Miss Thomas is Irish and that means she has brains and a sense of humor along with her beauty. She is the kind of star whom everyone loves to work for, because she is without the too frequent malady, "swelled head." Miss Thomas is loyal, sincere, and an earnest worker, and there is nothing "up stage" about her. Excess of dignity is as provocative to her as the red flag to the bull, and she loves to take its possessor down all she can.

ROTHWELL WILL ARRIVE NEXT WEEK.

With two trunks packed with interesting scores written by American and contemporary Russian and French writers, Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor of the Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles, left New York yesterday and is scheduled to arrive here next Friday. He will stop en route in Chicago and San Francisco.

Every day in the Philharmonic offices, W. E. Strobridge and F. W. Kuphal, the librarian, are busily engaged in opening boxes and bundles of music. Among the most interesting numbers received last week, no one of which has been heard in Los Angeles were "Les Erinnyes" (Massenet,) "On the Fjord" (Schjelderup,) "Wedding Feast," "Belshazzar's Gastmahl" and "Pelleas and Melissande," Harbanera (Chabrier,) "Nenie," Ballade and Polonaise (Liadow,) "Ballet" (Gluck-Mottl,) "Scenes Pittoresques" (Massenet,) "Dance Slave" (Chabrier,) "Dance de Salome" (Glazounow,) "Ballet" (Pogojeff,) "Serenade Lyrique" (Elgar,) "Moorish Fantasie" (Moszkowski,) Polonaise "Eugen Onegin" (Tschaikowsky,) Scherzo in B Flat (Moussorgsky,) Petite Suite (Ducasse,) Danse Piedmontese (Sinigaglia) Florent Schmidt's lovely "Papazzi" Suite, including "Scaramouche," "Damis," "Clumene" and "Cassandre," and an exquisite suite for strings alone by Victor Herbert, including 'Sunset," "Forget-Me-Not" and "Air de Ballet," and Carpenter's "Adventures in a Perambulator."

It is expected that the celesta for the orchestra will arrive here in time for the first programme October 24. Already a splendid set of chimes, a machine pedal tympani, twelve pairs of tympani sticks with felt, leather, cotton and wooden heads for various degrees of percussion effects, have arrived.

New York Critic Here.

Pierre V. R. Key, music critic of the New York World, is visiting his mother at Pasadena where he will remain until the opening of the New York season, October 1. Mr. Key has occupied his position with the World for twelve years, and in that time has made himself especially known to the music cognoscenti by numerous articles for the leading magazines of the country, and more recently by his biography of John MacCormack, which Small, Maynard and Company have brought out and which is entitled, "John MacCormack; His Own Life Story." Mr. Key brings tidings of an unprecedented season for New York. He states that expectations are there will be $50,000,000 spent in the production of music this season. At the conclusion of his tour, Mr. Key will write a series of music feature articles to appear in the leading newspapers of the country.

Sistarelli in Europe.

Umberto Sistarelli, violinist and composer, who is at present in Italy, expects to return to America within the next several weeks. Mr. Sistarelli availed himself of the first opportunity to obtain passports to visit his relatives abroad. He has arranged his plans so that he may return here in time to resume his musical activities during the coming season.

STUDENTS GIVE RECITAL.

Students of Marion Warde, teacher of dramatic art in Blanchard Hall, gave a programme at the County Hospital. The same students gave two programmes Thursday night of this week; one in the early part of the evening for the Fraternal Brotherhood Club, and again later in the evening for the Maccabees. Among those taking part were: Messrs. Kenneth Chryst and Murray Tweedy, the Misses Ruth Tweedy, Elsa Day and Gertrude Pierson, in a one-act comedy; Mrs. Marion Hadley in pianologues; Kenneth Chryst in dialect readings; Baby Lillian Whiteford in a character song and dance; Katherine Tweedy and Dorothy Joe Hughes in dance numbers, and Jenivee Waller in character impersonations.

THE STORY OF BURRESHEIM.

Castle Used for Gaiety as Well as for War.

So Hidden that an Enemy Once Failed to Find It.

Its Dungeon Place of Imprisonment for Witches.

[From the Watch on the Rhine.]

About five kilometers from Mayen, where the small stream Nitz flows into the Netta, is the beautiful castle of Burresheim. Unlike most castles of the Rhineland, it does not occupy the topmost point of its vicinity, but sits snugly in a cluster of hills. The valleys of the two small streams and the thickly-wooded slopes that rise on nearly every side afford a picturesque and unique setting for this historic and romantic castle.

The first that is definitely known of the castle dates back to the middle of the twelfth century. For several hundred years it was held by first one nobleman and then another—whoever was the most powerful at his particular time. To own the turreted castle of Burresheim in those days was a great honor, and carried with it much power and authority, for the knight who lived in those halls was also lord of the surrounding country and the villages of the neighborhood.

During the many years of its early existence the castle was from time to time undergoing many changes. Each knight who came into possession of the place made some addition to the structure, another hall, another tower, another balcony or another gate. Naturally, each addition that was made was after the style of the architecture of its own particular time; so that the castle in its present state shows a balcony, a hall, a turret or a gate of every architectural period from the first half of the twelfth century to a time possibly as late as the latter part of the eighteenth century. The finest part of the castle was built during the years from 1659 to 1661.

HAS A LEANING TOWER.

One architectural peculiarity of the castle is the small leaning tower, which probably may be accounted for by the fact that the castle was added to from decade to decade and was built that way by mistake, though the irregularity may be due to dislocation by storm or decay.

Although the location of the castle below the level of neighboring hilltops deprived it of some of its value as a stronghold, the location of watch towers on all sides and the well-arranged portholes about the gates made the castle a fortress of considerable importance. But the castle was built for gaiety as well as for war, for in the center is a beautiful court where royalty was entertained in all the splendor of the time.

One of the finest halls of the castle contains a large open fireplace made of beautiful white marble. Some of the balconies are quite unique and attractive in their arrangement, and would form a fine setting for a Romeo and Juliet romance.

During the seventeenth century, when there was much warfare with the invading troops from France, Burresheim escaped siege, due to the fact that it was hidden so completely among the hills that the enemy failed to discover the place.

WOMEN SENT TO DUNGEON.

The witches' tower and the witches' dungeon were places of particular importance in the castle during the Middle Ages. That was a time when women were often suspected of being colleagues of the devil—more so than even today—and when any woman showed a particular display of wit or a particular lack of it, or in any way brought the displeasure or suspicion of the community upon her head, she was forthwith imprisoned in the witches' tower at Burresheim, and if she was suspected of unusual devilishness she was hurled into the witches' dungeon.

According to tradition these offenders were burned to death on top of Hochsimmer, which is only a short distance from Mayen. Some of these captives, however, evidently starved to death in the tower and the dungeon, for, in the year 1700, some men explored this long-forsaken part of the castle and found a large number of human skeletons.

By the middle of the Nineteenth Century certain parts of the castle had decayed considerably, or had been partly wrecked in the many attacks of earlier days, and those places were restored. The greater part of the castle, however, has not been inhabited for a considerable time, only the more modern parts being used.

In 1796 the Castle of Burresheim fell into the hands of the family of Belgium, and since that time this estate has passed down through the hands of the male heirs.

KAISER VISITED THE CASTLE.

In 1892 it was inherited by the late Count of Renesse, and was owned by him until his death two or three months ago. Each summer the Count of Renessee would bring his family to Burresheim and enjoy the quietude that this secluded spot among the hills furnished.

In 1910 when ex-Kaiser Wilhelm made his last tour to the monastery of Maria Laach on Laacher See, to Mayen, and a few other places in the hinterland of the Rhine and the Moselle, he paid the Count of Renesse a visit in his summer home at Burresheim.

This quaint old castle may never again blossom with royalty as it did on that occasion, but legends, traditions and history will ever hold the atmosphere of royalty about the Castle of Burresheim.

Why Russia's Church Has Failed.

The church; under the Czar, did nothing for the people in morals, education or spiritual enlightenment. It stood with the dark powers of the state. It was a pillar of autocracy. Its members were placeholders, interested in their fat jobs and the regime which assured them. Most of all I hold against it the failure to educate the people. When the revolution came, with the first elections some of the priests tried to run for office. They failed dismally. The people said, "You never did anything for us before, you never took our part when we were in trouble, why should we trust you now?"—[Catherine Breshkovsky, in the World Outlook.

The play of the season. —(Record)

The eighth art —the one new sensation of the age—the glorious creative genius of DAVID WARK GRIFFITH again brings something precious and lovely to the world.

"The screen glows with a beauty never previously beholden to mortal eyes," says Edwin Schallert in the Times.—GRIFFITH'S new application of color.

The acting is so finished that FLORENCE LAWRENCE believes each has immortalized himself.

The prologues are jeweled cameos of lights and beauty. For the Voice of Fate, Mr. GRIFFITH has secured GEORGE FAWCETT, the eminent stage star. The dance by CAROL DEMPSTER, solo star of the Denishawn group. The music is original and unusual, contributed by four orchestras, including the wistful serenades of the Balalaika.

This show created by MR. GRIFFITH for Los Angeles only, never again will be shown in America. The first prologue added since the New York show, at $3.00 a seat.

Mrs. Elbert Wing, Sr., and her mother, Mrs. E. Halliday, are still at the latter's summer home at Cape Cod. Miss L. Halladay, a brilliant painter, is there, having until recently been marooned in Germany. Many of her canvasses are hung in the Art Salon in Paris. She will probably spend the winter here with the Wings and return to Paris, which is her home, in the spring.

Home Wedding.

Miss Lydia C. Ahrens and Charles O. Bartz were married by Rev. J. W. Theiss of the Evangelical Lutheran Chirst Church on Wednesday evening. After the ceremony there was supper for forty-five. After a motor trip to the neighboring cities and beaches the couple will reside at Pocatella, Idaho.

Back to College.

Mr. Roger P. Johnson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson of 912 Westlake avenue, has just returned from Cordova, Alaska, where he has been since his discharge from the Marine Corps last December. He has been working in the First Bank of Cordova, and resigned his position as teller to go on with his education. He will enter Stanford University in October, going with his brother, Oliver W. Johnson, who is a junior at the university.

By Dr. and Mrs. Young.

Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Young of Middleton Place entertained in celebration of the tenth birthday anniversary of their daughter, Winonah. The house was decorated in pink flowers, while pink roses and blue flowers adorned the table, where two dressed-up Kewpies and a big birthday cake with ten pink candles also added to the attractiveness of the board. There were seventeen guests, all of whom received a pink and blue basket and a Kewpie dressed in pink. The children were Alice Herington, Loree Babcock, Alice Miller, Eva Borden, Vivian Sidelle, Alice Stewart, Margaret Shean, Marjorie Stewart, Esther Haupt and Marion Lippold.

At Forest Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Philo Wilcox and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hayes have been enjoying a few days' outing at Forest Home.

House Guests.

Mrs. Ed Nittinger, who has been at her summer home in Ocean Park several months, has been entertaining as house guests Mrs. H. E. Pierpont and her mother, Mrs. L. A. Pierpont.

By Mrs. Gerardi.

An attractive juvenile party was that given by Mrs. Vincent L. Gerardi of Gramercy place in honor of the eighth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Regina Elizabeth. Many of the guests were schoolmates at St. Brenden's School. Games were enjoyed and prizes awarded. The guests were Lelia and Ita O'Brien, Helen Moore, Jane Frances Mullen, Frances Krug, Jane Curtin, Genevieve Klement, Muriel McMasters, Ellen Nielan, Virginia Giulii, Betty Jane Metcalf, Barbara Amilio, Letizia Normandin, Mary and Josephine Curtin, Virginia Metcalf, Dolly Melzer, Dorothy Paget and Barbara Louise Gerardi.

Back from Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph E. Hartman, Jr., have returned from a three weeks' honeymoon spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hartman, in San Francisco. Until her marriage Mrs. Hartman was Miss Cora E. Herman of Burbank.

The Mayfields.

Lieutenant-Commander Irving Hall Mayfield has arrived from San Francisco on his way to San Diego, where he is to be stationed indefinitely. Mrs. Mayfield, who came on from the East several weeks ago to visit her father, Sheldon Borden, and her grandmother, Mrs. Marjorie Burnet, is already in Coronado, having gone there to select a house for the winter. She is planning to give some jolly week-end parties there for Los Angeles friends.

Back from Motor Jaunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Smith have returned from a three weeks' motor jaunt which carried them as far north as Lake Tahoe. They fished in the streams of the Sierras at every stopping point, and at Yosemite Valley made excellent catches. The trip in all covered 1400 miles.

Noted Artist Here.

Miss Beulah Bevington, noted artist from Cleveland, O., and a cousin of Miss Grace Valentine, Los Angeles stage star, is in the city visiting Mrs. M. C. Valentine at the Blackstone apartments. Miss Bevington is to be honor guest at a tea to be given this week by Mrs. Valentine. Several well-known motion-picture stars will be there, including Melvin Valentine and Lillian Greenberger Valentine.

By Miss Wallis.

Miss Byrd Wallis will be a luncheon hostess on Thursday assembling a small group of girls at the Los Angeles Country Club. In the party will be Miss Gertrude Orcutt and her guest, Miss Elizabeth MacArthur, and Miss Florence Marsh and her house guests, Misses Gladys Armstrong and Ruth Houston.

At Coronado.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McNaghten and Mr. and Mrs. Bradford of Los Angeles were among those who motored down to Hotel del Coronado for the last week-end, witnessing the Yacht Club races.

Other Angelenos who enjoyed several days recently at Hotel del Coronado include: Mr. and Mrs. Byron C. Hanna, Fred R. Carver, Mr. and Mrs. Waller Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spark, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. White, Miss Spark, Mr. and Mrs. Ballsley, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Llewellyn, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Belcher, Miss Abeola, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sparling, Gordon Smith, Miss Lena Scott, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Somerville, Dr. J. E. Dhine, A. B. Hastings, Lionel T. Barneson, W. C. Brode, C. B. Sweet and Miss Pearl White.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Clark of Los Angeles, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Reed and son, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. White and Miss Betty White were among those who motored down to Hotel del Coronado for the Yacht cup races. Mr. Clark is one of the prominent officials of the Union Oil Company.

One of the enjoyable affairs of recent date at Hotel del Coronado was the beach supper and picnic given Tuesday evening by Mrs. Frances Layng Spence, when the guests motored down to the sand beach at the foot of Ocean boulevard and after building a huge bonfire had supper served. Those included were Col. and Mrs. W. C. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wood and their niece, Miss Martha Kimball of Chicago; Mrs. Vernon Goodwin, Los Angeles; Miss Agnes Knight, Pasadena; Mrs. E. R. Wall, Philadelphia; Miss Elizabeth Spence, Coronado, Ensign William Wallace Fife, Ensign Leon Joseph Baker, and Ensign Erik Lincoln Anderson of the U. S. Cruiser Salem, which is anchored in San Diego harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paine Fite of New York have been passing a portion of their honeymoon at Hotel del Coronado, arriving Thursday evening from Los Angeles, and leaving Wednesday morning. Mrs. Fife was formerly Miss Dorothy Lindley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lindley of Los Angeles, and the wedding was one of the social events of September 10.

Motoring down to Hotel del Coronado from Los Angeles Lieut. Frank Simpson, Jr., U. S. N., Air Service, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Frank Simpson, and sister, Miss Beatrice Simpson, arrived Tuesday evening for a brief visit. Lieut. Simpson was formerly in command of the Naval Air Service at Balboa Park.

Mrs. Frederick K. Stearns of Beverly Hills, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. M. S. Muchmore of New York and Mrs. Milford Harmon of Jackson, Mich., motored down to Hotel del Coronado for several days' visit, while at the hotel they were entertained at dinner Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff at their home in Ocean boulevard, Coronado.

Mrs. Vernon Goodwin of Wilshire boulevard, who with her two children, Barbara and Vernon Goodwin, Jr., have been at Hotel del Coronado for the past two weeks, will return home this afternoon. Mr. Goodwin motored down to fetch them back to Los Angeles.

Judge and Mrs. Leon F. Moss of Los Angeles, accompanied by Mrs. H. E. Hyter and Mrs. Ellen Michener, motored down to Hotel del Coronado Saturday afternoon for several days' visit.

By Mrs. McClintic.

In honor of the eighth birthday of her daughter, Eileen May McClintic, Mrs. C. A. McClintic of 210 North Satsuma avenue, Eagle Rock, entertained a bevy of girls and boys. The table was in pink and white flowers. The guests were Hazel, Shirley, and Doris Murdock, Marjory and Jane Hannaford, Elizabeth Young, Mary and Marguerite Richardson, Merrill and Virginia Dixon, Ruth and Robert Newhouse, Edwin H. Armstrong, Winifred Wilhemy, Gloria Harrison, Carol Wolf and Hugh McClintic.

Miscellaneous Shower.

Miss Miriam Hope Hattery gave a miscellaneous shower yesterday, in honor of Miss Eleanor De Long, who is soon to marry Wayne Montgomery. The decorations were white asters and ferns. The guests were Miss Bernice Montgomery, Mrs. Charles Frederick De Long, Misses Margaret Thayer, Olive Sicker, Muriel Pinnell, Helen Hunter, Ruth Larson, Louise Waltz, Gladys Allan, Faye Tilden, Ethel Frost, Phoebe Smith, Florence and Jean Le Count.

Eaton-Terrell.

Claiming attention of a host of friends is the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Eaton and Mr. H. Evans Terrell, which is to take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at St. John's Episcopal Church. Miss Eaton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Eaton. Two hundred guests are to witness the ceremony. There are to be five bridesmaids.

Weds in Long Beach.

The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Dyer, 803 Cedar street, Long Beach, was the scene of a pretty wedding Tuesday evening, when Miss Alberta Abbey, niece of Mrs. Dyer, became the wife of Mr. Adrian McCain of Santa Ana. The marriage was the culmination of a youthful romance interrupted by the war and the enlistment of the young man in the army. Recently he returned from service in France, and received his discharge.

The bride was gowned in pale pink georgette, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Mrs. Regina Adams was bridesmaid to her cousin, and was attired in a gown of silver cloth, with overdress of embroidered blue crepe, and carried a bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses. Earl Abbey, brother of the bride was best man, while a tiny cousin, Corrinne Adams, in a white lace frock over pink silk, was a pretty ring bearer. The ceremony of the Episcopal Church was performed by the Rev. Bode, rector of St. Luke's Church, Long Beach. The bride was given away by her uncle, Harry W. Dyer. After the ceremony, a supper was served in the dining-room.

The going-away suit of the bride was of pearl gray cloth, the hat trimmed with blue ostrich tips. After October 1 the couple will be at home to their friends at their own bungalow in Santa Ana.

Mrs. McCain is the niece of Mrs. Bernetta Atkinson of Los Angeles. She is a graduate of Cumnock College in this city. Mr. McCain is the son of Mr. M. L. McCain of Santa Ana.

Personals.

Mrs. Charles H. McFarland of 3659 Ellendale place, expects to leave Wednesday for an extended visit in New York, Washington and other Eastern cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. D. Mathuss have purchased a home at 1725 Fifth avenue into which they have moved.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Saunders and son, R. C. Saunders, are home after an extended motor trip through Oregon and Northern California.

Madame Lemilla Prindester of Washington, D. C., left for home on Monday after a short visit with Miss Maude Elizabeth Richards of 2208 Western avenue.

Mrs. J. C. Hall and son, Ben Hall, of Kansas City, who have been spending the past month in Long Beach and Los Angeles, are returning to their home today.

Mrs. S. A. Rothermel and daughter, Alice Rothermel of 443 South Van Ness avenue, returned last week from an outing of two weeks at Forest Home.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY.

PASADENA.

Many charming luncheon and dinner parties are vieing with autumnal weddings to engross Pasadena society these days.

Mrs. A. E. D. Carscallen, who lives at the Maryland, was hostess at a charming dinner party there Wednesday evening. The affair was given in compliment to Maj. and Mrs. W. H. Post of Los Angeles and Mrs. L. C. Dupreau, who is the house guest of Mrs. William R. Neill of Los Angeles. Maj. Post recently returned from France. Besides the guests of honor, Mrs. Carscallen's guests included Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Howard of Pasadena, Dr. and Mrs. Skell, Mrs. W. R. Neill and Mr. and Mrs. T. The Smart Suit Illustrated is the original style conception of the celebrated Parisian designer, Bernard.

This is an exclusive Vogue adaptation, and there are no replicas to be seen in this city.

Vogue confines its style presentments exclusively to productions or copies of productions by those designers who are universally recognized as the masters of their art, including such world-famous fashion originators as Paquin, Callot, Poire, Beer, Jenny, Worth and Maurice.

The rare beauty of the Bernard creation shown above is but faintly suggested by the artist's sketch. It is developed from the finest quality of Peau de Peche, in rich Havana Brown, with a high muffling collar of Nutria fur; a long sash is also tipped with Nutria. The back is fashioned in the favored Russian Blouse effect.

"America's Smartest Shoe House"

The marked distinction of BOOTERY footwear has brought the BOOTERY stores of California into national recognition. In the list of BOOTERY patrons are found many names of women socially prominent in New York City and other large style centers of the east.

The distinct style character of BOOTERY shoes has never been successfully imitated. We would impress the fact that the BOOTERY has no connection with any other shops in the United States.

How Signs of Old Age Creep Into Your System When The Iron In Your Blood Runs Low

For Want of Iron, You May Be Old At Thirty—Nervous, Irritable and All Run-Down—While at Fifty or Sixty, With Plenty of Iron in Your Blood, You May Be Young in Feeling and Brimming Over With Vim and Energy.

IRON IS THE RED BLOOD FOOD

That Helps Strengthen the Nerves, Restores Wasted Tissue and Aids in Giving Renewed Force and Power to the Body. Physicians Explain Why Administration of Simple Nuxated Iron Often Increase the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Run Down People in Two Weeks' Time.

Old age has already sunk its talons into thousands of men and women who ought still to be enjoying the springtime and summer of life simply because they have allowed worry, overwork, nervous strain, dissipation and occupational poisons to sap the iron from their blood and thereby destroy its power to change food into living tissue, muscle and brain. You will find plenty of people at 40 who are broken in health and steadily going downward to physical and mental decay while others at 50 are strong, active, alert and seemingly growing younger every year. One class withers and dies like leaves in autumn while the other by keeping up a strong power of resistance against disease may pass the three score and ten mark with surprising health, strength and vigor. But you cannot expect to look and feel young and vigorous unless you have plenty of iron in your blood, and physicians explain below why they prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to supply the iron deficiency in the weak, nervous and run-down so as to build them up into stronger, healthier men and women.

"Many a man and woman who ought still to be young in feeling is losing the old time vim and energy that makes life worth living simply because their blood is starving for want of iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept., New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Thousands are ageing and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying perfect health because anaemia—lack of iron in the blood—has fastened its grip on them and is sapping their strength, vitality and energy. But in my opinion you can't make strong, keen, forceful men and healthy, rosy-cheeked women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble then purchase Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron."

Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon, Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, says: "From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron, I feel convinced that it is a preparation which any physician can take himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which has been used by Dr. Sullivan and other physicians with such surprising results, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Boswell & Hayes Drug Co., Dickinson Drug Co., B. & B. Drug Co., Chambers Drug Co., Sun Drug Co. and all other druggists.

SOCIETY.

brides-elect. The honorees were Miss Ruth Braley, whose marriage to Ernest H. Christensen takes place next Tuesday, and Miss Beatrice Costell, who is to wed City Attorney James H. Howard in October.

Mrs. LeRoy Linnard entertained at a pretty luncheon at the Maryland Wednesday in honor of her sister, Mrs. Keith Roberts, who is visiting her from Chicago, and Mrs. Otis Dunn of San Francisco, who is spending some time in Southern California. Mrs. Dunn is a recent bride. Before her marriage she was Miss Frances Edmunson. Besides the honorees, Mrs. Linnard's guests were Miss Catherine Wright, who is to be one of the fall brides; Mrs. Elliott Bandini, Mrs. Sullivan and Miss Florence Lacy.

Miss Hazel Jones of Hemet and Lieut. Paul DeHuff, who recently returned from service overseas, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Pilgrim Congregational Church, here. Mrs. Mildred Jones of LaBrea was matron of honor. Kenneth E. DeHuff, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James H. Lash of Hollywood. A wedding supper was served following the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Jones, 92 Pepper street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Jones of Hemet.

The Wise and Otherwise Club held an enjoyable picnic meeting in Brookside Park Thursday evening. Mrs. Frank Hayes was the hostess for the occasion.

Miss Dorothy E. Beers of North Holliston avenue and Fred C. Wright of this city were married Wednesday evening at the parsonage of Calvary Baptist Church by Rev. B. B. Jacques. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Wright will make their home in Pasadena.

Many Pasadenans who have been away during the summer are returning now and reopening their town houses. Mr. and Mrs. Remington Olmstead and family have returned from Catalina and have reopened their house on San Rafael Heights. Mr. and Mrs. James S. Macdonnell and children, who had a house at Montecito this summer, have returned to town, and are again occupying their house on San Rafael Heights. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Barrett, who have been at Balboa Beach this summer, have returned to their North Chester-avenue home.

President James A. B. Scherer of Throop College and Mrs. Scherer, who have been spending the summer in the northern part of the State, have returned to the city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Earl Jardine, who have been at their summer home at Balboa Beach, are expected home within the next fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rountree, who were at Carmel this summer, have returned and are again occupying their bungalow at the Hotel Maryland.

Rev. and Mrs. Seldon W. Cummings and family, who have been at Hermosa Beach, have returned home, Dr. Cummings resuming his pastoral labors in the First Baptist Church.

Dr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Learned and family have returned from their summer home at Carmel-by-the-Sea and are again occupying the rectory at All Saints' Church.

Mrs. Marian Law and Master Law of Santa Barbara and Miss Houston of New York motored here from Santa Barbara this week and are at the Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dixon and daughter and sons, of Omaha, have arrived from the East to make their permanent home in Pasadena. The Dixons will occupy one of the new bungalows at the Maryland.

EL CENTRO.

Miss Ruth Tate and Miss Marshall will soon leave for Pomona where they will enter Pomona College.

Misses Marjorie Brewer and Anna Grogan have resumed their studies at the San Diego Normal College.

The marriage of Miss Bessie Davies and C. E. Brents was celebrated at the Methodist parsonage this week. The bride comes from Durant, Okla., to marry Mr. Brents who is a well-known local man. The marriage is the culmination of a romance extending over a number of years.

J. G. DeLosier and family are back from a summer spent at Venice.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goza are back from a two weeks' vacation, spent in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Phil D. Swing, wife of newly-appointed Judge Phil Swing, and children have returned from a vacation spent in San Francisco and other coast cities.

F. W. Waite and family have returned from a summer spent at Coronado.

Mrs. F. B. Fuller and daughter Francis came home this week from Los Angeles where they have been spending the summer. Miss Francis will enter the El Centro High School. Lavoy, who graduated here in June, is a student at California University at Berkeley.

Belated news of the wedding of Paul Ragan and Miss Betty Evans was brought to this city by the young people themselves, who returned Friday from a three weeks honeymoon spent in the mountains and on the coast. The ceremony took place in Hollywood on August 24 and was performed by Rev. Mr. Richardson, pastor of the Christian church of that place, in the presence of immediate relatives and friends of the young people. They will make their home in this city.

Miss Mildred E. Corbin is expected to arrive in the city within a few days. She is the new County Home Demonstrator for the Farm Bureau.

Leo Hetzel and family have returned from Oakland, where they spent the summer with relatives.

Councilman and Mrs. William Reams and children have returned from a several weeks' visit spent at Long Beach through the hot weather.

MONROVIA.

Miss Mary Banks entertained recently with a delightful dinner party, her guests being five intimate friends. The table was artistically decorated in a color scheme of gold and green. Places were marked for Miss Louise Hotchkiss, Miss Marian Woodward, Miss Ethel Crall, Miss Frances Wheeler and Miss Dorothy Beeson and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Beaman, Judge and Mrs. C. P. Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. F. Davies motored over to Sycamore Grove on Saturday and spent an enjoyable day at the Old Folks' picnic.

Miss Eva Harvey and Miss Opal Rives left on Monday morning over the Santa Fe for an extended visit in the East. Miss Harvey plans to visit friends in Chicago, Terre Haute, New York and Chicago, while Miss Rives will visit friends in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Spinks have returned from a delightful trip to Alaska. Among the places visited was Ketchican, where they spent some time as the guests of Mrs. H. C. Hendrickson, a sister of Mrs. Spinks.

Mrs. A. C. Wakeman of West Lime avenue left this week for the Middle West, where she expects to spend several months. She will visit in Minneapolis and Chicago.

A charming affair of Monday evening was the loge party given by Miss Doris Downe at the Venice dancing pavilion, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Bach, who have recently returned from Billings, Mont. Mrs. Bach will be remembered as Miss Vera Downe. Following the evening of dancing the party motored back to the home of Mrs. Bach and enjoyed a delicious buffet supper. Members of the party included the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Bach, Miss Melden Shue, Miss Helen Hoagland, Miss Frances Bliss, Miss Pauline Munro, Herald Lamb, Dr. A. A. Payette, Albert Seymour, Meredith Waterman and Morton Bliss.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Marckwardt returned to their home in Los Angeles on Wednesday, after spending an enjoyable week in this city as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hodges. One delightful outing enjoyed during the week was a hunting trip near Colton, those in the party being Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, Miss Dorothy Hodges, Mrs. Noyer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noyer and Mr. and Mrs. Marckwardt. The Noyers are from New Mexico and at present are visiting in Los Angeles.

In compliment to Kenneth Fuller, who will leave soon for Stanford, Mrs. F. A. Bliss of Wild Rose avenue entertained with a delightful dinner party on Tuesday evening. The centerpiece for the table was a bouquet of summer flowers and greenery. Places were marked for the guest of honor, Mr. Fuller, Miss Amy Thomas, Miss Mildred Payette of Los Angeles, Miss Frances Bliss, Mrs. Eugene Bliss, Dr. A. A. Payette of Los Angeles, Morton Bliss, Howard Bliss and the hostess. Music furnished entertainment of the evening.

Mrs. George H. Storck of North Canyon drive was hostess on Thursday at a charming luncheon at the Sunset Tea Room. Mrs. J. Barrack of Salmon City, Idaho, was the honored guest. The table was attractive with an artistically arranged bouquet of summer flowers and small baskets tied with dainty bows of yellow tulle marked each place.

ARTESIA.

Mrs. M. B. Feagan entertained on Sunday for dinner Mr. and Mrs. Will Musser and family.

SOCIETY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tolle of Sonora street. They were married at 8 o'clock on the lawn of the spacious Tolle home by the Rev. Wade Hamilton. The bride wore a gown of white satin with an overdress of georgette crepe, beaded. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Glessner Tolle, her sister, the maid of honor, wore a silver satin gown with an overdress of silver georgette and she carried an old-fashioned nosegay. The flower girls were the Misses Marion Knight and Catherine Merrill. Mrs. C. M. Brown played the wedding march and Miss Esther Almquist sang "O, Promise Me." Following the wedding there was a reception with music by Miss Alice Yoder, pianist, and Ted Strang, violin. The Misses Janet Lever, Helen Avey, Marjorie Alexander and Edith Taylor presided at the punch tables and Misses Lucile Alexander, Hester Leverton and Lucy Levering served. The bride wore a rich suit of black velvet for a traveling gown. She is an accomplished young woman and a reader of marked ability. Lieut. Canterbury is now connected with the city water department.

E. V. Wilson entertained a number of his friends with a dinner at his home in Mill Creek Canyon during the week, his guests being Miss Vila Nye of Highlands, Miss Aileen Cram of Patton, Miss Hazel Gernich and Mrs. L. O. Hammond of this city. Mr. Wilson demonstrated his ability as cook, for he prepared the dinner, which was a most bountiful one.

The friends of Miss Charlotte Rumohr and Walter Kolb were surprised during the week when the couple announced that they had been married for almost a month. They were married at the home of the Rev. Herbert C. Ide and kept it a secret in order to surprise their friends. They announced the wedding at a dinner at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rumohr. The groom has just recently returned from service with the Twenty-sixth Division.

Mrs. F. T. Gernich and Mrs. L. O Hammond entertained at their summer homes in Mill Creek cabin during the week with a final party to round out the season's festivities among those who have camps in the Mill Creek district in the popular mountain resort. Motion pictures of the entertainment were taken so as to perpetuate the memories of the pleasant season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson and daughter, Miss Lillian, motored to Pasadena on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wellman of Los Angeles were recent visitors at the home of her cousin, Mrs. A. V. Oldham. They were en route to Fresno, where they will spend some time with relatives.

ATASCADERO.

Mr. and Mrs. Armond Gill and little daughter, who have been for a week at the Inn, left on Wednesday for their home in Dayton, Wyo. Mr. Gill first visited the colony during the 1914 convention, at which time he purchased an acreage, which is now in bearing. When asked how he found the newspaper reports of the growth of the colony compared with conditions as he found them, his reply was that they were exactly as he had expected them, and that he was amazed at the growth of the colony along all lines. During his stay Mr. Gill purchased a lot at Atascadero Beach, No. 13, in block 13, on the 13th of the month, and feels that he is particularly lucky in the selection.

Mrs. Helen Donath of Virginia arrived the first of the week and will remain permanently. Mrs. Donath owns a civic center lot, and will build soon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Peterson and daughter, Helen, of Milwaukee, who have been guests of the E. C. Petersons for the last two weeks, and who came for the Peterson-Koenig wedding, at which Miss Helen was one of the bridesmaids, left for their home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis arrived on Tuesday and will spend several months with their brother, E. G. Lewis.

Baker Warden of Chicago and Edwin Smith of San Luis Obispo were dinner guests at the Inn on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Green of Phoenix, who have been spending several weeks in Los Angeles, motored from there the last of the week and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Neff.

TAFT.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jaquis, daughter Alberta, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham of Fullerton were guests of local friends here for a few hours while they stopped over en route to the Yosemite Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roth have left for Los Angeles, where they will spend a month.

Mrs. Paul Neighbors has returned from Anaheim, where she went to place her son, Paul, Jr., in St. Catherine's School there.

Miss Zaramande Colley of Maricopa was hostess to a dinner party on her birthday anniversary this week. The young people present spent the afternoon enjoyably. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. C. T. Cooley in serving delicious refreshments. Among those present were Irene, Mabel and Viola Davis, Nellie Doll and Maryette Townsend.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cooper motored to Visalia to spend a few weeks' vacation visiting friends and relatives there.

Mrs. L. Dickinson has returned from Bakersfield, where she visited relatives and was the honor guest at a number of functions.

C. E. Haunstein and wife of Long Beach are spending a few days in Taft, guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. McGahan. They are making a tour of the Coast by auto. Mr. Haunstein recently returned from government service in France.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Anderson have returned from San Francisco and Richmond, where they spent the past ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Griffith are back from a trip across the continent, which included stopovers at Chicago and El Paso.

RIVERSIDE.

The marriage of Miss Ray Farr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Farr, to Walter D. Clark, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Clark, was solemnized Tuesday evening at the home of the Bride, 309 Lemon street. The service was read by Dr. J. W. Marsh of Yorba Linda. Preceding the ceremony Miss Elsie Younggren sang Cadman's "At Dawning," and the wedding music was played by Miss Ruth Stevens. Leading the bridal party was Miss Dorothy Burris as flower girl.

A Long Beach couple, Miss Gladys Anderson and Murray M. Campbell, were married Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Congregational Church by Rev. George Laughton. They were accompanied by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Campbell. For the ceremony the bride wore a smart costume of white satin with coat and hat of black velvet, and carried a bouquet of Cecile Brunner roses. After a short honeymoon spent in this city Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will make their home in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Parsons were pleasantly surprised at their home, 554 East Eighth street, Tuesday evening, when the Social Neighbors invaded their home from the rear, flashed on the lights and took possession. The occasion of the gathering was the return of Mrs Parsons, a member of the club, who had spent the summer in Maine. The evening was given over to story-telling, and refreshments of ice cream and cake, brought by the club members, were served to the company on the spacious front porch.

In honor Mrs. Bessie Andrews, who will leave soon to make her home in Eugene, Or., Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Ellis entertained Monday evening with a dinner party at their home on Grand avenue. Other guests included Miss Vaile, Miss Hodenpyl, Mrs. D. E. Ellis and Miss Ruth Ellis. As a farewell gift, Mrs. Andrews was presented with a leather writing case.

Miss Madeline Chambon of Arlington, who is to be married soon to Freddie Harris, the well-known lightweight boxer, was the guest of honor this week at a pre-nuptial shower at the home of Mrs. Theodore Abraham on Everest street. Miss Chambon was the recipient of many dainty gifts at the hands of her friends.

William Hendrickson and Miss Ellen W. Hegstrom, both of San Francisco, were married Monday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Methodist Church by Dr. B. S. Haywood. After a few days' honeymoon at the Mission Inn, Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson will leave for Chicago before returning to make their home in San Francisco.

On Sunday morning in Father O'Connor's study at St. Francis de Sales Church, Miss Lucille Genevieve Kincell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Kincell, became the bride of John Stuart Kearne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Kearne of Arlington.

A San Bernardino couple, Earl R. Gunsauls and Miss Lola Isabel Langley, were married in the study of Dr. B. S. Haywood, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Monday morning. The ceremony was witnessed only by Miss Nancy Belle Reck, an intimate friend of the bride.

REDONDO BEACH.

A departure from the usual in dinner parties was enjoyed Friday evening when a bountiful meal was served on the beach by Mrs. J. E. Morrell and Mrs. H. C. Wright. Those who enjoyed the outing were Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Edwards, Miss Amy Morrell and David Barnwell of Los Angeles, Mrs. M. Boekenoogen of South Pasadena, Mrs. Luger and Mrs. Mathew of Texas, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wright and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morrell and children.

The Bridge Club, enjoyed a pleasant game Wednesday at the home of Mrs. P. C. Ridgley. In addition to the members Mrs. Ridgley had a guest-table, dainty luncheon was served at four. Gillespie, Paso Robles, and Mrs. A. Van Dyke, Mrs. Ward Ridgley and Mrs. S. M. Booth, mother of the hostess, assisted in receiving.

Back to a style almost forgotten was the means used by a party of young people Saturday night, when a hayride, with horses and a big wagon as conveyance, took them to Bone Canyon. An impromptu supper was served and a good frolic enjoyed. Miss Eunice Balaam was chaperon. The young people were the Misses Edna Richardson, Mildred Balaan, Virginia Thomas, Gary Garnett, Alice Graham, Grace McCarroll and Lorel Davis with Messrs Ralph Meadows, Harold Teagle, Raymond McCarroll, Roy McCarroll, Norval Pollock, Thomas Witt and Harvey McElligott.

Bakersfield was the scene of a quiet wedding Monday which is of local interest in that two popular young people plighted their troth. Miss Blanche Morrow, daughter of Mrs. M. Morrow and Arthur Venable son of Mrs. Clara Venable all of this city were the principals. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Venable left for their home in Taft. Mrs. Morrow accompanied her daughter to Bakersfield.

Mrs. W. I. De Garmo entertained a number of guests with an informal dinner Monday evening complimentary to her husband's birthday. Pink and white flowers were used in the center-piece shaded candles casting the same shade.

HERMOSA BEACH.

The Priscilla Club was delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Joseph Gentry. In addition to informal visiting a number of piano duets by Miss Helen and Master Joseph Gentry were enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. Mabel Yost, Mrs. W. W. Gipson, Mrs. W. A. Yost, Mrs. H. Bass, Mrs. Ellington, and Mrs. Gipe.

Mrs. Ada Stewart was the honored guest of the Gen. Lew Wallace Circle at a luncheon party Thursday, given by the ladies of the chapter. The affair was a surprise to Mrs. Stewart and was to mark her leaving Hermosa for her home in Alhambra after a residence of several months.

Miss Etha Andrews who has been teaching in Santa Monica this summer returned home to Hermosa the first of the week for a short visit.

Miss Margaret Hartwell of Salt Lake with her mother will be among the winter colony here. Miss Hartwell is a member of the local school faculty.

DIAMONDS

THE tassel pendant—pictured at the right—is the newest creation in diamond jewelry. The pendant is flexible and is closely paved with small diamonds.

This exquisite piece of jewelry, encircling the neck, is suspended from a silken black cord and has a dainty diamond slide.

We have no hesitation in saying that this is one of the most unique and attractive of the many new diamond pieces produced this year by our own designers.

How Can We Do More to Please?—

—I wish that you could know Swelldom better.

—and I wish that we of Swelldom could know YOU better.

—a better acquaintance would help us both — it would enable us to meet your desires with increased satisfaction — and you, in your turn, would understand more fully the ideals toward which Swelldom is striving in its efforts to build up an institution that will express the purpose of SERVICE rather than of mere merchandizing.

—If Swelldom were not so large, and if there were not so many visitors each day, I should like to meet everyone who comes in, and talk with them personally,

—but the nearest I can come to such an object is to talk with my patrons in this column, and to ask my patrons to communicate with me freely

—If you have any suggestions to make concerning ways in which we could do more to please you, will you not let me know? Will you not tell me frankly what you like or what you do not like? Constructive criticism is as welcome and even more helpful than praise.

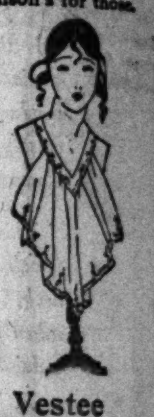
Unusual Things for Unusual People

It is not WHAT one says, but HOW one says it that makes the difference between mere people and smart people.

The same with clothes.

There are vestees and veils and such things innumerable, but the ones that have the gift of personality are not so easy to find. One almost has to go to Robinson's for those.



Vestee

Here is a little Vestee that is living its own young life in its own original way.

Although it is frilly it is not at all frivolous as some might believe. Its very serious purpose is to help little Miss Dainty to express an interesting personality.

This Vestee Is Only $3

Band and Fan

Miss Debutante is going to a grand party.

It is all very wonderful, and so romantic that she is going to wear this simple Grecian band of ribbon and flowers, with the miniature fan to match.

Does anyone doubt that she will have plenty of dances?

The Band $3.50
The Fan $4.50

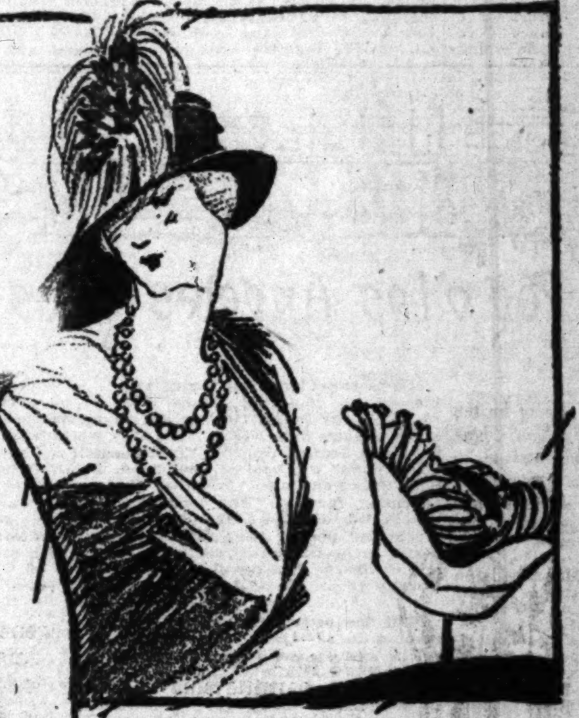
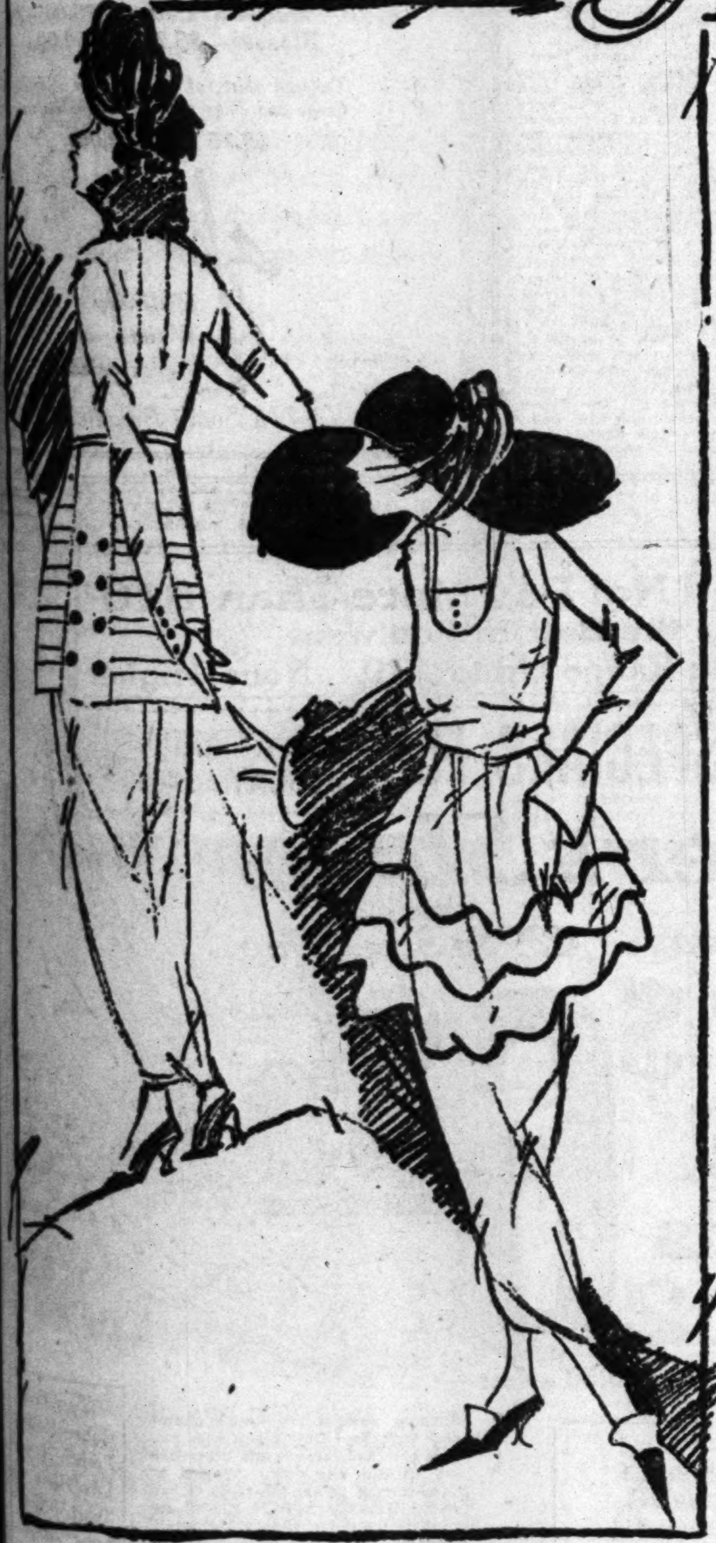
Six of the many Blouses have been illustrated here. Choice $3.95.





Emphasizing to an Extreme Degree the Blouse Section's Ability to Distribute

Blouses of Distinction at a Remarkable Saving

—Hundreds of blouses have been assembled, for this autumn event that has been long in the planning. A value broadside in which will be offered

Georgette Blouses and Crepe de Chine Blouses, $3.95

—Some six different models are to be included at this one remarkably low price—$3.95.

—Perhaps your interest in the event will be keener when we tell you that these blouses would be difficult to obtain today in the wholesale market at the price that we have named for this occasion.

—These are new blouses, smartly fashioned in keeping with the demands of this autumn season.

—And there are hundreds of them to choose from in ever so many different styles.

—We are giving over much space to this announcement and we have shown the blouses in the windows—if the event meets with the response that it should, all the blouses involved, large as the quantity is, will be quickly disposed of.

—The Georgette Blouses are, for the most part, in white and flesh tint. Some trimmed with narrow edging of Val. lace, some with wide imitation filet and a few plain. One round neck model with four rows of Val. lace on fine net.

—The Crepe de Chine Blouses are in different styles. High or low neck. One style has sailor collar; one has youthful, round neck; another one has vestee. Remember, every one of these blouses to be $3.95.

—We might also impart to you the fact that the Blouses that have been brought out for this event are identical with those selling at a price ever so much higher.

—We are taking this means of emphasizing the scope of this Blouse section. An early visit to the department Monday will be advantageous. Third Floor.

Surprisingly Good Taste and Clever Workmanship Combined in These

New Tailleur Suits at $49.75

—The rich velours and men's wear serges, silvertones, mannish mixtures and velour checks that are used in the fashioning of these very remarkable new suits are the accepted materials for this fall season.

—As for the styles, they meet the requirements of the well dressed woman.

—Here are long coats and medium length coats with the shoestring belt or the semi-fitted models with the finely molded shoulders. Trig looking sleeves.

—Either plain tailored or novelty suits, some fur trimmed, while on others you will note touches of embroidery in motifs of rare handiwork.

—Skirts are designed in keeping with the new silhouette.

—Autumn shades of tobacco, taupe, new blues, navy and the much desired mannish mixtures in tan, brown, heather, oxford.

—We could say much more of these garments—they are worthy of unusual exploitation.

—The price is moderate, indeed, for such altogether desirable suits.

Fashion Has Sent These

Charming New Silk Frocks, $29.75

—Frocks of rare distinction at so moderate a price—dresses of taffeta, Georgette, Crepe de Chine satin and French serge.

—The new treatment of basque and tunic and the other late style touches that Fashion has brought out. The wonder of it all is that such pretty frocks can be sold for so little.

—Colors are much to be desired, including navy, taupe, mode, blue, green as well as black.

Third Floor.

Children's and Juniors'

HATS for Fall

—In a showing that is just as important as the new fall coat, for one really calls for the other.

—It seems as though designers had busied themselves more than heretofore in the fashioning of so many becoming styles in millinery for children and misses.

—There are hats for the little ones 2 to 4 years, in panne velvet, silk poplins and velours in the fall colorings, at $2.95 to $8.95.

—Then there are hats for girls 2 to 16 years in many attractive styles and trimmings, including the tailored styles. Prices range from $1 to $15.95. Second Floor.

Approved for Autumn Are

The New Smart Black Hats

—that are here in such diversity—whether it be the coming large hat or the severely plain small hat, you'll find that Fashion has sent many envoys to this millinery section.

—Moderate prices are the rule. We have had two of these hats illustrated.

—The smaller hat pictured, made of a plain silk velvet with lower band of panne. A tri-corner shape with trimming of ostrich. A smartly tailored hat, priced $16.50.

—The larger hat, with a short back roll, has brim band of panne—a cabachon of monkey fur adorns the front of the high crown. Priced $20.00.

—These are but two of the many styles that are claiming attention now in the Millinery section, which is so wonderfully ready to meet the needs of the women of Southern California. 3rd Floor

For the School Lass of 8 to 14 Yrs.

The New Fall Coats

Have an Irresistible Appeal

—The Junior Coat Section fairly radiates the spirit of the fall season in the new garments that have been unpacked and are now claiming the attention of everyone in the department.

—Surely no season has brought out more charming or more worthy garments and surely the selection was never more important.

—For the growing girl there are coats of Silvertone, Velours, Plush and Crystaltone, in the very colors that Fashion says shall be proper for fall.

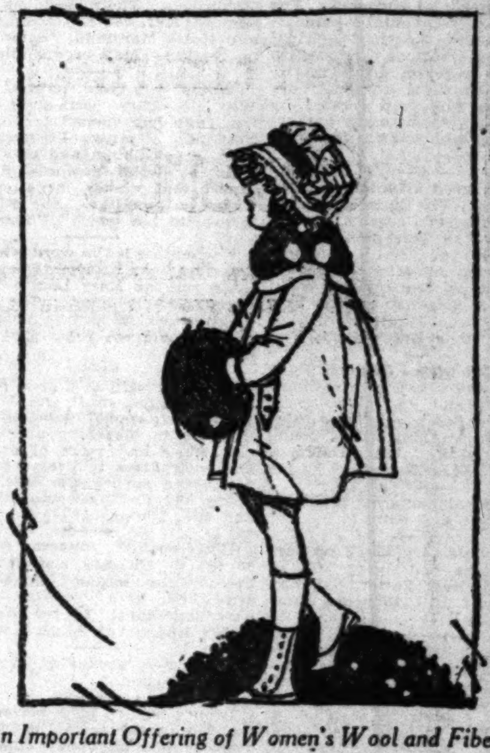
—Fur collars and cuffs are noticeable, also plush trimmings on collar, cuffs and pockets.

—Coats that have distinction, style and quality at $13.75 to $59.00. Second Floor.

For Miss 2-to 6-Years The New Fall Coats

—Are also claiming recognition—coats of Velour, Crystaltone, Broadcloth, in an unusual range of colors, which includes blue, brown, dark reds as well as black and the two-tone colorings.

—Collar and cuffs of velour or with fur trimming.



An Important Offering of Women's Wool and Fiber

Sweaters, $5.95

—These are the slipover sweaters in blue, purple, American Beauty, rose, green and tan.

—Some are purled at the waistline and at the cuffs.

—They're made with a vestee-collar.

—Sweaters that have been marked ever so much higher. These we offer Monday at $5.95. Second Floor.

SOCIETY.

o'clock, honoring the seventh birthday anniversary of her grand-daughter, little Miss Irene Tufford, who, with her mother, Mrs. Guy Tufford, is a summer guest. The little friends enjoyed the afternoon with games, followed by birthday refreshments of ices and home-made candies. Favors were water flower novelties, and it was great fun to drop them in bowls of water and see a lovely blossom uncurl its petals. Then there were snappers which contained dolly favors and funny caps, and, best of all, was the beautiful birthday cake, with its seven pink candles. Then, too, the little girl was delighted by the arrival of her father from Tucson, Ariz., in time to be a party guest. The little folk who enjoyed the day with Irene included Dorothy Kennedy, Orvil Cox, Frank and Ruth Wilsey, Beatrice Blanchard, Marie and Katherine Mertaugh, Hazel and Winnifred Roggess, Ladeen, Robert and Eugene Neeley, Teddy Jacobs, Billy Parish and Pauline Watson.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith, 725 East Holt avenue, are home from San Dimas Canyon, where they have enjoyed a delightful week in their new summer cabin, Santy Smiles. While there they entertained several parties of friends, among them Mrs. Cristine Lurvey, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goff, also Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. C. S. Hunt, Mrs. E. A. Morgan and Miss Dorothy Morgan, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loder and daughter Eunice. Dr. and Mrs. Smith have just completed an ideal rustic cabin of three rooms and a sleeping porch. There are also several other local parties erecting cabins in San Dimas Canyon. The fact that it is within so easy ranch of Pomona makes it especially desirable for business men here who cannot get away for outings of a longer duration. Attorney C. W. Guerin, A. M. Lichty, and E. R. Yundt are among other Pomona men who have summer cabins under way in San Dimas Canyon. After their return to this city, Dr. and Mrs. Smith entertained City Attorney and Mrs. Eames of Anaheim at dinner.

Miss Vera Baker, 539 East Pasadena street, Pomona, entertained Sunday evening, her guests being classmates of the Fullerton and Pomona high schools. Yellow roses and yellow and white chrysanthemums and potted plants were used in artistic decoration of the living-rooms.

Announcement by the Ebell Programme Committee for the coming club season that they will, on their first programme, have two notable California musicians, Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer and pianist, and John Smallman, baritone, will be received with pleasure. The committee, which is composed of Mrs. W. A. McCormick, and all section curators, has set a high standard of entertainment for the year of 1919 and 1920. For their opening meeting on October 10 they have been especially fortunate in securing Charles Wakefield Cadman, who is conceded all honors as the foremost California composer. Indeed, it is said of his opera, "Shanewis," that it is the only American work that has attained the success to warrant a run of two successive seasons in the Metropolitan Operahouse in New York.

Mrs. Ferdinand Davis, 1251 North Palomares street, entertained at dinner on Wednesday, honoring the birthday anniversary of her daughter, Miss Bernice Davis. Miss Davis, who is a teacher in the Los Angeles city schools, has just returned from a vacation enjoyed for the most part in Berkeley. The dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock, and was a pleasant surprise for Miss Davis upon her arrival from Los Angeles. Floral appointments were in beautiful pink geraniums and ferns. Place cards were humorous sketches significant of personal summer vacation experiences.

SANTA BARBARA.

Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Coleman are to be honor guests at a number of social affairs during the coming week. They close their Montecito home next Saturday and sail for China, Japan and Korea, planning to be absent until spring. Before the war they made their home in Paris, France, and now expect to divide their time between Montecito and Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dwight Norton entertain with a dinner in Mr. and Mrs. Coleman's honor. Mrs. H. H. Webb entertained with a small dinner on Friday of last week, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Calef entertained on Thursday in their honor.

Mrs. Clark Thompson entertained with a large dinner on Wednesday at her home on Mission Ridge in honor of Miss Estelle Hazeltine of Grand Rapids, Mich., who has been a much feted visitor in Santa Barbara and Montecito during the summer. Miss Hazeltine left yesterday for La Jolla where she will spend the winter.

Mrs. E. Kendall Rogers and Mrs. George Whitelaw gave an informal dinner and dance party at Sandyland on Tuesday evening, twenty Santa Barbara and Montecito guests enjoying the occasion.

Mrs. H. H. Webb entertained with a small dinner on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Samuel C. Pierce of Eucalyptus Lane, Montecito, was hostess on Tuesday at a well-appointed dinner given for Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Edwards, Mrs. Harrison Stedman, Mrs. William Frew, Eliot Rogers, J. A. Cantile and others.

One of the delightful affairs of the week in social circles was the dinner given at El Mirasol on Monday night by Mr. and Mrs. Edmund L. Baylies in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Remington Fithian. Dinner was served to forty guests in the beautiful peacock room.

Mrs. Hamilton Hoxie entertained on Friday at the Little Town Club with a large bridge luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Isham entertained with a luncheon at the Montecito home on Monday.

Mrs. J. Howard Dews of Pasadena returned south Tuesday after a delightful visit with Mrs. A. C. Warder at Wyola Lodge, Montecito.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bliss entertained the Cosmopolitan Club on Monday, when Dr. George Ellery Hale of Mt. Wilson observatory, who with Mrs. Wilson, is staying at El Encanto, will address the members on the wonders of the heavens.

ONTARIO.

One of the prettiest weddings of the late summer season was that celebrated Thursday evening at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. George W. Irwin, 626 East E street, when their daughter, Miss Laura Marie Irwin, became the bride of Virgil Leroy Bates, the ceremony being performed in the garden before an assemblage of some eighty friends and relatives. The veranda had been tastefully decorated for the occasion in blossoms and greenery and the lawn was lighted with many soft-toned Japanese lanterns, making a beautiful setting for the nuptials.

Mrs. Frank G. Hibbard, who expects to leave soon for an indefinite stay at Midland, S. D., was pleasantly surprised Thursday afternoon when a merry party of women friends gathered at her home at The Illinois to bid her farewell. The guests took tempting refreshments with them and Mrs. Hibbard was presented with a valuable gift. A musical programme was enjoyed. Present were Mrs. Frank G. Hibbard, Mrs. W. G. Conley, Mrs. J. G. Anderson, Mrs. Joseph Joy, Mrs. G. S. Hostetler, Mrs. A. J. Mitchell, Mrs. W. D. Kingery, Mrs. P. A. Sandison, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Harry Allen, Mrs. Andrew Williams, Mrs. Anna F. Littlejohns, Mrs. J. W. Ellison, Mrs. F. M. Keasey, Mrs. F. F. Beckley, Mrs. B. F. Long, Mrs. Anna R. Hayes, Mrs. John McCorkindale, and Mrs. F. H. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McCue entertained a group of friends informally Saturday evening at their home, 544 East D street, in honor of E. Joseph Sandford, recently returned from army service overseas. The guests viewed with interest a large collection of pictures gathered by Mr. Sandford in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brandon Bruner of Los Angeles are among newcomers to Ontario and have taken apartments at The Charlemagne. The Bruners come to Ontario as bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Bruner having been formerly Miss Evelyn Johnson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Milbank Johnson, and their marriage having been an event of mid-August. Mr. Bruner, who is a graduate agriculturist, is to be associated with Charles Latimer in the San Antonio Orchard Company, here.

Mrs. Clara Cook, well-known club woman and pioneer Ontarian, left Thursday over the Salt Lake for Las Vegas, Nev., where she is shortly to become the bride of Frank Culbertson of the Nevada city. The marriage was to have been solemnized at the home of the bride here, but pressing business prevented the prospective bridegroom from making the trip West.

Members of the missionary department of the Woman's Union of the First Baptist Church were entertained at a picnic luncheon at the ranch home of Mrs. E. W. Reid and Miss Gertrude Reid in the Alta Loma section Thursday afternoon. A feature of the affair was an interesting talk by Miss Beulah Bassett, returned missionary from China and a resume of the recent State convention in Pasadena by Mrs. William H. Fowler.

WHITTIER.

Mrs. Blanche Ford Pickering of East Whittier returned Wednesday from a summer visit with relatives at her former home in Spencer, Iowa, and in other points in the Hawkeye State.

Word has been received here of the marriage of Kenneth Morse, a Whittier young man recently discharged from war service, to Miss Carolyn Moore, at Savannah, Ga., the home of the bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Morse of East Whittier, and is well known here. Mr. and Mrs. Morse will arrive in Whittier soon for a visit at the paternal Morse home.

Mrs. L. T. Thomas and daughter, Miss Ethel Thomas of Imperial were guests in the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Hill, this week. Miss Thomas later left for Palo Alto to enter Stanford as a junior.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hill entertained a few friends Saturday evening, the date being the occasion of their wooden wedding. The evening was spent in pleasant informality, later the hosts serving refreshments.

Among the popular Whittier young ladies who have left recently to teach in some distant school was Miss Claudine Berdaw, who left this week to resume her school duties at Lawndale.

The marriage of Miss Corinne Orban, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Orban, Jr., of West Philadelphia street, and Harold Chapple, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents Monday morning, Rev. G. W. Whipple officiating. The bride came here with her parents from Pasadena some years ago, and has a host of friends both here and in the Crown City. Mr. Chapple is a recently returned service man, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapple, formerly of this city, but now residing in Los Angeles.

E. C. Dewey of East Whittier left this week for an extended visit among the scenes of childhood in New Hampshire and Vermont. Accompanying him was his son Charles Dewey, who will enter Harvard. Mr. Dewey will be absent from home about two months.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson of North Friends avenue left this week for a three weeks' vacation trip to Inyo county.

Mrs. O. C. Albertson, wife of Principal Albertson of the Whittier Union High School, returned last week from a month's visit with her brother and sister at Eddyville, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright of Holtville arrived in Whittier last week for a visit at the parental, J. S. Todd home, Mrs. Wright being a daughter of the Todds. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wright are Whittier College alumni, and joined heartily into the alumni meeting of the college held just before the opening of the college term.

SAN LUIS OBISPO.

Master Harry Crossett Miles, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Crossett, entertained a number of his little friends at a theater party Saturday afternoon, prior to his departure for his home in Los Angeles, after an extended visit here. After the matinee the little folks went to the Crossett home, where refreshments were served at a prettily-decorated table, pink and green being the color scheme. The little friends who enjoyed the afternoon were Edmond Williams, Jr., Marion Bolton, Jean Poulsen, Irene Atlas, Dorothy Persons, Mary Manning and Evelyn Hansen.

Mrs. H. C. Pierce and Mrs. J. Kelly have returned to their home in Tulare after a pleasant visit with Mrs. J. E. Parrish.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Harmon of Portland, who have been the guests of the E. E. Disbrows for several weeks, have gone to Los Angeles for a few weeks stay before returning to their home in the north.

Miss Helen Lynch, who has been the guest of Miss Lois Mills, has returned to her home in Pleyto.

Miss Lolia Sellers, daughter of Recorder and Mrs. O. S. Sellers, has gone to San Jose to enter the Normal School at that place.

Miss Wanda Kamm has returned from San Francisco, where she has been spending a fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. August Leege and son Raymond of Lompoc are guests at the Jack Rowan home in Chorro street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kamm and Mrs. Kamm's sister, Mrs. F. A. Miller of New York City, who has been a visitor here for several weeks, have left on an automobile tour through the southern part of the State.

ANAHEIM.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hill were hostess to a coterie of members of Lois Rebekah Lodge at Eden Springs in Riverside county over the week-end, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Guy Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chamberlin and two sons, Ray and Fred; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Fergus, Miss Minnie Mang, Henry and William Mang. They were joined at the springs by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brumagin, who were spending some days at that resort.

After a pleasant vacation over the summer months, the Wednesday Afternoon Club resumed its meetings last week with Mrs. C. Goff as hostess. Cards formed the diversion for the afternoon with Mrs. Carroll winning the prize. Present were Mmes. A. B. McCord, Welborn Wallop, William Locke, F. Marsh, L. Evans, Percy Bradford, George Dunsmoor, E. Hartung, J. Carroll, Misses Frieda Janss, Lillian Bennerscheidt and Hazel Lacey.

The Hoover Club resumed its activities for the fall and winter by meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. D. Harrison. Asters were used as the flower motif in carrying out the color scheme of purple and white in all of the appointments. Her guests included Mmes. Joe Stroup, W. J. Lake, F. W. James, H. Schindler, F. G. Mauer, L. P. Bonnett, E. Schneider and Miss Elsie Meinecke.

The life and works of Mark Twain formed the topic for discussion at the meeting of the Book Lovers Club, with Mrs. J. H. Swan as hostess. Preceding the discussion a charmingly-appointed luncheon carried out in yellow and blue, was served by the hostess, with covers laid for Mmes. Logan, L. C. Deming, G. R. Franklin, H. L. Searee, J. S. Malcom, A. C. Hargrave, J. P. Brastad, Grace Adkins, J. H. Gennett, G. M. Simpson and the hostess.

One of the pleasant affairs of the week was the evening picnic at Anaheim Landing on Thursday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Alling, H. A. Dickel, Percy Dickel, Mrs. Mary Stroka, Mr. and Mrs. Theo Roberts and two sons of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Max Wichers and three daughters of Placentia; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ruhs and Mr. and Mrs. George Conant of Los Angeles, and enjoyed a wiener bake on the sands.

MONTEBELLO.

A rarely pleasant occasion was the opening meeting of the club year which was held recently by the Montebello Woman's Club at the home of the President, Mrs. M. R. Parmelee of Dewey avenue.

Peg o' Los Angeles goes buying

Judging by the Fashion Show windows we're to wear our suit coats quite long!

The fall opening at Mandel's is on this week. You know this is a shop where you can feel sure of seeing the most carefully-selected hats, made of the most exquisite materials ever produced—imported hats in most exclusive models. You'll find the most swagger Phipps and Burgesser tailored hats and both dressy and tailored ones from Jane Marsh and Bendel. Besides, they carry blouses, mostly tailored, some Russian style, delightful in design. Drop in and see them at 733 S. Hill, next door to the Alhambra Theater.

There's real danger in being too stout. Exercise, of course, is necessary for reducing, but what fleshy person will take sufficient exercise? If it is too strenuous, results are bad. Now, the automatic exerciser does the work gently, while you rest or even nap, if you like. While fat is gradually taken off, muscles are being strengthened, so that no flabbiness results. This system was first used by Dr. Bergonie of Paris and has attained widespread popularity in Europe, and in America it has been used in thousands of cases, notably at the Battle Creek Sanatorium, where remarkable results have been obtained, both in taking off flesh and in putting it on! Call at 301 Merritt Bldg., Eighth and Broadway, if you're interested.

I went out to Glendale last week, where those delightful "Williams-Wear" dresses are created—not factory made! You know they're tub dresses for house and porch wear—can even be worn to market! My, but they are neat and as comfy as can be—everybody is just wild about them. They're so pretty, and the prices are $4.95 and $6.50. See them in Los Angeles at 734 S. Hill.

Yarn flowers and trimmings of all kinds are most effective!

Don't these fogs play havoc with your curls? Why not have a few permanent waves? At Hudgen's Permanent Wave Shop, which is the largest and also the pioneer wave shop on the Coast, they do expert work and use both Frederics and Nestle machines. Beautiful large waves are made or schoolgirl curls, whichever you fancy—eight for five dollars. This shop occupies entire front of fourth floor, Brack-Shops. Phone 62863.

Furs! Of course you're thinking of them. I know you will appreciate the fur creations of Arthur Baus the minute you step into his shop, 619 S. Grand ave. He is that famous Belgian designer, who is rated among the very best designers in Paris, Brussels and New York. His wraps are marvelous for their style, fit and comfort, and it's surprising what wonders he can accomplish in remodeling. You won't know your old fur!

By all means, don't throw your clothes away; have 'em dyed! They will give you lots of wear yet and will look like new. Don't worry about the dyes—we're making the best ever made right here in these United States, and the Cooper Dye Works use them. Brown takes especially well. Call 25109 or see them, 1369 West Washington.

Ostrich feathers are used in thousands of ways, it seems.

Fashion week at Ormond's Fur Shop was an event to be remembered. Some of the most original and charming creations ever seen in Los Angeles were on display. Ormond, you know, is a master designer and a fur wrap created by him would be noticed in any gathering of women who know. 728 West Seventh.

You surely need a bleaching after your vacation! Try those celebrated Mme. Huntingford creams, which are used at the Markman Beauty Parlor, where you receive the personal attention of Miss Markman. She has great success treating scalp troubles and improving the hair with the Mme. Huntingford hot oils. Tenth floor Brack-Shops.

The fall and winter Fashion Show is on at Lipsom's, tailor to fashionable women, and an invitation is cordially extended to all to see original designs in evening wraps, coats, suits and dresses. 204 Brockman Building, 520 West Seventh.

For hats what's smarter than cellophane, black and shiny?

Did your hair turn black or purple from using bad dyes? Go to the Scientific Hair Parlor, 515 Fay Bldg., 3rd and Hill, they can remedy it for you.

See Kadiec & Kostolny about having your fur remodeled—they design the smartest wraps. You won't know your old fur! You'll see many smart models in their shop. Fifth floor Brack-Shops. Pico 2892.

Reduce your hot, ungainly flesh and have the figure of your dreams without effort, diet or drugs. Improves circulation, relieves rheumatism and constipation. Weight Reducing Co., 618 Brockman Bldg.

Have you seen the suede vestees?

Now that the strike is over, Aileen is again making her wonderful candies in large quantities, so you can have all you want! Have you tried her business woman's lunch? Only 60 cents. Fourth floor Brack-Shops.

Is the stockingless fad among us?

Marguerite Clark, the incomparable, in that engaging picture play, "A Widow by Proxy," will delight us at Grauman's this week. The daring Mack Sennett comedy, "Treating 'Em Rough" will hold us spellbound. Sid Grauman also presents the charming fantasy, "The Dream of the Flower Girls"—a symphony of music and poetry. The usual wonderful orchestra music will greet us and C. Sharpe Minor will play "The Novelty Clock Shop."

Will the ostrich-feather fad ever reach a limit? I saw the most marvelous evening gown—and the train falling like a mantle from the shoulders was almost like a feather fan, so completely was it covered with long, graceful plumes! And did you see that charming French chapeau at a recent opening, which was made up mostly of a large ostrich plume to which was attached an ostrich boa for the neck? Of course, the graceful fan does duty in a hundred styles and colors—to match the hat or gown or even miladi's eyes or hair! Tell them what you want at the Cawston Ostrich Farm, in South Pasadena, and if they haven't it they'll make it up!

Then there's capucine and metal tissue also for hats.

Now, the most swagger coat you could possibly have is the imported one of camel's hair—"toasty warm" and very light in weight. Indeed these jaunty garments can be used for any and all occasions and are shown in many lengths. In that splendid sports apparel department—fifth floor of the Ville de Paris—I found these and many other smart models.

"Nifty Nell" is the last word in smart house and street frocks, made to order of the very finest of domestic and imported ginghams. They'll be noticed on all occasions and I'm delighted to learn that they will now make these frocks in both silk and wool—you can even take your own materials if you like. These are offered at moderate prices by the Misses' and Ladies' Dress Co., 692 S. Alvarado.

Superfluous hair, warts, moles and birthmarks removed with the electrical needle, the only sure and permanent way when done by an expert operator, which means years of personal experience. Anna M. Bergeron has been in business in Los Angeles 17 years and her reputation is assured. See her ad. in Brevities, Part 1, column 2.

A photograph by Robbins—always a speaking likeness is bound to be a joy. He gives his personal attention to all work and the quality is exquisite. His most delightful pictures are portraits in oil, which make lovely gifts. Seventh floor, Brack-Shops.

Bright colors are good now, so is black!

I dropped in the other day to see Benioff, the ladies' tailor, 717 West Seventh, and found him busy as could be making suits and dresses in the most distinctive styles of the season. To each garment was added that decidedly original and exquisite touch which is Benioff's own! Many of these models were created in that lovely new fabric, peach bloom; others were of duvetyn and chiffon velvet.

Smart as can be, those Roman-striped knitted scarfs—they'll show you how to make one at the Yarn Shop. By the way, I saw several of the niftiest yarn hats there this week. 716 S. Grand, across from Robinson's. Their Pasadena shop is very popular, 388 E. Colorado, opposite Hotel Maryland. Samples sent on request. Mail orders filled.

Would you like natural curls? Why not have permanent waves? Ora Oren has opened a shop in the Markman Beauty Parlors, tenth floor, Brack-Shops, and uses the famous Frederics machine. She's an expert and makes large or small waves as you like. She will gladly explain her work. Phone 14363.

Enchanting is the word which best describes that luxuriantly appointed tea room, the Mary Louise Top Tea Room, Brack-Shops. The private dining-room is most exquisite and the new sun tea room a symphony in color!

Put your skin in a good condition after vacation suns! Ora M. Deere, a scientific facial specialist, does wonders in bleaching and electrolysis. She's had years of experience and guarantees to remove warts moles and superfluous hair without scars. 806 Hollingsworth Bldg., 6th and Hill. Phone 64971.

Home-cooked dinners for only 60 cents! Chicken and noodles on Friday—like mother cooks—southern-baked ham Tuesday—Belgian hare Thursdays! Do try the Boston Lunch Room, 709 South Hope.

For shoes, shades of brown and black are good.

Dinner parties have become quite the fad at the attractive Assembly Tea Rooms, and there one meets friends from almost any part of the world. Their Sunday-evening dinners are especially popular. Phone 13857 for reservations.

It is not new to know that Joseph F. Korber of the Art Novelty Shop, at 250 S. Broadway, frames pictures in a correct style.

She'll call at your home and estimate the cost of remodeling your fur, if you'll call Nora E. Hutchins, Phone 19966. She's an expert designer and was formerly with John Klein, furrier, so you may be sure of fine workmanship.

If you want your tailored clothes to have that coveted Fifth-avenue appearance, with perfect fit and workmanship, you should put yourself in the hands of "Hook," at 705 South Hope St. Mr. Hook has had years of experience in the East and abroad and carries a well-selected line of woolens. Besides street suits he makes practical sport togs for both men and women.

Huge, artificial flowers are much used for corsage bouquets.

Isn't it exasperating to have to do one's hair on kid curlers every night? Well, there is a way out, you know—the way of the Nestle permanent wave! Really, after you've once had it, you'd never be without it. It saves time, too. You know, the Nestle wave is such a large beautiful, natural one—it defies detection. Mme. Lillie Koschat, the only licensed Nestle operator here, studied with Mr. Nestle in New York and she surely does expert work. Have you seen her in her parlors, eighth floor Brack-Shops? She'll explain all about this interesting process. If you're wanting a Nestle home outfit, she has them—they're dandy! Phone 63332.

Do we have to live in Paris to get the most voguish hats? Certainly not! At Robinson's opening they had a charming display of most dashing styles right from that gay city. Such colors and such marvelous materials! Did you see those chapeaux from Maria Guy? Weren't they just too lovely? And didn't they show some smart and rakish hats for misses, though?

Metal cloth combined with fur is smart.

Perhaps you're saving up for a car and feel you just can't wait! Now, maybe you have something—some jewels—you're not wearing! How about those diamonds you've kept hidden away for so long? Wouldn't the money they'd bring help a lot towards hurrying up that wonderful car? Take them right up to Mr. Hambright; he'll pay the top price for them, and you'll be the happier for it. 301 Title Guarantee Bldg., 220 W. Fifth.

"Ostrich feathers everywhere and on all occasions," writes one correspondent from Paris, and we hear the same everywhere. It is not only in millinery, but the ostrich fringe on gowns both for day and evening wear is still the rage. Bring your old ostrich to Vallely & Vatcher, 640 Broadway, 6th floor, opposite Bullock's, and have it made into some of the wonderful creations they will show you. They will make over your marabout, too.

Kiddies' coats and hats are just as important—every bit so—as mothers' or dads' So you'll be interested in those dandy new coats for tots from one to six. They are in such lovely fabrics, zibeline, broadcloth, silk plush and many other smart materials. Then, those cunning swagger little hats are worth while, too. See them at the Baby Specialty Shop, 734 South Hill.

Coats will be longer and skirts somewhat wider.

Indeed, they'll get your remodeling out in a jiffy—and they do the most exquisite work! Anything taken to the Vogue Fur Shop now will be ready at least by the first week in October. Now listen—this week you can buy a lovely fur there, 746 S. Hill, at 20 per cent. discount. Evelyn Myers is manager.

Very beautiful indeed are the waves and curls made by Harriet Hunter, licensed operator on the Waltz permanent-wave machine. She uses the air-cooled steam process, which keeps the hair soft and glossy. She curls white hair without yellowing it. Miss Hunter, 720 Brockman Bldg., has the agency for the Waltz machine. Phone Main 5262.

Too fat? Too thin? Not exactly well? You can be brought to normal weight and measurements and be vastly improved in health by the Reiss System—without drugs or starvation. It's intensely interesting, too. 802 Title Guarantee Bldg., 220 W. Fifth. Phone 67815.

When at the theater one notices especially dingy, faded hair. Why not use Mae Martin's gray hair cure, which restores the quality and quantity as well as the color? Special rates are given this week for course of six treatments, and a trial treatment free. 509 Consolidated Realty Bldg., Sixth and Hill. Pico 866.

Found, at last, a corset house that combines comfort, style and elegance in its tailored corsets at the National Corsetieres, 209 Grosse Bldg., 124 W. 6th st.

Everyone enjoys the intimate tete-a-tete-ness of the Vanity Fair Tea Room, 937 S. Hill. And they simply dote on the good things to eat—even men folks love it. Dinners are $1.25.

For evening coats, French plush is very good.

What a jolly place is the Russian Tea Room, 631 S. Grand! The most wonderful food, gay laughter, dancing to excellent music—Russian tea—and many lovely attractions are offered for your pleasure.

What a joy to own a beautiful art model Grafonola! No winding or stopping—works automatically! You'll enjoy the improved tone production. They'll demonstrate it at Richardson's, 607 W. Seventh.

Make your own dresses and let Blachree's School of Dressmaking help you. 731 S. Grand.

Ostrich fringe and fancies are seen on everything.

Mr. and Mrs. Dietsch left soon after the ceremony for the north, planning to spend two weeks visiting relatives in Oregon before going on to Ames, Iowa, where they will make their home and where Mr Dietsch is assistant State leader in plant pathology, a position he has held since his discharge from the service. Both he and his bride are graduates of the Oregon Agricultural College and it was there that their friendship had its inception.

Miss Elsa Haury, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Haury, has gone to Rockhill, S. C., to teach music in Winthrop College, the State Normal School. She was accompanied on the trip east by her sister, Miss Sue Haury, who is a piano teacher in the Maryland State School for the Blind, located at Baltimore.

Miss Gertrude Palmer, who spent last year in France as a dietician, and since her return to California has enjoyed a vacation at Catalina, is now in Marion, O., visiting for several weeks with Mrs. Willis Warner, mother of her fiance, Loring K. Warner, of that place.

UPLAND.

Mrs. Earl M. Maurer, who expects to leave Monday to join Mr Maurer in the Imperial Valley, where they are to make their home in the future, was the guest of honor Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Henry O. Blohm and Mrs. Albert Spicer entertained with a progressive farewell party. The early portion of the afternoon was devoted to fancy work and chat at the Blohm home in Washington boulevard. Later, partners were selected in a unique rhyme-matching contest and the party repaired to the home of Mrs. Spencer in Euclid avenue, where a delicious collation was served.

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Piert of Sacramento and Luke Piert of Chico, who are their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Riley, 669 Third avenue, entertained with a motor trip and picnic to Little Bear Lake in the San Bernardino Mountains Sunday. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Homer Piert, Dr. and Mrs. Albert J. Colgan, Mr. and Mrs Harold J. Stickney, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Anderson, Miss Gladys Riley, Miss Ruth Cooper, W. C. Riley, Burton Riley, Jerald Cooper, Luke Piert and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Riley.

John Gerry, pioneer Upland resident, having made this city his home for more than thirty years, was the guest of honor Sunday at a happy family reunion at his home, Euclid avenue and Gerry street, on the occasion of his eightieth birthday anniversary. Dinner was served at the noon hour and a feature was a huge birthday cake surmounted by eighty candles.

Mrs. Harry W. Flowers was hostess Saturday afternoon at her home in Eucuild avenue at a luncheon of smart appointments in honor of Mrs Frederick Wing of San Jacinto, who is visiting in Upland. The guests were chiefly of the G. T. Embroidery Club and covers were arranged for twenty-four.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright were happily surprised Monday evening when a group of twenty-two friends assembled at their home in West Eighth street. Games occupied the early portion of the evening and refreshments, which the guests had taken with them, were served later.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Barr returned Monday from a trip of several months to New York City and other points East.

Mrs. Bess Jones and her daughters, the Misses Elizabeth and Louise Jones, have returned from an extended tour of the East which included New York and Boston, Michigan and Canadian points.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church in annual session Thursday elected Mrs. W. C. Reynolds president, Mrs. L. E. Moser, vice-president; Mrs. J. M. Short, treasue; and Miss Judith Hartman, secretary.

GLENDALE.

G. H. Braly, of 505 North Brand boulevard, together with his two sons and their wives, is enjoying a two weeks' outing at Big Bear.

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday evening, September 16th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLaren, 303 North Isabel street, when their only daughter, Miss Irene, became the wife of Fred L. Flack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Flack, of Eagle Rock.

The bride, who wore a wedding gown of heavy ivory satin with veil and wreath of orange blossoms, carried bride's roses, and was attended by Miss Mildred Slack, of El Monte, garbed in palest blue Georgette, with a corsage of Cecil Brunner roses. Albert Cox, a cousin of the groom, acted as best man. The ring service was read by Rev. C. B. Hatch, of Anaheim, at an improvised altar of pink and white carnations and ferns. After a tastefully appointed supper the couple left for a short honeymoon at Big Bear, planning, upon their return, to take charge of the McLaren home, while Mr. and Mrs. McLaren tour the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln J. Elliott, accompanied by Miss Emma Lindsay Squier, left Thursday for a month's motor trip through the north, Yosemite being their destination.

Mrs. D. W. Cunningham, of 602 North Orange street, delightfully entertained at luncheon on Tuesday. Those present were Mrs. J. M. Porter, Mrs. J. Lunsel and Mrs. C. C. Horton of Montrose, Mrs. R. D. Baldridge of Anadarko ranch, La Crecenta, and Mrs. E. N. Weaver of Glendale. Marguerites and dahlias added to the beauty of the setting, and the guests remained to enjoy a musical afternoon.

After a pleasant summer at Big Bear and Hermosa Beach, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kerker, are once more at home in the De Luxe apartments.

Mrs. C. L. Peckham, president of the N. P. Banks Chapter, W. R. C., was hostess on Frnday at a prettily appointed luncheon given in compliment to her recently installed sister officers. The affair was given at the White Inn, which was appropriately decorated with flags and bouquets of red, white and blue. The guests were Mrs. Mary A. Snyder of Pasadena, Inspector; Mrs. Mary Hartwell, Past Department Secretary; Mrs. Flora Pixley, Secretary, and Mrs. Priscilla Houdyshel, Teasurer.

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, of 525 South Central avenue, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Shives Mitchell and baby son, Billy, of King City, also Paul and Alexander Richardson, returned Thursday from a happy week spent with Mrs. John Bloser, at Catalina.

John R. Strode, of Kansas City, Mo., lately arrived from France and thirteen months' active service with the Thirty-fifth Division, One Hundred and Twenty-ninth Field Artillery, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Mabel Rudy, at her home on South Lomita. Mrs. Rudy and son, Keith, have recently returned from a two months' vacation at Coronado.

RIALTO.

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon Miss Bertha Eastlake and F. J. Corey were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Eastland, of El Monte. A honeymoon trip to Mt. Lowe was enjoyed, a day spent in Los Angeles, and on Wednesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Corey returned to Rialto and established their new home in cosy apartments at the Orange Place on North Orange street.

Miss Claudia Crowder and Miss Winifred Litts motor each morning to Ontario, where they have both entered the Chaffee Union Junior College.

Porter Brimmer, who left on Friday for the Oregon State Agricultural College at Corvallis to begin his second year there, was the complimented guest at a very happy event of Tuesday evening when a merry company of relatives and friends gathered at beautiful Fairmont Park, Riverside, for a farewell party. The picnic lunch spread on tables under the trees contained everybody's favorite dish, and the amusement features of the popular resort were indulged in as pleased the individual fancy. Those having the pleasure of the occasion numbered Porter Brimmer, Jr., and twenty-five friends. On Friday evening Nathaniel Frisbie, also leaving to attend th ecollege at Corvallis, was given a farewell by members of Rialto's younger set, at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brimmer on North Riverside avenue. Jolly games were played and delicious refreshments served.

VENICE.

One of the most attractive and interesting visitors that have been here for some time is Miss Helen Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Brown, of Arizona. The Browns were formerly residents of Venice and were very prominent in society here. Miss Brown is on her way East. She expects to make an extended trip, visiting with friends and relatives on the way. While she is in Venice she is the house guest of Mrs. Frank Barton.

Mrs. Amos Keens recently entertained with a farewell party for Miss Margaret Chiaferelli, who leaves this city to live in Los Angeles soon with her family. Miss Chiaferelli has been most popular among the younger set here, and greatly beloved by the many artists of the city, as she is an accomplished dancer and lover of music. The guests of the affair given by Mrs. Keens the other night were Nell Kinney, Gladys Crowell, Louise Barner, Marie Mochtol, the honoree and the hostess.

Very much surprised indeed was Mrs. Will Kent, of 520 Indiana avenue, recently, when a few friends visited her and wished her many happy returns of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Kent have just returned from an extended trip through the East, and were delighted to see their many friends again. The guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Al Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. I. Posa, Mrs. Katherine Kinney, Mrs. R. Howland, Mrs. H. Garden, Mrs. John Monahan, Mrs. Emily Rae, Miss Nell Kinney, William Goodwin, Clifford Goodwin and Edgar Francis.

A public reception was given Friday evening, September 19, for the teachers of the Venice Polytechnic High School and gramar schools at the Venice Union Church. A musical and reading programme was presented and games were enjoyed. The reception was for the purpose of getting acquainted.

THE GNU IS UGLY, BUT INTERESTING.

Few people know what a satisfactory animal is the gnu. Quite a number of hoofed animals, like the ibex and the sacred ox, are mere tiresome combinations or Burbankisms; but the gnu has qualities all his own. His head is homely as an unpainted barn—flat nose and very broad mouth and ears misshapen and uncouth. His body is that of an exceedingly powerful pony, with strong neck and rakish tail. His galvanic energy puts to shame the glorious abandon of a cat on a tin roof.

When I arrive before his enclosure, he has usually retired to the shed in which he sleeps, and stands in the doorway with faraway eyes. Efforts to entice him forth are futile. I turn at last as if to go; and as I move, he bursts forth with the most heathenish cry that ever clattered from an animal throat. If it resembles anything, it is the trench klaxon that warns of an impending gas attack—a series of staccato shrieks which would shake the teeth from a band saw. I don't see how he can stand the noise he makes. Arm a rabbit with the voice of a gnu and lions will slink from his path.

Reaching the bars of his inclosure in three or four astounding leaps, the gnu halts, with head averted and feet wide apart, ignoring me utterly. When I move to right or left, he remains motionless until fifteen feet are between us; then he closes the distance with a bound, shrieks terribly twice or thrice, and once more affects to be utterly oblivious of my presence. When finally I leave him, the clatter of his fearful voice pursues me for hundreds of feet, drowning all other sounds.—[Atlantic Monthly.

ACROSS SIBERIA BY WATER.

The map shows Northern Asia cut off from Europe by a chain of mountains, the Urals, that extend to the limits of the land. Rich mineral deposits lie mainly on the eastern slopes. The eastern watershed of these mountains drains toward the River Ob, one of the three great streams of Siberia, which, with their tributaries, constitute a remarkable arrangement of connected water courses, enabling the people to transport commodities and communicate with each other by water routes. One may cross Siberia entirely by means of river travel, making only two or three portages. The Yenesei and the Lena rivers, respectively, open the west central and east central regions to the Arctic Ocean through their tributaries. The Amur, in Eastern Siberia, runs toward the Pacific Ocean and affords a wonderful outlet for farm products from the rich valleys that it drains. Mountains on the south in Western Siberia form a natural barrier against the Mongolian peoples.—[Charles W. Holman, in the Outlook.

A HOPELESS CASE.

A doctor came up to a patient in a lunatic asylum, slapped him on the back and said: "Well, old man, you're all right. You can run along and write your folks that you'll be back home in two weeks as good as new."

The patient went off gaily to write his letter. He had it finished and sealed, but as he was about to affix the stamp the latter slipped through his fingers to the floor, alighted on the back of a cockroach that was passing and stuck. The patient hadn't seen the cockroach. What he did see was his escaped postage stamp zig-zagging aimlessly across the floor and following a crooked trail up the wall and across the ceiling.

In depressed silence he tore up the letter that he had just written and dropped the pieces on the floor.

"Two weeks!" he said. "I won't be out of here in three years."—[London Tit Bits.

BEATEN.

The tourist had been boasting in the village inn.

"Talking of scarecrows," he said, "why, my father once put one up and it frightened the crows so much that not one entered the field again for more than a year."

He looked triumphantly around his audience. Surely that had settled these country bumpkins!

But he was to meet his match.

"That's nothing!" retorted one farmer. "A neighbor o' mine once put a scarecrow into his potato patch and it terrified the birds so much that one rascal of a crow who had stolen some potatoes came next day and put them back."—[Edinburgh Scotsman.

Diamond Paved Wedding Rings

THE plain band wedding ring of former days has been very largely superseded by the diamond paved circlet, which possesses all the sentiment and significance of the plain band with much deeper expression and greater beauty.

Naturally you expect to find the newer and correct rings for so important a purpose in Feagans & Co. stocks.

The responsibility which you place upon us prompts us to be ever alert for the new, and to surround our recommendations with conservatism and authority.

New wedding circlets closely paved with diamonds are priced from $100 to $500. A new "Feagans" special paved circlet is featured at $125.00.

Through the Widow's Lorgnette.

How Can a Girl Be "Different?"

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

[Copyright, 1919, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.]

"WHAT can I do to be 'different'?" demanded the Widow, suddenly, putting down her tea-cup and settling her shimmering head back against the golden cushions of her corner of the divan.

"Good gracious! Nothing, I hope!" exclaimed the Bachelor gallantly, "Unless," he added, "you might try to be a little less startling and cryptic——"

"I don't mean different from myself, Mr. Cutting," corrected the Widow hastily, "I mean different from other people—unique, original, 'unusual'! What can any girl do to be 'different' or original in this day of wonderful women?"

"That's what they all want to know," remarked the Bachelor unsympathetically, "but none of them will listen when I tell them——"

"Once upon a time," continued the Widow, ignoring the interruption, "it might have been SO easy! One needed only to find a new fad or a new pose. I might have covered my face with pearl-powder and affected long oriental ear-rings and sinuous draperies, and been mistaken for a 'vamp' or a 'siren,' and stared at everywhere."

"But now," mocked the Bachelor, "you wouldn't even be mistaken for Theda Bara!"

"I shouldn't even be SEEN, Mr. Cutting!" mourned the Widow. "Just a few years ago," she went on, "I might have bobbed my hair, and worn a weird purple smock, and chattered about Freud, and Nietzsche, and Futurism, and everybody would have put me down as a freak or 'that remarkable person,' as the case might be."

"But nowadays," rejoined the Bachelor, grinning, "they would merely wonder what kind of a tea-shop you were running, or if you were going to try to sell them a set of books."

"Precisely!" sighed the Widow, "I shouldn't even attract any attention, by climbing a soap box, and shouting for suffrage or 'reform.'"

"Everything's SO reformed!" groaned the Bachelor.

"And a trained nurse's uniform is no longer unique or 'unusual'!"

"But it's just as fascinating as ever," maintained the Bachelor.

"Yes," agreed the Widow, "it's one of the 'eternal charms,' like spring and moonlight and chivalry and Venice. But it's no longer a novelty. Now, a few years ago, I might have attracted attention and gotten my picture in all the papers by driving my own motor car, or posing as a man-hater, or organizing a new 'Cheer-up' cult, or wearing a slashed skirt, or getting myself arrested, or running for Congress——"

"Help! Help!" cried the Bachelor, protestingly. "Stop shattering my illusions, and spoiling my innocence, and ruining my appetite. If you WANTED to do all those things——"

"But I didn't, Mr. Cutting!" denied the Widow. "That's just the trouble! When I MIGHT have been different, I wanted to be like everybody else. And now that posing has gone out of fashion, and 'stunts' are passe, and every woman is doing EVERYTHING, from wearing overalls and digging potatoes to flying an airplane—and doing it all so skillfully—I am seized with a sudden inspiration to be 'different'; to do something startling, that will make the world sit up and take notice of me. And I don't know how!"

"I told you," said the Bachelor, with quiet reproach, "that I could help you solve your problem. Only, you won't listen——"

"Yes, I will!" ejaculated the Widow. "Tell me HOW!"

"Well," and the Bachelor reached for a cigarette, and leaned back luxuriously to light it, while he eyed the Widow through narrowed lids, "why not marry ME? Nobody has done that before, you know—and nobody could do it again. So it would be 'different!'"

"Oh, pshaw!" exclaimed the Widow, scornfully, "I thought you were going to say something interesting, Mr. Cutting."

"I am!" protested the Bachelor. "Wait a minute. Marry ME—and we'll go to Niagara Falls for our honeymoon; and come back and settle down in a suburban cottage, and keep a dog and a cat and a lawn mower, and hang the family portraits on the walls, and go to church and have chicken and ice cream for dinner on Sundays. And you can wear bungalow aprons and learn to put up preserves, and make waffles, and to prefer embroidering doilies to driving a motor car, and playing the piano to playing bridge. And, if that isn't enough, you could startle the world by going around and telling everybody that you were madly in love——"

What!"

"With your OWN husband!"

"You think," said the Widow, with a far-away, misty look in her eyes, "that you're being awfully cynical and funny, Mr. Cutting. But it all sounds quaint and charming and fascinating to me! I wonder if I'd be contented——"

"I don't know," put in the Bachelor hastily. "But you'd be 'different,' unique, 'unusual'! You make the world sit up and take notice. Won't you—won't you take my word for it and try it?"

The Widow sat up straight and shook off her sentimental mood with a little laugh.

"Yes—and no!" she answered, smiling enigmatically, as she poured the Bachelor another cup of tea.

WIDOW-CISMS.

Of course, every man needs a wife—if only for somebody to patronize in public, snub in private, brag about behind her back, blame when he can't find things, coddle when he's happy and pray to when he's sick.

When a woman weeps, in anger, every tear affords her soul the exquisite relief of a separate and emphatic swear-word.

To a woman, "Love's Sweet Song" is a beautiful moonlight sonata—but a man always insists on mixing his sentimental affairs, until it becomes nothing but a jazz-medley.

In theory, every man admires a sensible woman, with beauties of the mind—but that isn't the kind he borrows his wife's opera glasses in order to stare at.

THE LANDLORD'S DEFENSE.

BY JENNIE VAN ALLEN.

Landlords, you are indicted on the charge of denying shelter to children!

Your signs and advertisements proclaim the truth of this charge and you are blamed for the steady decline of the American birth rate because white folks cannot get a roof to cover their little ones. It is estimated that the economic value of every newborn child is $90 and that the older a child grows the more valuable he becomes to the nation. The housing of these little people is one of the most vital problems of every municipality, but your doors are closed to them. For all you care, they can sleep out under a pepper tree. Have you no patriotism? Do you want to see the Asiatic outnumber the white? Have you no pride in keeping America for Americans?

Stand up, landlords of the world, and make your defense!

Tell the high tribunal of public opinion why you war against helpless innocency!

And the lawyer for the landlords hereby presents his brief and asks for unbiased judgment in the minds of the people.

"We are not warring against newborn babes or defenseless children. Unfortunately children have been named as the defendants in the case when the blame should rest upon the parents. My clients are at war with fathers and mothers when they refuse to rent their houses, apartments and hotels to people with a family of children. They are debarred because 90 per cent. of parents do not make their children mind. They allow them to wantonly destroy property because it belongs to the landlord. The moment a building is finished it begins to depreciate. Sun and wind and storm prey upon it inside and out. And when you add vandals to the elements the house soon outlives its beauty and usefulness.

"Children were first barred from the Garden of Eden on account of the vandalism of Adam and Eve. The angel of the flaming sword must have returned thanks that Cain and Abel were not conniving with the serpent to spoil the beautiful garden where 'God walked in the cool of the evening.'

"In the days of the cliffdwellers and the mound-dwellers the landlords doubtless combined against the parents of undisciplined children. I tip it off to savants that the undecipherable sentences on the tablets of these ancient people can be translated: 'No children wanted.' The landlords knew that destruction follows the small boys who climbed the highest cliffs and threw rocks on the peaceful dwellers below; that they armed themselves with their fathers' best stone implements and hacked holes in the nicest mounds. In solemn conclave they doubtless declared that there was no peace, no comfort, no safety and no protection for the rights of landlords if they rented to people with children.

"And so from the beginning we have blamed children for the sins of their parents, as lack of discipline has been the crime of the ages. It is an outrage that children have had to bear the odium. Landlords have said 'No children' when they should have placarded their front doors with the sign; 'No parents allowed who do not make their children mind.' 'Water cannot rise higher than its source,' neither can children be more conscientious than their fathers and mothers.

"Public property is protected by law. Library books are protected by fines. Streets, alleys and buildings are protected and defilement or any nuisance is severely punished by the courts. Men cannot pollute streams or reservoirs and they cannot empty their sewage into the sea. They cannot rob the grave of its dead and they are not permitted by law to take their own lives.

"But the property of the landlord is at the mercy of his tenants, who loot it like a Hun in war time. Landlords expect legitimate wear and tear, but the misuse of his house by the average family is beyond belief. I admit that many of my clients are extortioners. That they are profiteering at the expense of homeless people. But the majority are 'on the square.' They are lenient even when their property is being ruthlessly destroyed. They pay heavy taxes and their repairs make big inroads upon their rentals. They have to figure on tenants who do not pay and upon periods when their places are not rented and upon redecoration when a family leaves their premises.

"Personally I wouldn't be a landlord for 90 per cent. on my investment. I would rather be a crippled rabbit with the hounds in full cry than deal with a conscienseless crew of tenants. If the law puts new thumbscrews on landlords by increasing his taxes it also should put them on the tenants, who should be held legally responsible for damages done to the property. If parents would lay down stringent rules on the abuse of rented houses, the age-old war between landlords and tenants would be adjusted.

"The day may come when landlords will go out of business, but it will come when people own their own homes. And men who pay for lumber and labor will love every shingle on their roofs because they have bought and paid for them. Woe betide the child who hacks and whittles the home he has built. Even now I can hear the wailing of children being punished for wanton destruction of walls and doors and windows.

"But, before we become a nation of home builders, there must be less waste in municipal affairs, as a big percentage of citizens now refuse to own their own homes because it is cheaper to rent than pay taxes and special assessments. Under present conditions our municipalities are the most merciless landlords in the world, for, when a property owner is delinquent, the tax sale takes line, bait and sinker. If a man is dispossessed by his landlord for nonpayment of rent he loses nothing but his temporary shelter. But when he is sold out for taxes he is robbed of his home and savings.

"Some day there will be something besides a politician's grand-stand play of reducing taxes and it will be done by the landlords of the world, who pay bigger taxes than any other class of realty owners. They pour billions into the treasury and when they realize their power they will stick an iron fist in the faces of public officials who squander the people's money.

"Landlords are under public condemnation. But again I declare that they are not warring against children, but are protecting themselves against parents who allow the willful destruction of their property. Parents are wholly to blame for the sign, 'CHILDREN ARE NOT WANTED.'"

OPENING WAY FOR CHORUS.

Representative Organization is Planned Here by Musicians.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

There is a project afoot among some of the veteran—to speak technically—musicians of the city to establish a chorus of men and women which will act in conjunction with the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, thereby giving evidence of the immediate effect which such an orchestra will have upon the musical interest of Los Angeles. As soon as it became known locally that the orchestra was to be a fact, at least two of our well-known vocal instructors made their way to the powers behind the orchestral throne and offered suggestions for the proposed chorus.

Clifford Lott, baritone soloist and instructor, presented his view of the possible chorus to L. E. Behymer, manager of the new orchestra, and Mr. Behymer tells me that Walter Rothwell, conductor of the orchestra, accepts the proposal with favor. From all I can learn, Mr. Rothwell strongly supports every branch of musical learning and endeavor, and he takes an especial interest in performances for students. Undoubtedly he will conduct choruses with the orchestra as soon as both organizations are well under way.

Thus far the plans are only tentative, but the scheme for obtaining singers is highly practicable. It is suggested that applications be made to all singing teachers throughout the city, who have shown an interest in our musical life for their star singers. Students and teachers alike will form the chorus, but the students will be only those whom their teachers can recommend as being superior.

There are many to be had—young men and women who are at the point of finishing their preparation for professional life. There will be no recompense beyond the musical knowledge to be obtained from the performances. It will be a simple thing to obtain the services of some 150 young singers. Mr. Lott is prepared to offer eight or ten young women and three or four men. It is proposed to enlist aid from the studios of many of the leading instructors, like John Smallman, Prof. Albert, Estelle Heartt-Dreyfus, Roland Paul, Mrs. Jones-Simmons, Anthony Carlson, Bertha Winslow-Vaughan, Anna Sprotte, Newcomb-Prindle, Constance Balfour, Jennie Winston, Helen Brown-Read and others, who no doubt have talented and accomplished singers among their students.

As to the music to be sung, there is much that is available, and more that is desirable and will in time be easily obtainable. It is the intention of the sponsors to bring out some new things and not to repeat ad libitum the works with which we are so familiar as to be "fed up."

It is quite true that the "Messiah" and the "Elijah" are fine things, consequently it is also true that one can have too much of them if there be no variation to flavor the diet. And it is necessary that new things should be brought out for our greater knowledge and enjoyment.

It is a happy thing to contemplate the possibility of hearing new works for chorus, and hearing them properly done. There are many suitable ones, and for sheer pleasure, as well as for one's own mite of suggestion, I submit the following, among which, it will be noticed, the well-beloved names of Handel and Mendelssohn do not appear once! I should like to hear some of the effective and modern works in this form by Richard Strauss, of which "Das Thal" and "Taillefer" are examples. He also has one or two fine anthems, sixteen-voiced. "Das Klangende Lied" of Gustave Mahler is a very fine chorus, and has received wide commendation. Rothwell is a disciple of Mahler, and we never hear enough of the latter's work.

Friedrich Gernsheim has many beautiful works for orchestra and chorus, some of which are in the repertoire of every male chorus in Germany. Max Bruch has a host of such works; his "Frithof" is one of the finest of modern male chorus-cantatas. The Sharwenka brothers have some interesting works for mixed voices and chorus. The "Sakuntala" of Philipp is very popular.

It would be a treat to hear Cesar Franck's great "Psyche" which introduces solos, duets and a chorus, or either of his oratorios, "Rebecca" and "The Redemption." Vincent d'Indy, disciple of Franck, has some very beautiful things in this form. One of his great glories is the "Song of the Bell," for soloists, chorus and orchestra.

There are, among the moderns also, Dvorak, Chausson, Chabrier and Ducoudray, but the list is as long as it is tempting. The main matter for rejoicing is th project is in the minds of m and that the management of th chestra, and the conductor, xious to form the chorus.

at a High Price go on Market.

Revenue Officers to be a Difficult One.

FREDERIC J. HASKIN.
SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TON (D. C.) Sept. 15.—appears that when J. Barleycorn is officially pronounced dead by the national Coroner next January, he will leave two poor, weak country cousins to mourn him and to comfort his friends, insofar as they are able.

These survivors of the lusty, old trouble maker are officially known as nonintoxicating cider and wine. It is, of course widely rumored that other and more powerful descendants of the Jim-Jam king will really be about in hiding after that date, and that the Internal Revenue office will lay an exciting game of hide-and-seek with them throughout the rest of this republic's troubled history. But they will be illegitimates—outlaws with prices on their heads.

Not so with nonintoxicating cider and wine. These two sweet and innocent bucolics have been officially spared to us by the mercy of the United States Senate. The House wanted to hand them along with the demon himself, but the Senate decreed that they should live, and the conference committee of the House and Senate, which now is working on the prohibition enforcement bill, will probably not cancel their reprieve. It is said that even the prohibitionists themselves have been moved to pity, and will not oppose the continued existence of the nonintoxicating twins.

THE POTENTIALITIES.

There are some who claim that these little known infants of the spirit world have great potentialities. The Senate is right in holding that it is not against the law to make these two beverages, because when made they are nothng but pure fruit juice, and no more alcholoci than spring water. You can't pinch a man for squeezing the juice out of an apple, can you? Certainly not! And supposing, after he has squeezed it out, he sets it in a cool place and leaves it alone. Surely there is nothing wrong in that. But in the said cool place, exposed to air and the laws of nature, these two sweet innocents will develop like a bad boy away from home, for the first time. They will inevitably acquire small but refreshing percentages of alcoholic content. And after they have developed these said percentages, you can't take them away from the man who carelessly left them about in an uncovered condition, for he has a perfect right to possess alcoholic beverages in his own home. So there you are.

These two little strangers have seldom been seen in our cities, but they have been known and loved by the country people for a couple of hundred years. Not only cider, but wine of grapes, elderberries, and a variety of other small fruits have long been made in the rural districts according to recipes of great age, some of which came over from England. During this summer it was almost impossible to buy any small fruits in Maryland and Virginia near Washington, because their juices were so highly valued. And it is now suspected that some of these juices are moving cityward.

LIQUOR RECIPES.

If you have a good recipe for making wines and cider you are perfectly safe in passing it along to a friend, but you must not supply a friend with a recipe for liquor. One section of the dry enforcement act provides that "no person shall solicit or receive from any person any order for liquor, or given information of how liquor may be obtained in violation of this act."

This is considered a dragnet to get every person who in any way gives information as to the location of liquor for sale or the methods of making liquor illegally. Under this provision, lawyers hold, it would be illegal to give a friend or neighbor a recipe for making anything tabooed under the prohibition laws. Civil damage suits can be brought by a person "injured by intoxicated persons" against any such person contributing to such intoxication by selling liquor or assisting in procuring it.

When the dry enforcement bill was passed by the House an unsuccessful attempt was made to permit the manufacture of cider and wine in the homes. The drys defeated the attempt, but since the Senate decided in favor of these mild beverages it is understood that representatives of the dry forces will not oppose these concessions to the wets in conference, where the bill is now being considered.

The bill settles a moot question by specifically stipulating that the enforcement of prohibition is up to the "Commissioner of Internal Revenue, his assistants, agents and inspectors, and all other officers of the United States whose duty it is to enforce criminal laws."

To enforce prohibition is a big job, and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue knows it. He is now busily engaged making plans for his work after next January. Since the bureau came into existence a long while back, its principal work in this line has been ferreting out moonshiners in the mountains of the south. They are not so numerous—perhaps a few thousand in all. After the eighteenth amendment becomes effective, the revenue agents will have several million potential moonshiners to keep under observation.

"REVENUE" IN CITIES.

The invasion of the city by the hated and dreaded "revenue," made famous in stories of mountain life in Kentucky, will be one of the interesting features of national prohibition. It will probably be a permanent engagement, too, for the city will have great advantages over the wilderness as a place for the illicit distilling of high-power "likker."

The government, in keeping down illicit distilling in the mountain districts of the South employed hundreds of men all the year round. Occasionally the force was augmented by special detectives when some unusually clever mountaineer, outwitted the regular revenue agents. Then some special expert from the secret service went down and, after varying adventures, made the moonshiner a prisoner. The mountaineer was punished for his violation of the law by a long prison sentence.

But the problem in the city will be entirely different.

The kitchen sink and family gas stove will serve to produce an alcoholic beverage deadlier than the kick of a mule. And it will be a difficult proposition for a revenue officer to go into a man's kitchen and catch him in the act.

About 50 cents is the price of raw material enough to make a gallon of whisky. The gallon can be retailed in small lots for at least $1 a half pint, which is about one-half what the bootleggers are said to be getting now in the national capital. There will be quite a temptation for a man to set up a still in his home and sell his product for $16 a gallon.

On the other hand, a heavy fine and long term in prison are the penalties if he gets caught.

In the mountains the people seldom squeal on each other. They have a high sense of honor in that regard, and no help is given the revenue men by anyone living in the neighborhood of the suspected man.

STILLS IN THE CITY.

It may prove different in the city. Mrs. A. knows that Mrs. B. is running a still in her kitchen. There is a very distinctive odor about a still, which is lost in the mountain air, but which would be very plain in the city street. Mrs. B. breaks out in a new suit of clothes. Mrs. A's clothes are very shabby. Will she tell the revenue officer how Mrs. B. got the money for the new suit?

This is one of the questions that is being considered by the men whose duty it is to keep us dry after next January. It is probable that the tip given for spite or malice will be one of their chief sources of information as to violation of the liquor law. But, even so, they face a tremendous task. Think of the innumerable hiding places that a great city offers to such enterprises, and of the impossibility of patrolling them all.

There is no doubt that liquor will be made, and in large quantities at that. Whether it will be good liquor is another question. It seems probable that bad booze at a high price will be the leading product of national prohibition, and it may do more in the cause of temperance than the enforcement of the law itself.

Your Cleaner and Your FURS

Do you still remember the day you bought your furs and the time and thought you put into the purchase so that you could feel sure that you received your full money's worth? And now that you have the furs and the time is here to get them ready for another season, you should be as careful of your cleaner as you were in choosing your dealer from whom you made your purchase.

A prominent local furrier is authority for the statement that many furs are ruined by inferior cleaning processes in that the sheen is gone, the surface ruffled and the dyes affected.

Extra caution under expert supervision eliminates all chances of danger when the furs are sent to us for cleaning and the returned garments will be sparkling with a freshness that will brand them "good as new."

OLDEST AND BEST at Griffith

Fall Showing of Furs

To the woman who is keenly appreciative of those subtle points of design which distinguish the garment of real distinction from those of ordinary mode, our present showing of furs offers a particularly strong appeal.

Women who are careful in their selection of apparel have learned to select their furrier as they would choose their banker. The prestige of a house—its reputation for dependability—is of utmost importance, when investment in a fur piece is considered.

The big volume of the Obrikat-Meyer business, with its three large California stores, makes it possible to secure the very utmost in pelts of quality and to sell at prices which would be impossible for the small dealer.

Our Fall showing of 1919 is notable for the broad diversity of styles assembled and the elaborate richness of the present season's modes.

For the convenience of our North-End patrons, we maintain a branch store at our old Third and Hill Street location.

USE OF ELECTRICITY IN THE HOUSE.

A writer on agricultural subjects recently predicted that a day would come when the farmer's wife on awakening in the morning would touch a button and that breakfast would thereby be prepared without further personal attention. The time seems to be here. At the latest electrical shows the accomplished fact is witnessed. The demonstration shows how a family can go out to spend the day, to return at 6 p.m. in time for dinner. Uncooked food is placed in the electric range, and a clock attached is set to start the cooking at 4 in the afternoon, to be completed an hour later. The clock of itself regulates the current, turning it off at the time desired, but leaving enough heat to keep the food warm. If the family is delayed the meal is still ready for the table. It is simple and also dependable. When it is called simple due consideration must be given to the ingenuity of the machinery employed, including the clock, whose performance is so familiar that its mechanism, perfected step by step through the centuries, is seldom given a thought.

Electric appliances for the household are just getting a start. Their evolution is rapid as well as strikingly useful and interesting. Light, heat and power—what a broad foundation for new utilities in the home as well as in all forms of industry! Generated by the water power available in all parts of the United States, electricity ought to be cheap enough to be freely used by everybody. Congress has direct authority in shaping the future of water in motion. The responsibility is of the first importance to the general welfare of every citizen.

On the farms drudgery is happily a word going out of fashion.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BEES' STINGERS PROFITABLE CROP.

Raising bees for the stings pays an eastern woman better than keeping them for the honey which they would produce. From these stings is secured the purest formic acid obtainable, and the customers are the manufacturing druggists of the country. During the past twenty-four years this woman has supplied one firm with 25,000 stings annually; other concerns take from 500 to 5000 each year, making a yearly trade of 50,000 stings. To produce this number but two colonies of bees are necessary, while it would require fifty colonies to make an amount of honey equal in value to the stings.

The method of taking the sting from a bee is simple. The bees are first gathered in a specially-arranged box, by shaking a comb on which they are working, over the mouth of the box. Next, in a room with all the shades but one drawn, the box is opened. As the bees come out of the box they are attracted to the lighted window, and cluster there on glass or screen. Mrs. Beekeeper picks up the insects by their heads and, holding them under a magnifying glass, draws the stings. For this purpose a small pair of tweezers is used. The stings are placed in a dish filled with milk sugar, which covers them with a coat that prevents decay.

Each sting contains a small amount of formic acid, which is removed by distillation. This acid is used in the treatment of rheumatism by homeopathic physicians, being administered in much reduced strength, while doctors of the regular school use it, reduced one-half, for restoring circulation in cases of paralysis, applying it externally. Formic acid was one of the first of the solid-fat acids discovered. It was originally obtained by distilling common red ants (Formica rufa) from which the name is derived.—[September Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A FISH STORY.

Once there were two men and a woman who decided to go fishing. They took a boat and rowed quite a distance out to sea, and as the fish were not biting very well, the woman was trailing her hand in the water. Suddenly she pulled her hand into the boat and cried: "Oh, I have lost my diamond ring!"

The water was too deep for anyone to dive and get the ring, so, although the owner felt very bad about it, nothing could be done. Just before they started toward the shore, one of the men hooked an exceedingly big fish.

That night they had some of that fish for dinner. All of a sudden the woman who had lost the diamond ring bit on something hard, and what do you think it was? It was a fishbone.—[Chicago News.

Big Glass Industry in Japan.

The plate glass industry in Japan has greatly expanded since the world war. Before the war about 550,000 boxes of glass were consumed annually, 420,000 boxes of which were imported from Belgium and Germany, the remainder being of home manufacture. In the past year 850,000 boxes were manufactured in Japan, of which 600,000 boxes were consumed in Japan, and the remaining 250,000 boxes were exported.—[New York Tribune.

How I Found The Safe Way To Give My Baby Milk

I AM the happiest woman alive. My baby is on the road to health.

Only a mother can know what that means!

Our doctor told me that the safest way to give him milk was to give him Nestlé's Milk Food which is made out of pure milk modified with just the right amount of sugar and cereal.

He explained to me that making the milk into a fluffy powder breaks up those hard-to-digest curds, so that when you add water and boil just a minute, you have the nearest thing in the world to mother's milk—clean, safe, and almost sure to agree with a baby's delicate stomach.

That is why I am the happiest woman alive—for my baby is well.

I know that if your baby has trouble with his food, the Nestlé Company will be glad to help you. They will send you free, as they sent me, a big Mother's Book on how to take care of your baby and enough Nestlé's Food for 12 feedings. All you have to do is to fill out and send the coupon. Then you can be, with me, the happiest woman in the world—because your baby is well.

Nestlé's is pure Milk in powder form that is already modified and does not require the further addition of milk. Always pure and safe, always uniform, and free from the dangers of home modification, Nestlé's has stood the test of three generations and has today the largest sale of any baby food in the world.

FREE! Enough Nestlé's for 12 feedings. Send the coupon!

DUNNING SYSTEM
Of Improved Piano Study for Beginners and Advanced Students
(LESCHETIZKY TECHNIQUE)
The renowned pianist, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, says: "The Dunning system, based on a thorough knowledge of both the child's nature and the elements of musical science, is the first step made in order to adapt modern ideas to the musical education of beginners. The great and rapid success of your work shows that you have found the right way."

The Flowers that Bloom in the Fall

Are quite as attractive as those in the spring, but the Mikado "tra-la" is superfluous, because everyone knows Impresario Behymer's penchant for dealing exclusively in things musical. These are some of the artists who will blossom forth under his direction during the coming season.

MUSICAL.

MANY AMERICANS.

MUSICAL ARTISTS ARE MORE NUMEROUS THIS SEASON.

The line-up of musical artists to visit Los Angeles during the coming season seems to have been pretty definitely determined now by the Fates and other deities who preside over the lyric destinies of the city. The most gratifying feature of the programme, as outlined, is that there are to be a greater number of attractions, with American musicians very largely represented.

Instead of the usual seven events on the Philharmonic courses, for instance, there are to be eight. Furthermore there is a likelihood that the list will be amplified by special concerts and recitals, as is generally the case.

One evening series of concerts will include Lambert Murphy, the American tenor, and Merle Alcock, the contralto; Albert Spalding, violinist; Helen Stanley, lyric soprano; Carolina Lazzari, the contralto of the Chicago Opera Company; Alfred Cortot, the French pianist. John Philip Sousa and his band are also on this course. Cortot is known from his appearances with the French Conservatoire Orchestra. Riccardo Stracciari, the Italian baritone, who became established in this country through his appearances with Galli-Curci two years ago, and Galli-Curci herself will close this series.

A novelty will be the opening of the second evening series with Isadora Duncan's interpretative dancers, accompanied by George Copeland, the pianist. Leo Ornstein, composer-pianist; Jacques Thibaud, French violinist; Sophie Braslau, American contralto; Ernestine Schumann-Heink; the Flonzaley Quartette, Florence Macbeth are other attractions on the Tuesday evening series, while Galli-Curci makes a reappearance.

Particular local interest will be lent to the afternoon concerts this year through the fact that Charles Wakefield Cadman will be the first to appear. The Princess Tsianina will sing his songs in her own strikingly original manner. Other matinee artists will be Clarence Whitehill, of the Chicago Opera Company; Winifred Byrd, the American pianist; Alfred Cortot, Percy Grainger, Stracciari and Galli-Curci. Sousa's Band and the Cherniavskys will also be heard.

L. E. Behymer, who is impressario for the various musical events, expresses his prophetic belief that next year will be the greatest in the history of music in America. "All over the United States, music is receiving the greatest impetus possible," he said. "American composers are being given greater opportunity than ever before. Their compositions are appearing on recital, ensemble, choral, band and symphony orchestra programmes. Every hamlet, as well as metropolitan city, will have its series of artistic entertainments."

VECSEI IS TO BE A SYMPHONY SOLOIST.

Announcement of soloists for the first two concerts of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra have been made. Alexander Saslavsky, concertmaster, formerly with the New York Symphony Orchestra, is to appear at the first, while Desider Josef Vecsei, the Hungarian pianist, will play at the second concert.

The orchestra has secured a very capable oboist in Albert De Busscher, formerly with the New York Symphony Orchestra, and later with the Cincinnati and Detroit organizations. Last year he organized and conducted the Cincinnati Summer Orchestra. De Busscher made his first public appearance in Brussels at the age of 14, and two years later was oboist with Ysaye.

Adolf Tandler, director of the orchestra, is still in New York, but is expected to return within the next few weeks. The strong support of the association has been guaranteed Mr. Tandler in his efforts this season. J. T. Fitzgerald, chairman of the board, has indorsed the director strongly and declared yesterday, that Mr. Tandler's aims and application have not wavered from his ideal of symphonic and chamber music in all the years he has been in Los Angeles, or the dozen years of his activities preceding that.

"There is a new condition in the American musical market, and yet a condition which is the natural outgrowth of the American musical policy of the past decades. That condition is that there are more symphony orchestras than there are first-class directors. Several orchestras in this country have been looking for directors this year and have been confronted with a dearth of material, especially directors who are American in either their birth or interests.

"This is the natural outcome of American worship of all things European in years past. There was a day when an American conductor of symphony orchestras would have been held an impossibility—more than a day, for there was about a half-century of it. Even today the American composer is looked at askance in many cities.

"The Los Angeles Symphony orchestra is fortunate in not having to search for a director under these conditions, for the perserverance and self-sacrifice of Conductor Adolf Tandler in his six years of directing the orchestra made him the only logical man for the situation. There is no questioning his Americanism, though his birth and education were South Austrian—he is an American by choice, not by accident. And he may be depended on to give as large representation to American music as possible on his programmes this season."

Mr. Tandler is at present in the East seeking new compositions to add to the repertoire of the local symphony orchestra.

Silks and Velvets

In All Their Regal Splendor Fashionable Weaves of Autumn

—The Silk section on the 2nd floor is radiant in the brilliancy of the new autumn weaves that have come to answer the call of Fashion, for the demands of Fashion this fall are varied, indeed.

—Surely the silks this season are beautiful and The Broadway is well supplied with the silks that are most in demand, beginning with SATIN BROCADES in the smart French colors on heavy Canton crepes—40-in. width. Priced at $7.50 and $9.50.

SILK SHIRTINGS in the newer stripe effects, direct from the looms. 32 inches wide, 35 different designs to choose from. Priced at $3, $3.50 and $4.00 yard.

CHIFFON VELVET in the shades of autumn. 40-inch width at $7.50 yard.

BLACK CHIFFON VELVET, 40-inch width, in a variety of qualities ranging from $8 to $16 yard.

MILLINERY VELVET, used so much in trimming millinery, 17 inches wide. Priced $1.75 and $2.25 yard.

LYONS BLACK VELVET, 17 inches wide; also used for millinery trimming. Various grades at $2.50, $3, $4 and $4.50.

PLUSH COATINGS, also in demand for capes and scarfs. There is an unusual range of taupes, also black. 50 inches wide in the plain and crush weaves, and the prices are moderate at $7.50 to $18.50. Second Floor.

New Coatings and Suitings for Fall

—The woolen section rejoices in the arrival of the new weaves including the taupes and reindeer shades as well as the two tone effects that are so highly prized. All are 54 inches wide. Priced $11 to $16 yard.

—Deep hem top, priced exceptionally low at $2.95.

Women's Lisle Stockings 37c

—Black lisle stockings, with deep hem top. Sizes 9 to 10. Lowered in price for Monday's selling to 37c.

We are Pleased to Herald the Arrival of

Kayser's Silk Vests at $2.95

—For there is an increasing demand for Kayser silk garments, which have been difficult to obtain.

—These are in the flesh color with the French band top or bodice top with ribbon shoulder straps, reinforced under the arms. Sizes 36 to 40, priced $2.95.

Kayser's Silk Bloomers $4.50

—These are the Marvelfit garments that are so acceptable to the women who know the beauty and practical wearing qualities of Kayser Silk Bloomers. They are fully reinforced, flesh shade. Sizes 5 to 7 at $4.50.

Pony Stockings for Boys and Girls

—Representing the ultimate in quality, at the prices. Pony stockings are made to meet the needs of the American boy and girl. Three weights, light, medium and heavy. White stockings in the light weight only. Priced according to size at 45c and 80c pair.

Aisle 8.

So Like Wool are These 36-in.

Nu Vogue Suitings 85c Yd.

—The Nu Vogue fabrics, so closely resemble wool in appearance, that many mistake them for wool.

—Besides they have the soft woolly feeling, of course, they're cotton and yet even the patterns resemble the wool. Light and dark combinations. A very unusual fabric for children's dresses. Wash Goods Section, 2nd floor.

Some 2000 Yds. of 36-in. White Outing 37½c Yd.

—Just when the cooler nights and mornings are demanding the warmer outing flannel gowns and sleeping suits, this pure white outing at this lowered price should attract your attention.

Fancy Outing 32½c

—75 bolts of this to sell—light and dark stripes and plaids. Just the right weight for pajamas and night gowns and sleeping suits. Underpriced at 32½c.

10 Yds. of 36-in. Longcloth $3.25

The Services of Experienced Decorators to Assist You In Choosing Your Home Furnishings

—Many a home lacks the proper atmosphere because of the inexperienced choosing of draperies and furniture.

—The art of home decoration is one that requires a great deal of study. We have, here, artists with years of experience who have given this matter careful study.

—You may have the services of these artists for the asking.

—Why, then, should one choose furnishings in a haphazard manner, when there is no additional charge for the services of those who know how.

—We will furnish sketches, color schemes of a room or an entire home.

—We will help you in the selection or design the furniture particularly for you.

—This service has now become such a part of our Fourth Floor Drapery section that many artists are employed, both in the decorative and designing.

New Bungalow Curtains Have Recently Been Unpacked

—Curtains to give tone to your windows, filet nets in both plain centers and allover effects. Pretty lace edgings, and they're marked at very attractive prices.

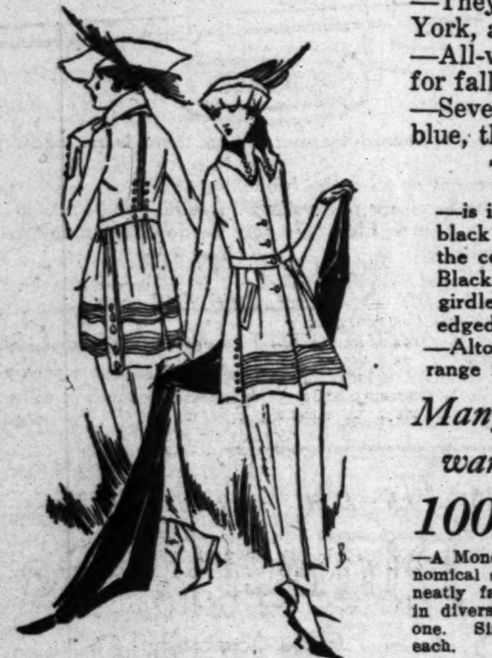
THE BROADWAY BASEMENT

The Desirability of Poplin for Fall Wear is Expressed in These

Stunning New Suits at $22.75



—They're very new, these suits which have just arrived in a delayed-shipment from New York, and fashioned cleverly, with rows and rows of braids, fanciful pockets and buttons.

—All-wool poplin is the material, a weave which has been placed among the favored cloths for fall wear.

—Several excellent models are included, two of which are pictured. They're mostly in navy blue, though there are some other shades included.

The Suit at the Left

—is in myrtle green, trimmed with rows of narrow black silk braid around the bottom of coat, around the collar, on cuffs, and down the center of back. Black buttons are used extensively, too. A narrow girdle encircles the waist, and the slash pocket is edged with braid.

The Suit at the Right

—is a wonderfully good-looking suit of navy blue poplin. On it, also, black braid is used extensively, rows of buttons also appear, and in the back a black buckle is placed on the encircling girdle. Collar and cuffs are inset with black velvet. The skirt of the coat flares smartly.

—Altogether, these are unusually good suits, and the price is less than they were intended to be sold. Sizes range from 16 years to size 44 for women.

The Broadway Basement

Many women will replenish their wardrobes at this clearaway of 100 Lingerie Waists at 89c

—A Monday feature which we believe will attract many economical shoppers to The Broadway Basement, for these are neatly fashioned waists of pretty materials, and trimmed in diverse ways, and the price is really a remarkably low one. Sizes from 34 to 46. Just 100 in the lot. Monday, 89c each.

The Broadway Basement

New Middies $2.95

Have Detachable Collars of Serge

—Women should be interested in these smart new middies of fine, closely-woven twill material. The detachable-collar feature is a decided advantage when the middies have to be washed. Excellent for school or general out-doors wear. Sizes for girls of 16 to size 44 for women.

Kimonos at $1.69

—Kimonos fashioned of daintily figured Serpentine crepes in different shades and in many color combinations. In the modes of trimming, too, there is a diversity. Sizes range from 36 to 46. One hundred in all, and Monday's price, $1.69, is a reasonable one.

The Broadway Basement

Wee Close-Fitting

Turbans

Fashioned of Velvet

—Some there are with tiny brims, and a perky trim of grosgrain ribbon, others are distinctive with their shirred crowns, while on some, which are rather plain, a pleating of velvet increases the height of the hat, and serves as a novel trimming.

—The colors are navy, gray and taupe. Smart, modish millinery for fall, from which women may select, and at the low price of $4.95, they're really most unusual.

The Broadway Basement

For the Tiny, Romping Tots of 2 to 6 Years There Are

Rompers $1.59

—And they're such staunch little garments and so well made, that the price is really low, for they'll give excellent wear.

—The colored trousers are in pink, blue and tan, and are attached to the waist with large pearl buttons. The white waist has cuffs and collar in color to match the trousers.

The Broadway Basement

Children's Muslin Drawers 49c

Call Them

Blouses

If You Will!

—But do not confound them in your mind with blouses that you have known before.

—Do not think of them—these very particular Bullock Blouses—in the light that blouses are ordinarily appraised.

—For these—about whom this news is concerned—are expressions in an entirely new and eloquent Fashion lingo.

—From the Realms of Convention—of Blouse Formulae—they have leaped into an exquisite new Altitude of Originality and Allure.

—Blouses that formerly tucked themselves subserviently under the skirt band, and exposed a wee bit of lace or embroidery, have now vivaciously blossomed forth in Over-Effects that hang just an inch or so above the ankles—with brocades and medallions and fringe and beads and braids and delicate laces forming the tout ensemble.

> —and forming also a measure of beauty and charm that might well startle the unexpecting eye.

—Other blouses, that in previous days contented themselves with the obscurity of being merely an adjunct to the suits, have now reversed the order of things, making the suit a mere adjunct to the blouse.

—And do you ever recall the time that a blouse could attend a dinner with social impunity? Yet here, if you mind, are Dinner Blouses to emulate if not eclipse the splendor and propriety of the dinner gown.

—Here also are decolette Ankle length Blouses that would grace the Dansante with assurance of being the cynosure—and the envy, as well, of admiring eyes.

—Simple, demure little Blouses conjured of Baby Irish Lace, such as one might imagine for a Fairy Princess.

—Frivolous Blouses of high color and bizarre design to claim the mood of a capricious moment.

—Georgettes and Moonglo Crepes, Knitted Silks, Velvets, Satins — richly caparisoned with beadings and tinsels—with braidings, corded medallions, Oriental metal motifs—inset with rare laces (Chinese Filets, Venises, Chantillies, Irish)—and in astonishing color contrastings that are radiant.

—Yes, call them Blouses, if you will—but 'tis better to designate them as Blouse Costumes or Les Robes Couvres—or "Irresistibles"—

> —and then come Monday to Bullock's Blouse Salon and let these delectable creations be brought to your attention, one at a time—those from $19.50 to those at $150—and see if you do not pronounce them the most delightful departure in Vogue.

The Times Literary Page Books and Their Makers

"MARE NOSTRUM"—OUR SEA.

Latest Novel by V. Blasco Ibanez, in which the Writer Vividly Depicts the Horrors of Submarine Warfare on the Mediterranean.

"Mare Nostrum," the latest book of Vicente Blasco Ibanez (Dutton,) is a worthy successor of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." Just as "The Four Horsemen" laid bare the baseness of the Hun in his war upon land and gave the best analysis of German character and deeds to be found in fiction, so does "Mare Nostrum" vividly depict the horrors of the submarine war. "Our Sea," the Mediterranean, is the scene of the story, and so intimately does the author know and describe that historic body of water that it may almost be said to be the protagonist of the work. Its natural products, finny and otherwise, the early tribes that have lived along its coasts, and the primal navigators who learned their art in this land-locked body of water, are all described with amazing detail. The mythology that made the beautiful Amphitrite special sovereign of this Hellenic sea and all the other poetic representations of atmospheric and marine forces given us by the Greeks are here outlined. The history of the Mediterranean peoples is sketched and the heroes of twenty centuries are briefly characterized. In fact, one might say of the descriptive chapters of this book when contrasted with other Mediterranean chronicles what the fanatical Arab said of the Koran compared with all previous writings: "Burn them, every one, for their worthy substance and spiritual essence are all in this book."

The hero of the story is Ulysses Ferragut, son of a Valencian notary who was descended from a long line of sailors. The notary had dedicated his son to the law, but the lad inherited the seafaring tastes of his ancestors. The old Triton, his paternal uncle, encouraged the boy in his love of the sea. All that had ever been told or written of the Mediterranean this uncle knew and repeated to Ulysses, who came to regard "mare nostrum" as "a species of blue beast, a sacred and powerful animal of great intelligence."

Upon the death of his father, Ulysses sailed at the age of 18 on a trans-Atlantic vessel, and for six years sailed on various other craft, touching at many widely separated ports. In the seventh year of his wanderings he met with an accident, and upon his recovery went to visit his mother, finding her tranquilly happy with an orphan niece as her companion. Ulysses married this gentle cousin. "After that on each of his return trips Ferragut saw a new son, although always the same one; first it was a bundle of batiste and lace carried by a showily-uniformed nurse; then by the time he was captain of the trans-Atlantic liner, a little cherub in short skirts, chubby-cheeked, with a round head covered with a silky down, holding out its little arms to him; finally a boy who was beginning to go to school and at sight of his father would grasp his hard right hand, admiring him with his great eyes, as though he saw in his person the concentrated perfection of all the forces of the universe."

After a brief retirement, Ulysses bought a fast freighter and christened her the "Mare Nostrum." The beginning of the great war found his vessel carrying wheat and hides from South America and barely paying expenses. But as rates speedily scared he was soon in the high tide of success.

While awaiting some repairs at Naples, Ferragut visited Pompeii and there met Freya Talberg, that ash blond woman who was to work his ruin. She was in the company of a woman addressed as doctor, a German agent. When Ferragut had lost his heart, his honor and his self-respect, he yielded to Freya's demand and undertook to carry petrol and supplies to the German submarines which had just entered the Mediterranean.

The sure vengeance fate wrought upon him through his son broke the spell under which Ferragut had been held. Then he turned ferociously to the side of the Allies and took up the dangerous task of carrying supplies to the Dardanelles. Always he was a marked man, whom every German agent and every German submarine sought to destroy. His end was tragic, as was that of the beautiful Freya, who went to her death attired in silks and furs, with jewels glittering on her neck and hands, as though playing a part on the stage, awaking to a realization of her fate only in the last dreadful moments before the French firing squad did its grim work.

The character of Ulysses Ferragut, with his two-fold nature, is one that will take a permanent place in literature. That sensuous, unmoral creature, Freya, seems overdrawn, melodramatic, but the character grips the reader from start to finish. It is in the minor characters of Toni, Ferragut's mate, and Caragol, the philosopher cook, that Ibanez has done his best work, for it is these who touch reality at every point.

The translation is by Charlotte Brewster Jordan, who was also the translator of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." In reading a masterly book like "Mare Nostrum" one always feels that something must be lost in translation, but in this case there seem to be no flaws, the spirit of the author being rendered as well as the language.

HOTEL ST. FRANCIS COOK BOOK.

The publishing, by the Hotel Monthly of Chicago, of a new cook book under the title, "The Hotel St. Francis Cook Book," by Victor Hirtzler, chef of that hostelry, is just announced. The book is spoken of by the publishers as "the most important culinary work since Ranhofer's "Epicurian," published twenty years ago.

The book contains breakfast, luncheon and dinner menus as served at the hotel for every day in the year, each menu appearing under the day and date served respectively. Below each day's menu appears the recipe for the different dishes. While not all the dishes are given on the page following their appearance, a cross index is provided which makes it possible to locate any particular recipe instantly.

Recipes include hors d'oeuvres, soups, fish, meats, poultry, game, salads, pastries, ices and beverages. There is also a list of non-intoxicating beverages to meet the dry conditions now prevailing in the United States. There are also menus for teas and suppers with recipes for the dishes.

The more simple and appetizing dishes have been particularly stressed, although every requirement for the most elaborate cuisine is also to be found. The book is intended not only for hotel, restaurant and club chefs, but will meet the needs of the private family as well.

The breakfasts are what is known as French breakfasts, the luncheons run largely to meats and salads, while the dinners are full rounded-out menus calculated to meet the requirements of the most simple or elaborate tastes in the art of eating.

In addition to the daily menus there are a number of banquet menus served at various times at the hotel and taken from the files. The book contains 450 pages, is printed on bond linen ledger paper to permit of additional recipes being written in ink and is bound in blue cloth with gold lettering.

"Organizing for Work."

H. L. Gantt's new book, "Organizing for Work," is a description of the methods he has developed and successfully applied to industrial problems during the past twenty years—with an exposition of the economic principles on which they are based. Mr. Gantt is the author of "Work, Wages and Profits" and "Industrial Leadership." Harcourt, Brace & Howe published the volume September 4.

FICTION REVIEWED.

"Nurse Benson."

"Nurse Benson," Justin Huntley McCarthy's latest work of fiction, is a novelization of the play of the same name (John Lane.) It is a novel of English high life, sprightly, entertaining, but in no way noteworthy.

The heroine, Lady Gillian Dunsmore, though not so fascinating as the author intends her to be, is amusing enough to serve the purpose. The plot centers about Lady Gillian's masquerading as Nurse Benson for a wounded army officer, Capt. Tibbenham, the complications arising making a readable yarn.

The Lady Gillian had heard many ardent encomiums of Capt. Tibbenham from her old friend and would-be suitor, Brooke Steinway, and in spite of the gallant captain's social handicap as the son of a middle-class manufacturer, was anxious to meet the wounded hero for his own sake and also to show Steinway a thing or two, the latter having refused to bring about a meeting between Lady Gillian and the captain, whom he thought much too good to be subjected to the fair lady's wiles.

At the Tibbenham mansion she finds Tibbenham pere an inoffensive and amiable human mouse, his wife an ostentatious, over-dressed, undereducated woman, an ardent tuft-hunter, with more than a touch of the shrew in her make-up. Their house guests, the Ray Marrisons, are a pair of vulgar adventurers who have succeeded in foisting themselves upon their hosts as people of good social position.

Capt. Tibbenham proves even more than Lady Gillian's fancy had painted him. Naturally, he falls in love with the supposed nurse and promptly proposes marriage, despite her inferior social position. His ambitious mother hears of this and promptly dismisses Nurse Benson, who leaves without the captain's knowing of his mother's interference. When the captain finds that his lady love is gone, he takes his crutch in his hand and follows her, to find his love a high-born lady. How he bore the shock forms a happy close to the story.

The dramatis personae of this sprightly story includes, in addition to the principal characters, the usual benevolent but choleric uncle, his meek but aspiring private secretary, the extremely competent but haughty butler, who has trouble with his aspirates, the vicar's charity-dispensing daughter, and the kindly, self-sacrificing friend of the hero and heroine.

As the plot is laid during the war, the book gives adequate space to detailing the organization by a prominent citizen of a League of Self-Denial, the kind of society which under various aliases existed in all parts of Great Britain and the United States for the purpose of coercing the non-militant population into eating all the foods they especially detested and which most thoroughly disagreed with them.

The book can be especially recommended to the tired business man, the worn and jaded matinee girl, the sophomoric youth who yearns to become a movie actor, and the maiden lady who has a passion for high but strictly moral adventure.

"Burned Bridges."

"Burned Bridges," by Bertrand W. Sinclair (Little, Brown & Co.,) will appeal, the slip-cover tells us, "to all who like virile fiction." Frankly, I do not like virile fiction; in fact, I would run a mile to avoid most of it, which shows how incapable I am of appreciating a book of this type. And yet I found "Burned Bridges" not half so bad as I had expected, because not half so virile as some.

It has some first-rate description of life in the Canadian Northwest, which the author knows intimately, and of the trials and tribulations of a Protestant missionary to the unfortunate Indians of those parts. The author is convinced of the utter futility of such missionary efforts and soon converts his hero, whom he persists in calling "Mr." Thompson throughout the first part of the book or until he becomes sufficiently well acquainted with him to drop the prefix.

The hero's efforts to find useful work that will enable him to pile up a fortune in record time brings him to San Francisco and later to Vancouver and mixes him up somewhat intimately with big business and its big projects. Of course, an almost atogether hopeless love spurs him on to accomplish wonders, and incidentally to display that virility which so pleases the publishers. In the end "Burned Bridges" turns out to be a war book, with the Princess Pat's regiment figuring in it, but it is only the last few chapters in which the war is played up—and I didn't read them, but I think they are all right.

The reader can go farther and fare worse than in "Burned Bridges" in looking for something to read that will pass away an evening pleasantly.

"A Girl Named Mary."

Juliet Wilbor Tompkins seems to be writing against time, judging by the number of books published under that name. "A Girl Named Mary" (Bobbs-Merrill) is the latest, unless I have fallen a lap behind in the race to keep up with this speedy writer. Like most of this author's work, the book is easily read and is not without merit. While the character delineation is neither deep nor strong, the persons depicted have sufficient vitality to carry them along. The plot is not the usual thing and the problem involved is one deep-rooted in our social system.

The author is playing on the note of the new democratic wave that is sweeping the world, but quite without intending to be, is essentially snobbish in her faith in the wide gulf that divides the well-educated young office worker from the daughters of the sublimated upper classes.

However, the mother's long search for her lost daughter and the problem she meets when she finds her makes good light summer reading. This book appeared serially in one of the magazines devoted to romantic literature before being brought out in its present form.

A Thriller.

William Patterson White's "The Owner of the Lazy D" (Little, Brown & Co.,) is a real thriller. The hero, Dan Gilmore, who in the guise of a deputy sheriff undertakes to clean up a cattle country county which has become the battleground of rival bands of cattle rustlers, proves an interesting character because he typifies the imaginary hero of an imaginary West that existed only in the minds of the purveyors of cheap and lurid fiction.

Dan plays true to form as practiced in this class of fiction. He has the regulation number of hair-breadth escapes, is quick on the trigger, a dead shot and cool to the point of exasperation. Two women figure in the book, one as a friend, the other as a sweetheart, who is won in the usual way entirely against her will. If you like the smell of blood, mixed with the acrid fumes of burnt powder; if the language of the range—as she is not spoken on the range—appeals to you, in short, if scenes of battle, murder and sudden death are to your liking, the book will afford an evening's entertainment.

"The Pale Horse."

"The Pale Horse," by "Ropshin" (Alfred A. Knopf,) is a work of fiction written in the form of a diary by Boris Savinkov, who was Minister of War in Kerensky's Cabinet. It is typically Russian in its moroseness, its sensuality, its hopeless intrigue, and its fanaticism. Its strength lies in its delineation of Russian character; its charm, in its feeling for nature. But it is one of those books that leave a bad taste in the mouth, which is perhaps the best possible proof of the power of the author's realism.

Of course there is the inevitable married woman with the inevitable lover. In Elena there are no qualms, no regrets, no forebodings, because there is no soul. "Elena visits me secretly, and the hours and weeks flow on rapidly like fast waters. The whole world is now centered for me only in my love for her. The roll of memories is sealed, the mirror of life is dimmed. I have before my eyes Elena, her lips, her dear hands, all her youth and her love. I hear her laugh, her joyous voice. I play with her hair, and kiss greedily her happy, passionate body. The night descends upon us. Her eyes become more radiant in the night, her laughter sounds louder, her kisses sting sharper. And the old vision comes back like a spell—the strange southern flower, the blood-red cactus, enchanting and passionate. What do I care for terrorism, the revolution, the gallows and death, since she is with me?" . . .

BOOK NOTES.

"The Face of the World."

Johan Bojer's book, "The Face of the World" (Moffat, Yard & Co.,) which has been translated from the Norwegian by Miss Jessie Muir, will be published October 10.

Bojer has a long list of books to his credit. They take the form of plays, novels and fairy tales. The plays are "Theodora," "Brutus," "The Eyes of Love and Sigurd Braa;" the novels, "The Procession," "The Eternal Strife," "Mother Lis," "The Pilgrimage," "The Power of Life," "Our Kingdom," "Life," "The Prisoner Who Sang," "The Great Hunger" and "The Face of the World." The fairy tales are "At the Churchyard Gate," "The Wind in the Reeds," "Old Tales" and "The White Birds."

The same publishers will shortly bring out a biography of Bojer translated from the Norwegian by Jelliffe Macintire.

Death of Will N. Harben.

Will N. Harben, the well-known author of novels of life in the South, died at his home in New York City an August 7. His work was first brought to the notice of Harper & Bros., his publishers, by William Dean Howells, to whom Mr. Harben's truthful pictures of American life had made a strong appeal. Following Mr. Howells's advice, the Harpers published "Westerfelt" in 1901 and since then, nearly twenty years ago, have put out eighteen other of Mr. Harben's novels, among which are "The Desired Woman," "The Triumph," "The Hills of Refuge," "Anne Boyd" and "M'am Linda." Shortly before his death Mr. Harben completed another novel, which the Harpers will publish early in September.

Re Vers Libre.

Henry Van Dyke, who contributes the preface to "A Book of Princeton Verse II," to be published September 26 by the Princeton University Press, thinks vers libre is the Bolshevism of poetry. Dr. Van Dyke takes the position that poetry must be musical to carry its meaning to the heart.

"Career of Leonard Wood."

D. Appleton & Co. are issuing a most timely biography of "The Career of Leonard Wood," by Joseph Hamblen Sears. The life of this able soldier and statesman is discussed in detail, and it is said that throughout the book the eminent general is presented as a great American, a fine man and a distinguished patriot.

Best Literature is in Big Demand.

ANGELENOS BUYERS OF GOOD BOOKS.

From that far time when recorded thought found expression on tablets of stone or clay, and when the making of a book meant the work of a lifetime's patient endeavor, to the present day, some portion of mankind has been either intensely or remotely interested in what others have had to say on the sculptured, hand-engrossed or printed page.

The various stages of civilization which the world has reached have been largely typified by the literature of each epoch. Every people that has reached a stage which history has dignified as civilization has left a record of its culture largely in books.

The old saying that a man is known by the company he keeps may be paraphrased into a people is known by the books that it reads. Taking this as a fair standard by which to judge the intellectual status of the people of Los Angeles we turn to our book stores for the data on which to base an estimate.

A survey of the book stores of the city reveals the fact that the better literature is in big demand. This suggested a survey of the book sections of the big department stores for the purpose of comparing the literary tastes of the many who in the course of their shopping in the big emporiums naturally include books in their purchases.

This survey completely explodes the theory held by bookish people that the class of book buyers patronizing the book sections of the department stores buy their books by the yard, or because of the peculiar shade or combination of colors found in the binding or on the slip covers. Neither do they limit their buying to the books that, like the styles, are the rage of the moment. As a matter of fact the demand for the standard authors is keeping pace with the demand for all but the very latest and most popular "best sellers."

A ramble through the book sections of Hamburger's, Bullock's, the Broadway and Robinson's reveals a condition that will come as a surprise to many who have always looked upon department store book sections as a place where only the very latest thrillers and an assortment of juveniles was to be had. This is not the case. These departments will be found in charge of competent managers who are not only making the sections commercially successful, but are striving to encourage a love for the very best in literature.

The managers of the departments in the leading stores all report that their public is each year showing a keener appreciation of the best. The big demand in standard fiction is for such writers as Dickens, Dumas, Scott, Eliot, Mark Twain, Thackeray and Charles Reade. The works of Emerson, Milton, Charles Lamb, Macaulay and scores of other names that to enumerate would make a catalogue of literature, are being heavily purchased.

In discussing the book trade from the standpoint of the department store book section, E. H. Dart, manager of Hamburger's book section, said: "Aside from the very best of the latest in fiction the demand for the older standard works in complete sets is heaviest. O. Henry and Kipling's works are steady sellers and of recent months there has been a strong demand for French novels in the original. Books dealing with the mystery of the future are just now being called for. The more psychological, philosophical or analytical, the bigger the demand. The demand for juvenile books is heavier than ever, and as this class of books is being selected with more care than in the past we may expect that the tone of the literary demand in this line will continue to improve."

Mrs. B. E. Guillemont, manager of Bullock's book section, in discussing the demand that she finds, says: "Poetry, philosophy and the classics are in big demand. The book buyer who today comes to the department store book section usually knows what she wants, for it is the women who make up the bulk of our trade. I do not just know why, but men seem to be shy of entering a big store, which they consider primarily a place for women to shop.

"We are specializing on books for children. Our stock is carefully selected and we are glad to give mothers or the little ones themselves the benefit of our knowledge of these books and to encourage them to purchase the best. We feel that this is not only good practice from a business standpoint, but good ethics, as the discriminating child reader becomes shortly the discriminating adult reader and the distribution of good literature is a decided benefit to the community at large."

E. J. Moriarity and his assistant, Miss Alice Williams, have made the Broadway Department Store's book section one in which the buyer may find a wide selection. Miss Williams reports that books dealing with psychology are in heavy demand at present. Kipling and Mark Twain are big sellers, as are also the "Oz" books of the late L. Frank Baum. "We do a big business in standard sets," said Miss Williams. "The demand is largely for the better binding. This I account for by the fact that so many people are buying their own homes and they feel that no home is complete without books; not just well-bound books, but good books."

Parker's branch book shop in Robinson's reflects the same tendencies to be found in the book sections of other big stores.

Charles R. Hixson, manager of the book department of Fowler Bros., in reviewing his experience with the book-buying public, says: "There is not the slightest doubt but that in future a book to be a "best seller" must have intrinsic literary merit. The sale of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Education of Henry Adams" disproves the theory held in some quarters that the reading public likes froth and lacks literary discrimination. We find that the public is demanding the best. After the best of the latest fiction, but not much behind, comes the demand for standard authors, good poetry, particularly recent war poems. History, philosophy and biography are being widely read and the demand for the books dealing with psychical science is growing rapidly."

SOUTHLAND, LITERARY MECCA

The announcement early last week that Henry E. Huntington had by deed of trust presented to the people of Southern California his monumental library of rare books and priceless art collection marks one of the most important epochs in the literary and artistic history of the Southland.

San Marino, one of the exclusive residential districts adjacent to Los Angeles, will, because of this gift, become one of the most important literary Meccas of the western world. For within the chaste and stately walls of the magnificent library building which Mr. Huntington is about to erect will be enshrined one of the finest collections of priceless literary treasures in the United States, a collection equalled by no other private collection and surpassed by but few of the great national collections of the world—in fact, ranking in many respects with the great Vatican library at Rome, the British Museum and the Bibliotheque Nationale at Paris.

Among the most precious books in the collection are the following: The famous Mazarin Bible, printed by Gutenberg at Mayence in 1450-55. This is said to be the first book ever printed with movable

"THE REMAKING OF A MIND"

Lieut. Henry De Man of the Belgian army, who prior to the war was one of the leaders of the Belgian labor party and a confirmed Internationalist and Socialist, has just written a book entitled "The Remaking of a Mind" (Scribner's.)

Lieut. De Man, who was a friend of the late Karl Liebknecht, relates his war experiences from the standpoint of their psychological effect on his pre-war views. The book is an intensely interesting human document in which the writer has not attempted to dogmatize in any way, but has told a plain, simple story, much of the charm of which lies in its absolute frankness and simplicity, of how he, whose life had been spent declaiming against war, saw in a flash that it was his duty to fight against Germany, which he did immediately upon the call to arms being sounded.

The quick resort to arms to repel the invader was not, he tells us, the result of patriotism, for as an Internationalist patriotism was anathema to his creed, but because he was one of those lovers of peace who were not afraid to fight for the realization of their ideals, or at least for certain conditions essential to their realization. He contrasts these with what he is pleased to call "milk-and-water pacifists" whom he likens unto a lot of "bleating lambs in a world of ravening wolves."

In discussing the patriotism of Belgium he says: "The only plausible theory of Belgian patriotism is that which bases it on common sufferings, and not on the existence of a distinctive and peculiar national culture, which is a myth. These conditions arise from the situation of Belgium as a natural gateway between the three great currents of economic and cultural life in western Europe—Latin, Teutonic and Anglo-Saxon. They have made it racially the melting pot, economically the turning plate, militarily the battlefield, politically the buffer state and spiritually the microcosm of Europe."

His idea of patriotism may be gleaned from this statement: "I have always felt that this war for the self-government of nations would not be worth winning unless it gave the German people the right to dispose, not only of its territory, but of its own fate and thus enable it to fulfill a better destiny than that of being the tool of a dynasty. It is in this sense I have never ceased to be a German patriot. While fighting against the German army I was fighting for the German people; or, to put it more accurately, in fighting against the German nation of today I was fighting for the German nation of tomorrow."

Lieut. De Man joined the army as a private of infantry and served successively as liaison officer, artillery observer and trench mortar officer, with experience on the Belgian, British, Russian and fronts, also on diplomatic

The first reciprocity luncheon of the current year will be held at the Alexandria Hotel on October 21.

Entre Nous Club.

The Boyle Heights Entre Nous Club will combine presidents' day with reciprocity day on Wednesday, when luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. at the library, First and Chicago streets. Following the luncheon, a musical programme will be given by Edith Lillian Clark, pianiste; Mrs. Louis A. Stern, soprano, and Mrs. Clayton J. Hinman, accompanist, all well-known artists. Mrs. Sidney T. Exley will address the club and Mrs. W. J. Fromme will give readings. An original toast to the presidents, past and present, will be given by Mrs. C. L. Vose.

Gardena Woman's Club.

On Wednesday at the second regular meeting of the Wednesday Progressive Club, Mrs. Hammond precided for the first time of her presidency. With "Our Community" as a topic, Mrs. Frank Graham, programme chairman, provided a wonderful subject for discussion. Mr. A. Ray Moore, recently made head of the Spanish-American Institute of Gardena; Mr. S. O. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Rev. J. A. Engel of the Methodist Church, and Mr. Whitely, principal of the local High School, representative men of the community having various interests at heart for its betterment, discussed these matters, bringing out potential relations of the club to the community.

Parent-Teacher Association.

More than 200 Parent-Teacher associations were represenetd at the monthly meeting of the first district California congress, held last Thursday in the rooms of the County Board of Education, Mrs. C. S. Thompson presiding. Mrs. T. N. Cory, programme chairman, announced plans for the conference of the year, as follows: October 23, Broadway Auditorium, philanthropy; Dr. Claud Wilde; juvenile court, Mrs. A. E. Austin; membership, Mrs. Clarence Dougherty; printing, Mrs. A. L. Hamilton; programme, Mrs. N. T. Cory; January, home economics, Mrs. J. E. Britton; legislation, Mrs. W. W. Wlison; child labor, Mrs. J. D. Taylor; recreation, Mrs. J. T. McDougal; publicity, Mrs. William Frederickson.

University Club.

The Women's University Club will hold the first meting of the season on October 4. A luncheon at the Ebell Clubhouse will be served at 12:30 p.m., after which a short business meeting will be held. An afternoon of music will follow, the programme furnished by Ruth Hutchinson, winner of the American national song contest for 1919

Woman's City Club.

The Woman's City Club will meet at the Walker Auditorium tomorrow at 1 p.m. The speaker will be Rev. Mybor H. Wilson, member of the Mayor's mediation board. "The Public's Side of the Street Car Strike" will be the topic. The club luncheon is discontinued until further notice.

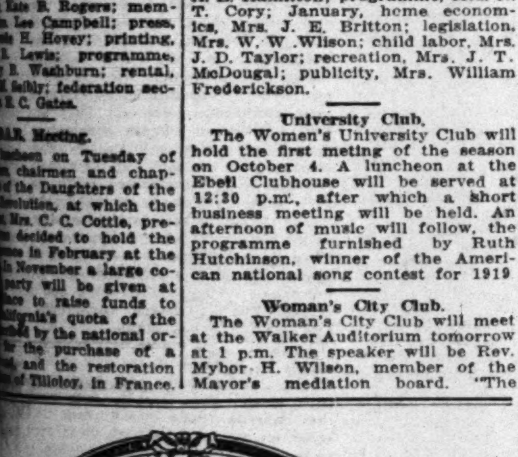
L. A. Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. L. A. Beebe, district chairman of social and industrial relations, Los Angeles Federation of Women's Clubs, will address the woman's auxiliary of the National Federation of Postal Employees on "Industrial Reconstruction," on Tuesday at the Broadway Auditorium.

Business Woman's Club.

Tomorrow night at the Los Angeles Investment Building, in the rose room of the City Club, Senator Cartwright will speak on "Socialism and its Relation to Industrial roblems," before the Business Women's Civic Club, which is making a special effort to inform its members on social, economic and industrial prolems to the end that they may do their full duty as intelligent citizens.

Along the lines of business efficiency Mr. H. J. Stonier, at the last meeting of the club, gave an excellent address on "Making People Listen."



An atmosphere of individuality is the most pronounced feature of the Innes Shoe Co.

To many this individuality consists in its superior facilities

To many it consists in its personal service :: the careful, tactful, conscientious attention given to every patron

To many it is to be found in its price policy :: one price to all alike and that price the lowest consistent with the highest quality and good business principles

To one and all it consists in the assurance of satisfaction enjoyed by every patron, the never-failing dependability of its service and products

EMILY AND SUSAN.

Two Colored Women's Luck. Judge Willett Entertains by Proxy.

BY MYRA NYE.

Judge C. J. Willett, who lived in Pasadena, has been dead for more than a year. Just the other day he entertained in charming style four of his friends from Ann Arbor, Mich., where he had lived for many years. He entertained by proxy.

When Judge Willett's will was probated the public was interested to learn that, in addition to personal and household effects, a large share of his property had been left to his two colored maids, Susan and Emily. Now women of middle age, they had been the judge's and Mrs. Willett's servants since their girlhood. They are half sisters and their father was employed by the judge before them.

So unusual was the will that the press commented upon it at some length at the time of Judge Willett's death. It would seem that such a will is fertile field for litigation. Why leave property to servants anyway? And colored servants so proverbially improvident! But Emily and Susan have given that proverb the lie. Then, a legacy for mere servants leaves with it the impelling desire on someone's part to break the will. Being a legal expert, Judge Willett saw to that. On the other hand, if the purpose of a bequest is to keep alive the memory of the one who makes it, then this legacy admirably serves that purpose.

By a provision of the will, Emily and Susan are now legally named Willett. "For long and faithful service, they shall be hereafter called Willett."

In the beautiful Oak Knoll district of Pasadena, Emily and Susan Willett have built a handsome house, colonial in architecture. The gardener of the judge, who really deserves to be called a landscape artist, has laid out the grounds. With the quick growth of shrubs and trees and vines in Southern California, already the home has the shade a colonial house needs above all others.

One of these women, Emily I think it is, is handy with tools besides being endowed with artistry. So the garden is further beautified by a bird house constructed by her. There are inviting seats in the pergola. Doves are lured there by cotes. As for women's work, any woman whatsoever, might well be proud of such craftsmanship as this of a negro woman.

When these friends of Judge Willett came this summer to California from the old home town of the judge where they had known Emily and Susan in his home, they were naturally interested to see this new house of which they had heard. With great pride Emily and Susan showed them over the house and grounds.

Occasionally their guests would admire a piece of china when Emily would say, "Yes, isn't it beautiful? We bought that when we were abroad in Limoges, France." Perhaps it would be a tapestry from Italy, a Florentine bit of marble or a Bulgarian rug, when, at an expression of admiration, one of these women, in choice language, would tell of the purchase abroad and some first hand incident connected with it, always mentioning their judge with loving ascent. With the imagination of the African race they made vivid, colorful tales of their travel memories shared by Judge and Mrs. Willett.

On this first visit Emily and Susan were expansive, almost voluble. But a few days later to these casual callers came a definite, formal invitation to dine at the colonial home. In due time, a handsome car, the property of Emily and Susan, was sent for them and with pleasure in California's beauty, new to them, they were driven past the most palatial homes in this Southland, to find, not far from them, this home of their dead friend's servants.

When they lifted the knocker there was quick response. In smart maid's gown with white cap and piquaint apron, Emily ushered them in. There was a transformation from the talkative friend of a few days before. Now she was the discreet servant. By some subtle, servant-like silence, she conveyed to them the hint that on this occasion there was to be no casual conversation with her. Her impassivity was equal to that of an English butler. Only once did she break it. As she showed them where they were to remove their outer garments she murmured, "Mrs. D. will act as hostess." So when they emerged from the bedroom, Mrs. D, a mutual friend of theirs and the Willetts, met them with warm hospitality. In due time from Emily came "Dinner is served" and the small party, went with some degree of formality to the well-set table where there began a wonderful eight-course dinner with every appointment perfect.

The first four courses Emily waited on them deftly and silently. Susan had not yet been seen. Whenever one of them ventured to try to draw Emily into the conversation her only reply was an inscrutable smile. When they complimented her on the southern beaten biscuits and the boiled ham and fried chicken, still she only smiled, but the smile was one of pleasure. Promptly before the salad course she was relieved by Susan. Susan appeared as immacufately aproned and capped as though she had not been attending to the hundred and one things connected with keeping hot things hot and cold things cold. While Emily now managed in the kitchen Susan waited on table with a skill and deftness the most particular hostess might envy. No mere money could buy such service.

Even when the evening was ended and adieus were being said they did not alter their self-imposed attitudes. They were entertaining their dead master's friends. They were serving them as he would have them serve. This was an expression of their devotion to him.

BITS OF VERSE.

The King's Highway.

Time was we heard the call of the road
When we were young and gay,
I and my Love from our own abode
Out to the King's Highway.

We smelt the smell of the hay in bloom
And the miles of the scented hay
When the greensward broke into flush and foam
Out on the King's Highway.

We heard the sound of the feeding kine
When dews ran silver and gray,
The sweets of the night were better than wine
Out on the King's Highway.

Now he has taken the road alone
And I have no heart to stay;
I would that I with my Love were gone
Out on the King's Highway.
—[Katharine Tynan in The King's Highway.

Are You?

Are you striking any sparks
From the anvil of the day?
Are you making any marks
As you amble on your way?
Are you catching any fish,
Or, just wishing that you could?
Are you making any road
Seem a sweeter road to tread
For the legions with their load
Of afflictions as they thread?
Are you making any sky
Sweet and brighter for the throng
As you swing the valleys by
To the magic hills of song?
Are you smoothing any crease
In the wrinkled brow of care?
Are you bringing back the peace
Of the world with daily prayer?
—[Baltimore Sun.

The Owl.

What if to edge of dream
When the spirit is come
Shriek the hunting owl,
And summon it home
To the fear-stirred heart
And the ancient dread
Of Man when cold root or stone
Pillowed roofless head?

Clangs not at last the hour
When roof shelters not;
And the ears are deaf,
And all fears forgot;
Since the spirit too far has fared
For summoning scream
Of any strange fowl on earth
To shatter its dream?
—[Walter de la Mare, in Westminster Gazette.

Monument Enough.

Where I shall fall upon my battleground
There may I rest—nor carry me away!
What holier hills could in these days be found
Than hills of France to hold a soldier's clay?
Nor need ye place a cross of wooden stuff
Over my head to mark my age and name;
This very ground is monument enough!
'Tis all I wish of show or outward fame.
Deep in the hearts of fellow countrymen
My fast immortal sepulcher shall be,
Greater than all the tombs of ancient kings,
What matter where my dust shall scatter then?
I shall have served my country overseas
And loved her—dying with a heart that sings.
—[Ray Gauger, in Come Back.

THE INSANE AND THEIR TREATMENT.

Over 50 per cent. of the patients in the State hospitals of Illinois—or of any other State, for that matter—are cases of dementia praecox. The salient feature of this type of mental disorder is a loss of interest in the things that serve as spurs to normal activity—desire to get on in the world, love of home and family, outside social interests, etc. Fantastic ideas and bizarre activities take the place of these sane interests and the affected individual ceases to make the adjustments necessary to retain his place as a member of the family and of society at large. He gets out of step with the mass of his fellows; depends more and more upon his own delusional resources; contents himself with poorer and poorer ways of doing things; and in the end, if allowed to go his own gait, suffers a more or less profound deterioration.

Accompanying this mental degradation there is no corresponding physical decay, and, as a result, the praecox patient who enters an institution at 20 may very well continue to exist there until he is 70. At least 20 per cent. of all commitments belong to this group, and, since so few die and so few recover (possibly 10 per cent.,) a balance between the incoming and outgoing is not struck until at least half of the entire hospital population consists of this type.

This sad statement, says the Modern Hospital in an article on the Chicago State Hospital, Dunning, Ill., is an admission of the fact that dementia praecox still remains very much in the realm of the unknown. Since its cause has not yet been discovered it can be treated only by those methods which have empirically proved to be successful.

"Sure, mum, ye haven't forgot that I'm leavin' tomorrow, have ye?" asked Mollie. "I ain't goin' to be doin' anny of the new gyurl's work!"

COULD TRUST HIM.

Chief Justice Harry Olson, of the Chicago municipal court, has a keen wit. Unlike most people he lets fire with repartee at the precise moment when it is appropos instead of conceiving it on the way home afterward. He is quick to see through the inventions of attorneys and witnesses, and delights in knocking down their card-houses of invention.

Once when the great drought was approaching, a plaintiff with a cerise nose was prosecuting a case before Judge Olson. It was a weak case, as full of holes as a sieve. But the plaintiff's attorney was a suave talker.

Judge Olson surveyed the plaintiff carefully.

HORSE LORE.

It is found that there is a very definite connection between the coat color of horses and the frequency with which white markings occur. Thus the latter are by far the most commonly associated with the chestnut color. And not only are they the most prevalent in chestnut horses, but it is also, of course, a well-known fact that the markings are apt to be more extended in nature in the case of this color than in that of any other. Chestnut, therefore, apparently possesses, so to speak, a special affinity for these markings. Bay ranks next as regards the degree of frequency with which white markings appear in horses of this color, although it comes a good way behind chestnut in this respect. Then follows brown, while the white marks are met with less frequently among black and roan colored horses.—[Indianapolis News.

BY ADELAIDE BYRD

TO ADORN THE PRACTICAL BLANKET SLIP

Design by ELIZABETH MILLER

WHEN the brisk winds of autumn have begun to set one's blood a-tingle, 'tis then the housewife starts thinking of her blankets. Then, too, is bound to come the old complaint that blankets are lovely to sleep under, but not to keep clean. This puzzles even the most fastidious of housewives.

At last the problem has been solved. Folks now use a blanket slip. It seems born to make woman's lot a happier one, for it not only protects the blanket, but takes the place of a spread. It is simply a slip made of any material one wishes, that by means of a "turn-over" at the top and bottom, into which the blanket slips, forms a top cover for it. This extra fold at the top and bottom is about six or eight inches long. It is turned under, the sides sewed together, and then your blanket slipped in. That is the only means of fastening the slip, yet it is secure, once the blanket has been slipped in place.

Some folks have even adapted it to a special use of their own. You know how one does love to pull up the blanket under his chin. It is just those caresses from the blanket that wear it out in that place and soil it. One clever woman devised the scheme by means of which just a short slip was made to cover that particular part of the blanket. This is like a gigantic envelope laundered, but of course in that case a spread was necessary.

Perhaps you would have an entire slip made, one which covers the entire blanket. This is like a gigantic envelope into which the blanket slips, and a flap on which the design is placed comes over the top and fastens with either clasps or buttons. Of course the under lining need not be made of as expensive material as the top. Silk muslin would do admirably for lining a slip of crepe de chine or China silk.

So much for the slip, now for the design itself. This is a very happy suggestion for work in French knots. Altho not the least bit intricate or complex, it gives the impression of exquisite orateness. That may seem a paradox, but a design can be ornate and exquisite at the same time. It's being ornate, without going to extremes. Should one use very sheer material, as, for instance, crepe de chine, the knots are so close together that the connecting thread on the under side, could not very well be seen. A suggestion is given for using a portion of the design at the bottom corners.

If you are exceedingly feminine in your likes and dislikes, you will no doubt choose china silk or crepe de chine. Of course in print it sounds very perishable, but a number I have seen have proved very longlived. Think of it in flesh colored crepe de chine, embroidered in old blue. Or one might use the natural colors. Work the foliage in a soft apple green. The flower motifs in buff, blue and rose would be irresistable. An essentially practical slip might be made of unbleached muslin. In that case Dutch blue, green or buff could be used for the design. Even pique has its possibilities. In fact, I think I am partial to it, especially for everyday use in the children's room. Pique washes so well and is so clean looking once it is washed, that it has been the joy of housewives for ages.

ROMPER DISTINCTIVENESS

The difference between plain, ordinary, everyday rompers with no particular difference to their credit and expensive ones with instant distinction is mostly a difference between the right touch of handwork and the lack of it. Wouldn't you like your little fellow's togs to have a distinctly and distinctively masculine bit of decoration on them? Then, what you want first to do is to see this page next Sunday.

Duvetyn Sports Coat and Hat

ONE never can tell what Eve is going to spring on one. Last week she appeared at the club in a stunning sports costume of duvetyn. Now, every one knows just how much Eve's little envelope holds every month, and, naturally, every one wonders sometimes. Yet invariably the wonder is dispersed when she tells her latest trick in clothes.

Her coat of last year was blue duvetyn of the color much in popular vogue, but which with much wear in the sun soon becomes shabby. It was the usual top coat, coming to almost the hem of her skirt. This new sports suit was a deep hunter's green, and bore little semblance to the coat.

This is what she had done. Sitting down had worn the coat so that at first she thought it was beyond wear. Then she conceived the idea of a short sports jacket. The cuffs were more or less the worse for wear, so the jacket was made sleeveless. An old pair of long white kid gloves bound the armholes and collar. A trip to the dyer's did the rest.

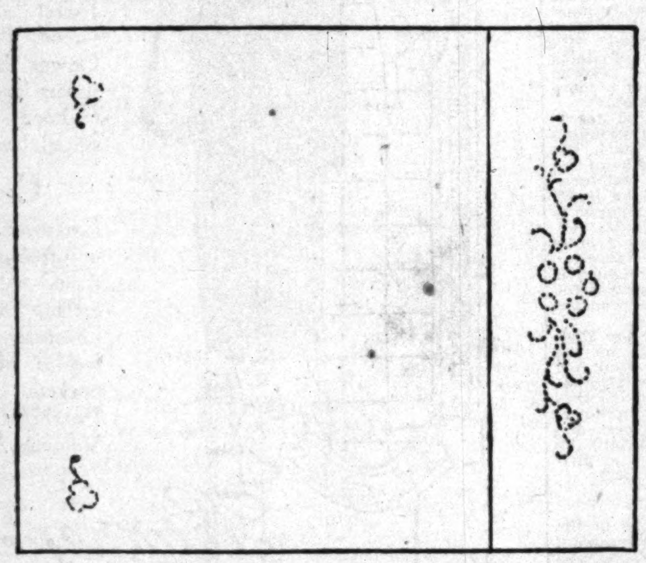
Now, for the duvetyn she had cut from the bottom. She had a white milan sailor, very, very dirty. A yard of white sateen covered it nicely as a foundation. A piece of the duvetyn was dyed to match the coat. Then it was puffed tam-wise on to the crown of the sailor. On the brim it was laid flat. A bit of grosgrain ribbon in a beige tone was tied jauntily in a bow at the side. Thus from nought was made a sports suit that caused comment (of the right sort) from a number who saw it.

Perennial Furniture

THIS seems a well-chosen name for willow furniture, since it graces any room in the house at any time of the year. This may seem a rather sweeping statement, but let us see if we cannot prove it.

Let us for a moment consider its particular virtues. First of all, it's cheaper than most anything else. That is, above all else, if one combines it with utility. Then, its adaptability. It graces the country home or bungalow, and with equal ease finds itself in the town house or apartment. And, what is more than unusual, it combines quite comfortably and harmoniously with one's walnut and mahogany "additions."

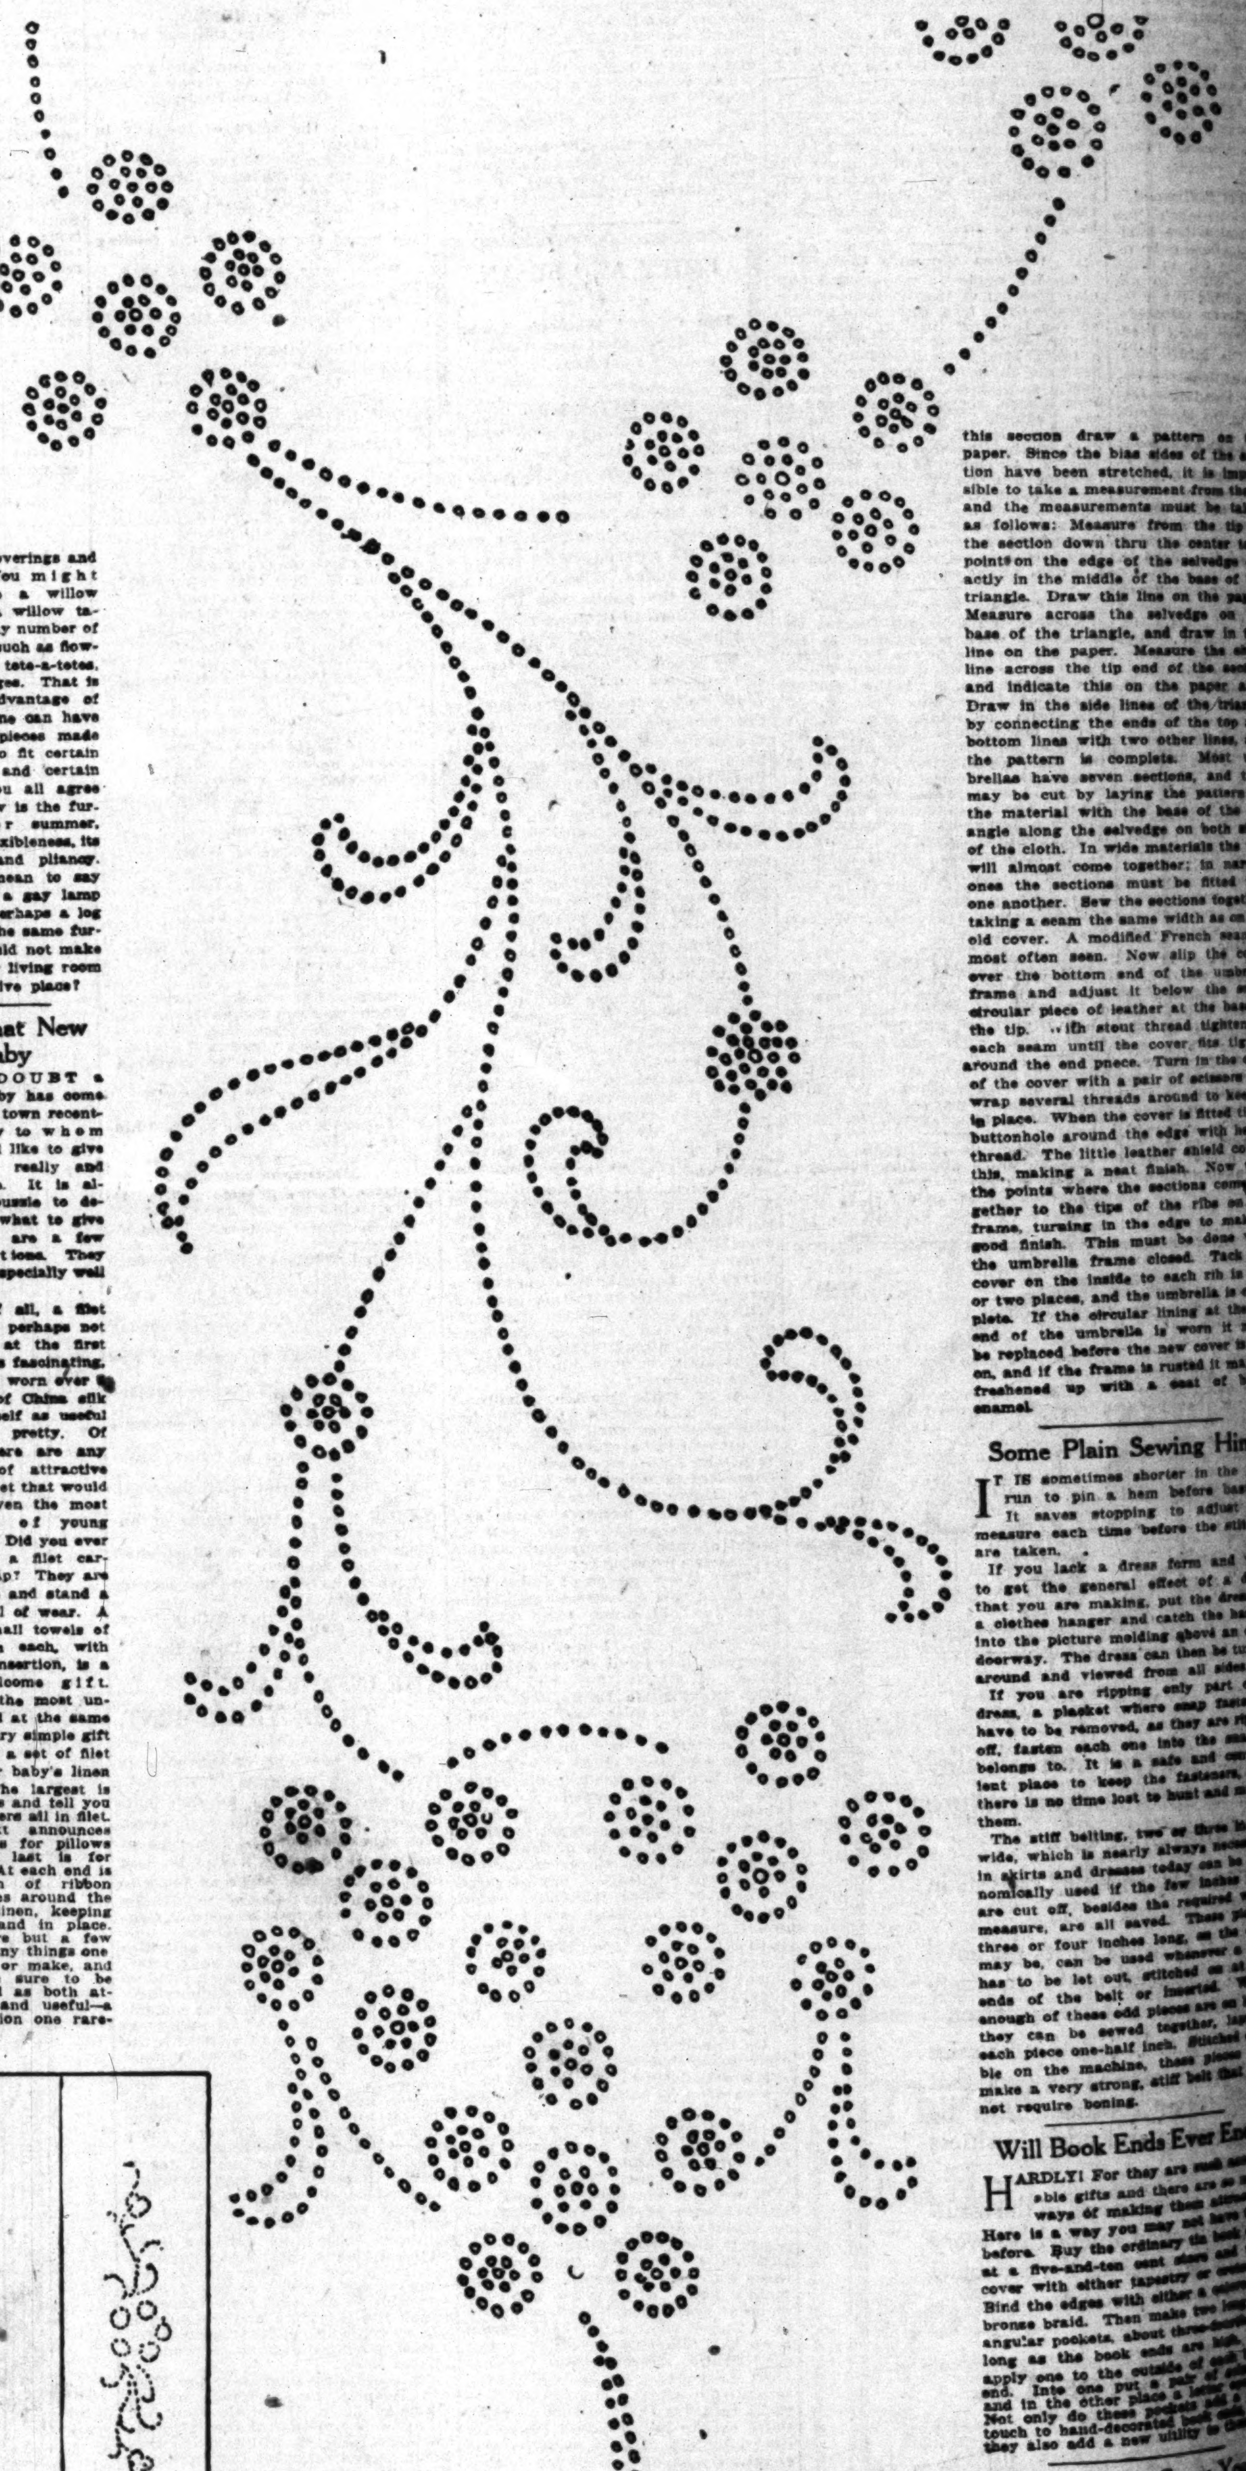
In the living room willow furniture is essentially homey. Here the pieces are best if closely woven and skirted or filed in below. This not only gives a more substantial appearance, but is also more durable. Of course, one must have a davenport, one of those big, roomy ones. Several armchairs, the nice winged sort, come next. One can get a bookrack with pockets for magazines. A tea-wagon or muffin stand, and your room is complete. All of the warmth and color is gotten in the gay chintz or cretonne coverings and pillows. You might even have a willow lamp on a willow table, and any number of etceteras, such as flower boxes, tete-a-tetes, or bird cages. That is another advantage of willow. One can have so many pieces made to order to fit certain spaces and certain needs. You all agree that willow is the furniture for summer, with its flexibleness, its strength and pliancy. Do you mean to say that with a gay lamp burning, perhaps a log fire, too, the same furniture would not make the winter living room an attractive place?



For That New Baby

NO DOUBT a baby has come to town recently—a baby to whom you would like to give something really and truly nice. It is always a puzzle to decide just what to give and here are a few suggestions. They work up especially well in filet.

First of all, a filet bib, altho perhaps not practical at the first glimpse, is fascinating, and when worn over a real bib of China silk proves itself as useful as it is pretty. Of course there are any number of attractive caps in filet that would delight even the most fastidious of young mothers. Did you ever think of a filet carriage strap? They are attractive and stand a great deal of wear. A set of small towels of fine linen each, with its filet insertion, is a very welcome gift. Perhaps the most unusual and at the same time a very simple gift would be a set of filet bands for baby's linen chest. The largest is for sheets and tell you so in letters all in filet. The next announces that it is for pillows and the last is for towels. At each end is a length of ribbon which ties around the pile of linen, keeping it trim and in place. These are but a few of the many things one can buy or make, and they are sure to be welcomed as both attractive and useful—a combination one rarely finds.



Easy and Effective is This French Knot Repeat for Flap and Corners.

Have a Pair of Moveable Lingerie Straps

LINGERIE is beginning to get wise to the community idea. You see, one can have very much more beautiful undies if one needs to make only one or two pairs of straps. Of course, they will be adjustable and will serve all that belong to the community of camisoles, teddies and even nighties. Now the reason they will be better-looking is that straps, tho sometimes negligible quantities, are really quite important. Why should they not receive as much attention as the rest of the garment? And they will, if one need make only one pair instead of a pair for each garment.

After you have made a pair for yourself, you will see what a desirable Christmas gift they would make and you will want to know more about how they may be made.

Of finest batiste you might make some. Hemstitch very narrowly two petite hems upon either side of the strap. Or, if you are making them the "quickest way," you might make them of two thicknesses of material and have a row of "professional" hemstitching run thru the center. Straps of this same material lend themselves very daintily to cross-stitch decoration. A few little dainty roses plus plain cross-stitched hems will be all that is required to make them very attractive, indeed.

Another good idea would be to blanket-stitch the edges in flesh-color or pink. Buttonholing makes an equally beautiful finish.

These ideas may be applied to satin-by-the-yard as well as to the finer cotton materials. The satin makes just as practical ones as the batiste. Perhaps they would look better on more varieties of undergarments than the cotton ones. But that choice remains with you. It is a matter of personal taste and you will not go far afield no matter which you choose. It is the idea that is valuable. The homeliest camisole may be made attractive if it has a good-looking pair of shoulder straps.

Another decided advantage in having adjustable straps is that one is not irritated when dressing quickly to discover that a strap has been torn loose and that one has painstakingly to remove the garment, get one's sewing paraphernalia out and begin to sew! You see, they are snapped into place with snap-fasteners. Each garment upon which you are going to use these straps will be provided with two fasteners at each place of fastening. The straps similarly will be provided with two snaps. These are sufficient to secure the straps perfectly.

You might want to use ribbon. If you do, decorate them with very tiny roses made of very narrow ribbon. There might be a single row of them running over the shoulder or you might scatter them carelessly over the strap, allowing them to "glance whither they will." White ribbon may be attractively trimmed with embroidered dots in colors. French knots in pastel shades work up very well also. You might even outline little circles with fine embroidery floss.

When you begin to make them you will discover for yourself that this new member of the undie world lends itself to innumerable modes of attractive development.

Re-Covering an Old Umbrella

WITH the approach of fall school days there is always a scramble for umbrellas, for each tot must be adequately protected against storms and rain. In a search thru old closets mother will often find discarded umbrellas with worn covers, but with frames still in good condition. These old frames are easily re-covered at home, and with little labor, too.

Two yards of material of any width will be sufficient to re-cover an umbrella. A wide choice of material ranges from inexpensive black cotton to the more expensive silks. For a school umbrella a stout piece of cotton material may be purchased for 35c to 50c a yard. Material with a good-looking selvedge must be chosen, as the selvedge finishes the bottom end of the sections which make up the umbrella.

First rip the old cover from the frame. This must be done carefully, as it is to be used for a pattern. One section may be slit down from the top in order to pull the cover off. Select a section which is in good condition for a pattern. Rip the seams, removing this section from the others. Have a large piece of paper and a pencil at hand, and as measurements are taken from this section draw a pattern on the paper. Since the bias sides of the section have been stretched, it is impossible to take a measurement from them, and the measurements must be taken as follows: Measure from the tip of the section down thru the center to a point on the edge of the selvedge exactly in the middle of the base of the triangle. Draw this line on the paper. Measure across the selvedge on the base of the triangle, and draw in this line on the paper. Measure the short line across the tip end of the section and indicate this on the paper also. Draw in the side lines of the triangle by connecting the ends of the top and bottom lines with two other lines, and the pattern is complete. Most umbrellas have seven sections, and they may be cut by laying the pattern on the material with the base of the triangle along the selvedge on both sides of the cloth. In wide materials the tips will almost come together; in narrow ones the sections must be fitted into one another. Sew the sections together, taking a seam the same width as on the old cover. A modified French seam is most often seen. Now slip the cover over the bottom end of the umbrella frame and adjust it below the small circular piece of leather at the base of the tip. With stout thread tighten up each seam until the cover fits tightly around the end piece. Turn in the edge of the cover with a pair of scissors and wrap several threads around to keep it in place. When the cover is fitted tight, buttonhole around the edge with heavy thread. The little leather shield covers this, making a neat finish. Now tack the points where the sections come together to the tips of the ribs on the frame, turning in the edge to make a good finish. This must be done with the umbrella frame closed. Tack the cover on the inside to each rib in one or two places, and the umbrella is complete. If the circular lining at the tip end of the umbrella is worn it must be replaced before the new cover is put on, and if the frame is rusted it may be freshened up with a coat of black enamel.

Some Plain Sewing Hints

IT IS sometimes shorter in the long run to pin a hem before basting. It saves stopping to adjust and measure each time before the stitches are taken.

If you lack a dress form and wish to get the general effect of a dress that you are making, put the dress on a clothes hanger and catch the hanger into the picture molding above an open doorway. The dress can then be turned around and viewed from all sides.

If you are ripping only part of a dress, a placket where snap fasteners have to be removed, as they are ripped off, fasten each one into the snap it belongs to. It is a safe and convenient place to keep the fasteners, and there is no time lost to hunt and match them.

The stiff belting, two or three inches wide, which is nearly always necessary in skirts and dresses today can be economically used if the few inches that are cut off, besides the required waist measure, are all saved. These pieces, three or four inches long, as the case may be, can be used whenever a belt has to be let out, stitched on at the ends of the belt or inserted. When enough of these odd pieces are on hand they can be sewed together, lapping each piece one-half inch. Stitched double on the machine, these pieces will make a very strong, stiff belt that will not require boning.

Will Book Ends Ever End!

HARDLY! For they are such acceptable gifts and there are so many ways of making them attractive. Here is a way you may not have tried before. Buy the ordinary tin book ends at a five-and-ten cent store and then cover with either tapestry or cretonne. Bind the edges with either a colored or bronze braid. Then make two long rectangular pockets, about three-fourths as long as the book ends are high, and apply one to the outside of each book end. Into one put a pair of scissors and in the other place a letter opener. Not only do these pockets add a new touch to hand-decorated book ends, but they also add a new utility to them.

How Do You Carry Your Bathing Suit?

WHEN one lives near where one swims, one simply hangs her dripping suit on the [illegible] stick and allows it to dry thereafter. However, the girl who swims a long distance away from where she is living has the difficulty of carrying her bathing suit. It is all very well going, but it presents more of a problem coming home.

If you know of such a girl you may make her a bag [illegible] suit of [illegible] dark-colored [illegible] ample proportions. Line [illegible] cloth and introduce a [illegible] draw it together.

Apotheosis of the Smock.

The smock is truly the basis of all waist attire; and having this in mind, a certain local smock maker has taken to hand-making all her smocks in a manner so painstaking as to render them truly garments de luxe, were it not for other individualistics which render them still further attractive. These new smocks are of finest materials, in silk, in wool, in crepe, and are shaped so as to bring out the best of the feminine form. Then they are embroidered, in silks, in yarns, in beads—embroidered restrainedly—just enough to give the touch luxurious, without overtrimming. One, for example, in a heavy silk canton crepe of that clear white which seems the especial prerogative of crepe, is embellished with embroidery of white angora wool, interset with crystal beads. The girdle is tipped with white angora balls, and the entire effect is chaste, elegant, almost ethereal in beauty. Another in shades of autumn brown, is embellished with finely embroidered leaves in the tones imparted by Jack Frost. A smock in cluny blue—but I could enumerate for hours and not reach the end of the smock-loveliness, of this especial line!

WHAT OUR COUSULS SAY

A one-horse cultivator made by an American firm has been given to the Juarez Agricultural College by the manufacturers' agency in El Paso. The manager of this agency says that several times each week groups of about fifteen students each call at his place of business, where they are given practical demonstrations in the use of this cultivator and of many other kinds of farm implements. These young men seem to be very earnest and industrious, and it is believed that the plan of this concern is likely to produce sales in the vicinity of the homes of these students after they leave the college.

There is no reason why the United States should not figure more prominently in the trade of Smyrna and its hinterland. Everywhere merchants are anxious to introduce American lines. American-made goods have a first-rate reputation, but are too little known. If they are to find a wide market there, initiative on the part of our merchants in studying the market and adapting their goods to local requirements is highly essential.

American manufacturers who contemplate entering the Italian market should send samples without delay, either to a forwarding agent or to the American Chamber of Commerce in Milan. If notified as to where samples may be inspected, the Consulate at Milan will gladly forward such information to interested parties in its district (Lombardy).

The preliminary forecast of the jute crop for 1919 in Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, and Assam shows an increase of 248,728 acres, or about 10 per cent, over that of 1918. The increase may be attributed largely to the high prices ruling last year and to anticipation on the part of cultivators that good prices will continue to be paid during the present season.

In a recent issue of the Paris edition of the Daily Mail, the following figures are quoted from a report made by the Statistical Bureau of Berne, Switzerland, which represent the increase over prewar prices in certain countries: Italy, 481 per cent.; France, 368 per cent.; Switzerland, 257 per cent.; England, 240, and the United States, 220 per cent.

The American Legation at Stockholm cables that a law has been passed by the government of Sweden, effective September 1, establishing a grain monopoly, placing in the power of the Millers' Association the buying, distribution and the fixing of prices of all kinds of grain and flour.

Cuba at this time presents unusual opportunities for the sale of American jewelry, silverware and kindred lines, according to a report by Trade Commissioner S. W. Rosenthal of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The island is exceptionally prosperous because of the high prices which it has received in the last few years for sugar.

"TAKING ONE'S EASE."

America invented the hotel and is still inordinately proud of it. Europe through the centuries produced, it is true, refreshment for man and beast, and comfortable phrases about taking one's ease in one's inn. But it remained for our country to contrive an establishment where, if we may venture upon an illogical but perhaps understandable expression, one took not only one's own ease but everyone else's; where privacy having been, as far as possible, eliminated, the hotel guest lived in a pleasant, sociable, democratic welter of all the classes of the community.—[Harrison Rhodes in Harper's Magazine.

MEXICANS PLEAD IN VAIN.

Financial, Food and Help Intervention Asked to Save Country and People from Ruin.

BY AGNES C. LAUT.

Mexico is knocking on the doors of hope.

Shall the United States open those doors to her on a new national life; or keep her quarantined behind the bars of diplomatic camouflage in a prison of utter despair?

But are Mexicans, themselves, utterly despairing?

Forget the siren song of diplomats and propagandists who tell you that all is well in a land, where there are five revolutionary bands at large under recognized leaders, where there are as many bandit leaders ravaging, looting, outraging, stealing women and property, kidnaping whom they can for ransom, and working unclean torture that may not be told, as there are hills to hide them.

Only two weeks ago, a band of pillagers swooped on a train in the Tehuantepec country. Passengers were stripped to their skin of clothing. A hundred thousand pesos—$50,000—was looted from the mail and express cars. Among the passengers was a young Spanish girl about to be a bride. The passengers implored the bandits not to take her because she had always been "respectable" and her father had never taken sides with any of the factions but been friendly with all.

"All the worse for him," they laughed brutally, "and as for respectable. Pooh, we'll soon cure her of that," and of all the women on that train, her alone they insisted on carrying off to the hills with them, strapped across a horse with her hands tied to the leader of the raiders.

HER TERRIBLE FATE.

If she resists, she will be murdered. If she tries to escape, the soles of her feet will be shaved so she cannot run over cactus ground. In a few months—if she does not die on their hands—she will be sent down to the nearest settlement to die by inches of a disease that rots the whole face away before death comes as a merciful release; and she is only one of thousands, of hundreds of thousands, who have so suffered during the nine years of revolution and loot.

"Yes, but," demanded a reverend gentleman the only representative of the church I know, who is assuring us all is well south of the Rio Grande, "they were doing the very same things seventy years ago in the days of Madam Calderon de Baca."

And to all such apologists—and there are few—I answer—the day has passed forever in the history of the human race, when the church of the living Christ will stand aside and say "Peace —Peace when there is no Peace," to see women sacrificed on the altars of a Moloch of lust for the sake of a gang of political thieves, who are crucifying a nation to fill their own pockets. That is why Catholics and Protestants, both in Mexico and the United States are forming an international league to demand and to help the cleaning up of conditions in Mexico. That is why labor unions, both in Mexico and the United States, have just formed another international league to demand and to help the cleaning up of conditions in Mexico. The Protestant and Catholic churches in the United States, represent seventy-five million Americans, and they are a unit in the demand. The labor unions represent another five millions; and they are a unit in the demand.

BOMBING OF A TRAIN.

The very week that crime was perpetrated in the Tehuantepec country, a train, not a hundred miles from one of the largest cities in Mexico, was bombed by bandits. I want to give some details of that bombing so you will know exactly what the apologists for things as they are—are standing for. This blow-up took place the third week of July. My informant is a young girl, who was on the train. The two bombs which exploded, cut the express car from the armored car coupled to the Pullman. Every Carranzista soldier was killed—literally blown into bloody fragments. The bandit leaders stood in the door of the Pullman and ordered all women out. An American woman, who was just getting up, had only time to pull on a kimona and had to leave the train without her stockings. At the foot of the steps lay the bloody trunk of a body dismembered by the explosion. Arms, legs, hands and bits of human flesh littered the car steps and the ground. Over the blood-soaked ground the women were jostled. The other bandits were meanwhile stabbing and bayoneting the wounded men to death and shooting up some Boy Scouts, whose wooden rifles with tin points they mistook in the glitter of the sun for firearms. The women in this case were not carried off because they knew several of the bandit officers. The women were huddled in a ranch inclosure, where the bullets whistled over their heads; but they saw men passengers jammed against the adobe walls and shot by pistols pressed to their heads. Nine Boy Scouts were murdered on the spot. Everyone was robbed. There were over three hundred bandits in the band.

ONE BANDIT KILLED.

Only the bandit, who set off the bomb was killed. He did not get away in time to escape the detonation; and, curiously enough, not a wound was found on his body, his death resulting from concussion of air. And now for the damnable treachery of the whole outrage—the American woman, who was on the train, had been warned beforehand by a Carranza officer not to go on the train. There were 80,000 pesos of government money on that train. Some Carranza man had been in collusion with the bandits for a share; but in the confusion the traitor escaped with the entire bag of gold; and so, as far as the bandits were concerned the murderous outrage gained them nothing but some passenger loot.

And there has not been one week since the first of January, 1919, when such train outrages have not been committed. One week I was in Mexico there were three such outrages. I missed one such by being ahead just a day; and I missed three such on another line by being ahead just a week. This was the month trade excursions were going through Mexico from the United States and propagandists were busy sending out reports that all was well, though one excursionist, who tried to photograph a train wreck, had his kodak promptly seized.

CRIMES OCCUR DAILY.

All is not well in a land where these crimes are going on unchecked daily. All is not well in a land where men and women of means are kidnaped every day for ransom.

If you think below the surface of things for a moment, it will strike you as curious that the moment these facts escape suppression and become known some propagandist at once begins to howl at the top of his voice about "foreign interests financing intervention." The next time you hear that howl ask for name, date, time, place, and you will find the charge vaporized into propaganda to conceal crime. Just here I should like to ask what "foreign interests financing intervention" had to do with the train bombed, which resulted in the murder of the Boy Scouts, or of the raid in which the young Mexican girl was carried off in the hot country. Both crimes were committed as far away from any foreign interests as New York is from Montreal.

And so forget the siren song of the diplomats and propagandists. They will only lead you on the rocks, which is exactly why the song is chanted to the tune of "wolf-wolf," while the thief gets away with the swag.

Mexico is knocking on the doors of hope for help.

Shall she get the help? Does she really want help? Is she asking for help?

I shall not answer in my own words. I shall give the exact words of dozens of Mexicans whom I interviewed. Some of them did not know they were being interviewed. All I wanted was the Mexican point of view, independent of foreign interests, independent of Mexican revolutionary plot and counterplot, independent, above all, of Mexican and American politics; and the best commentary I can give on conditions in Mexico is if I gave the names of the Mexicans interviewed, they would be promptly shot.

For instance, a certain Mexican government official was known to be acting as paymaster for propaganda on the border. A Judas Iscariot, who concealed his alibi under the cloth of a certain church which I shall not name; for it was not the church's fault, was caught with "the goods." He was paid $3000 for saying all was well south of the Rio Grande. Unfortunately, he was paid in a tax check sent in by an American corporation to the Carranza paymaster. When the tax check came back to the American people they sent for the gentleman. From that day to this he has never uttered a peep on Mexico. But the Mexican paymaster paying for propaganda on the border was accused of a blunder that was a "leak." He was instantly recalled; and between the border and Mexico City he was assassinated. All details of this crime will be brought out in the Senate investigating committee.

FACTS BLAZONED FORTH.

So I repeat I cannot give names without endangering the lives of patriotic Mexicans, but here are the views of one Mexico City daily, which has been billposted and handed from end to end of the land by secret runners:

"Banditry, Misery and Shame."

"Like a vision of the Apocalypse, Mexico looms up a picture of the abomination of desolation.

"Red flames sweep the countryside, the homesteads and the golden crops; while the half-naked hordes of Dantesque assassins and dismal robers trample down the fields, outraging virgins and plunging their hands in the warm blood of the honest farmers and peaceful burghers.

"In the cities the breath of terror racks the nerves, for there is no security or protection even in the home. The peace and confidence of other days are goneand in a mad dance the human herd swirls around like cattle seeking protection against the danger that threatens in the street, in the home, everywhere, no longer as a vulgar thief of old times, but in the shape of well-organized gangs of malefactors, giving battle, stupendous assaults.

"Escapes of criminals are made in mysterious automobiles, in full daylight or under the shining stars, without the least hindrance or any power to check or punish their crimes.

"THE REVOLUTION."

"The revolution, when it emptied the jails to swell the ranks of its 'fighters,' presented us with the fine gift of all the social rottenness of the land allowing it to spread its slime over all the towns and villages and fields. The wave, by the contagion of example, grew in strength and now its dreadful mass is smothering us beneath the weight of its crimes and infamy; it rises not only out of the chronic and common thiefdom, but from the wicked element in the government, which both in the offices and in the army are dealing the death blow to the uprising which drenched the republic in blood, with only one miserable result—'disasetr.'

"Famine and ruin; well-founded fears for the future of our native land; government anarchy; social disintegration; idiotic strife against capital, which is the source of progress of plenty, of well-being in all civilized countries; criminal apathy on the part of the authorities to repress the misbehavior of officials and the misdeeds of malefactors; the cynicism of public servants who draw salaries and do no work; the scandalous maladministration of the law courts; sordid speculation with even the lowest posts in the government; the bestial lust of high officials, glutted with millions, but still ravenous for the spoliation of the public treasury; such is the picture which places us before the world in the ingominious light of a nation without shame, without dignity and without patriotism; eager only for rapine, murder and pillage, with no remedy but that of a foreign lash to beat us back to a civilized existence and to a proper respect for the rights of others.

"This disgrace, which Mexicans worthy of the name feel deeply, is the mark with which a depraved minority from the lowest dregs has branded us—a minority which like some foul animal has crawled out of hidden dens poisoning and defiling everything it touches.

CRIME OF RULERS.

"Our rulers, delicately fed and with their coffers bursting with the gold which in a prodigal shower falls from the budget, have no concern but their politics and care nothing about the general state of poverty and insecurity. With their mouths glued to the udders of the treasury, blind and dumb to the ruin and clamor of 15,000,000 souls whose only desire is to work and live in peace and security, their only care is to warm like bees around the leaders of the pseudo-parties, seeking to flatter probable candidates for the Presidency.

"Black as this picture may appear, it is nothing but the truth.

"Is more blood and more steel necessary to cleanse the country of this monstrous parasite?

"Time alone can answer this question."

Or take the exact words of a prominent Mexican, who has supported every regime, including the present one, but who, nevertheless, voices his despair: "As a self-governing country Mexico has proved a failure. Of the factions in the field, even if they could overthrow Carranza tomorrow, not one could sustain itself in power. As to the Carranza government, it is upheld only by generals who are Presidential candidates for the next election, and who want Carranza to remain in power until the election can be held, after which the defeated candidate will unquestionably appeal to arms.

THE HUERTA REGIME.

"Mr. Wilson was right to fail to recognize Huerta because Huerta was a traitor and an assassin. He was right in recognizing Carranza in 1915, for of the three or four prominent figure of the time, which included Villa, Zapata and perhaps Pelaez, Carranza was the least bad. But he has done wrong to continue to support a man who took up arms ostensibly to uphold the real constitution of the country and who as soon as he got in, suspended that constitution, and wrote a new one to suit himself. All of the vices of the old regime and none of its good points are being enacted under the present one. Despotism, which in the old times was, generally speaking benevolent and intelligent, is now the reverse of both. In Porfirio Diaz's time, army officers had to behave; those who did not got into trouble. Today they do as they please. Remember that Col. Blank prominent mixed up in the Gray automobile scandals was acquitted by a court-martial when all the world knew him to be guilty of the robbery of the M—— jewels and many other crimes; the same man and another general threatened to beat up an American for refusing to serve the notorious Jack Johnson in his tea room. Was anything done about it? No, he is still on the general staff and the general is a candidate for the Governship of Guanajuato.

"Your Representative Gould is absolutely right when he says the State Governors have been imposed. There is only one State in which the election has taken place, and that is Aguas Calientes. In every other State a Carranzista general is put at the head of the government. Do you suppose that the State of Oaxaca elected Jesus Agustin Castro, a street-car conductor from Torreon, as its Governor; or that Juan Jiminez Mendez, an ex-bootblack from Guanajuato, Castro's successor in Oaxaca, was elected? That Agustin Millan, a policeman from Vera Cruz, was really elected Governor of the State of Mexico? That Candido Aguilar, a peddler of milk, Carranza's son-in-law, was really elected Governor of Vera Cruz? That the election of Castellanos Tapia of Jalisco, under the tutelage of Manuel Dieguez, ex-prisoner from San Juan de Ulua, was anything but a farce?

THE JOKE CONGRESS.

"From the Congress at Queretaro in 1917 to the present one, not one is representative. In 1917 men were carried as Deputies from districts which they had never seen nor heard of. Thus the Deputies from the districts of Villa Alta, Ixtlan and Choapam in Oaxaca could not have been elected, these districts being in revolt. Today credentials of election to Congress are worthless unless the Deputy is known to be a 'revolucionario.' He may have been chosen by a bona-fide vote; if he cannot prove to the satisfaction of Congress that he is an adherent of Carranza or at least one of the Carranza generals, out he goes. The presiding judge of the Supreme Court not long ago declared in public: 'I am a "revolucionario first, and a judge afterwards."'

"Will any capital, after its recent experience here, come into the country under Carranza? Hardly. Will any capital come in under any general or President who may succeed Carranza either by election or through a revolution? Hardly, at least not unless he is recognized and properly sustained by your government. Mexico is today in the position of a bankrupt firm; its own signature is worthless and unless its bond bears the signature of a solvent house, its creit does not exist. Whose signature shall it be? There is only one answer, that of the United States. Nature and destiny have combined to make this inevitable. England, France, Italy, Spain are all too far off, or for other reasons not available as bondsmen, guarantors, or what you will.

NEED OF INTERVENTION.

"What am I driving at? Intervention, plain, simple intervention. Financial, if such a thing can be done, armed intervention only if necessary, but in one form or another, intervention is the only solution.

"You may think I lack patriotism; I do not. I consider that patriotism is that virtue which looks to one's country's greatest good. We have tried self-government and what has been the result? The only peace we ever had was in the Diaz dictatorship. From the achievement of our independence in 1821 to the time of Diaz in 1877, fifty-six years, we were in revolution; from the downfall of Diaz in 1910 till today we have been in revolution. In 1864 when Maximilian attempted to establish a monarchy here 99 per cent. of the Mexicans were in his favor, not because they loved him, but because they hoped he could put the country in order. If your country intervenes tomorrow, and starts a force of 10,000 men south from Juarez, they will number 100,000 before they reach Mexico City, provided they carry enough corn and beans to feed the Mexican contingent which will flock to their standard.

"I am ashamed to admit it, but why blink at facts? We have no guarantees, we Mexicans, less than you foreigners. You have your own governments to fall back on; we have nothing. When Obregon entered Mexico in 1915, he would have laid the city waste except for the threats of the foreign representatives and if our houses were left standing we owe it to foreigners, not to ourselves.

"My own business is ruined; all my cattle were stolen, carried off by Villa and shipped into the United States. I have lost four million pesos, but it is not that which makes me despair; it is because I am a stranger in my own land. We, who do not care to identify ourselves on the one hand with a riff-raff government, such as that of Carranza, or to join the bands of men who blow up trains and rape women, we must sit and endure."

Or take the views of yet another Mexican:

"Let Mr. Wilson do one of two things, either intervene by arms if necessary, but preferably in some other way, which a statesman should be able to find, or else, as a last resort, let him keep his hands off Mexico completely. Let him stop his half-hearted assistance to Carranza, whom he obviously does not trust, for if he did he would come to his help in a whole-hearted, above-board fashion. If Mr. Wilson will do this we will throw ourselves into the struggle, fight, grasp at the chance like drowning men clutching at straws. One of two things: intervention or hands off completely, but, as we are now, we are going headlong into an abyss."

FROM A NEWSPAPER.

Or read the declaration of a leading Mexico City newspaper under date of July 26:

"The United States might intervene by "Naming a group of distinguished Mexicans and assisting them in the formation of a government.

"Withdrawing recognition from the present government.

"Presenting an ultimatum to the government requiring that it shall accept certain demands.

"Acting as arbiter between the contending Mexican factions.

"Before examining the forms of intervention, one by one, we will glance at the present state of our society in relation to intervention.

"The prolonged civil war in which our people have been sunk now more than eight years, the deep division existing between all Mexicans, the lack of hope for a political and social regeneration, the physical and moral bankruptcy of the nation, the total disappearance of the cult of heroes, the lack of an eminently religious spirit, the slight confidence or lack of confidence in public officials, the absence of justice, the almost complete lack of respect for private property, and the lack of vested interests, unfortunately has brought the result that no less than 85 per cent. of the inhabitants of the republic look at intervention with indifference. Ninety per cent. of our educated class, which has come to the conclusion that there is no salvation for Mexico except through foreign influence, would look at intervention, and to say, almost with pleasure.

NEED OF ARBITER.

"The best methods of intervention by the United States would be for it to act as arbiter in settling the various political differences existing in the Mexican Cabinet. From such action there might spring an eminently national government formed by representatives of all the political factions.

"How, then, can we save ourselves from intervention? By sacrificing ourselves on behalf of the country; by sacrificing power, ambition, amour propre; by respecting the laws; by handling public moneys with unquestionable integrity; by sinking all partisan passions and, lastly, by making an appeal to the whole nation to rally round the same flag free from bitterness as to the past and from fears as to the future."

I quote these Mexican views without a word of comment. I quote them only to prove Mexico is crying for help. Mexico is knocking on the door of hope. How that appeal may be answered I shall detail in subsequent articles.

Strategy.

Values Extraordinary in Smart Footwear

A distinctive sport oxford with ultra-modish vamp and wing ball-strip. When worn with the new heavy sport hose this model is decidedly smart. Shown in fine mahogany Russia; also in dull calfskin. An exceptional value at $10.

This smart walking boot of dark tan Russia, with cloth top, will appeal to the most fastidious taste. Its graceful wing tip, welt sole and military heel, stamp it as one of Fashion's favorites. A value extraordinary at $9.

Mahogany Russia street boot—a splendid value. Military heel, welt sole and the fashionable tapering toe. It would be difficult to duplicate this model at even a much higher price than we are asking—$9 the pair.

The three models, illustrated and described above, are typical of the Gude standard of value. Careful inspection of this footwear will convince any woman that the prices quoted are considerably less than are usually asked for this class of merchandise. Because of our intimate knowledge of the shoe market and our exceptional buying facilities, we were enabled to make some very fortunate purchases before the rise in footwear prices. In accordance with the unvarying policy of this house, the saving effected will be shared with our patrons.

The People and Their Troubles

HOW TO TRAIN YOUR WIFE / HUSBAND

By JANE DIXON.

How many wives have plumbed the value of "Please, dear? Please, dear."

Two most effective words in all the vocabulary of domesticity.

So easy to say. So simple in significance. And so beyond measure of price.

JANE DIXON

The difficulty with the whole married equation is so few disciples of Hymen have taken the trouble to discover the plastic phrase.

A bride leaves the marriage altar with the idea of possession firmly implanted in her mind.

She has listened to the words of the sacred service, thereby concluding she is sole owner and operator of one male citizen known in the vernacular of conventional society as "my husband."

Possession implies power to command.

The wife sallies forth from the Little Church Around the Corner, drops her domino of soft, yielding, clinging sweetheart and proceeds to establish marital military headquarters in the home. Incidentally she appoints herself to the high post of commander in chief of any and all operations having to do with family maneuvers.

Having grabbed the position of importance and command, she proceeds to issue orders, manifestos, ukases. She is the little Napoleon of the fireside, the Von Hindenburg of the home tree.

She begins peppering her conversation with "can'ts" and "mustn'ts."

She threatens. She drags out the old reprisals and suspends the sword.

"You can't go to the ball game this afternoon. We need the money for the house."

"You mustn't smoke that horrid smelly old pipe in the living-room. The smoke gets into the curtains. It will ruin them. Don't you know I just paid a lot of money for those curtains? A pipe! Common. Ordinary. Disgusting."

"If you are late for dinner again there will not be any dinner. I'll chuck it away, that's what I'll do. The idea of keeping me waiting a whole half hour. The next time I'll put on my hat and go out. Never mind that old story about being delayed at work. You shouldn't be delayed. You should quit. Consider me in the matter. Don't be so eternally selfish."

WAVING THE RED RAG.

You have heard of the matador who waves a red cloak in the face of a bull which, until that moment, has been quiet, peaceful, attending to his own business.

What happens?

The hitherto peaceable father of the herd begins to snort, to dig his hoofs into the ground, to bellow, to plunge, to throw his head, to strike with his horns.

Another wave of the crimson banner.

Mr. Bull charges. His eyes reflect the color of the cloak of his tormentor. His throat gives out hoarse gutturals of rage. He is mad-hot through and through. There is only one thought in his bull brain, one hope in his bull heart. The answer to that thought and that hope spells certain and unqualified disaster.

Now, by the same token, an equal amount of coaxing, of kindness, of cajolery, would have turned the bull into an entirely different creature.

The chances are, properly approached, he would be lapping sugar out of a friendly palm. He would be mooing and munching and browsing like any sensible bull should.

The fact of the matter is, a fact with which we are very well acquainted, Mr. Bull has a natural grudge against red. He is dead set against the color. He has no use for it. He hates it with a deadly hatred. Any time he sees red he is out to obliterate it from the landscape.

Unless the matador is a good dodger, is agile and accurate, he finds himself under angry hoofs or on the points of cruel horns. Few matadors escape without at least a scar or two of the ring. Most of them have a collection of cuts such as would make a Heidelberg roisterer reel with envy.

Follow the animal instinct and you will get a very good perspective on the human heart.

THE VALUE OF PLEASE.

Man is the inherent master.

A husband is, by right of physical strength and mental stamina, the head of the household. You or I have nothing to say in the matter. Nature attended to the decision for us.

Usurp the husband's prerogative, push him off his throne, and you are just as safe as the matador who plays tag with a red flag and a mad bull.

Play the game in the true womanly way and husband will gladly, even eagerly, share his throne with you. It will be a half-and-half kingdom of home, a dynasty with a double-headed ruler, a domestic barque sent gliding across the sunny seas of matrimony by a set of double oars, an enchanted garden with its season of bursting bud, fragrant blossom, rich rare fruit.

Look about you. Take stock.

The wives who are wearing the most attractive gowns, the prettiest hats, the costliest jewels are the wives who have sensed the power of persuasion. They are the wives who can say, "Please, dear," and put enough honey into the words to move the heart of a bronze statue over a park fountain.

Cajolery?

Gift of the god of love.

Corner-stone in the castle of content.

Guiding star over the hills of home happiness.

Wives, if you would be successful in the business of married life, cultivate cajolery.

Learn to say "Please, dear."

By MARTIN CASEY.

When Jess Willard passed into pugilistic oblivion out in Toledo on the Fourth of July, his defeat at the hands of Jack Dempsey proved conclusively his lack of proper training for the bout. Long before the championship laurels were wrested from the big Kansan the fistic experts reported that he not only disliked to train, but plainly showed it by the indifferent manner in which he went through his daily sprouts.

He spurned the advice of his handlers when they suggested that he do road work to strengthen his legs and improve his wind and otherwise get him into the best possible condition. In short, he let it be known from the beginning of his training period that he was going to do just as he pleased in the matter of preparation for the bout, and he had his own way about it, too.

His trainers pleaded in vain. Then they cajoled. But all to no avail. Coaxing, wheedling and cajolery failed in the desired effect. He just wouldn't respond, and so the championship crown went to his young challenger. It could not have been otherwise.

In striking contrast to the attitude displayed throughout by the dethroned fighter, Dempsey obeyed to the letter the instructions of his handlers. He went through his training with a pep and snap and enthusiasm that made a deep impression on all who visited his camp to watch his workouts. He did as he was told to do; Willard flatly refused to follow any course except that laid down by himself.

The result of the difference in the attitude of the two chamois pushers was shown when they hooked up for the big argument and Willard was lambasted, plastered and otherwise manhandled until he cried "Nuff."

WHEN HUBBY AWAKES.

What has all this got to do with wife-training? Well, for the sake of argument let's compare Jess with the untrained or half-trained wife who is bent on having her own way in utter disregard of what her provider thinks of it. Hubby sallies forth each morn and toils all day, reaping in the dollars which he tosses into Mary Ellen's lap on Saturday night. Bright and early Monday morning she hies herself off to the bargain counters and puts a deep dent in the weekly bankroll. She goes gadding with her women neighbors all afternoon and arrives home just a short time ahead of Hubby and rushes like mad to prepare the evening meal.

Bent on having her own way in everything she sets her heart on, she eventually neglects her wifely and household duties to such an extent that the good ship Matrimony soon goes heading for the rocks and disaster. But Mary Ellen doesn't realize it. Like Willard, who thought that it was not in Dempsey to divorce him from the championship, she believes that she has a lien on Hubby for life. She doesn't look beyond her nose in quest of the real marital happiness that could be hers and Hubby's if only she played the game right. She lives for today, letting the morrow take care of itself.

Lack of proper training unfits her for the big game of life, just as a prize fighter out of condition is unfit for a bout, or a ball player who has been long out of the game is not eligible to play in the world's series.

So if Hubby elects to save the S. S. Matrimony from being wrecked on the shoals of life, it behooves him to get busy at the very start and prescribe a course of training best suited to whip Mary Ellen into top-notch shape. Let him be her self-appointed manager, and by applying whatever method is best suited for her needs he can turn her into a champ wife.

She may have a face that would scare an alligator, but that fact shouldn't deter Hubby from telling her it is the most beautiful face he ever gazed upon. Straightaway she'll hurry into her boudoir and grab a mirror. Then she'll peer into the glass and study her ugly features, all the while wondering if Hubby really meant it. If he is persistent in telling her over and over again how ravishingly beautiful she is—to him—she'll eventually believe him.

PUTTING IT ON THICK.

Maybe she has a shape like a sack of flour, but let him tell her that she has a form divine that makes Venus look like the back of a washboard, and you'll see her trying to take a reef in her corsets to reduce her forty-two waistline a couple of inches. It can't possibly be done, but just the same she's going to try her darndest.

The mere fact that Hubby should see grace in her rolypoly form is sufficient to arouse her womanly instinct, and she'll make frantic efforts to transform her barrel-shape into a sylph-like form by torturing herself with tight lacing. What cares she for pain when she can make herself more attractive to her better half?

Then take the Mary Ellen who is slovenly. She comes to the breakfast table with disheveled hair and wearing a soiled wrapper or kimono. Hubby remarks that her hair has an exceptionally pretty tinge of gold as the sunslight streams upon it, and he takes occasion to say that her wrapper fits her very becomingly.

If Mary Ellen is the kind that will respond to this course of training, observe her the next morning. When she appears at the breakfast table it's a dollar to a doughnut that her hair will be arranged neatly, and instead of the grease-stained wrapper she'll be wearing a pretty morning gown.

Let Hubby speak in praise of her wonderful cooking as she serves the remnants of the heated-over Irish stew they had for dinner the previous evening.

If she doesn't then and there feel a pang of remorse, then she is not human. But it's a safe bet that the next evening she'll be Johnny on the job in the kitchen, preparing a rattling good dinner for Hubby instead of gallivanting about with her neighbors and compelling him to take pot luck when he returns home after a hard day's work.

Yes, boys, flatter 'em, even though it does hurt. They're mostly all alike in that respect, and if other means fail in training them to be championship wives, try cajolery. It's a good safe bet.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Q.: What constitutes eligibility to the Daughters of the American Revolution? L. B.

A.: Members of the D.A.R. must show an ancestor who fought in the Revolutionary War or who was a member of the Continental Congress, or the Congress of any one of the colonies, or who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, or who was an official who actually assisted in the establishment of independence by rendering service during the war and who, in any case, was consistently loyal to the cause of independence.

Q.: What was the amount of Liberty Bonds actually allotted in each of the issues? V. T.

A.: The amount of bonds for which subscriptions were accepted for the five issues were as follows: First issue, $2,000,000,000; second issue, $3,000,000,000; third issue, $3,000,000,000; fourth issue, $6,000,000,000; fifth issue, $4,500,000,000.

Q.: What is the meaning of the word "Nevada?" E. T. C.

A.: Nevada is a Spanish word meaning "snow covered," alluding to mountains.

Q.: What is the meaning of the word "Oregon?" E. P.

A.: Oregon is from the Spanish word "Oregano"—meaning "wild marjoram" which grows abundantly there.

Q.: Who is Gen. Sibert? L. F. I.

A.: Maj.-Gen. William L. Sibert is a veteran engineer officer. He is the man who put the locks in the Ohio River, who built the Gatun Dam at Panama. He was made a major-general by Congress for the latter accomplishment. He went with Gen. Pershing to France in command of the first troops to go over. He returned to the United States and organized the Chemical Warfare Service of which he is still the head.

Q.: What does "give a Roland for an Oliver" mean? N. W.

A.: Roland and Oliver were two of Charlemagne's twelve peers, famed for their skill with arms. They finally met each other and fought for five days. They were so equally matched, however, that no decision was reached. Therefore to give a Roland for an Oliver is to give a blow for a blow.

Q.: Who is the head of the Federal Reserve Board? P. R. C.

A.: W. P. G. Harding is governor of the Federal Reserve Board, which is the agency which directs the reserve bank system of the nation, its most important fiscal agency. Governor Harding was formerly a banker in Birmingham.

Q.: I am informed that the Department of Agriculture has a striking definition of a weed. What is it? S. T.

A.: This definition states that a weed is a "plant out of place."

A Plea for Justice.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—[To the Editor of the Times:] For the past few days there have appeared in the different Los Angeles newspapers, articles, that have heated my 100 per cent. Americanism, to the boiling point. These articles are in regard to the "Ark of the Living God," and the treatment accorded, in our courts of, so called, justice, to the negro preacher, Rev. J. E. Lewis. It is an outrage and disgrace to America. I don't care if he is a colored man and if his scheme is a dream. It is a good scheme and a good dream. He is an American born man, and as such entitled to our protection, against an alien—a Japanese, who are in many cases undesirable, though in regard to this particular Jap I know nothing.

I never saw either of these men, but I am for the American every time, whether he is white or black. The colored men of our country, were called upon to bear arms, and during our punitive expedition into Mexico, were among our best fighters. Their record in our war with Germany, is one of honor and credit. What have the Japs ever done for this country? Why should this poor devil, who is giving his time and life, to what, if completed, would be a noble work, have to back down and lose his life savings, to make way for an alien? This Jap if so influential as he appears to be, can easily obtain another just as desirable location. Perhaps you will say, it is all very well for me, when I have no means to assist this Rev. Lewis, to preach to others, but believe me if I had the means I would gladly back him up. There are plenty of capitalists in Los Angeles, who, if approached by a cute little chickenette, and asked to subscribe for something would go down in their pockets without a murmur. Why don't those men club together and help this man out? They would never miss it. Perhaps that is as close as most of us would ever get to the "Ark of God."

J. S. STUART, (A White Man.)

Drive the Hogs.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There are men hogs and there are women hogs, when it comes to using the street cars, but it is only the latter principally I have in mind, Mr. Editor, in writing to you. By the women hogs I mean the women who insist on crowding the back platforms, making it impossible for people waiting on the street corners to get aboard. Yesterday afternoon after 5 o'clock hundreds missed their cars simply because they were unable to enter them at the rear, and men were to be seen hanging onto hand rails at the risk of their lives while all the time there was unoccupied standing space inside, as well as on the front platforms.

Either conductors should enforce the use of the inside and the forward platform, or the front platforms should be open to ingress from the street. In using the word hog, I do not mean that it should apply to the thousands of courteous and considerate men and women who put this other class to shame—the men who give way to the gentler sex, and the women who are considerate of the rights of others. Today on a car women blocked entrance to the inside apparently regarding with indifference members of their own sex who because of this blocking were unable to mount the steps. Possibly they may not have notice what they were doing. This sort of thing has been going on for a long time, and women though in the majority have not been the only culprits. Drive 'em ahead, Mister Conductor.

The League of Nations.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In these days of industrial disturbance and social unrest, it is gratifying to know that we have one great paper on the Coast that consistently advocates the ratification of the League of Nations as one step toward permanent peace and normal conditions.

Hearst has aspired to the role of dictator of public opinion through his papers, which he will find as elusive as his Presidential aspirations when the acid test of the will of the people is applied. Disappointed in his personal ambition, he sees red on all occasions. Howling Hiram, obsessed with a desire to become President, seems to have forgotten his California constituents in his onslaughts on the League and its advocates.

Another of the blatant kind is Reed of Missouri, whose constituents at first apologized for and then excoriated him. Borah is to be pitied perhaps, since he permitted his conduct to impinge on his conscience he developed a grouch which at present apparently extends to most of humanity.

As for Lodge with all his erudition and "back bay" logic, his vision seldom extends west of the Appalachian Range. He does not seem to realize that Germany is closer to Washington today than California was when admitted to the Union.

Smoot, of Utah, quotes from the book of Mormon and the revelations of the prophet Joseph Smith to prove the League of Nations wrong. As Smith's revelations are of comparatively recent date, we might be inclined to harken to them, were it not for the fact that in their earlier interpretation by Brigham Young they were found to transcend the Declaration of Independence.

Most of the league's opponents when cornered declare it unconstitutional.

It is not unreasonable to expect upon that last great day when Gabriel sounds his trumpet calling the hosts of heaven and earth to assemble, you may see some petty politician standing on a goods box waving his arms in the air and shouting: It is unconstitutional, it is unconstitutional!

The Declaration of Independence would seem to be broad enough to include the League of Nations when we recall that the first sentence in that immortal document is as follows:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

That declaration was an inspiration, and all subsequent laws including the Constitution are simply rules of action in our effort to reach that ideal. The landing of the American forses upon the shores of France in defense of that ideal marks the greatest epoch in the history of humanity since the birth of our Savior in Bethlehem.

When the historian chronicles the events of the present century, the League of Nations will no doubt be recorded as the greatest achievement.

Let us hope that its adoption may not be long delayed.

OLIVER B. STEEN.

The Devil's Undoing.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Critics who have made a microscopical search for injurious effect the League of Nations may bring have entirely overlooked the detrimental effect it will have upon the business of the devil.

For the benefit of those who may not be familiar with the devil and his methods it may be said that his business is to produce and deliver every conceivable variety of human misery in the largest possible quantities. The devil has many emissaries on earth, mostly selfish pikers in his retail department. His wholesale department is conducted through the agencies and instrumentalities of national selfishness and has produced all the wars and destruction that have brought such immeasurable sorrow and misery to mortals as to cause the history of mankind to appear little else than a recital of unspeakable sacrifices of humanity. It is this wholesale business of the devil which the League of Nations will, when ratified without mutilation, effectually curb if not altogether destroy.

The devil has ruled in many places other than Hades and his most constant desire is for the extension of his sovereignty and subjugation of new territory. The Kaiser was but the willing instrument for the expression of Satanic desires. The people did not want the war, but the devil's motto is, "To hell with the people"—and a warm reception upon arrival.

The doctrine of unity for peace, truth, democracy, justice and humanity deprived the devil of his accustomed seat at the head of the peace table. He may have lingered around the lobbies with an occasional "look in," but he was kept out of the deliberations while the League of Nations was builded as a wall to prevent his future activities.

It is small wonder that he has no use for this doctrine, having regarded it as the sentimental vaporings of silly mortals, the innocuous utterances of long-haired idealistic fanatics, destructive to his business and utterly unadaptable to the devilish aspirations and methods of a rude unlimited up-to-date devil, but the ratification of the League of Nations will give this doctrine the power of authority. It will divest the devil of the liberty and power which he has so freely exercised ever since he filled Cain with lust for his brother's blood. It will subject him to the bitter humiliation of restraint, revoke his primordial privileges, limit his hitherto unlimited sphere of influence, prevent him from provoking war, put him out of the wholesale business entirely, bottle him in bond under prohibitive bail for his release, put him in the piker class and reduce his activities to the level of food profiteering, domestic triangles and shimmy dances.

H.O.B.

He'd Like to Know.

REDONDO BEACH, Sept. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] By my halberd, and I was taken off my feet this morning to read your exceptionally bright paragraphic column this proposition:

> Almost daily the high altitude record is being broken, but there is nothing officially known about the sex of the cat that jumped over the moon. That is something the daring aviators ought to solve.

Do not understand that I would appear hypercritical, but in all candor I come seeking information. I know in these days of political gymnasts and labor unions doing trapeze performances under direction of Mr. Gompers who bids the Boston deserters to hurry back to their posts after seeing the rabbit gum didn't work; and I may say the lessons we are getting in hydrokinetics, because of the bone-dry world where some liquids are yet in motion, it would not surprise me to learn that a cat had jumped over the moon! But be it known that I am a careful observer of things that happen, and as no particular cat; no particular time or place; no definite information is conveyed in your six line paragraph, I must know more about it.

It has been related to me that once upon a time a cat got in the fiddle, (but just what fiddle I never learned) and the cow jumped over the moon. And as to whose cow it was; where the event transpired; whether the cow had a union card or worked over-time or was "walking out" at the particular time of the jump remains unanswered and of but minor importance—except, it would be interesting to know whether the international cow jumping union paid the particular cow in question a weekly benefit—or whether she jumped just so, on her own initiative and lighted on her own legs—standing thereon ever after!

It may be that The Times has reference to some cat of which I have never heard—but believeing that the cat in the fiddle is the one The Times has tried to boost over the moon—I make a solemn inquiry—assuring The Times that anything it says in its defense will not be used against it, if this case gets any further!

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

The estate of John W. Sterling, member of the law firm of Shearman and Sterling, of New York, who died July 5, 1918, was appraised at $20,236,199. Yale University receives about $18,000,000 of this sum, to erect a memorial building and to establish fellowships, professorships, scholarships and prizes. The Miriam Osborn Memorial Home Association, established to conduct a home for gentlewomen, receives about $1,500,000.

Mr. Sterling left $50,000 to the Congregational Church in his home town, Stratford, Conn., to erect a building for the benefit of his fellow townsmen, and $10,000 and $7,500 are left respectively to the Bridgeport, Conn., Hospital, and the Presbyterian Hospital in this city. The only other public bequest is $10,000 to the Russell Trust Association of Yale, "in remembrance of the benefits in my professional life from the discipline and experience gained there," the income of which is to be used to pay the expenses of members in the senior class of Yale.

To enable the foreign-born women of Lowell, Mass., to buy better, to make their own and their children's garments and to cook more hygienically, the International Institute has spent a busy year. Eight hundred women of many different nationalities are reached each month, and among the work of teaching English is carried on to a large extent, while no night passes but a group is busily engaged in learning the intricacies of an American fashion plate or recipe.

Several groups, many formed in the homes, are taught the simpler sewing work and cookery, and some of the more advanced come to the rooms during the afternoons and evenings of each week. The simpler forms of the English language, which are a part of the instruction, enable the women to go into the stores and buy better and to the satisfaction of their own men folk as well as the merchant. A dancing class is an attraction for the younger girls of the different communities, who learn the American waltz, the one-step and other modern dances.

Mrs. Cornelia P. Dunaway, 3867 Holmes street, Kansas City, has given her former home in Stockton, Kas., over to that city to be used as a hospital to the memory of her daughter, the late Elizabeth Dunaway. The institution will be known as the Elizabeth Dunaway Memorial Hospital.

A number of substantial bequests to public institutions totaling $1,000,000, and made contingent upon the death of his wife, are contained in the will of Arthur Frederic Estabrook, banker, who died July 27. Many of the gifts range from $25,000 to $100,000, and several trusts are created by the instrument.

Mr. Estabrook directs that his wife, Ida Florence Estabrook, shall enjoy the income of nearly all of his estate. She and Theodore A. Estabrook of West Newton, a brother of the testator, are the only heirs at law. A fund of $150,000 for the benefit of the latter for life is created and upon his death, his wife, Elizabeth B. Estabrook, will receive the income. The will directs that upon the death of his wife the following bequests shall take effect: $100,000 each to Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital, American Unitarian Association, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Brewster Free Academy of Wolfboro, N. H., and Clark University of Worcester. Fifty thousand dollars each to New England Conservatory of Music, Massachusetts Horticultural Society and Arlington Street Church. Rufus Putnam Memorial Association of Rutland and the Young Men's Christian Union are each to receive $25,000. Bequests of $10,000 each are made to the Children's Hospital, Boston Floating Hospital, Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, Home for Aged Couples and a number of other philanthropic institutions.

EDUCATIONAL.

A school to teach the arts, sciences and agriculture is planned for Iquitos by the Peruvian government.

Special evening courses in French, dental hygiene and legal practice have just been announced by the Department of Extension Teaching of Columbia University.

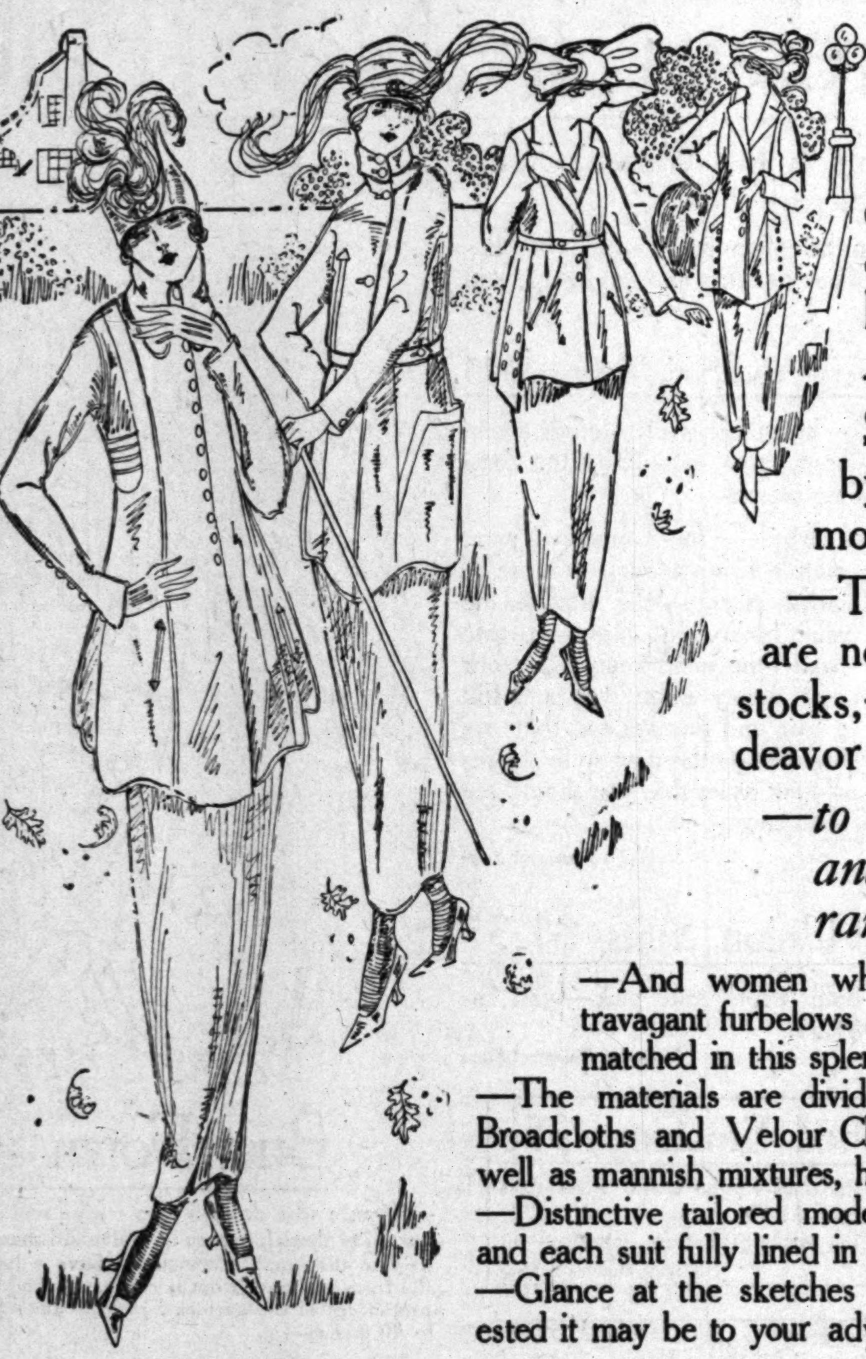
Edinburgh University will establish professorship of zoology, forestry and mental diseases.

Work on the Harkness group of dormitories at Yale, suspended six months ago because of labor complications, has been resumed. It had been expected the dormitories would be ready for occupancy this fall, but now it is a question whether they will be finished by next year. When finished the dormitories will have cost the estate of Stephen V. Harkness of Cleveland about $6,000,000 and will accommodate more than 600 students.

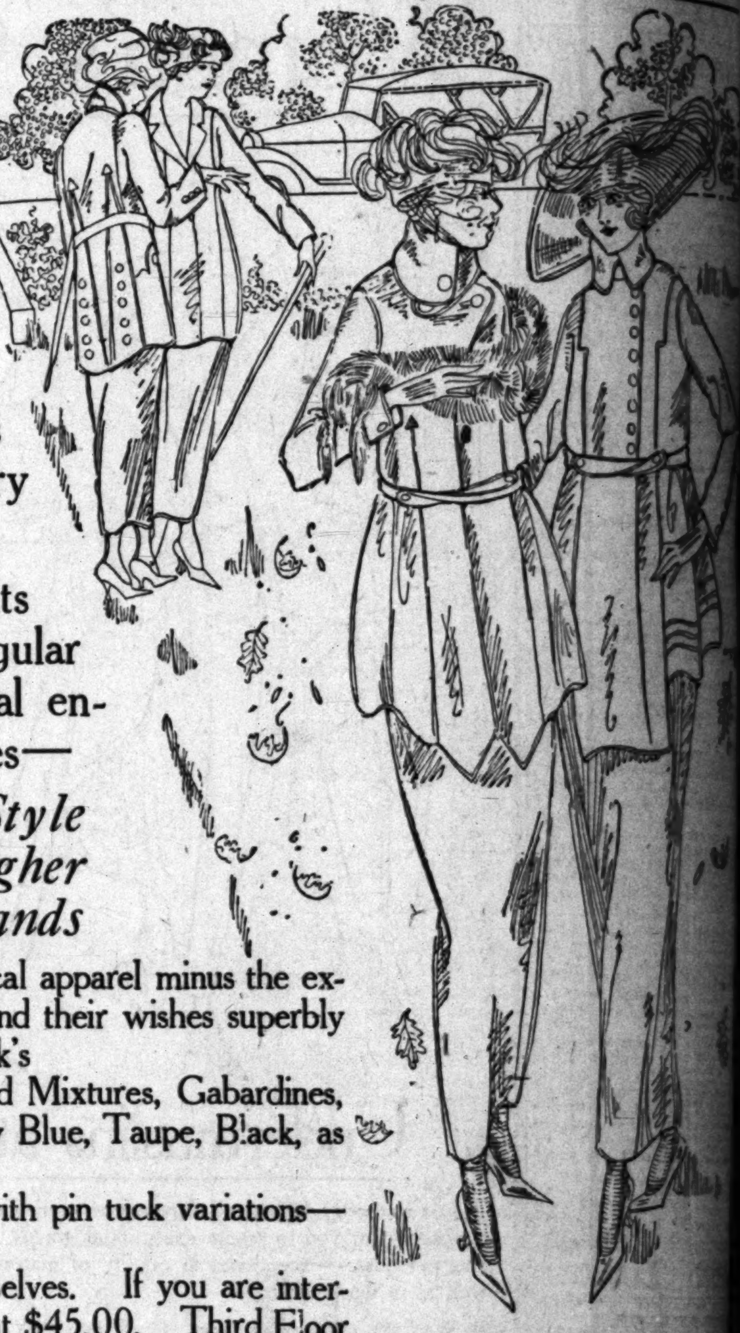
The first of the four great vocational training schools to be established by the Motor Transport Corps was opened at Camp Holabird, Baltimore, Md., September 2. Brig.-Gen. C. B. Drake, chief of the corps, military men, members of Congress and educators motored to the camp from Washington to attend the exercises. The opening of the school is regarded as an event of first importance because of the several features new to army schools and original in vocational training which differentiates this from all other schools in or out of the army. In the use of civilian instructors and and the giving of the entire time of the enlisted students to school work alone, it marks a new attitude toward education and training upon the part of the army.

A grandmother graduate of the Chicago public schools received her eighth grade diploma while her only son and his 2-year-old baby sat in the audience and witnessed the ceremony. The grandmother was one of fourteen grown men and women who received their credentials from the schools. The class roll was made up of three Americans, one Italian, one Bohemian, one Lithuanian, two Koreans, two Hebrews, three Greeks and one Chinese, and the course of study was only open to these would-be masters of American institutions by earning the wherewithal of life by night that they might feed the mind by day. The majority of the graduates have already signified their desire to continue their school work.—[Americanization.

THESE NEW AUTUMN SUITS



at $45.00



designate a step in the direction of practical economy along the lines of Vogue

—And they designate also the Sincerity and Ability of Bullock's by being Suits of Quality at a very moderate price.

—These particular new Autumn Suits are not what one might expect in regular stocks,—they are the result of a special endeavor to provide impressive suit values—

—to provide Suits that in both Style and Character attain a higher rank than $45 usually commands

—And women whose desires incline towards smart, practical apparel minus the extravagant furbelows and whims of Fashion Novelties, may find their wishes superbly matched in this splendid group of new Autumn Suits at Bullock's

—The materials are divided among Tricotines, Silvertones, Oxford Mixtures, Gabardines, Broadcloths and Velour Checks, in colors of Navy, Brown, Dragonfly Blue, Taupe, Black, as well as mannish mixtures, hairline stripes and the like —Distinctive tailored models—straight line and ripple hip effects, with pin tuck variations—and each suit fully lined in plain or fancy silks

—Glance at the sketches that have been drawn from the suits themselves. If you are interested it may be to your advantage Monday to inspect these fine suits at $45.00. Third Floor

New Bullock Gloves

—voicing the glove vogue for the early Fall season—

—Gloves with personality—charming to a point of delicate distinction for Milady's hand—designed with strict deference to harmony with the season's dress departures—

—Soft shades for dress occasions—dark tones for street wear

—"Don't merely wear Gloves, wear Bullock Gloves."

—At Bullock's—First Floor.

Furs!

—Furs add that complimentary finesse to the feminine toilette.

—They are so amenable to the raison d'etre of adornment

—so rich and eloquent in the pretty distinction they impart to the discriminative eye

—One associates them carefully with a sense of Beauty and Character —And Milady wears them with the assurance of being superbly groomed.

—Yet Furs, in spite of the sentiment they convey, are ofttimes the object of bitter disappointment because of some fault or flaw or failing that later comes out to mar their Character.

—Furs themselves are not so much at fault as the integrity and skill responsible for their commercial readiness.

—Every one of the fine furs that make up this Bullock Fur Collection is segregated and accepted on its Genuine Quality Merits——And the Sincerity of Bullock's is the Deed of Confidence that accompanies all Bullock Fur transactions.

—No bitter disappointments are theirs.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS—
WARTS AND MOLES.
Pulling a few stiff hairs from the face may start a serious growth. Let me demonstrate free of charge how pulling, cutting, using wax depilatories and the so-called hair removers promote growth of hair on the face. My electric machine is the only known method of killing superfluous hair, fuzz, warts and moles, without destroying the surrounding tissue. This machine destroys 360 hairs an hour. I have had 19 years' experience and devote all my time to the work. A binding guarantee that any hairs or moles I treat will never return. Many L. A. satisfied customers will testify to my skill as an expert.
MRS. F. A. SCOTT,
Suite 407 Bumiller Bldg.,
430 S. Broadway.

SUPERFLOUOUS HAIR—
HUMILIATING AND UNSIGHTLY.
There is only one method known today of permanently removing superfluous hair, and that is Electrolysis (electric needle.) This process in the hands of a reliable and expert operator insures absolute satisfaction. I stand back of my work and guarantee any hair treated by me will be permanently destroyed, leaving no scars.

28 YEARS' INVENTIVE GENIUS HAS MADE HER METHOD PERFECT. SHE HAS NO PUPILS OR UNDERSTUDIES IN SAN FRANCISCO.
There positively is no cutting, blood-letting. There being no open surface, no chance for infection or sluffing. No hypodermic injection of cocaine, morphine or fillings of paraffine. In all my practice I have never given internally or by hypodermic needle an opiate to allay pain.
I DO NOT NEED IT.
THIS IS FOR THOSE WHO HAVE A WRINKLED FACE, NECK, PUFFY EYES, WHO WISH THE MOST SKILLFUL SERVICES OBTAINABLE IN AMERICA AND THOSE WHO KNOW THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST. IN 20 YEARS YOU STILL LOOK 20 YEARS YOUNGER; YOU NEVER LOSE THE BENEFIT. COME AND SEE THE ACTUAL PROOF.
Come and see how I lift the face without surgery. Come and let me show you on living faces how I remove the most stubborn puffs, wrinkles or hollow around the eyes WITHOUT HYPODERMIC INJECTION OR SURGERY.
No breaking up of lines with needle or knife. In fact, no dangerous methods of any kind are used. Make no scars.

Musical and Dramatic.

THE ART OF SINGING.
Save this advertisement.
Voice culture is an asset that cannot be overestimated from a health standpoint alone. The deep breathing required makes red blood, quiets the nerves, and gives correct poise to the body. It requires only little intelligent study, time and money to equip you to take your place as a singing artist. By learning to use your breath correctly you will be greatly gratified as the interest your audience will take in your singing. Your voice will be heard farther, the tones will be sweeter, and you will not fatigue, but will enjoy the singing as much as your friends. It is our object to master all of the elements that are necessary for a singing artist to know, including diction, phrasing and interpretation and leadership. Only the best music is used. When a song is learned that could not be used on a dignified concert. I am especially interested in young people's voices, and give a special rate to high school students or public school teachers. Voice tried free of charge, and will tell you frankly if it is worth your time and money to study.
We have monthly recitals for the benefit of the students; also a sight singing class, to which students are admitted free. Daily lessons may be secured at reasonable tuition. Where home practice is inconvenient come and talk it over. You will not regret it, and it may mean much to you.

Professions and Languages.

HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT OF THE POSSIbilities and advantages you might have if you could only speak Spanish? Think of the big concerns in America soliciting Spanish correspondents and traveling agents; think of the United States positions in postoffices, courts and diplomatic missions, and think that fifty lessons and a very small amount of money and time will open wide the gates to Mexico, Central and South America, Cuba, Porto Rico and Philippines, the coming countries.

Don't you think you ought to consult with me on a matter that might change the course of your life as it has done for thousands of my pupils during the nineteen years I have taught Spanish in Southern California? 22 of my pupils are teaching Spanish in public schools. For Sale, Exchange, etc.

FOR SALE—
YES, IT IS A FACT
That many people in this city are daily coming to the realization that you can't believe everything you read, and especially is this true in regard to the used pianos offered in these columns; why some dealers continue to advertise used instruments at ridiculous prices and terms which they haven't got or won't sell, beats the dutch. If you should experience the above, we advise you to call at that old reliable music store opposite the City Hall where they actually advertise what they have and sell what they advertise.

—SAXON SIX—

We offer the following exceptional bargains in good, dependable used cars. They are all standard makes and have all been put in A1 shape throughout. They have all been priced so as to move them all, at their respective prices, a real bona fide bargain and are in such condition that you can go where you want and be sure that they will bring you home. We know that it will pay you to see these cars before buying and can arrange the very best of terms on any of them.

1919 SAXON, the very same model that we are now selling new and can hardly be told from new, either in running or appearance. For economy, flexibility and ease of operation you can't beat a Saxon.

1917 OVERLAND TOURING. One of the best models ever built by the Overland company, and has been put in such good shape that any one would be proud to own it.

1917 MITCHELL SIX TOURING. This is one of the high priced models and is as good a family car as any one could want. It looks and runs as nearly like new as possible, and at our price is a big saving over the new car.

1917 MAXWELL TOURING. If you are looking for a light economical car we know that this will appeal to you. Priced right and condition is the best.

BUICK TOURING. This is one of those powerful four-cylinder Buicks that are so popular. If you want a car that will give you lots of service at a small upkeep be sure to see this

DEALS IN LATE MODEL, PERFECTLY CONDITIONED CARS EXCLUSIVELY

Maintaining the "FINEST AND CLEANEST SHOPS IN LOS ANGELES" we stand back of our cars just as we do our workmanship.

Good cars are scarce. It has taken much patience and hard work to secure these splendid cars at low prices. Avoid delay and see them before they go. CALL SUNDAY.

1919 ESSEX TOURING
Run 4000 miles, it is in every way just like new.

1919 HUDSON LANDAU
Convertible coupe type and tremendously popular. Run very little and without mar or blemish. In a few weeks it will command a much higher price than is now asked.

PRACTICALLY BRAND NEW KISSEL SEDAN $900 underpriced, this car is one of the most remarkable values we have ever seen. Wonderfully upholstered and colored in tones of blue. Run but a few hundred miles. Has additional top, 6 practically unused cord tires and 6 wire wheels. One of the most beautiful and striking cars in the city.

1918 DODGE SEDAN
Used very little. Bought less than a year ago. Just as bright and perfect as new. 5 nearly new cord tires; much underpriced.

1919 OVERLAND TOURING MODEL 90.
It's almost brand new and a remarkably good buy in a light car.

1917 STUTZ 4-PASSENGER
Entirely overhauled in our shops. It is absolutely perfect or we would not offer it. It is a real buy.

(To protect ourselves against the unscrupulous seller with a misrepresented "bargain" we will positively NOT quote prices over the 'phone. You may be assured, however, that they are extremely moderate for the quality offered. If it is inconvenient to call we will gladly send the car out.)

NOTICE!

Owing to the extreme shortage of NEW automobiles and because of which we are NOT receiving used cars in exchange and because of the fact that we desire to take care of our many used car patrons, we shall for the next FEW months purchase used cars that are in good condition and of late model.

We shall continue our policy of offering
ONLY FIRST CLASS USED CARS

WE SHALL OFFER

A large selection for your approval. Our prices will continue to be NORMAL despite the shortage. Our profits shall be small that we may not be classed as PROFITEERS. With our buying ability, we expect to make purchases so that we shall be in a position to offer you automobiles at prices LESS than you can secure elsewhere. By not asking you EXHORBITANT figures today, we shall make friends for tomorrow. If you have a used car that is in excellent condition, we will purchase it from you. If it is not first class, DON'T CALL ON US.

IF YOU NEED AN AUTOMOBILE, BE CERTAIN TO LOOK OUR STOCK OVER.

GOOD CARS
Dealing in good used cars has enabled the Leach Biltwell Company in less than two years to build up a business aggregating one million dollars a year in used cars. From one store to three stores: from two salesmen to eight salesmen. This is a result of square dealing and well selected cars. We have the largest stock of Cadillacs, Hudsons, Stutz and Buicks, as well as other standard makes, carried in this city. You will profit by looking over their stock before buying.

When looking for parts for your automobile write, wire or phone us and we will immediately supply your wants.
We do not claim to be the largest wreckers in Los Angeles, but since Nov. 1st, 1918, when this place was taken over from G. L. Huyett, we have wrecked, in addition to stock on hand (an accumulation of four years), 120 automobiles of different models and makes; and when we say
WE HAVE IT—CAN GET IT—OR IT CAN'T BE HAD,
we are absolutely trying to get the parts for you if there is a chance.
When you deal with us once we will assure you that you will trade with us again.
We have a special mail order department and can fill your orders promptly.
Highest prices paid for old cars wrecked, burned or in running order.

I.W.W. MAKES DASH FOR FREEDOM; WINS.

TWO PRISONERS TAKE FRENCH LEAVE FROM HOSPITAL; ONE RECAPTURED.

John Coleman, alias Fred Barnes, fugitive from Salem, Or., gained his freedom late yesterday afternoon when by a prearranged plan three men, being taken from the City Jail to the Receiving Hospital for treatment, made a break for liberty while in the custody of Assistant Jailer Hathaway.

But one of the three, however, is now at liberty, as one of them failed to run and another was overtaken at Third and Hill streets. Coleman was last seen running east on Second street.

According to Officer Hathaway's report to Chief Home, Coleman, who is accused of grand larceny, E. P. McBride, a sailor charged with being absent without leave, and Sam Springer, serving a sentence for disturbing the peace, requested that they be taken to the Receiving Hospital.

When the three arrived there, Dr. Dieterle was busy with other patients. When one of the nurses opened the sliding door to the ward where the men were sitting, Coleman yelled, "Let's go" and, accompanied by McBride, made a rush for the door. Jailer Hathaway grabbed Springer by the collar, slipped handcuffs on his wrists and took after the fleeing men, who were running south on Hill street. Seeing they had several hundred feet start on him, Mr. Hathaway jumped to the running board of a passing automobile and told the driver to "step on the gas." At Second street the men were seen to separate. Mr. Hathaway continued after McBride and at Third street leaped from the car and overpowered the sailor, who attempted to put up a fight.

Detective Sergeants Beaumont and Roberts arrested Coleman last Thursday afternoon at Fifth and Main streets, while the fugitive was with Roy Webb, also wanted in Oregon. The men were driving a car listed as stolen. Information from the northern city is that Coleman is a dangerous character, belonging to Tacoma Lodge No. 300 of the I.W.W. organization. He was an active participant in the recent Seattle strike, it is reported.

His rescription was yesterday flashed to all outside police stations, the Sheriff's office and outlying cites. He is 19 years old, 5 feet, 9 inches tall, weighs 176 pounds and when last seen wore a dark suit and Fedora hat.

ASSAULTS WIFE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HOLTVILLE, Sept. 20.—A warrant was issued yesterday for Ernest Giacopazzi of Meloland, on the charge of assault committed on Mrs. Giacopazzi. The complaint alleges that Giacopazzi threw a dish at his wife and painfully cut her in the head. The couple have been married seventeen years, have seven children and have been prosperous dairy owners.

ARRESTS FOR ROBBERY.

Rocco Joseph Peppa, 26 years of age, 810 Elm street, was arrested with W. H. Irwin, C. F. Taylor and George Riley late yesterday afternoon and charged with suspicion of robbery. The four men, the police charge, held up and robbed Steve Kresich, owner of a lunch counter at 417 Ord street. The prisoners state, however, that they merely forced Kresich to return change for a $5 bill given him in payment for a meal. Complaints against the prisoners will be asked for today.

AGED MINISTER GOES TO REST.

Chaplain of Bishop Passes Away Suddenly.

Had Done Much to Upbuild Episcopal Diocese.

Noted for His Physical and Mental Activity.

Rev. Henderson Judd, for the past twenty years chaplain to the Episcopal bishop of Los Angeles, died yesterday at La Jolla at the age of 93 years. He had been active up to the time of his death, which was sudden and unexpected. He had gone to La Jolla for a brief vacation. Funeral services will be conducted at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral at 3 o'clock next Wednesday, and Bishop Johnson, Dr. Judd's intimate friend and associate, it is planned, will officiate. Burial will be at Hollywood Cemetery.

Dr. Judd came to Los Angeles twenty-seven years ago. He was educated at Oberlin College, Ohio, where he received the degree of bachelor of arts in 1852 and master of arts in 1855. He was ordained a deacon in the Episcopal Church in 1867 and a priest in 1868 by Bishop McIlvain, and after distinguished service in the East came to Los Angeles in 1892. Here he became one of the most active and prominent factors in the development of the Episcopal church.

As the result of his service as chaplain to Bishop Johnson, Dr. Judd had an exceptionally wide acquaintance throughout the diocese, but he was especially beloved by the parishioners of the Church of the Epiphany, at Altura and Sichel streets, where he served for sixteen months as rector, after which he was made permanent associate rector as a tribute to his services. He presented to the new church building, in memory of his wife, who died three years ago, a magnificent pipe organ, and Mrs. Judd had also given the church a rose window. In addition to his general diocesan duties, Dr. Judd was also representative here of the Episcopal mission in the Holy Land.

As showing his unimpaired mental and physical strength despite his years, after he had passed the 90-year mark, Dr. Judd purchased a car and had driven it 10,000 miles on his diocesan duties up to the time he went on his vacation. Dr. Judd leaves no children. An adopted daughter, who is married, lives near Boston.

DR. J. A. FRANCIS IS HOME FROM THE EAST.

PASTOR FINDS TRUSTEES OF FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH AGAINST MERGER.

Dr. James Allen Francis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, returned yesterday from a vacation spent in the East, during which he preached at his former charge, the Clarendon-street Baptist Church in Boston, and spent several weeks motoring through New England. Dr. Francis will occupy his pulpit today and regularly until November, when he will make a brief trip East to attend the Baptist world convention at Pittsburgh, where he has been invited to make an address.

The discussions over a proposal to unite the First Baptist Church and Temple Baptist Church having been closed, Dr. Francis returns to find the board the trustees of the First church, with whom Dr. Francis dined last evening, united in their determination to go forward in making the First church "a greater power than ever for good in the community." The trustees of the First church stated the original suggestion for a merger having come from the Temple church, the latter is, of course, perfectly. A vote withdraw the suggestion. A vote of the members of the Birst Baptist Church on the proposed merger, which was to have been called for next Wednesday, will therefore not be taken.

TWO P. E. STRIKERS HELD AS HOLD-UP MEN.

Don M. Johnson and J. M. Sowers, formerly Pacific Electric conductors on the Los Angeles-San Bernardino division, and now both on strike, last night, went into the hold-up business, with the result that after their second attempt of the evening they were arrested and locked up in the City Jail, charged with robbery. They confessed to the police.

The hold-up men first tackled Albert K. Ozaki in his general store at 404 East First street, Jensen holding the revolver. But the Jap was plucky and caused so much excitement that the ex-conductors fled. They next entered the store of T. Hiraiwa at 328 East First street, where Sowers cleaned out the money drawer for $44.85, while Jense held the revolver. In the meantime Ozaki had notified Patrolman Frank Conkey, who started in pursuit and landed Jensen and his revolver. Detectives went to Sower's room at Third and San Pedro streets and brought him to the station.

CITY MANAGER.

City of Anaheim Decides Upon Form of Government.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ANAHEIM, Sept. 20.—An experiment, definitely determined upon and about to be put into effect, is the establishment of the city manager form of government in Anaheim, a city of the sixth class. The Trustees are agreed upon the move and have passed ordinances providing for the innovation. City Engineer O. E. Steward, it is reliably reported, will fill the position of City Manager and also will be made the city's purchasing agent. It is hoped that increased efficiency and economy in the management of city affairs will result. No great change in the personnel or organization of city departments has been announced.

AIRPLANES FOR D'ANNUNZIO

Allied Warships Have Guns Trained on Fiume and are Waiting Orders.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, Sept. 20.—Premier Nitti and Foreign Minister Tittoni have disagreed over the Fiume incident, the latter disapproving of the Premier's attitude, according to the newspapers.

A dispatch from Trieste says a fleet of airplanes has landed near Fiume and has been placed at the disposition of Capt. Gabriele d'Annunzio.

A brigade of Lombardy troops which arrived at Fiume and volunteered to join D'Annunzio's forces was sent back to its garrison, says a dispatch to the Messaggero.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Capt. Gabriele d'Annunzio may be given twenty-four hours to move his forces out of Fiume, upon which city a squadron of Allied warships have turned their guns, according to advices received here by way of Berlin, Laibach, Vienna. It is indicated that this ultimatum will come from the Allied powers, representatives of which are reported to have conferred at Abbazia, about two miles northwest of Fiume, to which place they retired when Capt. D'Annunzio entered the latter city.

In peace conference circles it is intimated the settlement of the question of the disposition of Fiume has been complicated by the D'Annunzio coup, but Italian delegates insist a decision is being delayed because of the fact that President Wilson has not answered definite proposals made by Italy's representatives here. Americans assert the Italians are constantly changing the details of their offer and that for this reason an answer has so far been impossible.

Advices from Rome say that the Duke of Aosta, a close friend of Capt. D'Annunzio, has conferred with King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Nitti and it is suggested he may act as mediator in an effort to bring about an abandonment of Fiume by the D'Annunzio forces.

Fiume is closely guarded by land and sea, but there are stores in the city sufficient to maintain the people and troops for three months. Capt. D'Annunzio is reported to have with him many members of his famous aerial squadron which fought on the Austrian front during the war. The Italian government, however, has ordered the magnetos of airplanes at all aviation camps removed so that no more machines may go to Fiume.

NATION AIDS TEXAS VICTIMS

Relief Fund to Rehabilitate Corpus Christi will Reach Five Millions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CORPUS CHRISTI (Tex.) Sept. 20.—Actual funds or assurance of financial support for rehabitation of storm-swept Corpus Christi are coming in from every part of the country, with officials estimating that the total, at the present rate, might reach $5,000,000.

Roy Miller, chairman of the Citizens' Relief Committee, said the country-wide response to the appeal for aid had exceeded expectations but cautioned against any impression that the need for funds had been entirely met.

"With the drouth of the two years previous to 1918 many merchants and residents suffered great reverses from which they had not recovered, even with the banner crops of 1918," Mr. Miller said, "and a large percentage of the crop this year was destroyed by the storm as it had not all been picked."

With the known dead near the 400 mark and steadily increasing, residents of Corpus Christi and other near-by Texas coast towns today resumed their search for the bodies of additional persons who lost their lives through last Sunday's hurricane and tidal wave.

The number of known dead early today was 386, but many persons were of the opinion that it would be double that number when all of the shore line and wreckage had been thoroughly searched.

Romance and dramatic thrills, rivalling tales of the cinemas, are found in the experiences of many of last Sunday's storm survivors only now being recounted as communication is restored with points where they were rescued.

There is romance and pathos, too, in the passing of some of the storm victims, as in the case of the death of Captain and Mrs. B. M. Egeland, not far from the army rest camp site, where Capt. Egeland was in command.

With two soldiers, Capt. Egeland and his wife had started wading through the rapidly-rising water, Mrs. Egeland wearing the only life-belt available, according to accounts given by persons declared to have been near.

Capt. Egeland, when the water got beyond their depth, was so fatigued he was unable to keep afloat, and seeing his plight, his wife threw away her life preserver, placed her arms about him and together they were swept out into the bay.

Both bodies have been recovered, and two officers left today for Sinton, Tex., to disinter that of Mrs. Egeland, which will be sent to her home in Webster, South Dakota.

Military regulations regarding movement about the streets at night were enforced rigidly last night.

The censorship placed by Col Cope on telegraphic dispatches sent out over Western Union telegraph wires was complete.

No effort was made to censor the dispatches of the Associated Press, which are handled in the only leased wire operating into Corpus Christi and which has been in operation since Monday night.

Fears that the water supply of Corpus Christi might be impaired were expressed tonight when it was reported a rise of from ten to twenty feet was coming down the Nueces River, from which the water supply is obtained about twelve miles from here.

PETROGRAD DESIRES PEACE

City Soviet Empowers Commissaries to Begin Negotiations with Allies.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

COPENHAGEN (via London) Sept. 20.—The city soviet of Petrograd has empowered the people's commissaries to begin peace negotiations with the Allies on the basis of conditions fixed by the Allied Powers, according to reports received here from Petrograd.

Peace is wished at any price by the Petrograd soviet, the reports declare.

PARIS, Friday, Sept. 19.—The Lithuanian delegation here has issued a formal denial that its government had agreed to discuss peace with the Russian soviet.

OMSK, Thursday, Sept. 11.—Gen. Sakharoff's army continues its successes in the direction of Kurgan, having captured in the present offensive five complete staffs, 2000 prisoners and a large amount of booty.

The Second Siberian army under command of Gen. Lokvitsky is forcing its way past the flank and in the rear of the Bolshevik forces on the Ishim-Tiumen Railway. On this sector hard fighting is reported, with minor gains along the front.

PUSH BACK BOLSHEVIKI.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 19.—A War Office communique issued tonight records a successful anti-Bolshevik operation by British, Serbian and Russian troops, with the capture of two villages on the northwest shore of Lake Onega.

No dates are given as to when these incidents took place, but they are regarded in some quarters here as indicating a movement toward Petrograd, possibly confirming the recent suggestion that it is the intention to evacuate Archangel by that route.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Swedish press reports from Petrograd today say deaths at Petrograd from cholera and dysentery have risen to 200 to 300 a day. Sanitary conditions are reported intolerable and many of the hospitals have closed because of scarcity of food and medicine.

Bolshevik robbers for the third time within a short period have sacked the Russian State Bank, taking more than 2,000,000 rubles in cash and many valuables.

INDUSTRIAL FAMILY HOLDS BIG PICNIC.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DAYTON, Sept. 20.—Labor and the management of a great industrial enterprise joined here today in one of the greatest outings ever enjoyed by an industrial family when 25,000 employees and their families, were the guests of the National Cash Register Company at a picnic in Hills and Dales Park, south of the city. John H. Patterson, president of the company, 74 years of age, refused to ride in an automobile and headed the parade in its two miles march to the park, which was a gift by him to the city.

Seventeen buildings and tents had been erected for the event and there was an all-day and evening programme of contests, races, flying circus, a polo match and side shows. The outing was arranged as a greeting to President Patterson, who has just returned from a six weeks' trip in Europe. The entire affair was placed in the hands of the employees, the company paying the bills.

There were 50,000 meals served, which required 8000 pounds of beef, 2000 loaves of bread, 1000 gallons of lemonade, 1400 gallons of ice cream and 1200 pounds of butter. The commissary required three 1000 gallon tanks, two 800 gallon vats, fourteen steam kettles with capacity of 2500 gallons. There were 110 cooks and 650 waiters.

Even President Wilson couldn't break the line to the box office of "Broken Blossoms" when he appeared in parade one block away. Clune's Auditorium.—[Advertisement.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 20.—According to the Daily Mirror, Arthur J. Balfour, British Foreign Secretary, is soon to be created an Earl in recognition of his services during the war.

AGED NATIVE SON DIES AT HIS HOME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 20.—Ramon Branch, who was the son of one of the first pioneers of California, died suddenly Friday night at his home in Arroyo Grande, San Luis Obispo county, according to advices received here today. He was born near Santa Barbara Mission in 1836, his father conducting the first store at the Santa Barbara landing. Young Branch was in San Francisco in 1849 when his father went to the gold mines.

Ramon Branch continued in active and robust health and rode a horse in the live-stock round-up to within a few days of his death. He is survived by a large number of relatives in Kern, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara counties.

CHINESE TO HONOR DEAD COMPATRIOT.

QUON GAM, TRUSTY SERVANT, BECAME BENEFACTOR OF HIS COUNTRYMEN.

At a Christian service conducted by a Chinese minister from Oakland at the undertaking rooms of Alvarez and Blue at 1:30 p.m., tomorrow, the Chinese of Los Angeles and vicinity will pay their last respects to one of the most patriotic members of their race, Quon Gam, who has just passed away at the age of 48 years. His body, placed in a metallic case, will then be shipped to Hong Kong, to be transferred to the Hoy Ping district, where it will lie in state in the now-famous Chinese-American school of Tong Kai Hock Hong, which he founded with Quon Sue, of San Francisco, in 1909. It is known as an institution for the higher education of the youth of both sexes, its cadets wear American-designed uniforms, and over the building floats the Stars and Stripes, side by side with the Chinese emblem.

Quon Gam came to America when very young, and was a servant in the La Solano Hotel, Pasadena, seventeen years. He attended the Congregational mission and acted as interpreter. For the past nine seasons he had been a faithful retainer in the home of E. D. Libbey, the Toledo cut glass magnate at Ojai, Cal. For a year past while Gam was ill Mr. Libbey spared no expense in caring for his servant, even hiring some of the highest-priced specialists in the State. He was taken to the Pasadena Hospital and finally to the home of Miss Etta Fosdick. He is survived in China by his mother, a daughter, and a son, the latter having been educated as a lawyer by his father and being now a government official in China.

BREWERY OFFICIALS IN FEDERAL COURT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—With the officials of four Milwaukee brewing companies, one Kenosha distributing company, and half a dozen wet and dry associations in court, the investigation begun by Judge Landis into the Kenosha-Chicago underground beer traffic began yesterday in the Federal court.

Among representatives of both sides on hand were:

Edgar Uihlein, vice-president of the Schlitz Brewing Company.

W. F. Schand, sales manager for the Pabst Brewing Company.

Henry Donnechefsky, general manager, and vice-president of the Val Blatz Brewing Company.

Ernst Miller, president of the Miller Brewing Company.

George Remus, attorney for the owners of the impounded beer.

Constable Earl Casperson of Zion City, whose activities are responsible for the proceedings.

B. F. Ebert, attorney for the Anti-Saloon League.

Arthur B. Farwell, president of the Law and Order League.

The point involved is a request brought by Charles Middlekauff, assistant to the Attorney-General, that the beer-running trucks impounded at Zion City be released by the Federal authorities and turned back to the State to be disposed of in any manner it may see fit—probably to be burned or destroyed.

In every case the trucks were confiscated by Constable Casperson while they were attempting to negotiate the beer road between Kenosha and Chicago.

ARIZONA NEWS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Sept. 20.—Phoenix building contractors, backed by several commercial organizations, will fight plans made by building trades unions to enforce a tightly closed shop order lately adopted by the latter. This action has been precipitated by late refusals of union members to work with nonunion helpers. The Contractors' Association declares the Building Trades Council is dominated by "irresponsible radicals of the most pronounced type, who roam the country to foment dissension and stifle industry." Building is notably active here, especially in the erection of small homes, with plans under way for a million-dollar hotel. Wages run up to $11 a day for bricklayers.

An effort in Democratic circles to switch Senator Mark Smith to a second Federal Arizona judgeship now is declared futile, in the face of a statute that forbids assumption by a legislator of a new office he helped to create. So Smith, a conservative, is expected to be a candidate for re-election, probably opposed in the Democratic primaries by former Gov. G. W. P. Hunt, radical. There is speculation whether the Republican Senate may not delay creation of the office or refuse confirmation of a Wilson appointee till after the seating of the next President. Such action was taken by the Democrats, led by Senator Ashurst, when President Taft nominated former Gov. Sloan to be the first Arizona Federal judge.

WILSON'S AUDITORIUM ADDRESS.

United States has become the economic center, the financial center of the world. Our economic engagements run everywhere into every part of the globe. Our assistance is essential to the establishment of normal conditions throughout the world. Our advice is constantly sought. Our standards of labor are being extended to all parts of the world, just so far as they can be extended. America is the producing center for all the ideas that are going to fecundate the great future. [Applause.]

You can no more separate this from the rest of the world than you can take all the tender roots of a great tree out of the earth and expect that tree to live. All the tendrils of our life, economic, social and every other kind, are interlaced in and are inextricable with similar tendrils of mankind and the only question which these gentlemen can ask us to answer is this—shall we exercise our influence in the world, which can honestly be a sound and controlling influence, at a great advantage or at an intolerable disadvantage? That is the only question you can ask. You have either to be provincials—little Americans—or big Americans—statesmen.

OSTRICHES OR EAGLES?

You either have to be ostriches, with your heads in the sand, or eagles. [Cries of "Eagles."] I doubt if the comparison with the head in the sand is a good one, because I suppose even an ostrich can think in the sand. What he does not know is that people are looking at the rest of him. And our choice is, in the bird kingdom, either ostriches or eagles. And in my mind in the past the eagle has been misused. You know it was the double-headed eagle that represented Austria. You have heard of the eagles of Germany. But the only proper symbol of the eagle is the symbol for which we use it, the bird of Liberty, and Justice, and Peace. [Applause.]

Because I want to put it as a business proposition, if I am compelled to come down as low as that, for I don't like, in debating the great traditions of a free people to bring it down to dollars and cents; but if anybody wants to bring it down to that, reason it out on that line. Is it easier to trade with a man who dislikes you and suspects you, or one who trusts you? Is it easier to trade with a man with a grouch, or a man who opens his mind and his purse to you and treats you like a partner and a friend? There is nothing which can more certainly put a drop of acid into every relationship we have in the world than if we now desert our former associates in this war. [Applause.] And that is exactly what we should be doing and that is exactly what, speaking unwisely and too soon, the German leaders have apprised us that they want us to do.

No part of the world has been so pleased by our present hesitation as the leaders of Germany, because their hope from the first has been that, sooner or later, we would fall out with our associates.

GERMANY'S HOPE.

Their hope was to divide us before the fighting stopped and now their hope is to divide us after the fighting. You remember reading that a former German Privy Councillor, I think it was, said, in an interview the other day, that these debates in the Senate looked to him like the dawn of a new day. A new day for the world? No, a new day for the hopes of Germany because he saw what anybody can see who lifts his eyes and looks to the future, two isolated nations—one isolated nation now on probation, and then two—the other a nation infinitely trusted, infinitely believed in, that had given magnificent proof of its metal and trustworthiness, now drawing selfishly apart and saying:

"You may deceive us; may get us into broils, into troubles. We will take care of ourselves. We will trade with you and we will trade on you." Why, the choice is inconceivable. America is no quitter. [Applause and cries of "No! No."]

Least of all is she a quitter in a great moral enterprise where her conscience is involved and the only immortality in or about America is her conscience. America is not going to be great or immortal because she has immense wealth. Other great nations had immense wealth and went down in decay and disgrace because they had nothing else.

America is great because of the ideas she has conceived. America is great because of the purposes she has set herself to achieve. America is great because she has seen visions that other nations have not seen. And the one enterprise that does invade the steadfast loyalty and support of the United States is an enterprise for the liberty of mankind. [Applause.]

REMEDY OF REASON.

How can we make the purpose evident? I was saying in another place tonight that my dear father once taught me that there was no use trying to reason out of a man what reason did not put in him. And yet here tonight I am trying to apply the remedy of reason. We must look about, gentlemen, and find some other remedy because remedies in these matters are always homeopathic. Like must cure like and we must be made to see the great impulses of the nation in such fashion that they will not dare resist. I do not mean by any threat or political disaster. My fellow-citizens, may I indulge in a confidence? I have had men politically disposed say to me, "As a Democrat this is all to the good. These leaders of the Republican party in Washington are going to ruin the party,"—and they seem to think I will be pleased. I don't want to see the great Republican party misrepresented and misled.

I don't want to see any advantage reaped by the party I am a member of because another great party has been misrepresented. Because I believe in the loyalty and Americanism and high ideals of my fellow-citizens who are Republicans just as much as I believe in those things in the Democrats. It seems almost absurd to say that. Of course I do. But, when we get to the borders of the United States we are neither Republicans nor Democrats. It is our privilege to scrap inside the family just as much as we please, [laughter] but it is our duty as a nation in these great matters of international concern which distinguish us to subordinate all such differences and to be a united family and all speak with one voice what we all know to be the high conception of American manhood and womanhood.

THE TENDER SIDE.

And there is a tender side to this great subject. Have these gentlemen no hearts? Do they forget the sons that are dead in France? Do they forget the great sacrifice this nation has made. Why, my friends, we did not go to France to fight for anything specially for America. We did not send men three thousand miles away to defend our own territory. We did not take up the gauge that Germany throws down to us because America was being specially injured. We sent those men over there because we saw that free people everywhere were in danger, and we had always been and always will be the champions of right and of liberty. [Applause.]

That is the glory of these men that sit here. The hardest thing I had to do and many of you had to do was to continue to wear civilian clothes during the war and not don the uniform and not to risk something besides reputation, risk life and everything because we knew that an altar had been erected upon which that sacrifice could be made more gloriously than upon any other altar that had ever been lifted among mankind, and we desire to offer ourselves as a sacrifice for humanity. [Applause.] And that is what we shall do, my fellow-countrymen. All the mists will pass away. A number of halls are being hired. [Laughter.] All the gases are being burnt off and when you come down after the gases have passed away to the solid metal of which this nation is made it will shine as lustrously and bright as it has ever shone throughout the history of the nation we love and the nation we will always consecrate ourselves to redeem. [Applause.]

MRS. WILSON'S GOWNS TRIUMPHS IN COLORING

FIRST LADY OF THE LAND IS DRESSED WITH HARMONY AS A KEYNOTE.

By Virginia Woods.

Mrs. Wilson was the cynosure of all eyes in Los Angeles yesterday, from the time she arrived at the Santa Fe Station until she left Shrine Auditorium last night.

That she pleased and was pleased was evidenced by the crowds and by that smile which has made her famous. She is a well-dressed woman and seems to have no doubt as to the styles and colors suitable to her figure and coloring.

She arrived at the station wearing a very modish gown of blue cloth, the cut of which surely indicated that it was purchased in Paris. With the dress she wore a small toque to match, two sapphire pins adorning it. The blue of the cloth was not so dark as navy but blended with the jeweled hatpins. With the big bouquet of pink roses which Mrs. W. A. Edwards presented her, Mrs. Wilson was certainly good to look upon. She has a smile that wins and its genuineness could never be doubted.

She appears to be deeply interested in everything about her and that perhaps is the reason she keeps so young and alert.

IN BLACK AND SILVER.

At the dinner at the Alexandria last evening and later at Shrine Auditorium she was gowned in a magnificent creation of black and silver brocade, designed with silver brocade about the bodice. She wore a big black velvet hat trimmed with folds of sapphire-toned blue tulle wound round and round the crown with the ends brought down over her left shoulder and fastened with a diamond and sapphire pin. In the automobile, she wore over this a handsome long coat of sealskin and Russian sable.

All during the banquet hour Mrs. Wilson was alert and seemed to be studying the women within her range individually, and she was evidently very charmed. She is an ideal type of American woman—thoroughly at ease and evidently belonging to that type of aristocracy which is the only kind that can be natural and democratic. She is distinctly the southern type of beauty.

With such poise it is no wonder she charms everyone she meets or everyone who sees that smile. It is not the kind that stays, but the kind that is inspired by every changing interest or new face.

When Mrs. Wilson set foot in the Angel City some one said, "We are sorry we have no California sunshine with which to welcome you." She replied: "Your California hospitality is enough and we have experienced that everywhere we have been since we reached your beautiful State."

As she passed through the floral isle from the train and the girls threw roses in her path, she said as she smiled at them, "I hate to walk on flowers."

GERMANS AT CONFERENCE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The council of five at Paris has decided to permit German representation at the international labor conference here next month, according to an official cable from Paris today. It says the announcement is made by the General Labor Confederation following a conference between its secretary-general and Premier Clemenceau, at which the French Premier "took a broad view."

The dispatch adds that the decision was regarded as a great victory for the General Labor Confederation.

DISPUTE PACT-FOE CLAIMS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Democratic leaders in the Senate challenged today the claim of Republican opponents of the League of Nations covenant that enough pledges had been obtained to secure adoption of Senator Johnson's amendment designed to equalize British and American voting power in the league assembly. While they expressed supreme confidence and predicted at least fifty votes against the amendment—enough to defeat it—these Senators finally got in touch with Vice-President Marshall, insisting that he return in time for the first real test vote on the treaty, expected next week.

The Senate was not in session and Chairman Lodge of the Foreign Relations Committee was not at his office during the day, and Republicans say they had rested on their oars, waiting for the contest to begin Monday.

"Mild" reservationists, some of whom claimed to hold the balance of power, were active conferring and counting noses to see how many of their number would vote against the Johnson amendment. Some of their claims ran as high as eight.

Both sides were expecting help from this group, but there was no certainty as to how the majority might line up. Democratic leaders, in predicting fifty votes against the Johnson amendment out of a total of ninety-six, counted on the support of many of this group, in view of the general belief that five Democrats would be found with the Republicans in the line-up on the amendment fight.

Senator Hitchcock said today that every effort would be made to hasten consideration of the treaty because of the "insistent demand" from business people for final settlement. There was no indication, however, as to how soon a vote might be called for on the Johnson amendment.

FIGHT SEVEN FOREST FIRES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—Seven fires of sufficient magnitude to cause concern to State and Federal forestry officials in California were burning today and the embers of a blaze that had reduced to ashes many homes in Mill Valley, Marin county, and threatened to spread to the famous Muir Woods, still were smoldering.

Students from Leland Stanford, Jr., University responded to a call from W. K. Dool, superintendent of California Redwood Park, who said the historic grove of redwoods in this Santa Cruz county park was endangered by a fire that had been burning for two weeks.

Two fires were reported in Nevada county by officials of the forest service; two in Placer county, and from Eldorado county came the report of a fire that had not yet spread to dangerous proportions.

In San Gabriel Canyon, about forty miles from Los Angeles, 6000 acres of timber and brush land have been burned over, but this blaze was approaching complete control.

Army headquarters here announced today that a concentration of aircraft for fire-patrol purposes would be made at Fresno and at March Field in Riverside county.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 20.—A serious forest fire, fanned by north wind, is working its way into the heart of the California Redwood Park, Santa Cruz county.

The fire in the park originated two weeks ago, Supt. Dool said, in a lumber mill on Gazos Creek. Last night it spread through the underbrush until it reached Hollow Tree camp and began to threaten the heart of the forest itself. The park is owned by the State.

California Redwood Park, 14,000 acres of primeval forest, is the oldest living forestation in the world, being from the Pliocene era of the Tertiary period, which scientists place at from 15,000 to 200,000 years ago. It is the only bit of forest not destroyed by the ice age.

The Sequoia sempervirens, or giant redwood, withstand fire, but the burning of large spruce and shrub if extended to the center of the park where the big redwood stand, would endanger the State buildings and cottages there.

PALO ALTO, Sept. 20.—Fire fighters are being recruited hastily from Palo Alto, Stanford University and Camp Fremont to assist in combating flames which were said to be sweeping uncontrolled into the Big Basin territory in Santa Cruz county. Prof. C. B. Wing, vice-president of the California Redwood Park Commission, was summoned from his home here at 3 a.m. today to recruit local fire fighters. According to reports here the fire started from a trash fire on the grounds of an industrial plant.

GRASS VALLEY, Sept. 20.—Two forest fires in the lower part of Nevada county and two in Placer county are proving hard to control, according to reports reaching here. The postoffice at Wolf, south of here, was said to be threatened by converging fires and the flames also were said to be in the vicinity of Gold Run and Clipper Gap.

PLACERVILLE, Sept. 20.—A forest fire has burned over 5000 acres around Pino Grande, near here. A number of ranches are threatened according to the United States forest service lookout station on Sand Mountain. About seventy-five men are on the fire line.

RUSH STEEL STRIKE PLANS.

Both Sides in Struggle Scheduled Tomorrow Make Final Arrangements.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—The eve of the nation-wide strike in the steel industry finds both sides in the contest apparently prepared for the battle. Final arrangements were rushed today, the corporations paying much attention to plans for guarding their property and the union leaders continuing their intensive campaign to unionize unorganized men and urging others to stand by the workers. Tonight there seemed to be nothing to do but wait for the test of strength on Monday, when the strike will officially begin.

Expressing confidence that the unions have not the power to compel a general shutdown, officials of the United States Steel Corporation, the main object of the attack of labor, and of other steel companies, said they will blow their whistles as usual Monday morning and try to operate their plants.

They frankly admit they will do their best and if sufficient men do not report, which they do not concede, they will shut down until such time as they can command enough men to make it worth while to start up again.

There is no talk of bringing strike breakers into this district in the event the unions cripple or close down the plants. It is said the larger corporations prefer to remain closed than cause unnecessary turmoil that sometimes follows the bringing of strike breakers into a community.

AFFECTS 200,000 MEN.

The strike ordered affects approximately 200,000 iron and steel workers in the inner and outer Pittsburgh district between Johnstown, Pa., on the east and Youngstown, O., on the west. Union leaders claim that a majority of these men will follow the request of the steel workers' national committee, and refuse to go to work Monday. They assert that not only union men will be in the walkout, but that they will be joined by thousands who are not affiliated with any union labor organization.

Municipal and borough officials in many parts of the Pittsburgh district today also prepared to meet the situation and have taken precautions to maintain law and order in their communities.

Mayor George H. Lysle of McKeesport, who union leaders complain has refused to permit labor organizers to hold public meetings in that city, issued a long proclamation calling upon citizens to support the constituted authorities in their efforts to maintain peace.

The proclamation states that organizers having no connection with the workers of McKeesport have attempted to unite mill workers in a strike "using for that purpose inflammatory arguments, seditious language, threats and misleading statements." "Their work," the proclamation further states, "has been directed mainly among foreigners here, little, if any, support being granted them by Americans and by the better class of workers of foreign descent. In order that the people and properties of this city may be protected against violence or lawlessness which may result from the formation of an unruly and un-American mass of people, three thousand of the citizens of McKeesport have voluntarily been sworn in to offices as special police deputies."

AUTHORITIES DEFIED.

A number of organizers have been arrested in McKeesport in recent weeks for holding meetings without permits. Labor leaders say they tried to get permits but were refused. A mass meeting is scheduled for McKeesport tomororw. The Mayor said it cannot be held. W. Z. Foster, secretary of the Steel Workers National Committee, said it would take place as scheduled.

Proclamations were issued by various bureaus, but were confined to the usual legal form of calling upon all citizens to keep the peace. The Pittsburgh police authorities have also laid plans to maintain order around the iron and steel mills within the city limits.

A report was circulated today that the United States Steel Corporation was swearing in ten thousand of its loyal employees as special guards to protect property.

Corporation officials, following their custom, refused to divulge what police arrangements they are making. It was learned, however, that the Sheriff of Allegheny county has had deputy sheriffs at the corporation's steel plant swearing in many loyal workers to do guard duty.

The Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, second only in size to the steel corporation in the Pittsburgh district, had no information to give out regarding its strike plans beyond the mere statement that it will continue to operate its works as long as it can.

SEVENTY PER CENT. LOYAL.

The plants of the Allegheny Steel Company and the West Penn Steel Company at Brackenridge, near here, were closed today to give their employees an opportunity to meet and decide whether they would strike. A vote was taken and one report from company sources said that 70 per cent. of the men decided to remain at work. Another report had it that the employees are about evently divided between Americans and foreigners, and that the Americans voted generally to continue at work while the foreigners voted oppositely.

Beyond the coming and going of organizers preparing for the holding of mass meetings in all steel communities tomorrow, there was little information to be had at National Labor Union quarters from points outside the Pittsburgh district. Secretary Foster said he had no reports from other parts of the country.

Despite all the preparations for the strike by both sides there was still a faint hope in some quarters that the conflict may yet be averted. When this was brought to Mr. Foster's attention, he shook his head and said there was not a chance of stopping the walkout. President Wilson's name is still frequently heard in the talk of possible intervention.

BOTH SIDES PREPARE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—With the nation-wide strike of steel workers set for Monday, officials of the steel companies in the Chicago district were completing plans tonight to combat the strike, while the union leaders renewed their pledge that the strikers would not resort to violence.

Officials of the steel companies were reticent regarding their plans, but it was reported they were prepared to open despite the strike if enough loyal employees responded to the call already sent out.

Union officials declared the tie-up will be complete, while heads of the steel companies say that not more than 15 per cent. of the workers will strike.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—It was learned at the offices of the United States Steel Corporation today that the methods to be employed in combating the strike called for Monday morning would be left in a general way to the discretion of the heads of the various plants and subsidiaries. The plans to be followed are not expected to be uniform, but will be governed largely by local conditions.

From Gary, Ind., in the Chicago district, where is located one of the country's greatest plants, came reports that both sides were drawing lines for a finish fight. Employers claimed 82 per cent. of the workmen did not favor a strike, and union leaders asserted 90 per cent. of the employees would go out.

PREPARE TO OPERATE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

YOUNGSTOWN (O.) Sept. 20.—While mass meetings for steel workers were being held throughout the Youngstown district today in preparation for the strike scheduled for Monday morning, steel companies went ahead with plans for continuing operations as usual. All the mills are scheduled for operations at practically full capacity.

No figures can be obtained as to the number of men who will strike on Monday. Neither organizers nor mill officials will make any statement.

POSTPONE MARINE STRIKE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—The proposed strike of Marine Firemen's, Oilers, Water Tenders and Coal Passers' Union of the Great Lakes in sympathy with that of the iron and steel workers called for Monday morning will be postponed until Wednesday or Thursday because of delays in tabulating the referendum vote in the upper lake districts, according to union officials this morning.

BARUCH FAILS TO GET GARY TO COMPROMISE.

PRESIDENT'S ENVOY ARGUES FOR A CONFERENCE, BUT JUDGE STANDS PAT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—President Wilson's efforts at compromise of the threatened steel strike have failed. This apparently removes the last hope of officials for delay in deciding the issue, at least until after the industrial conference to be held here on October 6.

It became known today that Bernard Baruch undertook a mission for the President to Judge E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation in a last effort to secure compromise to the extent of a parley between officials of the company and representatives of the union involved.

Judge Gary again flatly refused to meet the men on any ground and let it be known that the industry is prepared to meet the issue.

At the same time John Fitzpatrick, chairman of the conference committee of the twenty-four unions engaged in the steel industry, conferred with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. It was reported Mr. Gompers had given a last assurance of the fullest aid and co-operation of the American Federation of Labor in the strike to the limit of its resources. This was not officially confirmed, however. There also was no confirmation of a report that Mr. Gompers was for the strike.

Soon after giving assurance to the union men at the White House weeks ago that he would do all possible to prevent a strike the President made efforts to persuade Judge Gary to compromise by meeting union representatives for conference, but Judge Gary stood pat. It was then that Mr. Baruch, former chairman of the war industries board, was called in to undertake a mission and use his influence with Judge Gary and his advisers. Mr. Baruch went as the personal representative of the President, but he could not budge Judge Gary.

In a final conference at New York today the steel corporation head finally refused to parley and a nationwide strike on Monday seems inevitable.

PACKER HEARINGS TO AWAIT PEACE TREATY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A majority of the members of the Senate Agriculture Committee have agreed to resume hearings on the proposed packers' legislation as soon as the peace treaty is out of the way and to employ Walter Fisher of Chicago as counsel. The packers will be given a week to state their side of the controversy and the other side will be given a week.

This decision was reached as a result of answers given to a questionnaire sent members of the committee by Senator Gronna, chairman. The first question asked was when the hearings should be resumed. Virtually every Senator replied: "After the Senate votes on the treaty." The second question was: "Should the packers he heard further?" The answer of a majority was in the affirmative and it was decided therefore to give each side a week.

Francis Heney was first proposed as counsel for the committee, but some members thought him too radical and Walter Fisher was chosen instead.

WAGE SCALE FOR OIL WORKERS ANNOUNCED

RANGES FROM $5 TO $9 A DAY, PRESERVES OPEN SHOP, PROVIDES MEDIATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 20.—A copy of the oil wage scale agreement between the California oil operators and the California oil, gas and refinery workers, as drawn up at Los Angeles on September 9 and forwarded to the Secretary of Labor for final approval, has been received here.

The agreement, which was debated at hearings before President Wilson's mediation commision, provides for the $5, minimum wage; eight hours a day in all crafts and unskilled labor; for twenty-five cents daily bonus to be paid to employees, excepting roustabouts and some other classifications; for an adjuster—Hywell Davies—who will have full powers to determine the facts and adjudicate any disputes between employees and employers; for the charge by the operators of not more than $1.27 a day for board; and also provides that "there shall be no cessation of work through strikes or lockouts during such period of time," the agreement being for one year ending June 30, 1920.

The status of some 15,000 oil field, pipe line and refinery employees is defined by the agreement.

Back pay from January 1, 1919, to July 1, 1919, at the rate of fifty cents a day is allowed and the agreement is to run for one year.

The bonus of twenty-five cents a day for the year ending June 30, 1920, must be paid to men entitled to it within forty-five days after that date.

Overtime is to be paid for on the general basis of time and a half.

No rent shall be charged workmen for bunkhouse or dormitory accommodations.

No man shall be discharged because of his membership in any labor union, and "no intimidation of any kind shall be used for the purpose of inducing or compelling a man to join the union at any time," thus continuing the principle of the open shop.

SCALE FROM $5 TO $9.

With a minimum wage of $5 a day, the scale ranges up to $8.75 a day for oil well drillers, which, with the bonus, will make $9 a day, the bonus to be paid to employees remaining in the employment of the company during the year.

Highest scale on the pipe lines is $6.75 for traveling machinists and $7 for electricians, while for refinery workers the highest wage goes to first-class mechanics—$7—with a base of $5.50 for refinery employees.

The agreement was negotiated before the President's commissioners, J. L. Spangler, Hugh C. Kerwin and E. P. Marsh, by Attorney A. L. Weil, representing the employers, and by Walter J. Yarrow for the California oil, gas and refinery workers.

QUOTES CALIFORNIA PLAN FOR PENSIONS.

BALLARD TELLS SOUTHEASTERN ELECTRIC LIGHT ASSOCIATION OF BENEFITS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ASHEVILLE, (N. C.) Sept. 20—Retiring employees on pensions when they have qualified by long service and reached an age when their labor is not so effective as that of younger members of the industrial ranks, was featured by R. H. Ballard of Los Angeles, president of the National Electric Light Association in his speech to the convention of the southeastern section held in this city yesterday.

By a recent action taken by the Railroad Commission, the regulating body of the State of California Mr. Ballard said that he believed that a new principle in the jurisprudence of the United States had been enunciated.

One of the largest electrical companies in that State had applied to the regulating body for authority to put into effect a pension contract, granting pensions to all of its employees upon reaching the age of sixty years, after a twenty year period of continuous service.

The commission in confirming this application gave the pension plan the force and effect of a contract binding and collectible at law, and permanent beyond the power of any future management of the corporation to eliminate and beyond the power of any future regulating body to abrogate.

The president of the California commission, in granting the application, said:

"This commission considers it a wise move on the part of the public utilities of this State to establish pension plans whereby employees are assured incomes when old ago destroys earning power. Therefore, we will consider the proper cost of the execution of this plan as a proper charge to operating expense."

Calling attention to the fact that statistics gathered by the banking houses of the United States show that nearly ninety-five per cent. of the men in this country are penniless and dependent when they reach the age of sixty, President Ballard said:

"Banishing fear from the human heart and making hope live where fear has dwelt is about the biggest and finest thing that the fraternal spirit of sincere co-operation can conceive. Relentlessly stalking mankind since his intelligence became sufficiently developed to comprehend the reality of what their grim shadows cast across the pathway of life, the fear of pauperized dependence in age and the fear of poverty and suffering should physical misfortune befall them, have indeed been a gloomy pair of specters, invading at times even our moments of merriment and haunting many a waking hour.

"Such a pension plan as has been given legal status by the Railroad Commission of California is the best-thought-out plan of which I can conceive to drive away from our minds the goblins of dread, and give to the loyal worker the fullest opportunity to develop his initiative and achieve his highest potentialities."

Many Prominent Concerns and Individuals Protest Against League of Nations as It Stands.

The following concerns and individuals as associates in the oil and varnish trade in Los Angeles, and as citizens, believ our nation has reached a perilous point of choosing, and that the League of Nations in the form presented to the morally and economically wrong, and involves a large sacrifi sovereignty, independence, ideals and prosperity, and furth calls for our consent and assistance in the perpetual subjectio eral nations to their foreign and unaccepted conquerors, and of our troops throughout the world in the embroilments of tions, and believing that public opinion should express itself, voice our determined opposition to the said League of Nat form presented by the President; but believing that a righteous League of Nations would be of benefit to the hereby recommend most emphatically that the amendments ervations demanded by the majority report of the Senate on Foreign Relations be adopted, and the League of Nation fied, be ratified with such amendments and reservations otherwise, thus safeguarding our own nation and relieving the stigma of consenting to and erstwhile protecting and murders, executions, cultural and economic repressions continually being inflicted on the people of Korea, Shantung Egypt and other nations subject now to the military might conquerors, and give as additional reasons for the necessity reservations and amendments, the following, to-wit:

That all the Presidents of the United States from W down to the present day, with the single exception of Presi son, have strongly advised against mixing with European For 130 years our prosperity has increased and our high flowered and finally saved the world from German imperi

We are now asked to put that prosperity in great the most intimate mixing with political questions all over and we are asked to besmirch our high idealism by signing out troops abroad to all points of the earth to protect the of Japan and Great Britain to send troops to every and political war at the behest of the Council of the League

Article X reads as follows: "The members of this League take to respect and preserve as against external aggressio torial integrity and existing political independence of all of the League."

Under this article, if the League of Nations had been at the time of our Revolutionary War, France could not to our assistance to help free us from the yoke of England would she have had to keep hands off, but she would have pelled, in fulfillment of this obligation, to help preserve land by fighting any other nation which might have come The Senate amendment will reserve to the United States cision as to when we shall send troops abroad.

That the League as presented by the President gives States only one vote to Great Britain's six, out of a total of and that our single member standing alone would be subject combined pressure, coercion, cajolery and influence of all the and Asiatic nations, with grave danger, if not practical the too great surrender of his best judgment, ideals and as the President surrendered many of his ideals and points The committee amendment corrects this by giving the United six votes the same as Great Britain, thus giving the ideals and interests some degree of voice and equality.

That the League as presented by the President provides drawal of a member on two years' notice "provided all its under this covenant shall have been fulfilled," but does not shall be the judge of whether or not said obligations have filled. With the enormous obligations the United States under the League, the question of fulfillment would always largely a matter of opinion and argument and if the League undertook to be the judge, which is a practical certainty, never be possible for the United States to peaceably with matter how good the reasons.

The League, in plain language, gives 38,000,000 Japan. The President says it really does not mean this Japan means to give it back.

We believe that the words of the League mean just say and supersede any oral agreement or vague business man of honor and integrity will make an oral do one thing and prepare a written contract for the What judge will give an oral decision to one party the name of the other party in the written decree? is absurd, and we refuse to be hynotized into thinking We went into the war largely to keep France and her ple free, and do not wish to end it by assisting of 38,000,000 others. To do so would bring the every American cheek. The committee amendment wrong by substituting the name of China in the place

Furthermore, in view of the fact that this League most momentous question which has ever come since the formation of the Republic, we believe the to take sufficient and ample time to thoroughly and amend where necessary this covenant before tion to such a great extent, into the hands of whose ideals and aspirations are, if plain truth more selfish, grasping and imperialistic than ours. lieve that premature adoption of this League will or hasten the world's return to normal conditions.

The Constitution of the United States was after submission to the States, and the same should be given to the League of Nations.

There are other weighty reasons why this treaty should be ratified only with the amendments and mitted by the Senate Committee, but the foregoing show the present character of the agreement.

This is not so of the homes being erected by well-established reputable builders and building companies, but refers to individuals who have little notion of their obligation to the buyer and to the community. They have overlooked the value of permanent, honestly constructed homes to the city—preferring instead to seize the present as "a good time to get in and build to sell." Fortunately, that brand of shortsightedness is detached from the policy of a majority of those permanently established in the Los Angeles building field. It belongs principally to that calloused type of individual today designated as "profiteer."

Rent Profiteering.

It seems to be a fact inseparable from the rising cost of everything that rent profiteering must find its place on the active list. Landlords ul over Los Angeles—those who have piously proclaimed against the exactings of the corner grocer, the butcher and the baker as "criminal" acts—have lately revised their rent schedules upward to a scale that has brought a strong protest from the tenant. Rents that a year ago would have been rejected as preposterous now are commonly asked, and in a great number of cases are being paid because the tenant fails to find relief when he looks elsewhere. The increases demanded range from 10 to 50 per cent., and the limit, real estate men admit, is not yet in sight. They deplore it, they say, but cannot prevent it in the face of a situation which is not local to Los Angeles, but is nationwide.

This extract from a communication received by the Fact and Comment man from a reader, who happens to be a tenant in a house owned by a Southern California college and who, up to this past month under a yearly lease with the college authorities, paid $30 a month, indicates how the spirit of profiteering runs:

"We feel that this house should bring $45 or $50 a month rent. On investigating rental conditions we are encouraged to hope that this amount can be realized. If you do not feel that you can pay this amount, please make arrangements for accommodations elsewhere."

The death of Shylock, as this tenant declares, did not kill his spirit. He does not believe he is justified in meeting his landlord's demand for $50, but says he will pay $40, that sum representing an increase of 33 1-3 per cent.—the limit of his capacity to pay.

There is, of course, something to be said on the side of the landlord, particularly those who have carried a heavy property load at a virtual loss and now find a way out through a reasonable rent increase. It is doubtful, however, if any landlord is entitled to a 50 per cent. increase merely because that happens to harmonize with his own viewpoint. It would seem better business in the long run to accept in good temper a 10 or 15 per cent. raise and keep a permanent tenant satisfied.

If it is so, as we have it from the Chamber of Commerce and real estate men generally, that Los Angeles is to see a great invasion of tourists and permanent residents this winter, it would seem well for landlords to steer clear of profiteering, and thus leave the reputation of the city for fair-dealing unsmirched. Los Angeles has offered in the past and will continue in the future to offer countless opportunities for legitimate money making, but it cannot afford to tolerate sharp practices on either its renting class or those who come here to find an atmosphere of contentment and fair play.

Fine Homes Nearing Completion at Windsor Square.

Residences for W. M. Armstrong, Dr. A. H. Morrison, W. A. Childs and George F. Sloan are notable additions to West End tract controlled by R. A. Rowan & Co.

NOTABLE HOMES BEAUTIFY CITY.

Fine Places at Windsor Square Near Completion.

Others to Follow on Sites Already Purchased.

West End Feels Impetus of Building Movement.

Many notable homes are rapidly nearing completion in the west end section of Los Angeles as the result of the building movement which directly followed the lifting of the Federal government's ban on construction at the close of the European war. At Windsor Square, the attractive subdivision originally developed by the late Robert Rowan and now handled through R. A. Rowan & Co., an unusual number of pretentious residences are approaching the final stages of construction and will soon be occupied by their owners, wealthy residents of Los Angeles. Other homes of the same general character, built at lavish expense and designed after the mission, colonial, old English and French renaissance styles of architecture, will soon follow on sites purchased from the Roman company.

This tract, adjoining Wilshire boulevard and running north for several blocks, has strongly appealed to home-builders who prefer the city's newer residential districts. It has wide, well-paved boulevards, and an ornamental system of street lighting which has won much praise for that section. The homes already completed and those now building have been designed with a view to maintaining the beauty and harmony of the district through ornamental tree-planting and landscaping, giving the locality the "show place" appearance aimed at by the property owners.

Among the homes soon to be finished at Windsor Square are those of W. M. Armstrong, a wealthy oil man, at 510 Plymouth boulevard; Dr. A. H. Morrison, at 534 Plymouth boulevard; W. A. Childs, at 524 Windsor boulevard, and George F. Sloan, at 532 Lorraine boulevard.

Rowan & Co. report a heavy recent sale of property at this tract. On sites purchased through this company there are now twenty homes under construction, representing a total investment of about $350,000. Ten additional homes will soon be started, according to this firm. Sales made by the company include a lot with a frontage of 160 feet to C. G. Tibbens for $14,000; a lot on Lorraine boulevard to George N. Whiting, $5200; two lots on Lorraine boulevard to C. L. Chester of New York, $14,000; one on Lorraine boulevard to A. C. Davis, $5400; another on Lorraine boulevard to Charles Warner, $6000; one on Plymouth boulevard to Thomas Banks, $6200; another on Plymouth boulevard to Edward Dulin, $6200; one on Irving boulevard to W. A. Duncan, $4500; a corner on Irving boulevard to E. A. Norrall, $8000; a lot on Irving boulevard to J. L. Van Norman, $6000; a large plot on Lorraine boulevard to Dr. F. A. Goodrich of St. Louis, $17,000; one on Irving boulevard to Thomas Gayner of Chicago, $7000; and another on Irving boulevard to A. Rousso, $6900.

J. B. Van Nuys and James R. Page have purchased additional frontage to their properties adjoining Windsor Square which will be further improved and landscaped. Other purchasers include A. C. Davis, who acquired two lots on Lorraine boulevard from C. F. Binkley for $11,800; Mrs. A. McClay, residence at 153 South Ardmore avenue from J. L. Van Norman, $7750; J. R. Bray, residence at 103 South Wilton drive from Cecile Mortinsen, $7750, and F. E. Eckley, lot on Lorraine boulevard at Eighth street, $2000.

SITES LONG HELD FIND NEW OWNERS.

PIONEER RESIDENTS SELL PROPERTY TO MAKE WAY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Property on Los Angeles and San Pedro streets which has been held by the same owners for more than twenty-five years has just been transferred to new owners to make way for immediate improvements, according to the report of the W. Ross Campbell Company through Richard C. Willis of that firm's sales and leasing department.

Mrs. Marie de Woodworth, a resident of Los Angeles for fifty years and former owner of extensive properties in the district adjacent to Second and San Pedro streets, is the principal in one of these transactions. Mrs. de Woodworth has transferred to a local wholesale firm whose identity is withheld by the principals pending the announcement of building plans 134 feet of frontage on the east side of San Pedro street adjoining the corner of Second street. It is announced that the purchasers will build a building to be used for their executive offices, salesrooms and warehouse.

The other transaction reported by Mr. Willis is the sale for the John J. Maxey Company of a lot with a frontage of fifty-five feet on the west side of Los Angeles street between Eighth and Ninth streets, held by that company for more than a quarter of a century. The consideration is reported as $50,000. The purchaser, a local wholesale merchant, has commissioned an architect to prepare plans for a building on the site.

AT RICHMOND HILL.

F. C. Wood & Comany report the following lot sales at Col. J. B. Lankershim's Richmond Hill tract: To E. B. Squires, $2250; H. E. Tibbetts, $2250; M. L. Moore, $2250; J. B. Trowbridge, $2500; Jane C. Sherwood, $2750; Mary E. Blewett, $3000; A. M. Ingersoll, $3250; S. E. Allesandro, two lots, $6600; F. T. Briles, two lots, $9200; J. W. MacDonald, $2250. Most of these purchasers, according to the Wood Company, will start the construction of homes within the next thirty days.

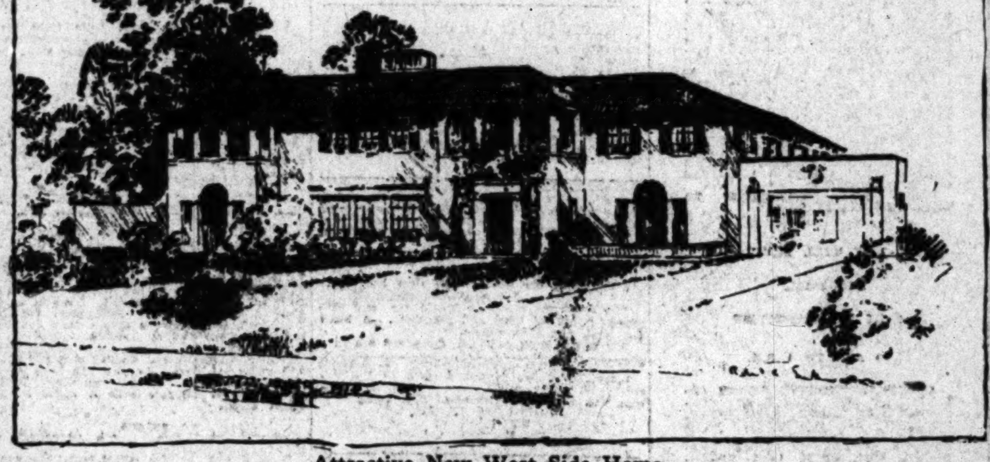
CORONA SALES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CORONA, Sept. 20.—P. J. Whitten reports the sale for R. L. Willits and T. C. Jameson of their 40-acre orange grove here to A. F. Smith of Los Angeles for $75,000. Also the sale to E. A. Seely, an Orange county citrus grower, of the ten-acre Megginson property on Ontario avenue for $1850 an acre.

BURBANK SCHOOL.

Bids have been opened for the new grammar school to be erected at Burbank, in accordance with plans prepared by Allison & Allison, local architects. The building, containing ten class rooms, domestic science department and an auditorium to seat 800, will cost between $70,000 and $75,000.



Attractive New West Side Home.

Spanish-style residence being erected for Otto Sweet at Fifth street and Windsor boulevard; Frank Meline, designer and builder.

BRANCH BANK.

Hibernian Savings to Have New Quarters in Hollywood.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Hibernian Savings Bank that it had closed a lease for branch quarters in the new Morrison Building at the southwest corner of Hollywood boulevard and Hudson street, where modern banking rooms will soon be installed. This gives the Hibernian Bank two branches in the Hollywood district of Los Angeles, the other being at the corner of Hollywood boulevard and Western avenue.

The new bank will be equipped for both savings and commercial business. One of its features will be a safety deposit department equipped for burglar and fire protection.

REPORT LOT SALES.

W. I. Hollingsworth and Company, through E. A. Weber, reports the following lot sales at Wellington Square, a residence tract in the West Adams section: To E. L. Allen, two lots, $3000; H. I. Niccolson, two lots, $4000; Mrs. R. E. Crop, lot, $1000; N. W. Diegnan, lot, $1950; B. D. Howes, Jr., lot, $975; B. L. Edwards, lot, $1900; I. M. Clayman, lot, $2000; I. H. Thurber, lot, $1900; F. E. Rose, four lots, $8750; A. L. Hull, lot, $1850; S. G. McAllister, two lots, $3900; F. Chamberlain, lot, $950; Capt. W. A. Falck, lot, $2000; R. Z. Montgomery, lot, $950; R. A. Yates, lot, $950.

STEEL CONTRACT.

Llewellyns to Supply Material for Pacific Mutual Building.

The Llewellyn Iron Works has been awarded the contract for the steel to be used in the office building to be erected at the northeast corner of Sixth street and Grand avenue by the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, an improvement which will cost approximately $2,500,000. It will be a twelve-story class A structure, and one of the finest office structures on the Pacific Coast.

The new building will require approximately 4500 tons of steel. Architect W. J. Dodd prepared the plans. Construction work is expected to start upon delivery of the steel.

CATALINA HOTEL.

Boos Bros. contemplate the erection of a six-story hotel building on the site of their cafeteria at Avalon, Catalina Island, to cost in excess of $300,000. Architect Ross Gordon Montgomery has prepared preliminary sketches.

BEVERLY HOME.

W. J. Hunkin, head of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Company, contractors for the new rubber and cotton factory buildings being erected at Ascot Park for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of California, is taking estimates for the erection of a residence for himself at Beverly Hills. The cost will be about $50,000.

GILES & LAACK

—OFFER FOR SALE—

A MAGNIFICENT RESIDENCE

WITH WONDERFUL GROUNDS, IN THE HOLLYWOOD FOOTHILLS, AT FULLY ONE-THIRD LESS THAN THE PRICE FOR WHICH IT COULD BE REPRODUCED.

—$85,000—

This palatial house was built by the owner for his permanent home, and eighteen months were taken to complete it. There is no better-built house in California. There are twelve large rooms, two sleeping porches, a sun parlor, and several finished rooms in the attic. The living-room is 20x36 feet, library 20x20 feet, dining-room 17x28 feet, and a modern billiard-room. The floors throughout are seven-eighth oak, and the interior finish and decorations are as fine as money could buy. Plate glass in every window in the house, a water filtering system, stationary vacuum cleaner, two gas furnaces and nine artistic fireplaces, give one some idea of the completeness of this wonderful house. The grounds comprise about an acre and a half, highly improved. The view is unsurpassed in Southern California. If you are interested in a really fine property of this character, make an appointment and convince yourself that there is not a single exaggeration in this advertisement.

$10,000—SEE THIS SNAP—$10,000.

9-ROOM, TWO-STORY, WHITE CEMENT HOME IN THE HEART OF WILSHIRE. TWO BATHS.

Situated on a 60-foot EAST FRONT lot, on a wide paved street, where all improvements are in and paid for. This home combines all of the choicest features which go to make a real home. There is a large CENTER RECEPTION HALL, splendid LIBRARY, LARGE LIVING-ROOM WITH open fireplace and art tile mantel, and a big SUNNY DINING-ROOM with French doors leading to pergola covered cement porch. Butler's pantry, large kitchen, maid's room and bath, and large roomy screen porch complete the downstairs.

ON THE SECOND FLOOR ARE four large corner bedrooms, each having a wonderful big closet. The bath is large and contains the best of plumbing fixtures. Walls tastily and elegantly decorated.

Yes, there is a large basement with furnace, and automatic water heater. Also a DOUBLE GARAGE, with cement driveway. It's complete even to a perfect lawn, with a wealth of beautiful roses and rare shrubs. IT WILL NOT LAST A WEEK ON THIS MARKET, SO YOU HAD BETTER ARRANGE TO SEE IT MONDAY, bright and early.

$12,500—IT COST $20,000—$12,500.

CHARMING WEST ADAMS HOME OF 11 ROOMS AND TWO BATHS ON A LOT 150x150. Cement tennis court, and wonderful gardens. Asphalt paved street, paid for.

You cannot imagine a more beautiful and homey place than this one. It was built by day labor of the finest materials and the construction as heavy as that used in eastern homes. It has been occupied by the original owner only, and has been kept up in perfect condition. Not a year has past but what the house has been painted, and the result is that it is as good, if not better, than when it was built. THE REASON THE HOUSE IS FOR SALE NOW is that the owner's family is much smaller and they have no use for this much of a house.

IF YOU WANT A REAL HOME, AND AT A PRICE ONE-HALF OF WHAT SUCH A PLACE WOULD COST TO BUILD TODAY, YOU HAD BETTER MAKE HASTE TO SEE THIS ONE. SHOWN ONLY BY APPOINTMENT UPON APPLICATION TO THE UNDERSIGNED EXCLUSIVE AGENTS.

$20,000.

MAGNIFICENT WHITE CEMENT HOME ON A LARGE CORNER LOT IN THE HOLLYWOOD FOOTHILLS, SURROUNDED BY ELEGANT NEW HOMES. BOTH STREETS PAVED, SEWER IN, ALL PAID FOR.

The main rooms and reception hall downstairs are FINISHED IN FINEST SELECTED SOUTHERN GUM, and each is a splendid big room with plenty of big windows. Walls hand decorated in oils. Solid bronze hardware throughout, with genuine CUT GLASS DOOR KNOBS. There are four fine bedrooms, and three baths on the second floor. FIRST FLOOR ARRANGEMENT includes CENTER RECEPTION HALL, LIVING-ROOM, DINING ROOM, LIBRARY, BREAKFAST-ROOM, AND TILED KITCHEN. Two great big porches, one across the front of the house, and another practically as large across the rear. TWO REAL LIVING PORCHES.

The lot is 100x140, commanding an unsurpassed view of city and ocean, and in a highly restricted residence subdivision. The lawn is a beauty and equipped with AUTOMATIC SPRINKLER SYSTEM. HOUSE PIPED FOR VACUUM. The owner has to go East, and will be gone for two years, consequently desires to dispose of the home. It is shown by appointment only, so call us and we will show you through. Ask for Mr. Holcombe.

SUNSET BLVD., HOLLYWOOD.

WE HAVE BEEN COMMISSIONED EXCLUSIVELY TO SELL A MAGNIFICENT MANSION, WHICH WAS CONSTRUCTED FOR THE PRESENT OWNER AND UNDER HIS PERSONAL DIRECTION.

This beautiful residence is the materialization of a long-cherished ideal of a perfect home; and therefore possesses the subtle artistry and refinement with which we are wont to adorn the things we love.

The view is unexcelled; all of Los Angeles spreading in an entrancing panorama from the near-by Hollywood Mountains.

INTERIOR DESCRIPTION.

Twelve rooms, five bedrooms, two baths upstairs; servants' quarters off kitchen; butler's pantry, beautiful sun room; breakfast-room ebony finished, with hand wall decorations, which required thirty days' time to design; billiard and card room; hardwood throughout. Exceptional full-sized basement, divided into compartments.

EXTERIOR DESCRIPTION.

Circular cement driveways to garage, which is of three-car capacity, with three rooms and bath above; house and garage of cream plaster, with red tile roof.

The grounds consist of an acre, fronted with superb lawn and ornate shrubbery, the side and rear being well planted in sturdy and bearing fruit trees.

We solicit inquiries from people who appreciate a high-class home, and who can afford such a place. This property will be shown by Mr. Colter by appointment only.

$14,000.

FLAWLESS DIAMONDS ARE NOT OFFERED AS BARGAINS; NEITHER CAN A FAULTLESS HOME WITH A DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR REPRESENTATION OF THE AMOUNT ASKED BE PURCHASED UNDERPRICED.

Location, honest construction, excellent discrimination in both interior and exterior effect and finish, and out of the ordinary craftsmanship are really uncommon. We offer in one establishment every feature demanded by the most discriminating and fastidious. The type is after the Italian villa (one story;) the accommodations are for two, three or four persons, and it is most distinctly different. WE SOLICIT AN OPPORTUNITY FOR APPOINTMENT.

$13,650.

10 BEAUTIFUL ROOMS ON KENMORE ST. WILSHIRE.

Two baths, five bedrooms, downstairs finished in hardwood, polished to a piano finish; hardwood floors throughout; spacious living-room, with handsome fireplace; the dining-room is an artistic dream; pretty breakfast-room; impressive reception hall; convenient culinary department.

A gentleman's home at a price considerably under the market for similar houses. In fact, this is really a

IN BEAUTIFUL HOLLYWOOD AND NORTH OF THE BOULEVARD: GREATEST VALUE EVER OFFERED IN THE HOLLYWOOD DISTRICT.

Splendid English type, two-story residence on a lot 60x200—get that, 60x200; beautifully improved. A ten-foot wide kiln-hardened terra cotta brick walk leads to the house, which is set well back from the street. The broad, deep porch is floored with the same material, lending a most attractive effect. The living-room is very spacious, and of fine proportions, fine brick fireplace with copper-faced fuel boxes on both sides. The dining-room is large and has massive built-in buffet. These rooms, with den and kitchen, comprise the first floor. There are three good-sized bedrooms, bath and large vine-covered sleeping porch upon the second floor. This residence was constructed by one of the best builders in Southern California for his own sister. It is about six years old, and has not been offered for sale before. It is a decidedly good buy.

SHOW PLACE OF PELLISSIER SQUARE.
$22,500.

This magnificent white cement English home, stands out as a distinct work of art amongst the other homes in this locality. Built by the owner for a permanent home. Conditions have arisen that make her desire to dispose of the same. At present prices of labor and material, it would be impossible to rebuild this magnificent home for less than $35,000. Located on a large lot, 78x150, having a large entrance hall, large living-room and sun parlor, large dining-room, all finished in tabasco mahogany and all the walls through out the entire house canvased and hand painted. The living-room and sun-room are the most attractive combinations to be found in any of the finer homes. The electric fixtures are the very finest that money could buy and the breakfast-room is superb in every respect. Modern tiled kitchen, maid's room and bath. On the second floor three extra large bedrooms, tiled bath and shower, copius closets and ladies' dressing-room. Cement basement and gas unit furnace. Double garage, wonderful collection of rare shrubbery and flowers. Locality restricted until 1950 and surrounded by most elegant homes. Will sell completely furnished at a great sacrifice if desired. FOR SALE—
NORTH WILSHIRE DISTRICT—$7000.

8-room bungalow, southwest corner, close to car line, splendid neighborhood, large rooms and closets, oak floors throughout, gas furnace, cement basement under whole house. It's a cosy home and a bargain at the price.

AN 8-ROOM COLONIAL BEAUTY—$8650.

WEST WILSHIRE CORNER.

Big living-room, music room, beautiful dining-room, breakfast-room, cabinet kitchen, two bedrooms with south exposure, shower and tub bath, hardwood polished floors throughout, beautiful decorations, big garage, corner lot. If you want something extra nice, close to car line, ready to move into, let me show you this.

10-ROOM WILSHIRE BUNGALOW—$7000.

On a beautiful street, splendid neighborhood, close to car line, big lot, garage, trees and flowers, a real homey place.

NORTH WILSHIRE SACRIFICE—$6750.

FOR SALE—$10,500 RESIDENCE.
WORTH $25,000 IF COMPARED WITH ANY OTHER SIMILAR PROPERTY.
Very large grounds, thoroughly modern home, hardwood floors, beautiful entrance hall, library, large dining-room, 2 baths, broad veranda and private porches. Location West Adams. Ideal in every way, beautiful surroundings. At the price offered it is an excellent buy, both as a home and as an investment. This price is not any more than a person would pay for a bungalow lately constructed, which bungalow would be on a comparatively small lot. Although the house is not entirely new, it does not show age, has been thoroughly renovated inside. The inside finish will compare favorably with houses lately completed. All buildings deteriorate. The lot upon which the ordinary bungalow is built upon will lower in value as soon as the tract is completely built up. The beautiful grounds surrounding this home will increase in value.

FOR SALE—
WILSHIRE—WHITE PLASTER—$20,000.
This white plastered Wilshire home, north of boulevard, was built for owner five years ago and a reliable contractor tells us the house alone cannot be duplicated today for $30,000 as it contains hall, living-room, dining-room and den, finished in real mahogany, mellowed by age. Built-in effects in good taste. Breakfast-room most pleasing, opening upon large rear porch. Kitchen as it should be with butler's pantry. Good laundry. Maid's room and bath on first floor. 4 large most attractive bedrooms with alcove finished in white enamel. 2 tiled baths with showers. Sleeping porch of course. Many large closets not to be found in all modern homes. In excellent and perfect condition throughout. Hardwood floors 7-8ths thick. Double garage, also containing chauffeur's quarters and bath. The architecture is excellent and a credit to designer and owner and the inside will certainly not disappoint you. We can deliver for $20,000 and consider it a bargain. Will certainly sell quickly. Shown by appointment only. Ask for Mr. Seely. Res. Phone 10479.

HOMES.

DO YOU REALIZE THE REAL CONDITIONS as they now exist in Hollywood with reference to homes? The truth is that small homes are getting very scarce and in six months the probabilities are there will be very few, if any, to be purchased. The properties advertised in this column represent good values and the announcements should be read with thought and consideration.

SPECIAL.

100-foot frontage in the heart of Hollywood, on Hollywood blvd., between Highland and Cahuenga. This fine business frontage can be purchased at from $50 to $75 per front foot less than actual value. Have a number of offers to rent, if improved, on a basis of 12 per cent. gross rental. No better investment is available in business property. Hollywood has a substantial future ahead of it as it has grown more than any suburb of Los Angeles and advances at this time on business property are much less in proportion than Long Beach, Santa Monica or any other suburb. If you investigate you will find this to be true.

$40,000.
IT'S A LOT OF MONEY, ISN'T IT?
WE SAY IT IS.

BUT WE HAVE A COUPLE OF MEN TRYING RIGHT NOW TO DIG IT UP. THEY MAY BE ABLE TO DO IT AND THEY MAY NOT. IN THE MEANTIME, THIS RANCH IS STILL FOR SALE.

IF THE FOLLOWING LAYOUT DON'T SOUND GOOD TO YOU DON'T WASTE YOUR TIME GOING OUT TO SEE IT—BECAUSE IT IS JUST THAT WAY AND NO DIFFERENT.

WE KNOW IT'S A BARGAIN.
WE KNOW WE CAN SELL IT.

HERE IT IS:

First—There are 35 acres, positively free from alkali, one and one-half blocks off the Redondo-Compton boulevard, three-quarters of a mile west of Compton; 18 acres in a good stand of alfalfa, balance in corn and sugar beets. There is a good well, which produces ample water for the entire place, equipped with a 15 h.p. electric motor and a 7-inch vertical centrifugal pump, 2200 feet of 7-inch galvanized pipe, which is used for distributing the water over the entire 35 acres.

Second—There is a new and modern nine-room bungalow, which would cost at least $4000 to build today, equipped with gas, electricity and telephone; a good five-room house, with bath, for the foreman, which is worth $1500; a good barn, a modern cow and milk house; chicken corrals that will care for 1200 chickens; a brooder house that will care for 3000 chicks, and a number of rabbit hutches.

Third—There are 12 cows, 4 heifers and a bull. These are registered Holsteins and are worth at least $8500.

Fourth—There are two good horses, 4 fine pigs, 1000 pullets, 36 does and 2 bucks, of Flemish stock, 40 more than are marketable; approximately $300 worth of grain, and $500 worth of hay; all the farm implements that you need, which would cost to duplicate today at least $1000.

Now, that's about the layout, and it looks good to us, and we are sure it is, and that's why we are spending time and money in trying to present it to you. The live stock, implements, etc., are worth at least $9500, and the improvements could not be duplicated for less than $8000. That being the case, you can easily arrive at the price which is asked for the land, with an ample supply of water. We know it's a bargain.

Now, about the income: We can show you that the present owner is selling between $350 and $400 worth of milk every month. We know that the place will produce ample hay and grain for 15 more cows. You know how many eggs you can sell this winter with 1200 chickens on the place. You can also figure the income from the rabbits—it's a mathematical problem that we are unable to handle.

THE FOREMAN OF THE PROPERTY WILL SHOW IT AT ANY TIME. YOU CAN CALL THIS OFFICE FOR DIRECTIONS AS TO HOW TO REACH IT. REASONABLE AND BUSINESSLIKE TERMS CAN BE ARRANGED. WE ARE THE EXCLUSIVE AGENTS.

FOR SALE—
Here's our new FREE booklet—just off the press. It contains pictures and statements of 30 farmers who bought over half a million dollars' worth of Santa Cruz Valley lands (suburban to Tucson, Ariz.) in four months.

This booklet is filled with crop statistics, facts, figures and statements—all backed up by concrete evidence. It is fully illustrated—the pictures tell the story. The reading of our first booklet was the turning point in the lives of scores of wide-awake farmers. If you are making all the money you want—if you like cold, bitter winters, a short growing season, drouths, hot, humid summers, one full crop about every third year—if you are satisfied with these conditions, never mind reading this booklet. But, if you want a 12 months' growing season, a constantly increasing bank account, a glorious warm winter climate, better health, more happiness, peace, comfort, contentment—then READ THIS BOOKLET NOW! Sent free upon request.

San Joaquin Valley.

FOR SALE—

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY FARMS.

Mr. Farmer if you want a ranch that will produce two crops each year, plenty pure water, good soil, good schools, and good shipping facilities, within 30 miles of Fresno; then come to our office and let us go into details, we will show you where it will be to your advantage to join hands with us in this rich river bottom land. We sell from 20 acres up and only ask one-tenth cash, balance can be paid over period of ten years, with 6 per cent. interest.

Alfalfa has proven to be our best crop, it is a dairyman's paradise, cotton has produced two bales to acre. Fruit and grapes can grow no better anywhere. It is in the midst of the fig section. Chickens and turkeys will be a joy to the housewife.

If you want to farm and have most pleasant surroundings with none of the discomforts of pioneering, come to see us, we will take buyers either on the train or automobile free of cost.

Hogs grow fat on alfalfa, from our pens. We are turning out 700 little pigs each month. You can do the same. Send for folder.
A. S. THOMPSON, Mgr. Los Angeles Office.

507 Hibernian Bldg. Phone 61660.

FOR SALE—
We are selling some of the best land in San Joaquin Valley for Thompson and Muscat vines, figs, prunes, peaches and other fruits. Also, this is one of the best alfalfa and dairy sections. We have good land and low water lift. We are selling this land on terms as easy as 15 per cent. cash and 10 per cent. each year thereafter, with interest on unpaid portions at 6 per cent. per annum, interest payable annually.

In case the purchaser will improve the land immediately by installing sufficient pump plant and setting out vines and trees and otherwise improving the property, the payments for the second, third and fourth years may be deferred and the balance of the purchase price made in five equal yearly payments thereafter.

Some of the best judges of grape land have looked this tract over and have bought land therein and will begin planting here in January. Some have their pumping plants already installed, which will demonstrate the water conditions.

Come and see this land. Inquire for J. H. DICKEY, at Pixley, Tulare county, California.

For Sale.

FOR SALE—
A
ALMOND ORCHARD and
AN INCOME FOR LIFE.

CAN YOU make a moderate initial payment and small monthly payments for the next few years? WILL YOU do this if we can assure you of a life income of $2500 to $3000 yearly thereafter?

A 10-acre almond orchard will bring a net return of $450 in its fourth year and increase each year, returning approximately $2400 in the seventh year and greater returns thereafter, provided the proper nursery stock is planted on selected almond land in the Paso Robles section and given the care of expert almond orchardists.

We have the cream of the almond land in the Paso Robles section—land that is above the frost line, land that requires no irrigation or fertilization, where statistics show there has not been a failure in thirty-five years. Our corps of experts, under the supervision of Mr. G. A. Nebrhood, the leading authority on the culture of almond trees, attends to the bud selection, planting, pruning and cultivation and WE ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEE YOU A FULL STAND OF BEARING TREES. The Title Insurance and Trust Company of Los Angeles is custodian of the development fund and will transfer your title and deed when the terms of the contract are fulfilled so that you are safeguarded in every way.

Come in and we will be glad to explain further our co-operative development plan or write for our illustrated booklet.

MINES—

And Mining.

OIL SHORTAGE IS INCREASING—

No better investment can be made now than test holes in new territory. The country needs all the oil you can find and you have a safe and sure market.

But don't resort to old-fashioned methods of drilling, with large and expensive machinery; never forget the cost of a hole increases in the approximate proportion to the "square of its diameter."

So drill smaller diameter holes with the latest and most efficient portable machines ever built for territories from 800 to 2500 feet deep. Write us for particulars and circular.

NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE BUYERS—
We do not remember a time in our business career, when we had so many real good business propositions to submit as we have at the present time. As we do not handle anything but exclusive listings, and even then only undertake to handle them after we have made a careful examination of same, you may rest assured our offerings are in a class by themselves. We are very proud of the fact that we have developed our business to such an extent that we are able to select the proposition to work on, thereby keeping at all times the high standard of this office. Our constant aim is to make satisfied clients, our earnest effort is constantly employed in that direction, and the individual or firm does not exist today that is not prosperous if those methods are closely adhered to. We have in our office sufficient evidence of our ability and earnestness to conduct a business of this kind along the lines above stated, and a visit to us will be ample proof of these statements. Whatever line you may be looking for we will be able, no doubt, to either submit something suitable for the amount of your investment, or be able to offer some valuable suggestions gained from our years of experience in this business. We submit a few of the choice exclusive listings which we have just recently had placed with us.

ASKS FOR CARS TO SAVE WHEAT

Nebraska Governor Urges Hines to Act Promptly.

Crops Rotting Because of Lack of Rolling Stock.

All Farmers do not Favor Control of Railroads.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Sept. 20.—Gov. McKelvie today made public a telegram he sent to Director-General Hines of the Federal Railroad Administration urging that steps be taken to relieve a shortage of railroad cars in western Nebraska where huge quantities of wheat are said to be in danger of rotting because of a lack of shipping and storage facilities.

FARMERS FOR CONTROL?

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—When he told the House Interstate Commerce Committee today that farmers were overwhelming in favor of government ownership of railroads, Benjamin G. Marsh, who said he represented the Farmers National Council, was pressed by some committeemen for proofs of his assertion.

Chairman Esch had a letter from T. C. Atkeson, legislative agent of the National Grange, protesting against the Plumb plan; Representative Rayburn, Democrat of Texas, declared farmers of the Texas cotton belt were "violent opponents of government ownership;" and Representative Denison, Republican of Illinois, declared he had never heard of Illinois farmers favoring government ownership.

Mr. Marsh said he had expressions from Washington, Oregon, Wisconsin and Arkansas, favoring government ownership.

STOP REDWOOD WASTE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—The United States Railroad Administration announced today it had telegraphed its purchasing agents in the West to decline to buy redwood ties produced along the State highway beween San Francisco and Eureka unless protection is given to the timber within 400 feet of the highway. The instructions are in reply to an appeal made to Director-General Hines by the California State board of forestry. Hereafter the administration stated, clauses will appear in the purchase orders barring those groves which the State seeks to preserve from destruction.

STRIKE ARMISTICE FOR SIX MONTHS IS URGED.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL POINTS OUT NEED FOR ADJUSTMENT TO PEACE CONDITIONS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

FREEPORT (Pa.) Sept. 20.—An absolute industrial armistice for six months was urged by Atty.-Gen. Palmer here today to permit the solution of economic problems arising out of the changes wrought by war.

Such a period of freedom from unrest, he declared, would result soon in increased production which would bring about an era of "easier living and better times" for all. On the other hand, the Attorney-General warned, selfish demands by any one class cannot stimulate the national prosperity or permanently benefit even those obtaining such demands by force. He strongly discountenanced strikes.

"Labor is asking a larger share of the joint product of money and labor and there is much merit in the claim," he said, "but the chance of getting it is not advanced nor the justice of it more widely recognized by the refusal of labor to produce."

The campaign to reduce the cost of living evidently was foremost in the Attorney-General's mind in his speech delivered at a reunion of the Fifty-eighth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers. He said that although many problems beset men's minds in these days of reconstruction, there is none which cannot be worked out "in the general interest" in a government where the people are the only rulers.

"But unless we shall be satisfied with that which is for the general interest," he continued, "and do not insist upon that which is in our own particular interest, there will be trouble and delay in the settlement. If men could learn to be patient under conditions which have resulted from the world war until a more accurate estimate of the possibilities of the situation can be made, all our problems will be sooner solved; but if impatience and selfishness shall rule and immediate forceful or direct action be taken, it is perfectly obvious that nothing but disorder and delay can result.

"The crying need of the world just now is for peace, and not political peace between governments alone, but industrial peace among men also."

DES MOINES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, Sept. 19.—Bishop Homer Stuntz, presiding over the Methodist conference here, predicted today that Japan and China will be at war within five years, and that America, Great Britain and France will be dragged into it. "Japan hates America because she feels that America is to blame for exposures of her deceit and duplicity, and for realizing the true significance of the Shantung clause in the treaty," he said.

Dr. John L. Hillman, former Des Moines pastor, was today installed as president of Simpson College, at Indianola.

Rev. Neilsen of the Council Bluffs district resigned as pastor because the Methodist conference would not permit him to preach and put on exhibition aviation stunts at Chautauquas as a side line.

Charles D. Becker of Waterloo, prominent in Masonic and G.A.R. circles, died suddenly, aged 78.

Emil Glantz of Burlington, who resolved to starve himself to death because of family troubles, was found half dead on the bank of a creek near Mt. Pleasant.

GERMANS BARRED FROM ENLISTING WITH LETVIA

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—(Havas.) The Lettish frontier of Eastern Prussia has been completely closed to volunteers enlisted in Germany, according to the Vorwaerts. The German troops on the frontier have orders to stop, by use of arms if necessary, all attempts to cross into Letvia.

At Mitau the German general called together the heads of the units in his command and pointed out to them the difficulties which would arise if German troops remained in Letvia contrary to the expressed wishes of the Entente Allies.

FRENCH UNION LABOR APPROVES RED SOVIET

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LYONS, Sept. 20.—Resolutions constituting a sort of platform for organized labor in France were adopted at the closing session of the Federation of Labor here last night.

The resolutions demand the nationalization of industries under the control of producers and consumers and the nationalization of transportation, mines, water power and banks. They point out that this does not mean an extension of the attributes of the state nor the submission of industries to functionalism, "with its irresponsibility and constitutional vices."

The convention affrmed its solidarity with the Russian revolution.

LEGUIA'S PROGRAMME IN PERU PROGRESSIVE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LIMA (Peru) Sept. 20.—Outlining the programme of the new Peruvian government, President Augusto Leguia, who took office after the flight of President Jose Pardo y Bareda last July said today to the Associated Press that the first matters to be considered will be lowering the cost of living, encouraging industries, building new roads, fostering irrigation projects, building up maritime traffic, attracting foreign capital to Peru and developing all phases of national life.

President Leguia declared the governemnt was well established, adding that the administrative officials would be solemnly inducted into office September 24.

RATIFICATION FIRST IS CLEMENCEAU'S EDICT.

PREMIER BELIEVES PEACE TREATY SHOULD BE SETTLED BEFORE ELECTION.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Premier Clemenceau's intervention in the debate on the electoral law, which threatened to be prolonged indefinitely, settled the discussion in a few minutes today, the government taking the stand that the elections should be held according to the law of July, last, providing for proportional representation. The debate on the subject had been going on in morning sessions for nearly three weeks.

The solution is considered in Parliamentary circles to be a great step toward the prompt prorogation of the Chamber and subsequent elections.

Premier Clemenceau refused to answer a request that he fix a date for the elections, saying:

"Ratify the peace treaty first. Immediately upon ratification I will inform the Chamber of the date of the elections."

The electoral law debate had occupied the entire session and most of the afternoon when Aristide Briand, former Premier, asked the government to define its position and bring the debate to a conclusion.

The Socialists, in an attempt to taunt the Premier, said that Briand had forced his hand and inflicted a check on his policy. M. Clemenceau then replied:

"There is a check for some one. As for me, I have suffered others. There is one, however, which I could not survive—that is a check by Parliament before the whole country."

The Chamber had intended to hold an evening sitting tomorrow night to try to ratify the peace treaty, but after a consultation with Foreign Minister Pichon, Minister of Marine Leygues and Premier Clemenceau, a postponement until Tuesday was agreed upon.

There was a persistent rumor in Peace Conference circles and in the chamber that Clemenceau and Marshal Foch would visit America in December. The Associated Press was informed that no plans are possible until after the elections, which will probably be held November 11.

POLITICS.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

The tragic death of Phil D. Wilson, member of the State Board of Equalization, one week ago today, creates a vacancy in the State board that Gov. Stephens will have to fill, and already there is considerable activity among candidates for the position. It is said that there are fifteen candidates in the field, but that the men outstanding in prospects are former Mayor Frederic T. Woodman and Dr. Frederick C. Langdon, member of the City Council.

Rumor has it that Dr. Langdon really has the best prospects of favorable consideration by the Governor. Should he receive the appointment, this would mean a vacancy in the City Council that would have to be filled by the Council itself until the next election. The position of Councilman requires practically all of a man's time, and the same is true regarding the State position. Anyway, should a city official be selected for the place, the question would at once arise whether he could hold both a municipal and a State position.

It is true, however, that Councilman Fleming is also a State Assemblyman, and if the Governor calls an extra session of the Legislature, he would have to serve in the capacity as Assemblyman at the same time he is a Councilman.

Should Dr. Langdon get the State appointment, at once a host of applicants would arise for his position in the City Council. At the last election, when Dr. Langdon was seated, the man who came closest to getting into the list of the nine highest men was John B. Reeves, with a vote of 30,757, with Frank L. Cleaveland next, showing a vote of 30,681. Following these, in the order of their vote, were Frank H. True, A. B. Conrad, E. D. Seward, Ernest Braunton Frank E. Purcell, Neal P. Olsen and Martin F. Betkouski.

Kettner a Candidate?

Despite assertions of close friends of Congressman Kettner that he will not be a candidate for re-election from the Eleventh Congressional District, the latest rumors from San Diego are that he may yet decide to make the race. In such case, it looks like he will have the right of way. If his determination to stay out holds good, however, there is certain to develop a pretty scramble for the Congressional seat.

There are Hugh L. Dickson of San Bernardino; Lyman M. King of Redlands; R. C. Harbison, Senator S. C. Evans, J. Stanley Brown of El Centro—and others outside of San Diego—who probably couldn't resist the lure of the speedway for Congress; but I opine that San Diego will name the candidates and that a San Diegan will land the place, for obvious reasons. San Diego needs a direct personal representative in Congress in this time of harbor and other public work developments; and San Diego has the votes.

Lou Guernsey's Ambitions.

The name of Lou Guernsey must be added to the list of something like a dozen attorneys who "are mentioned" as possible candidates for District Attorney in case Thomas Lee Woolwine decides not to make the race for re-election. Lou has an Abe-Lincoln-like figure and a voice that certainly would be heard when he made his pleas at court. There'd be picturesque situations and some oratory as is, with Lou as the center, and he'd have ample opportunity to show how "the bronze and golden sun sets behind the empurpled hills of glo-o-o-o-ry." (This in basso prefundo.)

Planning for Publicity.

One of the chief ingredients of a political campaign these days is publicity. It used to be oratory, but times have changed. Dhich reminds me that during the past few days Hal Layton has been sojourning in Los Angeles. He is director of publicity for the Republican National Committee, under Ray Benjamin, regional director.

For Board of Freeholders.

Mayor Snyder states that within a few days he will send to the City Council a message calling attention to the urgent need of a new city charter for Los Angeles, and recommending that the initial steps be taken toward calling an election for a Board of Freeholders. The Mayor proposes to call a conference of representatives from all civic and business organizations of importance, to discuss the subject. It is possible that this same body will select a list of nominees for submission to a vote of the people. The Mayor's idea is that the Board of Freeholders should be elected at the first election that comes along—and they are always sure to bob up—so that the board will have ample time to work out a comprehensive charter and submit it to the people for approval before the meeting of the next State Legislature.

That Special Session.

The latest report from the region of Sacramento is to the effect that Gov. Stephens will call a special session of the State Legislature the latter part of December or the first of January, to consider ratification of the national suffrage amendment. Strong pressure will be used to include in the call consideration of anti-Japanese legislation, it is said.

Opposition for Raker.

Also emanating from Sacramento comes the information that Congressman John D. Raker aspires to a Federal judgeship, and that if he sees his way clear to this position he will not be a candidate for return to Congress; that, if such a situation develops, then Marshall de Mott, chairman of the Board of Control, will be a candidate for Congress in the Second District.

The Single Taxers—Again.

Leaders of the single-tax movement—which has met with continuous defeat at the polls so many times I've lost count—are bucking up once more. They met in the Phelan Building at San Francisco one day last week and laid plans to start a movement to get their pet hobby before the people again next year. Their new move is to try to get the California State Federation of Labor pledged to their support, and a committee composed of Joseph S. Thompson, Dr. H. F. Dessau and Roy R. Waterbury was appointed for this purpose.

Naftzger Lands Again.

Not for long did the vacancy remain that was created on the Industrial Accident Commission by the resignation of Meyer Lissner. Gov. Stephens promptly accepted Mr. Lissner's resignation, to take effect October 1, and almost as promptly named A. H. Naftzger for the place.

Naturally, one can't help recalling the situation that developed when Mr. Naftzger was vice-chairman of the State Council of Defense. Citizens generally went into war work with a vim and with perfect willingness to donate their work so far as possible, but Mr. Naftzger drew down a salary of $5000 a year, I understand, and his alleged inactivities caused such a ruction that he eventually resigned and the State Council of Defense was reorganized. Gov. Stephens could have selected a man for the vacancy who is unassailed of unassailable.

Heney vs. Johnson.

And now comes the news that Francis J. Heney is planning to go on a speaking tour in opposition to Hiram Johnson, and in direct support of the League of Nations. From various sources opposition to Hiram and his ambitions continues to crop up, and the attempts at San Francisco to make it appear that California is solid for Johnson may be put in the real joke class. It wouldn't even surprise me to hear that Chester Rowell will line up in the anti-Johnson camp and take a lot of real satisfaction in swatting his old-time side-kick, Hiram.

Weller's Good Record.

Dana R. Weller, who is a candidate for the long term for Superior Court judge, was originally appointed to the bench by Gov. Stephens and re-elected without opposition for the short term, Judge Weller has made good on the bench. He is a Republican, sound in the law, affable, but firm in ruling and decides all questions coming before him according to law, and without bias.

Start Their Campaigns.

Chairman Dodge of the Board of Supervisors and Supervisor Bean opened their campaign for re-election to the Board of Supervisors at the Antelope county fair last week. Both are able men, always on the job and working for the interests of the county.

Supervisor McClellan will also be a candidate for re-election. He is now in Alaska securing big game specimens for the Museum of History, Science and Art. He was selected by the Board of Supervisors at the request of the museum managers. Mr. McClellan has charge of the great flood control work.

Seek Senior Chaplain.

The Red Cross is very anxious to get into communication with the senior chaplain of the Ninety-first Division in France in regard to the death of Anthony L. Arnet of the Three Hundred and Sixty-fourth Infantry. If he will call at the Home Service Section of the American Red Cross it will be greatly appreciated.

SELL DELTA LANDS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

STOCKTON, Sept. 20.—The California Delta Farms, Inc., through A. C. Parsons, sales manager, announces that it will inaugurate a selling campaign later this month to dispose of 8000 acres of its peat land in the Sacramento Valley. The company expects to dispose of the land by November 1. Mr. Parsons is preparing an elaborate exhibit of farms products grown on this land to be shown at the Land and Industrial Exposition at the San Francisco Auditorium. In the big San Joaquin Valley exhibit at the California State Fair nearly all the potatoes, onions and corn were from the lands of the California Delta Farms, Inc.

NEW RAMONA ACRES.

The Janss Investment Company reports the following sales at New Ramona Acres: To Lieut. Bradley R. Stuart, half-acre, $1100; James Concannon, bungalow and half-acre, $2350; Alice Hughes, large lot, $1800; B. A. Nadeau, half-acre and bungalow, $2375; A. R. Veenker, bungalow and one acre, $5150. In the San Fernando Valley the Janss Company reports the sale of five acres to Herman Reed, $1600, and five acres to L. M. Hughes, $1000.

APARTMENTS SOLD.

The Frank Purcell Brokerage Company reports the transfer of the lease and furniture of the Babbette apartments, 1320 West Fifth street, for Mrs. A. Montieth to J. Bernstein of San Francisco; the Lennox Hotel, 317 South Flower street, for Mrs. E. Curtis to H. A. Hoover of Toledo, O.; a 40-room flat building at Twenty-fifth and Naomi streets for B. M. Mitchell to James D. Brown. Ben White represented the purchaser.

NEWCOMER BUYS.

The R. C. Mitchell Company, through A. C. Dezendorf, reports the following property sales; To C. E. Hazard, a former Buffalo, N. Y., business man, for Alvine B. Palmer, 9-room residence at 3829 West Seventh street, $12,500; to George F. Lederle for Lillian M. Layton, lot 60 by 140 feet on Gramercy place near Fifth street, $5750, which the new owner will soon improve with a flat building.

PASADENA BUYS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIMAS, Sept. 20.—Tillman and Walker report the sale for William Ferry of fifteen acres one mile from San Dimas to L. A. Boadway of Pasadena for $45,000.

TALK—THAT'S ALL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Sept. 20.—Enemies of the recent $2,500,000 bond issue who are planning to attack the issue legally are wasting their time according to J. Stewart Ross attorney for the irrigation district, who states that the legality of the bond issue cannot be successfully assailed. He is doubtful if the matter ever gets into court and considers it mere talk.

GOT SHAVED ONCE; BUT NEVER AGAIN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Sept. 20.—Sixty-two years ago, back in Avon, Ill., W. H. Zimmerman was married, and on that day, for the first and the last time in his life, Zimmerman allowed his chin to be shaved, then sprinkled with Florida water, and some kind of a "smell 'em good" put on his hair. Since that memorable date he has fondly nursed his chin whiskers and now, living in Santa Ana, he enters them in the "old-whisker" contest. The other local contestant is Capt. J. H. Hall, Civil War veteran, who has never shaved and whose whiskers are now 61 years old.

MINISTERS TO JOIN LABOR ORGANIZATION.

SAN DIEGO CLERGYMEN ACTS AS DELEGATE TO TRADE COUNCIL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept 20.—San Diego ministers will soon join the ranks of organized labor, if their plans are approved by the American Federation of Labor, stated Rev. W. E. Crabtree, pastor the Central Christion Church of San Diego today.

Rev. Crabtree was recently appointed fraternal delegate from the San Diego Ministerial Union to the County Federated Trades and was seated as a delegate at the last meeting of that body.

Thus far, the Ministerial Association is not privileged to take part in voting on legislative matters with the Federated Trades, but the plans of the association will soon install them as "voting members."

The ministers state they are making an effort to become better acquainted with the laborers and say that they consider the most practicable manner, is to become affiliated with the unions directly. Dr. Crabtree will continue to serve as fraternal delegate to the Federated Trades Council until other plans have been arranged.

REFUSES OFFERS FOR FIGHTING ROOSTER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN JACINTO, Sept. 20.—A tumult in her chicken yard brought Mrs. M. G. Stone of Valle Vista hurriedly from her kitchen. To her great surprise she found one of her roosters engaged in a death grip with a large chicken hawk. The battle was fierce, but furious and when the dust had cleared away the invading hawk lay dead. As hawks have been somewhat of a pest to chicken owners in this vicnity, Mrs. Stone has been offered a handsome price for the rooster, but all offers have been refused.

FOR MAN WHO WAS HALF CENTURY HERE.

The funeral services for James G. Denman, who died, Thursday, at the age of 87 years, after having lived in Los Angeles for more than fifty years, will be held at 2 p.m. today at the chapel of Pierce Brothers. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery. Mr. Denman was born in Licking county, Ohio, and in 1852 crossed the plains to California with Col. Hollister. They were five months in traveling from the Missouri River to San Jose. Since he came to live in Southern California in 1868, Mr. Denman was engaged in farming, and fruit and stock raising. He died at his home, 325 West Thirtieth street, where he had lived for fifteen years. He leaves a widow; two sons, William and Edward Denman, and one daughter, Mrs. N. F. Whittemore, and three grandchildren.

FIVE NEW FLATS.

Family Structures Going Up on West Ninth and Western.

Two frame and plaster flat buildings to cost $30,000 will be erected at 2761 and 2769 West Ninth street for T. L. Stassforth, plans having been prepared by Architects Train and Williams. The Bavin and Burch Company has the building contract. The buildings will be two stories and each will contain twenty rooms.

Three flat buildings of twenty-four rooms each will be erected at 438, 444 and 450 South Western avenue for Jessie D'Arche from plans prepared by L. A. Smith. The building permit is for $45,900. The Lilly-Fletcher Company has the building contract.

HITS HYDRANT AS HE FLEES WITH AN AUTO.

After an exciting chase, which ended with spectacular suddenness at El Monte, when J. H. Partice, a soldier of March Field, drove an automobile into a water hydrant and caused the street to be flooded, the driver and a passenger were taken into custody yesterday by Constable Burdick. Partice was lodged in the County Jail on a charge of stealing an automobile and H. S. Vaughn, his companion, was questioned by the officers and held for grand larceny. Partice is reported as wanted by the army authorities.

CLOSE TO BANDTS.

Officials Confident of Finding Mexican Yeggmen.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Sept. 20.—Trail of the five Mexican bandits who held up the Mt. Signal store Tuesday night and shot, though not seriously wounding the owners, John and Robert Robertson, is becoming warm, it was announced today. The Mexican authorities have agreed to turn over the men if apprehended.

Undersheriff Barker has been in consultation with Police Inspector Antonia Tovar of Mexicali regarding the raid. The Mexican inspector is hunting for Santiago Peralta, who is suspected of being the leader of the Mexican outlaws. Peralta, it is believed, is somewhere in hiding in the mountains across the line from Mt. Signal.

Both injured brothers, who were shot, have recovered sufficiently to be able to leave their rooms.

ACRES OF ALFALFA.

Pasadena Men to Plant Big Holding Near Hemet.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HEMET, Sept. 20.—The big Walker ranch, one of the largest alfalfa properties in the neighborhood of Hemet, changed hands yesterday, the purchasers being J. L. and I. E. Farrar of South Pasadena. The purchase price of the ranch, which contains more than 12[illegible] acres, was $43,000, $38,000 for the land and $5000 for improvements

The buyers, who have been successful growers of alfalfa in the neighborhood of Corona for many years, also leased 160 adjoining acres from Mr. Walker, which will make the property one of the largest alfalfa farms under one management in the country. The Farrars will conduct the enterprise in connection with their wholesale hay business in South Pasadena.

OFFER CRITICISM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ARCADIA, Sept. 20.—More than a little spice is expected to be injected into the first meeting of the San Gabriel Valley Associated Chambers of Commerce when the members meet here for their dinner and business session on October 7, for Ray E. Nimmo, president of the Los Angeles Ad Club, has promised to come out and criticise, in a friendly spirit, some of the advertising that appears in the newspapers published in the valley.

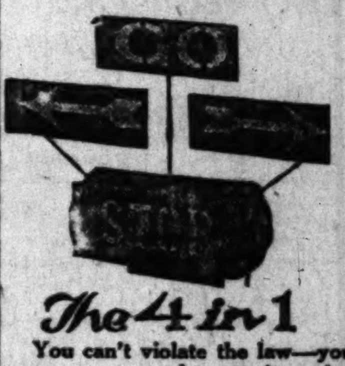
Owners of Closed Cars and Trucks

Obey the Law!

Today Is Your Last Day of Grace

Tomorrow the new signal law goes into effect. It requires closed cars and motor trucks to be equipped with a plain signal device. The 4-in-1 is the only automatic device approved by the State.



You can't violate the law—you can't forget with the 4-in-1 because it works automatically.

It says, "STOP" when you put on the foot brake. It says, "GO" when you release the brake.

The 4-in-1 takes the place of a tail light. Easy to read day or night. No electrical or complicated mechanism. Easy to install.

Pool Your Interests IN Texas Land Leases

We have worked out a very comprehensive plan whereby the holders of leases in ten counties in Southwestern Texas can pool their interests together, and share pro-rata in any increase that may result from the bringing in of a big well close to any of these lands.

Drilling for oil is now going on, and numerous test wells are contracted for the near future, in nearly all of these ten counties. Some of them are having a very active play with strong indications of oil. We firmly believe that oil will be found close enough to some of these lands so that the pool may sell a part, or all, of its leases at a price that will pay every leaseholder in the pool a small fortune upon the original cost.

A single "gusher" in any one of these ten counties may result in a resale of any particular lease anywhere from $1000 to $20,000 per acre. Figure it out for yourself and see what your profit would be in such an event, say at $1000 per acre, should you hold 10 acres in the pool of 1000.

Leases have been sold in proven oil territory as high as $48,000 per acre, which may be an exceptional case, but reports from Texas state that $500 to $10,000 per acre is not unusual when a well has been brought in as a big producer. The chances in Southwestern Texas are just as good, we believe a little better, than they are in Northern and Central Texas two years ago.

YOU SHOULD REMEMBER that in buying oil leases "anywhere" you are taking a chance, for no land is oil land until oil has been found. Unless you can invest $50 or $100 and lose it without injury to yourself, don't buy. However, the average man at the age of 40 and upwards who has not saved a competency will have difficulties in making it from now on unless he takes some chance. We have the leases for sale—we honestly believe oil will be found under some of these lands—but, we want you to buy knowing you are taking some chance—you may win or you may lose—it's a good chance to risk a few dollars to make a small fortune.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

The Week in Review; Stock Market Soft; Financing Sound; New Issues.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

Business during the week in Los Angeles and throughout the district of which this city is the metropolis was decidedly brisk. Bank clearings established a new record. Labor troubles appear to be minimized. Bond issues, especially municipals, were ready sellers, and funds were abundant for every legitimate purpose. The weather was somewhat more seasonable and retail trade was good. Large sums are being received from fruit shipments. The walnut crop promises new records. Prices average lower for foodstuffs, but there is little change in commodity prices. Traffic conditions have been restored to normal. The only exception in a decidedly optimistic week has been a stock market which has been decidedly wobbly, and exceptionally weak. Part of this has been due to the impending steel strike, which has apparently been pretty thoroughly discounted before it even begins.

This summarization finds reflection in the review issued yesterday by the Citizens' National Bank which says that locally trade is satisfactory and healthy. Such hesitation as has manifested itself would have been called seasonal in pre-war times. The outlook is really good for a well sustained volume of trade the rest of the year, but hereafter it will be less affected by the excitement that has alternately prodded and petted it for the past four months because the safety in a more normal tone of action is being recognized.

The general commodity market seems to indicate that we are quite close to the peak of the replenishment cycle of the post-bellum readjustment period. Generally speaking, but little is to be gained through heavy forward buying. In all but a few lines, frequent small lot purchases, to take care of the delivery question, is considered the safest course.

Such price reliefs as are developed through government channels are likely to be artificial, for high production costs will tend to hold the retail price cost up. It is the same old story over again. Greater production will inevitably bring about a lower cost level, but greater production cannot be attained by means of strikes, minimum days and a concerted effort on the part of labor to give as title as possiole. Prosperity and progress do not mean getting more pay for less work.

The Citizens' Bank has sent a very interesting series of questions to 305 centers of the Southwest. These questions were carefully selected from the standpoint of their intercommunicative value. Fourteen States are represented in the answers:

Q.: Is the supply of bank credit equal to the demand of legitimate business in your sections Yes, 284; No, 21.

Q.: Is business generally prosperous in your section? Yes, 289; No, 7.

Q.: How would you classify the stocks of goods carried by merchants of your section, large, average, or small? Large, 40; average, 190; small, 63.

Q.: Is there an excess of deficiency of labor in your section? Excess, 34; deficiency, 227.

Q.: Will the crops of your section be held or readily sold at present prices when harvested? Will be held, 19; will be sold, 251.

Q.: Are the people of your section in favor of a League of Nations, and which form do they support, the President's or the Senate's? President's, 138; the Senate's, 89.

Q.: Are present high prices and wages considered in your section to be due to inflation and likely to recede or are they considered permanent and equitable? Due to inflation and people expect a decline, 141; prices equitable and a decline will be thought unfair, 116.

Q.: Granting that present prosperity is subject to the law of equal and opposite reaction, how long do you, personally, believe existing conditions can be maintained? The average of 271 answers is 2 1-3 years.

Q.: Are the people of your vicinity in favor of a high protective tariff or is the undesirability of it, under the present, existing circumstances, recognized In favor of high protective tariff, 137; against it, 131.

Hollywood Branch.

The new branch bank of the Hibernian to be opened in Hollywood, news of which was exclusively announced in this department several weeks ago is to be made ready as soon as fixtures and equipment can be installed in the Morrison Building at Hollywood boulevard and Hudson avenue. This will be the sixth Hibernian branch and the second one for the Hollywood district. The resources of the Hibernian since its purchase of the California Savings are more than $12,000,000.

We Own the Diamonds.

About one half of the world's diamonds are now owned in the United States, and importations of precious stones in the fiscal year just ended exceed in value that of any other year. Local dealers say there is a revival of the popularity of the pearl. Release of stocks of pearls and diamonds held during the war, and the resumption of mining operations is making the visible supply more plentiful and will probably induce a price readjustment.

Cure by the Knife.

O. M. Souden, president of the United States National Bank, discussed the present trend of costs and living conditions yesterday. He thinks we have about reached the turn in the road. It is his opinion

BULLS AFFECTED BY LABOR UNCERTAINTY.

UNDERTONE IN COTTON MARKET FAIRLY STEADY, WITH LITTLE PRESSURE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Although first cotton prices were 6 to 22 points lower this morning the undertone was fairly steady and outside of some southern selling there was not much pressure on the market at the start. Labor uncertainties in connection with the steel strike furnished the principal check to bull aggressiveness in the early market. As a offset to favorable weather in the belt was the steady opening of the stock market. After selling to 29.75c for December during the earlier trading prices turned firmer on covering for over the week end and Liverpool buying of near months. December sold up to 30.12c and closed at 30.07c with the general list closing strong at a net advance of 2 to 10 points.

STEEL STRIKE LOOMS AS MARKET FEATURE.

LABOR UNREST IS AGAINST BULLS IN SALES ON GRAIN EXCHANGE AT CHICAGO.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Grain and provisions were sold on the probable steel strike Monday, and the possibility of sailors on the lakes going out, and of other lines being affected. Labor unrest in general is against the bull, and the tendency of speakers was to sell short, while the farmers are showing a holding disposition. Prices moved irregularly and closed at intermediate figures, with corn unchanged for September, and 1⅛@1⅜ lower on distant futures. Oats lost ⅝@1⅛, and rye 1⅛ in Chicago. Southwestern corn markets were weaker than Chicago.

Prices have moved within a wide range during the week, and the close as compared with a week ago shows September corn up 11, and other months 2⅝@3 higher. Oats are 1⅞@2¼ higher, and rye ½ higher on the nearby and 2⅝@4 lower on the distant futures.

The impending steel strike and general labor unrest overshadowed all other factors in the corn market, and with sentiment bearish it was easy to depress prices 1½@2⅛. Trade was mainly of a local character, although at 1.22 for December and under there was support from commission houses on resting orders. Toward the close pit shorts tried to cover, and found offerings light, prices jumping 1⅛ on the December from the inside figure, but the upturn was quickly lost, and the finish was easy at 1.22¼, while May was 1.20⅝. September closed at 1.47, or the same as the previous day.

Outsiders are doing little in the market at the present time, and the local trade paid more attention to the conflicting reports on the steel situation than anything else. There is a general impression that the labor unrest will spread rapidly to other lines of industry.

Closing trades in oats were within ¼ of the bottom, with September 66¼, December 68½, and May 70⅞.

CLOSING PRICES ON EXCHANGE STEADY.

MARKET REACTS FROM FRIDAY'S SLUMP; GENERAL TONE FIRM.

Brisk trading, with the general undertone of the market stronger were the features of yesterday's trading on the local produce exchange. Arrivals from the local producing sections were in good condition for the most part, and met with a steady demand on the local exchange. The market opened on the lower prices of the preceding day's trading, but brisk demand and the generally good condition of the arrivals caused most lines of commodities to move on an advancing market. The closing hours of the market were less active, but owing to the active trading at the opening of the session, dealers on the floor were practically sold out, and the market closed stronger than on Friday, with a firmer tone prevailing throughout.

Owing to the general strong undertone of the market, prices declined on comparatively few products, and where fall in price was noted, it was due to the poorer quality of the products offered. The cantaloupe market, which has been weak during the past few days, was again inactive on yesterday's exchange, with a decline of 5 cents per crate for the loose pack. The grapefruit market was considerably stronger, with an active demand for good quality local pack 46s and 96s bringing as high as $5.50 on the open market. The market for fruit continues steady, with an upward trend on many lines. Apples, peaches and pears remain firm, at previous quotations.

The vegetable market closed at about steady for most products yesterday, although declines were noted on some lines. Lima beans held firm, but green pods slumped, owing to the light demand for this product. Peas dropped a cent a pound. The tomato market weakened yesterday, owing to the softness of many of yesterday's arrivals. Shipping stock in this line held firm at Friday's quotations, however. Yesterday's demand for cucumbers was stronger, and this commodity moved on an advancing market, closing at prices fractionally above those of the preceding day.

The grape market continues heavy and sluggish, owing to the heavy late arrivals, which are attributed to the inability of the growers to obtain cars to ship them to more distant points. Many of the growers have allowed their grapes to remain on the vine later than usual this year, in hope that they would be able to obtain cars at a later date, but the situation has not been relieved, and it is felt that unless cars can be obtained in the near future, the growers will sustain heavy losses. T. H. Peppers Company, which does a heavy shipping business yearly in this line, says that at this time of the year they need twenty-five cars per day for the shipping of table grapes, but they are able to get only six or eight cars at present, because of the car shortage. So far they have been able to hold picking back just enough to fill the cars they have been able to get, but the picking cannot be deferred much longer. Circumstances that make the situation more acute are the fact the grape crop was heavier than usual this year, and many tons of grapes that formerly went to the wineries are now being put on the open market.

Although the local grape market is sluggish, the situation is not felt so keenly by the dealers on the local exchange as by the growers of California. The arrivals on the local market are heavier than the demand, however, which tends to ard a dull market, and low prices. On yesterday's exchange no change in the prices of grapes was noted except for Concords, which sold at prices ranging from $1.75 to $1.85 per lug box, as compared with Friday's figures of $2 per lug. Thompson Seedlings appeared for the first time in quantity on yesterday's market, selling at 4½ to 5½ cents per pound.

SKUNKS ARE FEATURE OF DAY'S FUR SALES.

FOREIGN INTERESTS ARE BIG BUYERS AND EVERY STATE IN UNION FIGURES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20.—The big feature of yesterday's fur trading was 275,000 skunk which went better than even sanguine expectations heralded. The morning opened with small collections of guanacos, hair seals, caracula, barunduki and astrakhan, each selling in record time, being offered in fair-sized lots. Two thousand one hundred guanacos totaled around $4000. Fourteen hundred hair seals, a true seal but having only the hair and hide, no fur and rotated mostly as silver seals, went fairly well around $2500. Then a small lot of caracul went to New York dealers for nearly $10,000, and 57,000 barunduki a chipmunk from the Southern Himalayas, went for $1750, while 1800 astrakhan totaled $1500.

Skunk proved the widely distributed interest. Paris, London, South America, Canada and every State in the Union bought well. Open lot of 176 prime black and short extra large brought $8.20. Similar lot brought $6.20. Black and short ferrets sold mostly between $6 and $8. Similar seconds bring $5 to $7. Black and long firsts sold from $5 to $7. Similar seconds from $3 to $5. The highest price was $10.00 for black and short first, these being exceptionally heavily furred. Then $10.50 and going down to $6. Extra large long went from $6.85 while mixed lot of firsts and seconds brought only $1.85. Choice skunk was well contended for. Average grades went well, poor skunks somewhat neglected. Bulk of selling ranged from $3 to $6, but plenty below $3 appeared on the ledgers. A lot of third and fourth grades mixed went for 50 cents while fifth grades and pieces sold for a penny.

Both buyer and shippers expressed satisfaction with the skunk sale. Foreign interests bought some of the highest-priced lots. New York and Canadian dealers bought well. Chicago houses also figured prominently in buying. The skunk collection totaled approximately $360,000. The day's sales amounted to slightly over $1,000,000. Sales to date for nine days, $13,125,000. Official market statement quotes: Guanacos, hair seal, barunduki and caracul unchanged; skunk advanced 25 per cent.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The approaching steel strike was again the sole factor of importance in the stock market today, many prominent issues recording lowest quotations of the week, with irregular recoveries at the close.

United States steel yielded slightly more than a point at its worst, but regained over half its loss and allied shares moved in much the same manner but motors and their subsidiaries were inclined to weaken. There were a few features of comparative strength, notably tobacco and such specialties as American Linseed and National Lead.

Elsewhere, including transportations, declines of one to three points were partly retrieved, the rally being attributed more to short covering than actual buying. Total sales amounted to 500,000 shares.

A deficit of slightly more than $53,000,000 in actual reserves of the clearing house, the largest ever reported by that institution, lacked definite explanation but was attributed to heavy payments for Federal taxes.

Bonds were steady but featureless, Liberty issues again supplying most of the activity. Total sales, par value, aggregated $8,500,000.

Old U. S. four's were lower by 1-4 per cent. on call during the week, and the other unchanged.

RESERVE DECREASE IS LARGEST IN HISTORY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The actual condition of clearinghouse banks and trust companies for the week shows that the reserve held is $53,186,140 below legal requirements. This is a decrease of $98,867,420 from last week.

Actual reserves of clearinghouse banks and trust companies at the end of the current week, as disclosed by the weekly statement issued today, show a decrease of $98,867,420, leaving a deficit in excess reserves of $53,186,140 below requirements.

The decrease, the largest ever reported by the clearinghouse, is based on the condition of member institutions at the close of yesterday's business and applies only to that day.

Following the rule of the Federal Reserve Bank the clearinghouse requires its members to show a monthly average of 13 per cent. excess reserves over net demand deposits. The extraordinary contradiction reported today will, it is believed, be fully offset in the clearings of the next few days.

FINANCIAL AND TRADE REVIEW.

that the labor disturbances which we have had and which we will have will be the means of hastening the readjustment because, when the workers work themselves out of their jobs, they will feel the pinch of want; the fat pay envelope will no longer be theirs; high prices without the wherewithal to meet them, and accentuated by lessened production will do more to bring the necessity of increased output and an honest day's work for honest pay. They will come into a fuller realization of the fact that a man eats in the sweat of his brow. "To reduce the high cost of living," he says, "we must work consistently and live economically."

The Stock Market.

The stock market closed the week as it began it; soft, weak and very quiet. There has been a complete reaction on change from the activity which prevailed for the three months preceding the ebbing of the tide a few weeks ago. Instead of a new high record September promises to establish a new low record so far as local business is concerned. Yesterday the trading was almost without feature; of slight volume, and declining prices. A few of the leaders will give the trend of the market, although there was scarcely enough business to warrant any very decided diagnosis. In the oils Union maintained its price of $185 around which the sales have rallied throughout the week. Associated sold down to $91.00; American Crude to 38 cents, United Oil to 66⅝ cents and National Pacific to 11 cents. There was little doing in the industrial list and no material price changes. Mines were also inactive and soft. A few shares of Tom Reed changed hands at $1.67 and Richmond sold at 49 cents. Buying orders were scarce and more interest was manifested in anticipating the Presidential parade than in the market.

Bank Clearings.

Bank clearings in sympathy with the general business slowing down yesterday were below the average for the week, totaling only $7,745,952.31, but even this comparatively low figure was $2,709,064.67 more than for the corresponding day in 1918.

Business Suspended.

Business was practically suspended throughout the financial and retail districts at noon yesterday and everyone turned out to greet the President.

Municipal Bonds.

The Atascadero school district, in San Luis Obispo county, will offer on October 6, $16,000 of 6 per cents. On the same day the Pleasant Hill school district, in Contra Costa county will sell $12,000 worth of 5 per cents.

Listing Withdrawn.

The Adams Mining Company, an Oatman property has been sold to the Adams Gold Mining Company, and dropped from the stock exchange list. The sale is made because under the charter regulations of the Adams mining it was impossible to levey assessments, a function which will be within the province of the new corporation and as a result of which it is expected that the holdings of the old company will be developed.

Preferred Stock Offering.

Announcement was made yesterday from the Los Angeles office of Merrill, Lynch & Co., Van Nuys Building, that the Patchogue Manufacturing Company, of Patchogue, L. I., and Plymouth Mills, of Lawrence, Mass., are to be consolidated under the name Patchogue-Plymouth Mills Corporation, with a capital stock of $1,500,000, 8 per cent. preferred stock and 30,000 shares common stock without par value, and that all of the preferred stock had been purchased by the Merrill, Lynch Company, and is being offered at par and accrued dividend. The Patchogue company, established in 1894, manufactures curtains, nets and laces, and conducts the largest bleachery business for fine embroderies in the United States. The Plymouth Mills Company, established in 1905, manufactures wool and fiber rugs, mattings and floor coverings. Both companies are controlled by the Einstein-Wolff interests.

Nebraska Bonds.

The Harris Trust and Savings Bank through its Los Angeles office are offering in conjunction with eastern members of a syndicate, $1,000,000 of 5 per cent. highway bonds of Douglas county, Nebraska, of which Omaha is the county seat. The bonds are direct obligations of the entire county; mature serially from October 1, 1932 to 1936 and are priced to yield 4.65 per cent.

CITRUS REVIEW FOR WEEK.

The market on California Valencia oranges is showing more strength and prices have advanced 25 cents per box over those of a week ago.

The volume of competitive fruits is gradually decreasing, and aside from pears and grapes there are no other varieties of summer fruits on the market in sufficient volume to interfere with the sales of Valencias. Early apples are beginning to arrive in considerable volume, but do not come into competition with oranges to any extent this early in the season.

A serious shortage of refrigerator cars is interfering with the movement of late Valencias. Shippers report the situation the worst in years. Heavy shipping of both table and wine grapes, particularly the latter, which heretofore were utilized by the wineries of the State, is drawing heavily on the supply of refrigerator cars and this together with the early movement of apples is probably responsible for the present car shortage.

F.o.b. California quotations are on a basis of $4.50 to 4.75 on best stock Valencias.

Advices from all districts in Southern California report new crop navels coming on nicely. The fruit is sizing up rapidly and shows every indication of maturing earlier than last season.

The navel crop promises to equal that of last season in size, while Valencias are expected to run about 15 per cent. short of the present season's output. In Central California districts the navel crop is estimated at fully 10 per cent. greater than the season just closed.

LEMONS.

The market on California lemons continues steady. The demand is for immediate wants only.

F.o.b. California quotations continue on a basis of $6 per box.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days 55,000 boxes foreign lemons.

During the present season it is estimated that the exports of foreign lemons from Palermo, Sicily, will amount to 1,200,000 boxes. Of this amount, more than half have already been shipped to the United States. The United States has always been the largest market for Sicilian lemons. Before the war Hamburg held second place, that port being a distributing center for the Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries and Russia.

The cost of producing foreign lemons has more than doubled since 1914, according to the American Vice-Consul in charge at Palermo. The wages paid to a packer in 1914 were 60 cents per nine-hour day; now a packer receives $1.64 for an eight-hour day and 25 cents per hour for overtime. Under the recent agreement with the packers they agreed to pack not less than five boxes per hour, or forty boxes per day. However, they rarely ever pack more than thirty to thirty-two boxes a day. Pickers who formerly received 38 cents for a ten-hour day, now receive $1.55 for an eight-hour day. Farm laborers for working around the trees, pruning, etc., now receive $1.28 for an eight-hour day where formerly they received 58 cents per day. The cost of boxes has increased. The freight rates have been kept low, particularly those to New York, now 58 cents per box. The rate to England is $1.54 per box. The high value of exchange against the Italian lire for the last three years has also been of benefit to the lemon exporter.

DEVELOPMENT NEWS
Continental Oil & Refining Company

On the Borealis well No. 1, C. O. Buckles, reports they have gotten hold of the bailer and think this time they will be able to get it out. Mr. Buckles also reports he is working on a deal to drill a well for the Borealis Oil and Gas Co., in Archer county, Texas.

The Continental Oil & Refining Co. has authorized F. C. Dixon to close options on 400 acres of well distributed leases in Kendall county, Texas, and operations on this acreage will be given immediate consideration.

Mr. Buckles and Mr. Mayfield were in Ranger and Desdemona last week, looking for suitable leases or drilling deals for the Borealis company.

The Continental company is still considering the production propositions in Desdemona and block 74, Northwest Extension, Burkburnett.

KANSAS NEWS

The Borealis Oil and Gas Co. has acquired 1473 acres in Chautauqua county, Kansas, checker-boarded with acreage belonging to the White Eagle Oil and Refining Co., and will immediately start drilling a well on this acreage in the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of section 17. The Continental company owns 280 acres in this county, consisting of the eastern quarter of section 14, and the western quarter of section 13.

GENERAL NEWS

The regular monthly dividend of 1½% will be paid to all stockholders of the Continental Oil and Refining Co. on September 15th. The directors of the Continental Co. have under consideration the acquisition of some very valuable acreage in Oklahoma and Texas and if this acreage is acquired several wells may be started thereon immediately. The acreage under consideration is 40 acres in Tillman county, Okla., across the river from the Northwest Extension of the Burkburnett field; twenty acres in block 32, Mangold Ranch, Iowa Park field, and forty acres of Jefferson county school lands, Archer county, which is surrounded by production and drilling wells.

A representative of the Continental Company is expected to meet the president of the Borealis Company at Chicago the first part of next week to discuss the acquisition of a drilling proposition for the Borealis Gas and Oil Co., on a large lease near Desdemona.

The president of Borealis has inspected the property and the closing of this deal will require approximately $100,000.

SHOULD REDUCE WHEAT ACREAGE

Department of Agriculture Issues Advice to Farmers.

Suggestion Based on Reports from European Countries.

Production Would be Average for the Past Five Years.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—More wheat should be sown this fall than was the average in pre-war years, but not so much should be sown as was sown last year. This is the outstanding fall farming recommendation of the United States Department of Agriculture which is watching the changes of world supply and demand while European countries are getting back to normal in food production and thus affecting the market for American products. The department's suggestions are based on the observations of specialists who were sent abroad to report on foreign conditions and probable needs and on the most extensive reports it has been possible to obtain from other sources in this country and other countries.

As to winter wheat, the department suggests that 42,000,000 acres be sown this fall to this crop, and that 20,000,000 acres be sown in 1920 to spring wheat, making a probable aggregate production in 1920 of 830,000,000 bushels of which 200,000,000 bushels will be available for export after home needs are met. This production would approximately equal the average yield of wheat in the United States for the five years 1915 to 1919 inclusive. The five-year average is thought to be a safe guide for American farmers.

LESS THAN 1919 CROP.

The suggested acreage for fall-sown wheat is approximately 85 per cent. of the area sown in the fall of 1918 and is about the same as was sown in the fall of 1917. The suggested area for spring wheat is approximately 88 per cent. of the area sown in each of the last two years. The combined acreage of winter and spring wheat suggested for 1920 is about 86 per cent. of the acreage sown for the 1919 crop, slightly more than the acreage sown for the bumper crop of 1915 and about 4 per cent. less than the area sown for the 1918 crop.

The pressure of war demand for rye has ceased, the department says, and it does not seem probable that exports next year will greatly exceed 25,000,000 bushels. Consumption of rye in this country was stimulated by the war to about 50,000,000 bushels. If this rate of consumption is maintained, a crop of 75,000,000 to 80,000,000 bushels would be necessary to provide 25,000,000 bushels for export, indicating a total acreage of 5,500,000 to 6,000,000 acres, in comparison with 6,800,000 acres sown last fall.

EXCHANGE HAS INFLUENCE.

"In any consideration of the probable foreign demand for American wheat and rye based on pre-war consumption experience," says the department, "a greatly increased transportation cost and the existing condition of international exchange cannot be disregarded. It seems clear that if the foreign exchange situation continues as it is or becomes more abnormal it will constitute a powerful stimulus for some foreign countries to seek grain in countries other than the United States or to produce it."

It is probable that several years will be required for European countries to get back to their normal cattle production. In order to supply their needs it will be necessary for them to import dairy products, and at present this country is supplying large quantities.

WEEKLY WALL STREET REVIEW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Industrial unrest, especially in the steel and iron trade, was the one outstanding factor of an irregular and comparative dull week in the stock market, transcending all other events in extent and influence.

There was an undercurrent of firmness at times due mainly to the strength of equipments and specialties, notably tobaccos, but much of this tone was forfeited later when several leaders, including United States Steel, registered minimum prices for the current movement.

In speculative circles it was believed that intervention from high quarters might yet serve to avert next week's walkout, but this feeling found few supporters elsewhere.

Some encouragement was found in the easier tone of the money market time funds in freer supply, even though restricted to the shorter periods, but call loans stiffened beyond the average rate of the previous week.

Foreign exchange suffered violent depreciation, bills on London, approximating their recent extreme discount while French, Italian, German and Austrian remittances fell below all previous records.

The exchange situation was not without bearing upon the country's foreign trade, exports of cotton, for example, showing a further decrease, shipments of other commodities also being variably curtailed.

MONTH NOTABLE FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

Reports in the manufacturers record indicate that the early part of the month of September is noteworthy for the large number of important contracts awarded for extensive road and street improvement and the construction of bridges and culverts throughout the South. The commissioners of Phillips county, Arkansas, have let contracts for sixty-three miles of concrete road to cost $1,700,000. Commissioners of the North Arkansas Highway District have awarded contracts for bridges and culverts and other highway improvements totaling nearly $750,000. The State Highway Department of Arkansas has let contracts totaling over $600,000 for bridging, culverts and improving ninety-five miles of road. Between $400,000 and $500,000 will be expended in this same State for the improvement of Galloway pike and the construction of curbs, pavements, etc., in the city of Little Rock. Eighteen miles of road will be constructed from Jonesboro to Egypt, Ark., at a cost of $250,000.

At Raleigh, N. C., the State Highway Commission will spend $325,000 for highway and bridge across Roanoke River. In Rockport, Mo., three and one-half miles of streets will be paved at a cost of more than $250,000.

The Drainage District of Poinsett county, Arkansas, has let additional contracts on its drainage system at a cost of $1,568,000. At Scranton, Ark., a $250,000 construction company has been organized to build a railroad extension of twenty-two miles from that city to Dardanelle, Ark. In Pike county, Arkansas, diamond fields will be developed by a company chartered at $10,000,000.

At Hastings, Fla., a $500,000 company has incorporated for the manufacture of self-fastening containers. At Miami, in the same State, a $1,000,000 construction company has been formed.

Pennsylvania parties have incorporated the Pennsylvania and West Virginia Coal Company at $1,250,000, have acquired 661 acres of coal land, and plan increasing annual capacity to 150,000 tons. At Huntington, Va., two new coal companies have been incorporated at $500,000 and $350,000 each, respectively. A third company has been organized by Huntington parties for the development of 7000 acres of coal lands in McCreary county, Ky.

In the textile industry is noted the organization at Frederick, Md., of a $1,000,000 company which will manufacture linen fiber from native flax. At Henderson, N. C., cotton mills have incorporated at $500,000, and at Ozark, Ala., a cotton yarn mill has been organized, and will have from 2000 to 5000 spindles.

Of importance in the oil industry is the announcement of the Petroleum Company of America, chartered at $80,000,000 by New York interests. Fifteen different oil companies in the Southwest are merged into one, gas and oil lands are acquired, also oil wells, pipe lines and refineries with a daily capacity of 35,000 barrels. At Ft. Worth, Tex., a refining company has been formed, having a 2000-barrel refinery, which will be increased to 6000 barrels daily. At Okmulgee, Okla., a $500,000 oil company has incorporated.

In Baltimore a car corporation has organized for the manufacture of railway-car trucks. Ten plants are to be established, one to locate in Baltimore and the others farther north.

At Ft. Worth, Tex., a manufacture of motor cars will make addition to the plant costing $500,000. In that city also a creosote manufacturing company has been organized at $200,000, owning buildings equipped with a 3-still unit for an hourly capacity of 6000 gallons of creosote; another unit will be added, doubling output, and coal-tar products, including roofing, will also be manufactured. At Dallas a baking company has incorporated for $250,000, and an extensive plant addition will be made. At Quannah, Tex., a concrete dam and artificial lake will be built for summer resort purposes at a cost of $250,000; 1800 acres have been acquired.

At St. Louis, Mo., another new hotel is contemplated, the cost to be $1,000,000. At Dallas, Tex., a motion-picture theater costing $500,000 will be built.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND WHAT IT MEANS.

The conditions of the foreign exchanges today admirably depict the financial and trade relations between the nations of the world. They clearly indicate that the United States has become the creditor nation, that the world is taking far more commodities from us than we from it, that a good part of the world is greatly indebted to us, and that many nations want our products, but have not the financial means to pay for them at present. In fine, the exchanges indicate the predominant position gained in foreign finance and trade by the United States during the war.

The greatest problem before the world today is how to hasten the return to the normal way of doing things. In order that the world may resume its normal life, Europe, including Germany, must have large supplies of all sorts of commodities. Unfortunately, however, she has not the financial means to pay for them right now, and must therefore be extended credit with which to buy. But she will have to get to work to create commodities with which to pay.

The United States is the large supply house of the world, and to it will undoubtedly fall the lion's share in supplying Europe with her needs for reconstruction, but it is quite erroneous to believe that the task will be exclusively American. The United States is, therefore, under obligation, in a certain sense, to help finance Europe until she arrives at the point where she will be able to pay for her imports with her own goods.

The subject of the foreign exchanges is a mystery to the layman, but more because of preconception than inherent difficulties. The rate of exchange between any two countries is the ratio of their currencies. For example, we say the rate of sterling is 4.18½, which means that the pound will command 4.18½ dollars. Now, on the basis of the standard mint values, the pound sterling should command 4.866 dollars, which figure is called the par of exchange. Without going into the many complications, the rate of exchange on any nation is at a premium, or above par, when the demands for bills upon it exceed the supply, and conversely, the rate is at a discount, or below par, when the supply of bills exceeds the demand for them. In normal times the exchanges between any two countries fluctuate within rather narrow limits, called the "gold points" fixed by the aggregate costs of shipping gold. These have been entirely disregarded during the war, as export embargoes were placed on gold.—[Jacob H. Schmuckler, in the Magazine of Wall Street.

Wholesale Offerings
IN Texas Land Leases

We can deliver 5-year commercial leases, dating from about May, 1919, in tracts of 40, 80, 120, 160 and 640 in the following 8 counties in Central and Southwestern Texas at $4.00 per acre.

Wilson County
Edwards County
Kerr County
Bandera County
La Salle County
San Sabe County
McCulloch County
Madina County

There is considerable activity in these counties and oil has been found in several places at shallow depth sufficient for drilling purposes. Some of these counties are producing a very high gravity oil used for machine work just as it comes from the wells—these are mostly in shallow depth and low production. Leases in these counties will not be offered long at the above prices.

All leases carry an annual rental of from 5 to 25 cents per acre, except Wilson county which is $1.00.

We can also furnish miscellaneous leases subject to prior sale, in tracts of from 160 acres to 25,000 acres at prices ranging from 50 cents to $250 per acre. Some lease, some in fee.

Get a Mortgage on the Profits of This Young Industry

MONEY placed in mortgages or bonds is not an investment, but a loan. You do not receive all the profit your money earns. You have a mortgage on the physical assets of the property, but you receive only a minor share of the profits.

To get the full earning power of your money you must own stock in the company.

By investing your money in Frank Oil, you get a mortgage on the future profits of this promising young industry. Frank Oil is a sound, well managed company organized by business men. Its assets consist of a number of well located properties in the producing oil fields of Texas and in the gusher section of Louisiana.

Active development is now under way on most of their holdings, and on one lease the driller is under bonus to have a producing well within thirty-five days. Other drilling operations will commence shortly. The policy of acquiring additional acreage in proven fields, without increasing the low capitalization, is the same business policy which has caused the Hog Creek Syndicate stock to be quoted at $15,000 per share. Your holdings automatically grow and your stock automatically increases in value.

At the present low price of $1.00 per share we believe Frank Oil is the best investment in the Texas field. We have a limited number of shares to sell. The California allotment was only 25,000 shares and most of it has been sold.

Surely you can see the desirability of owning a mortgage on the future profits of such a company as this.

Call at any of our three offices and we will gladly give you the complete details of this remarkable company and its future possibilities. If not convenient to call, simply phone or send your address on a postal. Whatever you do, act immediately. The small block of this stock now available will soon be disposed of and it will be too late for you to share in the future prosperity of Frank Oil.

of the company decline, to make any statement with reference to the date announcement regarding when the car may be expected.

A GOOD ONE.

"Just say that we are going to put out a car and a good one. Details will be given at the proper time," was the response to inquiries.

It is understood among the automobile fraternity that the Lincoln Company, will market in the near future an eight-cylinder passenger car and later a truck. The former will be priced at about $2500 it is said.

Projectors of the closed car show of the Detroit Auto Dealers' Association, which is to be held October 6-11, declare it will rival the annual winter automobile shows.

In past seasons it has been found that buyers of closed cars have not been benefited to any extent from the midwinter exhibitions, since these types of vehicles generally are purchased at the outset of cold weather, so members of the Detroit Automobile Dealers' Association decided that the only seasonable time for showing their winter models was in early fall. With this arrangement, prospective buyers are able to inspect new models at a time when they are especially interested in the latest creations of the makers.

ALL TOGETHER.

Contrary to custom which has been prevalent in larger shows, the exhibits will not be divided into separate booths and no general aisles will run through the building. In fact there will be gathered together all of the class from Detroit's auto row, and arranged as in one big showroom.

Announcement was made late last week that the Ajax Rubber Company with plants at Trenton, N. J., and Racine, Wis., had decided to locate a third plant at Jackson, Mich., same to be in operation early next summer. The new industry will employ fifteen hundred men and will have a daily output of 1500 automobile tire casings. Work on the buildings will start this fall, the cost being estimated at $750,000. It is stated that many further expansions in the business of the company will be cared for through additions to the Jackson plant, options having been taken on a 100-acre tract as a factory site. The Chamber of Commerce guarantees to supply 600 houses for workmen by the time the plant is ready for operation.

MORE MILLIONAIRES.

Ranks of Detroit millionaires have been enlarged by the recent sensational advances in the market value of the Fisher Body Corporation and Kelsey Wheel Company stocks. These issues, largely controlled here, have featured trading in the motor stocks on the New York and Detroit stock exchanges for several weeks, Fisher advancing from thirty-eight at the first of the year, to 145, while Kelsey has advanced from forty-two in May to ninety. One stockholder in the latter company with 2500 shares thus has paper profits of approximately $1,000,000.

Reports are current on both stocks that the buying movement is

TRUCE IS CALLED OFF.

Provisions of the New Motor Vehicle Law Go into Effect Tomorrow.

Tomorrow marks the end of the sixty-day truce declared between the traffic officers of California and the motorists since July 22, when the new motor vehicle law became effective.

And tomorrow, warns the Automobile Club of Southern California, for this part of the State the trap is all set for a carnival of arrests which will open the eyes of the most skeptical, both in the city and on county and State highways.

Motorists have had sixty days of leniency in which to become acquainted with such facts as: They cannot turn around in the middle of the block, and must make the proper signals, and now this leniency is all over, points out the Auto Club's legal department, with but one exception.

ONE EXCEPTION.

If an automobile owner is arrested for not having his car equipped with the regulation light lenses as approved by the State he will probably receive leniency if he can show a written order placed by him with a firm for the delivery of such lenses. But, woe betide him if he cannot!

Because of the large number of regulation lenses called for, all have not yet been delivered, and the Automobile Club, through its legal department, is requesting of the State traffic officers this leniency in behalf of motorists who have complained to the organization that they had not yet received their lenses. But every motorist must show his good intent to comply with the law by producing the written but unfilled order, or he will surely be picked up.

After tomorrow there will be no such excuses as: "I thought I could turn around on the street if I was near the corner," for by this time every motorist should know that he positively cannot turn at any place but street intersections.

FOR REAR VIEW.

Another point of importance, points out the Auto Club, is the placing of a mirror for a rear view in case the driver's sight toward the back is obstructed in any way. All mirrors must be in place by tomorrow in such instances or arrests will follow.

Motorists in closed cars, or in cars where it is impossible to give the correct arm signal, must have their cars equipped with some sort of mechanical device to show in which direction the machine is going to turn. Also, every automobile driver is required to understand the new arm signals perfectly, and to give them upon every occasion.

In regard to spotlights, it is pointed out that they will be permitted only under certain conditions, these being that they shall be so permanently fixed that they will not throw a beam of light higher than forty-two inches at a point 100 feet in front of the car.

CONCERNING BAGGAGE.

Large gobs of baggage piled on the running boards and side-scraping passing automobiles become taboo with the opening of tomorrow. Any baggage placed on the left running board of a machine cannot extend more than twelve inches from the body of the car.

In suburban and country districts, automobiles must remain fifteen feet behind the car ahead. This particularly protects motorists on the crowded boulevards in Southern California during the Sunday jams to and from the beaches. "Jamming up" will result in arrests.

Officials of the Automobile Club have asked the authorities to be particularly strict in the enforcement of these provisions, but have also asked that arrests will not follow the presentation of a written receipt for the legal headlight requirements. There will be eight State inspectors representing the motor vehicle department, 'on the job' tomorrow, and thereafter, to see that the law is being properly enforced, besides the many officers of the municipalities and counties, so watch out!

THREE BARRAGES TO STOP AUTO THIEVES.

A first, second and third "telegraphic barrage" for stopping auto thieves from leaving the southern part of the State is the latest step taken by the Automobile Club of Southern California for discouraging automobile stealing here.

The club has now perfected a system whereby no thief, driving a stolen car, can get out of the State providing the owner of the car reports the matter to the club's theft bureau in time, say the officials of that organization.

THREE CHANCES.

Should the thief succeed in eluding the first barrage of telegrams which the club will throw in front of him at the State line, a second can be placed in neighboring States, and should he elude the great "second line" the third and last will get him at points in Texas or as far east as Kansas City.

Strategic points are covered on the highways out of California by representatives in sympathy with the Auto Club's plan to stop thieving here, and telegrams are dispatched to them at once if it is believed a stolen car is being driven to Arizona or New Mexico for sale. In this way every highway, no matter its importance, can be completely plugged at bridges or narrow passes, and every car traveling through is subjected to a close scrutiny.

CO-OPERATION.

Auto owners are asked to cooperate with the theft bureau in reporting the thefts at the quickest possible moment, so that the telegraphic system can be brought into play at once. Any delay is liable to be fatal.

At the present time there is a resolution before Congress making it a Federal offense to transport a stolen machine from one State to another. This resolution has already passed the House of Representatives and is now before the Senate.

It will be a long step in the right direction toward curbing inter-State auto stealing, say officials of the Automobile Club, but in the meantime that organization is going to do all in its power in the West to check what promises to be the busiest winter season in history for the unwelcome auto thief.

PLANS FOR WORLD SERIES.

Moran Schemes to Mangle Sox with His Southpaw Strength.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Pat Moran's plan doubtless is to shoot his full southpaw strength at the White Sox.

And this, despite the fact that left-handers have not been by any means uniformly successful in the annual baseball derby. In fact, prior to 1917, nary a southpaw had turned in a shut out game in the big classic. For the most part they have been overshadowed by those who pitch with their natural hand.

A SUSPICION.

However, there is a suspicion that left-handers have something on the White Sox—that is as much as any pitcher can have against a team which sports a collective batting average of better than .280.

It is still fresh in the mind of Moran that although the Sox demonstrated they could beat portside flingers, nevertheless southpaws alone could beat them. Rube Benton and Ferdie Schupp turned in the only wins for New York against Chicago, although the latter waited until his second start before fashioning a victory. This weakness of the Pale Hose may not be as pronounced as it was in 1907, as a club to compile a percentage like that must be able to hit any kind of pitching, and yet if there is any difference in the style of heaving, the southpaw variety should have the edge.

Chicago, under Gleason's regime, has developed a heavy attack, but not as heavy as some of the championship clubs of the past. The club percentage on the basis of the latest available figures is .282, and it is not likely that this will be materially decreased.

HEAVY HITTERS.

Other heavy-hitting clubs which contended for the highest honor in baseball were the Pittsburgh and Boston clubs of 1903 with .287 and 292, respectively, the Athletics of 1911 with .297 and the Giants of 1912 with .286.

However, the heaviest attack does not always win, as witness the case of the White Sox in 1906. Comiskey's club went into that series with a batting record that could hardly be discerned with the naked eye. To be exact the club batting percentage was .228, the smallest ever compiled by a championship combination. Yet the Sox by their great defense and their ability to make their hits count, defeated the Cubs four games out of six, and they were some Cubs in those days.

Yet the team with the punch generally has the edge, providing it can show a fair degree of pitching. Realizing that he did not have a plenitude of high-class pitching, Gleason set about strengthening his attack to off-set any shortcomings which existed in the box, and the result seems to be a well-balanced ball club.

SECOND STRINGERS.

Had the series been of shorter duration, Gleason probably would have relied almost entirely on

AN HONOR FOR ANY CAR.

A letter of unusual importance was received by the Al G. Faulkner Company of this city last week. It was a request from Watt Moreland, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, for a Marmon car for the use of President Wilson during his visit here.

One of the finest Marmons in the shop was immediately decorated for the city's honored guest and has been placed at the disposition of the President during his stay in Los Angeles.

BRITISH MOTOR DEALERS WORRY

Fear Invasion of Their Market by American Firms.

Quantity Production is an Unknown Factor.

Protective Tariff will not Help Matters.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Sept. 17.—British automobile manufacturers have "got the wind up" to use the English slang term, meaning scared out of a year's growth over the coming invasion of their market by American manufacturers. They are clamoring for more protection, although the duty on American cars is now 33 1-3 per cent., and they claim this is insufficient to prevent them from being wiped out by superior American production and efficiency.

I have just been talking with H. G. Burford, British manufacturer of commercial vehicles and agent of United States pleasure cars, and he says there is not a chance in the world for the British car. He has just returned from a three months' visit to America, including all the leading auto manufacturing centers, and he is convinced that the future auto trade of the world is in the hands of America.

"The present British tariff," Mr. Burford said, "will not keep American cars out, and 100 per cent. tariff wouldn't. The only thing that would save the British manufacturer would be total prohibition, and that is unthinkable. In fact, I believe the present tariff will not last long. The Labor party here is demanding radical free trade and they are bound to govern the country before long.

"Of course, there will always be a market for the British luxury car, but I am convinced America cannot be approached on an ordinary every-day car for the plain man. America, by reason of her immense home market, and therefore her capacity for quantity production is able to turn out cars in immense quantities at the lowest possible cost—in fact, at 50 per cent. of the English cost. She has cars to swarm the market. For instance, I understand her production this year will be 2,000,000 cars.

"It is said America will absorb all these, but suppose American manufacturers set aside only five per cent. for England, what happens? England's capacity for absorption is estimated at 60,000 to 70,000 a year. That simply means the American car will wipe out the market, for no one can say today that the American car is not a better value for the money that the best English car.

"It is all the English manufacturer's own fault. Instead of going for quantity production, quick sales, and small profits, he is out for the smallest possible production and the highest possible profit. It is not the workman's fault. The British workman is as good as any, if well paid and decently treated. If the emplayers had all gone out for big production at the lowest price after the armistice and concentrated on export they could have held their own. Now they have sacrificed their opportunity and America has the motor trade of the world in her hands."

SIMILAR TIRES FOR ALL WHEELS.

Considerable discussion has grown up recently about the selection of tires with the proper tread for use on front and rear wheels.

Many tire companies recommend the use of non-skid tires on rear wheels only and urge the use of so-called "driving" tires on front wheels. These driving tires are either plain or ribbed treads and are recommended for front-wheel use because they steer easier than do nonskid with small or sharp projections.

The Michelin Tire Company on the other hand, recommends one type of tire for all four wheels. This tire is the Michelin universal, which has a tread so broad and flat that it not only embodies the advantage of a nonskid tire but also steers and drives just as well as a smooth tread casing. By the use of this one type on all four wheels the motorist enjoys the advantage of being able to rotate his tires that is to say move up to the front wheels tires that are partly worn fitting new tires on rear wheels where the the service is most severe.

COMFORTS FOR MOTOR CAMPERS

Sycamore Grove Camp Proving Unusually Popular.

Park Commission Plans to Enlarge Grounds.

Showers, Electricity and Gas to be Furnished.

Los Angeles is at last extending a long-delayed hospitality toward the host of motor campers who yearly enter the city's gates with the dust of perhaps a score of States clinging to their travel-stained cars. Out at Sycamore Grove the lower end of that beautiful park, has been set aside, temporarily at least, for the use of visiting motorists, and a trip to the park leaves not the slightest doubt as to the popularity of the present accommodations nor as to the need for much larger space as soon as the word is carried up and down the motor roads that Los Angeles has a free motor camp ground at last.

WANDERLUST.

Incidentally, it is enough to give anyone a decided case of the wanderlust to go out and talk with the fortunate travelers that tarry for awhile in the local camp. They come from the ends of the United States, or from the middle, and the tale of their wanderings would make the shades of John Fremont and Lewis and Clark feel like mere stay-at-homes.

On the hill opposite the park dreams the Spanish hacienda, built to preserve something of the romance of the older days in California, but it would take a bold man to deny that romance just as rich and colorful is not to be found in the stories of the travelers who gather nightly around the camp fires across the way and swap yarns of hunting and fishing in the Northwest, compare Yellowstone, Yosemite, Little Zion and the Grand Canyon, and a thousand and one experiences and adventures on roads of every State in the Union.

INSPECTION TOUR.

Last week Mayor M. P. Snyder drove out to Sycamore Park in an Oldsmobile eight to inspect the city's first motor camp ground. It was largely through Mayor Snyder's efforts that the City Park Commission was enabled to inaugurate the new camp ground, and the city's chief executive is heartily in favor of extending the present accommodations by establishment of another camp in Elysian Park. The present plans of the Park Commission call for the establishment of a larger camp ground in a eucalyptus grove just off Casanova street in Elysian Park. If the city's finances permit the making of an appropriation of $4500, a completely equipped camp will be built on that site, with showers, outdoor furnaces, running water, electricity and gas connections. Mayor Snyder is emphatic in his approval of such a plan, for he points out that Los Angeles is probably the Mecca for more motor tourists than any other one city in the United States and that the number of the visiting motor campers increases greatly each year.

Local motor car men are unanimous in their approval of the start the city has made for the accommodation of motor tourists. "Mayor Snyder's efforts for the municipal camp ground for motorists have brought action that is decidedly gratifying to everyone connected with the local automobile industry," said L. V. Starr, manager for J. W. Leavitt & Co., last week. "Los Angeles has been very backward in supplying accommodations for visiting motorists who travel with their own camp outfits, and it is certainly to be hoped that it will be found possible to extend the present accommodations.

FILLED TO CAPACITY.

"Though the present camp has been opened only a little over three weeks, it is filled to capacity most of the time already. It is time that the city recognized the needs of the thousands of tourists who yearly come here via machine, with their own camp outfits. Hitherto they have been forced to camp outside the city, or else in decidedly undesirable places. The new camp at Sycamore Grove is a splendid beginning, but I hope it will be possible to build the new camp in Elysian Park as well in the near future."

Inaugurating a New Camping Ground for Motor Travelers.

The lower end of Sycamore Grove has been set aside for the use of visiting motorists and its popularity is being proved by the numbers who take advantage of the camp. Mayor M. P. Snyder drove through the camp in an Oldsmobile Eight recently and expressed himself as heartily in favor of extending the present accommodations.

MAKING OLD TIRES AS GOOD AS NEW.

"Don't throw away your old tires, such as rim-cut, tread worn or blown out. They maye be reclaimed again to give good mileage at a very small cost," says Ed Harris of the Tire Construction Co., Olive and Pico streets. "For the past five years this has been one of our specialties. Making old tires new, doing such work for the larger corporations both here and out of town, as well as individuals.

"We find from our records, in retreading and reconstructing old tires that they average from 3500 to 7000 miles, composing a saving of at least 65 per cent. from the cost of a new tire."

REDS OF 1869 INVINCIBLE.

Beat Best Clubs in United States; Cincy Won Pennant in 1882.

BY ED O'MALLEY.

A story has gained currency in sporting circles that Cincinnati has not won a pennant since 1869. This is a mistake. The Red Legs copped the flag in the American Association in 1882. This Club was a corker and boasted several stars, among them probably the world's greatest second sacker, the inimitable Biddy McPhee. McPhee was the personification of grace, a good batter, fast on the bases and brainy. Some of his stops were phenomenal. He could throw from any angle and any position and made many pegs to first, on plays that required quickness, with his back partly turned to the sack.

"Hick" Carpenter of the old Syracuse Stars played third base. "Hick" was a portsider and had a habit of cocking his throws but he surely used to land them at first in time. He batted very much on the style of Johnny Bassler of the Angeles, most of his safe swats being liners over the third basemen's heads.

LONG JOHN.

A gangling, loose jointed chap called Long John Riley played first. He used to run with his head close to the ground and his arms flopping around but he covered ground fast. He was a cracking good hitter on the style of Bobby Meusel and was there at times with a clean-up baby. Old Pop Corkhill played centerfield and he had the peculiar distinction of going through an entire season without muffing a fly. Each member of the team wore a different colored jacket and cap and they looked more like jockies than baseball players.

If we remember right, Charley Jones played leftfield. He was an Appolo Belvedere and at the time regarded the handsomest man in baseball. Jones was one of the greatest sluggers of all times. In one game on the Cincinnati grounds he clouted a ball over the deep centerfield fence. The ball not only topped the fence but soared over a lumber yard and a row of houses and landed in a lot almost a block and a half away.

REPEATED HIT.

It was said that Jones had duplicated this tilt on the Boston grounds. Jones's diamond career was cut short not long after this through a jealous sweetheart who met him on the street one day and threw a handful of red pepper in his eyes. He never amounted to much as a ball player after that.

And now for the real stuff in balldom, the old Cincinnati Reds. We had the peculiar privilege of seeing them in action. In our mind's eye we can recall every one of them and during their unexampled career in 1869 every one looked like a demi-god to us. Take them as a whole we have never seen their equal and never again expect to see nine ball players on one club so evenly balanced. Every member of the nine was a star and most of them remained as stellar attractions for a number of years afterward.

Doug Allison was catcher. In those days the backstop stood far behind the bat and caught the ball on the bound. A third strike caught on the bound or a foul caught the same way was out. The catcher never advanced to the plate until a man reached first base. Such a thing as a mask or glove was never dreamed of. Doug had a dandy peg to second and was there also with the willow. He was wily and resourceful and a sure catch.

Asa Brainerd did the heaving. He was a fop—very finicky about himself and dapper as a dancing master. He wore a full blonde beard and parted his hair in the middle. He pitched a straight arm ball. His mode of delivery was as follows: placing the ball on the four straight-pressed fingers of his right hand he would put his thumb partly to the right of the top—then with the sphere tightly gripped he would draw his arm far back just as a bowler does in ten pins and like the bowler bring it forward with a stiff straight-arm movement.

STIFF-ARM JERK.

As the spheroid reached his side he would let go with a sort of peculiar stiff-arm jerk. In most cases his pitch would go straight over the plate but if any one thinks he didn't have speed that same one is badly mistaken. Strange as it may seem he chucked a pretty speedy ball and was credited with many strikeouts.

Charley Gould held out at the initial sack. He was a big fellow with a large pair of hands as hard as rocks and took the infielders' pegs just as easily as the first basemen today receive the ball in their young mattresses. Charley was some sticker and was fairly fast on the bases. He wore a mustache and sometimes affected a goatee.

A SURE PEG.

Charley Sweasy was the second sacker and in his day he was in a class by himself. He was death on all ground balls and had a sure peg to first. Like all the rest of his team mates, he could swat the pill hard and often.

At third cavorted Fred Waterman a rather large heavy-set fellow with jet black hair and mustache. He was the Fred Baker of the difficult station in those days as far as the willow was concerned and was a clever fielder and thrower in every angle of the game.

At short was the inimitable George Wright who, to our way of thinking, is the daddy of all shortstops not even excepting Edward Williamson of Cap. Anson's famous stonewall infield. In those days the fields were not cropped so close as they art at present. Wright had a habit while in the field of frequently tearing a stem from the grass and holding it between his upper teeth. He affected neither a beard nor a mustache.

LIKE A ROCKET.

Wright was lithe and quick as lightning. He just murdered anything that came within touching distance of him and his rocket-like pegs to first, were often greeted with salvos of applause. Cincinnati fans fairly idolized him. He was foxy with the stick, was a pastmaster at placing a hit and could pole out a long one when it was necessary. For a number of years after he left Cincinnati he still remained a kingpin at his station.

Andy Leonard played left. He had a marvelous throwing arm and was as fleet as a deer. We have never seen any one, with probably the exception of Sam Crawford of the Angels, catch a fly more gracefully So sure a catch was he that at times he would turn his back to the grand stand while running with the ball and get it over either shoulder. As a swat artist he hardly had an equal and was almost a certainty in a pinch. Andy wore a black mustache

HE COULD SWAT IT.

In centerfield Harry Wright held sway. Harry unlike brother George wore a full blonde beard. He was a pastmaster in every department of the game and was the manager. My how he could larrup the old horsehide.

In right was the famous Cal McVey who was king of 'em all in the early seventies. Cal was sure death on fly balls and had a peg something like Bobby Meusel of the Vernon Tigers. But at the bat—there was where Cal was all wool and a yard wide. He clouted many a home run and was a tower of strength with the willow with men on bases.

During the Red Leg days not much zippy coaching was indulged in until the ninth inning. It was then that every ounce of strength and energy was put into the game. The players would take on sudden activity and rallies were of frequent occurrence.

UNCANNY WAY.

Now comes the real greatness of the Reds of 1869. If runs were needed in the ninth inning they had an uncanny way of putting them over the plate and what seems almost beyond belief is the fact that they never failed to come through with flying colors. In a pinch in the ninth George Wright, if first up, was almost sure to place a safety over the infielders' heads. Then Sweasy would double and along would come McVey with a tremendous home-run drive.

Then Gould would about double and Harry Wright triple. Along would come Waterman with a dashing single and then Andy Leonard would almost lose the pill for another home run. It just seemed as if the Reds wanted ten runs to win them would just go in and make them.

NEVER LOST GAME.

They went through a whole season without losing a game, winning fifty-seven and playing the best clubs in the United States from ocean to ocean and from the Gulf to Canada. They had a close call with the Forrest Citys of Rockford, Ill., on July 24, but beat them out in a hot rally in the ninth, coming through with eight runs and winning by a score of 15 to 14. On August 31 they played the Buckeyes of Cincinnati and trimmed them 108 to 3. This is a record for the largest score ever made between professional clubs.

HADN'T A CHANCE.

The United States boasted many excellent teams in 1869 but there wasn't one of them that had a ghost of a chance against the Cincinnati Reds. It was simply a case of "Eclipse first and the rest nowhere." In those days the captains of each team tossed a coin to see which nine would go to the bat last. The Reds came to California and trimmed the Eagles and the Pacifics of San Francisco, each two games. The scores were 35-4, 58-4, 66-4 and 54-5.

TRUCK FLEET HELPS FOOD DISTRIBUTION.

Speedy and economical distribution of government foods offered for sale in municipalities throughout the United States was accomplished in many cities during the last month largely by Pierce-Arrow trucks. Reports from a number of the larger cities show that much of this haulage was apportioned to Pierce-Arrows.

In Buffalo, for instance, more than 200 carloads of foodstuffs, weighing about 11,000,000 pounds, were quickly distributed by a fleet of five-ton trucks, the bulk of which were Pierce-Arrows donated by private owners.

DRIVERS CAUSE FOREST FIRES.

Carelessness Responsible for Many Costly Blazes.

Tossing "Smokes" Into Brush is Cause of Trouble.

Auto Club Warns Motorists to "Prevent Forest Fires."

Forest fires raging throughout the southern counties during the past week and the damage done by them has led officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California to issue another general warning to all motorists to be careful of discarding lighted cigar or cigarette butts from machines to the roadside.

According to some of the forest supervisors, the increase in motoring through the mountains this year is accountable for more forest fires than ever before, as it is claimed that many motoring parties are careless with lighted cigars.

"It is the most matural thing in the world for an automobilist to toss his half-finished cigarette or cigar from the car while traveling, not thinking that during the summer months, and particularly in September, the brush and grass along the highway is exceedingly inflammable," say auto club officials, "and we are taking this opportunity to co-operate with the forest supervisors in preventing recurrences of the costly blazes which have ravished Southern California hills for the last two weeks."

In an attempt to call this warning to the minds of motorists, the club has erected hundreds of metal warning signs on all mountain routes, these signs reading "Help Prevent Forest Fires." Auto owners are asked to heed the signs, and not only to be careful in extinguishing their camp fires, but not to toss lighted "smokes" from tonneaus and driving seats.

TO PLAY BENEFIT BALL.

Joe Perroni's Salt Lake nine will meet Bill Goodman's Dyas team tomorrow afternoon at Vernon in a benefit game for Mrs. Grover Schmidt, widow of Grover Schmidt, a well-known semi-pro player of Southern California, who died recently in San Francisco. The admission will be 30 cents.

APPERSON

Anniversary Eight

SPECIALLY PRICED

This car was driven less than 5000 miles by Mr. Edgar Apperson, general manager of Apperson Bros. Auto Co., the man who built it, while on the Coast recently.

It has seen nothing but the best of care and handling, is in perfect mechanical condition, refinished and has new Silvertown cord tires.

You would profit more by buying this car which has undergone the "breaking in" process in expert hands than by putting the same amount of money in some other car and having to assume the cost of depreciation.

FOUR-CYLNDER CAR NEXT ON PROGRAMME.

NEW FACTORY UNDER CONSTRUCTION FOR PRODUCTION OF NEW MODEL.

The Nash Motors Company is to build a four-cylinder car in a plant to be constructed in Milwaukee. Transfers of forty-one acres of land at Clement street and Oklahoma avenue, Milwaukee, have been made to the Nash Motors Company and contractors are ready to carry out the construction of this new factory without delay.

The Nash Motors Company is also making substantial additions to its main factory in Kenosha where Nash-six passenger cars and Nash trucks will continue to be built.

Work on the Milwaukee buildings will be completed within the next twelve months. It is planned to bring the production of the Milwaukee plant as early as possible up to a point of production equal to the passenger car production of the Kenosha plant.

The buildings now planned include a power plant, foundry, machine shop, drop forge, body building plant and sheet metal plant. Immediate expenditure of a million dollars is planned by the company and it is declared several times that amount will be expended in the development of the Milwaukee plant just as rapidly as the plans are worked out.

RACE DRIVERS PICK FRANKLIN.

Air-Cooled Car Proves Popular with Speed Bugs.

Riding Qualities on Rough Roads Big Feature.

Large Increase Shown in Factory Production.

The favor with which men experienced in internal combustion engines, look upon the air-cooled Franklin car is one of the most pleasing factors connected with representation of that make of car, states Ralph Hamlin, the Southern California distributor. In a letter from the factory, Mr. Hamlin learns that Tommy Milton, the famous racing driver, recently bought a special color Franklin sedan for his personal use.

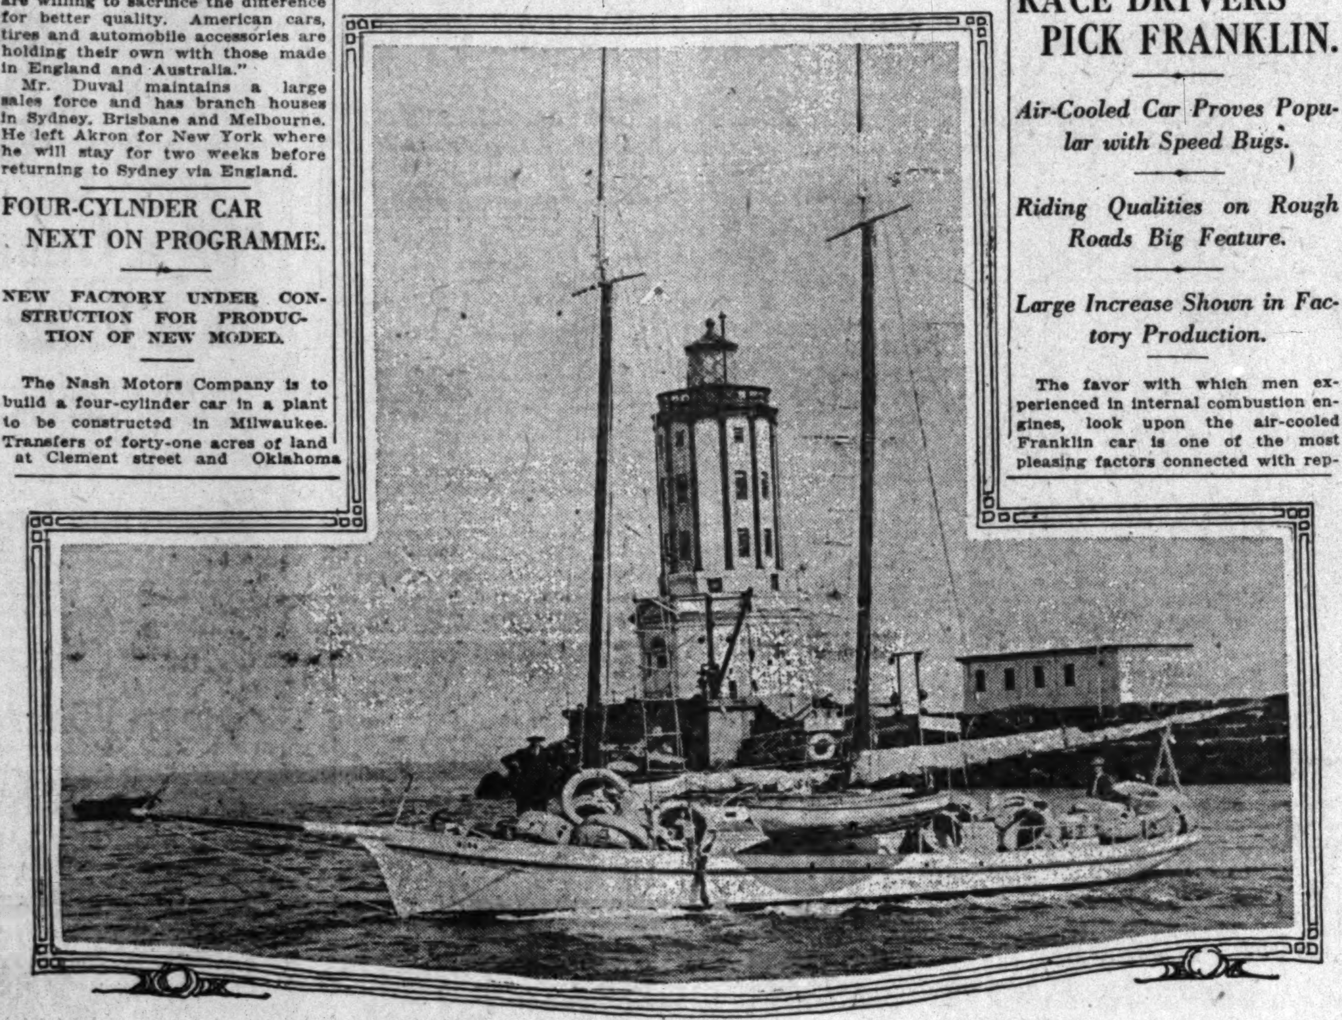
BARNEY HAS ONE.

Barney Oldsfield is another owner of a Franklin sedan and the entire country knows where Oldfield gained his experience. Thomas Dixon, the author and playwright, took delivery of his first Franklin recently and his son says that next to an airplane it is the smoothest thing in which to go over the bad roads he knows of. Young Dixon had aviation experience in France.

Some time ago, Harry L. Brown, a candy manufacturer of Tacoma, Wash., while in Paris, France, ordered by cablegram a Franklin sedan to be delivered to him at the factory. Upon arriving in the United States, Mr. Brown went to the factory, obtained the car and left at once to drive it home. He arrived recently and wrote back to the factory that on the 5000-mile trip he averaged 250 miles daily without tiring. He traveled at an average speed of twenty-five miles an hour and the gasoline consumption averaged nineteen miles to the gallon.

INCREASED PRODUCTION.

Mr. Hamlin has been notified that the Franklin production reached 1027 cars during August. The goal for the month was set at 1000 and to attain it the manufacturing department practically achieved the impossible, when present conditions are considered. One of the best features about such increased production, Mr. Hamlin said, was that every car leaving the factory was complete in every detail and ready for delivery to customers. This indicates the improved conditions in the material market as all manufacturers have been having to overcome innumerable difficulties to get complete cars into the hands of their agents throughout the country.



Requisitions Private Yacht to Carry Tires.

When B. F. Wade, distributor for Canton Cords and Blackstone tires, saw that a casing shortage was going to land in his vicinity, he brought his private yacht, the Genevieve, out of cold storage, sent it to San Francisco and hed a shipload of Canton Cords in his salesrooms inside of four days. Showing that freight tie-ups can be bucked in more ways than one.

SAVING TIME IN TIRE SHIPMENTS.

LARGE PLEASURE YACHT BRINGS BIG LOAD OF CASINGS TO LOCAL DEALER.

The commercial machinery of the United States is so large and complicated that in order to preserve the delicate balance of supply and demand the various parts must work in unison and dovetail exactly or the entire system is overturned, and once overturned it requires some time to get it working smoothly again.

Although the railroad strike was declared off several weeks ago here, the effects are still felt in the congestion of traffic at various transfer points. B. F. Wade, distributor for Canton Cords and Blackstone tires, and Howard S. Reed, Los Angeles dealer, both felt the effects. Although tires were on the way, shipment was slow.

With the stock of Canton cords running low on account of a heavy demand in Los Angeles, the two tire men determined not to allow their patrons to be dissatisfied. To transport them to Los Angeles themselves was the only remedy for the situation.

Mr. Wade had his private yacht anchored at San Pedro, and it proved to be the solution of the problem. With a load of Wade Rim-Lock Blowout Shoes and Wade reliners ready to be shipped to San Francisco and a load of Canton cords at San Francisco ready for shipment to Los Angeles, Mr. Wade took the transportation problem into his own hands and converted his private yacht "The Genevieve," into a freighter, in order to give service to Canton consumers.

The water route proved an efficient method of transportation. The round trip was made in a little more than four days with the two loads under the direction of Fred S. Blackington, a brother officer of Mr. Reed in the United States Navy, and now skipper on the Genevieve. At San Pedro the load was transferred to trucks and moved into Los Angeles in a short time.

DRINK DEW ON GILBRALTAR.

The ancient "dew ponds" of England have their modern counterparts on the Rock of Gilbraltar, where drinking water is obtained by the condensation of the abundant dew in especially prepared basins.

The primitive process consists in making a hollow in the ground and filling the bottom with dry straw, over which is placed a layer of clay. On a clear night the clay cools very rapidly and the dew is condensed into water in the basin.

The pond is improved by putting a layer of asphalt or Portland cement under the straw. At Gibraltar the present practice is to use wood instead of straw and sheet iron instead of clay.—[New York Tribune.

GUARANTEED FROM IMPERFECTIONS.

ACTUAL MILEAGE PROVES NO BASIS FOR JUDGING QUALITY OF TIRES.

The United States Rubber Company has been the recipient of thousands of inquiries since it announced its policy regarding tire guarantees, according to J. B. Magee, manager of the Southern California and Arizona departments for the maker of Royal cords and other tires. "Summarizing these, all practically ask the same question, which is, 'How can you get away from a definite guarantee in merchandising a tire,'" said Magee.

GOOD REGARDLESS.

"As a matter of fact, we have made a more definite guarantee. It holds good regardless of mileage. However, we do not urge a guarantee to make sales. We lay stress upon quality. We have been making Royal Cords for four years and in that time we have never had any definite mileage guarantee in making adjustments. Furthermore, we have never advertised any definite mileage guarantee on any of our tires.

"The whole matter has appealed to us in this way. We felt that our factories were turning out as good tires as could be produced under the present art of tire manufacture. Why, then, should we guarantee mileage any more than a shoe store with a high-class line of merchandise should use one covering the number of miles a shoe would last. As long as we have no control over the manner in which a tire is used after it becomes the purchaser's property, it is impossible to specify the mileage a tire will go. The whole thing resolves itself into perfection or imperfection. If an imperfection exists at any time in the life of the tire, then it is up to us to make good."

MAJOR WADSWORTH IN AIRCRAFT GAME.

F. G. Diffin, president of the United Aircraft Engineering Corporation, announces the election of Maj. George R. Wadsworth as second vice-president of the company. Maj. Wadsworth is in charge of transportation development work, which includes the establishment of municipal landing fields and air routes in all parts of the country for passenger carrying and light express. During the war he was chief engineer of the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia, and proved to be a valuable asset to the government.

The election of Maj. Wadsworth and Chance M. Vought as directors of the United Aircraft Engineering Corporation is also announced.

DIFFERENCE SHOWN IN BODY DESIGN.

NEW FUSELAGE TYPE IS RESULT OF MOTORIST DRIVING HIS OWN CAR.

An explanation of the reason of the difference in the type of the American automobile body from that of the average European make, was given last week by A. J. Pray, western sales manager of the Stephens Motor Works, to O. R. Fuller of the White Auto Company, distributor of the Stephens salient six.

"We have received many compliments upon our new American type Stephens salient six bodies, and we have frequently been asked to explain how the American type of body differs from the European type," said Pray. "When autos were first built they were so complicated and mysterious in their operation that expert drivers and mechanicians were required to operate and care for them.

"Private-owned horse-drawn carriages were always of the two, four and six-passenger type, and were driven usually by the owner. But in motor cars new requirements necessitated the addition of the third, fifth and seventh seat, the extra seat being for the driver. It was because of this reason that the three, five and seven-passenger models were created at the inception of the industry by European designers. However, times have changed, and so have conditions.

"In this country the owner generally drives his own car, so the necessity for the third, fifth and seventh seat has passed. Stephens makers are the first to announce a complete line of open motor cars entirely American in type, and confined to two, four and six-passenger models. This type affords advantage in design, for it permits of the attractive and narrow body of the fuselage type, which so distinguishes Stephens motor cars from all others."

Somewhat Slighted.

"After all," remarked Methuselah, "my long life has been a good deal of a failure."

"Merely because you kept out of politics?"

"No. But it does seem to me that I've been at least entitled to an occasional interview as to whether or not I attribute my longevity to abstinence from strong drink and tobacco."—[Washington Star.

MACK PERFORMANCE COUNTS

MANUFACTURED

As applied to motor trucks the word Manufactured means the opposite to Assembled.

That differentiation means a great deal to every user of motor trucks.

The vital parts of the MACK chassis—axles, engine, transmission, frame, radiator, etc.—are built and finished at the MACK plants.

Their refinements in design, materials and construction account for MACK superiority in power, strength, stamina, economical operation and reliable performance.

Per ton of rated capacity, MACK Trucks have the most powerful engines. The crankshafts are the largest and strongest used in any motor trucks.

Chain drive delivers more power to rear wheels under all conditions than is possible with any other present form of drive.

SOFT PURR HAS FAMILIAR SOUND

President Feels at Home in War-Tested Machine.

Interesting Experiences of Car on French Soil.

New Set of War Pictures Received by Local Dealers.

Riding in a Cadillac was no new experience for President Wilson. During his stay in France he had become familiar with the soft purr of the Cadillac engine and had heard much of the wonderful work of these cars in the service of the United States Army. In the hold of the George Washington, which took the President and the peace delegates to the conference, were twelve Cadillac limousines. These cars were unloaded as soon as the President had left the ship, were filled with fuel on the docks at Brest, and were in Paris before the Presidential party had arrived. In France the President and Mrs. Wilson did much of their riding in Cadillac limousines. Naturally, he felt at home to be riding in a Cadillac in San Francisco.

Stories of the great work of the Cadillacs as the standard car for the United States Army continue to reach the Cadillac factory and Don Lee.

EXPERIENCES.

The experience of Maj. W. P. Wattles, Fifty-second Battalion, Telegraphic Corps, Third Army, and his Cadillac, car No. 13341, seems to prove that it takes something more than a German high-explosive shell to put a Cadillac out of commission.

In the operations at Arcis le Ponsard, near the Vesle River, it was necessary to drive this car to a point within three kilometers of the front-line trenches. The position was under heavy fire from the enemy, and while Maj. Wattles and his driver were absent from the car it fell victim to a high-explosive shell.

The body and hood were literally riddled with holes, no less than 115 being counted.

Slight damage was done to the steering gear and to one water jacket, but the car was in operation within ten minutes after the shell hit. The need for the car was so great that it could not immediately be sent back to the repair shop, and it continued to serve in its battered state until it could be relieved.

There arrived in Los Angeles last week one of the best collections of war pictures seen in the West. These came from Capt. Lyle H. Gilmore, who wrote Don Lee as follows:

"The Cadillac, or, as I learned to say, Ca-dee-yak, across the water, is a real automobile. There may be a better one tomorrow, but it will be another one of the Cadillac models.

"On being transferred to the second section of the General Staff last December I took station at Neufchateau. At this season we had many of your cars, at that time all limos. These cars had been driven thousands of miles without repair.

"During December, January and February I covered 1000 miles a week on roads that would have shaken the 'liver' out of most people. They were torn by shells and covered with mud; also, the fact that one must cover the ground made the life of a car a hardship. However, these cars stood up and never faltered. The longest single day's drive was from Spincourt to Paris via Nevers. This is approximately 400 miles, and the routes were covered with frozen snow. We did not use chains, as the shoes were new and the driver a full-fledged one. The amount of time consumed was about fifteen hours. Two stops were made to fill the gas tank."

President Wilson at the Bay City.

One of the machines used by the President during his visit in San Francisco was a Cadillac—one of the latest models and the handsomest car turned out by the eastern factory.

A FEW HINTS FOR MOTOR TRAVELERS.

Going on an automobile tour? If so, here are a few hints, offered by M. D. Bixby, local branch manager of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, that will make your trip more enjoyable.

First, inspect your engine and your tires.

Second, check up your list of supplies and accessories and if any of the following items are missing, procure them and take them with you; one extra casing in a tire cover, two or more extra inner tubes, properly wrapped to protect from oil and prevent chafing; one box of self-vulcanizing patches and one box of permanent puncture plugs for smaller punctures; one tire sleeve; one set of applying levers; one box of powdered soapstone or mica to be used between casing and tube to prevent sticking; six valve insides and six valve caps; three dust caps; an air pump; jack and tire guage.

AUTO CLUB SETS EXAMPLE.

Organizations All Over Country Follow Insurance Plans Started Here.

"Co-operation" has made the labors of the bees and ants famous in the animal kingdom, and now some thousands of automobile owners are congratulating themselves throughout Southern California that co-operation among themselves bids fair to make this corner of the American continent nationally famous, too.

WAY BACK.

It all goes back to that day in 1912 when a local mechanical repairman charged the Los Angeles owner of a "horseless carriage" $15 for applying a match to the pilot-light of his stalled machine way out on Jefferson street! "This is a match too much," said the auto owner, "and $15 is much too much," so forthwith he gathered some of his "horseless carriage" owning friends together and a "combination in restraint of exhorbitant repair charges" was formed.

This co-operative combination of automobile owners was known as the Automobile Club of Southern California.

By 1912 the club had grown and prospered, and the powers, that were, within its ranks, decided that something should be done to reduce the high cost of automobile insurance. They remembered how they had reduced the high cost of repairs by stinging the repair-profiteers in 1900 with the bee of co-operation. Thereupon, the Interinsurance Exchange of the Automobile Club was launched.

YEARS LATER.

Now seven years later, club directors and officials have discovered that old Mr. H. C. L.—his own worst press agent—is not invincible, for they have opened the eyes of the insurance world by reducing insurance rates 25 per cent over the club rates of last year! With everything else costing more, the spirit of "co-operation" has animated Southern California into finding a way to make their insurance cost less.

But beginning with 1912 the club found a way to reduce its insurance to motorists from time to time, and along with its reductions came reductions by the board companies, so that Southern California automobile owners profited while they slept. Now, it is estimated that the total saving to these car owners in the southern part of the State, since 1912, has been more than $4,000,000 just because the motorists themselves decided to reduce their own rates on insurance.

The pioneering spirit of the Southern California club has trickled elsewhere, and now in Michigan, Illinois and Ohio other motorists are finding that by clubbing together they can save themselves some hundreds of thousands of dollars every year, and inter-insurance exchanges are doing their part in putting auto insurance rates down to a level within the reach of all.

OUT AFTER THE H. C. OF L.

Well posted authorities agree that the economic principles involved in the reduction of the high cost of living centers around the transportation problem. In their opinion, it is impossible to look for any reduction in freight rates by either water or rail lines, and the electric systems are also facing a crisis. Labor and upkeep are constant problems on all transportation lines, and they are not in any position to meet these rising costs of operation without a consequent raise in their charges.

ONLY HOPE.

According to Walter H. Bisell, of the Walter H. Bissell Company, distributors of Diamond T motor trucks in Southern California, Arizona and Lower California, the hope for a reduction in the cost of living lies in the adoption of motor transportation by the food producers. It is useless for the farmer to adopt labor-saving machinery on the farm if he does not use labor-saving machinery to transport his products to market.

The transportation engineers employed by the Diamond T truck organization have estimated that fully 50 per cent. of the perishable foodstuffs never reach the consumer because they are raised on farms too remote from markets in which they are sold, and without motor transportation it is impossible to reach the market before it is spoiled. Herbert Hoover, Federal Food Administrator, is quoted as saying that fully 40 to 60 per cent. of the potato crop rots in the ground each year because of lack of transportation.

GETTING STATISTICS.

The engineers of the Bissell company are now engaged in working out a series of transportation costs, showing the efficiency of the motor truck as an economical carrier, and the relative savings which can be effected by the use of trucks in transporting perishable foodstuffs to market. These figures will soon be available to Diamond T owners and those interested in the use of trucks for carriers of produce.

WARRING AGAINST FRICTION.

Every day the motor of an automobile stages a little private war of its own—a war against friction—against overheating—against scored cylinders—and the hundred and one enemies who would rob it of its power to perform. It is here that the motorist can apply the lessons learned from the great war just ended—the lesson of preparedness being especially applicable.

PREPAREDNESS.

Preparedness for the individual, the industry, and the nation has been preached incessantly since the ending of the war. The lesson was taught by the necessity of raising a huge army. When the war broke out, the standing army of the country was small. It was sufficient for border trouble, but without aid under the speed and pressure of the great war its efforts would have been futile.

From the work of our army, L. H. Johnson, president of the Panama Lubricants Company, distributors for Pennzoil lubricants, draws a lesson for the motorist. Action, he says, is forever waging a war against the motor. So the motorist should be prepared by using good oil. For ordinary running in cool weather, not more than one-quarter of the motor's horse power is used, so the motor meets only "border troubles." For such driving, cheap oils will protect it. But every car is bound to meet heavy going sometime. It either has a big load, it must go fast, or has hills to climb. Then it is, according to Mr. Johnson, that the motor enters the big war. The action is so fast that the motor heats rapidly and quickly past the breaking point of the cheap oils. Then is the time that the motor must be reinforced in its fight against friction.

a contest for control. On the other hand, brokers here who profess to know that the buying of Fisher stock is for the account of local stockholders and that the movement in Kelsey is due to a huge order for wheels placed by the Ford Motor Company.

Durant-Dupont interests are said to be behind the movement for obtaining control of the stock of both companies. This is denied on both sides, however.

LEAVES FOR TOUR OF ELECTRICAL SHOPS.

Harry Mason, general manager of the Electric Equipment Company, left yesterday for an Eastern trip which will include visits to all the important electric equipment centers of the East. His itinerary includes the U. S. L. Battery Co., Niagara Falls, Iseman Magneto Works, New York City, the Bijur Generator Co., Newark, N. J., Westinghouse Electric Co., Pittsburgh, and the Autolite Company, Detroit. Mr. Mason expects upon his return to be an encycolpaedia of information concerning the latest in electric equipment.

NORTHWEST IS USING TRUCKS.

Increased Demand Shown for Local Product.

Value for Short Hauls has been Thoroughly Tested.

Mining Companies and Farmers are Big Users.

Giving evidence of the rapidly spreading development of motor transportation throughout the country, manufacturers of motor trucks are being swamped with orders, such being the case of the Moreland Motor Truck Company.

Being a western product, there has been an insistent demand for Moreland equipment throughout the West, increased activity being shown along this line in the Pacific Northwest, due to the increased popularity of Moreland trucks in that district.

Recently a fleet of Morelands was shipped to Seattle to the Commercial Motors Company, Moreland agents for that territory. These trucks will be ushered into various lines of work, two of the fleet being taken by a large transfer company and the balance being distributed throughout the timber country in close proximity to the Washington capital.

In addition to the large number of orders from the north that have been filed with Roy D. Heartz, general manager of the Moreland Motor Truck Company, mining companies of Arizona and New Mexico, farmers and hauling contractors through the Imperial Valley have also put in their applications for equipment, all of which tends to prove the contention that motor transportation has really come into its own.

The value of motor trucks for short hauls is now a known factor, as it has been proven that the railroads cannot afford to handle freight over short distances. In addition, motor truck lines are being circulated throughout the farming and mining districts of the West, which are not touched by the railways. This enables the farmer to get his products to market on schedule time and on the return, he is able to obtain commodities from the city, thus eliminating the heretofore unnecessary delays.

"During the recent railroad strike, the motor transporter was called upon as in the recent European struggle, and as in the past its far-reaching utility tended to relieve the situation," declared Mr. Heartz. "The time is not very far away when the motor truck will be used exclusively for the handling of freight on short hauls, as it has been stated by railroad officials that no profit is realized from short distance shipping. With the current demand for motor trucks, it is evident that motor trucks have at least gained in the realm of transportation."

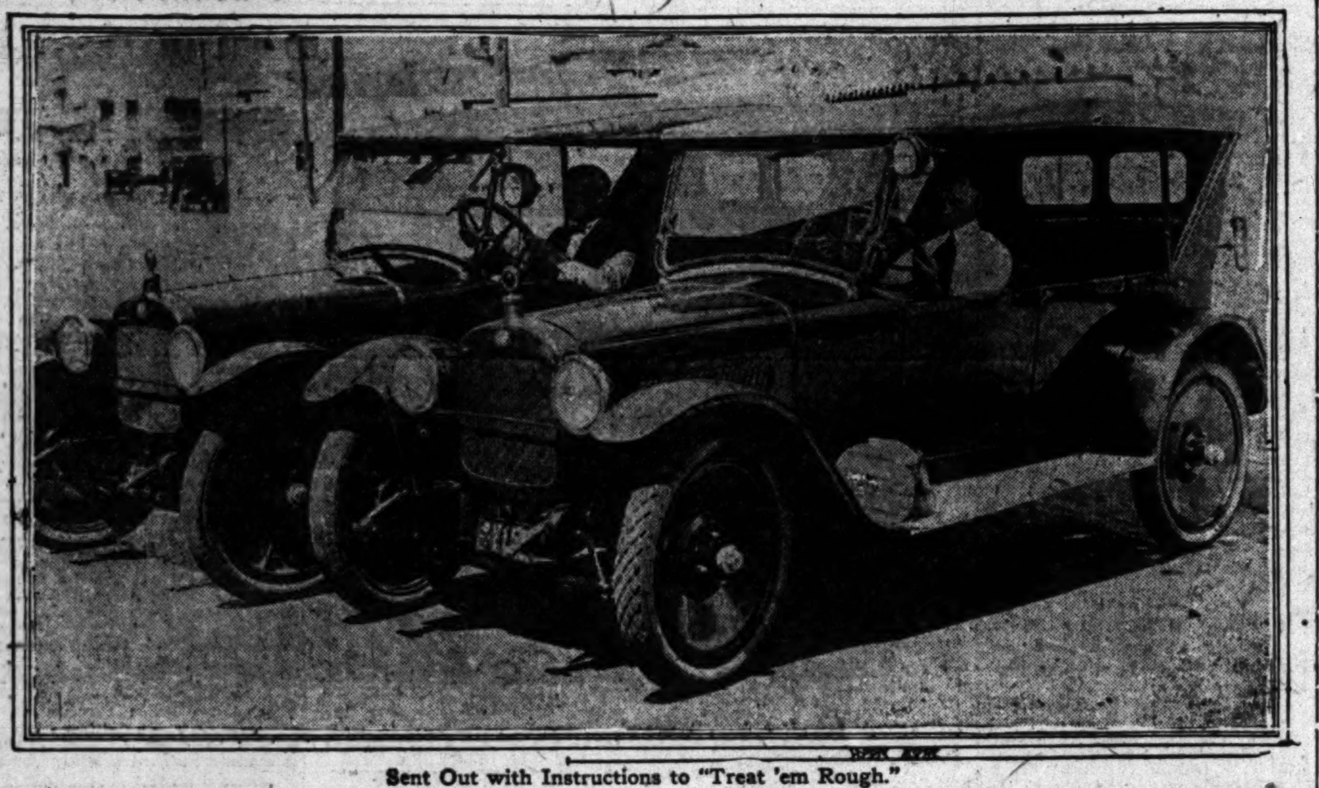
San Fernando Saturday arriving at Los Angeles some time before noon and in time for the joint parade of the Los Angeles and San Francisco carvans.

It is one of the requirements of the convoy that each truck which participates must carry a load of the exact capacity for which it is intended, and that the load must be for delivery in Los Angeles. Each of the trucks will carry a banner 9x3 feet in dimensions, and which shall bear the inscription, "First Highway Motor Train. San Francisco to Los Angeles. By California Motor Truck Distributors." The banner may also show the name of the distributor, the make of the truck and its capacity, and will carry the ship-by truck emblem officially adopted by the Firestone ship-by-truck bureaus of the country.

Truck dealers of the State have evidenced the fact that they are wide-awake to the possibilities of the commercial caravan. They see as the result of it, a general awakening on the part of the shipping public as to the great future of the truck as a freight carrier and as a competitor of the railroad, and because of this general awakening they see a great impetus to the agitation for better roads all over the nation.

These points will be brought home to the public along the line which the convoy will follow by the highway and transportation speakers that will accompany the convoy.

The San Francisco caravan probably will return home by the Coast route and it is the present plan to make a nonstop trip, demonstrating the speed and effectiveness of the motor truck as a freight hauler.



Sent Out with Instructions to "Treat 'em Rough."

Two Hupmobiles, part of a fleet of eight of the same make, that are being used in testing steel wheels. The drivers were sent out with orders to let nothing in the way of rough road work stop them and they are obeying the orders to the letter.

TESTING STEEL WHEELS.

Driving two Hupmobiles that are part of a fleet of eight cars of the same make, now employed by the Detroit Pressed Steel Company in making a thorough test of the Disteel wheels made that concern, Arthur Robertson and Edgar Flenterman, reached Los Angeles last week. Both Hupmobiles left the factory at the same time and each one to date has made a little better than 4000 miles.

SPECIALLY PICKED.

Hupmobiles were chosen by the steel concern for these tests, because of their remarkable sturdiness and their ability to withstand the abuse they are being put to in this class of work. Before the entire fleet was purchased, two Hupmobiles were given tests, that were, according to the drivers, about as severe as any car could be asked to stand up under. Their instructions before they left Detroit, were not to spare the wheels, and according to their own statements, they are making a good job of it.

Each car has averaged about twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline and about 750 miles to the gallon of oil. The car of one driver has suffered six punctures and the other has had none. One, while driving at about forty miles hour, struck a culvert when all four wheels left the ground and when the car landed the frame hit the axles. The driver thought all four springs were gone, but an examination found them in perfect condition. Encountering a cloudburst in Iowa, one Hupmobile skidded on a red clay road and landed in the ditch. The other Hupmobile pulled it out without the least damage.

In New Mexico one Hupmobile skidded into a large boulder, when a running board was split and a fender bent, but no other injury resulted. Both men carry complete camping outfits and whenever night overtakes them they go into camp.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION TO AID GOOD ROADS.

"We have just had a letter from the National Highway Council," said Stewart McDonald, president and general manager of the Moon Motor Car Company of St. Louis, "in regard to the highway bill pending in the Senate. Realising the importance of highways to all automobilists and to automobile dealers, we have sent a letter to every one of our dealers telling him the text of the letter which is to the effect that the pending legislation will, in no way, affect Federal aid in road building. It will rather strength the Federal aid in the building of the minor roads of the country. The Senate bill plans for government engineers to take complete charge of the rebuilding of through highways, that is, the trunk lines.

"We are trying to get this information out so that every motorist in the country and every dealer in automobiles will write to their Senators commanding and urging the passage of this highway legislation."

NEW AIRPLANE FOR U. S. MAIL SERVICE.

SPECIALLY CONSTRUCTED MARTIN SHIPS TO HANDLE HEAVY LOADS.

Second Assistant Postmaster-General Otto Praeger, who was in Cleveland during aviation week, the occasion being the celebration of 100 days of perfect flying on the aerial mail route between Cleveland and Chicago, took advantage of the oportunity presented to visit the plant of the Glenn L. Martin Company where six big mail planes are now under construction.

Mr. Praeger was accompanied on his trip throught the plant by John A. Jordan, superintendent of the Western Division of the Aerial Mail, under whose supervision the 100-day record was made. They were shown through the plant by Mr. Martin himself and saw the delicate workmanship that goes into the big 800-horsepower bombers built for the army.

The mail planes, except for details of the fusilage, will be identical in construction and performance with the big army bombers. For purposes of balance, the fusilage will be divided into two compartments, each with a capacity of 1000 pounds of mail. The nose of the machine will be given a bullet shape and will form one of the mail compartments. Behind this, and approximately even with the entering edge of the wings, will be the pilot's seat. The second mail compartment will be located immediately behind the fuel tanks.

TO ASSIST STATE ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

TRANSFER OF MOTOR TRUCKS TO BE BIG BOOST IN GOOD ROADS INTERESTS.

In order that State highway construction work may be advanced as rapidly as posible in its big new schedule, energetic action is being taken by Los Angeles organizations to help the State get its full allotment of excess army motor vehicles and equipment. At present the transfer of vehicles is being held up by action of the Judge Advocate-General of the army.

AMENDMENT.

An amendment to the postoffice appropriation act of February 28, 1919, authorized the Secretary of War to transfer to the Department of Agriculture the surplus motor-propelled vehicles and equipment for them accumulated to meet the needs of the war.

On August 22, however, the War Department notified the Department of Agriculture that the Judge Advocate-General of the army had rendered an opinion that inasmuch as section 7 of the postoffice appropriation act does not specifically authorize this transfer, no further transfers will be made. A number of motor trucks already have been received by the State from the War Department.

To meet this situation, F. D. Howell of the California Highway Transportation Association wired Congressman H. Z. Osborne to use his best endeavors to have "the original intent of the postoffice appropriation act carried out."

REPLY RECEIVED.

This reply by wire has been received from Mr. Osborne: "Law offices of Treasury, War, Postoffice and Agriculture Departments are preparing a bill with view to settling dispute. Drafts will be ready in about three weks."

In addition to this action, two resolutions covering the matter have ben introduced in Congress, one by Congressman Kahn of California, and the other by Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia. Senator Smith's resolution has the indorsement of the Federal Highway Council and the American Association of State Highway Officials. If the army motor trucks are not turned over to the States for highway construction work, they will be sold at public auctions.

LARGE INCREASE IN MILLER SALES.

With an increase of approximately 56 per cent. in sales volume for first seven mouths in 1919, as compared with the same period in 1918, the Miller Rubber Company of Akron, O., shows every indication of shattering all of its previous records when the totals are checked up at the end of this year.

Whereas the company did approximately $16,000,000 business in 1918, a $23,000,000 figure was set for 1919, and, judging from present indications, the latter mark will be passed easily.

VISITS FACTORY TO FIGHT DELAYS.

BELIEVES WAY TO GET TIRES DELIVERED IS TO SEE IT ACTUALLY DONE.

The way to get what you want is to go right after it, especially in the automobile trade under present conditions. At least, this is the view taken of the situation by R. O. Jackson of the Rubber City Clearing-house Company, who left Los Angeles last week to expedite the shipment to this city of a large quantity of tires purchased by him on a trip east several weeks ago.

"I thought I had everything fixed so that we could double our usual weekly receipt of a carload of tires," he told his associate, F. A. Scott, "and I no sooner get back here than I am advised that unavoidable delays are being encountered in getting the stock we bought headed this way."

"Well, why don't you beat it right back and see that they get the shipments started?" Scott asked.

"That's my intention," Jackson answered, and three hours later he was aboard a train headed for Akron. "I'll have those tires moving out here pronto, even if I have to crate them myself," he assured Scott.

HUDSON SUPER SIX

The Hudson Has a Patented Motor

The Super-Six is Its Own Creation and No Other Maker Can Use It. Adds 72% to Power and Accounts for Hudson Endurance

Everyone knows the Hudson Super-Six and what it has done in winning all worth while records for speed, acceleration, mountain climbing and endurance.

But many have overlooked the fact that those records were made possible because of the Super-Six motor, invented and patented by Hudson.

The first Super-Six quality to attract attention was its power, a 72% increase without added weight or cylinders.

But rivals when they saw that, said it could not be relied upon to give long service.

Let Us See What It Did

The makers did not know the full endurance limit of the Super-Six motor. For that matter they don't even now know its limit, although it has been put to longer, harder tests than is ever asked of an automobile, even in the most famous long distance races.

This was shown in the 500-mile Indianapolis race last May, for while faster cars were entered, the privately owned and raced Super-Sixes showed a continuous performance of unrivaled endurance.

The first Super-Six endurance run was made when a stock touring car carrying driver and passenger was driven at top speed for one hour and officially established the record. Then that same car was pushed to greater tests by driving it with five passengers and with top and windshield up, 100 miles at 70.74 miles per hour, also making a new official record.

That failing to reveal its endurance, a stock Super-Six chassis was driven by one man 1819 miles in 24 hours. The best previous record, made by a specially built racer, was 327 miles short of the distance covered by the Hudson.

Then the run from San Francisco to New York was made. It lowered the best previous time by more than 14 hours. And to give further evidence of its endurance, the car was turned back and reached San Francisco 10 days and 21 hours after leaving there on 7000 miles of the hardest driving ever made to establish motor car endurance. The return trip, too, was made in shorter time than any other car has ever done it.

And 60,000 Users Added Their Experience

That is the number of Super-Sixes in use at the time the present model was announced. Every test and every report of owners served as a help in making a better Hudson.

The patented Super-Six motor called for a car that in every detail matched its quality. New standards were made necessary. Each year has seen a nearer approach to the ideal.

Mechanical perfection was not all that Hudson engineers aimed at. They sought to make the Hudson complete in every detail of convenience, beauty and comfort.

For Four Years the Largest Selling Fine Car

Merit is reflected in the way in which the public views the Super-Six.

For four years it has been the largest selling fine car. It is known in every community and on every highway. Present deliveries exceed 100 Hudsons a day. Factory production was never so great and we were never so far behind orders. Men have long known that to get a Hudson it is necessary to make reservations in advance. On some models and in some seasons thousands have waited a month or more.

But They Know It Was Worth Waiting For

No man can drive a Hudson without feeling a growing respect for it. It grows out of the same endurance the car has revealed in all those tests made when the Super-Six was new. They know the real meaning of motor satisfaction. Their needs are fulfilled.

If you plan to get a Hudson next year, now is not too early to speak for it. Think of the thousands disappointed this year.

McKEE LENS

Severe competitive tests made by the U. S. Bureau of Standards proved the McKee Lens the most efficient lens for night driving. On its findings, the Inventions Board of the War Department recommended the exclusive adoption of the McKee Lens for Army and other uses. Every official test of city, State or Nation to which it can be subjected proves its superiority.

Be Safe From the Law and Dangers of the Road

Don't wait to be arrested, before you comply with the new State law. The price of the McKee Lens is less than a fine. It will save you from the law, for it's legal everywhere.

Choose the McKee and you get an intense road-beam for 600 feet ahead—a strong side-light for passing cars and turning corners safely.

McKee Lenses range in price from $2.75 to $4.25 depending on the size.

STUNT FLYING IS HER DREAM.

Natalie Hahn Wants to Land in Back Yard.

Can do as Good a Vrille as Any of the R.M.A.s.

Not Turned Loose Yet, but Hopes to Solo Soon.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

To become a genuine, dyed-in-the-wool stunt aviator! That's the ambition of Natalie Hahn.

Just a doll-babyish little girl with big blue eyes and red cheeks and yellow hair is Miss Natalie, and to look at her you'd never imagine for a minute that she'd run all the way from home in Hartford, Ct., to Hollywood, Cal., in order to take up a big rude man's job like flying. But she's an awfully determined little thing even if she is only 18.

DON'T SAY THAT.

"And I shan't go home," said Miss Natalie, her eyes snapping a sapphire blue, "until I can fly home and land in our back yard!"

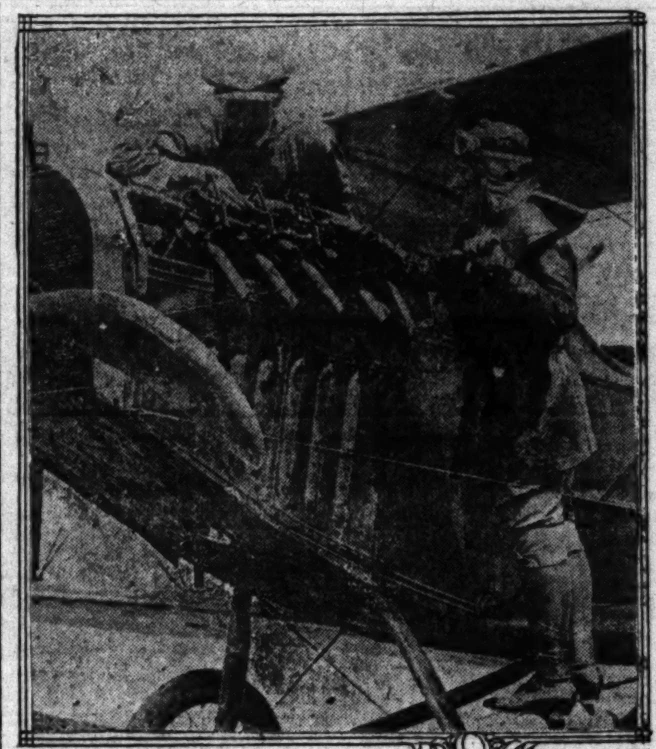
Any day you happen out at the Mercury company's shops at De Mille Aviation Field in Hollywood, you're likely to see a girlish figure, encased in soiled overalls and jumper, tinkering a flying machine, or maybe you'll see her trip out to a plane, hop in and take off into the sky. Of course, there'll be an instructor with her, because she hasn't got her pilot's license yet, but already she has done stunt flying—did a tail spin in a 700-foot drop the other day all by herself — and she expects to have her license soon—and then just watch her!

But she's a very girly girl, and meeting Miss Natalie anywhere, except at the aviation field, you'd expect her talk to be about beaus and dances instead of chatter about crankshafts and rotations and cylinders and deadly technical things like that.

"But I love an outdoor life," said Miss Hahn, "I've won basketball honors at school, I can swim and I'm not afraid to ride any horse I ever saw. I hadn't the slightest idea what an aviation camp looked like, and when I arrived at the field, I wore a black satin dress and black satin pumps. I guess they didn't think I was in earnest out there at first, and the instructor used to hate to ask me to do dirty work around the machine, but by and by when he saw how anxious I was to work and learn, he showed a willingness to teach me all he knew."

They found out the youngster was game, though, the first day the instructor put her through stunts in making a flight When she came down, she asked, "Is that all?"

According to the instructors at Mercury, Miss Hahn is a very clever little girl, and a very hard worker, "and a good little scout." And the flyers all pay her the highest compliment in their power, when they simply treat her like one of themselves, with the man-like indifference and the taking her for granted, which bespeaks a fellow's confidence in a pal, exactly as they would treat her in any other kind of a school.



Learning Aviation from the Ground Up.

Miss Natalie Hahn decided that she wanted to be a stunt flyer and wasted no time in jumping into the game. She has been flying for several weeks at the De Mille field and even makes the local R.M.A.'s stand up and take notice when she drops into a vrille.

SUPREME TEST IS OWNER'S APPROVAL.

PERFECT COOLING MAKES CAR GREAT SUCCESS IN IMPERIAL VALLEY.

No one denies that the supreme test of motor worth is found in the demands of the owner—and when the owner is satisfied the car is a complete success. Since this is true, C. P. Vauclain, president of the Standard Automotive Corporation, distributors of the Standard 8, considers his car successful in every sense of the word as the showing it has made since he took the distributing agency in Los Angeles a short time ago, has been all that could be desired.

All of the Standard 8 purchasers, according to Mr. Vauclain, who have got in touch with the local company, have expressed themselves as pleased with the performance of the car. Very few ever return to report a defect or fault in the car.

Especially good records have been made by the Standard 8 in Imperial Valley, according to reports reaching Mr. Vauclain. The gear-driven fan of the Standard insures perfect cooling of the motor at all times, eliminating the inconvenience of fan slipping and breaking of fan belts, which so often occurs in the car with a belt-driven fan. The heat of the valley floor makes it imperative that the motorists of that section use a motor which can stand the heat, and from reports to Mr. Vauclain, that car has been found in the Standard 8.

MANY APPRAISERS MISS ITS WEIGHT.

LOW SET OF BODY GIVES IDEA OF EXTREME LIGHTNESS—ROADS SHOW BALANCE.

Although the Templar as compared with much heavier cars, is in the light-car class, its appearance is deceiving and often experienced appraisers of automobiles place its weight at too low a marks, according to James B. Russell, head of the Boulevard Motors Corporation, Southern California distributor of the Templar.

"The Templar four and five passenger touring models weigh about 3100 pounds. Because it is set low, and the reason for this is the perfect balance that allows it to hold the road as if glued to it at the higher speeds, those experienced in motor car construction, place its weight at several hundred pounds lighter," said Russell.

"However, a ride in the Templar over rough roads brings a decided change of opinion, for its takes the bumps with the ease of a much heavier car. In three years of intensive building and during which time, improvements have been steadily made, and deficiencies ironed out, the demand for the Templar has so increased that the factory is now being increased to twice its original size. By the first of the year the production will be doubled."

The Boulevard Motors Corporation has been fortunate in that its shipments of Templars from the factory have been but little delayed, and sell, it is able to make prompt defor the present, according to Rusliveries.

STRENUOUS WAY TO BREAK IN NEW CAR.

TRIP TO BIG BEAR LAKE IS MADE WITH NEW MACHINE, BUT NOT RECOMMENDED.

Some automobile manufacturers affix to the windshield of each car that leaves their factory a printed notice to the purchaser which constitutes a warning. The notice informs the owner that the car is new and therefore care should be exercised in driving it the first 1000 miles. Usually it protests against excessive speed and directs attention to the need for careful lubrication. Experienced owners have learned that it pays them to observe this warning as after the car is "broken in" it gives better service for not having been abused when new.

Eddie Bolz, a member of the personnel of Earl V. Armstrong, Inc., the Chandler distributors took delivery of a Chandler roadster a few days ago. It was his personal car and naturally Bolz desired to break it in properly. He had planned for a vacation at his cabin on Big Bear Lake and decided to drive his new Chandler there. He started for the lake at 11:30 o'clock at night. He drove slowly in the mountains and did not reach his destination until 8:30 o'clock the next morning. Although the car was brand new he handled it so carefully that when he reached the lake it was in better working order than when he left Los Angeles and had consumed but half a pint of water.

The same care was exercised on the return trip and as the result the car is free from squeaks or rattles and the engine is in splendid condition. Bolz said the trip did the car good, but advises such a breaking in process only when the driver is disposed to bear in mind that his car is new and to treat it accordingly. Both Mill Creek and City Creek roads to the valley, Bolz reports, have been worn by traffic until they are somewhat rough.

ENGLAND IMPORTS AMERICAN CARS.

A single order received at the office of the Barley Motor Car Company last week requested $1,066,500 worth of automobiles. It was from William Cole and Sons, of London, England, and passed through the hands of Robertson Cole and Company, Ltd., exporters. The order called for 366 Roamer cars of various models. The first shipment will go forward this month.

Another contract was closed last week when S. E. Hale, of the Hale-Hammond Company, Worcester, Mass., visited the Kalamazoo plant accompanied by his wholesale manager, Mr. Green, and took over the general distribution throughout New England, not including the territory in metropolitan Boston. The complete order calls for 204 Roamers.

PLANS FOR THE WORLD SERIES.

Cicotte and Williams, alternating them from day to day. But with the possibility of the battle going nine games, unless Gleason gets away to a good start and sees that he can sew it up in five games, he will of necessity throw in some of his second-string men. And if the sort of ball the White Sox have been playing in the past few weeks is a criterion of the class which they will show in the big play-off, they look good enough to win some games behind such pitching as James, Kerr and Lowdermilk will be able to offer.

Moran's heavers, with the exception of Slim Sallee, are green hands at the world series business, and that is generally a disadvantage. However, the same was true of James, Tyler and Rudolph in 1914, and none of them seemed palsied with stage fright when they faced the Athletics. Whether Moran has any heavers temperamentally invulnerable as was that great trio, remains for the real test to prove or disprove. If the seasoned Sallee should get the club away to a good start it will tend to steady the staff generally.

THROTTLED DOWN TO HALF-MILE AN HOUR.

Cannonball Baker of motorcycle fame and among the first in the country to own a Revere car, is an ardent admirer of Harry A. Miller of the Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company, maker of the Miller carburetor. Baker, who has a wide range of knowledge in the matter of carburetion, said:

"The Miller gives me everything I want whenever I want it. I have throttled down to one-half a mile an hour on second speed and that's going some, you or anyone else must admit. I was in the mountains recently with eight people in my car and the power that the car developed under trying circumstances, I considered something marvelous."

URGENT CALLS FOR BIGGER ALLOTMENTS.

J. B. WOOD GOES TO FACTORY WITH SINGLE IDEA OF GETTING MORE TIRES.

At the factory of the Hewitt Rubber Company, Buffalo, N. Y., J. B. Wood, distributor for Hewitt tires and tubes in Southern California and Arizona, is importuning the manufacturers to increase the allotment of their product to this territory and make faster shipments.

Although the Hewitt tire has not been represented in this part of the country very long the reputation of its producers among tire users who have come here from the East is such that an immediate demand was created that has been too great for the supply. Until recently the entire Hewitt output was absorbed on the Atlantic seaboard, but increased manufacturing facilities resulted in a bigger output.

Another thing Mr. Wood expects to learn while at the factory is the attitude that will be assumed by all the leading tire companies toward the mileage guarantee subject. So much agitation against tire mileage guarantee has been created within the past few weeks that it now looks as if this bugbear of the tire business is doomed. A number of the leading factories of the country have announced their intention to discard this practice.

sales meeting of occurred last Sat- at the Samson fac- Cal. Those in attendance were many of the older experienced Samson salesmen, and several of the new salesmen, who recently joined the Samson organization.

The president of the company, Mr. A. Schleicher, gave an informal talk which was interesting from the standpoint of salesmanship, and also the factory end of the business, explaining many features of Samson tire construction.

These meetings of Samson salesmen are always enthusiastic and inspiring, reflecting the popularity of Samson tires and tubes, and the happy comparing of notes of salesmen, showing their increased sales in their respective territories.

It is the policy of the Samson Tire and Rubber Corporation to have these sales meetings frequently, and once or twice a year a general sales meeting is held, when their salesmen from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Arizona and other distant points attend, and aside from business, an attractive entertainment programme is arranged.

On a Sight-seeing Tour

Around the insides of a Willard storage battery. A. J. Tobey of the Western Auto Electric Corporation is explaining the solid construction of the battery which permits him to give an eighteen months' guarantee.

NEW BATTERY INSURANCE.

Keeping their date with Old Man Opportunity, to most success seekers, means being on hand to open the door when he knocks, but every once in a while we find an energetic individual who discards orthodox methods and walks right out and meets Opportunity at the front gate.

A. J. Tobey of the Western Auto Electric Corporation found Mr. Opportunity in his vicinity not many months ago, knocking at doors as the story books say he does, with great zest—so he went out and met him. As a result Mr. Tobey is the talk among Willard battery dealers from one coast to the other.

Mr. Tobey first startled battery dealers several months ago by the installation of eight neighborhood service stations. The stations were the first of the kind ever installed, and were placed in residential districts so that motorists might have their batteries inspected and tended to without the trouble and inconvenience of journeying to town. The service station idea immediately found instant favor. Not only were the stations here heavily patronized, but shortly after their installation they were copied in many cities by Willard dealers from Canada to Mexico and from Boston to Los Angeles.

But one overwhelming victory in business was not enough for Mr. Tobey. He immediately set to work at other innovations. A little more than a month ago, he started issuing eighteen-months' insurance policies with every threaded rubber battery sold at the Willard agency here. The Willard company made no provision for such a departure, and consequently could not aid Mr. Tobey in his plan.

Experience with the Willard Threaded Rubber battery, however, convinced Mr. Tobey that all of them would give excellent service for more than eighteen months, the greater percentage of them lasting for from two to three years. So Mr. Tobey, on his own initiative, and at his own expense, installed the system of issuing insurance policies which absolutely assure perfect service. The latest innovation also has made a big hit in all parts of the country. Not only have motorists been delighted with the prospects of being insured of perfect battery service, without any qualifications or conditions which form a loophole for the dealer to escape, but dealers from all parts of the country are inquiring into the Tobey insurance plan, with a view of installing the same plans in their agencies.

NEW GASOLINE MAKES A HIT.

Purity gasoline, which made its first bow to the public one week ago, put a big dent in the filling station situation during the seven days which have elapsed.

Bright and early Monday morning the demand for "more Purity" began growing so insistent that Secretary George Zeeman of the Western Oil Company, which manufactures the new gasoline, found himself hard put to make deliveries rapidly enough to meet it.

The twenty filling stations scattered about the city, as well as those located at Hollywood, Glendale, Huntington Park and Whittier, have been deluged the entire week with a steadily-growing stream of new customers and with only a full week's history to point to, Purity may easily be said to have registered itself in the minds of motorists.

Several new filling stations have been added to the original lists and it is safe to say that the predictions of two times the initial number in two weeks will be realized.

Users of Purity declare that they have found the new product everything that its sponsors have said of it; that it has great power and mileage possibilities, as well as being economical and generally efficient for all-round purposes. A blend between a straight distilled gasoline and casinghead gasoline, it is lightning fast on the start, accelerates smoothly and is capable of producing an uncommonly high mileage.

FACTORY SITE CHOSEN.

Announcement was made the past week of the accession of a new industry in the fast growing industrial colony at Slauson and Boyle avenues, where vast improvements are under way or in contemplation by the Southern California Iron and Steel Company, Weaver Roofing Company and the Leach Biltwell Motor Company.

The latter organization is the latest to choose a site there, and some idea of the extent of the projected Leach factory for the manufacture of the Leach Power Plus Six is gained from the announcement that twenty-two acres are involved in the deal which has just been closed.

ON SLAUSON AVENUE.

It is reported that the price paid for the new Leach factory site approximates $110,000, or about $5000 an acre. The property is located on the south side of Slauson avenue, adjoining the site where the Southern California Iron and Steel Company is to erect a mammoth plant, and opposite the projected plant of the Weaver Roofing Company.

"The location was selected after an exhaustive canvass of all available sites in and near Los Angeles," M. A. Leach, president of the company said. "Choice fell to this one because it offers every facility that we shall require in connection with the new plant, which will be constructed on the unit system.

"The twenty-two acre tract we have purchased is in the heart of the new industrial district which got its initial impetus when the Goodyear Tire Company announced its selection of a site a little to the west of the site we have purchased."

President Leach announced that now that the location of the factory has been settled no time will be lost in rushing to completion the first factory unit. While the negotiations for the site were pending architects were at work on plans for the first factory unit and within two weeks it is expected that sufficient progress will have been made to enable the Leach Company to close with a contractor.

Ground probably will be broken within thirty days and from that time on construction will be expedited in every possible manner, with a view to getting the plant in shape soon after the first of the year for inaugurating in it the progress production of Leach cars on a basis of four completed cars a day, with provision for doubling that capacity within from three to six months.

DRIVERS READY FOR BIG AUTO CONTEST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Eighteen drivers are entered in the 150-mile classic and a ten-mile special match race at the Sheepshead Bay speedway tomorrow afternoon, it was announced today by the contest board. The races will decide the long-distance and sprint champion of 1919. The entries in the ten-mile match race are De Palma, Tommy Milton, Ralph Mulford, Joe Boyer and Louis and Gaston Chevrolet.

These drivers are the winners of the various classics this year and will compete in three ten-mile heats for the sprint championship and a purse. The 150-mile event, in which the eighteen drivers will start, will be a revival of the speed feud between the Chevrolet brothers. This will be the first chance Louis Chevrolet will have to win back the laurels Gaston won when he smashed the 100-mile world's record which Louis held for more than ten years.

The Franklin Sedan

Ride once in a Franklin Sedan, and its striking resiliency will be the impression by which you distinguish it. Its other merits you will appreciate fully only when you own it, drive it, and pay the bills.

It is light-weight and flexible construction, applied evenly and scientifically throughout, that irons the ruts and bumps from the road of the Franklin Sedan, and allows it to cover unusually long distances in a day with safety and comfort.

These same principles reduce the killing pound on tires, and give to Franklin owners on the average:

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation

Ease of control lightens the burdens of the driver to the point where he shares the pleasure and relaxation of the trip with the rest of his party.

It never occurs to him to worry about temperature troubles, because the Franklin is direct air-cooled, has no water to boil or freeze. It can be used the year 'round without extra attention.

Structurally, it is both convenient and attractive. Its Wide Observation Windows give unobstructed outlook; its two Wide Doors increase riding view and facilitate entrance; its Slanting V-Shaped Windshield adds fine lines and broadens driving vision. Together with the Sloping French-style Hood, these features give the Sedan its attractiveness.

MARKED TREND FOR SMALLER MACHINES.

TWO AND FOUR-PASSENGER CARS GAIN SURPRISINGLY IN LOCAL FAVOR.

Analysis of automobile sales throughout the United States has disclosed a marked trend toward the selection of motor cars of smaller capacity. Scanning of orders placed during the last sixty days has shown that two and four-passenger types are gaining surprisingly in popularity.

An interesting sidelight on the situation is presented in a letter written by Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company, to Robert S. Weaver, vice-president of the Seager-Clark Company, distributors of Jordan cars in Southern California. Commenting on the subject, Mr. Jordan writes:

"There was a time when manufacturers strove to get a tremendous production on seven-passenger cars. This year there is a great demand for roadsters. The Jordan Playboy model has been brought out in recognition of this demand. Other manufacturers have produced similar models.

"When a man comes in and looks at a roadster he wants a car that is two-passenger in appearance and four-passenger in capacity. The swanky little back seat of the Jordan Playboy is to meet this call. It folds away into the rear deck out of sight when not in use.

"When a man comes in to look for a four-passenger car, he wants one that will carry five persons and still give him the slender four-passenger lines. The Jordan silhouette is designed to meet this particular request. Clean cut and lithe from stem to stern, it gives the snappy sport model effect, yet affords plenty of room for five passengers to ride in perfect comfort. That is why we have a tremendous volume of orders for the Playboy roadster and the silhouette model. They are designed and built to meet the ideas of motorists of discrimination, and accord with the coming preference of cars for smaller capacity."

The trend has been noticeable in Los Angeles, too, according to Mr. Weaver, and with the arrival in a short time of the Jordan Playboy roadster model, there has been an avalanche of inquiries about this spectacular model. A shipment already is on the way from the factory in Cleveland, and there is a feeling of enthusiasm at the Seager-Clark salesrooms over the appearance of the Playboy in a few days.

TEST No. 5
OVER - CARRIAGE

DO NOT buy a one-truck truck and expect to do 3½-ton duty. But the truck you do buy should be built to allow for a reasonable margin of overload. Buy the size truck that your business needs.

The Gary truck of any size is built to compare with other trucks in the sizes of high rating. In other words, for example, the Gary 2½-ton truck compares favorably with the average 3½-ton truck of other makes. The 3½-ton Gary compares favorably with any other 5-ton make and the 1½-ton Gary compares with any other 2-ton truck. Therefore, the Gary will give a longer life and better service in its rated capacities than any other truck on the market. Note our comparison sheets as proof of this. In the Gary Truck line you will find a truck adaptable to every need, from the one-ton truck to the five-ton model.

Here's Perfect Comfort for Anybody that Drives.

Both of the front seats on the new Custom-built Kissel Tourster are set on a special sliding device so that they can be regulated for the greatest convenience of anyone driving the car. Bebe Daniels of the Lasky studio, who usually finds trouble in reaching the brakes, is a strong booster for this adjustable feature. J. Monte Dumonte, who played the part of the dope fiend in the "Miracle Man," generally finds his knees up under his chin when he drives. He can move the front seat of the new Kissel back over the rear springs and motor with perfect ease.

MAKING DRIVING A JOY.

Did you ever try to drive an automobile that was so short geared from the driver's seat to the pedals that your knees almost bumped your chin, and you got driver's cramps? Or on the other extreme, did you ever try to drive a car that was geared too long for you—so that you had to sit on the end of your spine and strain to the limit to reach the pedals? To be able to devise any one car that would suit all sorts of people, long and short, has been the serious problem of automobile manufacturers.

MORE COMFORT.

There is more than the comfort of the driver at stake. The sure control of a car is possible only when the driver is fitted to the car or the car is fitted to the driver. A cushion at the back of a driver is a poor makeshift. The tendency of the long-legged driver and the short geared car is to constantly ride the clutch and to unconsciously keep the brake in service when it should be free.

The problem seems to be ideally met in the sliding seat arrangement which is making a great hit in the new Custom-Built Kissel tourster. In this car both the driver's seat and the companion's seat are adjustable to any regular length desired by the mere turning of a lever in front of the seat. The seats slide backward and forward without any effort, and are securely locked in an instant in any position that is most comfortable to the driver. The advantage of the adjustable feature is not confined to the driver alone. In long distance touring it is delightfully restful to the driver's companion to change the position of the feet occasionally.

NEW FEATURES.

The utility of the adjustable feature was recently demonstrated by Bebe Daniels and J. Monte Dumonte, of Famous Players-Lasky studio. Bebe Daniels, who is very well known in pictures, is rather short of stature and finds it hard to reach the brakes. On the other extreme J. Monte Dumonte, who is well known to many motion picture theater-goers as the man who played the part of the "dope" fiend in the "Miracle man," is unusually tall, and finds the average automobile too short for his long legs.

Gilbert Woodill, manager of the Western Motors Company, distributors of the Kissels here, says: "The sliding seat has been a very great factor in the sale of this motor. People consider the advantage of such a feature in reselling their car. With the seats so readily adjustable, there is no limitation to their market, in so far as the prospective buyer may be concerned. Take for instance, on a long ride, holding one's legs in a certain position is bound to cramp them, but with this device it is a simple matter to change the positions as often as you like."

FAST DRIVERS FOR HANFORD CLASSIC.

FIGHT TO BE STAGED BETWEEN NORTH, SOUTH AND MIDDLE PART OF STATE.

It will be the north again the south, and both against the middle, in the big four-day race meet at Hanford, September 23-26, when Kings county will feature automobile racing as the attraction at their annual County Fair.

Eddie Hearne, Frank Elliott and Al Melcher will be the trio of speedy Los Angeles boys who will endeavor to carry off honors for Southern California. Pitted against them will be Earl Cooper, Cliff Durant and Harry Krueger of San Francisco, Ed Kaster and R. L. Murray of Sacramento, who will be out to win honors for the north. Central California will have the majority of entries, and some of them have won their spurs in speed meets of no mean dimensions—among them Jimmie Crosby of Chowchilla, "Dutch" Drake of Reedley, Curtis Chamberlain of Madera, E. B. Rubel of Santa Maria, not to mention the nine Kings county entrants.

There will be some twenty speedy cars in the events for the four days of racing, and elimination trials, in which only the fastest will qualify, will be necessary for almost every event.

The four days set apart for the speed kings on Fair Week will be Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, September 23, 24, 26 and 27, with the "big guns" to be fired on the last two days. For the fifty-mile race on Saturday prizes totaling $2000 are offered, and the cash prizes for the four days total $5200.

Some Old Paintings.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Robert Wooley sought a pair of candlesticks in a local auction house in Washington just as a "one lot" of paintings were being knocked down. The frames looked pretty and he bid $25 and got the lot. He sent them to New York to be cleaned. He has accepted an offer of $1000 for the one of "A Man With the Small Ears."—[Boston Post.

GREATER RESPECT FOR AMERICAN CARS.

DOUGHBOYS IN FRANCE FOUND THAT THEIR OWN CARS DID THE BEST WORK.

A greater respect for all things American, motor cars in particular, is one of the salutary influences of the war just ended. Time was when anything from perfume to automobiles bearing a European label was blindly conceeded to be undoubtedly superior to articles of American manufacture but this time is past. The old saw about "familiarity breeding contempt" proves true once more. Two years of familiarity with French and English motor cars have robbed foreign automobiles of their glamor, at least in the eyes of the doughboy.

The American has lost his respect for foreign cars and rightly so because none of them will stand up under hard work, will develop more speed, or last longer than any American make of car, from the smallest to the largest.

The superiority of American cars was demonstrated to Frank S. West, sales manager of the Lynn C. Buxton Company, distributors of Stearns cars, who served in France with the Tank Corps. Everywhere, he says, they failed miserably in comparison with the American cars in the tremendous work on the French roads. The foreign brands of cars were so poor in comparison with the American cars that the doughboy lost all respect for the cars.

HIGH SIERRA TRIP IN INCLOSED CAR.

DRIVES TO FEATHER RIVER INN ON ROUGH MOUNTAIN ROADS WITHOUT TROUBLE.

Mrs. R. H. Jaffa, 3043 West Eighth street of this city, has just returned from an 1800-mile High Sierra trip in her Hudson Cabriolet. Mrs. Jaffa was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. B. J. Jaffa, well known in society circles of this city.

Their many friends endeavored to persuade them that Sierra driving was too strenuous for unaccompanied ladies, but Mrs. Jaffa having the utmost confidence in her Hudson car, started away determined to try out the Yosemite, Tioga Pass and Lake Tahoe trip. That part of the journey was so successfully negotiated that Mrs. Jaffa decided to extend it to the Feather River Inn located in the roughest part of the mountains north of Truckee.

Talking with Harold L. Arnold, from whom she purchased her Hudson car, Mrs. Jaffa could not lay too much stress on the health-giving results derived from her trip. "By all means," she said, "take a Sierra trip, but be sure you have the right equipment. I have found that our Hudson Cabriolet was an ideal car inasmuch as it saved us the annoyance of dust and also enabled us to enjoy the dainty things which seem to fit most ladies, rather than the strenuous mountain costumes so many have to adopt when they go into the Sierra country."

Returning to Los Angeles, Mrs. Jaffa took the coast route from San Francisco and comments favorably on the benefits of this route as it is much cooler and also affords better scenery than the other highways.

CHECKING AUTO THIEVES.

The motor thief continues his activities everywhere, but he is finding his work more difficult each day. With the efficient work of the city police and detective force, the Sheriff's office and the Auto Club detectives who have specialized in this class of work for several years it has become increasingly difficult for the auto thief to take a car, and "get away with it."

EVERYTHING HELPS.

This improved condition has been largely brought about through the adoption of various systems of checks on factory numbers, private marks, etc., at the urgent suggestion of Auto Club officials, dealers and factory heads.

One of the most successful systems for the protection of cars yet adopted is that planned and put into active use throughout the entire country by the Haynes Automobile Company of Kokomo, according to Walter H. Fisher, Haynes distributor for Southern California. The Haynes plan as outlined by Fisher is as follows:

Thieves repaint and disguise the cars in such a way that the owner cannot recognize his own machine. However, the various parts of the car have factory numbers and it is by means of these numbers that the stolen cars are identified, because new parts and can only be obtained at a dealer's service station, or direct from the factory.

ON THE WATCH.

Whenever a Haynes car is reported as having been stolen a letter is sent to every Haynes dealer in the United States giving the factory numbers of all the parts of the stolen car, with a warning to the dealers to keep a close lookout for a car bearing these numbers.

When such a car is brought to a Haynes service station for new parts, or for sale, the dealer holds the car and notifies the police at once. In this way many automobiles have been recovered and many thieves have been caught. Sometimes a request is sent to the factory for a part to be replaced on a car listed as stolen. The factory then advises the police of the town whence the request has come and they immediately investigate the case.

So effective has this method of thief-catching become that automobile thieves are growing extremely wary of stealing Haynes cars and do everything possible to obliterate all identification numbers, but they invariably overlook the one little mark that proves their undoing.

THOUSANDS OUT TO INSPECT CAR.

Latest Arrival Creates Sensation on Auto Row.

Additional Shipments are Already En Route.

Expectations Exceeded by Actual Performance.

Among manufacturers of automobiles Los Angeles has the reputation of being the most difficult city in the country in which to introduce a new make of car. The motoring proportion of the general public is so large and so thoroughly awake to everything that has to do with the automobile world that it takes something more than ordinary to awaken them from their seeming lethargy. When visiting here factory representatives have said repeatedly that there is no chance for a car to succeed here unless it bears a name plate that stands for success.

ALL EXCITED.

Expert opinion should be regarded as authentic, and upon that assumption there is one new car that has come to the city with attractions enough to enthuse thousands. The new Cleveland six has been before the public only one week, yet there have been more than 2000 persons call at the headquarters of the W. P. Herbert Company, 1047 South Olive street, to inspect the car. When it appears on the streets passing motorists stop their cars to look it over attentively; or if they do not come to a full stop they drive alongside and keep pace until their curiosity is appeased.

Such a hydrometer as the "Unbreakable," which we carry, is an invaluable aid to the motorist. It allows him to test his battery at any time—it costs but little—and can be carried without fear of breaking. With such an instrument the motorist will not be stealing from the battery, by burning the lights in fear of overcharging, the power it really needs."

NEW BRANCH TO BE STARTED IN NORTH.

To care for the business already created and to greatly increase its volume in the northern part of the State, the Pacific Rubber Company will, October 1, next, open a branch in San Francisco at 150 Mission street. Meads, president and general manager of the company.

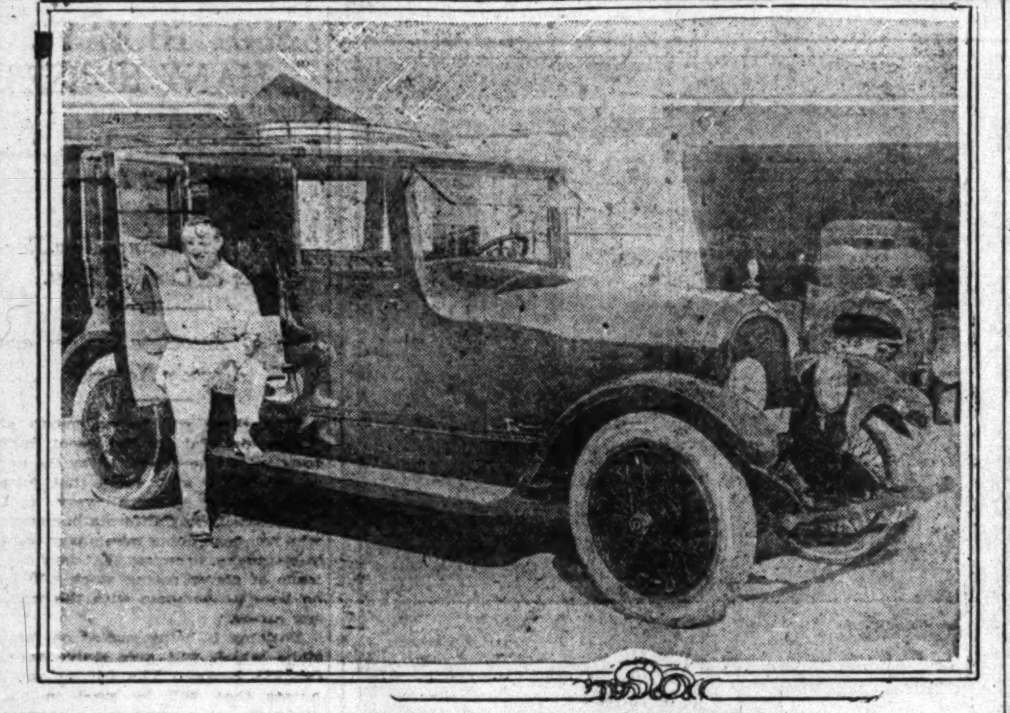
The full name of the capital of Cuba is San Cristobal de la Habana. In emphasis, the coat of arms of the municipality bears a smybolic key and representations of the fortresses of Morro, Punta and Fuerza.—[Detroit News.



A Splendid Example of the Coach Builder's Art.

The new Marmon touring limousine with special body by Kimball, just delivered to Allan Dawn, motion picture director and head of the picture company which bears his name. A Marmon town car of unique design was purchased by Mr. Dawn at the same time.

PREFERS INCLOSED MODELS.

With windshield wings, tonneau windshields, and special tops with glass-inclosed sides, the average high-grade "open" car that is to be seen on the streets of Los Angeles, is usually not far from being an inclosed type as far as actual results are concerned. The inclosed car of the sedan or limousine type, however, has not suffered in the slightest in popularity, despite the close imitation of its virtues by clever builders of open-car accessories. If anything, the demand for the highest-grade of inclosed cars has increased as a result of the education of hundreds of owners in the decided added comfort to be obtained in motoring by complete protection from wind and from chill.

NOT ENOUGH.

The chief difficulty that California dealers have experienced this season has been to obtain a sufficient supply of inclosed models. Fine coach building is not an art that is easily acquired, and while it is comparatively easy for a factory to increase production on a standard open model, it is quite another matter to accelerate production of inclosed bodies of the highest type.

Two of the finest examples of modern inclosed models that have reached the Coast this season were delivered recently to Allan Dwan, famous motion-picture director and head of the picture producing company which bears his name. Both were Marmon inclosed cars, one a touring limousine, and one a touring town car, the latter a special body of unique design by Kimball, the famous eastern coach maker

According to W. S. Hebbard, Jr., of the Al G. Faulkner Company sales force, Dwan is a genuine enthusiast over Marmon cars.

SECOND PAIR.

"The two Marmons which Dwan owns at present make his second pair of Marmons," said Hebbard last week. "His first pair consisted of a Marmon club roadster and a sedan. The added comfort of the inclosed model for any sort of weather determined him in making his choice of town car and limousine in his latest purchase.

"When Dwan turned in his sedan to us, he pointed out one of his reasons for his preference for the Marmon. The speedometer reading on the sedan showed 20,992 miles, and the original set of tires were still on the wheels. The closest examination failed to show that wear on any one of the tires had extended down to the breaker strip. They were not even ready for retreading as yet."

TANK TRUCK WITH RECORD CAPACITY.

The delivery to the Texas Oil Company in St. Louis of what is held to be the largest tank truck in the United States, is reported by James C. Smith, manager of the International Mack Corporation. The tank has a capacity of 2500 gallons. It is mounted on a seven and one-half-ton Mack chassis, with 40 by 14 solid Firestone tires.

APPEARANCE COUNTS WITH AUTO OWNERS.

ECONOMY, PERFORMANCE AND ENDURANCE MAKE UP LIST OF REQUIREMENTS.

"Every owner of a new automobile today wants the best the market supplies in appearance and economy," said Harold L. Arnold, distributor for Essex cars in Southern California and Arizona.

"There is real pride in the ownership of an Essex, which combines light weight with economy, good looks, performance and endurance, all of which meets the demand for the best the market puts out.

The purchaser of a new car which lacks attractive appearance and has a limited performance, immediately realizes when he gets out on the road and drives against other cars, that he could well have invested a little additional money to enjoy the same pride of ownership as the driver of an Essex.

That is why these owners are so enthusiastic. They say it has the same high-priced quality of finish and ease of riding incorporated in larger and more expensive cars, without entailing the upkeep expense which goes with a heavier machine. They invite their friends to take a ride in their Essex because they really enjoy the opportunity to show their pride in its ownership."

VISITORS STILL HIT CAMP CURRY.

END OF SEASON APPROACHES, BUT MANY MOTORISTS MAKE THE TRIP.

Almost 50,000 visitors have entered the Yosemite Valley since the close of last season, according to Chief Ranger Forrest Townsley. For the period up to and including August 31, the total list read 48,674. In all a total of 9595 automobiles entered the park. 'Naturally, May, June and July were the really big months in the valley, but August did not fall very far behind, as 9305 persons entered the valley during last month," says Townsley.

Camp Curry is now the only camp open in the Yosemite. Curry will remain open until the first of the month, the official closing date of the season. According to Mack A. Erwin, Los Angeles representative of the camp, Curry has entertained one-third of the total number of arrivals in the park during the year; over a third have used the government private camps, and the remainder have been scattered among the various smaller camps, hotels and lodges.

Government statistics show that Camp Curry has entertained several thousand more guests than any other resort in the valley. Up to September 1 4000 more guests had been entertained at the camp than during any previous season.

During the period of Foster Curry's tour of the various national parks, his mother, Mrs. D. A. Curry, and Wallace B. Curstiss, Curry's associate manager, are handling the camp activities.

TESTING ROAD IS HARD FOR CASINGS.

GLASS, ROCKS, SAND AND BUMPS GIVE TIRES A THOROUGH WORK-OUT.

All tires look good in the store but until they are actually tested on the road, their resistance to ruts, bumps, stones, heat and the other enemies of long mileage is only a matter of conjecture and the motorist must trust to luck that his tire will stand the gaff.

Because of the necessity of protecting the motorist, the Gates Company, according to H. D. Warfield, of the Warfield Tire Service Co., authorized Gates dealer in Los Angeles, has taken the greatest efforts to make every tire, tube or half sole turned out of its factory at Denver, able to stand the difficult test of the road.

To do this, the Gates company built at a considerable expense a mile track for the testing of its products. The track combined all of the difficult features of every possible kind of road from glass, nails, sand, dirt, hills, bumps, heat, cobblestones and brick, to level, smooth asphalt. The track when first built became the talk of the automobile industry. It was the first artificial testing road ever built in the country and made it possible to see how the tire acted under every condition.

Before each run of tires is allowed to leave the factory some of the tires are tested on the track. If they are unable to stand the test the run is discarded. In this way motorists are assured against a possible poor run of Gates products and are guaranteed that every Gates tire, tube or half sole is worth putting on the road.

OSGOOD LENS
CRAVATH LONG DISTANCE TYPE

California Sales Now Break All Lens-Records of U. S.

HERE is just one lens that solves the whole "glare" problem and meets the new state law to "t"—and that is the Osgood Lens. It has passed all of the State Motor Vehicle Department and broken records for sales.

AND the reasons are just these: the Osgood Lens not only stops glare and saves light from being wasted and diffused, but it throws the light by deflection in controlled rays forward and downward onto the road so you can see every ditch and rut, and even people standing by the roadside. This latter, as every motorist knows is one of the meanest tests of a road-light we have.

THE Osgood Lens makes the road safe not only for you but for those coming toward you. Never mind what old lenses you may now have on your car, get the Osgood Lens at once and be on the safe side as well as the bright side.

NO lens that cuts your light or breaks up the rays can ever satisfy your real needs for night driving. You don't need dimmers with the Osgood Lens—and you save all the light there is. You actually get 74% more road brightness. Motorists who were disposed to criticise California's new State law are now glad that it happened.

TELL your dealer that what you want is the Osgood Lens; and stick to it. He will be glad to get them for you, though the chances are he has them in stock. Prices $3.15 to $4.75 according to size.

DEALERS: You'll find real lens-profits in the Osgood. It is the unquestioned National Lens Standard. It outsells all others put together, and you don't have to carry a bewildering multitude of different sizes of different makes. Osgood's satisfy every size and every requirement. Travels Over Bad Roads, but Hasn't a Kick Coming.

Has Spent More than a Third of His Life Touring.

Three-Months-Old Youngster is All Smiles.

An individual who has spent more than a third of his life in motor touring and nothing else, could properly be classed as a real motor enthusiast. Such a person arrived in Los Angeles last week, but despite his evident enthusiasm over motoring, refused to make any comment whatever on his experiences. His name is Gordon Bailey of Lansing, Mich., and his seeming reticence is easily explained from the fact that he was just 3 months old on arriving in Los Angeles, and five weeks of his existence had been spent in touring from Lansing to this city with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Bailey of Lansing. Young Mr. Bailey spent his time during the tour in a tiny hammock swung inside the Dodge sedan, and grew fat and strong on the trip, and maintained a perfect good nature that many older motor tourists might envy.

NOT EXCELLENT.

According to Dr. Bailey, the National Old Trails road is in anything but an excellent condition just at present. Recent heavy rains have washed the road very badly in many places through New Mexico and Arizona, and traveling over it is anything but an unmixed pleasure.

"It is a shame that action has not been taken before this by the Federal government looking toward the improvement of at least one or two of our great transcontinental roads," said Dr. Bailey last week. "There were hundreds of cars on the road, headed in both directions. There were long stretches in many places where the road surface had been washed bare of dirt, and where the cars had to travel over a surface of sharp stones. I talked to tourists who told me that brand new tires had served them less than a day before blowing out on some of this going.

PERPENDICULAR DROP.

"In many places the floods had washed the arroyos so that there was virtually a perpendicular drop into the stream and a perpendicular climb out again. The Dodge sedan carried a heavy load of camp luggage beside the three children, my wife, my niece and myself, yet it never failed to pull through these places under its own power.

"We spent a week at the Grand Canyon, and can strongly recommend the route to the canyon via Williams. We went into the canyon by the Flagstaff road and found it extremely rough for the most of the distance. There were more than a hundred cars camped at the canyon most of the time while we were there.

"The extra tire bill that cross-country motorists pay as a result of the atrocious road conditions would go quite a ways in the course of a season toward improving these transcontinental roads. If there were only one good transcontinental road across the United States it would draw a marvelous volume of motor travel, I am sure, and it seems to me that motorists all over the country should unite to urge such action upon Congress at once."

SPEED IN RESERVE IS NECESSITY NOW.

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS REQUIRE QUICK RESPONSE TO THROTTLE ACTION.

Every motorist knows that a quick get-away is not an ornamental virtue for a car to have but an absolute necessity for modern traffic conditions. A car that is inclined to lag on the acceleration is not only a nuisance but endangers the driver as there are times when speed becomes a factor of safety.

The growing congestion of traffic conditions was in the mind of the engineers who designed the eight-cylinder Apperson car. This accounts for the car's unusual acceleration, explains Harris M. Hanshue, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Apperson factory. The Apperson, he says, will speed up from one mile to forty miles an hour in twenty seconds. The traffic officer's signal means "go" to the Apperson driver and his car is away to the next crossing while many others are getting under way

"Speed often is thought of as an element of danger in a car," Mr. Hanshue says, "but speed under control is a big factor of safety. As a matter of fact, good drivers avoid countless accidents by a burst of speed when caution, in the sense of deliberation, would have been disastrous."

ROSCO SARLES IS READY TO TRAVEL.

HAS RACING MACHINE IN GREAT SHAPE FOR SPEED EVENTS ON PACIFIC COAST.

Completing one of the best seasons he has experienced since his entry into the racing game, Roscoe Sarles, California's smiling little speed demon, arrived in Los Angeles last week to spend the winter on the Pacific Coast. He made known his presence in Los Angeles first with a visit to W. D. Wright of the Wright Motor Car Company, Southern California distributor for the Roamer car, the car that has carried Sarles to a number of great victories during the past season.

Now that the racing season is practically over in the East, the California driver is ready for the strenuous campaign on the Pacific Coast. The scene for the great races has shifted across the country and Mr. Sarles expects to be seen leading the string of prominent drivers in the races at Ascot Park, at Bakersfield, at Santa Monica and wherever the motor demons meet.

With his recent victories still being acclaimed in all parts of the country, Mr. Sarles has nothing but praise for the work of his Roamer Special. "It performed beautifully on all occasions, never causing us a bit of trouble. The car is in as fine a condition as ever and will arrive in Los Angeles within a few days. After a little overhauling I am going to get it out and make it ready for the Pacific Coast races."

RACING GAINS IN POPULARITY.

Post-War Races are Best Ever Seen in Country.

Tommy Milton Developing Into Remarkable Driver.

Local Speedway to Draw All the Eastern Stars.

Back from attendance at the Uniontown race, and at Elgin, where he acted as starter in the big Illinois road classic, Frank Lowry reached Los Angeles last week just in time to witness the breaking ground for the new Los Angeles speedway at Beverly Hills. In company with Manager A. M. Young, Lowry inspected the site of the great new board track oval, and watched the teams commence the grading for the foundation of the track. Incidentally, Lowry brought back word that automobile speed events in the East during the past summer have achieved a popularity greater than ever before known in the history of the sport.

RECORD BREAKING.

"Automobile racing was of course, practically suspended during the period of the war," said Lowry last week. "There were many 'wise ones' who declared that the sport was done for, and would never be revived. Time has proved automobile racing to be about as dead as the automobile industry. At the big Indianapolis race this year, the attendance records broke all previous marks. At Elgin there were far more spectators than have ever been attracted by that race in years prior to the war.

"On the Uniontown speedway, a record crowd saw what in my opinion was the best race from every angle that I have ever witnessed. There was a field of eighteen fast cars entered, and ten of them were running at the finish. The lead alternated between four of them for scores of laps just prior to the finish. It was a race that literally had the crowd on its feet most of the time.

"Incidentally, Tommy Milton did some phenomenal driving at borth Elgin and Uniontown. Milton is developing into a remarkable driver, one of the greatest of them all, in my opinion.

ENTHUSIASTIC.

"Every one of the drivers with whom I talked was exceedingly enthusiastic over the prospect of the new Los Angeles speedway, and all announced their intention of being present next Washington's birthday for the initial event. Since the days of the first Santa Monica races, Southern California has always been popular with the racing drivers, and the chance to race out here on a fast new board oval is an attraction that I know will bring all of the best talent here next Ferbruary."

A Faithful Employee.

"What makes you so sleepy around the office?"

"It's my sense of duty, boss."

"Huh?"

"I lie awake too much at night thinking about my work."—[Blighty, London.

ESSEX MOTORS

Why This Mighty

Thousands Know, But Do Not Appreciate The Extent of Its Leadership

Respect For Essex

It is like reminding the average reader of something he already knows to speak of Essex leadership.

Its position as a popular car filling a heretofore unoccupied field, is accepted as a matter of fact. By word and attitude all motordom acknowledges its position.

But let us consider the reasons for Essex prestige.

You will probably say it is because of its performance. You compare its general appearance and performance with the admirable qualities of other cars. You place no price limit on those cars to which you compare the Essex.

It is because the Essex so nearly matches the standards you hold as your ideal, that it is a leader.

Essex Matches All Requirements

There is ample evidence in every locality to account for what people are saying for the Essex.

It has spoken for itself, just as we announced it would have to do at the time it was put on the market.

It isn't necessary for us to say how fast an Essex can be driven. We don't need to speak of its performance on hills or its comfort and riding qualities. The car has proved itself.

And 10,000 owners are daily giving their cars opportunities to prove Essex worth. Added to that are close to half a million motorists who voice their admiration. The most conservative and critical person having knowledge of the Essex is its sponsor.

Time Is Revealing Another Quality

It is showing that the Essex stands up under hard service. It retains the qualities which have created the respect with which it is held.

Squeaks and rattles are not so common. It is rigid and powerful. Little attention is required to keep the Essex in smooth running condition. Every day's use adds to the regard owners have for the Essex.

So Be Guided By What People Say

The best place to find out about the Essex is among those who have had their cars for some time and from the thousands who know Essex performance.

Come see what the Essex can do. If you don't know the Essex, ask your neighbor or come to us and take a ride.

Judge Essex qualities for yourself and remember that sales are so large it will be well for you to place your order as far in advance of the time you will require delivery, as it will be possible for you to do.

ASCOT TO HAVE MANY HORSES.

Famous Park will Have Adequate Stall Room.

Expect to Hang up New Records at Coming Meet.

Two of Associate Judges are Already Named.

That there will be no dearth of racing material for the Ascot Park meeting has been assured by the applications for stall room that have been coming in with every mail. Earl Linnell, the California horseman who has been doing missionary work in Kentucky, promises that four carloads of clever racing stock will be on hand to compete with the western racers.

Building is being rushed on forty stalls which will give stable room for 120 horses. The 500 or more horses that will be used in the Stampede show will be placed in specially built corrals which are now under construction.

It is predicted by horsemen who have inspected the two tracks that some new records will be hung up during the meeting. Both tracks have been banked at the turns to assure top speed and the construction work has been under the supervision of experts in horse track building.

The present automobile speedway will be used for parking automobiles, giving a capacity for 20,000 automobiles inside the grounds. It is proposed by the Ascot management to put on a series of races for polo ponies with gentlemen riders.

HIGH CLASS SPORT.

Promoter George Bentel had the following to say Friday:

"All contests at Ascot in the past have been high class and it is the policy of the management to promote only high class shows and to give the general public full value for their money. In the case of horse racing, it will be up to the horse owners to race for the purses alone as that will be the only source of revenue for them; thus assuring good fields of horses; the handicapping will be in experienced hands and the sole idea of the Ascot management is to have real races; close finishes and regular sport.

"Two of the associate judges have already been appointed; one is Mr. George Middleton, formerly of Chicago but now living in Pasadena an old time horseman and known the country over as a high class sportsman, and the second is J. Myrick, Jr., now retired and living at Ojai, Cal., who has had much racing experience and known to all of his friends as a square sport."

MILLER TIRES MADE REGULAR EQUIPMENT.

The growing demand for Miller Uniform Tires by automobile buyers and increased production facilities are the reasons given by officials of the Miller Rubber Company, of Akron, for the many car-manufacturers' standard equipment orders that the company has taken on this year. Between twenty-five and thirty car manufacturers now use Millers as regular equipment and many others will furnish them upon specification.

"Our uniform milage feature is most popular with car manufacturers as well as with consumers," says F. C. Millhoff, general sales manager, of the Miller company. "Many buyers having learned of the service rendered by Millers have [illegible] that their cars come [illegible] the uniform mileage tires. When a lot of requests of this [illegible] in, the manufacturers [illegible] take notice. The result is that we have been more or less [illegible] the car makers this year. [illegible] guarantee proposition of the Miller Rubber Company is also popular among the car manufacturers. They argue that it is no more logical to guarantee tires a definite or limited mileage than it would be to [illegible] tee that a car would run [illegible] miles, or some such figure. [illegible] they want is a tire of real [illegible] backed up by a company of [illegible] standing—a company that can [illegible] ways be depended on to make a [illegible] adjustment on the basis of [illegible] tion in quality or construction [illegible] respective of the number of [illegible] the tire has run. And that's [illegible] Miller policy."

The "Seventeen-Year Locust."

Some of those who are [illegible] ly entertaining the "seventeen-year locusts" this season, on their [illegible] visit since 1902, are not a little [illegible] zled by the mystery of a disappear[illegible] ance that persists for half a [illegible] generation, and yet ends with [illegible] precision. The fact is that the [illegible] sect's visible stage is really [illegible] final flash of a long career, [illegible] all of which is spent underground, says Popular Mechanics Magazine for August. This summer the [illegible] male cicadas lay their eggs on limbs of trees, and in a few [illegible] the young hatch, fall to the ground and immediately burrow into it [illegible] subterranean depths as great [illegible] twenty feet these larvae will [illegible] the years, feeding upon roots [illegible] gradually changing to the [illegible] form. In 1936 the fully developed pupas will come out of the ground almost at the spot where the [illegible] went in, and from them [illegible] emerge the adult, winged cicada

FAST TRAVELING FOR TRUCK.

When the government truck convoy which made history when it crossed the continent reaches Los Angeles, the owners of thousands of White trucks in Southern California, Arizona and Nevada will be greatly interested in the record made by two Whites—one a three-quarter-ton and the other a two-ton truck, which are part of it. The three-quarter-ton job is specially equipped as a passenger carrier and is used by officers with much of their baggage and other material incidental to their equipment. The two-ton truck is a stock chassis with an army covered body and is equipped with giant pneumatic tires.

The lighter White has been driven about 7000 miles and the duties of the officers using it in crossing the country called for a combination of speed and unusual strength. It was often necessary to be far ahead of the convoy in order that arrangements in advance might be properly cared for. At other times it was far in the rear, while its occupants were closing details incident to the undertaking. Fifty miles an hour was nothing unusual for this White.

The two-ton truck had covered several thousand miles before it joined the convoy at Washington, D. C. With its pneumatic tire equipment, it frequently made thirty miles an hour and from the time of departure until that of arrival in San Francisco, the only mechanical trouble was the breaking of a generator chain. The stretch over the Lincoln highway in Wyoming was a severe test, but other than mentioned neither White had any mechanical trouble."

AUTOS HAVE TRAINS BEATEN.

It is almost a certainty that the American citizen, were he asked, would declare that the seating capacity and mileage of the combined automobiles of the country are far less than that of all the passenger trains of the United States. A few authentic figures, however, will serve to prove this an illusion and to show that the nation's automobiles in point of mileage and carrying capacity greatly exceed the railroads.

SOME FIGURES.

"The figures show that there are 6,000,000 automobiles in use in the United States today," says H. C. McVey, representative of the Oakland six. "This indicates that an average mileage of 3000, which is quite low, equals 18,000,000,000 miles per annum, which, multiplied by an average of three passengers, means that the total passenger mileage is 54,000,000,000.

"The passenger mileage of automobiles exceeds that of the railroads by over 20,000,000,000 miles. The latest available figures show the official railroad passenger mileage was 32,384,247,563. Automobiles, on the basis of 300 days of use and an average of only two passengers carried 3,600,000,000 persons compared with the railroads' total of 976,303,602.

OH! BOY.

"The seating capacity of the 6,000,000 automobiles in use in the United States is estimated at not less than 30,000,000 persons. The total seating capacity of railroad cars, of which there are 55,705, is about 3,500,000 persons. To carry the passengers now transported by automobiles would require 60,000 new passenger coaches and 14,972 new locomotives at a combined cost of $1,184,000,000, to say nothing of the operating expense, tracks, depots and employees."

MAKING HIS PROMISE GOOD.

"If a trip to California will teach me anything about the tire business I'll come West right away.

This is what H. L. Hornberger, vice-president of the Globe Rubber Tire Manufacturing Company, wrote, in part, in answer to an invitation from the company's Coast representative, A. T. Smith, to visit Los Angeles.

RIDING ON TIRES.

"It isn't a case of trying to teach you how to make tires," Smith responded, "but rather a desire on our part to show you how to enjoy riding on tires. In other words, if you want to enjoy some of the finest motoring in the world don't lose any time getting out here to California."

Mr. Hornberger needed no further invitation, and he arrived here last week for a conference with Smith and H. H. Anderson, manager of the tire department of Hawley, King & Co., distributors of Globe tires.

Now it is up to the company's Coast manager to make good, and he set about the task immediately. After three weeks of motoring in Southern California he will drive the New York tire official up the coast all the way to Vancouver. "And you can bet your life," Smith added, when he made the announcement, "that it will be on Globe tires."

WELL PLEASED.

Being sales manager of the Globe company Mr. Hornberger was well pleased with the popularity here and elsewhere throughout the West of the hand-made, wrapped-tread, single-cure process tires. Especially was he pleased with a report received almost simultaneously with his arrival of the establishment of a new Globe agency with Edgar and Hays of Santa Ana, as Orange county distributors, who signalized their selection by ordering half a carload of tires.

The visiting tire man, on the other hand, cheered Smith and Anderson up by telling them of plans put into effect by the Globe factory at Trenton, N. J., to keep pace with the unprecedented demand for quality tires.

DEALERS IN TIRE SALE KEEP BUSY.

LARGE DEMAND ROLLS IN FOR SALVAGED CASINGS AND TUBES.

"Los Angeles motorists are quick to grasp a good thing when they find it."

J. B. Greenberg is the most recent person to find this out, and in making his discovery he has a source of much gratification. A tire sale launched in a downtown location by Sugarman and Greenberg convinced Greenberg that he made no mistake in bringing to this city the salvaged stock of the B. F. Goodrich Company of Spokane, Wash.

His gratification is derived from the response of motorists to the announcement that the concern had placed on sale a large stock of tires of two leading makers which Greenberg guarantees are not factory seconds or imperfect tires.

"All the tires we have included in the sale have passed factory inspection," he said, "and proof of the fact that the quality of these tires is widely appreciated is given by motorists who have returned for a complete set of tires after testing out what we have to offer by using one casing for a week or two."

Sales records are said to shew that not only have Los Angeles motorists participated in the sale, but that tires have been sold to purchasers who have come from such localities as Riverside, the beach cities and as far south as Santa Ana and Orange.

CO-OPERATION IN PRODUCE TRUCKING.

How American farmers in many sections of the country are cutting transportation cost through the cooperative or community use of motor trucks is interestedly related by M. L. Pulcher, vice-president and general manager of the Federal Motor Truck Company of Detroit.

That the motor truck can be efficiently and economically used to transport perishable produce for distances from 5 to 50 miles has been proven, particularly during the war period, when rail transportation was difficult to obtain, and the truck was depended upon largely to transport the perishable food products of the East to markets.

The farmer with the limited income cannot always afford a motor truck, for unless a truck can be kept fairly busy, the investment cannot be a profitable one. Fortunately, however, in most cases there are others in a neighborhood who are similarly situated, and by joining together in a farmers' co-operative society, a solution to the marketing problem is often arrived at.

TIRE INDUSTRY IS KEEPING UP PACE.

HUGE SUMS SPENT IN EXPERIMENTING BRING ABOUT VALUABLE RESULTS.

That the tire industry has kept pace with the great improvement in the motor car and the truck and that tire manufacturers annually spend large sums in experimenting and testing is the statement of B. S. Utter, manager of the Miller Tire Sales Company, distributors of Miller "geared-to-the-road" tires.

"Tires that were considered very desirable a few years ago would not even be considered today. With the coming of the giant locomotive and heavier rolling stock it was necessary to build heavier rails to carry the traffic and withstand the high speed of the faster trains. Tire manufacturers have been faced with similar problems and how well these have been met is shown by the modern tire of today," said Utter.

"The process of manufacture and the preparation of the rubber and fabric makes it possible for the tire to withstand a tremendous and continued strain and continue in service indefinitely. The tread is an important feature of the modern tire, for it may mean safety or disaster for the motorist. The tread of the Miller tire is like so many caterpillared feet which engage the ground like cogs and so give positive traction in all kinds of weather."

SPEEDOMETERS COME AT CRITICAL TIME.

SPECIAL INSTRUMENT FOR NEW MODED MACHINE ARRIVES ON THE DOT.

That the Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation of Chicago is always on the job and watching every little detail of business was brought home to Harry Ungar manager of the local Stewart products servict station, with the arrival of new speedometers for the new type Ford cars.

When the new model Ford car was planned, an instrument board was added to the specifications. The late model arrived in Los Angeles for the first time last week. The addition of the instrument board made the Stewart speedometer, with which most of the Ford car owners equip the machines, practically useless, according to Mr. Ungar. The prospects for supplying the demand for speedometers, when the new Fords arrived in quantities looked exceedingly bad.

The vigilance of the parent company in watching the needs of auto owners, forestalled any difficulty. Less than one week after the new Fords arrived, the new speedometers were also in Los Angeles. They are made so they can be conveniently installed in the new instrument board of the Ford.

guarantee proposition of the Miller Rubber Company is also popular among the car manufacturers. They argue that it is no more logical to guarantee tires a definite or limited mileage than it would be to guarantee that a car would run 92,743 miles, or some such figure. What they want is a tire of real merit, backed up by a company of solid standing—a company that can always be depended on to make a fair adjustment on the basis of inspection in quality or construction irrespective of the number of miles the tire has run. And, that's the Miller policy."

The "Seventeen-Year Locust."

Some of those who are unwillingly entertaining the "seventeen-year locusts" this season, on their first visit since 1902, are not a little puzzled by the mystery of a disappearance that persists for half a human generation, and yet ends with such precision. The fact is that the insect's visible stage is really the final flash of a long career, nearly all of which is spent underground, says Popular Mechanics Magazine for August. This summer the female cicadas lay their eggs on the limbs of trees, and in a few weeks the young hatch, fall to the ground and immediately burrow into it. At subterranean depths as great as twenty feet these larvae will pass the years, feeding upon roots and gradually changing to the pupa form. In 1936 the fully developed pupas will come out of the ground almost at the spot where the larvae went in, and from them will emerge the adult, winged cicadas.

ROUGH ROADS FAIL TO CAUSE TROUBLE.

Across the continent in eighteen and one-half days is the record of C. F. Philbrick of San Francisco. Traveling in a Diamond tire equipped Ford Mr. Philbrick, accompanied by Mrs. Philbrick, made the trip recently from Binghampton, N. Y. to San Francisco.

During the trip the Philbricks encountered some of the worst motoring conditions in the United States and traveled over roads that were little better than trails, to say nothing of grueling detours from the main line of travel. In spite of this the Diamond tires with which the car was equipped in Binghampton did not once leave the ground for repairs and only received two inflations during the entire 4800 miles.

WITH THE CHECKER PLAYERS.

NOTES AND PROBLEMS.

PUBLICATIONS IN THE REALM OF CHECKERS.

BY JOHN DOUGHERTY.

September 21, 1919.

Chess and Checker Headquarters, 716 Higgins Building. All chess and checker players invited to join. For further information, see or write the secretary, D. H. Bowes, at the clubrooms.

All communications intended for this department should be addressed to John Dougherty, The Times, Los Angeles, Cal.

AMONG THE FANS.

The Eureka Checker Player, edited by A. Jensen, Rice Block, 800 Hastings street, East Vancouver, B. C., Canada, made its initial bow to the checker-playing world a few days ago. After being without a magazine for so long, there is no doubt that checker players everywhere will boost the "new-born." It is a good-looking "chap," neatly arranged and interesting from "cover to cover." The games are so arranged that one may clip and paste in a scrap book without destroying other play. The subscription price is $2 per year, $1 for six months. The success or failure of the magazine depends more upon you than Mr. Jensen. Unless you give him both moral and financial support, the "new-born" cannot live. Send him the subscription price first, and follow it up with games, problems, news, criticisms, and letters of encouragement.

"LEST YOU FORGET—DO IT NOW."

W. T. Kerr, checker editor of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, is working hard on the fourth American tourney proposition. Just now he is after the opinion of all prominent players as to where the tournament should be held. So far Cedar Point, O., is in the lead with August, 1920, as most popular time.

F. B. Warrick, Nevada, Iowa, who has been visiting in Southern California, returned to his home last Wednesday.

EVOLUTION OF THE SPORTING ROADSTER.

NARROW BODY RETAINED, BUT ADDED ROOM GIVES GREATER COMFORT.

The new Peerless four-passenger roadster model, which was recently received from the factory by Smith Bros., Peerless distributors, is the evolution of the sport roadster type. That the change meets with the popular approval of discerning motorists is the information received from the East by Stanley W. Smith, who said:

"While the new model has the narrow body and the short-coupled lines of the sport model roadster, it is, if anything, more smart in appearance while it has more room. A noticeable feature is the four doors, which do away with any discomfort on the part of passengers in entering or leaving the car.

"The sport roadster had no comfortable provision for carrying baggage, and even a grip was in the way, for it had to be placed on the floor and under the occupants' feet. The new model has a rear compartment capable of accommodating several pieces of baggage.

"Although it has the compactness of the roadster it has the leg room and the comfort that is to be found in the five passenger touring car, and the difference in the two types is readily discernible. Unless the occupants are too large, five people may be accommodated with comfort, unless on a long trip."

SAM S. CORL GETS LINE ON ACTIVITIES.

BOOMING BUSINESS IN TIRE LINE MAKES BIG ADDITION TO FACTORY NECESSARY.

Among the notables of the automobile business to arrive in Los Angeles last week was Sam S. Corl, general representative of the Racine Tire Company. Mr. Corl's visit had for its object a conference with F. H. Osler of the Osler-Racine Rubber Company, distributors in Southern California for the Racine tires.

Mr. Corl finds business conditions in Southern California unusually good and predicts even better business. Since the end of the war, when conservation was also ended, business has boomed in the entire West, according to Mr. Corl, but in no place did business show any greater jump than in the Southwest. With motoring conditions ideal, every man who owned an automobile or could purchase one, took to the road, with the result that there was an unprecedented demand everywhere for tires, tubes and other automobile necessities.

Having a Look at that New Overland Mystery Car.

E. B. Wilson, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Willys-Overland Pacific Co., showing his sales force the chassis of the Overland "4"—the mystery car. The insert shows A. R. Fernald, who has just been appointed Pacific Coast publicity manager for the Overland organization. Mr. Fernald arrived in Los Angeles a few days ago and says that he feels at home already. Rah for him!

FIRST OFFICIAL VISIT.

SUNDAY AUTOS—TWO COL. BOX HD.—WITH CUT.

Yesterday there drove up to the doors of the Los Angeles branch of the Willys-Overland Pacific Company, a very interesting car.

It was the Willys-Knight pilot car of the United States Army Motor Transport Convoy that made the history-making trip from Washington to San Francisco. After its transcontinental run was ended in San Francisco, this car, in charge of Maj. M. S. Cooper of the Willys-Overland Company, who made the entire trip across the country, and Mr. A. R. Fernald, in charge of Pacific Coast Overland publicity, made its official call at the Willys-Overland headquarters in this city.

OFFICIAL VISIT.

It was also the first official visit in his present capacityof Mr. A. R. Fernald, who is perhaps one of the best-known automobile and publicity men in the United States. Mr. Feranld has held several high official positions with the Willys-Overland Company in Toledo and his appointment as Pacific Coast Publicity Manager for the big Overland organization comes in conjunction with the introduction of the Overland Four model which is soon to be placed in the hands of all Pacific Coast distributors of the Willys-Overland line.

In speaking of his new duties, Mr. Feranld had the following statement to make:

"Although I was naturally sorry to sever my close association of many years' standing with the Home Offices of the Willys-Overland Company in Toledo, still I have always held the Pacific Coast in such high regard and have so many friends out here that I feel almost at home already.

STRONG OUTLOOK.

"The executives of the Overland Company, from Mr. John N. Willys down, have great faith in the future business outlook and prosperity of this great Western seaboard and the fact that we have built and are occupying large and commodious branches in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Hollywood, Fresno, Oakland, Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Spokane should, beyond all peradventure of a doubt, show that the Overland Company has backed this opinion by large financial investments in this territory in which we so thoroughly believe."

SAFEGUARDING EMPLOYEES

Interesting data have just been received by B. L. Graves, manager of the Ford Motor Company's Los Angeles branch, on the marvelous record attained through the vigilance of safety engineers identified with the Ford organization, which shows that a year elapsed with but one fatality among 50,000 workers at the Highland Park Ford plant in Detroit.

SAFETY FIRST.

Manager Graves is sending a copy of the report to all Ford agents of Los Angeles and vicinity, using it to remind all that no effort is to be spared by them to safeguard the safety of Ford employees here in as effective a manner as is employed in the manufacturing plants of the organization.

"Ford safety engineers, I have been advised, are constantly on the lookout for new and improved devices which will reduce the risk of injury to Ford workmen," Manager Graves said.

"Their report, after directing attention to the fact that but one fatality was recorded among 50,000 workmen in the year ending July 31, goes on to say:

STATISTICS.

"'Out of the war there was brought home to America the realization that its industrial activities had been carried on at a tremendous sacrifice of workers. We were appalled at the need for surgeons and nurses and great hospitals to care for the wounded. Had the wounded soldiers of industrial America been placed on cots each six feet long and arranged end to end, they would have made a continuous train 568 miles long; had those killed through carelessness in American industrial plants during the past year been laid shoulder to shoulder there would have been formed a solid row of human bodies eight and one-third miles long.

"'Realizing its responsibility to its workers, the Ford Motor Company has conducted aggressive safety work with the idea of eliminating the causes of accidents. It has been emphasized over and over to Ford employees that accidents are not a necessary "by-product" of their work, and that no man will be asked to "take chances." The acrobatic type of man who used to think he was doing his employer a great favor by "hanging by his eyebrows" from some lofty perch or doing some other equally foolhardy stunt is being rapidly separated from the Ford organization. He is not needed; he is a menace to himself, his associates and his employers.

"'Out of 38,000,000 of factory workers in the United States, approximately 22,000 are killed each year at their work. Applying the same ratio to the Ford plant, there should be twenty-nine deaths through accidents within the Highland Park plant alone, each year. Or, to reverse the order, if the Ford record of one death per year in a group of 50,000 workmen was followed throughout the country, but 760 men would be killed yearly instead of 22,000, the present number.'"

PERSONAL PERSUASION.

If personal persuasion can accomplish it, motorists of Southern California are going to have more Paige cars allotted to them as well as immediate delivery of cars already ordered, for Mr. Wallace S. Chorn of the A. E. Evans Company, distributors in Southern California for the Paige cars, left yesterday for the Paige-Detroit motor car factory at Detroit.

Although the Evans firm did not take over the local agency for the Paige car until February and the Southern California distribution agency until last month, the progressiveness of "Bob" Evans, manager of the company, and Wallace S. Chorn, a member of the firm, has resulted in tremendous boosting of Paige stock in the Southwest and business has become so large that under present contracts the company is unable to accommodate the business that comes in.

While at the Paige factory Mr. Chorn will make new arrangements whereby the allotted number of Paiges for the Southern California territory will be nearly doubled. He will also make arrangements for the immediate shipment of enough cars to supply orders that are waiting at the Evans company office to be filled.

In addition to assuring themselves of a greater supply of cars, the Paige firm has found it necessary to obtain better quarters for showrooms and for the handling of the cars both to Los Angeles buyers and Paige dealers in the Southwest. A new building has already been erected by the firm and it will be occupied shortly after the return of Mr. Chorn to Los Angeles.

Road Widened.

The California Highway Commission has determined to widen to fifteen feet and reinforce the section of State highway between Tule Wash and Kane Springs in Imperial county, a distance of about eleven miles. The edges of the pavement will be increased to six inches in thickness, with longitudinal rods along each side for reinforcement.

NATIONAL SHOW SPACE DRAWING

Interest Greater than Ever in Foremost Displays.

Chicago and New York Exhibitions at Same Time.

Post-War Models to Make Unusually Attractive Show.

As the date for the allotment of space for the National Automobile Shows approaches, interest in the forthcoming expositions is growing throughout the industry. Truly postwar displays and reflecting the general demand for motor vehicles, the motor expositions at New York and Chicago promise to establish new records from the standpoint of not only the number of exhibitors, but as well as mediums for demonstrating the marked advancement in the development of automotive engineering.

AFTER SPACE.

Applications for space at the two gigantic national shows are now being received at the headquarters of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce under whose auspices these events are to be conducted. To receive consideration on the date of space drawing, applications must be received by the N.A.C.C. by midnight of September 27. Drawing for space will take place at this address on October 2 with the members of the N.A.C.C., representing both truck and passenger car products, having first choice in the drawing. After the requirements of the members have been provided for, other concerns whose applications have been filed will have space allotted to them.

The fact that both the passenger car and commercial vehicle shows are being conducted in New York and Chicago during the same week means that these two cities will house more representatives of the automotive industry during one period than ever before. Heretofore, dealers and out-of-town visitors to the national shows have been compelled to make their rounds of the expositions cover two periods and in many cases, dealers found business interests made it impractical for them to spend more than one week at the show centers. Under the arrangements prevailing at the forthcoming shows, it will be possible for the dealer to inspect the latest passenger car and truck models during the same week.

TIRE SALE BRINGS 'EM OUT IN FLOCKS.

DEALER PLANS TO SLEEP IN STORE TO MEET DEMANDS OF EARLY CALLERS.

A location near the shopping center of Los Angeles, apparently, is half of the secret in launching a big sale, the other half necessary to making the sale successful being, of course, the offering of desirable merchandise at a figure representing a substantial saving to buyers.

This is the theory on which Sugarman and Greenburg operated in opening a store downtown for the sale of tires salvaged from the stock of a large Spokane (Wash.) concern.

J. B. Greenburg, who is personally directing the sale of tires, is seriously considering a suggestion that he sleep on a cot in the store in order to be on hand for early callers.

"Makes no difference," he said, "what time I get down, there has been a crowd on hand every morning the last week. The first day we were all but swamped. It looked like all the motorists of Los Angeles were responding.

"To date we have not been forced to disappoint anyone, as the stock we have put on sale embraces cord and fabric tires of widely-known makes in the sizes for which there is the greatest demand. There are two standard makes embraced in the principal part of the stock. All of the tires of the first big lot offered have passed factory inspection, and they are not to be classed as factory seconds or imperfects."

MYSTERY CAR IS ON THE WAY.

Production of the new light four-cylinder car, held up for the last two years because of war conditions, has been begun by the Willys-Overland Company of Toledo and shipments to dealers are being made.

The car is known as Overland 4. Its production, which marks the culmination of one of the most interesting undertakings in the history of the automobile industry, is a tribute to the persistent purpose which has guided President John N. Willys of the Willys-Overland Company since he built the first Overland car ten years ago.

HOME NEEDS GET FIRST ATTENTION.

PEOPLE IN AMERICA WHO WANT CARS RECEIVE FIRST CONSIDERATION FROM PLANT.

Service, like charity, begins at home—or, at least, it should.

So says C. W. Arthur, who made this declaration in converse with "Bob" Manning. "Elucidate," Manning enjoined Arthur, and after Arthur had explained himself Manning readily subscribed to the sentiments "C. W." expressed. And it is a perfectly safe bet that thousands of motorists, and those who want to be, but whose progress is retarded by the car shortage situation, will agree with both Arthur and Manning.

Oh, yes. Arthur is the recently-appointed western manager of the Mitchell Motors Company of Racine, Wis., and Manning is sales manager of the Security Motor Corporation, Mitchell Victory six distributor in Los Angeles and Southern California.

"What I mean by service to the home folks is this," Arthur explained, "In every motor car manufacturing center of the country, practically, you can hear no end of talk now about the vast export business in prospect.

"That's all okee, as President Wilson would say, but where do the American people get off? There never was such a demand for automobiles as now; probably never will be again—right here at home. Ask any automobile man.

"Well, my idea is that we're as good as anybody right here in this country, and if we want automobiles we should be provided with them ahead of every other people anywhere on the face of the earth. It's all right to provide the others with them, but we need them right away, and we should be given first consideration.

"Evidently the Mitchell factory executives figure things the same way, for I know it to be our policy now to devote our entire energies to placing as many cars as our capacity will allow with the people of this country as they indicate they require."

Suspicious Sympathy.

"I tell you I was mad when that saucy minx asked me to have my picture taken standing with the big zoo monkey."

"Indeed, that was enough to make you feel beside yourself."—[Baltimore American.

Commerce TRUCKS

"Honest and Faithful Service"

That's the way Uncle Sam describes the service of men who have served him honorably in uniform.

It's a good ideal to carry in civil as well as military life.

We KNOW there's honest service in Commerce trucks, for they are honestly built, through and through.

We have spared no efforts to back them with faithful service, too.

Both kinds of service are very important to the man who owns a truck.

Ask a Commerce owner if Commerce service is not both "honest and faithful."

DEATH IN AIR LEAP.

Villiers to Thrill 'Em at Stampede.

Step Off Flying Plane Trust to Luck.

Trying to Figure How Trick will Work.

the most expert airmen can be done. Miss Elsie is gambling her twenty- that it can. As there rehearsals the decision reached until the actual —3000 feet above Ascot from an airplane.

the first time that a para- from a speeding air- has been attempted, so records show. Miss De Vil- probably is entitled to the most daring girl in the that she will step holding a rope attached to the parachute. What will happen after that is problematical and she and some of the aviators are at variance.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT.

The aerial leap is scheduled for the three days of the Stampede, October 10, 11 and 12, so it is evident that Miss De Villiers believes she will survive the first attempt. She seems to have no doubt about it.

The minimum speed at which the plane can fly with two passengers is estimated to be about 60 miles an hour. That is a slower gait than will be attempted, according to the aviators who are studying out the procedure of the leap.

Going even at sixty miles an hour the effect will be to hurl Miss De Villiers headlong into the air—much different than dropping from a slow-moving balloon. The parachute will be carried in a cone beneath the airplane, and the jerk of the rope is supposed to pull it from its case.

CHEERING.

It will be recalled, just by the way of cheering Miss DeVilliers, that at Fresno recently, the cone and all was pulled loose by the jerk of a young soldier who attempted the leap, and he fell straight to his death.

How Miss De Villiers will be able to clear the plane is another problem which puzzles the aviators. She says that she will simply "step off" and trust to luck. With the plane traveling so fast it is pointed out that she might be unable to clear the tail.

However, Miss De Villiers says that she is willing to give practical demonstration at the Stampede, and seems to be absolutely fearless. It will not be her first experience defying the laws of gravitation. The life history of the little French miss reads like a Robert W. Chambers romance.

Kidnaped when a child, she lived with a Gypsy band for several years. She was sold to a balloonist and brought to America. Relatives, unearthing a clew through the aid of international police, found her in the East and then followed a long legal battle. She was restored to her relatives and returned to France for schooling.

Returning to America with her mother and two sisters, Miss De Villiers traveled extensively. Her early associations with aeronautics manifested themselves in a desire for aviation. She studied the art of the pilot, and then evolved the scheme for the parachute leap which she will introduce at Ascot speedway.

While Miss De Villiers will make no real leaps before the Stampede, she is familiarizing herself with the airplane at Mercury Field. Daily she is there in her costume, riding on various parts of the plane, so that the problem of balance may be solved.

GRABS HONORS IN RELIABILITY TOUR.

SETS RECORD FOR HILL CLIMBING DESPITE RAIN AND BLOCKADES.

Word has just been received by Harold L. Arnold, distributor of Maxwell cars in Southern California and Arizona, that one of these cars has just captured a coveted prize in Canadian motoring circles.

WITH NEW CAR.

Just three weeks before the annual Ottawa Journal Reliability Tour, D. E. Grant, an insurance agent, purchased a Maxwell touring car. Despite the newness of his car and the fact that many expert drivers and more powerful cars were entered against him, Mr. Grant had such confidence in the Maxwell that he challenged every entrant on the tour for hill climbing honors.

On the Lake Placid Road, six miles below Malone, he drove his Maxwell over Chasm Falls Hill in what was even better than a perfect score. His Maxwell time was 59 and 4-5 seconds and the official perfect score had been previously announced as 1 minute and 55 seconds.

There were twenty-four cars in the contest and at least twenty of them cost more and were larger than the Maxwell. It was a dangerous day for a hill climb, with a steady drizzle making the crooked winding incline slippery and difficult.

FURTHER HANDICAP.

As a further handicap Grant misunderstood the official signals and was out after the record before he could be stopped. By some mistake two automobiles and a surrey were allowed to start down hill just before he took off at the foot of the hill.

NONSKID TREAD UNDER DISCUSSION.

DESIGN DOES NOT WASTE POWER, BUT MUST GIVE GRIP ON ROAD.

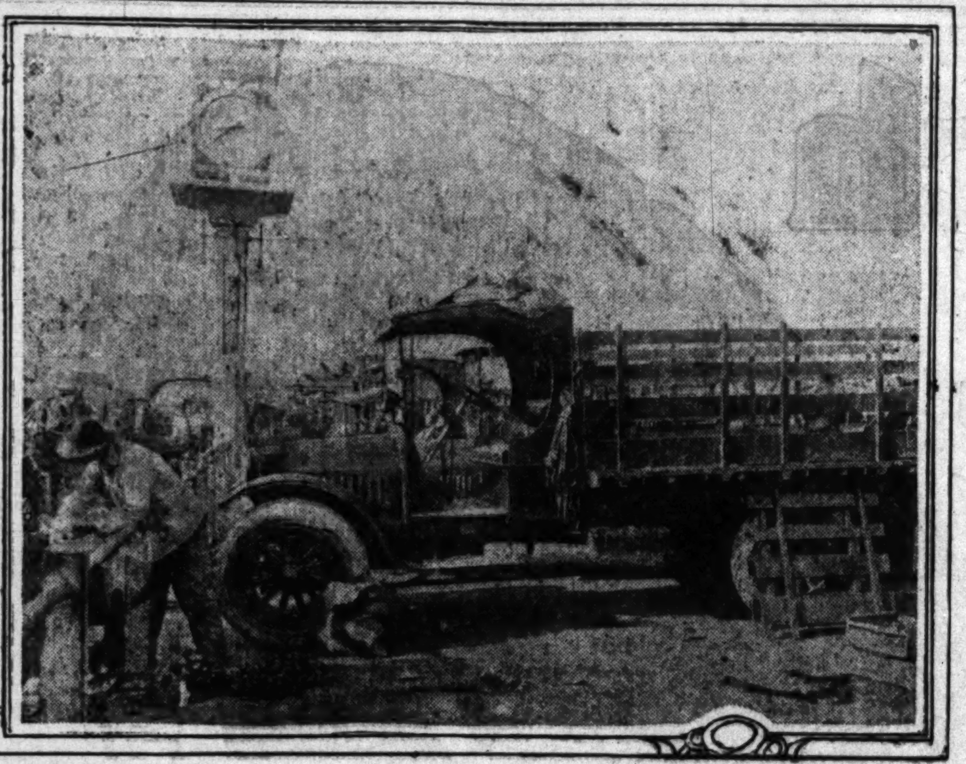
Whenever a nonskid tread is designed for a pneumatic tire there are a number of factors that must be taken into consideration. The design must be one that will not in itself consume or waste power, yet it must have a gripping tendency on the road so that it actually does keep the car from skidding upon slippery pavements.

These features were borne in mind carefully by the engineers who are responsible for the construction of Carlisle cord tires, and several additional points were considered, one of these, according to George Grabe, the distributor, had to do with steering. The objection is made to some non-skid tires that they make steering difficult when the tires are on the front wheels. The design approved by the Carlisle makers is in the form of forked streaks of lightning.

"The forked-lighting streaks are no obstruction whatever to the road, as they are indented in the tread," explained Mr. Grabe. "But for these depressions the Carlisle is a smooth tire. Any protuberance placed on the outside of the tire is an obstruction which not only consumes power, but tends to separate the tread from the carcass. The lightning tread does not have this fault. It wears longer and its smart appearance adds a certain note of attractiveness to any car."

SAN PEDROS WIN.

San Pedro High School won the first football game of the season in Southern California yesterday at Whittier, by defeating the High School of that city 21 to 7 in a wild and woolly contest. The Clam Chowders did most of their scoring in the first quarter, when Bo Wilson, coach of the Whittier team, had most of his second-string men in the line-up. All told, he used twenty-three players.



Supplying the City with Foodstuffs.

The big Union Terminal Markets at Seventh street and Central avenue offer a good illustration of the work trucks are doing in carrying produce to the city. A Commerce truck with pneumatic tires is shown above—a truck which has proved its value for speedy hauls of almost any distance.

FOODSTUFFS VS. TRUCKS.

What a tremendously important factor in the work of supplying the city with foodstuffs the motor truck has become is daily illustrated at the big Union Terminal Market at Seventh and Central. Every morning sees row after row of trucks in line in the big central square, with the load of fresh fruits or vegetables which they have carried piled around them, with scores of hucksters bargaining for the produce. The motor truck and the good roads have formed a combination that brings in produce from far and wide in the San Gabriel and San Fernando valleys.

"What is especially important, is the fact that the trucks land the produce in the city fresh and in good shape," declares Freeman A. McKenzie of the City Garage, Commerce distributor for Southern California. "Market men of years of experience have told me that they consider the waste that the motor truck has eliminated in bringing produce to market has been one of the greatest economic benefits that has been conferred by the truck. In former years, when it was necessary to depend upon slow, horse-drawn wagons, or upon railroad service with its consequent rehandling of the produce three or four times, the loss in bringing the more perishable of produce into market was very considerable. Today it is lower than ever before.

"Many Japanese market gardeners use Commerce trucks in their work. Some of the more progressive have adopted the pneumatic tires in place of the solids, with the result that the produce arrives at market in better shape than ever before. In the case of such produce as strawberries or blackberries, the added cushioning of the big air-filled tires is important in bringing the berries to market in perfect condition."

EAST ENTHUSIASTIC OVER NEW SPEEDWAY.

THINK LOCAL RACE CLASSICS WILL BE BIG BOOST TO THE GAME.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—This city has accepted the announcement of a big automobile speedway for Los Angeles with enthusiasm. Automobile men and racing followers are greatly pleased at the prospect of such an addition to the great motor racing circuit.

The word was brought here by Al. G. Faulkner, prominent Coast automobile man, and one of those prominently interested in the Los Angeles Speedway Association, the organization which has planned and will control the big plant. Faulkner is greatly enthused over the plans of the Coast people and their proposed racing schedule.

SPEED CLASSIC.

Prominent motor car men here believe the Coast proposition will arouse widespread interest and that the possibilities are that the Los Angeles event will soon come to be regarded as one of the great speed classics of the country.

Mr. Faulkner when interviewed at his hotel last night said: "My enthusiasm over the racing project is growing with every day that I stay in the East. Every big automobile man with whom I have talked has been more than enthusiastic over the plans of the Los Angeles organization and they are frank in their statements that it will rank as one of the big sporting events of the country.

RAH FOR JACK.

"Nothing is being spared to make the new track not only the fastest but the best in the country. Jack Prince, the veteran builder of speedway tracks, is putting his years of experience into the construction of this new speedway and he assures the public that it will be the best that he has ever built."

FARM PRODUCE IS HANDLED BY TRUCKS.

TRUCK GARDENER HAS WIDE RANGE IN PICKING CAR FOR DELIVERIES.

"A visit to the big Union Terminal Market in the small hours of the morning gives interesting evidence of the manner in which motor trucks have supplanted former methods of bringing produce from the gardens to the city. The motor truck has put an entirely new angle in the produce business," declares Freeman A. McKenzie of the City Garage, distributors for the Commerce truck.

"Formerly the market gardens of necessity were rather close in to the city. It was impossible to bring vegetables into the city markets from very great distances and have them fresh and unwithered, when horse-drawn vehicles were used. As a consequence land close to the city that was adaptable to market gardening commanded a high rental figure, and this was reflected in the price of the vegetables.

"Today, with a motor truck, particularly one with pneumatic tires, the truck gardener has a wide range of choice for his farming operations. He can bring his produce twenty miles more quickly than he could formerly transport it six miles. Pneumatic tires are a decided factor in bringing in such produce as berries or peaches into the market in the best possible condition, for they cushion the load and reduce jolts and jars to the minimum."

EVERY MOTORIST SHOULD WATCH CAR.

"Every motorist should spend a few hours each week looking after his car," says John D. Mansfield, general sales manager of the Dort Motor Car Company. "While the solid construction and foolproof design of the modern automobile will permit a large amount of neglect, it follows surely that in the end this abuse is felt in repairs and needless expense.

"If every motorist would consider his car as a piece of machinery, costing considerable money, and devote the time he figures guarding such an investment should take, there would be more satisfied automobile owners and better results from car ownership."

Didn't Impress Him.

Woman (at the door): Are you seeking employment?

Tramp: To be truthful, no; you can't make work sound any more inviting by using a word of three syllables.—[Edinburgh Scotsman.

FIGURING COST ON TON-MILE BASIS.

COMMERCIAL TERM BEING ADOPTED AS BEST MEANS OF DETERMINING RATE.

The commercial ton-mile is a subject often mentioned but apparently not understood as well as it should be by truck owners and operators. Fleet owners often look on the commercial ton-mile as a sort of complicated, visionary unit which may be all right for office men and expert mathematicians but which has no place in their work. The day may come soon when trucking rates will be established over the highways and regulated as are railroad rates. This already has been done by Nebraska and there is a tendency in that direction in California. When that day arrives every truck operator will want to know ton-mile costs.

"In figuring truck costs and truck efficiency, fleet owners should use the commercial ton-mile as the unit of comparison," says W. O. Gates, of the Gates-Kelley Automotive Company, distributors for Jumbo, All-American and Smith trucks. "The cost per ton is no fair measure of a truck's ability since it costs more to deliver a ton ten miles than it does one mile. Neither is the cost per mile any fair measure of work ability because it costs almost as much to run a heavy truck empty as to run it loaded. It therefore is evident that some unit that combines both mileage and tonnage must be employed.

"The commercial ton-mile is such a unit. The commercial ton-mileage is obtained by multiplying the total tonnage carried on any trip by the mileage of that trip divided by two. For the day it may be obtained by adding the ton-mileage of the trips made in that day. It also may be figured direct per day, month or year by multiplying the total tons carried during the period considered by one-half the average trip distance during the same period."

AWARDED HONORS IN FASHION SHOW.

Further honors came to Nash passenger cars when they were awarded three prizes at the automobile fashion show held in connection with the Sedalia (Mo.) State Fair. The awards were based upon appearance.

After a review before 10,000 spectators who crowded the grand stand at the State fair grounds, and in competition with numerous cars of other makes, the Nash entries, all driven by owners, got first and third places in the sport and roadster class, respectively, and third place in the touring car class.

When You Can Have the Templar
The Superfine Small Car
For Less and Immediate Delivery

THE Templar is not an experiment. It has been in production for three years. Although new to Southern California, in the East the factory cannot supply the demand and is now doubling its capacity.

ALTHOUGH classed as a light car, it weighs about 2100 pounds and has the refinements of more expensive cars. At high speeds the Templar holds the road as if glued to it.

THE Templar is economical to operate, which is a feature that appeals to the average motorist. The average life of a standard tire on the Templar in the East, is about 12,000 miles under ordinary conditions and under the same conditions, the average gasoline mileage is between 20 and 24 miles per gallon of gasoline.

ECONOMY and luxury and the satisfaction of owning a car into which the very best has been built are combined in the Templar.

B.H. DYAS CO MOVES
—about Oct. 1st., to 7th AT OLIVE

Soon "California's most interesting store" will move to Seventh at Olive, where it will occupy the entire Downstairs Floor of the Ville de Paris building.

This is the second of a series of advertisements appearing in this paper regarding the removal of the B. H. Dyas Co. Sporting Goods Store.

Chapter II.—Amplified Service.

"Great oaks from little acorns grow."

Years ago, in a small yet positive manner, Mr. B. H. Dyas, the founder of this business, planted the seed of service that today has grown to be as mighty and stable as the sturdy oak. Therefore, the Dyas Sporting Goods Service is not the result of any stroke of good fortune, but is the natural result of our application of the ideals set down by Mr. Dyas years ago, when he founded this business.

Now that we are about to move into a new building providing great physical expansion, it is only natural for our friends to expect our Sporting Goods service to grow in corresponding proportions. Indeed, this is true—we are leaving no stone unturned so that when we open the doors of our new store we may offer service, not excuses.

A mammoth elevator will lower you, automobile and all, into the Camp Goods Department. Here willing hands will strap your camping equipment on to your machine. Camping experts will look after every little item, so vitally important for the enjoyment of an automobile outing.

You will find our Indoor Rifle Range a practical help as well as a pleasure. Here you may at all times keep yourself in good shooting trim by shooting as long and as often as you like. Before purchasing a gun, you will have the opportunity to see that it meets all your requirements by testing it out on this range.

Golf enthusiasts will welcome our large indoor golf net. Here the experienced player may practice to perfect his stroke. Here the beginner will find an expert golf instructor who will explain and give practical demonstrations about all the essential points of the game.

—Though we shall go into the matter of personal service in a manner unique if not daring;

—The spirit of the old B. H. Dyas Co. store shall prevail in the new, and the sum of the new store accomplishments may be traced to the principles fixed by Mr. B. H. Dyas in the old.

Chapter III of this series will appear in a few days.

Goodrich has THE TIRE

TRADE MARK

The City of GOODRICH
Akron, Ohio

THE summer of 1919 established this outstanding automobiling fact, "Goodrich has THE TIRE."

Car owners and drivers everywhere are saying it, passing along the good news by word of mouth.

At the outset Goodrich knew it had the tire—knew it by knowledge of tire making—knew it by road testing.

That's why Goodrich stepped forth last June with its revolutionary More-Mileage Adjustment, and certified Goodrich Tires at 6,000 miles for Fabrics; and 8,000 miles for Silvertown Cords.

Quality will make itself felt and known. The news of what a tire can do travels on fleet feet.

The performance of Goodrich Tires has made the Goodrich Certified Mileage, the peak standard for tire service; just as Goodrich list prices and Goodrich quality have always told tire users what tires to drive, and what to pay for them.

What the Los Angeles Forestry Department is Doing.

The county forestry department maintains extensive nurseries for the propagation of many kinds of trees. They have made a study of climatic and soil conditions of the hundreds of miles of every road in the county and whether it is through the desert or by the ocean they have the right kind of a tree for it. The department also plants trees on the mountain sides for flood control.

FIRMOLA stimulates and revitalizes the relaxed tissues of the THROAT, NECK and BUST. It rejuvenates the skin of the neck, which usually becomes wrinkled, brown and leathery-looking early in life.

As soon as FIRMOLA is applied it begins to act. It revivifies and builds up the atrophied muscles and tissues, thus restoring the youthful contour. The wrinkles vanish under and back of the ears, while the skin becomes soft, white and velvety.

AUTUMNAL PLANTING SUGGESTIONS

MIXED WATSONIAS

Now is the time to plant these spring-blooming bulbous plants. The range of color variation in our mixed Watsonia is very wide and bed when in full bloom produces a most unusual color effect. Watsonias make a steady growth through the winter and it is highly important that they be planted early. Price, each, 10c; per dozen, $1.00.

NO GARDEN can be considered complete without some of the showy Stocks. We now have excellent plants in the following colors and varieties: Golden Ball, Purple, Old Rose, Beauty of Nice, Rivera, White, Mad. Pacquette. Plants in 2½-inch pots. 60c PER DOZEN.

IT HAS only been since the introduction of splendid improved types of the old-fashioned Calendula (Pot Marigold) that their value began to be appreciated. The strains that we offer are amongst the best. Orange King and Lemon Queen, plants in 2½-inch pots. 60c PER DOZEN.

PLANT CYCLAMEN now for flowers during the ensuing winter. Our stock of small plants is now ready for delivery. Nothing better for beds located in shady positions. Colors, salmon, white and red, in 2½-inch pots, $2.50 A DOZEN.

SPECIAL OFFER. One packet each of the following varieties of Winter Flowering Spencer Sweet Peas, including Yarrawa, Lavender Bi-Color, Winter Red, Venus, Mrs. A. A. Skach, White Orchid, Blanche Ferry Spencer and one package of our Giant Winter Flowering H. & S. Special Mixtures, a collection which marks the last word in Winter Flowering Sweet Peas, for $1.75.

COMPLETE LIST of Roses are now ready for delivery, including the remarkable Los Angeles Rose. List containing varieties, colors and prices mailed upon request.

WE HAVE some splendid specimens of Whitmanii and Boston Ferns for interior use now ready, at $2.50 EACH. These plants are in 8-inch pots and are especially good values.

USE KILS-ALL for destroying thrip, red spider and scale of all kinds. Is also an excellent specific for aphis and mildew on roses, as it does not mar the buds. Destroys the Argentine Ant, one of our worst garden pests. ONE-HALF POUND CANS, 50c EACH, ONE POUND CANS, 85c.

GRANULATED PEAT. Fine for Ferns, Begonias and for use in connection with shady beds. 85-LB. SACK, $1.50.

SHEEP MANURE, a fertilizer which is practically odorless, low in moisture content and rich in plant food values. 50-LB. SACK, $1.50.

JAPANESE IRIS

This magnificent class of Iris is a marvel of beauty and stateliness. The plants often obtain a diameter of 10 inches, and the colors and combinations of delicate shades in both the single and double forms baffle description. We offer an unsurpassed collection of large ball plants in assorted colors, including blue, white, lavender, etc. Price $7.50 per dozen.

Out Where the West Begins.

Out where the handclasp's a little stronger,
Out where the smile dwells a little longer,
That's where the West begins;
Out where the sun is a little brighter,
Where the snows that fall are a little whiter,
Where the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter,
That's where the West begins.

Out where the skies are a trifle bluer,
Out where hearts are a little truer,
That's where the West begins;
Where there's laughter in every streamlet flowing,
Where there's more of reaping and less of sowing,
That's where the West begins.

Out where the world is in the making,
Where fewer hearts with despair are aching,
That's where the West begins;
Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,
Where there's more of giving and less of buying,
Where a man makes friends without half trying,
That's where the West begins.

ARTHUR CHAPMAN.

The Samaritans.

SOME day we hope to see organized in this country, and throughout the world as well, a society on the order of our American fraternal societies, the name of which shall be "The Samaritans."

In the wonderful historical records of the scriptures the people called 'the Samaritans" stand out very vividly. It is plain that Christ conceived a great admiration and affection for them. Their character and the nature of the deeds they performed appealed strongly to Him.

In the first place, it appears that the Samaritans were people who loved mercy and practiced it. We know this from the parable of the man who went down from Jericho and fell among thieves. The thieves robbed him and beat him up and left him bleeding and helpless on the roadside. And many passed him by without stopping to help him or even to be sorry for him, till a Samaritan came. The Samaritan put the man on his beast, took him to an inn and had him tenderly cared for, paying the bill and telling the innkeeper that he would pay more if necessary.

Another time we hear of a Samaritan is when there were ten lepers "standing afar off" as Christ was passing by. They cried out to Him to heal them, which He did, telling them to show themselves to the priests, who were also the physicians, in order that they might get a bill of health and again be permitted to mingle with the public.

Only one of the ten came back to thank Christ for what He had done for them, and this one was a Samaritan.

So, we see that they were a people who not only loved to practice mercy, but they were grateful when mercy was given to them.

If the whole world today could be led into the principles and the ideals of the Samaritans, it would be a far happier and a far better world than it is. If we could all be merciful to others, that is to say if we would all unselfishly help one another in need, no matter what that need might be, and if when others helped us we would be grateful for the mercy shown us, this earth would be like heaven.

You know how it is. When we are in need, and when we are in trouble, we beg and pray for help. But, when help is given us and the need is ended and the trouble passed, we do not take the time to be grateful and to show our gratitude.

When the society of "The Samaritans" is organized, it will have to include men of all creeds and colors, and the bars must be let down for men who have no creeds at all.

It must be a world-wide and a universal society.

Must We Compete?

IT IS stated that at the present rate of influx and at the present birth rate, there will be more Japanese than white people in California eighty-five years from now.

Now, unless we are willing to have this come to pass, there is a hard task before us to head it off.

There are two things that the present white population of this Golden State must do in order to successfully compete in the race against the little brown folks from Nippon. We must get our own kind of people here from the East faster than we are doing, and the sizes of our present-day families must grow larger.

Neither Senator Phelan nor anyone else seems to be able to keep the Japanese from getting under the canvas into California, and when they get here it is a holy caution the way they have babies. They work in the fields from daylight till dark every day and then dig around after dark with lanterns; they seem never to sleep, but always to be at work; and yet new babies appear on the scene with a rapidity that must make the jack rabbits envious.

And how are we to compete with them at making money? A white man leased 150 acres of land in Imperial Valley to a Jap at $50 the acre per year. That looked like making easy and big money to the white man. But, the Jap paid the rent and cleared $16,000 from the first crop, and he has still three more crops to plant and harvest before the year is done.

It doesn't appear to be possible to head off or to shut out a race that does things in this way. The fact is that if we don't want the Japs to monopolize California and to become the dominant people in it, somebody would better do some mighty hard thinking right now.

A Kind World.

SOME people will tell you that this is a hard, selfish, cruel world, and yet there is a class of people in it who put up millions upon millions of dollars every year to pay the salaries of movie actors without the slightest chance of ever getting a dollar of the money back. And, moreover, they continue to do so in the face of the fact that the actors do not even thank them for their stupendous generosity. Talk about altruism! Huh!

Mouse Traps.

A NEIGHBOR came over to our house not long ago to sit in the moonlight and smoke his pipe on our steps. We offered him a chair, but he would not accept it. He was in an ill humor, and it was all on account of mouse traps.

He is a nice man. He goes to church on Sunday, votes for the best man for constable no matter which ticket the best man is running on, he helps his wife wash the dishes, and doesn't swear on cold mornings when his Ford won't crank.

But, there in the moonlight on that heavenly evening with the song of the cricket in the live oaks and our yellow cat purring against his legs, he swore like a trooper and his very soul seemed to be embittered because, as he said, mouse traps are shams and shameless frauds and the men who make them, as well as the men who sell them to an unsuspecting public, he said, should be put in jail and kept there.

From what our neighbor said, we got the idea that the only sure way not to catch a mouse or a rat is to put these traps around the house. He spent 60 or 70 cents for cheese and bacon and other tempting baits for three traps that he had paid $1 apiece for, with the only result that the mice and the rats ate the stuff all up and escaped scot free, every dinged last one of them.

Since then we have spent some time looking into this matter, and we have decided that the best way to keep mice and rats away is to have a cat that has kittens every couple of months. Those kittens have got to eat, and mice and rats are their natural food.

The man who makes a mouse trap thinks he is a smart man, but if you tell that to a mouse the mouse sticks his fingers to his nose. But, if a mouse sticks his fingers to his nose at a cat, that mouse ends his earthly career right there and then.

A cat may look at the king, as the saying has it, but no rat can look at a cat and get away with it.

Remarks.

THE only standing army that really looks good to us is the Salvation Army.

The world does not change much. You will still find a girl almost anywhere who says she wouldn't marry a certain man if he were the last man on earth, but if you hang around awhile you will find that she will marry him, just the same.

The country is dry legally, but it is wet every other way.

Maybe it is because the Kaiser has no lawyer that he can't be hauled out of Holland and jugged in London Tower.

We are indeed a strange people. And one way we take to fool ourselves is to turn the clock back to save daylight.

Don't Try.

NO DOUBT all sorts and conditions of men and women read this magazine, but the majority of them are folks who are the same as the people are who live in the same block with you in comfortable homes, who go to church now and then, who take in the movies occasionally, ride down to the beaches, belong to lodges and women's clubs, have little doings at the house every so often and who are invited by the neighbors when there are doings at their houses.

It is an ideal existence on the face of it, and it would be so in fact if it were not that things get ahead of us and it seems that we can never catch up. There isn't one of you who does not say almost every day of your life that you really don't know how on earth you are ever to get done the things that you see ahead of you to do.

Dearly beloved, the truth is that you never will and never can catch up. And you are foolish if you try.

What's the difference, anyway? If you let things like that worry you the sanatorium is sure to get you.

We were talking the matter over with a wise man one night in the full of the moon, and he said that when we do the best we can it is enough and all that can be expected of us. And he said the way out of it is to do the main things that are to be done every day and let the minor matters slide.

For instance, it is far better for a woman to fail to write a letter than to be late with dinner when her man comes home tired and hungry after being bumped and jostled around by a hard-fisted world all day. And it is better for a man to fail to write a letter than to come late for dinner when his wife has stewed and sweated over the stove to have it ready for him.

We may think that ordinary things like those are not important, but that's where we make the mistake. It is what we call the "big things" that are really not important.

The Physician.

WRITING of men, Robert Louis Stevenson said: "There are men and classes of men that stand above the common herd: the soldier, the sailor, and the shepherd not infrequently; the artist rarely, the clergyman rarer still; the physician almost as a rule. He is the flower (such as it is) of our civilization, and when that stage of man is done with, and only remembered to be marveled at in history, he will be thought to have shared as little as any in the defects of the period, and most notably exhibited in the virtues of the race."

Much dependent on doctors was poor Robert Louis, and we think it was fine of him to so gratefully remember and to so eloquently praise that class of men who had been of such great help to him.

It may be that in these greedy and grasping times there is now and then a physician who does not measure up to Stevenson's standard. It would be next to a miracle if, out of the vast number of physicians, there are none who are conscienceless. Every class has its black sheep. There are even clergymen who disgrace their cloth. It cannot fail to be otherwise so long as human nature is constructed as it is.

But, we agree with Robert Louis that the physician is still the flower of our civilization.

It is not a difficult matter to know the true physician, and if there be mountebanks among them, they are easily discernible. And no man who has known a true physician has ever failed to honor and to reverence him, and to be grateful to him.

High and holy is the trust that is reposed in the physician, and it is with a kind of exaltation of spirit that we realize how few the physicians really are who have betrayed that trust.

Los Angeles.

WE NOTE with feelings of pain that both San Francisco and San Diego continue to scoff at Los Angeles and to poke fun at it. San Francisco says we are a "jay town," and San Diego calls our harbor a "soup tureen."

In the meantime Los Angeles continues to grow and wax fat. It is a living proof of the truth of the old childhood adage that "sticks and stones may break my bones, but names will never hurt me."

Can it be possible that San Francisco and San Diego are jealous of Los Angeles?

Hope for Poets.

THE world's literary circles are considerably wrought up at present over a Chinese poet who wrote his verses 3000 years ago and who, therefore, is now a long time dead.

This should encourage all living poets. In order to be poets they must be poor and suffer the rebuffs of crude, heartless editors, but think of the happiness it must be to know that one will be remembered 3000 years after one is dead.

"My boy," she cooed. "My poor boy! Oh, honey, I've got the most wonderful surprise for you. You'll be wild about it. I've got a home for us, sweetheart—got it all fixed up ready for you, and I've been living in it for nearly a week. It's such a darling little nest, Eddie; so much better than anything I expected to be able to find on this side!"

"You blessed girl!" he crooned. "Our home!"

"The loveliest dove of a place," she ran on. "So wonderfully quaint and artistic. And you'll live there with me, boy, and forget all the bitterness of those hard years. Oh, I can hardly wait to show it to you!"

IV

The machine stopped, and they got out before a three-story brick house.

"Just look at those dear old dormer-windows up there!" Marjorie cried enthusiastically. "Aren't they splendid? I've my studio up there in the attic. It's perfect! One expects quaint old atmospheric places like this abroad, but here in New York—aren't you wild over it? There's a whole colony of artists about here who have taken places like this."

Eddie followed her inside. He was strangely silent, but she did not notice it.

"Do see that lovely old-fashioned banister," she continued. "You must be careful not to use it, though, deary, for it's fearfully shaky. And see, sweetheart, the old fireplace in the dining-room here! Isn't it too quaint and dear for anything? So genuinely antique. I've taken the whole house, dear. It's—it's rather expensive, and yet not so very in comparison with other desirable, atmospheric old places near here. There's the dearest little alley near Washington Square lined with the loveliest stables, which have been converted into studios, and my dear, compared to the rents they ask for them, this is really reasonable. And oh, Eddie, there's the dearest kind of a pagoda thing out in the back yard. It's so old-fashioned and interesting, and we can restore it just a little to make a lovely summer-house of it, and have our meals there when it's warm. And oh, Eddie!"

"Huh?"

"There's the dearest ruin of a real old-fashioned pump out there. You must come see it!"

"I know," Eddie muttered as he sank down into an interesting old chair. "I'm—I'm a little tired."

"Oh you must see that old pump, and the pagoda thing. They're so atmospheric you can't appreciate them just from my description."

"Can't I?" Eddie said heavily. "I can't, huh? Say, I was born in this old dump!"

What I Found in the Jungle.

suddenly wheeled and came lunging at the native.

The man held his fire until the gorilla was quite close, taking no chances of missing him again. When the gorilla was within two yards of him, it stopped, short, feinted as if to strike at the negro with his hand, but instead thrust out his foot and tried to seize the man. Point blank, the negro fired—and this time the bullet struck the gorilla's head. Then, with the animal down he fired again—like the carpenter driving a nail. I gave him a fine laying out for shooting the gorilla in the face; for it somewhat injured the animal as a specimen. He should have shot at his heart. But with the beast only two yards away he did have some excuse to hit him anywhere.

Gorillas are very shrewd and tricky fighters. They make unexpected moves. The hunters looked carefully in the bushes for some sign of a bush pig, but could find none. That suggested to me that possibly the gorilla had imitated a bush pig's call, seeking to lure some of those animals to him. I have no proof of that; however, I do know that I heard a sound very much like a bush pig, and that there were found no signs whatever of a bush pig having been in the vicinity. Had there been a fight between one of them and the gorilla, the foliage would have shown it, for a bush pig is a very savage fighter. He often weighs about 200 pounds and armed with long, sharp teeth, it is a very savage and active animal. It will even attack a man.

Happenings like that are all in the day's work when one gets into the African jungles to get specimens of animal life for science. When you see those specimens mounted in the museums, it all seems sort of matter of course; you take it for granted that they should be there, but behind many of them are stories of hair-raising escapes—when life for the hunter or life for the animal trembled in balances that a hair's weight would have turned.

Helen and Warren.

"That's a bum bed—but I was tired enough to sleep anywhere," yawned Warren as he rolled out.

Then when he had slumped into his bathrobe and slippers,

"Where'd you say that bathroom was?"

"Down the hall—to the left. But, Warren, you can't take a bath in that tub! Why, it's dreadful—"

But he had slammed out. She started up to run after him. Even at the risk of a scene, she could not let him bathe in there! It was unthinkable! And he was so careless—he so often failed to notice things!

Throwing her long steamer coat about her, she was at the door, when it was flung open—and Warren strode in.

"Now you hustle and get dressed!" grimly. "We're going to the Adelphia for breakfast."

"But you said we'd have to pay for breakfast here," instantly regretting the remark.

"Well, what of it? We don't have to eat it, do we?"

"No—no, of course no. I couldn't eat here! I thought if you once saw that bathroom—you'd not—"

"Well, I've seen it!" explosively. "Now drop it. And I hope you're about fed up with your 'quaint old atmosphere!' I'll take a little sanitary plumbing—and a few other modern improvements, for mine!"

"But, dear, some of these old English inns are spotless."

"Well, this one isn't! I'll pay her as we go out, and send a cab back for the baggage. The sooner we toddle out of this joint—the better it'll suit me. Now get a gait on!"

Valuable Scrap Heaps and Dumps.

Scrap heaps and dumps have in recent years become sources of wealth. The chemical and dye industries of Germany were founded on the utilization of what was once thrown away.

A shrewd American bought a bog into which thousands of tons of tar had been dumped and made a fortune by recovering it. A miner in Butte became rich by extracting sulphate of copper dissolved in water pumped from the mines. By-products pay the dividends that oil companies disburse.

In one year alone metals valued at $72,786,027 were recovered from scrap heaps in this country, not including gold, silver, platinum, iron and steel, to which attention has always been given. Of all the copper that figures in the metal trade of the country more than 22 per cent. was recovered from scrap, of zinc 20 per cent., of lead 11 per cent., and of tin 26 per cent.

The recovery of tin from scrap is a comparatively new industry, the annual output of which now exceeds $8,000,000, most of which would have been wasted a few years ago.

Shoddy is a commercial output of great value and usefulness. English mills consume three times as much shoddy as is used in American mills. The foreign demand for shoddy is very great.

We could use more shoddy in an honest way, but it cannot be obtained. Americans destroy or throw away rags and worn-out garments in sufficient quantity almost to double the supply. Manufacturers have learned to utilize waste, but the masses of the people have not.

The popular idea that a person loses consciousness in the course of a fall from a great height seems to be refuted by the experience of aviators. Parachutes, although designed to open after 200 feet, frequently do not open under 1000 or 1500 feet, and during this drop the men tied to them are quite conscious.—[Washington Star.

WHAT I FOUND IN THE JUNGLE.

BY PROF. RICHARD L. GARNER.

[Prof. Garner, director of the Smithsonian Institutions recent expedition to the French Congo, has made seven long trips in the jungles of Africa, covering in all a period of twenty-seven years. He has fearlessly penetrated into the heart of Africa braving every danger to study the animal life there. His discovery of the monkey language is one of the most important achievements of the age. This is the first of a series of articles by Prof. Garner. The others will follow soon.—Ed.]

I KNOW that in their daily lives, apes are uncannily like hum[illegible]. Father, mother and children ape[illegible] daily walks together and live hap[illegible] and more respectable lives than man[illegible]ans who use the word "ape" as a term of reproach.

If no physical link shall be discovered between them and man, I may be able by properly describing and classifying the intellectual phenomena of Simians, to show how very near they are to being flesh of our flesh, bone of our bone, mind of our mind. And from my observations made during twenty-seven years in the heart of Africa, living in the same house, as it were, with Simians, living in a cage in the jungles and watching them day after day, week after week.

I know that apes communicate with each other, not by mere sounds, like other animals, but by definite words. Monkeys chatter but apes talk. That apes are able to carry on an extended conversation among themselves is absurd; their language only has between twenty and thirty words. The chimpanzees I have kept in captivity and studied indicated by definite words their desires. These of course are very primitive desires, and beyond single words for expressing them their language does not go.

There is no doubt in my mind that human language began with such primitive words as are uttered by the apes. Similar sounds are employed by African savages. Our present complicated language is an evolution from the primitive calls of one ape to another. In the jungle I became convinced of this.

A chimpanzee dimly recognizes a difference between right and wrong, but in a more vague way than mankind. It can tell the difference in colors and in shapes. It also recognizes an enemy though it does not long treasure up a wrong. When well treated a chimpanzee is affectionate. The the white man.
gorilla is not so tractable; it is not so intelligent. The natives call the gorilla the black man of the jungle and the chimpanzee

Susie, the Chimpanzee that Talked.

ONE of the chimpanzees that I studied I named Susie. I bought her from a native when she was about five weeks old. Susie showed me that a chimpanzee can be taught speech. I taught her to count the numbers up to four. She could select and designate geometrical forms, such as cubes, pyramids and cones. I educated Susie.

I learned that apes could discern even shades of color. This fact came to me through their fondness for ntondo, a kind of wild ginger fruit. As the ntondo pod ripens, it changes its shade. The apes like ntondo at a certain stage of ripeness and when the shade of the pod reaches this stage, they pick it, never making a mistake.

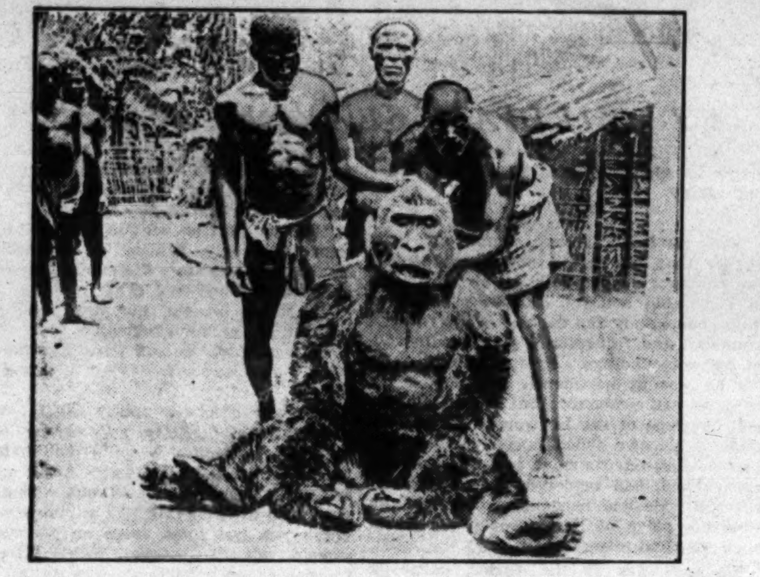
I wish to make a sharp distinction between educated and trained. All the apes I educated responded to kindness except the night ape, which, unlike its relatives, sleeps by day and roams by night. This type will literally bite the hand that feeds it.

To learn scientific truths of this sort is the reason I have spent so many years in the jungle. My last expedition, which ended on June 5 of this year when the transport Chicago docked in New York, had begun on December 18, 1916.

I have never killed an animal for mere sport, for I cannot see any sport in taking a life. I never shoot unless it is for food or the interest of science. During the last month of my last trip I only fired eleven shots, all of them from a canoe. Coming back from Cape Lopez to our base in the interior, we were passing through Lake Fernan Vaz when I saw a hippopotamus and killed him. The specimen weighed about 7000 pounds and I brought back his teeth to America as souvenirs.

Hippo is a Hard Fellow to Tackle.

A HIPPO will attack a canoe with very little provocation. I know of a canoe that was smashed by a hippo; there was a woman in it and the hippo cut off both her legs. The power of the animal is tremendous. There is beached along the shore of the lake an old Mission canoe, a monument to the hippo's power. That canoe was attacked by a hippo. In the bow one can see a gash the animal made with his tusks. The cut is in the shape of an arc and measures four feet. Out of the canoe sides the hippo also bit gashes as big as your hand and an inch deep.



Prof. Garner's cannibal hunterman and a gigantic gorilla just killed in the jungle.

One day when I was returning from Cape Lopez, I saw three crocodiles basking in the sun on logs. I shot them. It is not dangerous hunting crocodiles, for they will not attack a canoe like hippos do, unless they are in such pain from the wounds as to become infuriated. The danger comes in for the native boys. After a crocodile is hit, it generally goes to the bottom to elude you. Then we send the native boys into the water to search for them. This is dangerous. On my last trip, one of the boys had his hand badly bitten. They feel for the crocodile with their feet; then they reach down and attempt to pull it up by the tail. Unfortunately one of the boys reached down into the crocodile's mouth.

Alligators are not dangerous. You can tell if they are about by the sound they often utter at night. An alligator bawls like a bull. A crocodile makes a strangling sound. The natives say the crocodile catches monkeys by lying in wait in a bush close to the shore and snapping them. I have never had any proof of this, and am rather doubtful, for crocodiles stay in the water most of the day, rarely coming ashore until night; and at night monkeys seldom move out of their trees. I do know, though, that leopards catch and eat monkeys, I have seen the proof of it time and again. The natives say that the leopard imitates the sound of a monkey and lures his prey to him.

One of my "shoot men" was named Pambo. He was of the Balumbo tribe. Another was Douga Njango. He was my favorite. I had known him for twenty-five years in Africa and known him to be the most intrepid hunter on the continent. His boast was that he feared absolutely nothing and I came to believe him. Large, powerfully built, tall, straight as a spear, he was a perfect specimen of jungle manhood, undegenerated by contact with the white man's coast.

Douga had killed more gorillas than any man in Africa. He was a member of the Pangwe, the largest and most incorrigible tribe of cannibals in all Africa. They are the only blacks who really stand up and fight the French soldiery nose to nose. Every once in a while Douga's people decline to pay their neppo or tax; and backing up into the hills, hold off the French. Their tribe covers an area of many thousand square miles and when they fight they mobilize as many as 5000 against whom the few hundred available French soldiers are powerless.

Shooting Wild Animals From the Porch.

THE Oguma region contains more elephants, gorillas and chimpanzees than any other that I know of in Africa. An abandoned house there belonged to an English trading firm, and they courteously permitted me to use it. It was on the edge of the jungle and we could almost sit on the front porch and bring down many sorts of wild animals. That is not exaggerating.

One day when I was lunching on the porch I heard a noise in the bush and the foliage moved not forty yards away.

"Amande?" (What is that?) I asked my native boy.

"Iri njoyu!" (It's an elephant,) he said, "Bonga njoli! Mi bela bola ai." (Bring my gun. I want to shoot him,) I exclaimed.

While the boy pattered into the house for a rifle I sat with my eyes fixed on the bush. An elephant forty yards away from my luncheon table! But although the bushes moved here and there, I could not see him. Suddenly there was a great agitation in the foliage and the elephant decamped; something must have warned it.

The following day we were having our luncheon served on the porch of the house The jungle near seemed more peaceful. As our native house boy served us he gave a slight start; then he whispered pointing toward the undergrowth "Master, Nkambi a bia." (There is an antelope.) Calling for the guide, for our "shootman" had not yet returned from the jungle, I gave him a rifle and told him to kill the specimen. He glided noiselessly away, but the antelope took fright. The guide moved swiftly after him and disappeared in the bush. Presently a rifle report broke the stillness of the jungle, and we hurried on after him. He had killed the antelope about 200 yards from our front door.

We finished our luncheon without further incident of note. Later while skinning the antelope, I had remarked, "we don't need to go into the bush any more. all we have to do is to sit on the porch with our guns in our laps and whistle for the animals and they'll come to us." Then I heard a peculiar sound across the river, which to me appeared to be the loud squealing of a bush pig and this was followed by the sound of a gorilla. My first impression was that a gorilla and bush pig were fighting in the bush.

My "shoot man" had returned by now and I told him to go and kill the gorilla. To me the well-known gorilla's scream and that other cry suggested that it was a deadly battle. My big black huntsman, with a breech cloth over his loins, hurried away. Soon there came a shot. I listened for a second shot but none came. "Something's happened," I said to my companion.

Black Men Can't Resist. One More Shot.

NOW one shot from a black huntsman usually indicates one of two things; either he has missed and the animal has gotten away, or he has been killed. For almost invariably if a black kills an animla he fires a second shot into the helpless thing. It is a characteristic that I have often noticed of the black man in Africa. He loves to pound things that are not capable of resisting. A native carpenter, for example, is never so happy as when he is hammering nails. He will pound away with a hammer until his arms drop at his side from weariness. I had given up the gorilla or my shoot man, when there came a second shot, then a third.

"He's got the gorilla," said I and sure enough he had. It was an enormous beast, weighing about 300 pounds. The shoot man told me that when he came upon the gorilla, he was twenty yards away. The animal was eating some wild ginger. The black man fired at him, and hit him in the belly. The gorilla turned as if to run away, then

THINGS FOR EVERY HOUSEKEEPER.

BY RETTA BADGER.

[Any information regarding things illustrated or described on this page gladly given. Suggestions from readers are always welcome. Address all communications for this department to Retta Badger, The Times, Los Angeles.]

THE other day in going through one of the stores I came across a table of frames, for 15 cents, made to fit any and all sizes of kodak pictures. They were made of good mouldings and in different colors, those of dull gold being particularly charming. I found on inquiry that they are to be had regularly at that price and at once I saw a lot of charming little Christmas gifts. I bought several of the gold frames and some water color paints and went on my way rejoicing. I have, and I know everyone else has, some delightful kodak pictures taken while on vacation this summer. There are some little woodsy scenes and bits of beach that are worth while. These tinted and framed make the nicest sort of little gifts. Just put them away and at that awful last moment that comes in everyone's Christmas time, when you find you have forgotten someone, here will be a gift all ready for the emergency.

Some of the beautiful colored photographs

Perhaps there were friends with you on your vacation trip. Wouldn't a well framed, well colored picture of some of the places you visited be a happy memento to send to them? If you have any difficulty in making the paint stick moisten a piece of cotton and go over the surface of the picture. If you make a mistake in the color, or for any reason want to change it, the wet cotton applied very gently will erase anything you want it to. This applies only to water color, of course.

While we are talking of pictures, have you seen the hand colored photographs of famous paintings? They are beautiful. The original is photographed then the colors are carefully and exactly copied by experts. The result is wonderful, giving you as it does every detail of the original painting. These will make beautiful gifts and you will find the exhibition of them well worth a visit.

LIBRARY PASTE JARS.

These, when the labels have been soaked off, are good to place inside of flower bowls to help hold the blossoms erect. Better effects may be obtained than when the stems must be crowded together.

SCALLOPED CHEESE.

Remove the crust from three slices of bread, and spread them with butter. Place them in a baking dish and pour over them a cup of grated cheese, a pinch of salt and a dash of paprika. Then take three well beaten eggs and three cups of milk, pour into baking dish and bake about twenty minutes in a moderately hot oven. This is a good entree.

BEANS SWEET AND SOUR.

Put two tablespoons of butter or drippings into a pan; add two tablespoons flour and brown slightly. Add two tablespoons brown sugar, a pinch of salt, a little cinnamon and a half cup of good vinegar. Add the beans that have been parboiled, and let them simmer gently until thoroughly done. (Several hours.) The juice left from pickled or spiced fruits is delicious in preparing sweet and sour sauces.

CHEESE PIE.

Take a pint of thoroughly drained cottage cheese, one-half pint of table cream, three eggs (separated,) one cup of sugar, two tablespoons of melted butter, salt, one tablespoon of flour, juice and grated rind of one half a lemon. Line a spring form with a crust made of one cup of flour, pinch of salt, one teaspoon baking powder, two tablespoons of butter, four tablespoons of cold water. Mix with a knife and roll like pie crust. Bake the cake one hour.

NOODLE PUDDING.

Boil the noodles in boiling salt water fifteen minutes. Throw into cold water and drain through colander. To two full cups of noodles take five well-beaten eggs, one heaping cup of currants, raisins and citron mixed, one cup of sugar, flavoring to taste.

Put one cup of butter in pudding dish and melt, then mix the butter and eggs, noodles and all the ingredients with a little cinnamon.

DON'T THROW AWAY.

Paper containers which have held cottage cheese and many other products may be washed, thus making them perfectly clean and sanitary, and should be saved for picnics or for school lunches. Food may be transported in them, and they also make excellent and light substitutes for dishes. They will hold ice cream, salad, water and even coffee for some time, although they are really better for cold things. If lined with waxed paper, many quite soft foods may be carried and served in them.

COFFEE FRAPPE.

Three cups strong coffee, one cup sugar, one cup thick cream.

Dissolve the sugar in the coffee. Chill. Add the cream and freeze to a mush. Use an equal quantity of ice and salt in packing the freezer. Serve in sherbet glasses.

PEPPERS STUFFED WITH CHEESE.

Take six green bell peppers, cut off the ends and remove the seeds, then boil them in salted water until tender. Take two cups of grated cheese, two eggs well beaten, half a cup of olive oil or butter, one cup of grated bread crumbs, a bunch of parsley minced, a bean of garlic and season with salt and pepper, fill the peppers and bake until brown. This is a rather expensive dish but hearty enough to take the place of the meat course. Summer squash may be used instead of the bell peppers.

CHEESE AND BAKED EGGS.

Take a small baking pan and put a tablespoon of butter in it and when the butter is hot fry a slice of garlic brown, then remove the garlic and break six eggs with salt and pepper, then put a cup of grated cheese over the eggs and let them bake until set, then spread on thin slices of cheese that have been sprinkled with paprika and serve hot.

CHEESE FONDU.

One cup of milk, half a cup of dry bread crumbs, half a cup of grated cheese, one tablespoon of butter, one egg, a quarter teaspoon of salt, a little pepper. Scald the milk, add bread crumbs and cheese, beat the egg separately and add the yolk, butter, salt and pepper to the first ingredients. Last fold in the stiffly-beaten white of the egg. Pour into buttered pudding dish, and bake about twenty minutes in a hot oven. This is enough to serve three people.

WHITE VELVET SHERBET.

This is a most refreshing ice cream and is very cheap—also by making it at home you escape the war tax. A small freezer is a most convenient thing in your household, but it is perfectly possible to make ice cream with one bucket placed in a larger bucket of ice and salt. The smaller bucket must be turned pretty continuously by hand and two or three times during the freezing process, the cover must be removed and the freezing mixture scraped down from the sides and beaten smooth with a spoon.

Mix the juice of six lemons with three cups of sugar and add very gradually three pints of milk. Freeze.

CHEESE CUSTARD.

For three persons, take two ounces of grated parmesan cheese, the whites of three eggs beaten to a stiff froth, a little pepper, salt and cayenne, a little milk or cream to mix, bake for a quarter of an hour.

LITTLE MISS PATRICIAN WITH 50¢

BY WILLIAM SLAVENS McNUTT.

THE day was hot enough to discourage activity even in a New York street-rat, so Eddie Flynn hooked a seat on the tail-board of a beer-truck in the lower West Side slum district, and went adventuring.

He alighted at Seventy-fourth street and Broadway. The spot was not of his choosing. It just so happened that the truck was at that point when the driver became aware of him as a passenger. Eddie was only 7, but he easily won the verbal battle that followed. His vocal range was greater than that of the truckman, and the exploding powder of his wrath sped a deadlier assortment of epithets.

He stood in the middle of the street and continued his shrill bombardment till his antagonist was out of hearing. His vituperative labors satisfactorily concluded, he took stock of his immediate surroundings, and discovered an audience, in the person of a little girl, watching him from the curb

She was akin to him in age; in every other way she was as unlike him as one member of the white race may be unlike another. She was as clean as a rain-drop; he was as dirty as an alley cat. She wore a gay straw bonnet and white shoes; he was bare of head and foot. Her clothes were crisp and neat; his were limp and ragged.

"Who yuh lookin' at?" he snarled.

The little girl took no fright from the threat in his tone.

"I know what you are," she said primly. "You're poor."

"I'm whut?" Eddie exclaimed truculently. "What d'yah say I am?"

"You're poor," she explained patiently. Her face became eager as a new and exciting possibility occurred to her. "Maybe you're a little orphans. Are you orphans?"

"Am I what?" Eddie suspiciously demanded enlightenment. "What's that yuh said I am? Yah! Ye're fresh, ain cha?"

"I know what!" the girl cried eagerly. "Ooh! I know what. Let's play charity!"

"Le's play what? What's that? Git fresh wit' me, an' I'll bat yuh one in the eyes—that's what I'd do wit' yuh!"

The girl was absorbed in her own idea to the exclusion of all else. Eddie's threats registered on her consciousness no more than the distant, accustomed rumble of the trains on the elevated.

"I'll be a nice lady with a good heart, like—like on Christmas," she continued her planning aloud. "And you be—you be—why, you don't have to play anything. You just play you."

"Yuh'll be a nice lady," Eddie jeered. "Yuh! Go a-an! Ye're crazy wit' de beat!"

The little girl realized his hostility as an obstruction, and tried to melt the obstacle with a smile. Eddie answered the attempt by sticking out his tongue. The girl played her trump.

"I got money," she announced.

"Yes, yuh have!" Eddie retorted skeptically, but in a much less hostile tone. He did not object to her boast of wealth, but if it did happen to be true—

The girl extended her hand. A fifty-cent piece lay in the upturned little pink palm.

A fifty-cent piece! Had it been a penny, a nickel, or even a dime, Eddie would have grabbed it and run. But a fifty-cent piece! Ooh! He felt instinctively that the forcible acquisition of any such sum would probably be regarded by the police as murder, or some other major crime, for the perpetration of which he would be immediately put to death, if he were caught.

"'Tain't yours," he argued weakly. "I bet your mother give it to ya to git sump'n."

"It is too mine," the girl insisted. "The man that nurse likes, he gave it to me. Mama's out, and he gave it to me not to tell that nurse went away with him and left me alone for a while. What's your name?"

Eddie tried to tell her that it was none of her business, but only gulped and pouted. He resented her assumption of superiority, and yet felt himself wilting before it.

"I'm—I'm—Eddie Flynn," was all that he could mutter.

"I'm Marjorie Levison," she introduced herself. "My papa works in a bank, and—and the president trusts him more'n anybody, and—and he came to dinner at our house, too. I'll buy you ice cream soda first off, and—and maybe I'll have some, and you'll be glad and—and thank me, and—and all!"

II

Mrs. Levison arrived home an hour earlier than she had expected, and found her daughter flushed with the virtuous glow of charitable activity. Eddie was stoked with soda, candy and cookies to the point of stupidity, and respectfully servile with awe of his surroundings. By nature and training he was as impudently independent as a street car conductor; but the cleanliness and elegance of the Levison home, in contrast to his own soiled raggedness and the sordid slum environment to which he was accustomed, had rendered him abjectly respectful. He had become an obedient and admiring slave of the patronizing young miss who had taken him in tow.

Marjorie was in the parlor, earnestly brushing Eddie's tangled hair, when Mrs. Levison came in. She exhibited her charge proudly.

"See, mamma, I found a poor orphans, and I got his face and hands all clean, and lots of candy and things, and his hair's 'most combed now, and—and all!"

A period of excitement ensued, during which Mrs. Levison had recourse to her smelling-salts, spanked Marjorie and then praised her for her charitable impulse, discharged the nurse, scolded Eddie, petted him pityingly, and finally gave him a nickel for his fare and saw him aboard a south-bound Broadway car that would take him within a few blocks of his home.

He was quiet and thoughtful during the trip downtown. Occasionally he sniffed and wiped his nose, and once he found use for the knuckle of his forefinger to squash a full-grown tear-drop that escaped from one of his eyes. His Eve, in the person of Marjorie Levison, had fed him the fruit from the tree of class knowledge, and the taste of it was bitter in his mouth. The effect of his indulgence was similar to that which resulted from the first human consumption of an apple, in that it gave him doubel vision. He knew both poverty and riches, and in consequence of that knowledge he knew sorrow.

Never before had he been conscious of any attitude toward the block in which he lived. As he entered it late that afternoon, he saw it in contrast to the block uptown in which Marjorie Levison lived, and immediately he hated everything on it. He hated the rows of low, old-fashioned brick tenements, the littered pavement, the dingy shops, the shrieking children at play, the idling men and women on the stoops. More virulently than all else, he hated the ramshackle, old-fashioned brick tenement, the dark, odorous first floor of which was his home. He entered it aquiver with an almost hysterical rage of protest against whatever force it might be that compelled him to live in such a dim, damp old tomb of a house with creaky floors, rickety stairways, shaky banisters, tumbledown fireplaces, and dirty, stingy little windows, while the same power permitted a little girl near to his own age to dwell in a veritable palace boasting hardwood floors, a marbled entrance, plate-glass windows as big as some of the store-fronts on his block, elevators run by colored boys in brass buttons, and bewilderingly shiny, tiled bathrooms.

His father, attired only in undershirt and overalls, sat by a table, laboriously spelling the news from an evening paper and sucking at the tooth-worn stem of a black, asthmatic old pipe. The contents of a half-empty beer-bucket on the floor beside him added its pungent bit to the composite odor that hung in the stale, hot air like a thick, invisible fog—an odor mixed of the scents from varieties of food in the delicatessen-shop next door, beer, tobacco, perspiring flesh, old clothing, and strong suds from kitchen soap, in the sink where Mrs. Flynn was washing dishes.

"Youse 'll git no supper in this house." Mrs. Flynn greeted her son shrilly. "Ye're late again, an' if I've told yuh once I'm tellin' yuh a dozen toimes that youse 'll be here to ate whin the grub's on the table, or youse 'll slape wit' an impty belly to kape yuh company, yuh scatter-mongerin' little wander-footin' imp o' the devil, yuh!"

"Aw, to thunder wit' de supper!" Eddie retorted sullenly, fighting in his throat to bar boyish tears from the manly tone of his defiance. "Whut do I care?"

Mr. Flynn lowered his paper and glowered at his sullen offspring.

"Is it took wit' de sun y'are?" he inquired with heavy sarcasm. "Whut's wrong wit' yuh?"

"Aw, yuh gimme a pain!" Eddie shrilled recklessly, all caution and shame swept away by the flood of hysteria that revulsion loosed in him. "Aw, g'wan! Look at yerself, yuh poor cheese! Whut's wrong wit' yuh? All dirty an' all, like anything! Why didn't yuh put some shoes on yer feet or sump'n, yuh poor cheese! Yah! Whut fer I got to be an orphuns an' poor an' all, just fer you, huh? You gimme a pain! Look at where we live an' all. Look at ut! Aw, whut's wrong wit yuh? Yuh poor cheese, yuh!"

Mr. and Mrs. Flynn looked questioningly at each other.

"The devil's in the brat," Mr. Flynn gave his opinion. "Him bitin' the hand that feeds 'im!"

"Sure, an' he's like all the rest o' the Flynns, same as I've always been scared he was goin' to turn out to be," Mrs. Flynn wailed. "Niver a McCarty o' the lot iver turned on his own kith an' kin. It's a hard hand he's needin' to turn him from his Flynn ways, the little brat! Do be lockin' 'im in the shed out back, Dan'l, wit' the ghostics an' the rats an' all We'll learn him whut fer!"

At the mention of the shed out back Eddie bowled and turned to run, but his father caught him ere he reached the door, and carried him, kicking and screaming, to the little, penlike back yard. It was inclosed on either side by a high board fence, and at the rear stood the dreaded shed.

The shed was a queer relic of a day when the house had been the abode of its original owner; a day prior to the inundation of the neighborhood by the tide of immigration; a day when the address was one that a socially ambitious person could admit without shame. It might once have been a summer-house, for the remains of gingerbread adornments were still visible and the wreck of a picturesquely carved wooden pump retained a precarious attachment to the brick floor.

Whatever it may once have been, it had degenerated into just a shed, and in it a bibulous tenant of the house had hanged himself after spending the rent-money at the corner saloon. It was a matter of common knowledge to the children of the neighborhood that the suicide's ghost appeared in the shed after dark, and a threat of imprisonment with the restless spook was a warning that seldom failed of effect.

Even the prospect of incarceration in the shed failed to move Eddie to repentance, however, so he was thrust in and the door was locked on him. Ordinarily he would have been frantic with fright; but so strong was his wrath that it remained the dominant emotion. He sat in the dark and made various wild plans that had a common origin in his determination to get away from the place in which he lived. All his resentment was centered against that dirty, gloomy old house. It typified the condition against which he was in rebellion. He considered going to sea and becoming a pirate; remaining on land and becoming a bank president; and many other possible future occupations that would permit of his living elsewhere than the place of his birth.

When he was liberated, at 10 o'clock, he was still sullen, and so deeply engrossed in the business of choosing a future from the alluring outlines of the many careers which desire had painted in his fancy as possibilities that Mrs. Flynn felt sure her son was going the way of certain of his father's people who were feeble-minded, and put him to bed with a prayer instead of a spanking.

III

Great works from little irritations grow. Xantippe's tongue had the qualities of action that automobile salesmen claim for the engines in the cars they represent; and Socrates, being unable to get in a word edgewise at home, walked abroad and shared his wisdom with the many. Achievement is the offspring of discontent and energy.

Nature had endowed Eddie with energy. Lacking the union of it with discontent, formed by his afternoon uptown with Marjorie Levison, he might have developed into a petty-larceny artist or a longshoreman. Spurred into initial action by the result of that union, he developed an astonishing momentum of industry and thrift.

He was 10 years old when his father, stowing cargo in the hold of a vessel at a North River pier, made the fatal mistake of standing directly under a net full of descending nail kegs when a rope broke. The accident left Mrs. Flynn dependent on her small son, and she found no cause for complaint. He cared for her by selling newspapers at first, and later by working as trucker in a box factory, until, in his fifteenth year, she set foot on the common out-trail of the universe.

Eddie cried, paid the undertaker, and started West. He landed in Los Angeles, got a job driving a wagon for an afternoon newspaper, and went to night school.

When he was 20, he tried selling real estate. From his first prospect he extracted $250 more for a bungalow under the "perpetually sunny skies that smile o'er the original site of the Garden of Eden" than even the dealer dared advise him to ask.

Five years later he was in charge of the Los Angeles branch of a New York firm of brokers, and had $30,000 in the bank. He was a neat, snappy, hustling, clean young American business man, reasonably well read and of good address. He could stand an evening of Shaw or Shakespeare, although he preferred musical comedy. While boasting no wealth of intellectuality, he could, as he expressed it, swim with the highbrows, stroke for stroke, so long as they didn't go too darned far to sea. He belonged to a couple of good clubs, drove his own car, and played enough golf to make him wish he could play more.

The firm whose branch he managed in Los Angeles made him a proposition to come to New York. While he was considernig it, he fell in love with a girl who hailed from the city by the Brooklyn Bridge; whereupon he immediately wired his acceptance and devoted himself to securing hers.

He saw her first at a country club dance, and after one look went in search of a friend to present her.

"Miss Levison," the friend introduced her, "Mr. Flynn."

Eddie didn't remember her, or she him. He had long since forgotten the incident responsible for the combination of discontent with his energy. Memory of the ragged boy whom she had fed and patronized for an afternoon was no surviving part of her consciousness.

She had been abroad for six years, studying sculpture, and was returning to New York by way of the Pacific Coast after a trip around the world. She was wedded to her art, but Eddie wooed her into bigamy, convincing her that she could successfully be Art's wife between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day, and Eddie's the rest of the twenty-four hours. Experience in salesmanship had taught him the wisdom of getting signatures on paper as soon as possible after reaching an agreement; as a result of which he became the lawful wedded husband of a very much bewildered Marjorie Levison in a justice's office within two hours of the moment when she promised to marry him some day.

He had to stay in Los Angeles for a few weeks, to close up his affairs, and she had to go on to New York to meet a committee from which she hoped to secure a commission. They parted in a confusion of tears and endearments. A month's interchange of saccharine telegrams and special deliveries followed, at the conclusion of which Eddie bounded up the stairs from the train-level of the Pennsylvania Station and clasped her in his arms. A limousine awaited them. Once inside, Eddie pulled down the curtains and clasped Marjorie in his arms again.

"Seems mighty queer to be back in this town, honey," he said huskily, during a while women resorted to department stores, or other places of a semi-public kind, a makeshift that is not satisfactory.

This condition has a direct bearing on health. Delaying a natural function often lays the foundation of chronic illness.

Even where something of the kind is provided by private enterprise, the condition of these places is often most unsanitary, and sometimes disgusting. A woman correspondent writes:

"I go out very seldom where the crowd goes, but always when I do go I am more than disgusted with the filth of the few public toilets for women. I drove down to San Pedro. After a hot drive, my daughter and I thought we would go and find a toilet and found the usual neglect—no arrangements made, although thousands of cars were parked around, no convenience for either men or women, only a very poor woman about two blocks from our car was allowed to let the miserable place she had. A number of women were waiting their turn to get into one of the usual filthy places, swarming with flies. While we were waiting, we thought we would go over to the cottage, to see what more convenience could be had. In a shed adjoining the cottage you were given an old tin tomato can. This was to use in the shed, to make yourself comfortable, and when coming out you were to bring the can and empty it over a fence between six or seven feet high into a vacant lot, and then hand it to the next person waiting. I myself could not reach it, my daughter came to my aid. All this for a nickel. I have traveled a lot, but the public sanitation in this part of the world is the very worst I have ever had to bear. In the old country one pays a penny in the slot for everything, very comfortable and clean, with a woman in charge who understands how to keep such places in order."

An innocent person might suppose that such health-menacing conditions might properly engage the attention of the numerous satellites of the city and county boards of health. Oh, no! Those august bodies are far too busy looking out for possible chances of declaring an "epidemic" to be imminent, and compulsory injection of filth into the blood, for them to be able to waste any time in the removal of outer and obvious filth. They are medical, not sanitary bodies. They deal with disease, not with health.

Possibly the City Council and the County Supervisors might be induced to do something to improve the condition to which I refer.

Quinine.

I RECEIVED a circular from the California State Board of Health, urging the reporting of cases of malaria, and that tests should be taken "before you give the quinine."

Just as if this deadly drug was a necessity.

Quinine is a dangerous drug. The country is often shocked by reports of astounding and apparently inexplicable crimes in the Southern States, perpetuated by men of education and standing in their communities. Such, for instance, as the brutal whipping of a girl, because she received the attentions of a young man to whom her father was opposed.

These deeds are especially amazing, because the southerners are a chivalrous and hospitable people. They are lovable, those manly men and soft-voiced women of the South.

How, then, may we account for these strange outbreaks. In my opinion they are due, firstly, to the abominably unhygienic diet of the Southern States, with its excess of starches and sweets and fried foods, tending to bring about a condition that readily invites malaria, a disease favored by climatic conditions in some parts of the South. Secondly, as a preventive of this disease, the southerners consume large quantities of the poisonous drug quinine—pronounced "keen-een," if you please—which not only makes people deaf, but drives them crazy. This was the cause of the horrible tortures perpetrated by German officers upon the natives in East Africa, by Belgians in the Congo, and by Englishmen in Brazil.

As I have frequently pointed out, a liquid made by pouring hot water on the pomelo or grapefruit, using the whole of the fruit, including the rind, is an effective and harmless substitute for quinine. If you can not get grapefruit use lemons.

However, if you eat right you will not get malaria, for your blood will be resistant to the swampy emanations from decaying vegetation, which is the cause of malaria, not mosquitos, which are only incidental.

AN EPISODE OF THE ROARING FORTIES.

BY CHARLES GREEN.

I REFER to latitudes not dates: of course for all I know the same years in the last century might have been especially memorable ones, just as was '49 or '63 or as 1914 will be in times to come.

Dates are made famous or infamous by man; they come and go, but the roaring 40's I mean are the Creator's own handiwork and will con[illegible] roaring their defiance down the ages [illegible] time endures, and only the staunchest [illegible] and the stoutest hearts emerge from this maritime maelstrom, always with a prayer of thanks in their souls, often with a new understanding of the might of the angry deep sown in their breasts.

The Two Brothers was outward bound from 'Frisco, via the Horn, when the pent-up fury of men and storm seemed to burst at the same instant—and thereby hangs the tale—with the result that only a miracle which manifested itself in a flash of perfect seamanship saved all hands from being "rocked in the cradle of the deep."

There had been bad blood between Harvey and Dolly from the moment the first sail was set, and it had been freely prophesied that there would be trouble as a result before the mud-hook was finally dropped.

Harvey was somewhat of a mystery. While it was known his book stated he hailed from Tasmania, nobody believed he did, still at the same time no man could suggest any country which might seem nearer the mark. Neither his speech, manner nor yet his appearance gave a really definite clue to his origin, and though he was taciturn and inclined to keep his own counsel, still he possessed humor enough to enjoy the situation, and so continued to keep everyone guessing.

He was built like a wedge and was a seaman from his keel to his tousled flaxen truck. Nature, assisted by a life-time training, had peculiarly fitted him for his vocation, for while he had the legs of a lightweight he possessed the shoulders and arms of a heavy. The advantages of the combination were quite apparent in his work aloft. Whilst the average sailor was making the main he'd be out on the royal yard and it was no trouble to him either.

The general run of sailors figure one hand for themselves, and one for the ship—with reservations—but Harvey's book didn't read that way. The ship could depend on one of his hands at all times and under any circumstances.

This was his fourth consecutive voyage with the skipper (Capt. Wills) and the latter claimed a better helmsman never looked at a compass.

Dolly Was a Different Sort of Man.

COMPARED with Harvey, Dolly, whose correct name was Dolatan, was an open book, if there happened to be anything between the lines he furnished the key to the solution himself. He signed on in 'Frisco for the passage only, and did so to avoid the consequences of some trouble he'd had on the Barbary Coast.

Long before the ship ran into the 40's however, he was persuaded he'd jumped into the fire, and as he couldn't hop back into the frying pan, he became sullen and grouchy and as such a most undesirable shipmate. To make matters worse his work was on a par with his disposition and he was in the same watch as Harvey—the starboard watch.

Harvey took his profession very seriously, and often in the dog watches during the first weeks out of 'Frisco, his steely eyes would glint with a dangerous light, as he heard Dolly hold forth anent the superiority of steamboat men, and always wind up with his private and uncomplimentary opinion of rummies who didn't know any better than to sign on to a windjammer.

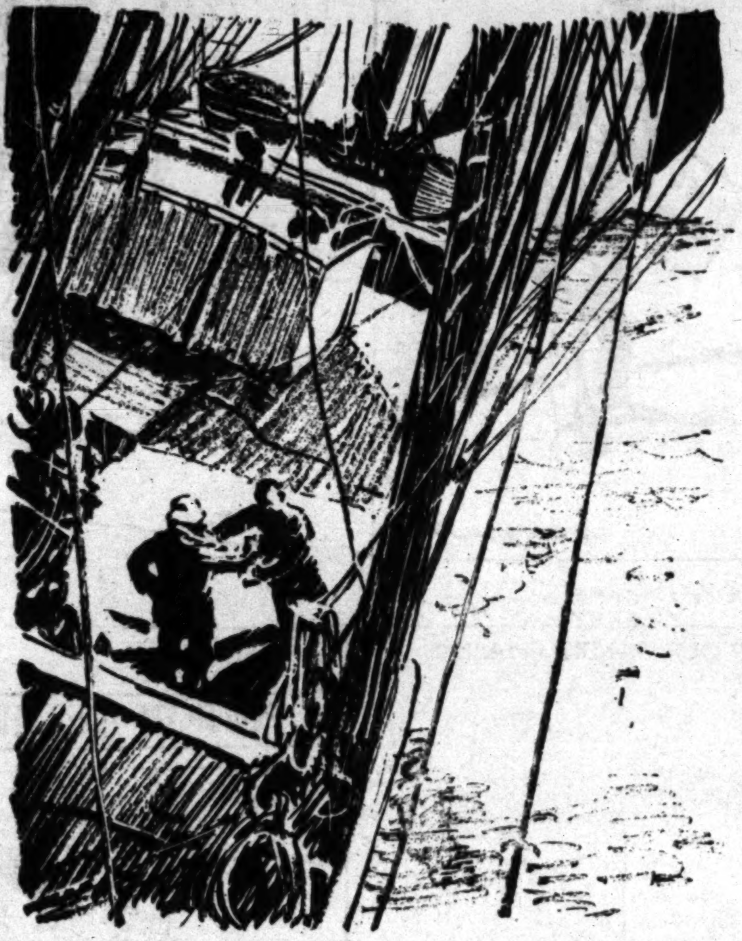
This coming from a steamboat sailor A.B. as he was supposed to be, though it was doutbful if he could even hand reef and steer with all that the terms imply rankled in Harvey's mind, and only the self-control which usually accompanies a cold-blooded race enabled him to keep his fingers from Dolly's throat.

Harvey had real cause for harboring a dislike towards Dolly, for many was the night—for the sake of the ship—he'd done the hardest kind of work out on the icy yards, that should properly have been done by Dolly, had he been game or seaman enough to do it. Then came the day, when, with the storm at its height the expected happened at a most unexpected time.

It was Dolly's trick at the wheel and he hadn't been at the helm five minutes before every soul aboard knew it, as the ship commenced to lose her head, like a horse does when he can't understand a driver who can't understand him. And like a horse the sailing ship is docile, and responsive to the lightest touch, and it's only when the man at the helm, or holding the lines, begins to see-saw that sympathetic action ceases.

Steering a Steamboat Not Like a Windjammer.

NOW Dolly could steer a steamboat and pass well enough in the crowd in all probability, but when it came to grinding a windjammer in the teeth of a Cape Horn gale he wasn't there, any more than another steamboat man would be under similar circumstances. The two jobs are as different as those of a traffic officer and a broncho buster; the two former can both steer, the two latter can both ride, but when it comes to the real test the odds favor the man who is always in practice.



Dolly had been used to steering by the compass, whereas what he needed now was all eyes for the ship's head and the clouds, and the helmsman's natural instinct, which he didn't possess. He didn't realize that in the moment he was looking at the compass to see where he was at the thing might happen and all too late he'd read the information he sought on Davy Jone's bulletin board. About this time the mate called the skipper it looked as though it was a case of hove to, or have the sticks torn out of her.

She was running before a heavy following sea, and as the waves came thundering up astern, it seemed as if this one or that was surely going to overwhelm the ship. It really is a terrible and awe-inspiring thing to behold, and just as often as these mountains of seething water overtake the ship, just so often does the sailorman look into the face of death; and there is always the unhappy thought that should his ship founder his passing will be as vain as it is fraught with lonesomeness.

Dolly must have been dwelling on some such contingency overlymuch, at any rate the fact was soon apparent that he was losing his nerve, and running as she was before the gale, with yards square, was no time to have a man at the wheel whose eyes were engaged alternately in wavering vision ahead and awestricken glances behind.

The skipper came up in time to catch him indulging in one of these squints over his shoulder which resulted in the sails being almost caught aback, and catching sight of Harvey, who had just come down from the t'gallant yard, and was frozen nearly stiff, he bellowed for him to come aft and ordered him to relieve Dolly at the wheel! Harvey grabbed the wheel as he was bid, and as he did so he shouted at Dolly, and his voice could be heard above the racket, "Let go! you farmer, it's over the side you'd ought to be along with the galley garbage."

When Men's Hates Were Foremost in Their Thoughts.

AS DOLLY turned his lip curled as he snarled "—— you!" The epithet used and the depth of hatred that found expression in it acted on Harvey like a detonator on dynamite.

With his worst instincts aroused, and murder in his heart, Harvey abandoned the wheel, leaving the ship to her fate and leaped at Dolly.

One look at those steely eyes had convinced Dolly of the relentless purpose that lay back of them and his courage which was born of hate, gave way to dread and he sought safety forward. But he would not have been quick enough at that, if the ship had not at that instant been hit broadside by a tremendous sea which threw all hands in every direction, washing the decks fore and aft. It swept Dolly clean off his feet and into the lower deck where he fell into two or three feet of swirling water.

The ship was actually broached to as the skipper struggled to the wheel, and perhaps never before was a ship so near capsizing and still able to record it in the log. In the meantime Harvey was up again, and although like the rest, drenched and numb from exposure, the hate within him still burned like live coal. The thousand different dins and noises occasioned by the laboring of the ship as she lay in the trough, which would have served to distract most men from their repose, didn't exist for him. His sole aim in life, or his last favor of death, was to get his clutch on Dolly's throat.

With this end in view he fought his way in the general direction in which Dolly had disappeared, catching sight of the latter as he was washed over to the lee scuppers, for about the third time, finally succeeding in gaining a hold.

Dolly got to his feet and saw Harvey heading for him. He seemed undecided for a moment, as to which way safety lay. As his gaze went aloft, it seemed for a moment as if he was going to shin up but he thought better of it, and seemingly decided to play tag, hoping to avoid Harvey till the latter had cooled off.

Talkers Don't Have Time to Listen to Others.

BUT Dolly didn't know the man he was proposing to cool off: being a typical sea-lawyer and a good talker, Dolly, like most talkers, was too self-centered to look and listen once in a while. As a result he trod on men's toes without realizing it and now he was learning too late what three parts of his mates could have told him; that it was written across Harvey's map plain for all men to see that he was the type of man who can only be insulted once.

After about twenty minutes maneuvering over "no mn's land," for that's what the main deck may be likened to in the 40's, Harvey finally got his man cornered under the break of the poop, and throwing himself upon his quarry bore him to the deck.

No man fights more fiercely than a coward when cornered, and Dolly was no exception. According to his own admissions he was something of a 'Frisco hoodlum, and being a big man too, he was able to struggle to his feet with Harvey hanging on to him like a bull terrier. Hanging on to the rail with one hand, he brought his huge and salt-toughened fist down, time and again, on Harvey's head. But he might just as well have be-labored the mizzen mast for all the effect it had on Harvey, who continued to hang on to Dolly's throat, trying his best to strangle him, his fingers apparently being too numb to do his bidding.

In this wise, one trying to break away the other striving to hang on, they were thrown to the deck repeatedly, until they were both bleeding profusely from numberless cuts and bruises. The skipper and mate dared not leave the wheel, and all hands were at work on which their lives depended, and as far as human intervention was concerned, they could have fought till murder was done.

Dolly had changed his tactics, and in desperation was trying to heave Harvey overboard; if he had been willing to accompany him, he might have succeeded eventually. But the waters that have taken such a toll of sailors lives, took a notion to save a couple, for as the ship was just recovering from two or three bad "dollops," a green sea towered up and coming aboard almost buried the ship.

The Sea Separated the Combatants.

FOR a minute that seemed an age she ceased to tremble and every man felt that sickening feeling which accompanies the possibility of settling, but gallant ship as she was, she shook herself and rose to the next sea, which otherwise was due to finish her. Nobody could explain just how it happened but when the Two Brothers had got rid of some of the water she'd shipped, Harvey was found lying half-drowned in the scuppers. His leg was broken and two or three ribs stove in, while Dolly still clung to the shrouds, which he had managed to grab, as he was on his way overboard.

After a world of trouble Harvey was at last carried into the fo'c's'le where he lay in a semi-conscious condition, until the skipper was able to render first-aid.

Neither he nor Dolly got any sympathy from any man aboard, as their scrap had left the ship short-handed, and at a time when every finger and every pound of beef was worth its weight in gold.

Dolly was made to turn to within the week, but Harvey never got to his feet again on that ship, though he swore if he ever did, Dolly would be the first to know and regret it.

MARRIED LIFE OF HELEN AND WARREN

BY MABEL HERBERT URNER.

Their First Night in England is at a Very Old and Primitive Hotel.

"THAT quaint old street! Dear, do look—Queen's Head Lane! Oh, I love the very name!"

"You won't be so enthusiastic if we have to drive around all night," grumped Warren. "Hello, let's try this," as they drove past another hotel. Then to the cabman, "Stop here."

"They're full up, sir. I just tried 'ere with another party, sir."

"That's all right," skeptically, "but I'll have a try myself."

Helen looked wistfully after him as he sprang out and hurried up the courtyard entrance of the grim gray building—a typical Liverpool hotel.

She longed to follow him if only for the atmosphere of the lobby and corridors—the stately old-world atmosphere that was for her so full of charm. But it was always her role to stay in the cab with the baggage.

"Nothing doing!" when he reappeared. "Every room taken." Then to the driver, "Try the 'Northwestern.' "

"It's no use, sir. I just drove a party there. It's just as I told you on the dock, sir, there ain't one of the big hotels that's got a room."

"Well, what the Sam Hill are we to do? Sleep in the park?"

"I hopes not, sir," quite seriously. "If you don't mind small plain lodgings—I know a place that might put you up, sir."

"Well, go to it! We're game for anything for one night—going on to London tomorrow."

"Yes, sir."

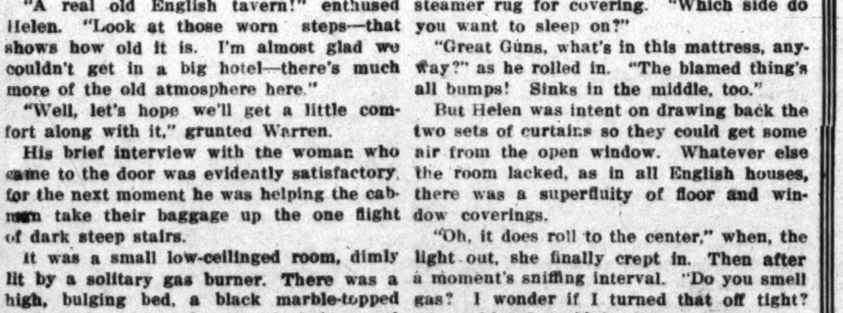
He flicked up his horse, fat and well-groomed, as are all English horses however shabby the cab—a fact that contributed much to Helen's love for England.

"I wonder what it will be like?" aglow with a sense of adventure. "I hope it's an old-fashioned inn."

"Don't worry," shrugged Warren. "It'll be old-fashioned, all right, and probably darned uncomfortable."

On and on through cobble-stoned byways, the dusky turnings lit by faint lanterned lights. To Helen even the clatter of the horse's hoofs had a dreamy long-ago sound.

The week on the steamer, with its ever throbbing machinery, gave an added unreality to the drowsy stillness of these old-world streets.



"The White Horse Tavern" was the swinging sign before a low, rambling corner house at which they now drew up.

"A real old English tavern!" enthused Helen. "Look at those worn steps—that shows how old it is. I'm almost glad we couldn't get in a big hotel—there's much more of the old atmosphere here."

"Well, let's hope we'll get a little comfort along with it," grunted Warren.

His brief interview with the woman who came to the door was evidently satisfactory, for the next moment he was helping the cabman take their baggage up the one flight of dark steep stairs.

It was a small low-ceilinged room, dimly lit by a solitary gas burner. There was a high, bulging bed, a black marble-topped washstand with two bowls and pitchers and a mirrored sideboard which served as a dresser.

Helen was vaguely disappointed. Instead of the very old furniture she had hoped for, this was only of the ugly mid-Victorian period.

The floor was covered with linoleum, over which was a thick red and green carpet rug, and on that three woolly mats before the bed, dresser and washstand.

"How can they ever keep them clean?" viewing with disfavor these needless, encumbering, dust-collecting mats.

"The English always have a lot of cluttering unessentials," Warren was unstrapping the bags. Then abruptly, "Where's the bath? See if you can locate one."

With a growing, disquieting suspicion that the place was not over-clean, Helen started out to explore the dim musty-smelling hall. Around a dark corner and she came to a half-open door.

By a low-turned gas jet she saw a rusty zinc bath tub in which lay a scrub brush and a wet dirty rag! A mop and pail in the corner accelerated her retreat.

"Oh, you couldn't take a bath in there!" was her disgusted report.

"Why not?" He was unlacing his shoes.

"It's an awful place! Wait, don't step on this floor! I'll get your slippers."

The slippers extricated from the suitcase, Helen now gave her attention to the bed. Two heavy dubiously gray blankets and a thick dark comforter seemed excessive for a mild fall night.

Turning back the comforter and one blanket over the high wooden footboard, Helen next dragged off the heavy-as-lead bolster, whose soiled ticking showed dark through the case. Further investigation disclosed that the mattress, too, was far from clean.

"Now you needn't be squeamish," shrugged Warren. "You're so keen on these old places—you've got to take a little dirt along with your 'atmosphere.' Here, what do you want out of that?"

"I'm going to put one of these on the bed," as she unstrapped the roll that held the steamer rugs. "That blanket's too soiled."

"Only one chair?" He was looking helplessly about for some place to lay his clothes. "Expected to take turns sitting down, eh? They might dispense with a few of these woolly mats and put the price in another chair."

"There, that's better," when she had remade the bed with only the sheet and steamer rug for covering. "Which side do you want to sleep on?"

"Great Guns, what's in this mattress, anyway?" as he rolled in. "The blamed thing's all bumps! Sinks in the middle, too."

But Helen was intent on drawing back the two sets of curtains so they could get some air from the open window. Whatever else the room lacked, as in all English houses, there was a superfluity of floor and window coverings.

"Oh, it does roll to the center," when, the light out, she finally crept in. Then after a moment's sniffing interval. "Do you smell gas? I wonder if I turned that off tight? It's so high I could hardly reach it."

"That means I've got to get up!" irritably.

The gas jet tightened, as he stumbled back he collided with the washstand.

"Not enough space to turn around!" wrathfully, rubbing his knee. "They've got nerve putting two people in this room. How in blazes can they serve breakfast up here? Where're they going to put it—on the ceiling?"

"Why, dear, we're not going to have breakfast here?"

"Why not?" belligerently. "Breakfast goes with the room—fifteen shillings for two. And she said all breakfasts were served in the rooms."

"But, Warren, this place isn't clean! If you'd seen that bathroom! Oh, I couldn't eat a thing here."

"Well, we'll not go anywhere else. You've made this trip expensive enough. Had to get the highest priced room on the steamer—so you could have 'air!' Now I'm not going to pay for breakfast in two places—just because you're so infernally squeamish!"

Swallowing the lump in her throat, Helen moved over to the extreme edge of the humpy, center-sagging bed. She faced the open window that looked out on an old crumbling slate roof with an ivy grown chimney; but just then she could see no charm in this moonlit bit of old England.

Warren's accusation about the stateroom was most unjust, for he had secured it without even consulting her. And when he was always so extravagant—to object to a few extra shillings for breakfast elsewhere!

However, the fatigue of landing, the long, weary wait on the dock for their trunks, had left her wholesomely tired; and a deep dreamless sleep soon relieved her sense of hurt injustice.

. . . .

"Jove, it's half past eight!"

Warren, raised on his elbow, was staring sleepily at his watch.

A dazed moment before Helen grasped the strange surroundings. Liverpool—the dock—the drive to one after another of the big hotels—and this old tavern suggested by the cabman.

With a shudder of revulsion she shrank from the soiled ticking protruding from the end of the pillow case. The dubious blankets and dark greasy comforter, over the foot of the bed, looked even more repulsive in the strong morning light. And they must have breakfast in this room!

GOOD APPEARANCE

WHEN a young man of, say, the college age, selects his clothes, he has in mind the stylish, snappy appearance that gives him individuality.

He wants his friends to feel that he is an individual dresser and, therefore, is especially careful in selecting the clothes that will give him a decidedly distinctive appearance.

It is our pleasure to satisfy thoroughly every young man who favors us with his patronage.

sumed by "temperance" people, with or without the advice of a doctor.

Then there is "sacramental wine." Thieves recently made a big haul of it, in a Chicago church. It is true that the first miracle of Jesus is said to have been the transformation of water into wine, at Cana. Prohibitionists claim that this was unfermented wine, but the same Greek word used in the Bible for wine that "maketh the heart glad" or, in other words, mildly exhilarates.

However, the point I wish to make is that extreme prohibition is tending to make Americans a nation of hypocrites.

Meanwhile, prohibitionists continue to consume large quantities of sugar and starch, and thus to provide alcohol in their stomachs.

Milk.

MILK is often declared to be a perfect food. So it is for the young of the animal that gives it, when sipped directly from the nipple. Milk is almost entirely lacking in iron. Nature has stored in the infant's liver a surplus of iron, to last during the suckling period.

Following is from an Englishwoman, temporarily residing in Pasadena:

"I felt such an almost instantaneous lightening of my load of ill-health the moment I eliminated dairy products of all kinds from my diet (I had not eaten meat for years) that I should really like other people to try doing the same. I think you bring splendid evidence to bear against meat-eating, but I should be glad if the semi-animal products could come in for some share of censure in your articles.

"Dr. A. F. Reinhold says, in 'Nature vs. Drugs:' 'The milk of various animals differs materially in composition. Each kind is best adapted to support the young of that peculiar species.' Therefore, as I am not a calf, no wonder the milk, cheese, etc., of which I was partaking, disagreed with me. The globules of fat in the milk of a cow are naturally far larger than those in human milk, the cow being a large animal. The milk is consequently much more difficult to assimilate by our smaller life cells.

"Again, in the town where we resided (and I presume the same conditions obtain over the rest of America) we could only procure either 'Pasteurized' milk (from which it is difficult to make cottage cheese,) or fresh milk from 'tuberculin tested cows,' as proudly announced on the dairy man's wagon. If those cows felt as ill as I did, after having been 'tuberculin tested' (i. e. inoculated, i. e. poisoned,) I'm sure they could not have been equal to giving good milk, setting aside the fact that some of the diseased animal matter injected into the poor creatures' blood may have found its way into the milk. As for the cottage cheese we buy in the stores, it is a combination of 'Pasteurized' milk, cream, coloring matter, salt, preservatives—anything in fact, to make it look nice, taste good and be unwholesome.

"I have lately read this in one of the local papers: 'You may take a teaspoonful of milk as it comes from the average dairy, examine it carefully and find at least 500,000 to 1,000,000 germs of various kinds, including sometimes typhoid, scarlet fever, diphtheria of any other disease that happens to flourish in the neighborhood of the dairy. Pasteurize this milk, test it again, not one single living germ is left, and the milk is safe for the youngest child.' Why the writer calls this milk 'safe' cannot be imagined. Personally, I had rather be an aquarium than a cemetery. There is at least nourishment in the living milk and we can combat living germs with living organisms, but from the introduction of 500,000 to 1,000,000 corpses into our stomachs, Heaven deliver us! Our systems must become saturated with the poisons of their decay.

"But neither was fresh nor Pasteurized milk a natural food. Stella McDermott, in her book, 'The Metaphysics of Raw Food, says: 'Milk was never intended by nature to be exposed for one moment of time before the young partook of it, and therefore it is not provided by nature with any means by which to preserve its purity.'"

To this communication I add that another fact should be remembered when milk is used by adults. Milk is not a drink, but a food. A quart of milk contains as much nourishment as a pound of beefsteak. Therefore, when you eat half a pound of solid food, and add to it a pint of milk, you are doubling your food, and outraging your digestive organs.

Also milk does not combine well with or other foods. It should be eaten alone, or at most with a little fresh fruit, or toast. Milk should never be boiled, but a little hot water should be added, to make it the temperature of milk as it comes from the udder. Then it should be eaten slowly—not drunk.

The least harmful method of using milk, by adults, is in the form of clabber milk, or cottage cheese—when you can get it properly made—or mild cream cheese, or buttermilk.

Compulsory Medication.

FOLLOWING is a press dispatch from New York:

"Fearing the 'fate of Socrates,' eight drug addicts at the Riverside Hospital went on 'strike' against continuation of hyoscyamus treatment.

"The revolt came after one of their number consulted a dictionary and found the hyoscine was the modern name for henbane, which he declared was the drug with which Socrates was forced to end his life.

"The 'strikers' were sent to the Blackwell Island workhouse."

You can never eliminate a poison from the blood by putting another in. Yet that is what "medical science" is continually seeking to do. Moreover, they would make such false and harmful methods compulsory.

Necessary Conveniences.

PUBLIC-SPIRITED citizens are right in emphasizing the desirability of providing a city with parks and boulevards and swimming pools, and beautiful public buildings, but there are necessary conveniences that should not be overlooked, yet have, so far, been shamefully overlooked in Los Angeles. I refer to public urinals and water closets, politely referred to as "toilets" or "comfort stations." In this, as in some other things, we are woefully behind European cities, where indeed, in some cases these establishments are perhaps somewhat too obviously in evidence, but that is much better than having none.

This lack of provision for answering a call of nature is aggravated by the closing of saloons, which provided a refuge for men,

Familiarity Breeds Contempt
But Little Ills Are Now Known
To Be Danger Signals

It was not so very long ago that a cold was considered merely an incident, and, though troublesome, perhaps inconvenient, was hardly serious enough to require medical attention unless it was a particularly hard one. When, however, Pneumonia became more prevalent and virulent some years ago, folks began to recognize a cold as the invariable preliminary to this dangerous complaint and recognized it for what it always had been—a danger signal and a warning to busy ourselves with a treatment to correct it.

And now with the advent of the dreaded Spanish Influenza and the tremendous and fearful record of mortality it is but seldom we hear the old familiar expression, "It doesn't amount to anything. Just a little cold." To everyone now it is a Danger Signal demanding prompt attention.

It is most interesting and marvelous, as a matter of fact, how faithful and infallible old Mother Nature is in throwing out Danger Signals to us of approaching illness. She is just as infallible as a perfectly operated railroad. And if we are wise enough to obey her block-signals, we can almost invariably avoid entering the "danger zone."

Just as does a railroad, too, Dame Nature requires a clear track; and failing it she displays the most infallible Danger Signal of them all. Physicians are unanimously agreed that the great majority of human ills are superinduced by an accumulation of waste in the lower intestine—that's the reason that a laxative is almost invariably the first treatment prescribed by a physician, no matter what your complaint may be.

Under our present mode of living, there are few if any folks who are free from this accumulated waste—that's the reason that more drugs are used for this particular purpose in this country than for all other ills combined.

As usual, before any of these many ills develop, Faithful Nature throws out her Danger Signal, readily recognized in slight headaches, biliousness, constipation, or that feeling of inertia or lack of ambition which always accompanies this accumulated waste.

For this waste is the most insidious and dangerous poison known to man, and when the blood in circulating takes up even the little that it does in passing near, the nourishing quality of that blood is reduced and all our functions are weakened, making us an easy prey to whatever complaint we are most susceptible to.

Now in this time when we are properly trying to avoid dosing ourselves with medicines as much as possible, it would be sad if Nature herself had not provided us with a natural method of correcting our trouble when her Danger Signals appear.

And this she has done.

For twenty-five years, in a conservative way, Internal Baths have been gaining favor with the millions of progressive Americans, as their marvelous results in making folks well and keeping them well by the periodical cleansing of the lower intestine in a thorough though purely natural way, have become widely recognized.

For that period of time Charles A. Tyrrell, M.D., producer of the "J. B. L. Cascade," the really effective Internal Bath, specialized on this form of treatment and proved conclusively that, contrary to drugs, the Internal Bath, with purified warm water, was a regulator rather than a habit-former and was the one natural, harmless, effective way of keeping the lower intestine free from this poisonous waste.

The host of people who voluntarily testify that it has made them well, keeps them well and has added fifty per cent. to their efficiency, speaks more conclusively than any claims that its producers might make. A common expression by its users is, "I never feel so well as in the morning after an Internal Bath"—and that is simply because their entire physical structure has been functioning normally without the dragging, enervating handicap of the pernicious, poisonous accumulated waste.

Dr. Tyrrell wrote a remarkable little book on the subject of Internal Baths which is the sum of his experience during twenty-five years of his practice of this Nature method; it will tell you interesting facts about your functions which you have probably never known.

If you wish to inform yourself further on this subject, the importance of which must be decided by you personally, I am informed that this book, the title of which is "Why Man of Today Is Only 50% Efficient," will be sent you free on request by Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 134 West 65th Street, New York, if you mention the Los Angeles Times Magazine.

Knowing much of the progress and results of this method, I feel sure you will have no regret if you write for this little book now before it escapes your attention.

"What would you do if you had $100,000,000?"

"I'd go to the biggest hotel in New York City—"

"Yes—?"

"And I'd say to the waiter, 'Bring me the best planked steak you have in the house.' "

"Uh, huh."

"And after I'd eaten, I'd tell the waiter to bring me the check."

"Of course."

"I'd pay the check with my money, and then I'd take the 30 cents change to tip the waiter."

Give Him Time.

THE setting for the tale is La Jolla, a small town near San Diego. It is a place that boasts of great swimming, and many other attractions, besides a museum.

A little maiden, whom we will call Nellie, was passing the museum with her mother. Both were newcomers in the town, and were taking their first sight-seeing tour. She glanced up at the sign in front of the museum:

"Man-eating shark. Fifteen cents admission."

So the two passed on. Two or three hours later they came back by the same route, and again passed the museum. The sign, of course, was still there. Nellie could not be silenced.

"Is that man still eating the shark?" she asked. "I should think he would get tired."

Wasn't it a Pity.

LITTLE Anne was very fond of ripe olives, and her mother had to watch her to see that she did not indulge too freely. One day there was company, and Anne managed to have the olive dish stopped near her plate.

After the dinner her mother pointed to the pile of pits on Anne's plate, and asked:

"How could you make such a pig of yourself? I should think you would be ashamed to see so many pits, and ashamed to have others see them."

Anne hung her head and replied:

"I was. That's the reason I threw all the rest of them on the floor."

Got it Bad.

THE young man about town had just been accepted by "the one girl in the world," who, nevertheless, was a member of a forty-strong beauty chorus.

"So you think you love her," smiled her father.

"I know I love her," swore the infatuated youth.

"Are you sure you love her as much as you think you do?"

"I'm sure of more than that. I love her as much as she thinks I do."

Let Ma Do It.

"ROBERT," said the teacher sternly, "did your father whip you for what you did in school yesterday?"

"No, ma'am," said Robert, "he didn't. He said it would hurt him more than it would me."

"Nonsense!" replied the teacher, "your father is entirely too sympathetic."

"Oh, I don't know," said Robert; "paw's got rheumatism in both arms."

Paid in Full.

A BLITHE and sweet young thing walked into the Hellman Bank the other day and addressed the paying teller:

"I want to have this check cashed."

"Yes, madam," replied the teller, "please indorse it."

"Why, my husband sent it to me and he is away on business."

"Yes, madam, but just indorse it. Sign it on the back, please, and your husband will know we paid it to you."

She went to the desk, and in a few minutes returned to the window with the check indorsed:

"Your loving wife, Edith."

Back Up!

A NEWSPAPER reporter, who was inclined to be lazy in his method of picking up news, met a brother reporter who was as keen as the other was lazy.

"Anything doing?" asked the lazy one.

"I have a report that a man was choked to death in a restaurant, but I haven't learned his name yet," replied the other.

"How did it happen?" asked the reporter, eagerly scenting copy.

"He was eating a piece of horse meat," was the reply, "and someone said 'Whoa!' "

Stuck to His Statement.

A MEMBER of Parliament called another an ass in the sacred precincts of the House. Unparliamentary language being forbidden, the offending M. P. had to apologize and withdraw his statement. He didn't like doing it.

"I withdraw," he said very stiffly; "but I maintain that the honorable member is out of order."

"How am I out of order?" asked the other man heatedly.

"Probably a veterinary surgeon could tell you," was the retort.

His Definition.

NATURAL history had been the subject of the day's lesson in school and the teacher asked:

"Now who can tell me what an oyster is?"

A small hand, gesticulating violently, shot up into the air and a shrill voice called out,

"I know—I can tell, teacher."

"Well, Bobby," said the teacher, "you may tell us what an oyster is."

"An oyster," triumphantly answered Bobby, "is a fish built like a nut."

Squelched.

THE daughter of the house was engaged in a desperate endeavor to drag conversation from the shy and silent young man, when the pianola in the lounge began to play an air from one of Meyerbeer's operas.

"Don't you love Meyerbeer?" she asked hopefully.

"I have never touched intoxicants in my life," replied the young man coldly.

Matter of Form.

"THE Senate has become a joke," said Senator Borah. "It is the laughing stock of the country. Only the other night I heard a young lady say to her father:

" 'What do you think about my engagement to Harold?'

" 'I think,' replied her father, 'that I am getting to be the Senatorial branch of the family. My advice and consent are considered only when it is too late for them to make any difference.' "

And Watch it Fade.

"THE FRENCH," said Dr. Sidney E. Mezes of New York the brilliant director of the American peace delegation's experts—"the French are terrible cynics about love. They don't believe in its durability. They claim it never lasts.

"Two French poilus were discussing love in an estaminet.

" 'I hold,' said the first poilu, 'that if you fall in love with some ravishing beauty, the only way to cure yourself is to run off.' "

"The second poilu took a sip of wine.

" 'Yes, that'll cure you, all right,' he agreed, 'provided you run off with the ravishing beauty.' "

When Words Failed.

TOMMY had been charged too much for a meal in an "estaminet" in France and after futile arguments with the proprietor went out and brought back his pal Jenks, who was forever boasting of his prowess in the French tongue.

"I'll settle it," said Jenks, determinedly, and turning to the proprietor he cried:

"Parleyvoo Francai?"

"Mais oui, m'sieu," said the proprietor, bowing.

"Well, wot abaht this bloomin' choinge, then?"

Throw Out the Life Line.

A TRIO of San Francisco sportsmen went on a fishing trip to the mountains. The setting is a lake, full of water, with an island in sight—about six miles away.

"Boys, the boat is sinking!" cried one. "Is there anyone here who knows how to pray?"

"I do," answered another eagerly.

"All right," says the first. "You pray, and the rest of us will put on the life belts. "We're one shy!"

No Help For Her.

BOBBY had been taught to remember all his relatives when he said his prayers. One night, as he knelt at his mother's knee, he did not mention the name of his favorite aunt.

"Why Bobby," said the mother, "you didn't say 'God bless Aunt Beatrice and make her happy.' "

"Well, mother," replied the little boy, "I don't have to say that any more. Aunt Beatrice's engaged."

DURING the examinations at the close of school, the fourth grade teacher asked her history class to name the five most important men of the recent war. One boy, in all seriousness, answered the question thus:

Times Have Changed.

EVIDENTLY Postmaster-General Burleson isn't as popular as he might be if one is to judge by the remark of a Los Angeles letter carrier the other day. "The department is full of burs," he said, and added, "and I don't exactly blame the lady who, when I came to deliver the mail, was asking her husband about at letter. She said:

" 'Dear, did you mail that letter I gave you yesterday?'

" 'No, my dear, I forgot all about it,' he confessed.

" 'Oh well, don't worry. The postoffice would probably have done the same thing.' "

Life Sentence.

MRS. MUFFIT had recently joined the "Band of Sisters for Befriending Burglars," and was being shown over a prison for the first time.

One prisoner, evidently a man of education, interested her more than the others. He rose and bowed to her when she entered the cell, apologizing for the poorness of his apartment.

Mrs Muffit could not help wondering how this refined man came within the clutches of the law. In fact, as she was leaving the cell, she asked:

"May I ask you why you are in this distressing place?"

"Madam," he replied, "I am here for robbery at a seaside hotel."

"Oh!" cried Mrs. Muffit, "were you—er—er—the proprietor?"

Perils of the Desert.

SENATOR MARCUS SMITH of Tucson was entertaining some friends in the Killard grill with stories about the Arizona desert when a bore joined the party.

This bore was the kind of a chap that always laughs in the wrong place and spoils a story by trying to guess its climax. The Senator undertook to silence him.

"Poor Ferguson!" he said. "That was a close shave he had in the desert last August."

"Sunstroke, of course," said the bore.

"No, not exactly," said the Senator. "You see, Ferguson stumbled accidentally on the Cauldron—our famous spring, you know, that gushes out of the rock at freezing point and immediately begins to boil from the fierce heat of the sun."

"Of course, of course," said the bore. "And, what happened to Ferguson? Did he fall in the Cauldron and boil to death? Get on with your story, man."

"Ferguson fell in," said the Senator, "but he managed to scramble out again. The peril, however, was not yet over for him. Our Arizona air, you see, is so dry that it absorbs moisture with astonishing rapidity. Well, the boiling water in Ferguson's clothes evaporated so fast that the poor fellow instantly froze stiff."

"I see," said the bore. "He died of cold. Well, that reminds me—"

"No, he didn't die," said Senator Smith. "He almost died, but he had a miraculous escape. In his stiff-frozen state, you understand, he began to shiver with chill, and he shivered so hard that in a few moments he became overheated and would have succumbed to sunstroke if he hadn't providentially broken into a cold sweat."

" 'Grab your medicine case and come quickly. The cook's hair is all burned off.

" 'Jealousy,' said my husband. 'The parlor maid overheard you say last night that she couldn't hold a candle to the cook.'

" 'Well?'

" 'Well, she did!' "

CARE OF THE BODY

CONDUCTED BY HARRY ELLINGTON BROOK, N. D.

Mixing Foods.

A LOS ANGELES delicatessen store and restaurant publishes a monthly bulletin, in which some good suggestions are occasionally given in regard to diet. Here is one I must criticise:

"There is no one food, outside of milk perhaps, that is sufficient in itself to properly nourish every part of the body. We need the salts and the acids found in fruits and vegetables; we need the fats in cream and butter; we need the carbohydrates in our starchy foods.

"And in addition to the variety these foods lend to our meals, it is also a proven fact that digestion is apt to be more rapidly accomplished, and the food taken more completely assimilated on a mixed diet, than when only one kind of food is taken, for many foods, which, by themselves, would prove hard of digestion, become very easy for the stomach to handle when they are taken in combination with other foods."

To this I reply as follows, to wit:

In the first place, milk is not sufficient to nourish the body of an adult, being almost entirely deficient in iron.

In the second place, while it is true that we need all the food elements named, we do not need them all jumbled together. The only animal that does this is the hog, and then only when it is compelled to do so by man And there is no animal so subject to disease as a "civilized" hog.

Mixing together foods that do not agree is one of the chief causes of digestive disturbances, leading to chronic disease. There are several reasons why this is so.

Digestion is a complicated process. It is not, as some seem to suppose, a mere putting of food into a hole in the face, and passing the residue out at the other end of the body.

Here are four reasons why you should not mix foods:

(1.) Foods differ greatly in the time they require for digestion. This is from the Modern Medical Review:

"The time required for the digestion of cabbage is between four and five hours, while a ripe apple digests in one hour. If these two articles are taken into the stomach at the same time, both must remain there until both are digested, as they will become so intimately intermingled that they cannot possibly be separated. The apple, digested, and ready for absorption, if not absorbed, undergoes fermentation. It is a principle which is constantly recognizable in relation to digestion that the delay of the absorption of a food product after it has been digested is certain to result in its deterioration through fermentation and decomposition, which are set up by the numerous microbes constantly present in the alimentary canal. The same is true if the digestive product of one portion of the alimentary canal is not passed along with due promptness to another part of the digestive apparatus, where its further elaboration is to take place preparatory to absorption."

(2.) Some foods are digested in the stomach, others in the small intestine. You may easily see that they should not be eaten together. Starch needs an alkaline saliva, to prepare it for digestion. If you eat acid fruit at the same time, you delay this process.

(3.) One pound of raw food nourishes as much as two pounds of cooked food, because, in the former the organic salts are unchanged. Raw food and cooked food should not be eaten together.

(4.) Mixing foods leads to overeating. After you could not eat another ounce of meat, or bread, or potatoes, you are led to consume a goodly portion of pie or ice cream. Hence fermentation, gas, dilated stomach and the long train of ailments that pursue those who live to eat.

Here is an extract from an article in the Los Angeles Ledger, by Dr. Axel Emil Gibson:

"Notwithstanding the fact that digestion is governed by physiological chemistry, the 'food scientist' continues to turn out his 'health menus' in serene disregard of the elemental antagonisms of foodstuffs which his system of 'balanced calories' jumble together in the stomach. Gauged by fictitious standards of nutritional needs, the food scientist may prescribe a lunch of sliced tomatoes, (100 calories,) lamb stew with vegetables (400 calories,) mashed potatoes (175 calories,) stewed prunes (150 calories,) strawberry shortcake with cream (160 calories) or ice cream (200 calories,) glass of milk or buttermilk (130 calories,) to make up one-third of the 3500 calories supposed to constitute the daily amount of fuel required for the maintenance of the fires of the human furnace.

"The reason that such a heterogeneous mass of foodstuffs and subsequent reactions of formidable poisons does not instantly strike death to the individual lies in the fact that nature has provided her creatures with constitutional reserve forces to meet recurrent accidents in the course of everyday existence. Especially are these reserves intended for the needs of old age, when the fires of life begin to burn low, and the self-generative power of the organism is weakening. Carefully managed, these reserves should easily carry the human individual across the century mark in the full possession of the philanthropic interest and enthusiasm of service normal to humanity."

I may add that in this respect a majority of vegetarians, with their mixed and messed up starches and sweets, are worse offenders than those who consume flesh foods. Hence, I have often said that the ordinary vegetarian dietary is less wholesome than a simple one of beef and greens.

The nearer you get to the mono-diet, the better for your health. At least, do not mix together those foods that radically disagree, as milk and meat, or acid fruits and starches.

There is no monotony about this, for you can vary your menu twice a day, or sixty times a month.

• • •

Vaccination.

FOLLOWING is a letter by Henry Van Arsdale, in the Pasadena Star-News:

"The usual agitation as to compulsory vaccination of school children, preceding the beginning of a new school year, has appeared; as witness the article recently furnished to your paper 'by the Publicity Committee of the Pasadena Public Health League.' As regards the law the article is to an extent misleading. Its animus is apparent from the statement in the article to the effect that '80 per cent. of the children of school age in California are unvaccinated.'

"In other words, at least four-fifths of the parents in this State are opposed to having filthy virus injected into their children. It is probable that a fair proportion of the remaining fifth would also prefer that their children be not vaccinated. It would hardly seem necessary to comment on this situation, for it can be seen at a glance that it is the medical exploitation of this '80 per cent.' that is always back of a smallpox scare.

"It is important for all parents in this State to know that there is no such thing in California as compulsory vaccination, compulsory physical, or medical examination of school children. In connection with enforcing the 'Act Providing for Vaccination' all school trustees must furnish a blank to be signed by a parent or guardian who is 'conscientiously opposed to the practice of vaccination.' This blank should be signed and filed with the school authorities, whereupon the child is exempt.

"It is by law required that the State Board of Health, not a local Board of Health, can alone determine whether or not 'any case or cases of smallpox exists in any school district, etc.' If, after a 'thorough investigation,' it should be determined that smallpox does exist then unvaccinated children may be excluded from schools 'until such time as such smallpox shall cease to exist in such school district, etc.' But note this important proviso in the law that in all cities 'where two or more schools are maintained, the State Board of Health shall subdivide such cities, and for such period as it shall determine to be advisable, unvaccinated children and persons may be permitted to attend schools in subdivisions in which no smallpox exists.'

"Therefore no matter what may be 'the programme' of medical doctors who for the moment are organized as a State Board of Health, or who may be able to govern the opinions and actions of school boards and trustees, parents should stand on their rights under the school law and insist that the law be followed and each step taken in order."

Alcohol and Hypocrisy.

WAYNE B. WHEELER, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, in an address to the American Pharmaceutical Association, said it was realized that the use of alcohol in pharmacy is indispensable and that the members of the Anti-Saloon League do not intend to interfere with the manufacture and sale of liquor for legitimate purposes.

Yet, the American Medical Association recently declared that alcohol is unnecessary, as a drug, and ordered it removed from the official pharmacopoeia.

That which will make a well man sick will make a sick man "sicker."

Dear Sir: I have now worn your combined suspensory and hernia support over six months, and as I have derived so much comfort and help in wearing it I cheerfully give this testimony unsolicited, trusting that it may be of some service to you in helping others similarly afflicted. Your support is far superior to any I have ever worn. I have tried a good many, for I have been ruptured over thirty years. Yours I can wear 24 hours in each day with perfect comfort and ease. Which I cannot say of any other. To me your support has been a godsend. If you should have occasion to refer any one to me, I shall be glad to verify what I state in this letter and more besides, as I think it is my duty to do so, and all others who have received special benefit from your appliance should do so without any solicitation, for the sake of humanity and to encourage you in your good work of relieving your fellow man of his suffering.
Very truly yours, G. F. WHITTY,

Dear Sir: Within the short period of wearing one of your Hernia Appliances I have subjected it to a severe test—a spasm of coughing for twenty minutes caused vomiting from a stomach in health and not sour, the strain was so severe. This is something I am subject to and your appliance had perfect control of my hernia. The seven or eight previously worn trusses failed control under similar attacks and each produced a throbbing sensation, pressing so hard on rim of hernia that it was sometimes hurtful. There is no such trouble from yours.
My congratulations for your discovery in behalf of afflicted humanity.

Those Feminine Streaks of Steadfastness.

BY FRANK R. ARNOLD.

WOMEN are like April showers. You think they are gusty and squally; uncertain, coy, and hard to please; variable as the weather cock and shifting as sand dunes. But back of the unstable exterior is the steady, unchanging surge of April to June, for a woman's will is God's will and it must come to pass.

There is no woman who has not some streaks of steadfastness in her composition, though popular and literary snap judgments make no mention of these basic pearls that radiate from below the wavering surface. Whether she devotes herself to war work or bridge her aim is accurate and she sticks to the game. There have been those, however, who did not hold this opinion.

Francis the First, one of the greatest of French kings in the gentle art of loving as well as of warfare, one day idly scratched with a diamond on the window of the castle of Chambord the banal thought that woman often varies and that a man commits an act of folly in entrusting himself unreservedly to her keeping.

Souvent femme varie
Bien fol est qui s'y fie.

Runs the concise setting of the king's opinion. French teachers nowadays even give it to their high school classes and the girls straightway look injured and the boys look wise according as the bit of worldly wisdom arouses their antagonism or chimes in with past experience. Most of the girls set the teacher down immediately as a woman hater not realizing that the bit of character study is introduced into the classroom not as a side light on women, but as an attention awakener or as a hint as to the amorous vagaries of French kings.

Sometimes the Latin students get the idea before the French class when they read the fourth book of the Aeneid and come across Virgil's comment on the love affair of Aeneas and Dido. Virgil sums up compactly the reason why Dido, the inconsolable widow, becomes so speedily an ardent lover of Aeneas in the remark that woman is always varium et mutabile. And again you get an echo of the same idea in the opera of Rigoletto when the Duke sings his lilting lines about the donna who is mobile.

Under it All Woman is Steadfast and True.

MOBILITY and variability are surface catchwords, eternally valuable, it is true, in the ever needful adaptability of woman to man and also valuable in keeping up the legend of woman's charm. But deep below are to be found in every woman persistent streaks of habit, business sense, true love, and an Indianlike inability to forget a real or fancied insult.

The Indian streak still exists in woman, even though Christianity has been in force for many years. The superintendent of a hospital once fell in love with a farmer. She resigned her position, spent a month with a married sister in order to learn how to cook, and then went to keep house for her farmer lover. She thought she would be his housekeeper for a year before marrying him, though she did not explain her intentions at all to her family. She was in the habit of being a law unto herself and not announcing her plans until they were carried out, having the natural feeling that they were her own affairs and also that you never have to take any back water, if you never announce what you are going to do.

Nemesis had no hold on her. But the god of gossip got one. For relatives as well as friends and village people immediately began to speculate about her unconventional, though wholly virtuous proceedings. One male cousin remarked to another, "What is our cousing up to, anyway, living with that farmer?" The remark was repeated to her and she never forgave the maker of it, even when after a year of probation she married the farmer and the cousin sent her a beaver lap robe for a wedding present. She accepted the present to please her husband and to keep peace in the family but although it warmed her husband's knees during winter drives for over twenty years she would never let it touch hers. That robe stood to her for the fact that the purest motives may be misunderstood and she hated the man who first brought that fact home to her.

Foolish, obstinate and unaccountable, you may say, and yet a truly feminine and in some ways admirable action. Some of you may remember that the lady mule in Daudet's story kept her grudge for twenty years until she had an opportunity to kick the boy who had made her lose the esteem and consideration of all Avignon. Some women never get a chance to kick the man they want to.

Here are some however, that did. In one of the personally conducted parties that before the war swarmed over Europe every summer were twelve ladies and a man conductor. The ladies were all of a certain age, widows or unmarried, and the conductor did all that was humanly possible to make them happy. The trip was well planned and the hotels well chosen. The conductor was a father, guide, elder brother, counselor and friend all in one. He escorted the ladies to the theater, he chatted merrily at meals, he shopped, he answered innumerable questions, he almost tucked the ladies in bed, so devoted was he to his charges.

When Friendship Broke and They Got Mad.

BUT one day trains were late, luggage momentarily lost, one woman had a hotel room with a picture of Napoleon in it and the others didn't, nerves snapped and, as often happens in the family circle, unforgettable words of irritation were uttered. All was calm in a day or two but the conductor was so unwise as to mention casually apropos of nothing in particular, that he wished the Ladies Home Journal or the Pictorial Review would publish an article on how to be sweet and lovely in the midst of trying circumstances.

He noticed that the faces of his charges indicated that they were "put out" internally but as they said nothing he thought no more of the matter. Just how "put out" the ladies were he discovered the following spring when he wrote to his manager to see about the summer's prospects and learned that each woman of the little band had written the manager telling him that the conductor had insulted them personally before all the rest.

And then there is business sense that comes into the life of many women to make them keep to one unswerving path. There once was a cook on a summer estate who maintained with much show of reason that she was hired to cook and it was no part of her labors to go down cellar for coal or out to the shed for wood. The chauffeur also had a restricted idea of his duties which did not include helping cook with her stoking. So the humble employer had to send to the next town to get a boy to come out daily by the train and be met by the chauffeur and taken up to the house where he provided the cook with her daily supply of fuel. Cook, by the simple device of insisting on having things done her way, was a constant reminder to that family that God indeed desires what women desire.

The ordering of the house has always been the work of woman and in this domain habit has sometimes taken hold of the housewife so forcibly that domestic economy may become as unchangeable as the laws of nature. One New England housewife was asked on a Tuesday for clean sheets to put on the bed of a member of the family who was dangerously ill.

"But we never change them until Friday, was the answer, uttered in accents that would seem to settle the matter.

"She'll get bed sores if the sheets aren't changed every day," growled the nurse firmly.

"But if we change the sheets every day they'll have to be sent to the laundry and that will be the end of them," was the next argument. But the nurse won her case, though she had to overthrow a lifetime habit to do it

The Immutable Laws of Womankind.

ANOTHER woman selected Sunday afternoon, just after the dishes for the midday meal were washed, to sort the soiled clothes of the family and put them to soak. She was never able to go away for a week end bcause, if she did, the clothes would not be put to soak at the auspicious moment and the whole week be upset. And that would be an immortal act in the life of an orderly woman.

"We always fry ours in lard," comes as near being a statement of absolute truth as human experience can discover or human language express. There is no variableness there, neither shadow of turning.

And there are many love affairs as fixed as the pole star with constancy as firm on one side as the other. "When Gottlieb came to our house to fix the stove," said an old Swiss woman, "I knew the first time I saw him that he was the man I wanted to marry. It was like a blow. And I did marry him. But first I had to tend my sick mother for years, then disregard the opposition of my brothers, and then pay my own and my lover's fare to America. We were 42 years old before we got married. He wasn't a saving man. But I had him in my skin and I had to marry him."

"What's the sense of your studying poultry management," said one girl stenographer to another. You won't have to run a poultry farm when your soldier boy gets back from guarding the Rhine. Stenography is just as good."

"When my boy comes back," was the answer, "I shall have enough saved up from stenography, so that I can furnish the house and we can get married right away. And after we are married the poultry in the back yard is going to give me my pin money. I think a wife as far as she can should be financially independent of her husband. I have been waiting three years for mine and I've had a chance to do a lot of thinking."

The most distinctive, most infernally lasting, never dying quality of a woman is what Yvette Guilbert calls her enigmatic femininity. When she sings her song called "La Femme" she tells how woman with her multiple soul and multiple visage, whether curly haired or straight, whether artful or simple, is never posing, but always herself. It is useless for man to try to understand her. Man and woman are not equally matched enough even to shake hands with each other. Man is always the naive male and woman is the eternal feminine.

Not Being Sure is Only Thing He is Sure Of.

NO WONDER the constant comment of husbands and lovers is, "She keeps me guessing ahd she always will. It's the one thing I can count on."

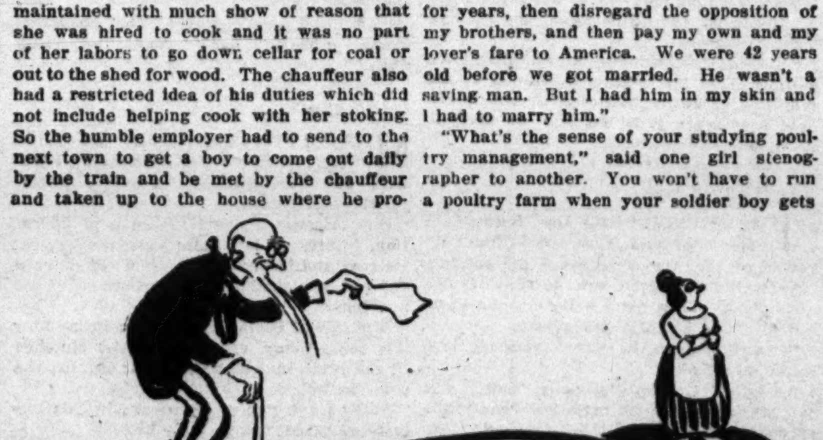
A young college graduate, just beginning to teach, once told a high school girl that she must remain after the class until she had learned her Latin lesson. The girl calmly waited until the class had gone and then burst into tears. The young man teacher, who had never before been the cause of feminine tears, was so touched by the signs of contrition that he let the girl go home immediately.

"You blind idiot," said a woman teacher to him later when he told her of the incident. "She wasn't crying because she was sorry she hadn't learned her lesson. They were simply natural instinctive tears of anger against you. You poor innocent thing! You don't know how helpful tears are to us women. We don't pose. We have to cry. Why, old as I am and young as you are, you are capable of saying things to me to make me cry when you least expect it.'

A man is young as long as he can fall in love. Both Faust and Leonard Merrick will has a longer and more inspiring youth, for bear me out in this assertion. But woman has a longer and more inspiring youth, for whether she falls in love or not, as long as she is capable of making a man feel emotion she is young both in her own eyes and in his.

The closing words of "Conrad in Quest of His Youth" are a most fitting expression of the steadfast supremacy of woman in the supreme art of loving. "To her lover a woman is what she makes him feel. Whether she is fair or ill favored, whether she is worthy or worthless, whether she is formed like Venus or clasps him in arms as thin as penholders, to him she is supreme, and while he adores her he is young."

The unfailing gift of woman to man is youth. She will never lose the power So long as she remains a reasonable enigma to him she will hold him by her resourcefulness. The key to the enigma is in her own hands and she will always be too intelligent to let it go. Happy is the man who entrusts himself to her. He will always be young.



Checking Shifting Sands.

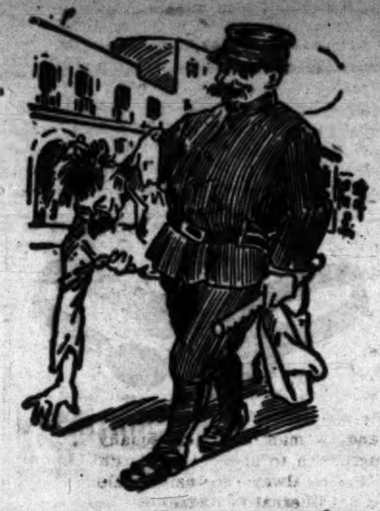
The Michigan Agricultural College, through its forestry department, is planting about 75,000 trees among the sand dunes in some of the Western Michigan districts in an effort to check the shifting of these big sand piles.

Children Erect Living Memorial.

A beautiful means of honoring a dead playmate was adopted by the pupils of a fourth-grade school in Louisville, Ky:, when they planted a tree in the school yard in memory of their former companion, and this is in line with the nation-wide planting of memorial trees for soldiers and sailors which was suggested by the American Forestry Association of Washington. The organization advocates also the planting of trees on any other suitable occasion and points to the fact that many persons and events can be most appropriately remembered in this manner.

PULQUE—THE CURSE OF THE PEON.

BY CARLETON BEALS.

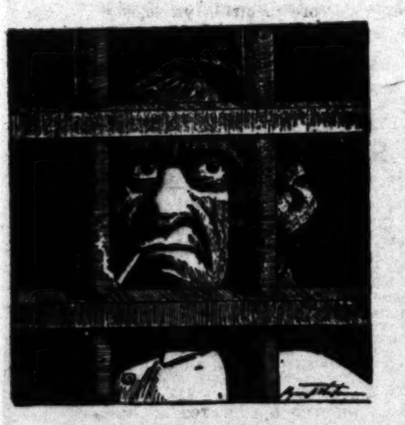


"The saloon provides me secure employment and good pay, although the work is not very pleasant."

JUNKER PULQUE and his allies are on the march in Mexico. Pulpit, Press and Politician have turned their guns upon the common enemy.

Pulque is the intoxicating drink given to the Indian folk of Mexico in far prehistoric times by the great god, Tezcatlipoca. It is the drink that so intoxicated his rival, the Toltec god Quetzalcoatl, as to cause him to roam to a distant ocean where he embarked in a white-sailed boat to disappear from among men forever. Certainly only a man under the influence of pulque or something similar could succeed in giving his gods such tipsy names. In addition pulque is the same sweet drink, rediscovered by the peasant maid, Xochitl, which won for her a seat as queen beside the great king, Montezuma. This is what the legends of the past tell us.

As a matter of fact it has for ages been the national intoxicant of Mexico. It is to the Mexican as vodka is to the Russian, beer is to the German, rum is to the Englishman. It resides in the same hip-pocket beneath the same broad-brimmed sombrero as the omnipresent Mexican six-shooter. It comes into the starving homes of Mexico to provide the sole nutriment for the babes whose mother's withered breasts will not flow. According to a National Diputado in a recent debate in the Camara, it is the old unalterable fundamental diet, along with maiz, of the Mexican common people.



A man brought behind the bars for crime as a result of the influence of the saloon.

Mexico is Filled With Fiery Drinks.

IN MEXICO CITY alone there are over 2000 saloons, not to mention the dives, dance halls, etc., and the people imbibe from 1500 to 2000 kegs a day, or from 375,000 to 500,000 liters; not to mention the quantities of fiery mescal and tequila; of real powerful double-barreled firewater, aguardiente; of tlachique, which is a milder form of pulque; or transitorio, which makes a man as red-eyed as a bull; or cartucho, which explodes a man like a cartridge. But whether these, or Yucatan, xiou, made of corn, or whether made of sugar cane, bananas, grapes, mangoes or cocoanut juice, the Mexican enjoys his drinks.

He crowds into his dirty little pulqueria, called perhaps the "Dance of Salome" or the "Drop of Gold" or some other fantastic or extravagant name, and drinks, sings and dances—he and his women and his children. Or perhaps the children are not his but some of the half-naked little street waifs that sleep so conspicuously in the gutters of Mexico City. Between drinks he eats—perhaps a piece of stuffed cow intestine—that is cheap—rolled in a corn tortilla. This he buys from a slatternly woman, her arms dripping with grease, who cooks at the entrance over a charcoal fire. It does not worry him that the wind sweeps eddies of dust from the sidewalks, foul with expectoration, over the exposed food. He is happy. He belongs to that great unintelligible substratum of Indian Mexico, dirty, ragged, debased. He belongs to that 85 per cent. of Mexicans who can neither read nor write.

Prohibition Would Lift the Peon From the Dirt.

IT IS from this that prohibition would rescue the Mexican. Already there are laws or decrees in force in four States, viz.: Sinaloa on the west coast; Jalisco, the paradise of Mexico; Chihuahua, Villa's paradise; Yucatan, the far land of the henequin grower. These States make up about one-fifth of Mexico in area and about one-sixth in population.

If Sonora in the northwest had not recently reverted to the wets after two years of prohibition, the amount of dry territory would be much more appreciable. But as it is, noteworthy gains have been made for prohibition, and all the laws now in force are the result of the Constitutionalist programme and were all put into effect when the Partido Constitutional came into power under the armed leadership of Carranza. A prohibition provision for the Constitution was actually proposed at the Constitutionalist convention held at Queretaro in 1917, but was defeated by a small margin, largely because of the question of State rights involved.

At the last Congressional session in December, 1918, the State of Yucatan introduced a bill calling for the enforcement of prohibition in the Federal District and territories, the latter being Quintano Roo, Tepic and Baja California. However, through his power of Prespuesto the president introduced a substitute measure which called for a 50 per cent. tax upon pulpue in place of the existing 25 per cent. This substitute, in view of the precarious financial condition of the government, was finally passed.

Taxation Did Not Check Mexico's Drinking.

HOWEVER, it has in no way reduced the amount of pulque consumed as it was hoped, but instead the revenues the last month show an increase of almost 1000 per cent. over the corresponding month of the previous year. It is certain that a new prohibition law will be introduced the next year calling for nation-wide prohibition. The chances for its passage are admittedly good. In the meantime much pressure is being exercised upon the individual States to put into effect regulations which, while in accordance with the Constitution itself, which urges states to pass such laws, thus hastening the time of the complete realization of the Constitutionalist programme.

Also in the meantime the National Board of Health, in accordance with powers granted to it in the Constitution, has voted to put into effect regulations which, while not prohibiting alcohol, will in a large measure pull its teeth of evils. These are:

(1.) New establishments for the sale of intoxicants may not be opened.

(2.) Poisonous alcohols, such as those made from wormwood, may not be manufactured.

(3.) At the end of six months intoxicants may not be drunk on the premises of sale nor in the streets and plazas.

(4.) The manufacture of pulque must be in accordance with given regulations of cleanliness and purity of composition.

(5.) At the end of a year intoxicants may not be made from cereals, nor the same be sold.

In addition the board plans to conduct an extensive publicity campaign during the coming year in schools, theaters, clubs, labor organizations, the press, etc., showing the evils of alcohol, and thus creating a stronger sentiment than exists in favor of complete prohibition.

Pulque and its allies are therefore on the march in Mexico. The sentiment all over the world has assisted in bringing this to pass. Every public official with whom I have talked seems to think that it is a matter of a very short while until effective laws will be put into effect all over the country.

However, the fact that a representative of the American breweries recently visited Mexico for the purpose of looking over the ground, sounding the government, and making tentative plans for transplanting the industry he represented to Mexican soil, may introduce some complicating factors, and prolong the time of the coming of prohibition. Otherwise the present publicity being given to the evils of alcoholism, both by private organizations and the government itself, will probably bear fruit and one more Junker party will be scourged from a corner of the earth.

School Honors in Service.

Trees set out in the school grounds in honor of brothers of pupils or former students of the school, who served either in the army or navy, is the way in which the Howe School at Green Bay, Wis., honored these men.

Trees to Honor Roosevelt.

A group of red oaks in Bedford Park, Brooklyn, have been set out with appropriate ceremony in honor of the late Col Roosevelt and because of his interest in the conservation movement and in outdoor life.

Those Feminine Streaks of Steadfastness.

BY FRANK R. ARNOLD.

WOMEN are like April showers. You think they are gusty and squally; uncertain, coy, and hard to please; variable as the weather cock and shifting as sand dunes. But back of the unstable exterior is the steady, unchanging surge of April to June, for a woman's will is God's will and it must come to pass.

There is no woman who has not some streaks of steadfastness in her composition, though popular and literary snap judgments make no mention of these basic pearls that radiate from below the wavering surface. Whether she devotes herself to war work or bridge her aim is accurate and she sticks

Saving Farms From Floods.

The Garden Beautiful in Southern California.

INFORMATION BOTH PRACTICAL AND SCIENTIFIC. BY ERNEST BRAUNTON.

WE SHALL be forced into allowing eucalypts to grow in Scotland and Ireland. They will do so. We had our "doots," but have been set straight. After thirty years intimate knowledge of local conditions with some sixty species, we had thought no eucalypt of size would grow in those countries by reason of severity of climate. Of course, some species would grow there for there are dwarf hardy mountainous species in Australia that grow where ice and snow are prevalent during winter. But we are convinced good timber species will grow in the British Isles though the exact species is somewhat in doubt. List to this proof:

"As an Australian I was rather surprised at the doubt expressed in your article of today's Sunday Times, under the heading The Garden Beautiful in Southern California, referring to the large eucalyptus tree growing in the estate of Foreign Secretary Balfour in East Lothian, Scotland I may state that the red gum, vernacular in Australia for a very common type of eucalyptus, grows in great profusion in the neighborhood of Ballarat, Victoria, the southermost portion of Australia, where snow is prevalent in winter; also I have seen whole forests of eucalyptus laden with snow on the Snowy Mountains, the border range between the states of New South Wales and Victoria, at an altiture of 4000 feet where the temperature at times drops to zero. These trees are apparently as healthy as those that grow in tropical Australia, as this region is as cold if not more so, than Scotland. I do not see any reason why the eucalyptus should not thrive there.

"Faithfully yours,

"F. F. MILFORD."

A Mrs. Gibson also kindly sends the following: "With regard to hardy eucalypts, you will perhaps agree with me in thinking the climates of the north of Ireland and Scotland quite similar. When in Ireland a few years ago I saw a large eucalypt tree growing in the gardens of Glen Arm Castle, not a great distance from Belfast." That settles it and we bow to the proof adduced. The species still is in doubt. The writer has much Australian literature on eucalypts, also Australian botany, but these only confuse common names as at least a half-dozen species are known as "red gum." The West Australian government reports give only E. calophylla as red gum, but Prof. Dixon, in "Plants of New South Wales," says at least three species are so-called: E. intertexta, E. tereticornis, and E. rostrata. Both the latter are called red gum in California. But the fact remains that Scotland grows eucalypts and we now "hae no doots."

Rocky Mountain White Spruce.

Picea Engelmanni, the white spruce of the Rocky Mountains, is one of California's finest ornamental conifers and thrives even in lowlands near the sea, not seeming homesick for its mountain home. When in rich heavy soil, the drainage must be good for the tree will perish if water stagnates about the roots. In its native range it grows to be a large and lofty tree, but its growth is slow.

The Sea Urchin.

The sea urchin, Hakea laurina, is one of the handsomest shrubs introduced from Australia. The blossom much resembles a sea urchin two or more inches in diameter, but is not prickly, being merely a ball of long bright-colored stamens. The flowers are red and in a small globular head from which the inch-long yellow stamens project in all directions. The writer moved a large shrub of this species into Singleton Court about twenty years ago where it flowered profusely and was voted the handsomest shrub in the garden. Its leaves somewhat resemble those of the blackwood so common on local streets, while other good species, notably suaveolens (pectinata,) has prickly divided leaves so thick and stiff that some have thought the bush a young conifer. Hakeas are among the most drought-resistant of all Australian shrubs, belonging to the same family as the grevilleas.

Beautiful Bungalow Court.

The bungalow court illustrated shows the possibilities in the way of floral adornment in the garden. Attractive as are the buildings of modified mission architecture, all who see the place are first and most attracted by the splendid display of plant life. None of these plants are of an expensive class nor of a kind requiring constant care; all will be recognized as most common, yet the general effect is excellent.

Australian Civic Center.

Part of civic center of Adelaide, Australia.

Today we illustrate part of the civic center of Adelaide, South Australia, a city about one-third the population of Los Angeles. It is noted for its parks, botanic garden and a broad belt of parklands that entirely surround the city. But most of all it is noted for its beautifully planted, broad streets. The illustration shows the principal public buildings of the city government.

The Plume Poppy.

For bold tropical effect Bocconia cordata, the plume poppy, formerly was much used for clump planting in Los Angeles, but now seems to belong in the rarities. We used to grow this Chinese species and also one from Mexico, B. frutescens. Both will grow to six or eight feet in height and certainly give character to any garden.

Crucifix Plant.

The sea urchin.

Rocky Mountain Spruce.

To those who love the odd and curious in plant life, those who admire cactus, the crucifix plant should appeal. It belongs to the buckthorn family and certainly casts no reflection on the name so far as the thorn part is concerned. For all of its forbidding spines, it is a noble plant and attractive even when not in flower—and it flowers freely. It is so entirely different in appearance from ordinary plants that it instantly catches and holds your attention, also your clothing if you brush against it.

Australian Peppermint Tree.

While there is a peppermint gum in Australia we harp on the peppermint tree, also a member of the same myrtle family, and by name Agonis flexuosa. It has not yet been introduced to California, but is much used in its native country for street and avenue planting and a government report states that there are fine avenues of it in "Albany, Bunbury, Busselton, Perth and elsewhere. It grows to fifty feet with a trunk diameter of two to three feet. It has drooping foliage, the flowers are white and cover the tree like a spray of snow, is fine for shelter, shade or ornamental purposes. The leaves when crushed emit a strong perfume resembling peppermint, hence the common name."

Common Bush Mallow.

Ever since the Garden Beautiful editor has lived in Los Angeles a shrub known locally as Achania malvaviscus has been quite common. It has large heart-shaped leaves and fine scarlet flowers that at all stages appeared closed, that is, they do not "open out" in the way flowers generally do. It is a fine, hardy shrub for massing and there has never been any doubt as to its identity. But Dr. L. H. Bailey, now across the water poking his nose into dusty sheets of dried plants, writes under date of August 12, from the herbarium of the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, England: "I am much puzzled by the forms of Malvaviscus (Achania) and there seems to be confusion in the plant grown under the name of M. arboreus (A. malvaviscus.") There is no confusion in it here; all is "as clear as mud." (?)

Over-wrought Gardens.

Too many gardens are laid out like the old-fashioned town cemetery, such a mass of complex and needless walks that no space is left for landscape effect, nor much for even plants. Often, too, in addition to multiplicity and complexity of paths, there are various objects that are impediments to free and easy rambling about the garden. Simpler effects would be much better and more dignified. There is just as much frivolity and there are as many frivolous people in gardening as in any walk of life. You cannot make a picture of patchwork, childish gardening or barbering. Have all, both design and planting, as well as the kinds of plants, appear as natural as possible.

Best Street Eucalypt.

Many times has this department called attention to the fact, an undisputed fact, that Eucalyptus calophylla is the best and handsomest of the family for street planting. J. Ednie-Brown, once Conservator of Forests of South Australia, Director-General of Forests for New South Wales, and again Conservator of Forests for Western Australia, says: "Although sometimes growing luxuriantly upon the high ironstone ranges, it seems to delight mostly in the deep rich soils of the flats and valleys, but it seems to grow equally well in deep, sandy, porous soils, as in those of a clayey, retentive nature. The excellence of this tree, however, lies in its uniform umbrageous and spreading character, and this gives it the unqualified name of being the best shade gum of our forests. When standing alone, and allowed to spread and develop its branches, this tree forms a very handsome, picturesque, and shady object. It is fast-growing, highly suited for ornamental planting, and a very prolific source of honey."

Street and Highway Planting.

The above is the name of a fine bulletin published some years ago by the State Board of Forestry, the best work on the subject published in California. It was written by a human sponge, not a resident of California, but a good sponge, nevertheless, for he soaked up the knowledge given him by the best authorities over all the State and returned it to us in this bulletin, just as it was given him by those whose names are mentioned in the preface. The author states:

"In a certain city, where up to the present time, all planting has been at the discretion or better notion of the proper holders, some queer combinations arise. (Los Angeles pleads guilty and asks for probation.) For example, the east side of one block shows: one chamaerops, one oleander, one chamaerops, six elms, six tulip trees, one vacant lot, two umbrella trees, four maples, a Canary Island date palm and a walnut. Another lot runs: four grevilleas, two walnuts, six lindens, vacant lot, two maples, and four lindens. (This latter reads like San Jose.) If we were to analyze conditions upon that block, we should find that we have there the following state of affairs:

(1.) One evergreen against six deciduous species.

(2.) Four unplanted lots, offering at least four chances for new species.

(3.) Two short-lived species against five long or medium.

(4.) One globular dwarf; four medium globular; one urn-shaped and two straggling.

nursery stock they can never mature.

(5.) Six individual cases are such poor

(6.) Four individuals are nearly disfigured with fungus and four are a constant source of litter."

"Are not these reasons sufficient to warrant one's saying that twenty-odd property holders had best resign their woes to one who knows what he is about?"

Fine argument! When will Los Angeles have a Street Tree Commission?

Fuller's Rose Beetle.

Fuller's rose beetle seldom is a serious menace to roses in California, and probably nowhere else. Just why it was called rose beetle instead of strawberry beetle we cannot say. It is, in some places, a serious menace to strawberries and our growers have found that a third of an ounce of carbon bisulphide injected into the soil every eighteen inches in the row will kill the beetles. While we believe this too expensive for strawberry growers, it suggests a way of treatment where they infest rose bushes. But in the writer's garden they infest other plants more than they do roses, but cannot be called a pest at any time.

MEAT SUBSTITUTES.

The Farm and Tractor Section is in receipt of the following self-explanatory letter from a reader:

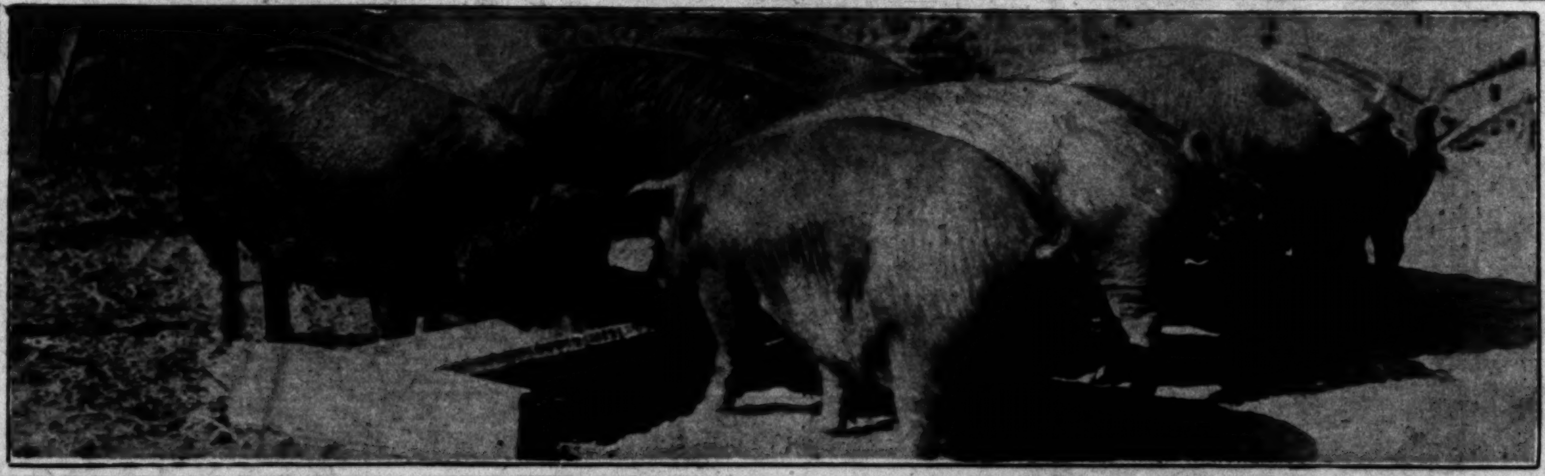
"With the increase of population and the demand for meat substitutes, California needs millions more nut trees of different varieties. The demand for natural sweets to substitute for artificial ones creates a demand for many more fig trees, and three times the amount of Muscat raisins now grown. Also in the Colorado River country could be raised millions more date trees. By the time that these trees would mature California could supply the demand, or a part of it. California offers great opportunities for these foods. Californians have the land and the climate for these foods, and I can see the future demand. I would advise those that have available land to put these varieties in, and they cannot possibly lose, in my opinion. PAT FLAHERTY".

This Ambitious Young Woman Raises Pedigreed Hogs.

Mrs. Ross E. Whitley, owner and manager of the Tu-tocka-nula hog ranch near Van Nuys, turned to agricultural production in response to Uncle Sam's call for more food to win the war. She liked it so well she wouldn't think of giving it up now.

No detail of swine raising is too small to escape the attention of the mistress of Tu-tocka-nula. She has adopted hog breeding as a business and she means to make good at it. While her husband is at his office in the city she is busy on her suburban farm.

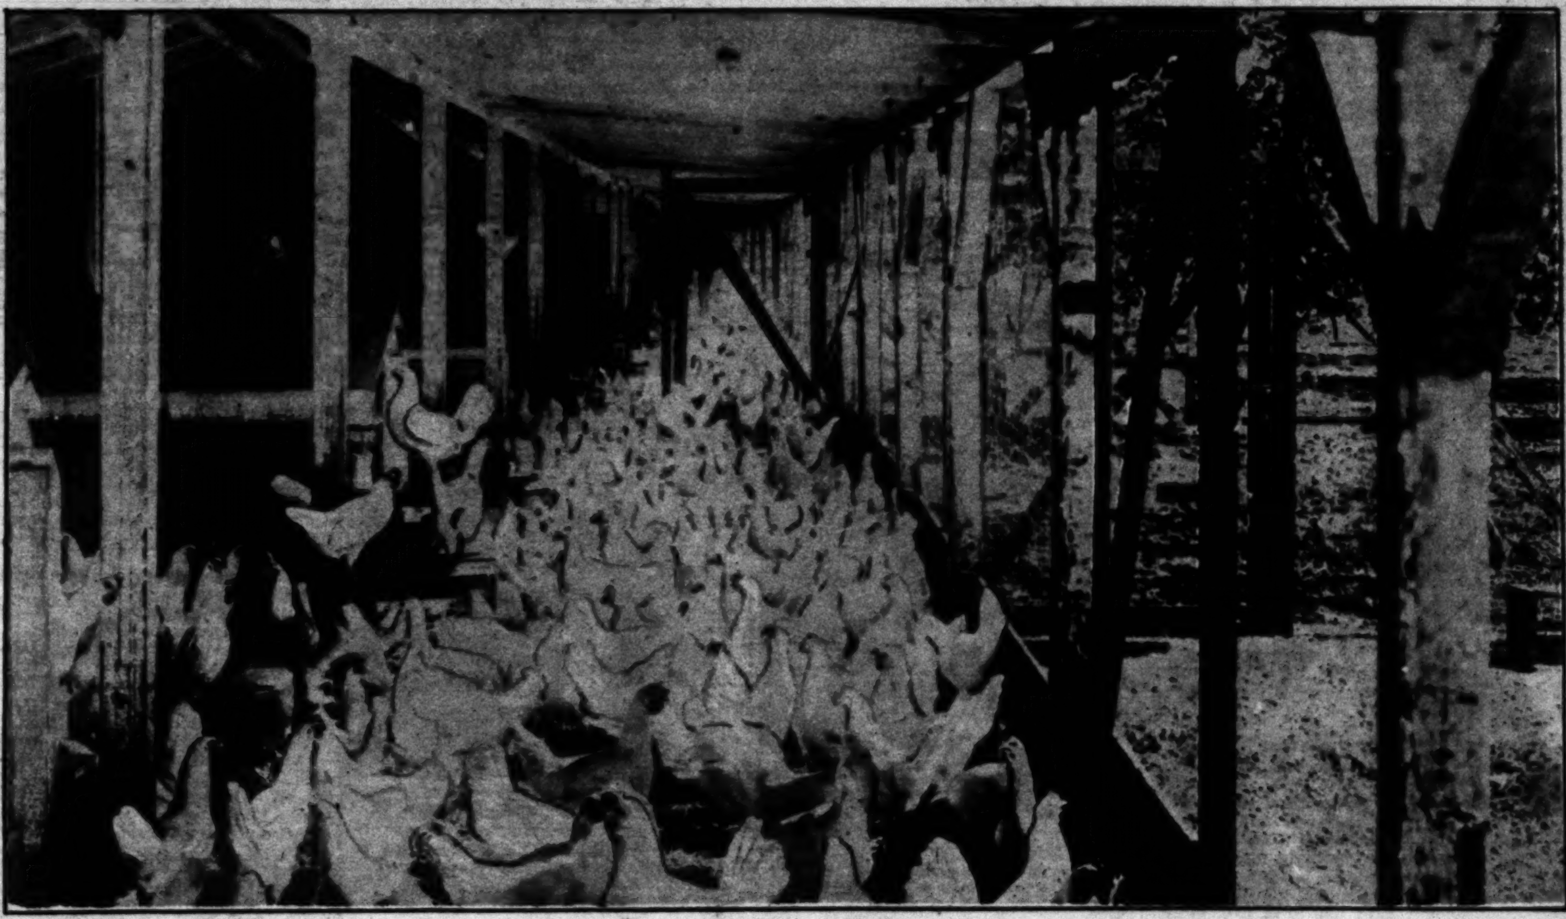
All these thrifty gilts are from Duroc Jersey sires and dams of good ancestry.



Mrs. Whitley recently wrote a check for $6000 in payment for these and other Sweetwater Ranch Durocs.

How Poultry and Gardens Mix in China.

D. S. W. WRITES OF HIS OBSERVATIONS. BY HENRY W. KRUCKEBERG.



A Southern California egg-producing plant.

D. S. W., who gave an interesting account of the Japanese Games under date of September 1, contributes the following on methods observed in poultry culture in far-away Southern China:

In this country the old joke about the man with a garden and his battles with the neighbor's hens is going strong yet. It's a good, reliable old jest; always has been. But my friend Wong, in China, would need a lot of explaining to get it into his system For things are different there, as I will try to show you.

In the spring and early summer in Canton, you may hear the cry of the one-day-old-chick man or of the duckling man, as they trot along the street bearing big baskets on the ends of bamboo poles, or stop to haggle for a half-hour with someone who wants to buy three chicks or two ducklings. At that season everybody buys 'em. The people that live in the houseboats or shacks stuck up on poles over the river, buy a few and keep them in baskets, hung out over the water, letting them run loose on shore for a while each day to get exercise and pick up grit. The people that live in houses buy a dozen or two, and let them run about the narrow alleys and all through the house, or if they have gardens, they put them there to assist in the cultivation. The small farmers buy baskets of them, and carry them to the fields or let them run in the vegetable patches while they are working in the fields.

That garden-and-chicken joke doesn't apply there. The gardeners have to contend with a host of insects, slugs and snails, that would soon clear everything out of their patches if left to their own devices. There is the big green beetle that we call the June Bug, that comes in armies from May to September and eats everything in sight. These the wise gardener will eliminate by letting a few half-grown chickens or ducks run in the garden every day; or his boys and girls will collect them in the cool of the morning and feed them to the laying hens, whence come many big eggs.

Then there are numerous varieties of slugs and snails. These are much relished by small ducks, which catch them as they are feeding on the plants, carry them to the water hole that is in every garden and slop them around until they are washed clean. Then they bolt them and run to hunt for more. The effect of this is that slugs and their cousins, the snails, do very little damage to the gardens, but furnish delicious and highly nourishing food for the ducklings, so that they thrive mightily and grow at a great rate.

There is a little fly that gets on such plants as cabbages, radishes and turnips, or on almost any kind of young plants and eats them right down to the root, or kills them by skinning them. If let alone these flies will breed so rapidly that in a few days a patch will be black with them, and there is no way to kill them without destroying the plants. Here's where the baby chickens come in. Mr. Gardener gets a bunch of them and turns them loose on the patch. Without the slightest delay and quite without previous instructions, they get busy and pretty soon there are no flies to be found in that patch, except perhaps a few terrified specimens hidden between stalks. At sunset the farmer comes and feeds the chicks a little rice, and they come to him, peeping to be put to bed in their basket, with their crops crammed full of nice fat, little flies.

It is no trouble at all to teach the chicks to stay near their baskets and to come and let you pick them up when it begins to rain or is time to go to bed. In this respect the baby chickens show a lot more sense than the baby humans, and are not the least trouble to care for. A hawk or a cat may steal one or two now and then; one may drown himself in the ditches or get stepped on trying to pick worms from under your feet, but you should lose very few of them when running in gardens this way. And how the little fellows do grow!

In this way you can keep your garden clear of all sorts of pests. I eagerly adopted the system, and applied it in ways of my own invention. Thus I had a hen turkey with eight young ones running in my garden of about one-fifth of an acre, and they not only kept the place clear of the June beetles, but would even tackle the four-inch-long tobacco worms that I had always heard were poisonous and which no other creature that I know of will eat. The turks seemed to think they were delicious morsels, and I once saw a young Tom of about three pounds weight swallow five of them in a few minutes' time, and then go hunt for more. They could stow away as many as thirty of the June beetles in one cargo: and grow so fat that they looked like feathered footballs.

You will say that these birds did a lot of damage to the garden-truck; but you'll be wrong. Except for stealing a head of lettuce or a cabbage leaf or an occasional over-ripe tomato, they did no damage. I had a grass-patch for them and they always preferred the grass to any other green food. This was true also of the chickens. These did some damage in scratching for worms, but they would kill even the destructive cut-worm, so I considered we were square on the deal. Such things as tomatoes and lettuce had to be protected by bamboo or wire screens at times but other things were seldom injured.

So, by such means, one might have a thriving garden where without the chicks or ducks the pests would destroy every green thing. And pretty soon you would discover that the babies had become big enough to make fine "squabs" or broilers for one person; and they needed surprisingly little grain or other food to grow on So you played the game both ways; and if you took a little care and used a reasonable amount of gumption you won at both ends.

A Misleading Classification.

The expression "utility poultry" is more or less a misnomer. It implies that there are breeds and varieties devoid of all practical values—which is not in keeping with the facts. All breeds of domesticated fowl possess a utility value, the matter being one of degree as between one breed or variety and another. For the house, the non-utility breeds are supposed to represent the fancy, the utility breeds, the practical poultry on the commercial egg farms. Now as a matter of fact the fancy and the utility bird is invariably the result of the two ideas working in unison, for certain it is that the person breeding for fine points in type and color scheme, is also invariably specializing for egg and meat production. Our finest types of birds are chiefly in the hands of fanciers and specialty breeders, and those who have attained the greatest success are also the people who have done the most to augment production. All good breeders are also fanciers; they may not be in evidence in the exhibition room, nor found championing fine points in head and leg conformation, nor the color scheme and shape of feather; just the same they admire a fine shaped and beautifully market bird. All breeds and varieties possess value for both meat and eggs, only that some dominate in one direction and some in another. Then why not designate them according to character of production, viz., as egg or meat breeds, and do away with the meaningless classification of "utility" and "fancy?"

The Muscovy Breed of Ducks.

J. V. S. Tulare, writes to this department for information concerning Muscovy ducks, whether we would advise their culture, and where stock may be obtained.

The Muscovy duck has been bred in a small way in Southern California for the past twenty-five years; but has never attained the popularity of the Indian Runner nor of the White Pekin. There are two varieties, the Whites and the colored, both of which possess about the same values. If we are not in error, this breed is native to South America, where specimens of their ancestry still inhabit the wilds. It is said that the Whites are more docile than the colored, and hence not so pugnacious. The head and face should be covered with bright red carbuncles (red fleshy growths at side of head,) the larger the better. They have orange or yellow shanks and toes. They have long broad bodies and a full, deep, broad breast on which there is plenty of fine grained meat that, when served on the table you can slice off like turkey meat. The meat is of a rich flavor, tender and juicy, almost melting in one's mouth.

The standard weight of the adult drake is ten pounds. The drakes will get to weigh eight pounds when 4½ to 5 months old.

When 6 months old the ducks start to laying and they lay eggs at most all times of the year. The mother duck sits on the eggs five weeks and takes care of her ducklings just as well as a hen. At the age of three months they are large enough to market.

Breeding and foundation stock is often advertised in the liner advertisements of the Sunday Times.

The State Fair Show.

In spite of the fact that a large number of entries for the State Fair poultry exhibit were unable to reach Sacramento on account of the railroad situation, the poultry show was the largest ever held at Sacramento. It was a high quality show throughout, especially in the Barred Rock, Rhode Island Red and White Wyandotte classes. R. V. Moore, who judged the poultry exhibit, was particularly impressed with the Rhode Island Red exhibit and stated that many of the entries would be winners at any show in the United States. Sales were reported to have been better than ever before in all classes, which indicates a growing interest in the better classes of poultry. An interesting demonstration in caponizing was given several times each day, which attracted a great deal of attention from both professional and amateur poultrymen. More than 100 manufacturers had displays in the various lines of machinery.

Now is the time to build the new poultry house or remodel the old one, so as to have everything ready and comfortable for the hens that are to produce the winter eggs.

FARM AND TRACTOR SECTION.

Devoted to the multiform agricultural interests of the great Sou[illegible]est and issued every week with t[illegible] biggest Sunday n[illegible]r.

EDITED BY HAROLD M. FINLEY.

Communications from practical farmers, ranchers, stock raisers, poultrymen, gardeners and others engaged either in a large or small way in the vital work of food production are gladly received.

Good clear photographs of interesting farm and garden activities are always welcomed. The Los Angeles Times Farm and Tractor Section is the only farm journal in the west printing illustrations in the incomparable rotogravure process.

What About Two Fairs?

DR. G. E. CLEMENTS, who was in charge of the Los Angeles county exhibit at the State fair, returned from Sacramento firmly convinced thatthe Southern counties should immediately unite in plans for an annual fair which should reflect the magnitude and importance of the horticultural interests of Southern California.

Dr. Clements found that it is almost impossible for the southern part of the State to secure proper recognition for its products at Sacramento. He cited a number of reasons, chief among which, he says, is the distance which this section's products must be shipped. A lack of understanding of Southern California agriculture and horticulture on the part of the State fair officials and a natural prejudice on their part in favor of Central California or Northern California products, he says, also contributes to the difficulty.

The Los Angeles county display at the fair excelled in interest and appearance and was awarded first premiums for "quality of exhibits," citrus fruits, preserved fruits and canned fish. Products manifestly inferior to those shown by Los Angeles county, Dr. Clements reports, were brought into the fair from short distances and being fresher, were awarded first premiums. Dr. Clements has no complaint to make regarding personal treatment, and found George C. Roeding, president of the State Agricultural Society, a real friend of Southern California.

Dr. Clements says that he saw better plums and peaches at the Downey fair than at the State fair, better pears at Little Rock, and better corn at Downey than anything the north could produce. Our potatoes, he declares, were better than theirs. Our citrus fruits, apples, cotton, olives and beans excel. Southern California live stock, such as was able to get to the fair ahead of the railroad strike, more than held its own against the exhibits from the rest of the State as the official lists of awards reveal.

The views of Dr. Clements on the question of a great sectional fair for Southern California have been voiced by many others in recent years, finding expression particular around State fair time each year. The question, it would seem, is worth while going into by representatives of the various southern counties as the Chamber of Commerce man suggests, for if nothing else came from such a conference, it might at least result in steps being taken to help insure the south a better representation and fairer conditions for exhibiting at the annual Sacramento event. Where so many complaints are heard, it stands to reason that something must be wrong with existing arrangements and that improvement is possible through proper co-operation between the northern and southern ends of the State to the end of making the California State Fair an all-California fair in every sense of the word.

That Southern California could hold an annual fair of its own which would rival in magnitude and importance the present yearly State Fair cannot for a moment be doubted. There is also logic in the argument that it might work out better to do so than to ship the products of the section 500 miles south to the capital city. There is a sentimental reason, on the other hand, for continuing to hold an annual exhibit of the State's varied products at the seat of California's government and Southern California is not insensible to its appeal. Just what is the best course for the south to pursue is a question that could only be settled by a conference of the Southern California counties themselves.

PAPER FROM COTTON HULLS.

As a result of experiments conducted by the First Products Laboratory, United States Department of Agriculture, a good grade of paper is being produced in commercial quantities from cotton-hull fiber. Pulp made from second-cut cotton linters and hull fiber, the forest specialists say, is well suited for the manufacture of book, writing, printing, blotting, cover and other high grades of paper, and is equal in quality to the highest grades of paper stock.

In the improvement of beef cattle care has been taken to develop to the greatest extent those portions of the body from which are secured the high-priced cuts of beef. These points should be kept in mind when selecting breeding animals.

SOUTH MAKES GOOD STATE FAIR SHOWING DESPITE HARD LUGK.

BY H. S. HOARD.

Special Representative of Farm and Tractor Section at State Fair.

ALTHOUGH Southern California won its share of the honors in the State Fair live-stock show and is justified in feeling a great deal of pride on that account, the livestock men of this section are nonetheless disappointed at the south's showing. Hard luck beyond their control, they feel, prevented them from making the winnings they would have made had more of them been represented at the fair.

Owing to the railroads being tied up by the strike a large number of the breeders from the south were not able to get their animals to Sacramento. There were a few who "took time by the forelock" and shipped their animals a few days previous to the strike. Among these was the Diamond Bar Ranch at Spadra. The Winsor Ranch at Bonita refused to be locked out by the strike and shipped its Duroc herd by boat from San Diego to Sacramento.

The Elliott-Brant Rancho of Owensmouth shipped its Guernsey herd on the first train north after the strike was settled. At Newhall the car was derailed and the animals badly jostled. Although none of the animals were killed, nearly all of them were bruised and scarred. The big herd bull had one horn broken off. The Edgemore Farm at Santee was unable to get shipping accommodations for its Guernseys, which was also the case with J. E. Wherrell of Riverside, who had his show herd of Jerseys entered. The Santa Anita Ranch of Arcadia was unable to get any animals to the fair.

Considering the number of Southern California exhibitors actually present at the fair with animals, it will have to be conceded that this end of the State did well.

With all its hard luck, the Elliott-Brant Rancho came through with flying colors and these colors were mostly purple, blue and red, denoting championship, first and second prizes. The herd bull, May King of the Fern Ridge, in spite of the injuries sustained in the train accident, carried off Grand Championship honors, while Princess in the wreck, won corresponding honors in the female classes. These animals are real outstanding individuals.

The Thomas Dibblee Estate of Santa Barbara upheld the banner of Southern California in the Shorthorn class, winning Grand Champion with its great bull Hollwood Flash and pulling down its share of other awards.

Southern California Duroc-Jersey hogs, exhibited by the Diamond Bar Ranch of Spadra and the Winsor Ranch of Bonita, were leading attractions of the swine show. The sow Model Defender Lady, owned by the latter, won Senior and Grand Champion- of Meadowbrook, also shaken and bruised ship honors. The Diamond Bar won Junior Champion Sow under one year with Pathfinder's Very Best and also took first in Aged Herd.

THE HOLSTEIN EXHIBIT.

The Bridgeford Company of Patterson won a large part of the blue and purple ribbons in the Holstein department taking Grand Champion bull, Grand Champion female, Senior Champion bull and Junior Champion cow. Henderson & Co. of Sacramento took Senior Champion cow and Junior Champion bull. The two-year-old heifer Ciruela Walker 396620, owned by H. E. Cornwell of Modesto, was one of the attractions of the show. She was due to freshen the day of the show and was in the pink of condition. She has a wonderful udder development, which would do credit to a four-year-old. Owing to the fact that this is her first calf, so that she has never been in milk, the judge did not feel justified in considering her for championship honors, as against cows which had proven their ability at the pail.

There were 115 Holsteins in competitive exhibits at the fair, the Holstein display being one of the best, both in point of numbers and quality of animals, ever held in the West. The judge, Hugh Van Pelt of Waterloo, Iowa, was particularly impressed with the quality and high individual merit of the younger classes. In speaking of the exhibit at the banquet of Holstein breeders he said: "This is the fourth show I have judged this year, and the exhibit here is equal to any I have seen thus far in 1919. The younger classes are exceptionally good; in fact, I have never seen them surpassed at any show in the United States, and I do not except the Dairy Congress shows at Waterloo, or the National Dairy Show at Chicago."

That the younger classes are even better than the older classes and are equal to those seen at the large shows in the Middle West is a tribute to the ability of the California Holstein men as constructive breeders, and speaks volumes for the future development of Holsteins in this State.

Following are the principal awards among the Holstein entries, firsts and championships only being given:

BREEDING OF GOATS AND CARE OF KIDS.

BY JAMES ALDEN ROGERS.

Interest in milk goats is increasing as the breeding season opens. Of course there has never been any waning of interest in good goats in Southern California, which is especially adapted to raising and breeding them. This section is just now actually the most important goat-breeding section of the United States. But during July and August, the milk goat industry slumbers, so to speak, to awaken in September with renewed vigor. No breeding is done during midsummer.

A good producer.

Helen P. G. R., owned by Pasadena Goat Ranch, Lamanda Park. She is credited with six and a quarter quarts of milk a day under test.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with goat breeding, the following information is printed.

Does will breed very young, even before they are six months old. But it is bad policy to breed them much before the ago of eighteen months. It is a good plan to breed does so that they come fresh at two years of age. The gestation period for does is about 155 days. They come in heat usually every three weeks, except during midsummer months. Knowing goat breeders do not allow their bucks to run with the milking herd, because of the danger of breeding does too early. This will result in running down the stock and milk production.

One of the greatest problems of goat raising is the handling of the buck. It is generally more desirable to pay for service than to keep him, where a few animals only are kept. The milk is apt to have a "goaty" flavor if proper care is not taken when there is a buck around. Remove him as far as practicable from the does. Give him pasture apart from the remainder of the herd, and keep him in a good, vigorous condition for the breeding season. It is necessary to feed the buck a little grain during the breeding season. One buck will [illegible] vigorous type.

More than two kids at birth generally calls for the elimination of all over two which are not vigorous. The small, unthrifty kids, especially if they are bucks, should be killed shortly after birth, the sooner the better.

Keep the does apart from each other just before kidding, else they fight and abortion results. Feed warm bran mashes two or three weeks before kidding.

It is now the common practice to allow the kids to nurse their mothers three or four times a day for the first three or four weeks, when they may be gradually weaned after they have been grazing on good pasturage or fed cut alfalfa hay, from ten days after birth. It is desirable to feed the kids a small amount of grain, say a half pound, barley or oats, for each kid daily. Some breeders feed a ration consisting of dried beet pulp, rolled barley and wheat bran, equal parts.

Kids may be weaned at three or four days after birth and fed by the bottle route, although this requires considerable attention. Pail feeding is also followed by many goat breeders, but this requires time and persistency. Dehorn the kids, if horns are present, before they are more than a week old by the use of caustic soda. After the kids are four or five months old, they are weaned from milk, but they must have a full supply until they are at least three weeks of age, during which time they are very delicate. During rainy weather, the kids under one month should be kept in good sheds.

The goat shed should be ample, clean and well ventilated. Many styles of goat houses are in use in this part of the State, but the time has come when goat raisers realize the importance of good housing, even in this mild climate. The house should be divided into proper stalls, at least four by five feet in size, and the partitions between the stable should be at least three feet high, some breeders making them five feet high. Some breeders construct a bench two feet above the ground for sleeping. The goat in its native habitat got upon a shelving rock and took its nightly repose, and desires the same sort of bed if he can get it. Goats should not be bedded down as are horses and cows. If straw is placed in the stable it will often be kicked out until a hard bed is provided. But sawdust is often necessary for sanitary reasons, and a small amount daily is desirable.

arrange for and promote the sale consists of S. W. Beckman, Lodi; Hale T. Marsh, Modesto, and Fred Gatewood, Fresno. The association besides deciding to offer three silver cups at the 1920 California State Fair, agreed upon offering its $50 cup again next year to the breeder winning the most money in the futurity contest. Two smaller cups will be given to the winner in the Poland-China barrow classes under six months of age, and under one year of age. The officers elected for the coming year are: President, William Bernstein, Hanford; vice-president, George V. Beckman, Lodi; secretary, A. D. McCarty, San Francisco; directors, M. Basset, Hanford; A. J. Eliot, Tulare; Fred Gatewood, Fresno; R. P. Gates, Orland.

The California Jersey Breeders' Association held its annual meeting in the director's room in the agricultural building at the State fair grounds at Sacramento. The following officers were elected for the coming year: J. E. Thorpe, Lockford, president; J. E. Wherrell, Riverside, vice-president; Prof. V. C. Bryant, Berkeley, secretary; N. H. Locke, Lockford, treasurer; Guy H. Miller, Modesto; Dr. W. H. Hand, Orlando, directors. Mrs. Hardie and C. G. Marrin remain as hold-over directors. The principle speakers of the evening were Hugh C. Van Pelt of Waterloo, Iowa, who judged the dairy cattle at the fair; Judge Peter J. Shields of Sacramento and James Henderson of Sacramento. Dr. W H. Hand, president of the association, urged the breeders to give publicity to the food value of milk, so as to stimulate its use and educate the public as to the economy of the use of this product.

The Duroc swine breeders held their annual meeting at the Travelers Hotel in Sacramento, Monday evening, September 1. There was a large attendance and after a sumptious banquet, the regular annual business meeting was held. Several important matters were discussed and acted upon and officers were elected for the ensuing year. One of the important matters taken up was the changing of the name of the Duroc Association from the Western Duroc Breeders' Association to the California Duroc Breeders' Association. The matter of breed promotion was discussed at length, and a committee was appointed to raise an advertising fund and attend to a big publicity campaign. Over $1000 was raised by voluntary subscription in five minutes time among those present. It was definitely decided to hold a sale of sixty bred gilts at the University Farm at Davis on January 14, 1920, and the newly elected president, R. K. Walker, is to appoint a committee to arrange the details. It was also definitely decided not to hold a sale at any of the live stock shows this fall. The officers elected for the coming year are: President, R. K Walker, Bonita; vice-president, V. F. Dolcini, Davis; secretary-treasurer, S. E. Whiting, Sacramento; directors, H. H. Braley, Newbury Park; H. C. Witheron, Live Oak; Donald Graham, Lancaster; H. M. Bergulund, Dixon.

The Western Berkshire Congress held a donation sale at the California State Fair at which fifteen head were offered. The animals were donated free of charge by various members in the association, and were sold at public auction by Ord L. Leachman. A total of $1157 and average of $92.40 per head was realized. The fund so provided will be used for promoting the interests of the breed through publicity, and posting added classes in the fall shows.

The California Holstein Breeders' held their regular annual meeting at the Travelers' Hotel in Sacramento, Tuesday evening, September 2. In addition to the election of officers for the ensuing year, an interesting programme had been arranged. Hugh Van Pelt of Waterloo, Iowa, who was judge in the dairy cattle breeds at the State Fair, gave an interesting address on the future of the dairy industry in California and the lines along which the dairy animals should be developed. He said in part: "Do not sacrifice type, quality, style and character merely in order to get large size in your animals. Large size is a desirable quality, but do not sacrifice the other essential qualities. Also develop your long time tests for California breeders and the Pacific Coast can make long time records easier than any other section of the United States." Frank T. Price of Syracuse, N. Y., spoke on the latest developments in the Charles Cole expose, and stated that the board of directors of the National Holstein-Fresian Association intended to go to the bottom of this matter, and to expunge from the records all of the questionable records traceable to Charles Cole. He stated that Cole had recently made a third affidavit stating that his former testimony and affidavit in regard to the questionable records made in the herd of Oliver Cabana was false. Frank Morris of Woodland the first member from California to be elected to the board of directors of the National Association, gave a short address on the plans of the National Association for the ensuing year. James Henderson, president of the California Milk Producers' Association, spoke on the aims of the association, what had been accomplished during the past two years, and the necessity of enlisting the support of all of the dairymen in California. President Fred Kissel read the report of what had been accomplished during the past year by the California Holstein Breeders' Association.

The following men were elected as officers and directors for the coming year: President, H. V. Bridgeford, Patterson; first vice-president, DeLancey Lewis, Los Altos; second vice-president, Frank Helm, Fresno; secretary, Charles Hughes, Sacramento; directors, Harry Bridgeford, Knighton; De Lancy Lewis, Los Altos; Frank Helm, Fresno; Fred W. Kiesel, Sacramento; J. M. Henderson, Sacramento; Frank L. Morris, Woodland; W. J. Higdon, Tulare; A. R. Magruder, Ripon; G. M. Brown, Los Angeles; W. J. Taylor, Santa Anita; J. C. Pich, Calexico; Owen Duffy, Napa; A. Fisher, Carlotta.

The Pacific Coast Hereford Breeders held a banquet at the Hotel Sacramento in Sacramento, Tuesday evening, September 2. John I. Cazier of Wells, Nev., president of the association, acted as toastmaster. John C. Brown of the college station in Texas, who judged the beef breeds of cattle and the draft horses at the State Fair, was the principle speaker of the evening. In commenting on the Hereford exhibit at the fair, he spoke very highly of the quality and scale of the animals. The coming live stock shows to be held in Los Angeles and San Francisco were discussed at length, both C. R. Thomas manager of the Los Angeles show and Prof. Gordon H. True, manager of the San Francisco show, being present. Each outlined the plans for his show. Among the other speakers were C. B. Harris of Los Angeles and J. A. Bunting of Mission San Jose.

The Western Berkshire Breeders' Congress banquet at the Sacramento Hotel during State Fair week was attended by seventy-five men and women. A. B. Humphrey, president of the Western Berkshire Congress, was toastmaster. Among the speakers was Weyman N. Lovejoy of Roscoe, Ill., who came to judge the Berkshire classes at the fair. He was high in his praise of the Berkshires he found in California and said that many of them would make a creditable showing in any of the eastern or Middle Western shows. J. Francis O'Connor, Santa Rosa; Senator F. W. Levitt, Glenn county; W. F. Sandercock, Sacramento; Prof. J. I. Thompson of the University Farm School at Davis; H. C. Muddox, Sacramento; Ruland Hardy, Orland, and J. H. Thatcher of Riverside were among the other speakers. A resolution was passed, which will be presented to the State Legislature, asking that a bond issue for $1,000,000 be submitted to the voters of the State for new buildings and improvements at the State fair grounds.

Every poultry raiser should make a study of the market demands. A uniform color of eggs and flesh in poultry is desirable. A mixed flock will not produce uniform eggs or meat, and eggs from such a flock are not desirable for hatching.

DOWN-TO-DATE REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.

RIVERSIDE.—The live-stock committee of the Southern California Fair which will be held at Riverside October 7 to 11, returned Saturday from a visit to prominent breeders throughout the southern part of the State. They report having found much interest in the fair and brought back a list of many live-stock entries, which guarantees a successful stock show. On this trip they also secured consignments for the live-stock auction which will be held during the fair week. Col. W. C. Lookingbill, manager of the sale, who accompanied the committee on this trip, is highly gratified with the attitude of the breeders of fine stock toward this auction sale. He was able to secure some of the finest animals in these herds for consignment and has enough to insure the success of the sale.

Space in the big agricultural tent at the Southern California Fair is being taken very rapidly and Secretary Van Pelt advises those who have not yet made their reservations for community exhibits to act promptly. The auto camping privilege at Fairmount Park, Riverside, is proving very popular and is being used freely. These camping grounds adjoin the Southern California fair grounds and many auto parties from all parts of the country are planning to use these beautiful grounds when they visit the fair.

RECORD RETURNS.

POMONA.—Total returns received by the Pomona Fruit Growers' Association of this city for the citrus crop of 1918-19 reached the new record of $1,146,358, according to the figures contained in the report of Manager W. E. Walcott read at the annual meeting of the stockholders held recently in the packing-house in this city. There were 502,510 loose boxes of oranges shipped and for these $809,516 was received. In addition to the oranges there were 47,649 boxes of lemons sent out and they brought an additional $44,764. The Washington navels and the Valencias brought about the same average price per box. The expense of operating the packing-house was 45 cents per box. More than 500 stockholders were present at the meeting, which was one of the largest ever held. Directors for the ensuing year were unanimously elected as follows: H. J. Nichols, president; Fred J. Smith, Frank P. Firey, R. K. Pitzer, J. E. Adamson, F. F. Yates and H. F. Norcoss. It was stated that the outlook for the ensuing year is very bright.

LABOR IS SHORT.

OAKGLEN.—The apple growers of this section are experiencing real difficulty in getting together sufficient labor to take care of the heavy crop which is bearing down the trees in the big orchards here. The crop is the best that the growers have had in many years and with big prices staring them in the face, they are offering almost any wages in order to get plenty of help to handle the crop. There will be no cull apples this year, it is claimed, for the very good reason that big city dealers are in the market right now to get contracts on the apples that are not packed for fancy trade. These will be taken loose in boxes on trucks to Los Angeles and other cities and it is claimed that a ready market will be found for them there. Some of the growers last year gave the mountain store houses a thorough test and more apples will be stored at Oakglen this year than usual. In the high mountains well ventilated storehouses, put in cold places, seem to take care of the apples almost as well as cold storage; at least, it keeps the better varieties from rotting until late in the spring. These storthouses are so arranged that the apples can be well spread out and there is a good circulation of air between the layers of fruit on racks in bins. The mountain roads are also in such good shape now that it is no trick to haul the fruit out.

OLIVE MEN WARNED.

MENTONE.—The olive grower who does not keep in close touch with market conditions this year will be out of luck and is more than likely to sell his fruit under the market price, according to one of the principal growers of this section. During the past week, a well-known factory man has been in the district offering the top market price for fruit and he discovered that some growers had almost sold their crop for about half what they could get for their fruit. Last year a number of the growers sold early to cash buyers who were in the field and who represented themselves as being representatives of well known olive factories and they got the fruit for about half the price the factories paid for it. The factories are offering the growers from $80 to $320 a ton for their olives this year. Eighty dollars a ton is considered a big price for the small, inferior olives which can be used only for making olive oil. The finest, largest fruit is bringing anywhere from $250 to $320 a ton. The olive growers will be making good money this year, for the fruit is in fine condition and the crop is larger than the average. The trees are bearing the crop well and in a short time the handling of the crop will be under way.

PEAR RETURNS.

TEHACHEPI.—Returns which have been received from the first carload lots of pears shipped from the Tehachepi orchards showed an average of $4.22 per crate, or at the rate of over $2200 per car. Picking is now well under way in all the orchards and contract prices which have been received indicate returns of from 7 to 8 cents per pound. The output for the district this season is estimated at about forty carloads. A large proportion of the fruit will go to eastern markets. What is considered one of the best crops is on the orchard property of B. M. Dennison, the pioneer in the Tehachepi pear industry. W. H. Harpster and F. W. Rowley also have very fine crops. On the B. R. Way orchard the pears were raised without irrigation and, cultural conditions considered, made a remarkable yield. Tehachepi now has about 3500 acres in young pear trees, most of which are just coming into production. The elevation at Tehachepi is about 5000 feet and this altitude appears to have been one of the large factors in raising large crops of especially fine fruit which has exceptional shipping quality.

GRAPES ARE SAVED.

RIALTO.—As many cars of grapes were kept from moving by the recent strike, heavy loss was feared along this line, one man having over sixty cars to ship that should have been moving at that time. However, transportation of fruit was resumed just in the nick of time and serious loss of grapes averted. In more perishable products, like peaches and watermelons, considerable loss was suffered. The big cannery crops of tomatoes were but just beginning to ripen, but a second tie-up would result in inestimatable loss to these growers.

in transplanting. Midsummer and early fall present ideal conditions for getting a start in this way if sufficient moisture can be assured. Of course, this method of planting necessitates a good deal of personal care and attention.

FOR LARGE PLANTINGS.

For planting large acreage it now seems probable that canes will come to be generally used. The canes mature as a rule in Southern California in September or October, seemingly earlier in some instances, and later in others. In Florida canes are reported as frequently not seeding until November. Until the canes have developed seed beads they are not fully matured, and while they often will serve for planting before that time, much better and surer results are obtained from fully hardened and matured canes.

In climates where the growing season is long, canes can be used for making late summer or early fall plantings. The object, as with root divisions set out at this season, is to secure plants which will become well established before frost. Plantings at this time will not mature canes or produce an appreciable crop the first season. They have, however, a distinct advantage in rapidity of growth and production the following year over plants not started until the next spring. Either cane cuttings or full length, uncut canes can be used for the early fall planting.

The advantages of early fall planting are doubtful despite the ideal weather conditions, in two situations: where early frosts may be expected, and where irrigation is impossible and the ground does not contain sufficient moisture for starting growth. While older plants show marked frost resistance, the young plants are rather tender, and should receive extra frost protection.

LIKE SUGAR CANE.

Late fall planting of canes is a practice taken from sugar cane culture, also providing an earlier start for spring. It is quite generally adopted among sugar cane growers in many parts of Florida, Louisiana, Texas, and other sections where this crop is raised.

The canes are laid end to end, as can also be done in the early fall planting. Sugar cane growers often allow for considerable overlap, or even distribute a double line or more of canes in the same furrow. While the supply of Napier fodder remains limited the single line planting will probably be used, or the canes wil be cut in sections and dropped at a distance of several feet apart.

Planting by this plan is done as late as is safe to avoid frosts. At this time the canes are fully matured and have reached their dormant period. The ground and weather are not warm enough to start growth, and the canes remain dormant until the first warm weather in the spring, when they send out both roots and sprouts from each of the joints or nodes.

In sections of the south where frosts are rare, it is the custom to plant the seed canes of sugar cane at any convenient time during the late fall or winter. Canes are preserved by banking or in windrows, to be taken up and planted when the weather is favorable. In Louisiana, this is usually in February or March, though sometimes in January. In this way the fall, winter and early spring plantings overlap, as will probably prove to be the case in the warmer portions of the Southwest with the planting of Napier fodder. In localities practically free from frost Napier canes have remained standing on the plants throughout the winter season. They remain in a more or less dormant condition, and plantings from them do not start growth until spring.

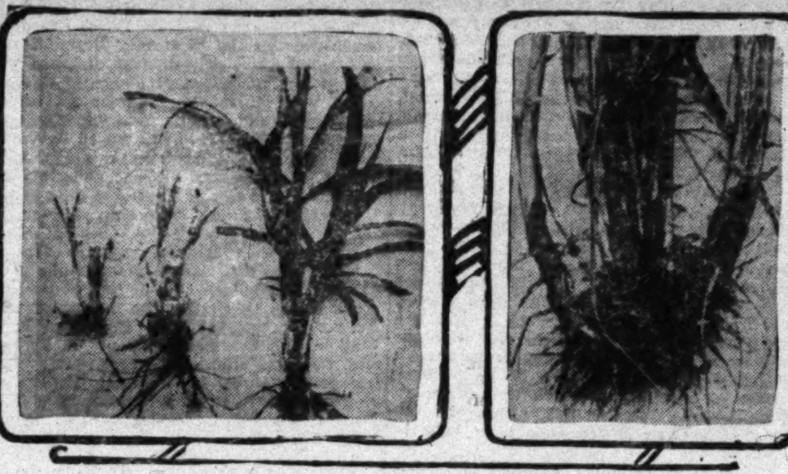
In planting canes in the late fall or winter it is advisable, where there is need of frost protection, to throw from four to six inches of earth over them, to be raked off in the spring, leaving a covering of only one or two inches. It is a good plan to take this precaution, also with the plants in the field. After the final cutting in the fall, if severe frosts are feared, the earth from the ridges between the furrows in which they are planted may be pulled over the root crowns.

SPRING PLANTING.

Spring planting may be made with root stocks, canes, or cane cuttings. Precautions must be taken not to plant too early. When all danger of frost is past and the ground and weather warm is the best time. Ideal conditions for planting Sudan grass are also those for spring planting of Napier fodder, with the same danger of waiting too long, in cases where there is no irrigation worked, so as to avoid leaving air spaces which will dry out the canes. Napier fod- and the ground becomes too dry. With the soil well prepared and in readiness, timely spring planting may sometimes be made with cuttings. Trimmed with an oblique cut about an inch below the joints of the cane, these can be simply thrust several inches into the ground.

In preparing the soil for planting, care should be taken to have the ground well der thrives on a wide range of soils, but, of course, makes much better production on the better types. On very poor soils, the succulent mass of leafage which can ordinarily be cut four or five times in a season, and which makes the plant so valuable as a soiling and hay crop, is greatly reduced, the soft shoots early developing into hard, fibrous canes with little leafage.

Where the soil is good, plants are often placed at a distance of six feet each way, or even further for a permanent field stand.



Root development of Napier fodder cane cutting.
From left to right: Ten days after planting, two weeks, three weeks and six weeks after planting.

In getting a start, plants may be set closer and later taken up for subdivision. Placing in furrows (for convenience both in irrigation and frost protection) six feet apart, with plants three feet apart in the row, seems the general custom in this country. Adaptation of another practice among sugar cane growers might prove profitable the first season, in planting such crops as potatoes between widely spaced rows, harvesting them about the time the grass is large enough to shade the ground.

It must be made clear, in drawing these close comparisons with sugar cane, that Napier fodder is in fact in no way related to it. Nor does it belong to the sorghum family, though it shares many of the advantages of the sorghums, as forage crops, such as drouth resistance. It must not be mistaken as one of the group of crosses between sorghum and Sudan grass which, though they are similar in appearance, and produce heavy yields, are annuals.

ASSOCIATION OF ALL BREEDERS PLANNED.

The California live stock breeders are contemplating an organization to combine all the different breeds of live stock and poultry into one organization. At the present time there are eleven breed organizations in the State which are caring for the problems of their respective breeds, but a plan is under way to form an organization which will look after matters which affect the industry as a whole.

The idea of such an organization was suggested by a number of the exhibitors at the State Fair, and in accordance with their request, C. B. Cunningham of Mills, a successful breeder of Chester White swine, called a meeting on Monday, September 8, in the directors' room in the Administration building on the fair grounds. The meeting was well attended, and every one present expressed a desire to see such an organization formed. Prof. J. I. Thompson of the University Farm at Davis was chosen as chairman of the meeting and Frank B. Anderson of Sacramento acted as secretary.

Among those who spoke in favor of the organization were Mr. Cunningham; Charles Paine, secretary of the State Fair; Prof. Thompson; R. K. Walker, Bonita; F. B. Anderson, Sacramento; M. Bassett, Hanford, and Hale Marsh, Modesto.

A resolution was passed asking the secretary to notify the presidents of the eleven State breed organizations that a meeting would be held in San Francisco during the Bay City's live stock show in November and requesting them to send two representatives from each association to this meeting.

HEAVY SHEEP RECEIPTS.

July receipts of 457,619 sheep and lambs were the largest on record for that month at the Chicago Union Stock Yards, exceeding by 1906 animals the former record of July, 1912. This year's run exceeds that of July, 1918, by 117,277 animals. The increase is attributed to the mild weather and favorable spring which resulted in an increase in the number of marketable lambs and also to the fact that earlier lambing and marketing are being practiced.

METHODS OF PROPAGATION IN GROWING OF NAPIER FODDER.

BY H. C. DAVIS.

BY REASON of its wide adaptability, the propagation of Napier fodder presents many phases. Spring, summer, early and late fall, and even winter planting can be employed according to varying conditions to which the new fodder plant accommodatingly co[illegible] root divisions, cane cuttings, or the en[illegible], can be planted with equal success under different circumstances. A careful consideration of all available methods of propagation suited to individual requirements will be of great assistance in learning how best to obtain a permanent stand of this heavily producing and highly nutritious forage crop.

Propagation from seed is not generally considered practical. The plant is a poor seeder, and seed so far produced in this country has almost without exception shown little or no fertility. In Southern California some seed has been reported as averaging 25 per cent. germination, while in Florida a fertility of 68 per cent. was in one instance obtained, at the University of Florida Experiment Station at Gainesville.

Seed should first be sown in flat or shallow boxes. It is very light and fine, and should barely be covered with pulverized earth. The soil should be kept both warm and moist. The plants will appear, if at all, in from five days to a week, and can be transplanted in from three to five weeks, at a height of about six inches. The tops are pinched back, and the seedlings given about the same attention as transplanted cabbage plants. Seedling plants, however, appear to be quite inferior to those grown by other methods. In this, as in many other respects, Napier fodder closely resembles sugar cane, though far outstripping it as a forage crop because of both higher yield and nutritive value, as well as having the great advantage of being a perennial.

WILL NOT BECOME PEST.

The root formation of Elephant grass (Napier fodder) which is practically that of sugar cane, both assures a very satisfactory means of propagation, and reassures as to any possible danger of the plant becoming a pest, always a point to be considered in adopting a newly introduced crop. There need be no more fear of this with Elephant grass than with sorghum or sugar cane. It also provides excellent frost protection, as the survival of a single root stock will perpetuate the plant.

The root crown consists of as many separate divisions as there are stools or canes to the plant, each shoot above ground having its own distinct root growth which fits snugly into the crown, the appearance being that of many bulbs crowded together. Each of these root stocks when planted by itself immediately becomes the nucleus for others which cluster about it to form a new root crown. This multiplication which is called ratooning seems to go on indefinitely, with great rapidity and untiring persistence, no matter how often the plants are torn up to make such divisions. A single root stock set out in the spring will rapidly form a plant with fifty to sixty root divisions each bearing a fully matured cane by fall. Or it can be made to produce hundreds of plants in the same time by constant subdivision. In a case quoted by the United States Department of Agriculture of an African farmer who propagated 7000 plants in a single year from three original plants, this was one of the means used.

These root divisions may be planted with success under favorable conditions at any time during the growing season. If set out too early in the spring, however, while the ground is still cold and wet, they will usually rot, and will at best remain dormant until permanent warm weather has arrived. If panted in warm weather, they should have plenty of water to start, should be shielded from a too-hot sun and otherwise given about the same treatment as tomato plants

KEEPS SHEEP WELL.

In any system of continuous farm sheep raising the health question is of primary importance. This question is chiefly one of internal parasites, and of these the stomach worm is the most widely distributed and the most serious. Fortunately, the trouble is entirely susceptible of practical control, and the methods of prevention are exactly in line with the practices that result in most economical production. It is possible, though doubtful, that the permanent farm flock can be maintained in maximum health when grazed entirely on permanent grass pastures. A system of division of grass land into sufficient parts to allow frequent long periods without sheep, and use of longer grass for cattle will assist materially. Such a plan, combined with occasional use of medicine to prevent too serious infection, may prove to be practical.

The basis of success in the farm sheep business is in the frequency of changing to pastures which have not had any opportunity to become infected with stomach worms by older sheep. These frequent changes are particularly necessary during the stay of the young lambs upon the farm. The older sheep are less susceptible to the effects of the infection, though danger of their being injured thereby is not to be overlooked. The plan of frequent changes to fresh feed can be adapted advantageously to the most economical systems of using high-priced land in the rotation of crops to produce feed and forage for other kinds of live stock.

Be sure and fill those grease cups on the tractor every fifty miles of running.

THE DUROC EXHIBIT.

Southern California made them all "sit up and take notice" in the Duroc-Jersey swine classes. Although the Winsor and Diamond Bar Ranch herds did not take all of the honors, nor all of the championships, they took their share.

The sow Model Defender Lady, owned by the Winsor Ranch of Bonita, is one of the greatest sows in the United States. She is long, and deep, with a good spring of rib, and a perfectly arched back. With all her size, she is of fine quality and yet has strong legs and is well up on her toes. She won Senior and Grand Championship honors.

In the individual classes many of the first, second and third ribbons went to small breeders, who had only a limited number of entries at the show. This is most gratifying, as it demonstrates to the beginners in the game that by buying and breeding good stuff they can compete successfully with the large herds. The boys' pig club contest of all breeds was won by a Duroc from the Diamond Bar Ranch.

Dwight Putnam of Tecumseh, Neb., tied the ribbons, and did so to the almost universal satisfaction of both the spectators and the exhibitors. He was careful in making his awards and gave excellent reasons for decisions.

THE POLAND-CHINAS.

The Poland-Chinas outnumbered all the other swine breeds there being more than 325 heads of these hogs on the grounds. Thomas A. Shattuck of Hastings, Neb., tied the ribbons. It was a real show, and tested the ability of the judge in nearly every class, to know where to place the ribbons. Unfortunately, there were no herds from the southern part of the State, the entire showing being made up from the central and northern parts. The Futurity contest attracted a great deal of attention, as there was a goodly sum of money up in prizes, as well as a $50 cup donated by the California Poland-China Breeders' Association.

IMPERIAL COTTON CROP IN FINE CONDITION.

EL CENTRO.—The Imperial Valley cotton crop looks very promising both in the short staple and long staple varieties. However, very little long staple is grown in the valley this year, due to the troubles last fall in getting it ginned and the decrease in the price before the cotton reached the market, as well as in the trouble in locating a market at that time. Many of the people who grew long staple Pima cotton last year, nevertheless are growing the Durango or Mebane with good success.

The cotton fields in the valley seem to have more vigorous plants and more bolls than in any previous year. Some fields are particularly interesting. That of James N Cook, south of Holtville, is one of these. Last year he hired an extra man to pick the cotton from the very best plants of a good Durango field, south of Holtville He had to pay extra for the repicking of that field, and after ginning the cotton, found that the seed cost him approximately $200 per ton. He was well pleased at the time and is more so now. He has used the seed for this year's planting and has one of the best fields in the valley. A stalk selected from one of the rows and placed on exhibition contained 237 bolls and blossoms. The field, it is believed, will average from a bale and a half to two bales per acre. There are other fields nearly as good.

In order to get the best returns from cotton, corn or any other crop, special seed selection must be taken under consideration. Preparation of the soil and selection of the seed is the most important, although the cotton should not be irrigated for a period of from fifty to seventy days after planting, which will insure less stalk and a greater number of bolls.

The outlook for good prices for cotton this year, as well as next, is splendid.

One of the best long staple or Pima cotton crops is a tract one and one-half miles northwest of El Centro, owned by Argyle McLachlan. It is a very uniform stand and has no excess stalk production, but a very large number of bolls. It should give a very good yield and a handsome return for the efforts expended.

TREATMENT FOR FUSARIUM WILT.

Dr. P. A. Boncquet, plant pathologist, who is working in Tulare county under the direction of the Horticultural Commissioner, recommends the use of a Bordeaux mixture for seed treatment and the liberal application of ammonium sulphate after the plants are well up as a means of control of the fusarium wilt. Fusarium is the fungus which caused a material reduction in the crop in the Turlock district last season, according to Dr. Boncquet, who spent some time in the fields there in an investigation of the malady.

Dr. Boncquet lays the greatest stress on seed selection as a foundation for success and advises, if possible, the personal selection of the seed melons in the field where grown. If this is impossible, the next best practice is to secure certified seed from a dealer of established reputation. The seed should be carefully and thoroughly washed in a four-fifty Bordeaux solution; then thoroughly rinsed and placed in the shade to dry. Spring plowing should be light, after thorough fall tilth is secured, and the seed should be planted a depth of two inches on ridges left between the two dead furrows. When the plants are three to four inches in length Dr. Boncquet advises the application of a half ounce of ammonium sulphate in solution to each hill. The water should be applied so as not to come in contact with the plant. A second application is advised later if the season is a cold and backward one.

According to Dr. Boncquet, practically any of the sandy loam soils of the San Joaquin Valley, where there is a good supply of water, which can be quickly applied when needed, will grow good melon crops.

PESTS DESTROYING EASTERN PEACH TREES.

"California is rapidly becoming the greatest home in the world for peaches,'" according to a statement recently made at Riverside by Homer B. Fairchild, pomological expert with the Department of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C.

"The peach crop of America this year will not be more than 30,000,000 bushels," said Mr. Fairchild, "and of that amount California will produce 15,000,000 bushels.

"What with peach yellows and curly leaf, Delaware, Michigan, Ohio and parts of Indiana and New Jersey will not have a quarter of the crops they used to have, while California has an immense field and the demand is proportionately large.

"Every dollar California has spent vanquishing horticultural diseases and insect pests will return ten-fold, and then some.

"In ten years the crop of Georgia has fallen from 4,200,000 to 2,700,000 bushels, all because of the yellows which have slowly sapped the life out of the trees. It is almost the same in Virginia. California is more nearly free of peach tree diseases than any other State in the Union."

Farm sales of all kinds are heavier in October and lightest in May and June, taking the average of the United States. Last October they were $1,260,000,000; last May, $610,000,000

CARE OF CORN MEAL.

As a result of the nation-wide appeal to economise and conserve food supply, there has been a market increase in the use of corn meal. Care should be taken to get meal that has been recently ground from sound, clean, well-dried corn, and to see that it is kept sound and sweet by storing it in a well-closed receptacle, in a cool, dry place. A two weeks' supply is about all that it is ordinarily safe to provide for the household. To be most palatable, corn bread and other corn-meal products should be made from fresh meal and freshly baked. Various ways of using corn meal are described in Farmers' Bulletin No. 565, Corn Meal as a Food and Ways of Using It.

SHORTHORNS HIGH CLASS.

There were sixty-five head of Shorthorns as the State Fair this year and almost without exception they were high class. Southern California came in for its share of the honors, a goodly share of which were won by the herd of the Thomas Dibblee Estate of Santa Barbara. This concern's Grand Champion bull Hollwood Flash is one of the great bulls of the breed, and is destined to make Shorthorn history on the Pacific Coast.

DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

The showing of dairy Shorthorns at the 1919 fair was heavier than any preceding year and was nearly as large as that of the Shorthorns, there being fifty animals in all. The herds of Thomas Harrison of Santa Rosa and Alexander & Kellogg of Suisun carried off the championship honors. The Grand Champion bull, Foothills Pioneer, was sold by Thomas Harrison to the Pocket Ranch at Geyserville, after carrying off Senior and Grand Championship honors. This bull was bred by May & Otis. An interesting announcement was that of the leasing of the herd of Alexander & Kellogg to J. D. Rowe & Sons of Davis. There are now about 100 head in the herd, which will be reduced at public sale in December to fifty head. At this time Rowe & Son will move the herd to their farm at Davis.

EXHIBITORS—Alexander & Kellogg, Suisun; Leon F. Douglas, San Rafael; Thomas Harrison, Santa Rosa; G. A. Murphy, Perkins; Charles L. Weaver, Tulare.

FEWER HOGS KILLED BY DREADED CHOLERA.

According to records of the United States Department of Agriculture for the thirteen months from April 1, 1918, to April 30, 1919, hog cholera killed 2,815,004 hogs, valued at $62,042,688.16, in the United States. This is the lowest loss of numbers for a similar period in the live stock history of the United States, but on account of the high price of hogs the monetary loss was heavy. For example, during the year ending March 31, 1913, hogs numbering 6,064,470 and worth $58,833,653 died from cholera, while the next year the disease took [illegible] hogs worth [illegible].

Department experiments show that timeliness in vaccinating hogs against cholera is all important. When exposed hogs were vaccinated, while still apparently healthy, losses amounted to only 4 per cent., but when vaccination was deferred until the animals showed external signs of sickness, losses averaged nearly 29 per cent. This shows that the man who puts off the preventive treatment until his hogs are sick with cholera stands only about one chance in seven of preventing fatal results. It is important, also, to maintain hog yards and barns in clean and sanitary condition.

TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION GIVES IMPETUS TO POWER FARMINC.

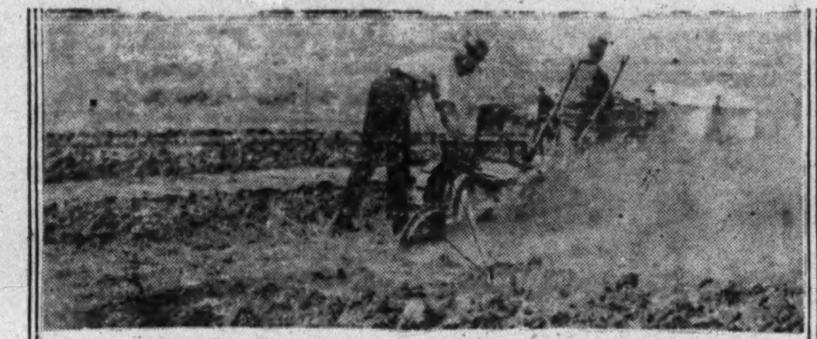
THE fourth annual Southern California tractor demonstration, which comes to a close tonight, is one of the best shows yet held in respect to the actual value of the exhibits to farmer visitors. There have been larger shows in this section, but none a[illegible] there has been given so practical [illegible]ation of power farming and the versatility and usefulness of the farm tractor.

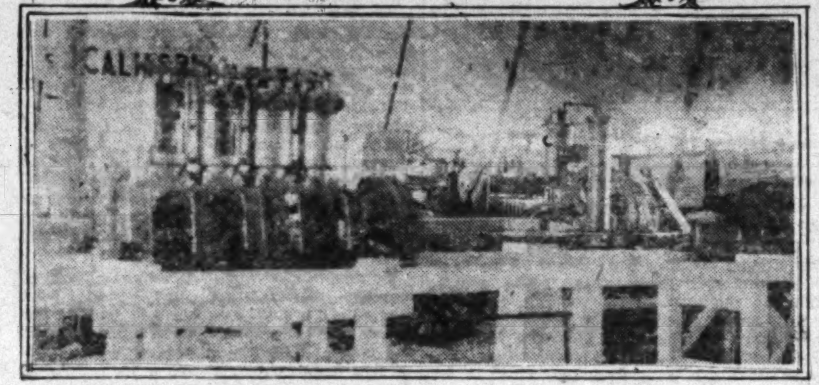
Many food producers have unquestionably profited by a visit to the show. Its educational value has been apparent to those who have attended it. New farm power operations, seen for the first time at a general demonstration, have been decidedly interesting and instructive. New tractors and farm implements have been introduced to those who have been waiting for them. Southern California farmers are keen to utilize every bit of farming information and every new mechanical help in their labors, and an impetus will be given farm production here as a result of this year's show.

The plan of the Traction Engine and Implement Dealers' Association for a combined "still" show and demonstration has evoked praise. Each tractor dealer has an exhibit of tractors and some have combined shows of tractors and implements in tents at the head of their plots of ground. Whenever a farmer has exhibited an interest in the workings of the machines, a service man has been ready to take tractor and tools out back of the exhibition tent and give it a thorough try-out for the benefit of the visitor. Most of the dealers have not waited for inquiry to start their machines plowing, but have been busy most of the week in preparing seed beds on their plots, and the public has been welcome to watch the tests at all times.

A center of interest has been the big farm power and accessories exhibit in the monster central tent. Here are housed a host of interesting showings of helps to the farmer. Pumps, feed grinders and other machines are in active operation. Visitors go away laden with samples and pamphlets, and a knowledge of the latest inventive achievements of mechanical engineers.

In the six great tents flanking the accessories exhibit, implement firms display the latest in farm power machinery. There is plenty of action in these tests. Modern grinding machines, silo fillers, hay presses, and numerous other mechanical helps to farming are shown. The display of modern plows, harrows, cultivators, seeders, etc., is one of the best ever seen in the Southwest.





Glimpses of the tractor show.

The upper photograph shows an interested farmer being given a private discing demonstration in one of the tractor exhibit plots. Below is a corner of the accessory tent.

ORCHARDISTS STUDY TEST PLOT RESULTS.

VAN NUYS.—With some sixty-five orchardists and visitors in attendance the recent apricot pruning demonstration conducted by Farm Adviser Hodgson under the auspices of the local farm bureau center was a successful affair. The demonstration was held at the place of W. F. Clarke, Woodman and Vanowen streets, where one of the several farm bureau test pruning plots is located. Here are to be found eight trees of similar age and alike in other respects, but pruned according to three different systems, two trees each, with the remaining two left as check trees. The occasion of the demonstration was to call attention to the differences in response made by the differently-pruned trees and to discuss summer pruning of the apricot.

Mr. Hodgson went over the trees pruned according to different methods and pointed out the difference in response made by the trees. The severe pruning practiced in the past was shown to have resulted in cutting off approximately 75 per cent. of the fruit buds with the consequent result of small crops and extremely strong wood growth. The check trees not pruned at all were shown to have made practically no wood growth this season, but to have spent their entire energies in putting out fruit spurs and in filling up fruit buds for next year. These trees, as was to be expected, bore the largest crop of all this season.

Trees pruned according to the new long pruning method advocated by experts at the State College of Agriculture were shown to have made but little length growth and a large fruit wood development. In addition, they bore a good crop of well-sized fruit. Another system used was a modification between the old heading back and the new thinning out and consisted of a combination of the two, thinning out moderately and heading back to the central whorl of fruiting branches. The results from this system look promising. These trees will be kept pruned for several more seasons, when their beha[illegible] will be of more value.

Summer pruning was stated to be for two distinct purposes, to shock the trees and reduce vegetative growth in case they are unduly vigorous and to conserve moisture in the case of dry-farmed orchards. The latter is accomplished by taking out the rich, rank, high-evaporating leaf tissue.

Interest was great and many questions were asked. Mr. Clarke was stated to have tripled his yield by following the new system. Vice-President Robert H. Neely spoke on "Farm Bureau Organization."

CARE OF DISC PLOWS.

A sharp disc plow insures good work in hard soils and rolls better Self-lift disc plows save labor and do better work. For work in the orchard, disc plows should have a narrow carriage, and the operating levers should be low so as not to catch limbs of the trees.

LENGTH OF LIFE OF THE LEMON TREE.

BY ROBERT W. HODGSON.

We have not grown lemon trees long enough in California to have any definite information regarding the length of their period of productivity. There are plenty of lemon orchards from fifteen to twenty years old which are on the decline, and there are also a goodly number of orchards nearly twice that age which are still bearing good profitable crops. In fact, I doubt whether we shall ever be able to arrive at a definite figure for the productive period of lemon trees. The environmental conditions have so much to do with this period that I am certain we are bound to find it differs in various localities.

Experience in foreign countries in the raising of lemons has shown that under favorable conditions the trees will live and bear profitable crops for a great many years, reports existing of good orchards seventy five and eighty years of age. Planted on good fertile soil, the fertility of which is maintained by judicious practices, with productive strains of trees given intelligent care and irrigation, I have no doubt that we may expect some of our lemon orchards to last that long. There is no doubt, however, that a good many lemon orchards at the present time are located in such shallow soils and have been given such poor care that they need not be expected to last more than fifteen or twenty years.

It used to be thought that fifteen years was the maximum productivity of the peach orchards in this State and many orchardists arbitrarily pulled out the trees when they had been in bearing that long, and replanted. We are now finding that the reason the trees went back at that age is largely lack of fertilization as well as infection with various wood rot organisms and that, given good care, it is possible to practically double the bearing period of our peach orchards.

WOULD RATHER RAISE HOGS THAN ENTERTAIN.

Mrs. Ross E. Whitley, of Van Nuys, finds more pleasure in raising registered Duroc hogs than in attending social affairs. Mrs. Whitley has entered the hog raising business for keeps, and for success, having purchased $6000 worth of blooded sows and gilts of the Sweetwater strain, and the great boar Pathfinder's Model II, sire of so many good animals.

Mrs. Whitley is transforming her Tutocka-nula ranch, on the Ventura boulevard, near Van Nuys, into a modern hog ranch. She is building farrowing pens and feed barns of her own designing and is making preparations for a great increase in her herd. She has twenty registered sows of the Orion, Cherry and Defender strains, ready to farrow and sixty-five gilts. Among the good sows and gilts are the following: Defender's Princess II. Cherry Belle, Cherry Bessie. Orion Beauty. Model Cherry, Champion Cherry Lady. Orion Defender's Annette, Perfect Defendress, Sweetwater Perfect, Model Lassie II and Pathfinder's Model II.

AUCTION BOOSTS PROFITS.

At a recent fat-hog auction sale held by the farm bureau members of Fresno, the proceeds amounted to $13,567. Six carloads of hogs were sold, the marketing being topped by the boys' pig club stock. There were seventy-five consignors at the sale.

JERSEYS SHOW UP WELL.

The Jerseys showed up well both as to numbers and in quality. In speaking of the Jersey exhibit after the judging, Hugh Van Pelt, who judged the exhibit, expressed himself as highly pleased to find animals of such individual merit as he found in California. He said that in this show were some of the best Jerseys in America, and he expressed the belief that California can produce the best Jersey cattle in the world. The Grand Champion cow, owned by Dr. H. W. Hand of Orland is one of the outstanding females of the breed. J. E. Thorpe of Lockeford won Grand Champion honors on his bull, Jolly Senator Raleigh. There were nearly one hundred head of Jerseys on the fair grounds, although owing to the railroad strike, there were no herds from Southern California.

Following are the firsts and championships in the Jersey entries:

EXHIBITORS—A. Cruikshanks, Sacramento; M. Fortini, Orland; E. D. Greenough, Merced; Dr. H. W. Hand, Orland; L. J. Belknap, San Jose; A. M. MacKersie, San Jacinto; Guy H. Miller, Modesto; J. H. Sawyer, Galt; J. E. Thorpe, Lockeford; S. F. Williams, Chino.

SOUTH'S GUERNSEYS WIN.

One hundred head of Guernsey cattle in all were shown at the fair. The triumphs of the Elliott-Brant Rancho herd after its misfortunes in transit won applause. The herd bull of the Southern California Guernsey collection is undoubtedly one of the outstanding animals of the breed on the Pacific Coast, while the Grand Champion cow would be a promising contender in the big dairy cattle shows of the Middle West. Firsts and championships follow:

EXHIBITORS—Elliott-Brant Rancho, Owensmouth; B. K. Fish, Santa Barbara; L. D. Smith, Berkeley; William H. Saylor, San Francisco; James Marwich, Santa Barbara; A. B. Humphrey, Escalon.

THREE AYRSHIRE HERDS.

There were but three herds of Ayrshires, comprising seventy head, represented at the State Fair, but what was lacking in quantity was made up in quality. It was evident from this exhibit that California has some exceptionally fine Ayrshire cattle, and there are prospects that several new herds will be established in the State within the next twelve months.

J. Henry Meyer of San Francisco carried off the greater part of the blue and purple ribbons in the individual classes, while E. B. McFarland of San Mateo took the majority of the blues in the herd and group classes. Hugh Van Pelt tied the ribbons.

At Public Auction
Having leased their ranch, Agee Bros. will sell fifty registered Holstein cows, heifers and bulls at public auction,
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1919
Holtville Imperial County California
The cows are well bred, many with A.R.O. records, and the heifers in the offering represent choice blood lines. A feature of the sale is the fact that practically all of the females are in calf to TOYON FAYNE VALDESSA, who is by the 41-pound bull, King Valdessa, and out of a 30-pound, 4-year-old daughter of King Hengerveld Aaggie Fayne.
Bulls in the Offering
Rarely have dairymen and breeders of Southern California been offered as good a selection of young bulls as will be found in this sale. They are practically all sired by TOYON FAYNE VALDESSA, mentioned above, and CHLOIE SEGIS MEAD, who is by a son of De Kol of Valley Mead, dam of King Mead of Riverside, and granddam of Miss Valley Mead De Kol Walker, the world's record heifer, who won the California Dairy Cow Competition over all ages and breeds, and whose young son sold for $6500 at Sacramento.

IMMENSE ACREAGE OF FLOOD-MENACED LAND IS RECLAIMED.

THOUSANDS of valuable acres along the San Gabriel and Los Angeles River channels, ordinarily at the mercy of winter floods, will be available for cultivation this fall, protected from the mischievous rivers by weirs now being rapidly built jointly by Los Angeles county, the State of California and the United States.

Three hundred thirty-six square miles, 215,300 acres, of farming land in Los Angeles and Orange counties have been entirely flooded at times since the settlement of those counties. A large portion of these flood-menaced areas are now partially or wholly protected from the river's rampage as a result of strenuous work by the Los Angeles county flood control forces, under Engineer J. W. Reagan. Farm production along the two great rivers in the vicinity of Los Angeles will be greatly increased next year as a result of work already done.

Mr. Reagan reports that, in addition to the work on Devil's gate dam, near Pasadena, and the prosecution of work on dams in the foothills near El Monte, Glendale and La Verne, large forces are at work in the San Gabriel and Los Angeles River, building pile and brush weirs and straightening channels.

There are seven pile-driver crews working, putting down the piles, on which are being stretched heavy mesh wire which will be faced with brush and reinforced with planted willows. These pile-driver crews are working in the following localities: Lexington wash, above and below El Monte, Rio Hondo, north of Whittier, road near El Monte, Rio Hondo; north of telegraph road, Rio Hondo; west of the County Farm, one in the Los Angeles River below Vernon, and one in Verdugo wash near Glendale.

A channel 300 feet wide and over twenty miles long is being made in the San Gabriel wash, beginning at the mouth of San Gabriel Canyon, and joining with a similar channel of the Rio Hondo just north of Clearwater. Flood waters of these two rivers and that of the Los Angeles River will be carried to the sea at Long Beach in a channel from 400 to 600 feet wide.

A steam shovel is working below Vernon on the Los Angeles River, straightening and deepening the river channel, working three shifts of eight hours each. On November 1 the County Engineer estimates, $2,000,000 of the funds appropriated for this flood work will have been spent, chiefly in laying the foundations for the comprehensive plan for reclamation of valuable lands in the two counties.

In building the weirs which are designed to hold the San Gabriel River within its banks at flood time, two parallel rows of piles, four feet apart, and ten feet apart in the row, are driven to a depth of twenty-five to thirty feet. On these piles are stretched heavy wire mesh. Brush is being placed rather loosely on the inside of this double, fencelike protection, to allow the silt carried by the river to be deposited behind the weir and form channel banks. Willows will be planted behind the double row of piling in the winter as an added bulwark against the floods. The roots of these willows will hold the soil.

The machine is owned by a cement company and is hauling three scrapers as its share in the construction of a difficult bit of concrete highway.

BOTH COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY FINDING NEW USES FOR TRACTOR.

BY MARVIN H. LOOMIS.

AGRICULTURE has no monopoly of the benefits of the tractor. Within a recent period this great automotive device, conceived primarily as an aid to farming, has become recognized as a versatile, mobile source of power in commerce, manufacture, building and public work.

The tractor has filled a long felt want in commercial and manufacturing centers. It has filled a niche in the scheme of factories and wholesale trade which could not be filled by the truck or the stationary gas engine. It has shortened the power transmission lines of scores of factories in every large city by placing the power where it is wanted at a moment's notice.

Recently a large canning concern in Southern California tried out a tractor of small size in the hauling of heavy loads inside the cannery. The machine proved so facile and practicable that an order has been placed for two more of them. On one occasion the shaft in a part of the cannery became disabled, and the management was faced with a great loss through cessation of work. One of the tractors was hastily brought to the scene, a belt connected with the tractor pulley and the unimpaired part of the shafting, and the work went merrily on.

Dozens of tractors are now used in hauling freight of various sorts in the yards and buildings of co[illegible] enterprises in the Southwest, and are [illegible] capability. In belt work, tractors are [illegible] power for hoisting building material in building construction, and are used in excavating for buildings, hauling out heavy loads of earth and rock.

RUNS THE PUMPS.

In excavation for buildings, sewers, water works systems, etc., tractors are now being used with success in pumping seepage and spring water, thus allowing the builders and excavators to proceed with their work unhampered by surplus water. One large oil company at Summerland, Cal., has a tractor of thirty-five horse power on the belt in use for the occasional pumping of oil and water from three oil wells. This pumping is done simultaneously at the three wells by means of an eccentric.

Small tractors are now in use in large parks, country clubs and golf links in various parts of California for the mowing of grass. Heretofore, a small gasoline motor has been hooked up to a large lawn mower for this work. Now it is possible to hitch a tractor of ten or twelve horse power on the drawbar to a series of several mowers, and the work of cutting a lawn is greatly shortened.

Almost daily a new use has been found for the tractor in municipal work. They have replaced the costly, ponderous road engine used for rolling, oiling, sprinkling and other work on highways. For excavation of earth roads they have been found very desirable, and in grading roadways they have proved much more economical than horses or the old time, heavy "traction engine." Sufficient power, combined with speed, is needed in doing good excavation work in a short time, and these the tractor furnishes.

The city of Des Moines, Iowa, has a fleet of tractors for use in grading streets and in paving, and a special tractor repair and overhauling shop has been built by that municipality, while a full score of mechanics are kept to see that the machines go out in the morning well oiled and greased and adjusted for the day's work.

Manufacturers of tractors realize that, for commercial and municipal work, the smaller sized tractors are desirable, that is, machines developing from eight to twenty horse power on the drawbar. Some makers are considering the advisability of putting out a special commercial machine, equipped with special wheels and pulley for use in factories and wholesale houses. Some of the desirable features for the commercial tractor would be lightness, ample power, hard rubber tires, pulley for belt work in prominent position and extra speed.

USED IN MINES.

Another niche which the tractor has filled in work outside the farm is in mining and lumbering. In the Northwest scores of tractors are at work in the lumber camps, hauling logs and material over ground entirely innocent of roads. The machines are almost all of the tracklaying type, although the wheel type tractors are also used with success. They pull their loads over high mounds of brush, banks of earth, across arroyos and up the sides of hills with facility.

In Northern California several mining companies employ tractors in excavation and hydraulic work, hauling supplies and piles over country which would daunt horses and trucks. It has been recorded that a tractor was caught in a landslide on the side of a cliff on the property of one mining company in Yolo county, California, and rolled with the driver to the bottom of a creek bed. Both driver and machine were partly buried under earth and gravel, but when rescued from the predicament by other workers, both man and machine were found ready to go on again immediately with the day's work.

As one tractor maker put it, the "field of tractor manufacture has just been scratched." New uses for the tractor are constantly being found on the farm and in the cities. They have proven their worth in scores of ways, and are a tremendously important part of the agricultural and commercial machinery of the American nation.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

Those who are eager in the pursuit of the science, art and business of California's leading industry, agriculture, and those hardy, courageous souls who turn backyards into vegetables will find interest and profit in a booklet just issued by the Los Angeles Public Library. It is called "Facts for Farmers" and is a selected list of books on agriculture, horticulture and animal husbandry. Those whose hobby happens to be rabbits or roses, goats or garden ornaments, farm tractors or forestry, poultry or plant breeding, should ask in the Science and Industry Department of the Los Angeles Public Library for a copy of "Facts for Farmers."

BIG MACHINERY DISPLAY AT FAIR.

BY H. S. HOARD.

The machinery exhibit at the State Fair was an extensive one and attracted much attention. The exhibit included farm implements, trucks, tractors and automobiles.

Unfortunately the machinery exhibit was somewhat scattered, which gave the impression of a small showing. Had the automobiles, milking machines, electric lighting plants and other machines been in the same vicinity as the larger machinery exhibits the showing would have been much more impressive.

The truck exhibit was somewhat smaller than usual, owing, the dealers explained, to the difficulty in getting sufficient trucks to supply their demands. Many new machines were shown for the first time in both tractors and farm implements.

One gratifying feature of the exhibit was the fact that there were a large number of sales made in practically all lines of machinery exhibited.

The milking machine exhibit was unusually complete, practically every line handled on the Pacific Coast being represented. More than 100 manufacturers had displays in the various lines of machinery.

CONDITION OF CROPS BETTER THAN AVERAGE.

It is reported by the Federal Bureau of Crop Estimates that, on September 1, the condition of all crops in California was 109.7 per cent. compared with the same date last year, and 97.6 per cent. of the ten-year average.

The condition of cotton in California was as follows: Palo Verde Valley, 110; Imperial Valley, 98; San Joaquin Valley, 70; and the probable production 118,000 bales for the State.

Wine and table grapes are still reported 100 per cent. crops, and the wine grapes are bringing the highest prices in the history of the wine grape industry. The production may be 200,000 tons.

The production of oranges this year will be about as follows: Los Angeles county, 4,800,000 boxes; San Bernardino county, 3,400,000 boxes; Orange county, 2,000,000 boxes; Riverside county, 1,500,000 boxes; Central California, 2,000,000 boxes; Northern California, 150,000 boxes; San Diego and Ventura counties, 250,000 boxes.

MANY STUDY TRACTORS.

Two hundred and twenty-five applications for admission to the short courses offered at the University of California Farm, Davis, this fall, have already been received, according to an announcement by those in charge. Of this number, 112 applied for study in the gas tractor course, which opened September 16 for ten days.

Cover the tractor with a tarpaulin when the machine is left in the field over night.

BARNS INADEQUATE FOR HOUSING RUSH OF STOCK SHOW ENTRIES.

CLOSING of the entry lists for the coming Los Angeles Livestock Show, to be held at Exposition Park, October 18 to 26, has brought Manager C. R. Thomas face to face with the necessity of greatly enlarging the quarters already prepared for exhibitors' animals.

It was anticipated that last year's show would be exceeded by the 1919 show in point of numbers and quality of exhibits, but the optimistic expectations of the show board were exceeded by the flood of fine herds and individuals entering at the last minute. Right up to the time of the closing of livestock entries yesterday requests for space continued to come in.

Sixteen barns had been prepared for the cattle, draft horses, swine, sheep and goats, but it was found necessary to let contracts for four more barns some weeks ago. These are now on the way to completion.

Enlargement of the entry list of riding and race horses alone compelled the board to erect 100 additional stalls for the blooded animals. Noted race horses from Lexington, Ky., it was announced by Mr. Thomas, will be among those seen at the show and in the trotting and running events.

The list of entries in the beef cattle, dairy cattle, swine and sheep divisions include notable herds from almost every State west of the Mississippi. These will have to show their best points to win over fine animals from Southern California livestock farms.

Mr. Thomas, by going personally to the State Fair, was able to secure several additional fine entries from the herds on exhibit at the fair's live-stock show. He was also assured of the hearty co-operation of some of the leading livestock men of Northern and Central California.

The entries for the poultry, rabbit and pigeon departments of the show close October 1.

HEAVY HORSES STILL SCARCE.

While there is a surplus of light horses on the farms of the United States, there is still a notable deficiency in heavy, desirable draft horses, say horsemen of the United States Department of Agriculture. Last year, they say, there was a tremendous decrease in mares bred, but during the spring of 1919 a very large percentage of good mares were bred, which is expected largely to meet the future demand for horses of the better type.

Grade Holstein on dairy farm of J. J. Scott, Pomona. She has given 2067 pounds of milk, testing 4.5 per cent., in one month.

A GOOD HERD OF GRADE ANIMALS.

BY F. H. SCRIBNER.

One of the interesting herds of grade dairy cattle in Los Angeles county is that of I. J. Scott of Pomona. Mr. Scott is an old Iowan and an old dairyman, and left one of the good dairy sections of the Middle West in 1912. He disposed of his beautiful farm, not exactly from choice, but because of the ill health of a member of the family, coming to this country to again take up his old occupation as dairyman.

He is very fortunate in having for his assistants two of his sons, who are just as interested and enthusiastic in the business as he is, and which form a splendid partnership. A new barn and silo have recently been erected, which will make the care and handling of the herd much more pleasant and interesting. Mr. Scott was a member of one of the first cow-testing associations organized in Iowa, and knows the value that testing brings to a herd in ascertaining its true value. He has always been an advocate of the daily milk sheet and Babcock test, and these things, together with his own personal interest in the work and the partnership with his boys, bespeaks the "why" of his success in the dairy business.

The herd of Mr. Scott is composed largely of high grade Holsteins of the large strong kind, and this coupled with proper feeding has much to do with the $15,000 annual income of his herd. Mr. Scott is a strong advocate of grain feeding and the balancing up of rations for best milk production and is feeding a grain ration at the rate of one pound of grain to four pounds of milk. It is costing him about 20½ cents per day and consists of dried beet pulp, wheat bran and cocoa meal. This, together with alfalfa hay, has brought splendid results and now with his new silo, will make a combination that is hard to beat.

At the time of our visit, Mr. Scott was milking thirty-three cows and this, I presume, was about a general monthly average. It is just such men, just such cows and just such feeding that are going to demonstrate that the dairy business can be made profitable if run on business principles.

LIVE-STOCK BULLETIN.

BY H. S. HOARD.

The Shorthorn breeders held an enjoyable banquet at the Travelers Hotel in Sacramento Thursday evening, September 4. No set programme had been arranged but guests and members of the association gave some highly interesting and entertaining talks. B. O. Cowan, one of the veterans of the Shorthorn industry, spoke on the origin of the Shorthorn breed, the early history of the breed in the United States, and the progress which has been made by Shorthorns during the past fifty years. Mr. Cowan was a breeder of Shorthorns in Illinois for many years, and later was employed as fieldman by the Shorthorn Breeders' Association. He has recently come to California to make his home at Berkeley, and his fund of information and advice will be of great benefit to Shorthorn breeders in this State. Among the other speakers were T. S. Glide of Sacramento; John Troup, manager of the Thomas Dibble Estate Ranch at Santa Barbara; Dr. Elbery of Woodland, Ed Brown of the Miller & Lux Ranch, W. S. Guilford of the Butte City Ranch and Prof. Gordon True, manager of the San Francisco Livestock Show.

The Poland-China breeders of California are living up to their reputation of being "live wires," and their meeting held at the Travelers Hotel, Sacramento, Wednesday, September 3 proves this anew. Among their "live wire" undertakings for the coming year are a publicity campaign, a spring consignment sale and the offering of three silver cups for the 1920 State fair. More than $1000 was raised by voluntary subscription at the Sacramento meeting for a publicity fund. This will be used to promote the breed's interests. It was decided at the meeting to hold a consignment sale at Davis in February. The committee appointed to Farmers Profit by Attending Tractor Demonstration.

IMMENSE ACREAGE OF FLOOD-MENACED LAND IS RECLAIMED.

THOUSANDS of valuable acres along the San Gabriel and Los Angeles River channels, ordinarily at the mercy of winter floods, will be available for cultivation this fall, protected from the mischievous rivers by weirs now being rapidly built jointly by Los Angeles county, the State of California and the United States.

Three hundred thirty-six square miles, 215,300 acres, of farming land in Los Angeles and Orange counties have been entirely flooded at times since the settlement of those counties. A large portion of these the row, are driven to a depth of twenty-five to thirty feet. On these piles are stretched heavy wire mesh. Brush is being placed rather loosely on the inside of this double, fencelike protection, to allow the silt carried by the river to be deposited behind the weir and form channel banks. Willows will be planted behind the double row of piling in the winter as an added bulwark against the floods. The roots of these willows will hold the soil.
